REPUBLICAN LEADERS

Define Their Attitude Upon Public Questions at a Boston Gathering.

Insurrection In Philippines the Topmost Topic.

Roosevelt Says Peace Advocates Are Responsible For Present Conditions.

Boston, Nov. 1.—A republic based on expansion principles was the idea in governmental policy for which Governor Roosevelt and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge appealed last night at the banquet of the Republican club of Massachusetts in Music hall.

The dinner was fully as enthusiastic as any held, and the sentiments expressed were applauded again and again. Elihu B. Hayes of Lynn was the presiding officer, and his own words of introduction of the several gentlemen were full of reference to the part each had taken in state and national affairs. After consideration of the material part of the dinner Mr. Hayes bade the guests a hearty welcome in behalf of the club in a brief speech.

The first response was from Governor Wolcott, who referred to the close of his term as state executive, saying that he was overwhelmed with gratitude to the people of Massachusetts in the generous measure of support extended and honors accorded him. In his successor, he said, the people have a man of the highest political ideals and business sagacity. He will have the respect and love of all who know him.

The governor said that the state issues were not present in this campaign, and he was tempted to ask if any existed. He said: "In the silence of our opponents we find the fact that there is little to criticise and nothing to attack. Their platform includes a plea for free silver, but is not their silence evidence that their heresy has little chance of success in this period of unparalleled prosperity in the national welfare? Their attention is devoted to the war being waged in the Philippines. We recognize that the situation demands our widest sagacity. When Dewey's guns thundered at Manila they shattered the only sovereignty that there existed. Our flag is legally there and it will not retire in the face of an armed insurrection. The flag of the United States will mean the spread of civilization and the continued advance of self-government."

Lieutenant Governor Crane, in a brief speech, congratulated the members of the club on the great gathering and on their valuable services. He said that the coming election forecasted the more important presidential election of next year. He said that he took the occasion to express his gratitude to the club for its greeting and for the honor accorded him.

John L. Bates said he believed the Democratic party and Democratic legislation were responsible for the evils of the trusts. He said that most of the great corporations had been organized under the laws of Delaware and New Jersey and under laws enacted by Democratic legislatures. He said he was a candidate for office of a party which places practice above precept; is for expansion rather than contraction; which stands for the Union rather than rebellion, for America rather than for her enemies.

The remarks of Governor Roosevelt, which were entirely upon the Philippine question, were frequently interrupted with applause. He said the Massachusetts Republicans when they fix their eyes on the stars do not forget to keep their feet on the ground. They never forget the sense of higher ideal or loss of consciousness in getting that ideal by practical work. He said the questions for discussion concerned his hearers not merely as men of Massachusetts, but of the United States. He said that expansion was the handmaid of peace. The great difficulty in answering the arguments of anti-expansionists was their use of loose invective and their misrepresentation of facts. The people who a year ago denounced the war with Spain are the same who now denounce the Philippine war. They hold Aguinaldo as an ideal as they believe the Maine was blown up from the inside. One belief is as rational as the other.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that the Spanish war was the people's war, and told of incidents under his observation at the time it was declared to refute the argument that it was brought about by speculators.

The speaker said the peace advocates in the north during the Civil war were responsible for the draft riots, were the fathers of the men who now prattle for peace which would mean the hauling down of our flag, and the writing of a page in our history which would make children blush with shame. The advocates of the gospel of peace in 1864 would be happy today in seeing our enemies in the Philippines praying for the success of the Democratic party.

Referring to the present conditions in Cuba he maintained that had not the war been fought the island would have been desolated from one end to the other. And who brought peace? Its advocates? No; but those who risked life for the sake of manhood and humanity and to get that peace.

Governor Roosevelt said that those who claim the war is McKinley's war forget that he divides the credit with congress, which ratified the peace treaty, which took the Philippines and provided the sinews with which to put down the insurrection. He maintained that if those islands do not rightfully belong to us, then Alaska and all the territory acquired on this continent by purchase or conquest do not belong to us.

The concluding speaker was Senator Lodge. He referred to his return home after six months in Europe, of the meagerness of American news reaching him and of the general antipathy of Europeans to America and its people. He also referred to the position of the Democratic party in trying to hide the silver issue under the light of what they term imperialism—a term that is devoid of significance. He said that the Democratic party seemed to try to live up to its idea of opposing whatever the Republican party advocates. He further said that all the great questions of the day were issues, in his opinion, and of them our position in the Philippines was the greatest.

To Resign by Request.

Wiscasset, Me., Nov. 1.—Frank A. Creamer of Wiscasset, clerk of court for Lincoln county, is said to have confessed to misappropriation of the county's funds and to forgery and has been forced to tender his resignation. Creamer's initial appearance in the political field began in the eighties. His wrongdoings began in 1894, and it is claimed were known to the board of county commissioners and the leading politicians at that time, but upon his making full reparation of the shortage the leaders of the party allowed his name to go before a convention for renomination that year. About a year ago the men who were on his bond were released at their own request, and he secured a bond from one of the surety companies. The board of auditors refused to pass his accounts in December last because there was a considerable shortage. The county commissioners, having hoped that Creamer would be able to make good his deficiency and thereby save his reputation, found this to be impossible, and therefore requested his resignation.

Schooner Probably Lost.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 1.—Captain Brown of the tug Addie Lenox, while at work at the head of the harbor removing a sunken wreck, was last night attracted by signals of distress from a vessel on the rocks off the Nahant shore. The weather was strong, but, after a struggle, Captain Brown succeeded in passing a line to the vessel. She was a coasting vessel, with a cargo of lime, but her identity could not be established. The tug hauled her off and was making for the harbor, when her steering gear became disabled. Before repairs could be made the line parted and the fog set in so quickly that the schoner could not be found.

Perjurer Escapes Punishment

Boston, Nov. 1.—George H. Wentworth, the Brighton contractor who figured in the trial of Thomas J. Scollans last February, pleaded guilty of perjury, committed at the time of the Scollans' trial, in the superior court yesterday. In extenuation the assistant district attorney told the court that Wentworth's only motive was to save a friend from prison, and upon recommendation the case was placed on file.

Death of Bishop Neely.

Portland, Me., Nov. 1.—Rev. Henry A. Neely, second bishop of the diocese of Maine, died last evening, after a long illness. Bishop Neely had been a sufferer from diabetes for some years. The disease had developed rapidly within the past year, and the bishop's health has been so impaired that it was with difficulty that he performed the functions of his office.

Vessels Heeded Warning.

Boston, Nov. 1.—The first heavy northeast storm since last spring began business along the southern New England coast just before daylight yesterday. The warning of the weather bureau proved sufficient to keep small craft in the harbors and only the stronger sailing vessels and steamers went to sea.

Students Had Close Call.

Norway, Me., Nov. 1.—The large trustee boarding house, which is connected with Hebron academy, was burned early Monday morning. About 40 students were asleep in the rooms when the fire started, and some of them had exciting experiences, though no one was injured. The loss is heavy.

President McKinley at Richmond.

Richmond, Nov. 1.—The torpedo boat Shubrick was launched here yesterday in the presence of President McKinley, many members of his cabinet, Governor Tyler of Virginia and an immense outpouring of people. The demonstration was marred in some of its features by a heavy rainstorm. The civic carnival parade had to be abandoned and the decorations of buildings presented a bedraggled appearance. But the people who came to witness the launching and see the president were enthusiastic. When the presidential party was driven to the shipyard the president was warmly cheered all along the route. At the yard an immense crowd had assembled. The president, having been introduced from the stand by Mayor Taylor, made an address, complimenting Richmond upon her contribution to the navy and dwelling upon the cementing of the north and south through the recent war.

Had No Fire Escapes.

Montreal, Nov. 1.—A fire, which broke out at 5:20 yesterday morning in the Webster House, a hotel on St. James street, caused the death of three persons, the probable fatal injury of a fourth, while half a dozen others sustained minor injuries. There were about 40 guests in the hotel at the time, and most of them escaped in their night clothes only. The house was not provided with fire escapes, as the law provides. The property loss is placed at $40,000.

KILLED TWO WOMEN.

George Herman Then Shot Two Bullets Into His Own Body.

Tried to Induce Mrs. Pratt to Live With Him.

Her Mother Became Involved In the Discussion and He Killed Both.

Pittsfield, Mass., Nov. 1.—A double murder, followed by an attempted suicide, was committed in the village of Hancock Monday afternoon. George Herman, a German, 47 years of age, residing on a farm in Stephentown, N. Y., just over the border, shot and killed Mrs. Rhoda Horton and her daughter, Mrs. Eliza Jane Pratt, and then, turning the revolver upon himself, fired two shots, one entering the left lung and the other the breast. Herman cannot live. The murderer was arrested and taken in an ambulance to Troy.

The scene of the crime was at the Horton homestead on the road between Hancock and New London. The place is a considerable distance from railroads and is not much frequented.

Herman left his home Monday morning for Lebanon Springs with a quantity of apples, which he delivered. About 11 o'clock he drove to the house of Mrs. Horton, where he was a frequent visitor. In the kitchen of the farmhouse was Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Pratt and a 6-year-old child of the latter.

Mrs. Pratt had recently lived at Herman's house, but had left the place on account of some misunderstanding. The presence of a man named Eben Rayner of North Adams had aroused Herman's jealousy and, being informed that Mrs. Pratt was to live with Raynor and go to North Adams, he went to the house for the purpose of trying to induce her to remain.

In the discussion which took place, Mrs. Horton became involved, and after some talk Herman became so enraged that he drew a 32-caliber revolver and, following Mrs. Horton into the yard, he placed the weapon against her abdomen and fired. She staggered on to a plank walk near by and fell, mortally wounded.

The noise of the shooting attracted Mrs. Pratt's attention and she went to the assistance of Mrs. Horton. Hermon immediately approached and fired two shots, one striking the right arm, and the other entering the breast, killing her instantly.

He then walked into the kitchen, seated himself in an armchair and fired two bullets into his body.

Nelson Horton, a son of Mrs. Horton, on returning to dinner, found the lifeless bodies of the two women in front of the house, and Herman unconscious on the kitchen floor. Mrs. Pratt's little child was standing over her mother, saying: "Mamma, wake up." The young man went to a near by house and summoned assistance, and a physician was sent for.

The village constable notified the Troy authorities and Coroner Defreest, and District Attorney Howard drove to the scene of the tragedy. The coroner held an inquest and took Horton's statement when he became conscious. He refused to say anything other than that he did not care to live now that Mrs. Pratt was dead.

Mrs. Pratt has been married three times. At the age of 13 her first marriage to C. W. Rice occurred. His whereabouts are unknown. Later she married Frank Brink, who has since died. When 20 years of age she married Delmar Pratt, whose whereabouts are also unknown. For the last two years Mrs. Pratt had resided at the house of Herman with the latter's wife and six children.

Russian Cruiser Launched.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—The new Russian cruiser, Variag, was launched yesterday at Cramps' shipyards with impressive ceremonies. The religious ceremony formed a spectacular feature. In addition to passing a gilded cross before the huge hull in benediction, Rev. Hatovitsky sprinkled the vessel with holy water. The American custom of breaking a bottle of wine as the ship glided off the ways was omitted. On a platform, under the bow of the warship, two priests of the Greek church celebrated mass previous to the launching.

Islands Belong to Spain.

Madrid, Nov. 1.—A sensation was caused in the senate yesterday by the declaration of Count d'Almenas that, owing to the ignorance of the Spanish-American peace treaty commissioners, three islands of the Philippine group—the two Batanes and Calayan island, both north of Luzon—were not included in the scope of the treaty. These islands, he asserted, ought to be made the basis of negotiations for the liberation of the Spanish prisoners.

The Colombian Revolution.

Colon, Colombia, Nov. 1.—A report has reached here that on Oct. 24 two armed government steamers destroyed seven insurgent vessels, one of the latter sinking with, it is rumored, 200 soldiers. The government troops were victorious in a pitched battle with the insurgents near Bucaramanga. The insurgent leader, Uribe, was killed, and the insurgent leader, Ruiz, taken prisoner. It is now believed that the revolution is ending.

The School Committee should get the Board of Health to condemn the sanitary arrangements at the schools. What they say seems to go.

The New Bedford Standard publishes some statistics from the National Department of Labor showing the number of schools, teachers and attendance of pupils in 15 cities of from 52,000 to 60,000 in population. Quincy with 25,000 population had by the September report an average attendance of 462 in its High school, but 8 in list of cities over twice as large have a smaller average attendance, viz: New Bedford, 353; Manchester, N. H., 358; Utica, N. Y., 305; Lawrence, Mass., 461; Houston, Texas; 377; Galveston, Texas, 255; Covington, Ky., 162. In average attendance of pupils in other schools, Quincy is also ahead of some in the list. The average attendance for September in the Quincy schools below the High was 4,081, while in Manchester, N. H., it was 3,907; Covington, Ky., 3,387; Galveston, Texas, 3,852. Two others are only slightly ahead of Quincy: Lincoln, Neb., with 4,165; and Houston, Texas, with 4,525. It is because of the large number of school children in proportion to the population that Quincy expenses for schools are so large.

Municipal ownership is a splendid thing, sometimes, but occasionally a city after it has bought and paid for an expensive luxury finds itself badly cheated. The following from the Electrical World tells of the experience of Austin, Texas:

"Austin in 1890 began as a municipal enterprise to dam the Colorado river for electric light and power. At first $1,400,000 was borrowed at 5 per cent, and appropriated for the purpose. Then $250,000 more was borrowed at 6 per cent. and then $150,000 was taken from the funds on hand, so that the plant has cost about $1,750,000. Before the undertaking was begun, it was predicted by experts that, owing to the character of the rock along the river leaks would surely develop. So it proves. The water in one month this fall has fallen ten feet through leakage. Moreover, the dam gave originally a depth of sixty feet. So much silt has come down with the currents that already the depth has decreased to thirty-three feet. The gross receipts of the city for light and power are about $60,000 a year, while the interest on the bonds and other expenses of operation are said to be about $174,000. Before embarking on this enterprise Austin paid $18,000 a year for electric light. At that time the tax rate was $9 on the $1,000. Now it is $23.01. Rents that once were $100 a month are now to be had for $25 and a steam auxiliary to the water power is under consideration."

To her surprise she received hundreds of responses from New York women. Some sent flowers; others offered their carriages to take her for a daily airing; scores asked that certain hours might be reserved for their visits. Mrs. Donoher has already made many delightful acquaintances, and as the tears of gratitude drop from her blind eyes her heart warms toward a world that is never too much engaged in business or pleasure to be kind to the unfortunate. —Town Topics.

Big Land Sale.

The Titus property at Squantum, comprising over 100 acres of land, and including a considerable amount of shore frontage, has been sold to a syndicate with Sylvester B. Hinckley and others, trustees. This is one of the largest and best situated tracts of undeveloped property along the shore in the neighborhood of Boston, and it is the intention of the new owners to push its development for the business of next season.

WANT TO CONNECT.

School Committee Moving for Sewer Connections.

The question of the necessity of connecting, as far as possible, the public buildings, with the public sewer, was discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the School Committee. In the course of the discussion it was shown that the Commissioner of Public Works had been requested to connect the buidings but nothing had been done. He had, however, given out that the connecting of the school buildings would require an entire change of plumbing.

The impression the Committee got from this was that he wanted a special appropriation to do this work.

The question was also raised whether this would be called repairs of public buildings or whether it would be called additions and require a special appropriation.

It was voted that the chairman be instructed to inform the City Council of the necessity of steps being taken to connect all buildings possible, by making special appropriation for that purpose.

Mr. Page, Dr. Ash and Miss Adams were appointed to write the annual report of the Committee to the citizens.

The resignation of Miss Grace Alden of the Quincy school was reported. Miss Alden goes to Chelsea at an increased salary.

Miss Adams reported that the second grade at the Adams school had been divided, and part of it had been put in the third story. Also that Miss Annie W. Miller, a graduate of the Quincy High school class of '82, and Miss Beatrice Rothwell, a graduate of the class of '96, at the same school had been engaged as teacher for this grade.

Chairman Porter reported that Miss Mabel Butman had been engaged as teacher at the High school.

The Superintendent announced that the fund received from the speaking contests of the High school amounted to over $300, and he desired an expression of the Committee of the advisability of expending a part of that for the benefit of the school.

The expression of the Committee was, that as the original intention was that the fund should be accumulated for a prize speaking contest fund, it should be retained for that purpose.

The financial statement to Oct. 31 as reported as follows:

	Appropriation.	Expended.	Balance.
Fuel,	5,200	5,028.32	171.68

PATIENT WAITERS.

The Justice of the Howard Street Improvement.

Editors of the Ledger:

The city has commenced the work of widening Howard street, Quincy Neck, and those interested in the improvement are pleased to know that after waiting many years they are to have a little of the city's money spent in their locality.

Howard street formerly School street, although used over two hundred years, was never properly laid out, there being no records today giving width of the street at any point. The fences on a very irregular line are supposed to mark the bounds.

Taking the fences as a start we have, according to a plan recently made, figures which show readily the condition of the street in question.

At the entrance to the wharf the width that could be used was twenty feet, including room for teams and people walking. At Quincy avenue, over all, twenty-eight feet, and at the school house lot, twenty-six feet. When the telephone poles and lamp posts were located private land was used.

One thing worthy of notice, is that while in other parts of Quincy with very few exceptions the abutters have charged for the land taken, the owners of land on Howard street (Mr. H. H. Faxon being the largest owner) have given their land to help the improvement along.

To be sure Mr. Faxon had his house moved back, but having given an eighth of an acre of front land it would not be supposed that he would move his house at his own expense.

There is no lavish expenditure of money, no fancy job, no unnecessary widening to be made; simply to put the street (more particularly the water side) in a condition that it ought to have been in many years ago.

The property here has paid its proportionate part toward improvement in other places, and it is only having the compliment returned.

Chief of Police Hayden is busy making his detail of officers for the election next Tuesday.

Polo will be renewed in Quincy next week. On Nov. 7, the Middleboros will play the Quincys, and Nov. 10 the Plymouths will be here.

The engagement is announced of Mr. Edward McBain, formerly of Quincy, but now of Benton Centre, N. Y., and Miss Grace Seeley of the latter city.

Dr. J. F. Peirce of the School Committee visited Worcester Tuesday, to observe the system of teaching music in the public schools in use in that city.

The ladies interested in the Wollaston Yacht club held a Hallowe'en party at the club house. There was an entertainment, sale of fancy and useful articles and a supper.

A week ago today the Ledger published the location of the fire alarm boxes of Braintree, together with the no-school signals, etc. Some Quincy teachers thought a new no-school signal for this city had been adopted and spread the news.

George I. Aldrich, ex-Superintendent of the Quincy schools is doing institute work in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and it is rumored that when Supt. T. M. Balliet of Springfield takes his year's leave of absence that Mr. Aldrich will substitute for him.

Grade 2 at the Adams school with 80 pupils has been divided and two Quincy young ladies succeed Miss Pauline C. Wilkins resigned, viz. Miss Annie W. Miller and Miss Beatrice Rothwell. Both are graduates of the Quincy High and have had experience in teaching.

The heavy rain on Tuesday evening put a damper on many Hallowe'en parties at Wollaston. There was a goodly attendance at the sale and entertainment at the vestry of the Unitarian church. The Guild of St. Perpetua of St. Chrysostom's parish also observed the evening.

The alarm from box 56 at 7.10 this morning was for a slight blaze in a store in the Wollaston hotel. The recall was turned in within four minutes. The store was occupied by E. S. Thomas. One of his men while drawing benzine from a can stepped on a parlor match. No damage.

An inquest was held before Judge Humphrey this morning on the death of Karle Paavas, the quarryman who died from the result of injuries received by being blown up Oct. 19, at the quarry of Erickson & Co. Paavas at the time of the accident was pouring powder into a seam with one hand and held a can of powder in the other. He was so badly injured that he died shortly after the accident.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

Worth Reading.

To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. OUR TRAIN SERVICE.

And About the Same as 25 Years Ago.

But the Population Has More Than Doubled.

Several years ago Quincy had 32 or 33 trains to and from Boston daily. This was probably a high water mark, and the town, for Quincy was then a town, had excellent service. Many of the trains were express trains, not making a single stop, and contentment prevailed.

In 25 years Quincy has made rapid progress, as the following official figures of population plainly shows:

POPULATION.

In 1880 census,	10,570
In 1885, census,	12,145
In 1890, census,	16,726
In 1895, census,	20,712
In 1899, estimate,	25,000

But not alone has Quincy grown in population; it has become the seat of the East Norfolk district court for Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Holbrook, Randolph and Milton and the Norfolk County probate court also sits here.

The Quincy station is the only depot for Quincy Point, Quincy Neck, Houghs Neck and Germantown, as well as Quincy, and the building of a street railway to North Weymouth has also made it the handiest station for North Weymouth people.

All parts of Quincy use the Quincy station considerable, although they have stations in their midst, because they have to visit the centre to trade and bank, before going to Boston. All along the shores of Quincy and Weymouth there are in summer many additional residents who are not included in the above census.

Instead of increased railroad facilities as would be expected for all these reasons, the number of trains was largely reduced by Supt. Allen a few years ago, and has continued in spite of protest. The service of today is given below in comparison with 1875 and 1885, and needs no further comment:

The City Council Committee on Streets meets tonight, and the Committees on Fire Department and Public Buildings on Saturday.

The probability is that neither the Republicans or Democrats will hold any rallies in Quincy before the State election of next Tuesday.

Seldom is it that one sees a finer quality of lumber in a building than that being taken from the building on the corner of Washington and Coddington streets, now being torn down. The boards used were pine and some of them are thirty inches wide and free from knots.

The Randall house on Bigelow street, purchased last spring by Miss Annie L. Prescott, has been in the hands of Quincy's thorough painter, Mr. E. M. Litchfield, and is now one of the prettiest houses on the street. It is painted a rich red, with cream trimmings and green blinds. Mr. Litchfield has received many compliments for his work.

At St. Chrysostom's Episcopal rectory, Monday evening, Mr. James S. Corbin of Quincy, and Miss Alice Horton Downs of Salisbury, daughter of Mr. Willard O., and Mrs. Harriet M. Downs, were married by Rev. Carleton P. Mills. Miss Lillian Atwood of Newburyport acted as bridesmaid. After a short wedding trip, they will reside in Norfolk Downs.

Large Surprise Party.

In spite of the downpour of rain last evening, almost one hundred friends of Mr. Frank Maloney of Fayette street, Wollaston, gathered and took him by surprise. Mr. Maloney has been a resident of Wollaston only a short time, and was not aware that he had accumulated so many friends. Owing to the severe weather many were unable to come. During the evening Mr. Maloney was presented with a handsome gold watch and chain. Although completely surprised, he responded in a befitting manner. The presentation speech was made by Mr. Samuel Hanson of Wollaston. Games, music and dancing were indulged in and a bountiful supper was served at midnight. It was in the wee sma hours of morning when all bid good bye, and it was with much regret, as the evening sped only too quickly. The Misses Maloney deserve praise for their managment of affairs throughout the evening, and care should be taken not to exclude Mr. Maloney, Sr., for his jollity, especially in the games which he heartily indulged in, and his desire for Number 14.

MAY HAVE A RIVAL.

City Auditor Hall Not the Only Candidate Mentioned.

There are rumors and rumors. There are always rumors at the approach of the municipal caucuses. Many of these rumors are started by no one knows who. The latest rumor is that ex-Representative T. H. Newcomb is out for the nomination as the Republican candidate for Mayor. Coupled with this is another rumor that he is sure to carry Wards Two, Three and Four, and that Mr. Hall will not have as easy sailing as many believe.

The whole thing seems to hang upon the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department. There are certain Republicans in the three wards mentioned above who do not care who gets the nomination if they can be assured that ex-Chief Engineer Walter H. Ripley will be appointed. If Mr. Hall would promise this, all would be well, but Mr. Hall declines, and wisely, to make any anti-election promises.

The opposition to Mr. Hall in Ward Two is well-known, and if there is any truth in the rumor of Mr. Newcomb's candidacy, it probably comes from those who believe that Mr. Ripley would have more chance of receiving the appointment at his hands than any other candidate mentioned.

Again, it is said that the Social Democracy intend to take an active hand in city politics and will make an effort, not only to secure a Social Democratic Mayor, but majority of the City Council as well. If that time ever comes there will be a hot time in the old town.

BOER TACTICS

Prove to Be Too Crafty For British Forces.

Walked Right Into Gigantic Trap Set by Joubert.

White Had Great Difficulty In Making Escape.

Forced to Leave Two Crack Battalions In Hands of the Enemy.

War Office May Be Withholding News Worse Than That Already Known.

London, Nov. 1.—An ominous curtain has again descended upon affairs in Natal. No dispatch, except the official telegram of General White, has thus far been permitted to mention the disaster, and no telegram from Ladysmith has been received in London since the advices from the British commander. This gives rise to the belief that communications have already been cut, in which event some time must elapse before details regarding British losses are received.

If the war office officials have received information on this point, they have refrained from publishing it. General White's estimate that the British losses were about 90 is evidently quite separate from the probable losses in killed and wounded among the captured battalions.

On this point there is the greatest suspense among the relatives of the prisoners. It is supposed that the stampede of mules meant the carrying away of the reserves of ammunition, and that the troops capitulated after firing the rounds which each man carried.

There was a continuous stream of callers at the war office yesterday, everybody anxiously inquiring regarding Monday's casualties near Ladysmith; but the war office declared that nothing had been received since General White's dispatch communicating the news of the capture of the Royal Irish fusiliers and the Gloucestershire regiment.

This delay in getting further intelligence is attributed in part to the breakdown of the east coast cable, but it stands to reason that the war office must be possessed of further news, which it is probably not thought advisable should be published as yet.

The disaster has caused a feeling akin to consternation, and, in Gloucestershire and the north of Ireland, where the captured regiments were recruited, the blackest gloom prevails, many families there waiting with beating hearts the names of the slain and wounded, which are fully expected to reach a high figure. Many homes are already in mourning in consequence of losses sustained by these regiments in the previous engagements.

Public anxiety was increased by a special dispatch from Ladysmith, published in the late editions of the London afternoon papers, to the effect that before darkness Monday the Boers reoccupied the old position held by their heavy artillery, which General White had reported silenced by the guns of the naval brigade from the Powerful, and had opened fire again.

The dispatch further says: The enemy are again closing in, and the situation is one of grave anxiety. Beyond doubt, the Boer retirement Monday was a ruse to draw General White into the hilly country, and away from the British camp.

This last sentence is significant and confirms the opinion of military experts here that General White is allowing himself to be out-generalled by Commandant General Joubert.

From the scanty advices thus far received, it seems to be tolerably certain that the disaster was a simple repetition of the battle of Majuba hill, though on a larger scale. The two regiments were allowed to march into a trap set for them by the Boers. It is simply a case of the Boer spider and the guileless British fly. In fact, the whole engagement of Monday seems to have been brought on by Commandant General Joubert, who skilfully conceived a gigantic trap, out of which, as the official dispatch shows, General White only escaped with difficulty.

General White advanced the idea of driving the Boers from Tintwainyoni hill, seven miles out, which General Joubert made an ostentatious show of fortifying on Sunday.

The Boer commander left a force sufficient to draw General White on, while the mass of the Boers he moved stealthily round the British right, to deliver a flank attack, and to endeavor to cut off General White at Ladysmith. The British commander succeeded in beating off the attack, but only with great difficulty, and during the turning movement of his troops suffered from a flanking fire.

Harsh things are said in military circles of the British tactics, which have made possible the ambush of the Eighteenth hussars at Glencoe and now the loss of two fine regiments. It is feared that General White is no match for the Boers in that cunning by which the Boer tactics are conceived, and it is pointed out that, if the British commanders continue to lead their men into obvious traps, further disasters must be looked for.

"Ladysmith, Oct. 30, 10:35 p. m.—I have to report a disaster to the column sent by me to take a position on a hill to guard the left flank of the troops.

"In these operations today the Royal Irish fusiliers, No. 10 mountain battery and the Gloucestershire reigment were surrounded in the hills, and after losing heavily had to capitulate. The casualties have not yet been ascertained.

"A man of the fusiliers, employed as a hospital orderly, came in under a flag of truce with a letter from the survivors of the column, who asked for assistance to bury the dead. I fear there is no doubt of the truth of the report.

"I formed a plan, in the carrying out of which the disaster occurred, and I am alone responsible for the plan. There is no blame whatever to the troops, as the position was untenable."

In the absence of news the morning papers are reduced to speculation as to how the disaster occurred. The general opinion is that a misuse of the cavalry was the real reason for the fall into the Boer trap. Apparently there was no cavalry to watch over the safety of the missing column.

The Morning Post, pointing out how near the British were to "a still greater disaster," says: In capturing the column the Boers also had the Devonshire regiment practically at their mercy; and a little more daring would have made a bad business much worse; and, seeing that a force strong enough to scoop up a couple of infantry battalions could have put itself practically between General White and his camp, we may be very thankful that things today are not more serious than they are. The lesson has been a severe one. It is humiliating to find a nation of farmers beating soldiers at their own game; but the sooner a proper respect is had for Boer strategy and tactics, the better for our fortunes in Natal.

This sobering note is struck by all the morning papers today, together with the expression of a determination to carry the matter through at whatever cost.

The colonial office has received a dispatch from Governor Milner of Cape Colony saying that he had issued a proclamation in reply to the Boer proclamation annexing a portion of Cape Colony, in the course of which he had warned British subjects to disregard all such annexation pronouncements. Milner adds, however, that so far as he can discover, the people north of the Vaal river accept the alleged annexation as a fact.

Abroad, especially in France, no pains are taken to disguise the satisfaction felt in consequence of the British rebuff. In Paris every means of spreading the news was utilized. Some of the more dignified papers adopted a respectful and sympathetic tone, but the majority were overjoyed. The editor of The Patrie hung the Transvaal and Orange Free State flags out of the office window. The Presse predicts a general revolt of the Dutch population in South Africa. The Soir hints its regret that France did not adopt a different attitude during the Fashoda crisis. The Courriere du Soir thinks that the continental powers will propose arbitration. Yves Guyot, in The Sirele, is almost alone in supporting Great Britain against the Boers.

An interview is published with a British officer, whose name is withheld, but who is described as a "well-known general with a distinguished record during the Indian mutiny," in the course of which he passes severe criticism upon the conduct of the campaign.

"Monday's disaster," says the officer in question, "is only another proof of serious blundering. Although General White is a good regimental commander, he does not seem to excel in strategy or the management of a big division. I regard the Glencoe business as a fair sample of blundering."

Proceeding to discuss the engagement at Glencoe, the officer observes: "Some of the enemy's officers were allowed to occupy and plant guns on Talana hill. Nothing was done to stop this until the Boers began to shell Glencoe on the following morning. As for Monday's casualty, it seems inexcusable that the two regiments should have been allowed to separate themselves from the main body, especially with a considerable swarm of the enemy against them. I know I am expressing the opinion of many military officers.

"We are disgusted with the war office for having prematurely allowed the issuance of glowing reports of victories without equal frankness and promptitude in disclosing the circumstances discounting these reports."

General White's honest admission of full responsibility and the terms of his dispatch are regarded in some circles as virtually placing his case in the hands of the home authorities; and it is even rumored that the war office has already decided to supersede him. The report, however, is discredited in well-informed quarters.

About 6000 fresh troops will arrive at Cape Town on Sunday next from England and will be available to reinforce General White. Transports will arrive there daily after Sunday, until, by the end of next week, 28,000 troops will have been landed in South Africa. These men are intended for General Buller's army, but they will undoubtedly be detached to Natal if the situation there should become perilous. The British army will eventually reach the total of 89,634, of which 69,634 will be regulars and the other 20,000 miscellaneous, but excellent colonial troops.

Promises to Reduce Rates.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1. — The North American says: One of the greatest financial combinations of the century is in process of formation. The organizers of the Continental Telegraph, Telephone and Cable company, recently incorporated in New Jersey, have obtained control of all the independent telephone companies in the United States, and aim to combine therewith the great telegraph companies and the five Atlantic cable companies. The office of the new concern is in New York city. The capitalists interested include George J. Gould, John Jacob Astor, W. C. Whitney, P. A. B. Widener and William L. Elkins. Verification of the story was obtained from Mr. Widener. He said the scheme would bring about a sweeping reduction in the cost of transmission of electrical messages all over the country.

HOPE OF RECOVERY ABANDONED.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 1.—The following statement is authorized by the family of Vice President Hobart and by the physicians who have attended him:

"The illness of the vice president may be said to date from the fall of 1898, prior to his return to Washington in November. At that time his physicians observed symptoms of embarrassed respiration, with frequent attacks of angina pectoris. This responded readily to treatment, and when the vice president went to Washington in the latter part of November, he was in good health. He stood remarkably well the strain and excitement incidental to the opening of congress, and he was making favorable progress, until in January he became a victim of the prevailing epidemic, grip. Following this there was a return of the heart trouble, accompanied with signs of degeneration. His ailment was diagnosed as dilated right heart, due to mycoarditis. The recovery from this attack was less rapid, and on the last day of the session of the senate the strain and excitement of delivering the closing speech was so great that he was on the verge of a collapse.

"A few weeks afterwards, towards the middle of March, the vice president and his family, together with the presidential party, went to Thomasville, Ga., to visit Senator Hanna. The fatigue of the trip affected Mr. Hobart very unfavorably, and his condition was further impaired by the intense heat and humidity then prevailing. As soon as possible, he was taken to Long Branch, where beneficial results from the sea air and quiet were expected. His progress toward recovery was not made, however, at the rate that was anticipated, and a trip to Lake Champlain, with the fatigue and exposure incidental thereto, hastened rather than retarded the course of his disease. Since then his system has not responded to the ministrations of his physicians, and the critical condition of the last few days has been the result.

"It should be added that ever since his illness became serious the vice president has had the benefit of the best medical advice and treatment. His attending and consulting physicians have at all times agreed upon the nature of his disease and upon the treatment of it, and the results to be expected.

"It is apparent from this statement that the vice president is in no condition to resume his political duties at Washington. His family desires, therefore, to announce that he will not return to Washington, nor will he again take part in public affairs. His condition today is such that a fatal result may ensue at any moment, or his present condition may be indefinitely prolonged."

Mr. Hobart's condition is favorable this morning. "There is no immediate danger," is the last bulletin.

Kentucky's Great Performance.

Newport News, Va., Nov. 1.—The first-class battleship Kentucky went out on her builders' trial trip yesterday. The sea was heavy, and the wind high. These conditions prevented any attempt at record running. Under forced draft and in a wind blowing 30 miles an hour, the Kentucky attained a speed of 16 1-3 knots, or one-third of a knot more than required by contract.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER.

BOSTON ELECTRIC SWITCH CO.

R. T. JOHNSON, President. A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.

Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

White Unlikely to Attempt Retreat From Ladysmith.

Joubert's Artillery Said to Be Shelling the Town.

Statesmen and Newspapers Give Opinions on the Situation.

London, Nov. 2.—Fragmentary dispatches from South Africa indicate that the British forces at Ladysmith are cooped up, while the Boer troops are laying vigorous siege to the town. For nearly 48 hours Joubert's artillery has been shelling the place and the bombardment has at times been terrific.

In military circles the opinion is gaining ground that General White will be compelled to surrender. He will not be likely to take such a course, however, before a large part of his force is cut to pieces, and hence it is generally expected that fearful British losses will be reported from Ladysmith within the next few days.

The losses of Monday are as yet not fully known. The messenger who came in from the captured battalions said there were heaps of dead and wounded where the British troops fought. It is now believed that the loss of life was so great that General White has not made it known, or, if he has, that the war office is afraid to give it out.

As an alternative to surrender at Ladysmith, some think General White ought to try to retreat, but good military judges say such a course would now be impossible. In the first place he would find it almost impossible to take away the great military stores at Ladysmith, and without them he would be greatly handicapped in later operations. He would also have to leave all his heavy guns behind.

But even if he had neither stores nor equipments to look after, it is pointed out that a retreat would be a fearful risk in the face of the overwhelming force of the Boers now surrounding him. He would in all probability be cut to pieces before he had covered a small portion of the 20 miles which separate him from Colmso, his next base.

Nothing has been received concerning Monday's casualties. The war office officials are working under great strain. Captain Perriott, staff captain to the military secretary, has just died, his end being hastened by anxiety and overwork.

The queen is credited with expressing sincere pity for General White and the officials are in no wise inclined to judge him harshly. So far as the public is concerned, however, while gratification is felt at the manner in which the isolated battalions surrendered, there is still severe criticism for General White and Lieutenant Colonel Carleton for allowing the column to get out of touch, for the absence of proper scouting and for not retiring when the ammunition was lost. In favor of Lieutenant Colonel Carleton the explanation is hazarded that he believed it was imperative to the success of General White's operations that he should hold the position at Nicholson's Nek.

Fragmentary dispatches from South Africa indicate that the British forces at Ladysmith are cooped up, while the Boer troops are laying vigorous siege to the town. For nearly 48 hours Joubert's artillery has been shelling the place, and the bombardment at times has been terrific.

A careful calculation of the British losses in all the engagements since the outbreak of hostilities—excluding the casualties among the non-commissioned officers and men in Monday's disaster at Ladysmith, which are thus far unknown here—gives a total of 916, to which probably 1200 will need to be added when details regarding the Ladysmith reverse are received. This total is made up as follows: Officers, 133; being 19 killed, 61 wounded and 53 captured. Men, 783; being 137 killed, 492 wounded, 154 captured.

The Morning Post comments severely upon the British contempt for the enemy, as shown by the belief that the large Boer force at Acton Homes could be held in check by Carleton's small column. It points out that, even if the British there had been supplied with ammunition they could only have held out a few hours longer, as they were in the most complete sense detached, and because nobody, apparently, at Ladysmith had any idea of their distress, or took any measures to rescue them.

The column was sacrificed, says The Morning Post, because it was sent into action gagged and blindfolded. It had neither scout nor patrol. Twelve hundred men were thrown away for lack of cavalry, which would not have been misled from another part of the field.

The Standard, which comments in similar terms upon "the fact that General White made no effort to extricate the column from the impossible situation into which he had thrust it," draws a sad picture of the men, "hoping for relief and them realizing, with bitterness of heart, that some one had blundered, that they had been forgotten by their general and his staff, and that nothing was left but surrender and imprisonment at Pretoria until the end of the war."

The Times says: The danger of General White's plans are patent, even to civilians, but it is not impossible that the Cape "boys" in charge of the mountain battery, who quite recently were suspected of disaffection, may have been tampered with by the Boers. Otherwise such a large and comprehensive stampede is a very extraordinary occurrence, from such a slight cause. General White's whole movement, so far as it can be understood from present information, is open to criticism, and especially in the complete absence of communication with the main body.

The Daily Chronicle says: It is evident that somebody blundered, but more details are required before the blame can be apportioned.

To try to relieve the tremendous strain caused by the disaster at Ladysmith, several government officials and prominent leaders took occasion to speak last night at various places throughout the country.

At Edinburgh, Lord Rosebery, in toasting "The Army and Navy" at a banquet given by the lord provost of Edinburgh to the officers of the Gordon Highlanders and the Scots Greys, said of the Ladysmith disaster: "It is much to be regretted; but in a considerable campaign we must look for such incidents. It is not in the nature of Britons to take much notice of them. We have had a good many of the same kind, and have generally got out right in the end. But, whatever happens, we must see this thing through, even if it should cost still more battalions and still more millions. Some day there will be an inquisition as to the preparations made for this war, but the time for that is not now. Our duty now is to support those who have the direction of affairs."

The Earl of Selborne, under secretary of state for the colonies, speaking at Dumfries, said: "It is not the fault of the statesmen of the Transvaal that we have not become embroiled with some European power. If hostilities had not come when they did, they would have come at some moment of national danger and difficulty."

Baron Tweedmouth, speaking at Edinburg, said: "The public mind has not been so moved since the news of the dreadful events in the Indian mutiny. We, unfortunately, are warring with a nation of the same stock and religion as ourselves. At this crisis, all hearts go out to the brave Boers and to the small British army in Natal, which, against fearful odds, has performed magnificent feats of valor. It is not the time to call our opponents names, or to utter cries of vengeance, but to back up her majesty's ministers, who have a fearful, yes, an awful, responsibility upon their shoulders."

The Earl of Lonsdale, at a banquet at Whiteshaven, declared his confidence in General White, and predicted a grand review in Pretoria next March. Referring to Emperor William's celebrated telegram to President Kruger, at the time of the failure of the Jameson raid, Lord Lonsdale said: "If his majesty's dispatch had been rightly understood, it would have had a totally different effect. It was sent with a view of allaying sores. It was not antagonistic to Great Britain. I have the pleasure to know the views of the German emperor, and they are in accordance with the views of England."

Lord Hamilton, secretary of state for India, speaking at Ealing last evening regarding the situation in South Africa, said: "Our ultimate victory is certain, and when the terms which we as victors propose to the vanquished are known, foreign nations will see that the main cause which has forced us to embark upon this conflict is not a desire of pecuniary profit or territorial aggrandizement, but a determination to emancipate a vast territory for the common benefit of mankind from an ignoble and degrading tyranny."

Both In Fine Condition.

New York, Nov. 2.—Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey have practically ended their training, and, save for light exercises, will do nothing more until they face one another in the arena of the Coney Island Sporting club tomorrow night. They have both worked hard for the contest, and will probably prove to be in excellent condition. Some doubts have been expressed as to the form of Jeffries, as he has only done about seven weeks work for the fight, but his manager and trainers unite in declaring that he is in entirely satisfactory shape. On the other hand there is no doubt about the condition of Sharkey. He began work early last summer, and has kept pegging away at it ever since. He is ambitious to be the champion of the world in his class, and does not want the matter of condition to stand in his way. The eve of the contest sees both men calm and confident. Thousands of dollars have been waged upon the outcome of the contest. Jeffries is the favorite.

Encouraging Reports.

Washington, Nov. 2. — Reports to Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service indicate that the yellow fever epidemic which has prevailed at Key West for the past six weeks has about run its course. Only one or two new cases a day are now reported, and the messages say that a good breeze has been blowing for the past two weeks, which, it is believed, has had a beneficial influence. The reports also state that the detention hospital at Dry Tortugas has been closed because of the absence of patients.

WILL BE DISALLOWED.

Manufacturers Unwilling to Accede to Request of Textile Operatives.

Adverse Decision Will Be Strongly Opposed.

Workers Think Employers Have No Solid Foundation For Their Claims.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 2.—The recommendation of the special committee appointed by the Manufacturers' association to confer with the Textile council, it is stated authoritatively, will be that the request of the operatives for an increase of 10 percent, to take effect Monday, Nov. 13, be disallowed. No member of this special committee, however, would state that this was the only recommendation of the committee. That is, it cannot be learned whether this recommendation is tempered by a clause urging that the increase be granted at a later day, providing that the manufacturers believe the condition of the market warrants it, or whether the committee leaves an avenue for a compromise open to mill men. This statement is in line with the report issued to the public by the conference committee.

The manufacturers' committee will make its report to the parent body at a special meeting called for tomorrow afternoon, and the decision of that body will decide the attitude of labor in the near future. Judging from the present attitude of the labor leaders it is almost certain that they will recommend their organizations to oppose a refusal of the request made by them to the mill men on Monday. They have not, however, yet given up hope that the manufacturers will accede to their demands, but they are not basing this hope on the recommendations which the manufacturers' conference committee may make. Their belief is based on the grounds that the present financial condition of the mills warrant the increase, and they claim that their statement made to the manufacturers in conference, that the mills have earned an average of 12½ percent in the past year, was allowed to pass unchallenged. They think that the liberal element in the meeting will favor their contention.

When asked what the labor men would do in case a postponement of the increase was asked until the new year, a Textile council representative said: "When that decision has been reached we will meet it. It is too soon to talk about postponement. Look at the statement made by the Border City corporation. They have declared a dividend of only 5 percent, but have added $85,000 to their surplus account, which now amounts to $250,000. Had this $85,000 been paid to the stockholders as dividends, the total dividends for the year would have been 13½ percent."

This labor man claimed that the policy of the Border City was only one of the many ways in which the dividend statement is kept down. Some of the mills go so far as to refrain from making public the amount added yearly to the surplus account. This is done to deceive the operatives, so it is claimed, but the labor organizations are headed by practical mill workers, who make a careful study of the industrial conditions from year to year.

One prominent manufacturer says that with cotton at 7½ cents a pound there is little money in the present market. He claims that though the price quoted now is 2⅞, that contracts have been made ahead at 2¾.

He is met by the labor men with the claim that though contracts are made ahead at 2¾, the cotton used costs much less, and that these contracts are not sufficiently large to cause a refusal of the increase. In other words, the contracts are not made for regular 64x64's alone, because these form but a small percentage of the present product of the Fall River mills.

"If the manufacturers want to use margins as a basis for determining the wages of their employes," said a labor secretary, "let them include the odd counts in their calculations and we will be satisfied with the result."

Factory Must Be Unionized.

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 2.—The R. B. Grover Shoe company has issued a request to its employes to apply for membership in the Shoe Workers' union. A notice was sent to all the employes of the concern, which states that "we have reached the final decision that the interests of our business demands that we retain the union stamp; and to do so our factory must be oragnized at once in order to meet the requirements of our agreement made under date of June 7, 1899, with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union. We trust all of our employes will consider it to be for their interest to remain with us. Individual answers must be given to your foreman."

Student Beats the Wizard.

New York, Nov. 2.—"Student" Slosson won the big professional billiard match which ended last night, Schaefer being beaten by 900 points to 757. Slosson's average for the full 900 points was a shade over 4½, and his best run of the match 35. Schaefer exceeded this run twice, making 41 and 39 in last night's play. His average, however, was a little under 4 for the full game.

Good Afternoon.

If teachers attended the greater part of the session of a teachers' convention, the objection to holding said conventions on regular school days would be partly removed. Now it is a fact that many teachers only report at conventions and then skip off to the theatre or to shop. Several newspapers have recently raised objections to holding conventions on regular school days. They should either be held on Saturday or between terms. Teachers are not paid to teach five days in the week or forty weeks in the year, but by the year, and taxpayers may reasonably expect something of them six days in the week, especially between Sept. 1 and July 1, when that something is provided at the expense of the State for their own personal enrichment, mentally and financially.

The Ledger's attack on the Socialists is characteristic, but on looking over the names of those who fell at Santiago and Manila, we thank God that there was a flavor of Castle Garden in the country and that the nation did not have to depend altogether on the scion of Plymouth Rock.—Exchange.

At Santiago and Manila the brave men were fighting for the honor of their country, but the Socialists are endeavoring to overturn the United States by introducing European ideas which are repulsive to those who have made this country what it is. American ways should have first place, and those who intend to be loyal to them and respectful to the President, the Governor, the Legislature, and the laws generally are welcomed. One can be patriotic without taking up arms, and all who take up arms, may not do it from patriotic impulses. A paper which will attempt to array an unwarranted class feeling against a contemporary is little short of contemptible. The Ledger trusts that it is not bigoted. It certainly has no ill feeling against a man of foreign descent unless he is an enemy of his adopted country.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Some people have the capacity to make black appear white. It's so with the devil. Otherwise he would go out of business.—Beverly Times.

☞ What is the mental effect of continuous officeholding that it leads a man to think he is a law unto himself instead of the community's hired man, after he has served a term or two in a public capacity?—Minneapolis Tribune.

☞ Mr. Crane knows every promise he makes must be redeemed by actual performance. Mr. Paine knows that after election no one can call him to account further. There is a vast difference between running for office with surety of election and running for office with surety of defeat.—Milford Journal.

☞ If it is true, as alleged, that certain street department employes, including a foreman, knock off work at 11.30 days, and after eating lunch gamble until 1 o'clock, the matter should be investigated by the council.—Quincy Ledger.

If they are to gamble at all, perhaps 1.45 would be more appropriate than 1 o'clock.—Taunton Herald.

Some would prefere two forty, or three kings, or four aces, but they should not long bluff the taxpayers.

THE RUMOR DENIED.

Ex-Representative Newcomb Not a Candidate.

Will Do All He Can to Elect John O. Hall.

Would Conduct City Affairs on Business Principles.

If there were any who were pleased at the prospects of a split among Republicans at the Municipal election, or the defeat of John O. Hall at the caucuses, because of the rumor that ex-Representative T. H. Newcomb had entered the field, their hopes are promptly dashed. Mr. Newcomb called at the Ledger office this morning with the following letter for publication:

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Dear Sir:—I notice in your issue of Nov. 1st that it is rumored that I am out for the nomination as the Republican candidate for Mayor. I would hereby state that I am in no way a candidate for that office and that the rumor is entirely false. I believe that we should be united and elect a man for that position who would conduct the affairs of the city on business principles, and as Mr. Hall seems to be the leading man, and one who is well fitted by ability and experience to fill that position, I shall do all that I can to secure his nomination and election. T. H. Newcomb.

When interviewed further, Mr. Newcomb commended the attitude of Candidate Hall in refusing to make promises concerning appointments. Were I a candidate myself, said Mr. Newcomb, they would not obtain any more satisfaction. The fire department has long been too prominent in politics, dating back to the days of the old hand engines. He had little sympathy for those with a single idea, as there were more important issues than the selection of ten men, more or less, for a hose company. Mr. Newcomb regretted that the city was being run on the spoils system, and looked for a more business-like government.

WARD FOUR OPINION.

A West Quincy gentleman says that Ward Four Republicans are for a candidate whom they can elect. Because a majority were with Walter H. Ripley at the State caucus and elected him as a delegate to State convention, is no sign that they will be with him at the city election. Many of us would like to see him reappointed Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, but this year they are more anxious for Republican success.

WOLLASTON FOR HALL.

Many leading Republicans at Wollaston think that should ex-Representative Newcomb receive the nomination for mayor, that he could not hold the solid Republican vote in that ward and that it would be thrown for the Democratic candidate as in the past few years. There seems to be little doubt but what John O. Hall would retain the entire Republican vote and would also draw largely from the Democratic ticket.

NEWCOMB FOR THE SENATE.

Another gentleman who was interviewed said: "Many of the differences that served to defeat Mayor Sears last year have been healed and the party today comes nearer to being united than it has been for several years in Municipal affairs. It is well understood that Mr. Newcomb's ambition is to be elected to the senate and another year if his friends unite there is no good reason why he should not receive the nomination and be elected. After he has served in the Senate he can then be in line for Mayor of Quincy."

Textile Schools.

The New Bedford Textile school, which has a national reputation for its thoroughness of work has among its list of teachers Mr. William H. Mitchell, a son of Mr. Edward L. Mitchell of Wollaston. The Evening Standard of New Bedford in a lengthy article on the school says among other things:

The mill arithmetic class will be taught by W. H. Mitchell, who taught mill figures at the Y. M. C. A. last winter and ought to be a popular class for those who desire to commence with simple textile arithmetic and prepare for later instruction in calculations on both yarn preparation, warp preparation and weaving machinery.

Political.

Dexter E. Wadsworth is being prominently mentioned by the Republicans as Councilman from Ward One. What the City Council needs is successful business men.

A meeting of the Democratic City Committee has been called for Saturday evening at their headquarters in the Hancock House. The date for the municipal caucuses will be fixed at this meeting.

Mothers' Reception.

The Mothers' society of Bethany church was very much pleased with the success of its annual reception to the mothers of the church and their little ones under six years of age. About forty mothers and thirty little ones of all ages assembled, and all enjoyed the meeting.

A part of the entertainment illustrating the work of one of the departments of the Bible school was kindergarten exercises under the direction of Miss Merrill.

Later Miss Merrill and Miss Park poured and the following girls served fancy crackers, confectionery, etc: Lillian Pratt, Jessie Pratt, Mila Bates, Mayse Hill, Maud Dyer, Edna Hammock, Hazel Mowry, and Viola Spear. The reception was from 2 to 5. The ladies were pleased to welcome Mrs. E. W. Branch after her long illness.

Golden Cross Entertainment.

Granite Commandery United Order of Golden Cross held a concert and dance Wednesday evening at Doble's hall, South Quincy. The affair was very largely attended and when the hour arrived for the concert to commence standing room was at a premium. The concert was an excellent one and was largely by out-of-town talent. The programme opened with a selection by the South Quincy Social Club orchestra. This was followed by the Hyland male quartette, which so pleased the audience that encores were demanded. Miss Gertrude Graham, a pleasing soprano soloist, gave several selections. Miss Graham has a pleasing voice and captivated her audience. Mr. J. F. Newcomb gave several dialect recitations which were well rendered. The funniest part of the programme was furnished by Mr. T. F. Early, a negro comedian, who however could not be persuaded to respond to an encore. A little miss whose name could not be learned, also gave several readings. Miss M. Powers officiated as accompanist. The entertainment was concluded at 9.30 and from that hour until 2 o'clock dancing was in order, the South Quincy Social Club orchestra furnishing music. Refreshments were served during the evening.

May Remeasure.

The Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts at a special meeting Wednesday voted to give the official measurer the power to remeasure sails when a yacht is protested.

The provision for calling a special meeting was altered so that now it takes a request from a majority of the delegates to obtain a call.

Propositions to restrict the 21-foot cabin class to working sails and to change the amount of sail allowed to the 21-foot cabin and 25-foot cabin classes were voted down.

Country Club Golf.

A large number of the members of the Wollaston Golf club are entered in the annual fall tournament of the County club, their handicaps being as follows: R. R. Freeman, 4, W. A. Clark 9, J. S. Russell 7, E. C. Tarbell 9, E. H. Brock 5, Lester Monks 13, F. H. Jeffries 13, W. M. Whiting 16, R. H. Dana 10, C. E. Hubbard 10, F. W. Lord 16, R. Cracknell 5, T. P. Curtis 10, T. P. Gannett, Jr., 5. There are about 50 entries.

A CLAM SUPPER.

One of the Most Successful of Quincy Point Church.

Wednesday evening about sixty people sat down to supper at 6.30 at the Quincy Point church it being the largest number at a supper this season.

Mr. Jesse Newcomb the well known fisherman presented the Ladies' Aid with the clams for the affair which were greatly appreciated by the society.

At eight o'clock the entertainment began the first number on the programme being "The Old Oaken Bucket" a duet by Mr. Richardson violin, Herbert A. Hayden pianist.

Miss Avonia Eldridge held her audience for ten minutes with "Absolom" by J. P. Willis; Miss Eldridge, who has studied in New York, for two years under Wheatcoft proved herself a finished reader. Her second selection "Woman's Rights" was very pleasing and humorous.

Mr. Van Buskirk's songs consisted of the popular ragtime of the day, and were thoroughly enjoyed by the young folks. Mr. Van Buskirk is not confined to ragtime however, and many would liked to have heard him render, some classical piece. He was in good voice, and very entertaining.

Mr. Richardson's "Pen and the Tongue," by Beecher, was received with applause, Quincy people are acquainted with his talent, and his music is always appreciated.

This supper and entertainment proved to be the most successful one given by the society this year. There were a good number of people from Quincy centre present. Ice cream and cake were for sale at the close of the entertainment.

Case for City Physician.

William Duford of Union street drove up to the police station Wednesday afternoon and from his talk to officer Barry he soon convinced him that he was out of his head. Officer Barry locked him up for safe keeping. It afterward developed that Duford had been drinking hard for some days and that he had laid out all night Tuesday in the rain for he was found on Wednesday morning in Mr. Menhinick's yard. City Physician Elmere was called and Duford was later removed to his home. Today he is reported as being very sick, due to drink and exposure.

The Bear Returns.

A dispatch of Wednesday from Seattle, Wash., says:

After a cruise in Alaskan waters as far north as Point Barrow, the United States revenue cutter Bear, Lieutenant Jarvis, in command and Herbert W. Spear of Quincy, chief engineer, returned to Seattle today. She had 60 odd sick and destitute prospectors, gathered up at various points.

At St, Michaels, which point she left Oct. 8, the Bear took on board 10 United States prisoners, five of whom are accused of murder, and conveyed them to the United States penitentiary at Sitka. Fifteen men who had been ordered out of Cape Nome by the authorities were brought to this city by the Bear.

The Bear called at St. George, on the coast of which the steamship Laurada lies beached. Lieutenant Jarvis says the Laurada's upper works are nearly all gone and he thinks it improbable that the vessel can be saved.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS.

Adams Academy Eleven No Match for Their Team.

Adams and Quincy High gave an interesting exhibition of footabll Wednesday afternoon, which was characterized by general good will and sportsmanship. The spectators were treated to two games as Braintree played Quincy High second eleven; they alternating with the other contesting teams. The game between Adams and Quincy was called on account of darkness, both sides agreeing, as it was conclusively shown that Quincy High was superior to Adams; Adams, however, was seriously handicapped by the loss of some of her regular men. Bennett was sick and in the very first of the game, Adams lost her best man. Flaherty had been repeatedly pushed through Quincy's line for gains of several yards, and had brought the ball within close range of Quincy's goal, when he was forced to retire from the game because of a broken sinew in his ankle. Quincy easily pushed Adams back, until a touchdown was made. This act was repeated before time was called, but no goals were kicked.

The second half, Adams braced up wonderfully, although playing with practically a substitute team. For some time she prevented Quincy from scoring, but at last, under the heavy odds against her, she had to submit to the inevitable. Quincy made a touchdown, from which goal was kicked. Soon after the kick-off, both sides agreed to call the game finished, as it was too dark to see the ball. The final score was 16—0.

For the High school, Snow and Hanson distinguished themselves by their rushes, and Nichols for his tackling. For Adams, besides Flaherty, Mueller made some neat tackles and also punted well. Weston also played well. In fact, the Academy eleven put up a plucky up-hill fight, that did all its members credit.

The line-up was as follows:

ADAMS ACADEMY.	QUINCY H. S.
Berry, l. e.	r. e., Hanson
Weston, l. e.
Doble, l. g.	r. g., McDonald

Score, Quincy High School 16; Adams Academy 0. Touchdowns, Quincy High School 3. Goal from touchdown, Snow. Umpire, Mr. Burchsted. Referee, Mr. C. P. Slade. Time, two fifteen minute halves.

Victory for Thayer.

Thayer Academy with a substitute team took the Roxbury High eleven into camp at South Braintree on Wednesday. The visitors were unable to score, while Thayer made four touchdowns and kicked one goal.

The line up:

THAYER.	ROXBURY HIGH.
Harrison, l.t.,	r.t., Mills

Score—Thayer, 20. Roxbury High, 0. Touchdowns—Estabrook, 2, Gallagher, Winslow. Goal from touchdown, Gallagher. Umpire—J. Townsend. Referee—McIntyre. Time—20 and 15 minute halves.

Miss Vining's Case.

In the Superior court at Plymouth on Wednesday, District Attorney Harris entered a nolle prosequi in the case of Miss Floretta Vining of Hull, whose case for violation of the liquor law was appealed from the court at Hingham.

The case against Miss Vining came up originally in August, and the little court room at Hingham was jammed with people from the summer colony.

Miss Vining's membership in fashionable clubs and her prominence in the town of Hull, combined with her attitude in favor of temperance, as expressed through her publication of several newspapers, gave great notoriety to the case.

R. G. Nason, of Nason & Proctor, was the counsel for the defence. The trial brought out much interesting evidence, and Mr. Nason exploded a mine at the culmination, when he exposed the chief witness for the prosecution as having been once indicted for killing a man.

Favors Force.

Editors of the Ledger:

I, for one, commend the action of the Board of Health in ordering every house on Cranch hill to be connected with the sewer. There are only ten cesspools remaining on Whitwell street, and I ask, is it fair to those who have connected, to have a cesspool running down on the street green in front of their houses. Would not you object to it if you had had diphtheria in your house as I have? What did Quincy build a sewer for anyway, if not to connect with. Voluntary entrance, is better, you say, but there are some who will never enter unless compelled to.

ANDREW STEWART,
76 Whitwell street.

—One day last week a freight train rolled onto a side track at the Randolph station and when it fetched up the sudden movement of the molasses in a hogshead burst out the head and the molasses ran out covering about everything in the car. When the doors were opened in the morning the men waded through three inches of molasses on the floor. There were 100 bushels of potatoes besides a large quantity of groceries and all were covered from head to foot. It was something more than a sweet old time.

AGGREGATE OF 35,725,

The Regular Army Now Practically at a Maximum.

Important Recommendations In the Annual Report of Adjutant General Corbin.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Aside from the strictly technical recital of all the details of a busy year in military life, the annual report of Brigadier General Corbin, adjutant general of the army, gives much information of an interesting general character and submits numerous recommendations for the betterment of the service.

GENERAL H. C. CORBIN.

General Corbin sums up the military forces now in the service of the United States as: Regular army, 64,586; volunteers, 34,574; total, 99,160. The regular establishment consists of 10 regiments of cavalry, seven of artillery and 25 of infantry. The volunteer establishment consists of one regiment of cavalry, 24 of infantry and a Porto Rico battalion.

The distribution of these troops up to Oct. 1 last was as follows: In the United States, 34,229; Porto Rico, 3363; Cuba, 11,187; Philippines, 32,315; en route to the Philippines, 17,099; Alaska, 499; Hawaiian islands, 466.

General Corbin adds the following to this summary: "It is expected that by Dec. 1 next all the infantry regiments, United States volunteers, shown above as in the United States, will have sailed for the Philippines. These, with the troops now there, will give a total strength of 2117 officers and 63,608 enlisted men (an aggregate of 35,725)."

The service of many of the troops after their enlistments had expired causes General Corbin to say in his report: "The patriotism of the regulars and volunteers who enlisted only for the war with Spain, by willingly and actively serving after the expiration of their terms of service, calls for evidence of appreciation on the part of the department. To this end it is respectfully recommended that each officer of the several volunteer organizations and each enlisted man who continued in service in the Philippine islands after the second of March, 1899, until honorably discharged, be awarded a suitably inscribed medal."

During the year there have been 62,175 enlistments and re-enlistments, of which 53,024 were native born and 9151 foreign born. In point of color, 56,154 were white, 6000 colored and 20 Indians.

A recommendation is made for extra pay for officers serving in our new possessions.

Of the criticisms on the staff organization of the army, General Corbin says: "Much has been written of late concerning a better staff system. Ours may be, and doubtless is, open to improvements; but it should be borne in mind that the present organization is the result of years of legislation, born of the best thought and labors of our best military men, and has stood successfully the test of all our wars. The criticisms of our system are too often the result of disappointment. Seldom has there one appeared in print whose author has not been a long standing applicant for a place in one of the staff corps or departments. The suggestion that our staff officers are not experienced in the duties of line officers is not borne out by facts."

The report dwells on the courtesies shown our troops by the British government officials while stopping at Gibraltar and elsewhere en route to the Philippines, and says this international courtesy will long live in the memories of both parties to the spontaneous exchange.

The report speaks of the unsatisfactory conditions in Hawaii, in relation to land for military uses. It is urged, therefore, that certain tracts be taken without delay from the control of the Hawaiian government, and secured to the future uses of the United States, and have them declared as reservations for military purposes.

Recommendation is made that military officers, serving abroad as military attaches, be given increased rank and pay.

As the increase in the army calls for an additional number of military academy cadets to fill vacancies, it is recommended that the president be authorized to appoint 10 annually, and that two be appointed at large from each state.

Satisfaction is expressed that the "army canteen" embarrassment has been removed from the war department by the action of congress in establishing certain restrictions.

Recommendation is made that noncommissioned officers be given additional pay, in order to attract to these places a worthy class, willing to stay in those grades, and that 25 years' service as an enlisted man shall be sufficient to admit to the retired list of enlisted men.

The condition of the artillery service, especially of the seacoast, the report describes as not altogether satisfactory. It is believed that the time has arrived when the artillery branch of the service should be reorganized, and the field artillery separated from that engaged in the coast defense. It is recommended that the regimental organization of the artillery be abolished, and that a corps of field artillery and of seacoast artillery be provided for, separate and distinct from each other.

In a resume General Corbin says: "The regular army is now practically at a maximum, as are also the volunteer regiments. The work incident to all these changes, brought about by the acts aforesaid, involving the enlistment of 28,500 volunteers, the subsequent reduction, and then again its increase to 65,000, necessitating numerous orders and instructions bearing upon the same, to say nothing of the complete military record of every officer and man of this large force, threw upon this office work, the magnitude of which cannot be understood until undertaken. That this work has been done with accuracy and intelligence, is now history. All credit is due to the assistants and the clerical force of the office."

The report also calls attention to the fact that not a single life has been lost by accident incident to travel in the course of all the transportation to the Philippines.

In conclusion, General Corbin points out an omission of the law in failing to provide chaplains for the volunteer regiments, and recommends that chaplains be provided for as soon as possible, as the presence of one with each regiment is deemed very necessary.

FUNSTON TO BRING SUIT

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—A special to The Star from Albuquerque, N. M., says: General Funston, who is en route home with the mustered out Twentieth Kansas regiment, has wired his Topeka attorneys to bring proceedings against Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul for criminal libel because of statements attributed to the archbishop in a recent interview. General Funston also instructed his lawyers to begin criminal and civil prosecutions against The Monitor, a Catholic paper of San Francisco, which first printed the story.

In a recent interview in Chicago, Archbishop Ireland was quoted as saying that General Funston had been charged with looting Catholic churches in the Philippines. The charges alleged to have been referred to by the archbishop were made by the editor of The Monitor soon after the landing of the Kansas troops in San Francisco. The Monitor stated, it is said, that General Funston had taken two magnificent chalices from a certain Catholic church in the Philippines, and that he had sent them home to his wife. Archbishop Ireland in his Chicago interview was quoted as calling upon General Funston to deny the truth of the article and sue the editor of The Monitor for libel, or the public would be obliged against its will to believe him guilty of the criminal acts of which he had been accused.

General Funston is highly indignant at the accusation, and says he will prosecute the matter vigorously. He intends, he says, to put a stop forever to the malicious stories put in circulation regarding him.

General Funston says that he not only refrained from desecrating houses of worship in Manila, but that while colonel of the Kansas regiment issued a positive order prohibiting the looting or mutilation of church buildings. He supplemented this with verbal instructions to his company commanders to see that the order was rightly enforced.

St. Paul, Nov. 2.—Archbishop Ireland appeared surprised when he heard that General Funston was reported as about to sue him for libel, on account of statements attributed to him in a Chicago interview. He said that he had made no such charge against General Funston, but had expressed the opinion that the statements of the San Francisco paper, charging the general with having taken a priest's robe from a Philippine church, should be denied by General Funston at once, lest a failure to deny should lead to a wrong impression.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 2.—David B. Herd of Winslow, serving a sentence for selling liquor, in the county jail, cut his throat last night, 37 stitches being required to close the wound. He will recover.

"SOUP MAKES THE SOLDIER."

The great Emperor understood that primarily the soldier is a stomach. Primarily every man is a stomach. The whole body and brain are dependent for health and life upon the orderliness and completeness of the processes which go on in the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition.

People who have been treated for disease of head, heart, lungs, liver, nerves or blood have often been treated in vain, until they began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When this medicine had healed the stomach and cleansed the blood, the other diseases disappeared.

"Six years ago last August I was attacked with malarial fever," writes Mr. Daniel A. Carter, of Yost, Rowan Co., N. C. "My spleen become enlarged, and I was in bed off and on for four years. I went to the doctors and some of them said I had dyspepsia, others said I had liver trouble. The last doctor I had called it chronic liver and stomach disease. So I paid out money and nothing did me any good. Two years ago I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and used ten bottles, and now I can do as big a day's work as any man."

CAUGHT IN THE STORM.

Many Vessels May Have Succumbed Along the Atlantic Coast.

Boston, Nov. 2.—There is much fear in the minds of the local seafaring men that the fruit steamer Admiral Dewey has met the full vent of the hurricane in the vicinity of the Island of Jamaica, where the storm did the most damage, helped by the vigorous rainfall. The vessel has proved unlucky ever since she left the hands of her builders, and the end of her bad streak of luck appears not yet to be in sight. At 10 o'clock this morning she was just seven days out on her trip, which in ordinary weather is made in about four days and 14 hours. She was due at Jamaica at midnight last Monday.

Charleston, Nov. 2.—Steamer Navahoe, Captain Staples, arrived here yesterday from New York, having on board Captain John Gaskill, sole survivor of the crew of the steamer George L. Colwell, New York from Fernandina, Fla., with a cargo of lumber. Captain Gaskill was clinging to a piece of wreckage of his lost vessel, to which he had clung for 22 hours. Captain Gaskill says he saw 10 of his crew engulfed in the waves, and is of the opinion that the others shared a like fate.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 2.—The schooner Stonewall, Captain Milliken, from Wilmington to Shallottee, N. C., with merchandise, was caught in Tuesday's storm, after she had entered Shallottee river, and was blown out to sea. The vessel, cargo and crew are supposed to be lost. The schooner Stella Lee, Captain Williamson, bound for Shallottee, with naval stores and produce, is given up as lost.

St. John's, Nov. 2.—A coasting schooner, hailing from the Newfoundland shore, near Belle Isle, which went to the wreck of the British steamer Scotsman, which went ashore Sept. 21 in the straits of Belle Isle, has not returned, and has been missing since about Sept. 28. It is believed she foundered, with a crew of 10 men, seven of whom were married, with families. They belong to the settlement of Griquette, which is thus practically depopulated of adult males.

Philippines Abound In Riches.

Maryville, Mo., Nov. 2.—Rev. Father P. O. Russell, who was a volunteer chaplain with the American troops in the Philippines, and returned to the United States with the Twentieth Kansas regiment, is visiting here. Father Russell believes the Filipinos are not yet capable of self-government. "If you treat them kindly," he says, "they think you are afraid of them. There is only one thing that this government can, in my opinion, honorably do, and that is put them down by armed force, and hold the islands." Father Russell was in the Philippines eight months. During the 16 months preceding he travelled through India, China and Africa, and he has travelled extensively in America, but he declares that the Philippines are the richest country he has ever visited.

What Surgical Science Accomplished.

New York, Nov. 2.—Walter A. Duryea, the patient at Roosevelt hospital, whose broken neck was operated upon some time ago, was wheeled about the corridors of the hospital yesterday in an invalid's chair and talked cheerfully. It is nearly three months since the accident at Oyster Bay, when he dived in shallow water and broke his neck. He demonstrated how surely he is on the road to recovery by moving his hands, arms and feet. Whether the paralysis will entirely leave his body the doctors are as yet unable to say. His mind is as clear as before the accident. Duryea's appetite is good and is steadily improving. He sleeps regularly and is always in the best of spirits. A few friends are permitted to see and talk with him each day.

Mr. Hobart's Condition.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 2.—Vice President Hobart's wonderful vitality stood him in good stead yesterday, and, notwithstanding he took little nourishment, he was unusually bright last evening, and asked Mrs. Hobart to read him the newspapers. An occasional spoonful of brandy and milk, and a little grape juice was given to him yesterday morning. All day long breat crowds gathered in front of the newspaper offices, where the bulletins were posted. There was another gathering of friends about Mr. Hobart's residence, but none, except relatives, were allowed to see the patient. Dr. W. K. Newton spends most of his time in the Hobart house, and he is now the only physician in attendance.

Where Justice Meets Defeat.

London, Ky., Nov. 2.—The feudists charged with murder at Manchester have comparatively easy sailing, as witnesses summoned to appear and testify against them will not testify against the warring factions. Sarah Collins, who was the chief witness against James and Millard Philpot and Alex Fischer, charged with the murder of her husband, committed suicide by taking poison, fearing, it is claimed, to testify against them. Other feud cases have been postponed on account of absence of witnesses who refuse to attend court, believing, they say, that their evidence against the warring factions would imperil their own lives.

Batch of Resignations Expected.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The Record says that there is to be a shaking up of officers when the national committee of the Prohibitionist party meets here Dec. 31. Samuel Dickie, the chairman, has resigned, and Oliver W. Stewart, chairman of the Illinois state committee, is slated to take his place. William T. Wardwell, secretary of the national committee, has intimated his resignation would be handed in at the committee meeting. Samuel D. Hastings, state treasurer of Wisconsin, who is treasurer of the Prohibition national committee, is expected to send in his resignation.

Locks Like a Man of Ninety.

Northampton, Mass., Nov. 2.—District Attorney Hammond made a motion yesterday before Justice Stevens to fix a time for sentencing Lewis Warner for misappropriating funds of the Hampshire County National bank and Hampshire Savings bank. Warner was convicted in January last. It is understood Justice Stevens will announce the time within a few days. Warner has not spoken a word to anyone since his conviction. He is apparently oblivious to everything about him, and presents the appearance of a man 90 years of age.

WHITE IS CRITICISED

For Allowing the Boers to Lead Him Into a Trap.

Question as to Whether He Was Justified In Hazarding an Attack.

War Office Announces That Communication With Ladysmith Is Interrupted.

London, Nov. 3.—Little light is thrown on the actual situation by the news at hand today. The magnitude of Monday's fight, however, is more than ever evident. Virtually three actions were raging simultaneously, but it is obvious that the intention to roll back the Orange Free State troops was not achieved.

The war office has informed the Associated Press that a report has been received from the governor of Natal, announcing that communication with Ladysmith has been interrupted since 2:30 yesterday afternoon. This is not regarded by the war office, however, as in any wise confirming the rumor of a complete investment of Ladysmith or of the capture of Colenso.

Little light is thrown on the actual situation by the news at hand today. The magnitude of Monday's fight, however, is more than ever evident. Virtually three actions were raging simultaneously, but it is obvious that the intention to roll back the Orange Free State troops was not achieved.

A report that a Boer force, with guns from Koomatipoort, is making its way through Zululand, is held to indicate an intention to seizing the railway between Colenso and Pietermaritzburg, if it has not already been seized. Armored trains are patrolling the line.

According to another dispatch, the naval brigade at Ladysmith has mounted four more guns from Durban.

General White has cabled the war office that in the engagement on Farquhar's farm, near Ladysmith, on Oct. 30, when Lieutenant Colonel Carleton's column was compelled to surrender, six officers were killed and nine wounded. Among the non-commissioned officers and men the casualties were 54 in killed and 231 in wounded. General White promises a list of the missing later.

As to the immediate prospect, little can be added to what has already been said. Great reliance seems to be placed on the services to be rendered by the heavy naval guns, said to be three in number, now at Ladysmith, and it is hoped that by neutralizing the effect of the heavy French guns of the Boers the place may be saved or the necessity for a retreat averted.

The extreme reticence of the British war office statements of the progress of the campaign from the start is calculated to throw doubt on the information given out. The fact that General Buller has hurried from Cape Town to Natal is sufficient proof of the gravity of the situation; and the dispatch from England of so large a force of artillery as that reported in the latest telegrams is of itself an indication that the resources of the Boers have been greatly underestimated or that England intends to discount the fall of Ladysmith with the loss of the artillery and war material collected there.

Discussing the technical questions raised by White's report of the disaster to Carleton's column, there will be marked diversity of opinion respecting the responsibility for it, and the general conduct of Monday's operations. There will be complete agreement respecting the large share which the mules had in determining the fortunes of the day, but there will also be a suspicion that there were Boer hands behind the boulders which rolled down the hill and caused the fatal stampede. There will also be general assent to the proposition that the Boer tactics were brilliant, and that White was completely outmaneuvered.

Joubert, having provided an objective point for the British center, abandoned the hill, where the guns had been fired, and lured White on mile after mile without offering battle. Joubert finally opposed the British right with a considerable force, and drew off the center to support it. Meanwhile he had thrown a flanking column between the main body and the left wing, and had concentrated an overwhelming force against Carleton's men, who had lost their ammunition and guns.

These masterly maneuvers were rendered possible by the remarkable mobility of the Boer forces, which consisted mainly of mounted infantry. In this way two battalions without a train and a battery without guns were hopelessly entrapped, while White's army was led far afield. Military writers will not be of one mind respecting the necessity for the offensive movement which ended so disastrously. White evidently had planned a general battle, although it turned out to be hardly more than a reconnoissance in force for the British center and right. This is plain from White's admission that Carleton's force, instead of covering the advance of the main body, was sent to Nicholson's Nek for the purpose of turning the enemy's right flank. Hardly any military critic will consider that White, after ordering the evacuation of Glencoe, and concentrating his army at Ladysmith, was justified in isolating a body of 1500 men. He clearly hoped to bring on a general engagement and to turn the enemy's flank at the right moment.

Whether he was justified in hazarding an attack is regarded as an open question. Comparing the various accounts published, it is made perfectly plain that at one moment during the fighting—that at which the three infantry battalions of the centre column were sent to re-enforce the right, when one of its brigades under Colonel Grimwood precipitately fell back on its artillery—the centre column lay at the mercy of the Boers, and the retreat of the right might have been cut off. But chance, that, according to the Duke of Wellington, plays so great a part in war, saved the British force from a crowning disaster.

There will be entire agreement upon one point, and that is that White did not remain in touch with his left wing. Everything indicates defective scouting and lack of signalling arrangements. Somebody had blundered, either White or some staff officer under him, whom he may be chivalrously shielding. Another point will be made by the military critics against Carleton. They will urge that he ought to have retreated after the stampede of the mules, when the guns and ammunition reserves were lost, and he found himself unable to carry out orders, or in any event ought to have sent back information promptly of his position. He probably halted in the hope of recovering the guns and mules by daylight, and considered it his duty to carry out his instructions as far as he could.

All these points will be cleared up when the war correspondents are allowed to tell the truth. The British losses appear to be somewhat less than at first stated, but they are still considerable, and the moral effect of the appearance at Pretoria of a large number of British officers and soldiers as prisoners of war, on the native population especially, will be immense. It will be noised about all over South Africa and carried to Kimberley and Mafeking, to the discouraging of the defenders. It has also the advantage that it is enabling the Boers to show their humane treatment of all those falling into their hands, that they are neither the inhuman nor uncivilized people that some have described them.

Again it is asserted at Aldershot that the mobilization of a second army corps will begin on Nov. 10, and that the whole reserves of the transport branch of the army service corps will be called out.

Objections Overruled.

Whitinsville, Mass., Nov. 3.—The objections of the commonwealth to the plans of the Northbridge and Uxbridge grade crossing commission have been overruled by Judge Fessenden of the superior court, and the plans of the commission will now be carried out. The crossing to be abolished is at Whitins depot, between the towns named. The plans include the building of a new passenger and freight depot, as well as the abolition of the crossing, and the total cost of the work will be about $50,000. The commonwealth objected to paying any part of the cost of the depots.

Robber In a Convent.

Webster, Mass., Nov. 3.—At an early hour yesterday an unknown man broke into the convent of St. Joseph's Polish church. The convent is inhabited by the mother superior and seven sisters. One of the sisters, attracted by the noise, went into the hall. The ruffian seized her and tore the clothes from her body. The other sisters, terrified, tolled the bell. This quickly brought aid. The miscreant escaped in the confusion. This is the third time the convent has been attacked lately.

Coal Cars Wrecked.

Boston, Nov. 3.—A freight wreck on the western division of the Boston and Maine railroad at the East Somerville station last night blocked all traffic for several hours, and nearly 2000 people were forced to await the removal. Five empty coal gondola coal cars of a train of 30 left the iron at a cross-over switch and were piled up and wrecked. A brakeman was hurled to the roadbed and quite badly shaken up.

The Admiral Dewey Is Safe.

Boston, Nov. 3.—Steamer Admiral Dewey of the United Fruit company's line has arrived all right at Port Antonio, Jamaica, and the agents in this city state that there was no need of anxiety for her safety. There was some little delay in receiving, at the Boston office, a dispatch, giving word of her arrival at Jamaica, on account of the storm which has visited those parts in the last few days.

Factory Closed by Strike.

Halifax, Nov. 3.—The weavers of th Halifax cotton factory are on strike, th work being entirely suspended. The strikers say their wages have been cut almost one-half. The managers claim the employes are unable to earn as much as before on account of new and stiff looms, but that when they become accustomed to the new machinery they can earn as much money as ever.

Lack of Water Power.

Webster, Mass., Nov. 3.—Owing to low water in the Naanexit river the various factories along its banks are running at half time or closed entirely. The Perryville mill has closed, and the Slater mills at North and South Webster are running partly at night on steam power to make up half time in the day. It is possible tha these mills may close Saturday night indefinitely.

No Change.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 3.—No apparent change is reported in the condition of Vice President Hobart.

A PERIOD OF ANXIETY.

Manufacturers' Answer to Textile Workers Will Be Given Today.

Operatives Think Their Arguments Unanswerable.

Refusal to Grant Increase Will Probably Result In a Great Strike.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 3.—The wage situation here has resolved itself into one of expectation and a little anxiety on the part of the labor element and business men generally as to the result of this afternoon's meeting of the mill men who are members of the Manufacturers' association. As matters now stand the conditions may be summed up in the question: "Will the manufacturers accept the recommendations of the special committee or not; and if they decide to refuse the request of their employes for an increase of wages, what will the attitude of the labor element be?"

Should the manufacturers ask for a postponement until the beginning of the new year, business men here have some hopes that the operatives may be induced to wait until then for an increase in wages; but if the manufacturers refuse point blank to grant the increase the result to the business interests of Fall River is greatly feared. Business men expect, in case of a refusal of the demand, that a great strike will be the result, and it is very certain that they will exert all their influence to the end that this may be prevented.

Labor leaders are, perhaps, the least disturbed by the existing state of affairs. Upon them will rest the largest share of responsibility, for their word is usually accepted by the major portion of their organizations. If they recommend that the decision of the manufacturers, in case the request is not complied with, be opposed, it is quite likely that a big strike will be on here. If the manufacturers ask for a postponement of the increase in wages for a few months and the labor leaders endorse this recommendation, it is also very sure that the employes will await patiently until the end of the period of probation.

The members of the Textile council are not, however, talking about the future; they are living in the present and confidently awaiting the result of the deliberations of the Manufacturers' association. Their confidence comes from the fact that they believe their arguments for an increase are unanswerable, and they cannot understand how the mill men can refuse to grant their demands.

A large stockholder in Fall River mills made the following statement last evening: "There is no doubt what action the manufacturers will take. The current quotations show for themselves that the existing margin does not warrant any advance. What the future will bring, neither manufacturers or operatives can say, and a permanent increase in the cost of labor cannot be made on the strength of future possibilities. At the existing margin the operatives are being paid at a very fair rate."

A well-known business man thinks that the talk about a syndicate taking charge of the local mills gave the operatives a better insight into the financial condition of the mills. Previous to the syndicate offers there had been plenty of talk by mill men concerning the poor outlook for the cotton-cloth industry of this city, but when it came to parting with their holdings it was found that they valued their shares too much to part with them. This was what started the agitation for the increase in wages.

Following the receipt of the reply of the manufacturers, the Textile council will come together and take prompt action upon it. They may assemble this evening if the decision is received in time for calling a meeting at that time. All the arguments are in, and it is the Manufacturers' association which must move next.

Cuba Newspapers Disagree.

Havana, Nov. 3.—The Diario de La Marina, commenting on the proposal of El Cubano that the Spaniards join with the Cubans in an endeavor to obtain the independence of the island, says the independence of Cuba does not depend on the Cubans, but on the will of the American people. If El Cubano wants the Spaniards to join the Cubans and fight, if necessary, for independence, such a course would be fatal, and the only result would be the extermination of the Cubans and Spaniards.

Another Explosion at Acton.

Acton, Mass., Nov. 3.—An explosion demolished a wheel mill of the American Powder company yesterday afternoon, but, while the detonation, as usual, was terrific, the damage to surrounding property was not heavy. In the mill destroyed, powder was ground in its process of manufacture, and there was danger at any time, while the wheel was turning, of an explosion occurring. The explosion was the second in six weeks.

Good Afternoon.

The information that teachers contributes toward the expenses of a county convention modifies some the comments of yesterday, but nevertheless conventions should be held Saturday.

Three of the six gentlemen advertised to give political predictions in the Saturday eight-page Ledger have already forwarded their letters, and the other three are expected, so that the success of the symposium is already assured, and some interest has been awakened as to what will be predicted.

In the words of an exchange, every citizen should count it a pleasure to go to the polls next week and by personal work endeavor to send to the Massachusetts legislature a delegation whose members, individually and collectively, will possess real influence in the law-making body of this commonwealth. It is the sheerest folly for any man to sulk at a time when united action is imperatively demanded. If we have any jobs of house-cleaning to be attended to let us postpone action until such time as we have squared away upon a new course: a course whose straight lines will not mark the citizens of this city as the easy victims of political delusions which were exploded more than one hundred years ago by the rest of the world only to appear in a new form at this time.

THE HEARING TODAY.

On the Train Service and Railroad Accommodations.

Mayor Keith made his preliminary fight for better train service, more cars, better passenger and freight accommodations at the several stations at Quincy, Wollaston and Atlantic, and for a change in the Wollaston fence, at a public hearing given by the Railroad Commissioners this morning. Many from Quincy were present, including:

Geo. H. Brown, Hon. E. C. Bumpus, John A. Duggan, Ex-Mayor Adams, Geo. F. Pinkham, H. T. Whitman, Harvy H. Pratt, William B. Glover, Assessor E. G. Hall, Assessor F. G. Fay, Councilman Pinkham, Representative Sheppard.

Counsel Farnum and Supt. French represented the railroad.

City Solicitor Blackmur opened the case for the city and spoke at length, giving the present condition of the stations, more particularly Quincy Centre. He also gave statistics showing the population of 25 years ago and at present, and the difference in the number of trains then and now, also comparing Quincy's accommodations with other cities and towns of the state of a like distance from Boston.

Others to speak for the petition were Mayor Keith, Hon. E. C. Bumpus, ex-Mayor Adams, Clarence Burgin, George A. Cameron, John F. Merrill, Councilman Packard, Harvey H. Pratt, and George H. Brown.

Thsee gentlemen's evidence was to the unsightly stations, the Quincy station being characterized as nasty and foul. The insufficient freight facilities, lack of trains and cars, injury to real estate values, the Wollaston fence and approaches, and of the many unsuccessful attempts made for improvements and accommodations.

The hearing was cut short at 12 30. Before abjourning however, it was arranged that the board with petitoners would make a personal inspection of the several stations and the evils complained of.

The date for this inspection was fixed for Thursday, Nov. 9, and the board will leave Boston on a special train at 2.30.

A full report of the testimony at the hearing will be published in Saturday's Ledger.

Nonpariel Club.

The Nonpariel Social club held a smoke talk at its rooms on Water street, on Thursday evening, which was attended by nearly two hundred members and friends. An elaborate programme was provided, which, included an address of welcome by the president. R. J. O'Brien; P. A. Lane spoke on the future of the Nonpariel club; Alexander McIntosh on good fellowship. There were also a piano and violin solo by W. Delorie, vocal selections by J. C. McGuane, John Knight, J. Phelan, Peter Anderson and the Glenwood quartette and buck and wing dancing by William Grant. The evening's programme closed with an address by President O'Brien. Refreshments were served and at a late hour the smoke talk ended, the guests congratulating the club and wishing it success at its coming annual ball.

Mathew Arnold.

The Rev. Walter R. Breed read a very interesting essay on Mathew Arnold, Thursday night before the City Band Literary and Musical Society. There was a large attendance, and it was the verdict of all, that it was an able and instructive essay. Yet there were some who did not agree with Arnold, more especially in regard to his criticism of the French nation. This seemed to be the principal objection. The society hopes to have another evening's company of Mr. Breed in the near future.

—A hair-breadth is no longer a definite standard of measure. In these days the term is used, as a rule, to imply a very considerable margin. In older and more accurate times, however, the hair-breadth was something more than a mere figure of speech. It was, in fact, the width of 16 hairs laid side by side.

SAMPSON IN TOWN.

He and Other Trustees Inspect National Sailors' Home.

Quincy was honored Thursday afternoon by a visit from Admiral Sampson. But he came quietly and unannounced and few knew of the visit of the distinguished commander in the late war with Spain until he had come and gone.

It was the occasion of the quarterly meeting of the trustees of the National Sailors' Home, of which board Admiral Sampson is now a trustees by vrtue of his appointment as commandant of the navy yard at Charlestown. James L. Little, the president, Joshua Crane the secretary, Admiral Belknap, ex-Mayor Adams, Dr. Ayer of Charlestown, and Edward T. Russell, members of the Board were present.

The home for several years has been in charge of Lieut. John Downes, who is giving good satisfaction. The board inspected all departments and found everything scrupulously clean, but the buiding needs many repairs which will probably receive early attention.

As usual a lunch was served to the board at the home, and three hours were pleasantly spent. Admiral Sampson was found very pleasant, but quiet and modest. Many Quincy people would have been pleased to met him.

A Hallowe'en Celebration.

The stillness of Copeland street was disturbed by a torch-light procession on Wednesday evening, as the Hallowe'en party to have been held Tuesday night was postponed on account of unpleasant weather.

It was lead by Grace Elcock and Carrie Ball, dressed as horribles, they were followed by Carroll J. Elcock, Ambrose O'Dowd, Theresa and Helen Elcock, Walter Monahan and Ambrose Elcock, Joseph Lamb and Richard Hussey, Agnes Monahan and Mabel O'Dowd, Grace Lamb and Eunice Doble, Lizzie Bouleau and Catherine Hussey, Rosie and Esther Lancy, James O'Brien and Albert Morrissette, Ernest Morrissette and Cyril Rogers, Max and Del Barnes, Alexis Elcock, Alphonse Elcock, Joseph Monahan, Norah Crehan, Nellie O'Dowd, Mary Berry, Lillian Barnes.

To the left and right was Lena Monahan and Marion Barry, who kept the procession in order. The torch lights were made of pumpkins, squashes, and other torch light materials. There were drums, clappers, flags and Chinese lanterns. The procession went via Copeland street, around Cross street to Crescent street. It was marshaled by Grace Elcock, Lena Monahan and Marion Barry.

After the procession had dispersed, the littler ones retired, while the larger ones played around the places they had marched. Afterward the refreshments were served at various homes. The festivities of the evening were interferred with by the rain.

Runaway at Atlantic.

A serious runaway occurred Thursday morning, when a horse belonging to Mr. Lyons of Atlantic and driven by John Connolley became unmanageable. It dashed into the yard of the Catholic church, tearing the fence down and smashed a window in the basement of the edifice. Miss Katie Noonan of Myrtle street was in the church yard at the time and was knocked down and rendered unconscious. She was conveyed to her home. Her injuries are not of a serious nature. The horse was stopped after a hard battle. The carriage was but little broken. Mr. Connolley was thrown out early in the affair and somewhat bruised.

A Daily for Melrose.

Melrose has a bright and newsy daily newspaper, and the Reporter made a very creditable appearance on Wednesday upon its initial. bow. It is devoted wholly to local news, because the local merchants have recognized a good thing and crowded everything else out. Messrs. —A lady who recently engaged board and rooms at a place in Portland, being a stranger in the city, completely lost her own address while out on business which took her there, and actually had to advertise in order to find out where she belonged, staying meanwhile at a hotel.

Inspector McKay arrested Adolph Johnson, Albert Stranberg and Oscar Thorstenson, Thursday afternoon for Inspector Joy of Brockton, by whom they were wanted for disturbing the peace last Sunday.

The damage of the fire in E. E. Thomas store at Wollaston is more serious than was at first supposed. The store and stock was quite badly damaged by smoke before the flames were extinguished.

The Rev. William W. Dornan of Quincy, together with the Rev. Mr. Huston of Whitinsville, and Elders Martin and McDonaid of Quincy, organized a United Presbyterian church in Brockton, Mass., Thursday evening.

The popular young preacher, Mr. Archie D. Ball, will officiate for the pastor at both services in the First Presbyterian church, Water street, on Sunday. The children's concert, which was prevented by the rain last Tuesday, will be held Monday evening next.

Inquiries are being made about the non-appearance of the opening of the Atlantic drug store. After the hope-inspiring notice which has long smiled from the window and door of the store in question, the anxiety of waiting becomes stronger. Why are the doors still closed?

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a portion of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable.

BOLD ROBBERY.

Jewels Demanded by Show of Revolver.

One of the boldest robberies ever chronicled in Quincy took place at the residence of George Burgess on Holmes street, near the Norfolk Downs depot Thursday evening when Mrs. Burgess was made to deliver up her diamonds at the point of a revolver.

Mrs. Burgess, who had been to Boston returned home about dusk. As she tried to enter her house she found that the lock on the front door had been tampered with. She, however, finally got in and going up stairs took off her diamond rings and laid them on a table. She then entered another room where her arm was grabbed by a man who placed a revolver at her head and told her if she made an outcry he would shoot her.

Mrs. Burgess then fell to the floor in a faint. She can give but little description of the man. Inspector McKay is at work upon the case.

STILL HUNTING.

Some Ward Four Men Looking For a Republican Candidate.

There was disappointment in some circles that ex-Rrepresentative Newcomb should decline to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor. As one of his friends expressed it, if he is ambitious for any office he should take what is now offered him.

West Quincy Republicans in particular were disappointed and it is said that they will look further for a candidate.

It is no secret that Mr. Newcomb was urged to become a candidate, and there was surprise at his refusal. The request evidently came too late, for some weeks ago Mr. Newcomb gave City Auditor Hall the assurance that he would not be a candidate.

With Mr. Newcomb as a candidate it was expected to secure the entire delegations of Wards Two, Three and Four for him. But this would give him but 19 votes, while the other three wards would have 20 or a majority. But attention had also been turned to Ward Six in the hope of securing one or more delegates.

Ex-Representative Newcomb is recognized as quite a power in Republican politics, being one of the old war horses, and his service [illegible] in the City Council and Legislature were very acceptable. His support of Mr. Hall now, and the hearty endorsement of the City Auditor at Wollaston may dishearten those who seem to prefer another candidate to Mr. Hall.

The opposition in some quarters seems to be that they have doubt whether Mr. Hall will make a clean sweep of the Democrats at City Hall. It would be very unwise for a candidate to promise to do this, but those who know the City Auditor believe that he would give the city a Republican administration.

☞ The arrival at Cape Town of Gen. Buller, who will have chief command of the British forces in South Africa, shows that the time is not distant when the Boers will be confronted by the full force of Britian's power in the field. Whatever their present success it is beyond the range of probability to believe they can withstand such an army as Buller will lead against them, and the scene of battle will be pushed back toward the Transvaal.—Brockton Times.

TAXES COMING IN.

Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 a Gain Over Last Year.

Taxes by the city are due on Nov. 1, and after that date interest is charged at the rate of six per cent. Collector Dixon has been busy this week and Tuesday and Wednesday showed large collections. The total on these two days was $5,8388.00 against $52,816.90, for the corresponding days last year. This was an increase of $5,571.13 and more than offset the increase in tax rate and gain in valuation. Collector Dixon's receipts to date are almost $11,000 ahead of the corresponding time last year. He also reports 374 more single polls collected on Nov. 1 than on the same date last year.

Rumors Were Exaggerated.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—Eight members of the Scotsman's crew, accused of stealing the passengers' property, were honorably discharged yesterday. The judge, however, considered that the arrests were justified on account of the rumors prevalent, which were found to have been grossly exaggerated. Four more cases remain to be disposed of. Only two have been found guilty so far.

The heavy liabilities result from the failure in 1893 of several large coal companies in which Doty was interested.

Active Work In Philippines.

Manila, Nov. 2.—All signs show that General Young's rapid advance is demoralizing the insurgents northward. Prisoners report them to be fleeing to the hills. There are many deserters and sick men, and the former are taking their arms to the Americans. The cavalry's rapid movements are a puzzle to the insurgents. Aguinaldo is personally conducting the campaign. He is asking the people for rice and is trying to replenish the army with recruits, but without success.

INTERESTING HISTORY

Compiled by the United States Philippine Commission.

Many Facts of Importance Are Brought to Light.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The Philippine commission yesterday submitted to the president the preliminary report which it had promised to prepare. It appears to be a compact summary of conditions on the islands as the commission left them; of the historical events which preceded the Spanish war and led to the original Filipino insurrection; of the exchanges between Admiral Dewey and the other commanders and the insurgents; the breaking out and progress of the present insurrection, and, finally, a statement of the capacity of the Filipinos for self-government. A notable feature of the report is a memorandum by Admiral Dewey explanatory of his relations with Aguinaldo.

The commission tells briefly how it conducted the task entrusted to it. Turning to the history of the islands, the commission attaches little importance to the divers rebellions which had preceded that of 1896. As to this movement, they declare that it was in no sense an attempt to win independence, but solely to obtain relief from intolerable abuses, and the commission gives evidence to sustain this statement. Allusion is made to the powerful Katipunan society, patterned on the Masonic order, and mainly made up of Tagalos, as a powerful revolutionary force.

The war begun in 1896 was terminated by the treaty of Biash-na-Bate. The Filipinos were numerous, but possessed only about 800 small arms. The Spanish felt that it would require 100,000 men to capture their stronghold, and concluded to resort to the use of money. Certain concessions were decided upon. Governor General Rivera was willing to pay $2,000,000 (Mexican) when Aguinaldo and his cabinet and leading officers arrived at Hong Kong. It appears, however, that Paterno only offered the latter $400,000, $200,000 to be paid when Aguinaldo arrived at Hong Kong, and the balance when the Filipinos had delivered up their arms. The arrangement was not acceptable to the people, and the promises were never carried out. Spanish abuses began afresh. Hence sporadic risings occurred, though they possessed nothing like the strength of the original movement. The insurgents lacked arms, ammunition and leaders. The treaty had ended the war, which, with the exception of an unimportant outbreak in Cebu, had been confined to Luzon, Spain's sovereignty in the other islands never having been questioned, and the thought of independence never having been entertained.

The report then tells how General Augustine came to Manila as governor general at this juncture, and war broke out between Spain and the United States. Augustine sought to secure the support of the Filipinos to defend Spain against America, promising them autonomy, but the Filipinos did not trust him. Then came the first of May and the destruction of the Spanish fleet by Dewey, with the resulting loss of prestige to Spain. Then, in June, Aguinaldo came. On this point the commission gives the following memorandum, furnished by Admiral Dewey:

"On April 24, 1898, the following cipher dispatch was received at Hong Kong from E. S. Pratt, United States consul general at Singapore: 'Aguinaldo insurgent leader here. Will come Hong Kong, arrange with commodore for general co-operation insurgents Manila if desired. Telegraph. Pratt.'

"On the same day Commodore Dewey telegraphed Mr. Pratt: 'Tell Aguinaldo come soon as possible,' the necessity for haste being due to the fact that the squadron had been notified by the Hong Kong government to leave those waters by the following day. The squadron left Hong Kong on the morning of the 25th and Mirs Bay on the 27th. Aguinaldo did not leave Singapore until the 26th, and so did not arrive in Hong Kong in time to have a conference with the admiral.

"It had been reported to the commodore as early as March 1 by the United States consul at Manila and others that the Filipinos had broken out into insurrection against the Spanish authority in the vicinity of Manila, and on March 30 Mr. Williams had telegraphed: 'Five thousand rebels armed in camp near city. Loyal to us in case of war.'

"Upon the arrival of the squadron at Manila it was found that there was no insurrection to speak of and it was accordingly decided to allow Aguinaldo to come to Cavite on board the McCulloch. He arrived with 13 of his staff on May 19 and immediately came on board the Olympia to call on the commander-in-chief, after which he was allowed to land at Cavite and organize an army. This was done with the purpose of strengthening the United States forces and weakening the enemy. No alliance of any kind was entered into with Aguinaldo nor was any promise of independence made to him then or at any other time."

The commission's report then rapidly sketches events now historical. It tells in substance how the Filipinos attacked the Spanish and how General Anderson arrived and Aguinaldo, at his request, moved from Cavite to Baccor. Says the commission:

"Now for the first time arose the idea of national independence. Aguinaldo issued a proclamation in which he took the responsibility of promising it to his people on behalf of the American government, although he admitted freely in private conversation with members of his cabinet that neither Admiral Dewey nor any other American had made any such promises."

The report states that Aguinaldo wished to attack the Americans when they landed at Paranaque, but was deterred by lack of arms and ammunition. From that point on there was a growing friction between the Filipinos and the American troops. "There were no conferences," says the report, "between the officers of the Filipinos and our officers with a view to operating against the Spaniards, nor was there co-operation of any kind. * * * There never was any preconcerted operations or any combined movement by the United States and Filipinos against the Spaniards."

Reference is made to Aguinaldo's demand that he be allowed to loot Manila and take the arms of the Spaniards. The latter demand is said to confirm the statement that he intended to get possession of the arms to attack the Americans. Further evidence of the hostile intentions of the Filipinos was found in several instances.

A brief chapter then tells of the lack of success attending the effort made at this time by General Merritt to arrive at a mutual understanding with Aguinaldo as to the intentions, purposes and desires of the Filipino people. This brings the story up to the outbreak on the evening of Feb. 4, with the attack upon the American troops following the action of the Nebraskan sentinel.

The commission, in concluding this chapter, says: "After the landing of our troops Aguinaldo made up his mind that it would be necessary to fight the Americans, and after the making of the treaty of peace at Paris this determination was strengthened. Deplorable as war is, the one in which we are now engaged was unavoidable by us. We were attacked by a bold, adventurous and enthusiastic army. No alternative was left to us, except ignominous retreat. It is not to be conceived of that any American would have sanctioned the surrender of Manila to the insurgents. Our obligations to other nations and to the friendly Filipinos and to ourselves and our flag demanded that the force should be met by force. Whatever the future of the Philippines may be there is no course open to us now except the prosecution of the war until the insurgents are reduced to submission. The commission is of the opinion that there has been no time since the destruction of the Spanish squadron by Admiral Dewey when it was possible to withdraw our forces from the island either with honor to ourselves or with safety to the inhabitants."

The commission then takes up the condition of the country at the time of its arrival, comparing it with conditions existing at the time it left, a short time ago. A vivid picture is given of the anarchy existing among the inhabitants, in and about Manila, during the early spring.

The report then speaks of the issuance of the commission's proclamation, and the good effects it had on public sentiment. The natives, accustomed to Spanish promises, urged upon the commission that acts instead of promises should be given them. As a result native law courts were established, and this greatly aided in the restoration of public confidence.

Having given so much attention to the island of Luzon, the commission then takes up, in detail, the conditions in the other islands. On this point it is stated that the rebellion is esentially Tagalog, and that when it ends in Luzon it must end throughout the archipelago. "The only island, apart from Luzon, where serious trouble threatens is Panay, to which a considerable force of Tagalog soldiers was sent before the outbreak of hostilities. Many of the Visayans of this island are opposed to the Tagalogs, however, and it is not believed that the latter can make a formidable resistance."

The efforts at conciliation with Aguinaldo and his various commissioners are set forth in detail. These commissions were assurred of the beneficent purposes of the United States, and the president's readiness to grant the Filipino people as large a measure of home rule and as ample liberty as was consistent with the ends of the government, "subject only to the recognition of the sovereignty of the United States," a point which, being established, the commission invariably refused even to discuss."

The chapter devoted to "capacity for self-government" is the result, the report states, of diligent inquiry for several months. The most striking, and perhaps the most significant, fact in the entire situation is the multiplicity of tribes inhabiting the archipelago, the diversity of their languages (which are mutually intelligible) and the multifarious phases of civilization—ranging all the way from the highest to the lowest."

Concerning the intellectual capacities the commission says: "As to the general intellectual capacities of the Filipinos the commission is disposed to rate them high. But, excepting in a limited number of persons, these capacities have not been developed by education and experience. The masses of the people are uneducated. That intelligent public opinion, on which popular government rests, does not exist in the Philippines." The report shows that this inability for self-government is due to the old Spanish regime, which gave the Filipnos little or no part in governing themselves.

As to the state of affairs when the commission left, the report says: "Before the commission left the Philippines nearly all the inhabitants had returned to these ruined villages. Many of the houses had been rebuilt. Fields that had lain fallow for three years were green with growing crops. Municipal governments had been established, and the people, preferred by our troops, were enjoying peace, security and a degree of participation in their own government previously unknown in the history of the Philippines. Attempts of the insurgents to raise recruits and money in the provinces of Bulacan were proving abortive, except when backed by bayonets and bullets, and even in such cases the natives were applying to us for help to resist them."

RED PILLS

Are those who are always sick and ill-humored. Do they fully realize that their ill humor, which we know is caused by sickness, is often the reason why their husbands stay away from home at night? The men are not entirely to blame. They are discouraged and disheartened by such exhibitions of temper from their invalid wives. Thousands of men to-day have had happy homes since their wives began taking Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. These pills cure all forms of women's diseases. No matter how serious the case may be, they cure. Ask your neighbor about Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. Surely someone around you has been cured or benefited by their use. If not, write to the following ladies who have had the experience and know their merit. Do not doubt any statement we make about Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. They are not to be compared with cure-alls or old-fashioned liquid remedies sold for women. Here are living testimonials of their merits. Write and ask if they are not all that is claimed for them.

Mrs. Holmes, 567 Antoine Street, Detroit, Mich., writes:—
"I suffered terribly with pains in my head and back, and from female weakness. I have tried a great many remedies without success. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills alone have cured me of my troubles. I do not think that there is a better or a cheaper remedy."

Mrs. P. A. Gillett, 226 Chestnut Street, Manchester, N. H., writes:
"I was sick for a long time and could not get cured by the Doctors. I was so run down and nervous that I was the most miserable woman on earth. I had headaches and great pains in the region of the heart. I am glad to give you a testimonial about Dr. Coderre's Red Pills, believing that others will get cured."

Mrs. Carleton, 106 Henry Street, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes:—
"I was greatly benefited by a few boxes of Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women. I suffered for years with irregularities in the worst way. I am now so well since I took these Pills that I think it my duty to recommend them to all women who suffer as I have."

Mrs. J. Dempsey, 240 Valley Street, Providence, R. I., writes:—
"I have been a terrible sufferer from female weakness and womb trouble. I believe that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills is the only remedy for women, for they alone have cured me when nothing else could."

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills cure women's troubles just as sure as there is a sun. They are not a cure-all. They are made for women's diseases only. All women, young or old, can be cured by them. Married women can take them under any conditions. They are intended for no improper purpose. Women who have been sick for years should write to our French specialists on women's diseases. Send a full description of the case, and receive by return mail, the best medical advice absolutely free, or, if possible, call at our office. This is a chance you cannot afford to miss. Send us your name and address and we will mail you free, our Doctor's book, Pale and Weak Women. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are not a purgative. Women suffering from constipation should take Dr. Coderre's Purgative Tablets, together with the Red Pills. The Tablets cost only 25 cents. Follow directions accompanying each, and wonderful results are guaranteed.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are sold by all first-class druggists at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. We mail them all over the world upon receipt of price. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred pills, or at 25c. a box, for they are not ours; they are imitations. In the interest of your health do not be imposed upon.

PREDICTIONS ON STATE ELECTION.

STATE AND CITY.

Social Democrat.

JOHN A. LAMB,

Who represents this district on the State Committee of the Social Democratic Party writes:

Editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger:

Your letter of Oct. 31 on hand, requesting a prediction on the vote of the Social Democratic Party. As a member of the State Committee, I would say, that we can rely on 23,000 votes to be cast for Winfield P. Porter for Governor.

On our position, on the votes to be cast for Representatives, we can count on 1400 for we are sure that there are that number of voters in Quincy, who see the evils that spring from the present system of capitalism, and who intend to elect representatives who shall represent our class (the working class) in the General Court next session. Candidates Halvosa and Lamb stand for the "Cooperative Commonwealth" while the other four candidates for the office of Representatives, stand for our present system of millionaire and luxury on one hand, and on the other the reward our class (the working class) receives,—wages so small that every year we have to curtail our little comforts, in order to get the bare necessaries of life. When every voter comes to realize that the wages he receives is but a token of one fifth of the product he socially helps to create, then men will not tolerate the injustice which they submit to at the present time.

I remain respectfully yours,

John A. Lamb.

CHAIRMAN HALVOSA,

Of the Social Democratic party of Quincy, Branch 21, writes:

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The Quincy Branch of the "Social Democratic Party" feels confident that their candidates for Representative to the General Court, will be selected by the majority of our citizens at the coming election.

Reasons. The candidates, as is well known throughout the city, are pledged to vote for a systeem of direct legislation, thereby putting into the hands of the citizens, the reins with which they can control all legislative matters; giving said citizens the power to assume the initiative, should it seem desirable to them to so do, also granting said citizens the power to demand a referendum vote upon any measure, and the right of recall of Representatives.

The citizens of Quincy are intelligent enough to understand, that should they be granted this power it would be impossible for any political party to place in operation a system which would oppress the many, that the few might be benefited; that with direct legislation in operation, it would be but a question of time when all political parties would be wiped out of existence, and upon election day the main question would be "which candidate possesses the best qualification for this office," in place of the question often asked at resent, "which candidate has the party nomination."

Our Citizens are deeply interested in the question of public ownership, and a large number, after a careful study of the subject are convinced, that justice, Henry B. Brown, U. S. Supreme Court and others, who have written upon this question are good "American born" authorities for them to accept. He said "There would seem to be no sound reason why such franchises which are for the supposed benefit of the public, should not be exercised directly by the public; but the great corporate interest, by parading the dangers of Socialism, have succeded in obtaining such franchises, which properly belong to the public."

Those citizens having in mind, that the basis of all just law should be; the greatest good to the greatest number, with the least possible injury to the remaining few, have promised to vote for the candidates.

The executive committee have distributed 20,000 pieces of literature, held agitation meetings in every ward, (in some wards two) and furthermore, in none of the meetings or writings has there been one word of personal abuse, used towards any other party or the candidates of such parties.

There are more active workers upon committees in the party, than in both old political parties.

The party has received the promise, from over 1,200 citizens to date, that thay, the said citizens, will vote for the candidate.

Believing that those who have promised will keep their word knowing that the requisite number for election will not exceed 1,150 feel justified in predicting that Quincy will select two Representatives who will "Represent."

Philip J. Halvosa,
Chairman Social Democratic Party Branch 21, Quincy, Mass.

Democratic.

WILLIAM T. SHEA,

Of this city, who represents the First Norfolk Senatorial District on the Democratic State Committee, writes:

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

You ask me for my views in regard to the coming State election. The Democratic party has strong grounds for expecting a decidedly increased vote in the coming election. The party is fortunate in having as its candidate so bright and capable a man as Mr. Paine. He has made a short but aggressive campaign and on every occasion that he has appeared before the voters he has been received with great enthusiasm.

Harmony and unity prevail in the party at the present time to a greater extent than they have for a number of years.

Under these condition, together with the encouraging reports that are coming from all parts of the State a decided increase over the the votes of recent years is anticipated. It is also expected that the representation of the party in the House and Senate will be very materially increased.

As to the result in our own City, it is expected that Quincy will contribute its full share to the anticipated results.

Very respectfully yours,
W. T. Shea.

Quincy, Nov. 2, 1899.

MICHAEL T. SULLIVAN,

Who was requested to give a prediction as Chairman of the Democratic City Committee, is out of town considerable and possibly did not receive the letter sent him in time, hence the non-appearance of his predictions.

Republican.

CHAIRMAN DOLLIVER,

Of the Republican City Committee, has no doubt of success. He writes:

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Yours of October 31st received and contents noted. In reply would say, as far as I know the canvass of the city by the respective ward committees have not as yet been made known outside the respective ward organizations. The canvas in Ward One I am familiar with. Without a knowledge of the canvass in other wards, it is beyond me to give any intelligent prediction of the vote to be cast on Tuesday next. Had your invitation been received earlier it would have been possible to complied with your request.

No doubt exists in my mind regarding the election of all the Republican candidates.

Yours truly,
A. G. Dolliver.

FRANK F. PRESCOTT,

Who represents the First Norfolk Senatorial district on the Republican State Committee, writes:

For three years Massachusetts has given phenomenal majorities for the Republican State ticket, upwards of 80,000. The year 1896 was a Presidential election, and last year Congressmen were elected. It cannot be expected that the majorities of these years will be maintained, especially in an "off year" when there is no doubt of the result. However, harmony prevails among Republicans, and they realize the advantage of a large vote for Candidate Crane, as it will be the basis for apportioning the representation to the conventions of next year, all of which will be important. It will be Presidential year, and Congressmen will also be elected. The First Norfolk Senatorial district, and also the Fifth Norfolk Representative district, will probably put forth new candidates. With these incentives there should be a large Republican vote. I confidently expect that Winthrop Murray Crane will receive upwards of 170,000 votes.

The whole State ticket is a strong one collectively and individually. It is well apportioned geographically, and has met with favor. Crane for Governor and Bradford for Treasurer hail from the western part, and Bates for Lieutenant Governor and Olin for Secretary of State from Boston. Kimball of Fitchburg comes from the north, and Knowlton of New Bedford from the southeast.

Councillor Davis is a candidate for reelection, and also Senator Woodsum, County Commissioner Wadsworth, and Representatives Sheppard and Sprague, so the party is making no experiment. All have filled their offices very acceptably.

While Massachusetts Democracy is pretty well broken up, it presents a more desirable candidate for Governor than for two years, who may receive 120,000 vote.

The Social Democratic vote and all others will not reach 25,000 in the State.

The harmony and enthusiasm which prevailed at the Republican State Convention in Boston, the splendid ratification of the State ticket at Worcester, and the great audience which assembled at the grand banquet of the Massachusetts Republican club this week, all showed intense interest and unity of purpose. The mistake may be that we are too confident, but during the past week the importance of every Republican voting has been urged, and there can be no doubt if a large percentage of the party vote comes out.

The vote of Quincy, may not be an index to the vote of the State, as Quincy is one of the few places where Socialism has been worked and made some headway. I am inclined to think that the strength of Socialism has been greatly overestimated in this city, and that it is more equally divided between the old parties than reported. The Republicans will sweep the city.

EIGHT HOURS AND $3.

Granite Cutters Give Notice of Demand in Spring.

The following circular to all granite manufacturers throughout New England was sent out from the headquarters of the Granite Cutters' National Union in Boston yesterday.

The employers of granite cutters throughout the United States have already been made aware of the action on the part of the union granite cutters to introduce the eight-hour day in the springtimo of next year on a basis of not less than $3 per day in all parts of the country where it is not now in use, but this letter will act as a reminder and so that no misunderstanding can be entertained on the question.

"The resolution to the above effect was deliberately acted upon in the springtime of 1697, and since then has been discussed in every nook and corner of our broad land where granite is cut. It will suffice at the present time to again call attention of employers that all agreements which have been entered into by our union or any of its branches, and in conflict with said eight-hour day at a $3 minimum rate, shall terminate on or before May 1, 1900, at which date at the latest said minimum goes into effect.

"On a basis of not less than $3 per day means thatthe wages of all journeymen employed by the day throughout the United States will be $3 or more per diem, and that those not capable of at least the minimum rate are to work by a piece bill drafted so that an average fair or ordinary man, if employed under its provisions, could earn not less than $3 per day. Very respectfully yours,

"JAMES DUNCAN,
"Secretary Granite Cutters' National Union"

GENEROUS.

Unwarranted Appropriation of City Money.

To Help Commissioner Out of a Hole.

Sewer Commissioners Vote Street Department $5000.

The Sewerage Commissioners have voted to allow the Commissioner of Public Works $5,000 for repairing streets opened for the sewer, and an order for that amount has been sent to the City Treasurer.

It is understood that Commissioner Cavanagh wanted $8,000. The original offer of the Sewerage Commissioners was $2,500, which was made in August. This amount was not satisfactory, and the thing has been hanging fire ever since but has now been settled for $5,000, which the Commissioner of Public Works has accepted.

It is reported upon good authority that the Sewerage Commissioners were not unanimous for $5,000 and that Commissioner Jones thought it was too much. Chairman Shea and Mr. Schenkelberger, however, were in favor of $5,000, and when the matter came to a vote, they voted in favor of that amount, and Mr. Jones against.

The $5,000 will be in the nature of a Godsend to Commissioner Cavanagh whose appropriations for "miscellaneous streets" was exhausted long ago.

Application was made at the office of the Sewer board for the wording of the vote transferring the $5,000 to the Commissioner of Public Works but Engineer Branch refused without an order from the Sewer Commissioners.

Chairman Shea was then seen, and he also refused. Mr. Shea said there was nothing private about the matter, but the board had held no meeting since the vote was passed and he did not feel justified in giving out the wording of the vote until the records had been approved by the board.

Upon further questioning, Mr. Shea said the wording of the vote in substance was, that the Sewer Commissioners hereby transfer to the Commissioner of Public Works $5,000 in payment of all claims he may have against the Sewer Department to December 31, 1899, and that the Commissioner of Public Works assumes all responsibility of streets opened for the sewer and for their care.

This does not only include the streets opened this year but takes in everything from the time the Sewer Commissioner commenced work. In fact it cleans up all back claims and future claims to December 31, this year.

Mr. Shea further said he thought that between 16 and 17 miles of streets had been opened this year.

An attempt was made to see F. L. Jones, the member of the board of Sewerage Commissioners who voted against transferring $5,000 to the Commissioner of Public Works but he was away for the day.

A Thieving Bootblack.

William C. Pitman was arrested by Officer Daveron last night for the larceny of a lamp valued at $5 from the stable of Henry O. Fairbanks at Wollaston. According to Miss Fairbanks, who witnessed the theft, she saw Pitman prowling about the yard and looking in at the stable window. Later she saw him going away with the lamp in his hand. Charles Carey also met Pitman near Mr. Fairbank's residence with a brass object which resembled a lamp.

Pitman is a bootblack and it is said he collects junk when not shining boots. It is also said that he melts the metal which he collects.

Officer Daveron searched Pitman's place and found parts of bird cages and wire which he was evidently melting.

The court sent Pitman away for three months, and if he shines-em-up during that time it will be for the officers of Dedham jail and not Wollaston gentlemen.

☞Liquid air is successfully used for blasting in the twelve and one-half mile tunnel now constructing under the Simplon, in the Alps, and it has an advantage over ordinary blasting powders in that it does not generate noxious gases. The central point of the tunnel will be 10,000 feet below the peaks above it, and it will be pretty hot there.

By the exploding of a lamp at the home of William Benjamin in Mayflower Park, Wednesday night, Mrs. Benjamin had a narrow escape from being burned to death. The flames ignited her clothing and but for the timely arrival of an Indian woman she might have been burned to death. Mr. Benjamin was badly burned trying to smother the flames with his hands. No damage was done to the house.

RICHEST MAN ON EARTH

Alfred Beit, Who Systematized South African Mining.

HAS BARREL LOADS OF DIAMONDS,

Began Life as a Merchant's Clerk In Hamburg—While Cecil Rhodes Dazzles the World This Quiet German Amazes the Trade by Preventing Diamonds From Becoming Too Cheap.

The only man in the world ever reputed to be worth $1,000,000,000 is the Anglicized German, Alfred Beit, whose address, if you care to know, is simply Cape Town or Kimberley or Johannesburg, South Africa, or Park lane, London.

Mr. Beit is yet on the foolish side of 50, having been born in Hamburg in 1853, and has made his fabulous fortune in the last 24 years.

ALFRED BEIT.

It is all very like a fairy book story to read of a man worth a thousand millions, but it seems like a Christmas spectacle to read that what has made him so rich is not land or railroads or factories or shops or wheat corners or oilfields, but just gold and diamonds. The very things that stand for riches came to him in the first instance not as a result of riches, but their cause.

Alfred Beit was a well educated merchant's son in Hamburg, destined to go into the office, where he would learn to check and supervise accounts relating to shipments and receipts of goods to and from the ports of the earth; to inherit a comfortable income from a staid old shipping business; to cultivate a family, a taste in music, a proper regard for beer and go to his fathers a respected but very little known German merchant.

But about the time he was going into business and giving up the duels and other delights of student days there was a sudden commerce with the young South African town of Kimberley, which promised such developments that his firm considered it wise to send a representative into this new marvel land to examine and see if the resources of the country justified the big credits the trades in all sorts of stores and machinery were demanding from Hamburg merchants.

Diamonds, wealth in its most concentrated form, had been found in the Orange river country in 1867, and in 1870, or possibly a year earlier, reports came of even greater diamond mines found in Kimberley to the northwest.

There was a rush to the country from all over South Africa and soon from all over the world, but it was not until 1875 that the slow moving, conservative Hamburg firm, of which the elder Beit was a member, felt the tremendous impetus of the new trade strongly enough to induce them to send out and investigate.

That sort of work required the vigor and health and activity and perhaps the enthusiasm of a youngster, and so Alfred Beit, then 22 years of age, was outfitted with credit, with arms, with letters of introduction, with careful instruction and a paternal blessing and set sail for Cape Town, thence by bullock team—for the railroad was not yet built—across Cape Colony, the Free State, Transvaal, and so into Kimberley.

He found a city of madmen.

Thousands had rushed in, taken up or bought land, worked the wonderful blue or yellow clay, filled, as is a pudding with fruit, with the dull stones which could be cut and polished into the jewels for which the world would give fortunes.

There was chaos in the laws, chaos in the manner of working mines, chaos in the trade which competition had already nearly ruined. There were enormous losses from thefts. The "I. D. B." (illicit diamond buying) business had grown to scandalous proportions, and altogether the young German saw a state of affairs which if not remedied would compel him to report unfavorably on the credit of the new districts. He was cool headed, a man of orderly business methods by inheritance, and he saw that there could very easily be too much of a good thing, even diamonds.

He undertook then a work which is usually attributed wholly to Cecil Rhodes, who did not go into the district until some years afterward, the work of first combining and then systematizing the diamond mining industry. This is not to say that Rhodes did not have a large hand in the ultimate close corporation result. He did, but young Beit was first in the field, first to realize that diamonds might become so cheap as to be profitless to mine, first to begin the quiet buying up of scattered and conflicting claims, first to see that there was wealth beyond the dreams of avarice only if the production of diamonds should be kept absorbed by the nations at the old standard price.

The result was a combination which is a model of its kind. The great De Beers mine has for years paid 5½ per cent on its bonds and 20 per cent dividends on its stock, and it is capitalized at $40,000,000.

Then came the gold discoveries, and the German, Beit, was the first to see that vast production was possible only if the mines were worked on the highest scientific principles, and to accomplish that end he sent for American engineers and paid them what they wanted—$25,000, $50,000, $100,000 a year—in salaries.

Rhodes, dashing, sensational, came along and became the chief figure in the public eye when that eye was turned toward South Africa, but always there was the firm of Wernher, Beit & Co. at work for the greatest profit and the smallest amount of notoriety. Now and then young Beit would do something to amaze the trade, but not the public, as when he had a pure white 428½ carat rough diamond cut to a 228½ carat finished stone and exhibited in a little shop window in the Rue de la Paix, Paris, as a "sample of our goods."

Soon his gold and diamond mines were paying almost beyond public computation.

"How much is he worth?" some one asked a friend of his once. "He probably could not get out more than a thousand millions now," was the response, "but if he would let the price of rough diamonds go below from 28 to 30 shillings per carat no one knows how much he would realize. For no one else except Rhodes knows how many barrels of diamonds they have salted away down there to keep the market steady."

AFTER PIRATE GOLD.

Mrs. Hitchcock to Lead an Expedition to Cocos Island.

Mrs. Emma Louise Hitchcock, wife of Professor Hitchcock of Washington, is organizing an expedition which she will lead to Cocos island, to search for the $30,000,000 worth of gold, silver and diamonds supposed to be stored in a cave.

Mrs. Hitchcock is wealthy and is recording secretary of the Woman's Anthropological society in Washington.

Many legends exist as to how the treasure came to be stored on Cocos island, but all the reports agree that the valuables are worth about $30,000,000.

Cocos island is 550 miles southwest of Panama. It is but a few miles in extent, but is extremely fertile and is rich in tropical vegetation and fruits.

The most popular stories about the treasure are that it was stored there by pirates or else by refugees from South American republics during revolutions. The republic mentioned oftenest as furnishing the refugees is Peru.

A Scotchman, Tom Smith, who turned pirate in the south seas in 1821, figures romantically in many legends as the man who buried the treasure. His specialty was looting churches on the South American coast.

GEN. CRONJE'S PROPHECY.

Eight Months Ago He Foresaw War and the Boers' Doom.

General Cronje, second in command in the Boer army, visited this country eight months ago as the guest of a Chicago manufacturer. He made a tour of the United States, and to one of his hosts he said that war between his country and England was inevitable and that it would result in the extinction of the Transvaal republic. Some of the predictions which General Cronje made during his visit here are interesting now. In substance General Cronje said to one of his hosts:

"War cannot be avoided, and when it comes it will mean the extinction of the Transvaal. Sentiment in the Transvaal and abroad will demand that we conduct our campaign in regular military formations, and the Boers are not accustomed to that kind of fighting. Our strength has been due in the past to our excellent marksmanship and our regular tactics. Our sharpshooters will be handicapped if they are restrained by regular military formations. They will not do themselves justice. I do not believe that the war, when it comes, can be prolonged by us much more than 60 days. We have not sufficient resources for a long struggle. We have not the food supplies, and our country is so isolated that we cannot get supplies from the outside world. We have no port. My people will fight stubbornly, but the odds against us will be too heavy. The conditions at Laingsnek and Majuba Hill were favorable to our tactics then. The Boer tactics will be different in the next war, necessarily so, and the result will be disaster."

Another Dewey Story.

On the recent trip of Admiral Dewey over the New York Central to Vermont his special train stopped at one of the small stations to take water. The admiral, who had been riding on the engine with Dr. Webb and Mr. Callaway, got off for a little stretch, and while walking down the track met three boys, to whom President Callaway presented him as "the great naval hero of the world," whereat one of the little fellows cocked up an eye and said: "I guess not. Youse fellows can't fool us. There ain't any of you Admiral Dewey."

Worse Than Maxims.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic.—A new name.—Gen. xxxii, 24-29; Rev. ii, 17.

Among the oriental nations great importance is attached to names. The Jews, for instance, in naming children selected the names for important reasons, because of some incident connected with the birth of the child or in an attempt to describe the character of the child. It is also customary to mark one's entrance into a new relation by a new name, the acceptance of the name signifying the acceptance of the new sovereignty and the obligations contained therein. It is easy to see, therefore, why God would signalize the entrance of His people into new relations with Him by giving them a new name, as He did to Abram, to Sarai, to Jacob and to others, and it is also easy to see the appropriateness of designating the new relation to God in heaven by the giving of a new name.

A new name given by God signifies that we have come into a new relation with God. It signifies that we have passed through a crisis in life, have had some new religious experience as a result of which we have come closer to God, have got a better conception of God and have consecrated ourselves anew to God. Jacob's new name had such significance. At Jabbok, where he wrestled with the angel until he received the blessing, his name was changed from Jacob (supplanter) to Israel (prince of God). At Jabbok Jacob had a new experience—he passed through a crisis in his life, he got a new and exalted conception of God and undoubtedly came into a new relation of consecration to God. He was entirely changed by the power of God. Jacob stood for his old life and character and Israel for the new. God gives to all His people at such times a new name. It is His own name. When our lives are changed, when we come into a new relation to God, God's name is stamped upon us. We are God's people, God's children, and our highest aim should be to keep the new name we hear unsullied by being faithful to the new relation.

The heavenly new name spoken of in Revelation has largely the same signification as the earthly new name. It stands for our new relation to God, and it also must be in some way the name of God. "To him that overcometh * * * I will write upon him the name of my God" (Rev. iii, 12). Just what the heavenly new name is, just what it signifies, we do not know, but what is more important here, how the new name may be obtained, we do know. It is better for us to know how to get the new name than to know so much about it. The all important question in this life is, How may we obtain the new name? And this is the way—we must overcome in Christ's name. "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth, saving he that receiveth it." If we overcome self, the world and sin, God will feed us upon the hidden manna, spiritual blessings impossible of attainment on earth. He will give us the white stone of acquittal on which will be inscribed the new name. Let us go forth in the power and strength of God in Christ to overcome, that we may be assured that we will experience this rich heavenly blessing.

Bible Readings.—Gen. xvii, 1-6; xxxv, 10; Ex. xxiii, 20,21; Neh. ix, 8-10; Prov. xxii, 1; Eccl. vii, 1; Luke x, 18-20; Acts xi, 25, 26; xiii, 9; Phil. iv, 1-3; Rev. iii, 12; xix, 11, 12.

A Menace to Godliness.

Far more dangerous to true godliness is that spirit among Christians which loves to mingle with the world and conforms itself to it. And this is the great temptation of Christians today. They allow themselves to be lost in the world's pleasures and concerns and have no time for secret meditation. Caught up by the whirl of this busy, giddy life, they have no desire for communion with God and do not know the value of solicitude. They find no time to "think on things" that are "lovely" and of "good report." They have turned their ears to the noises of this world and are deaf to the message of the "still small voice."—Lutheran.

With a True Light.

We are indebted to the faithful souls who have shone with such a true light amid the darkness, gloom and conflicts of the past, and we love to contemplate their lives and honor their memories—many in our own church—and our hearts are encouraged and inspired to to be steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the love and grace and walking in the beautiful light of God. —American Friend.

God's Furnace.

Sweetness of character and life comes out of sanctified trial. Testing softens under divine grace. God's furnace is intended to refine and purify. It is not for us to repine under His chastening and molding operations. He knows best how to rub off the rough angles, to sweeten the temper, to subdue the wayward spirit and to bring into meetness for heaven.—Presbyterian.

Unanswered Prayers.

Many of our prayers are unanswered simply because they are against God's way of doing. We ask to be taken out of the world not by death, but by deliverance. Our desire is to live, but apart from real life. Such is not the divine purpose. Jesus Himself submitted to every human condition.—Presbyterian Journal.

The Little Things.

It is while you are patiently toiling at the little tasks of life that the meaning and shape of the great whole of life dawn upon you. It is while you are resisting little temptations that you are growing stronger.—Phillips Brooks.

AGUINALDO LOOKS TO CONGRESS

To Grant Independence to Filipinos---New England Regiment Sails for Jaro.

Manila, Nov. 3.—Aguinaldo has issued a proclamation announcing that the American congress meets in December to decide whether "the imperialist policy" and "this bloody work" are to be continued. He exhorts his soldiers to conduct themselves so that congress will consider them worthy of independence, and requests the priests to abstain from politics, and to redeem the church from the bad name the misdeeds of the friars have given it.

A crisis in the Filipino cabinet is predicted, as the result of the resignation of Paterno and Buencamino, two Filipino leaders, who have lost the confidence of the rabid revolutionists.

Some Filipinos, who attempted to come to Manila with the Spanish commission, received a message from General Otis saying the women and children would be given American protection, but that the men who had cast their lots with the insurrection must remain with it. The party included the brother of General Luna, who was assassinated by the guard before Aguinaldo's house, with his family and the Filipino secretary of the treasury's family. The families returned to Tarlac.

Lieutenant Slavens, reconnoitering with 18 men in front of Angeles, discovered a Filipino outpost in a trench. The Filipinos numbered about 40 men. As the Filipinos had sighted the Americans Lieutenant Slavens' only course was to charge, and his party rushed the trench, shooting and yelling. They killed three of the insurgents, and wounded several, who, however, succeeded in escaping. Not one of the Americans was hit. The lieutenant secured valuable information about the enemy's position.

The Americans occupy Iloilo and the adjoining towns of Jaro and Molo, with 4000 men, consisting of the Eighteenth and Twenth-sixth regiments, two battalions of the Nineteenth regiment, a detachment of the Sixth regiment, and a battery of the Sixth artillery. The insurgent force is now supposed to be between 3500 and 5000 armed men, and many more unarmed. Their lines are about 800 yards from Jaro, which is occupied by the Twenty-sixth regiment. The insurgents are supposed to have five smooth-bore cannon. For a long time past they have been building trenches between Jaro and their stronghold, Santa Barbara, eight miles north.

Liabilities Are Heavy.

Portland, Me., Nov. 3.—No definite information as to the extent of the failure of the banking house of Woodbury & Moulton is obtainable, even after a day of excitement. The statement that the liabilities of the firm were likely to be $700,000, and that the assets would be nothing, is regarded by well-informed financiers as very wide of the mark. The fact that an assignment has been made indicates that the deposit money has been used up, or nearly so. The rate of interest paid for deposits has been 4 percent. More conservative banks have paid but 3 or 3½ percent.

Croker Will Be Heard.

New York, Nov. 3.—The plan of the Mazet investigating committee to adjourn yesterday until after election was upset by the appearance of Richard Croker, who demanded that he be permitted to give further testimony. Chairman Mazet decided to have an extra session today so that the Tammany chieftain could take the stand. In the light of Croker's utterances denouncing Mazet there was every reason to believe that his statement on the stand would demand an answer, and there was no time for that yesterday.

Bids Are Rather Low.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The bids for the six new cruisers opened at the navy department have been turned over to the board of construction, which will pass upon their merits before the bids are awarded. This will take perhaps two weeks. The low price of some bids was rather a surprise to the department in view of the advance in the price of material. It was said, however, that as the boats will not be completed for probably almost three years, the bidders were relying on a reduction in the price of material.

No Action on Samoa.

Washington, Nov. 3.—At the state department it is stated that the stories that negotiations for the settlement of the Samoan question were progressing rapidly in London are wholly inaccurate. If any negotiations are in progress there the United States is not concerned and has no knowledge of it. No negotiations in which this country has had a part have been conducted during the past week, and no place or time has been set for the opening of formal negotiations between the three powers.

Racing Toward Manila.

Washington, Nov. 3.— The New Orleans has arrived at Punta Delgrada, on her way to Manila. There are now four United States warships racing toward Manila, across the Atlantic and the Pacific, namely, the Brooklyn, which sailed Wednesday from Gibraltar for Port Said, the Marietta, which is somewhere between Punta Delgrada and Gibraltar; the New Orleans, reported as starting from the Azores yesterday for Gibraltar, and the Newark, which arrived on Oct. 25 at Honolulu.

A Reminder to Employers.

Boston, Nov. 3.—A circular, signed by the national secretary, James Duncan, has been issued by the Granite Cutters' National union to the employers of granite cutters throughout the country, calling attention to the action of the craft for an eight-hour day, beginning with May 1, 1900, on a basis of not less than $3 per day in all parts of the country where it is not now in use.

Highwayman Poorly Rewarded.

Providence, Nov. 3.—Two girls were held up last night in this city at the point of a pistol, and robbed of their pocketbooks, both of which contained 15 cents. The job was done by a young man, who was evidently new at the business. He escaped.

Fell Five Stories.

Providence, Nov. 3.—Frank Strickland, aged 31, a carpenter, fell down an elevator shaft five stories yesterday, and sustained severe injuries, the most serfous of which is a probable fracture of the base of the skull. He is in a hospital.

Railroad Commissioners Coming to Quincy.

The Arguments at the Hearing Yesterday.

Judge Bumpus Particularly Emphatic—Scandalous He Says.

City Solicitor Blackmur, who had the petitoners' case in his opening read the petition which he said was brought under sections 16 and 17 of chapter 112 of the Public Statutes. He requested that before the hearing closed that the railroad be requested to furnish the amount of business done, including the receipts and passengers carried to and from all of the three stations, Quincy, Wollaston and Atlantic, for any three months during the past year. Quincy was a city of 25,000 inhabitants, and the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. was the only railroad in the limits of the city. The only other means of transportation to Boston was by street cars.

The principal station in Quincy was inferior to twenty-five years ago, for then we had more freight and passenger room and but five less inward and four less outward trains than today, several of which were express, while now we have no express trains. In 1895 we had 29 trains each way while now but 24. The present depot was erected twenty-five years ago. Up to five years ago we had two stations, then one side was closed.

The interior of the present station was small, foul and badly ventilated. The closets were foul and would have been condemned by the Board of Health if there was room for a new one. The freight facilities have been curtailed and the freight house was almost surrounded by Richard's grain sheds. It was a common thing to have cars for Quincy remain at South Braintree several days before they could be unloaded at Quincy. The city has received many promises from the railroad, but nothing has been done. Not for a quarter century has any improvements been made. He had been unable to find any place of the size of Quincy, where the accommodations were so poor.

Mr. Blackmur then compared the population and train service of Quincy with Hyde Park, Milton, Dedham, Waltham and other places. It was difficult to find any stations so mean as Quincy.

The Atlantic depot was built in 1856 and the only improvement made since then was the addition of one room thirteen years ago.

At Wollaston the railroad in July, 1897, erected an unsightly fence which shut off approach to Newport avenue. He doubted if they had a right as claimed under section 15 of chapter 112. This fence was said to be an experiment. It was a detriment to the village. We do not ask for entire removal but there was no reason why an iron fence could not be used and moved in.

Mayor Keith read the grievances of the citizens, which were in the main the same as those cited by Mr. Blackmur. The Quincy station was used by citizens of Ward One and Two and by many from Weymouth and summer residents of Houghs Neck. Before the change of running cars from the left to the right side we had twice the room as now. The reputation of the city is being injured by the railroad. He then recounted the action taken by previous councils for better accommodations, etc. Trains at intervals of one hour were inadequate. It was often the case where passengers had to stand, and in support of this remark he cited the train upon which he came to Boston where many had to stand. He also spoke of the Wollaston fence and the hideous eyesore it was. Sale of real estate were prevented.

In reply to a question by Mr. Blackmur he said he had several conferences with the railroad and promises made had not been fulfilled. They promised to move the fence when the frost was out of the ground, but later when he saw them he was informed that they had changed their mind.

Counsel Farnum called Mayor Keith's attention to the petition to widen Newport avenue which would take a strip of the railroad's land and would bring the street up to the fence. Allusion having been made that the land was given the railroad, Mr. Farnum asked Mayor Keith if he did not know the railroad had bought and paid for the land for station grounds.

Mayor Keith replied that he understood the land had been given.

Hon. E. C. Bumpus hoped this matter would not be put one side on account of this fence. While it is an eyesore we are here by compulsion as we can get nothing from the railroad which is neglecting Quincy for the benefit of other places. Quincy is in a most scandalous condition today. The infernal railroad is enough to drive anyone out of town. It was amazing that the railroad which wants our aid can do nothing for us. He never saw a worse condition of things anywhere in the world when you take the surroundings, than Quincy, and he had traveled all over this country and England. He did not think in thirty years, other than a new plank or perhaps a scheme to make the water closet a little more offensive, that the railroad had expended $5 to improve this station.

In five minutes' time they could fix that fence. They need to be talked to. As a citizen, he could say in the name of common humanity, we need and ought to have a change. If you can find a virtue at the Quincy station other than the employes he would be most happy to know what it was.

Counsel Farnum asked if this was testimony or argument, but the Chairman of the Board ruled it was proper.

Judge Bumpus then particularized, speaking of the nasty unwashed windows of the unused station on the west side. The smell inside the gentlemen's room of the station in use would drive you out. In the rear building was what was supposed to be a water closet. There was not a thing that indicated modern requirements. The station was not large enough and was unsightly.

Counsel Farnum said the railroad is willing to have that building removed if the city so desires it.

Ex-Mayor Adams spoke of the efforts he had made for better accommodations when in office, but which were unsuccessful. The station is not adequate, it is ill-heated, ill-ventilated and as an expert in real estate he could say it was a great injury to the growth and development of Quincy. We have been asked to wait and we have been waiting and have got nothing. We have some rights which the railroad should recognize. Hourly train service was not adequate. At times he had not seen cars enough to accommodate passengers.

Clarence Burgin spoke of the need of more trains between 9 A. M. and 3 P. M. We should at least have half hour service then. Half the time on the 9.12 inward train he was obliged to stand, and at other times could not find a seat outside of the smoking car. He had found the 10.12 not so crowded and ample acommodations on the 1.28 outward, but had stood on the 12.28 outward train. The station at Quincy was not proper. He never used it on account of the foul air.

Officer George A. Cameron said that he and another officer had counted the passengers at the Quincy station on Oct. 28 and Oct. 30. On the former date between 6.12 A. M. to 7.12 P.M., 1,513 persons took the inward trains and 1,352 persons came out. On Oct. 30, 114 passengers took the 9.12 A. M. train for Boston.

Hon. John F. Merrill told of the many inconveniences he had been put to at the freight house. The facilities were worse today than twenty years ago, as additional buildings of the grain store had taken some of the room. The officials did all they could but it was impossible to get freight some times for two or three days.

Councilman Packard also told of his troubles at the freight house. For the past two or three years part of the platform had been occupied by blocks of granite. One block fell from the platform to the road two years ago and it had been there ever since. One had been a resident of the platform for five years.

Harvey A. Pratt resides part of the year at Wollaston. He thought it surprising that people should be compelled to come before this board to tell the railroad what it should do. He then spoke of what he called that hideous fence. It was not necessary to protect life as the trains now run. If we are to have a fence put one up equal to the dignity of the community. The present stockade would be all right out at the Brighton arbitor. The railroad knows enough and has money enough, and there was no reason why it should maintain it. He would suggest an ornamental wire fence with a wide gate. Turnstiles were a delusion and a snare.

George H. Brown told of the effect of the present station upon the value of real estate. It was a serious matter as many sales were lost by inadequate accomodations. He also spoke of the need of more trains and more cars.

William B. Glover said in 1856 the railroad offered if people of Atlantic would raise $500 it would build an $1800 depot. He raised the money and Mr. Hathaway gave the land. The only addition was made twenty or thirty years ago when a ladies' room was built on. In 1894 he with Mr. Moxon saw the management and were told by Supt. Allen we would have a new station the following spring.

At this point the hearing adjourned.

The Railroad Commissioners accompanied by the petitioners and railroad officials will view the several stations mentioned in the petition Thursday, Nov. 9, and will leave Boston on a special train at 2.30.

SHIP FOR WOMEN ONLY.

Federation of Clubs Will Visit Paris In Style.

A PERSONALLY CONDUCTED TOUR.

They Will Visit Several European Countries Before Descending on Paris—Most Brilliant Women In the World Are Expected to Be Present at the Fair and Make Speeches.

The women of the General Federation of Clubs will go to the Paris exposition in style. They will charter a vessel to carry their numerous party from New York to Southampton, starting in July, 1900.

It is not yet determined whether the husbands of the married women will be permitted to accompany them. The boat is already being affectionately spoken of as "Her" and "She"—capitalized.

The tourists will visit England, Scotland, Germany, Holland and Switzerland before reaching Paris in the first week of September. They will return to this country probably from a German port. The tour is "personally conducted," and any member of the General Federation of Clubs is welcome to go on it. Already many applications on this very exclusive steamer have been made.

The woman's building at the Paris exposition is an accomplished fact, and the Federation's exhibit will be fine and thorough. Mrs. William Tod Helmuth, president of the State Federation, is chairman of the exposition committee. The educational, philanthropic and industrial work accomplished by the various clubs will be systematically shown, and the photographs of the leaders of the great body and of their clubhouses will be hung in the woman's building.

MRS. WILLIAM TOD HELMUTH.

The mammoth convention of women will be one of the features of the exposition, and the doors will be thrown open to those who are not members of the Federation of Clubs. It is expected that the ablest women in the world will make addresses at the convention.

The local French committee has issued a circular, pleading for woman's further emancipation from her social and civic limitations. Its creed is thus set forth:

"This congress, being designed above all as a medium of progress, peace and union, is organized on the broadest principles. While our platform excludes sectarian discussion, all associations based upon justice and fraternity will be cordially welcomed irrespective of religious conviction."

Mlle. Sarah Monod is the president, Mme. Pegard secretary general and Mme. Maria Martin treasurer. The officers are mainly women well known in literary and philanthropic work.

BIG GERMAN AIRSHIP.

Plan of the Latest European Attempt Toward Aerial Navigation.

Major Baden-Powell of the British army, in a report describing a visit to a dockyard in which a German airship was being constructed, says:

"I was immensely impressed on entering a great wooden building erected on a floating raft to see what appeared to be the slender skeleton of a huge vessel. This vessel appeared as big as the most powerful battleship, but was constructed of such delicate material as to suggest a stupendous birdcage. This, which is made entirely of aluminium, is the framework on which the outer skin will be stretched. Inside a number of large balloons will be placed. Underneath were a gallery and cars, all made of aluminium.

"There are also engines which, it is hoped, will drive the vessel through the air at a speed of 22 miles an hour. The total lifting capacity of the airship will be about ten tons, which will be sufficient for it to carry enough stores and ballast to remain in the air for some days. Seventy thousand pounds has been spent by the commission, which include the leading scientific experts."

Kansas Girls Have a Grievance.

The young women of Kansas have a righteous grievance. It is current report that at least 200 of the Kansas fighters will marry California girls, which means that 200 highly desirable catches must come from the visible supply, and 200 Kansas girls must be satisfied with the common run of youth who have yet to establish a record. The Kansas girls, especially those who have taken vows to marry none but members of the "fighting Twentieth," have a just cause for complaint, but the California girl appears to hold the "edge."

Needs Some Rough Riders.

England may not be obliged to borrow any money, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, but she will probably ask Uncle Sam to lend her the pattern for organizing a regiment of rough riders.

THE KISS PATROL.

One of the Latest Stories Told About Admiral Dewey.

"While I was up in New York during the Dewey celebration," said a federal official, "I had an interesting talk with an old friend of mine who is in the secret service and who was there on special detail to look after some of the distinguished guests. Just how many government detectives were on hand nobody knows except Chief Wilkie, and he isn't apt to tell, but there were enough to put a very prompt quietus on any crank or indiscreet enthusiast who might have been inclined to make things unpleasant.

"It seems that Dewey had a particular dread of being kissed. He probably remembered how poor Hobson had been osculated into obscurity, and the first thing he asked of the members of the arrangement committee who boarded the Olympia in the bay was that all females who looked as if they had intentions should be kept at a distance.

"The committee pledged him the honor of New York that he would be protected, but they realized at once that they had the biggest kind of a contract on their hands. It is no easy job to guard a hero against chaste salutes. It would never do to tell every lady who came to be presented that she mustn't kiss the admiral, for nine-tenths of them would certainly regard such a caution as a downright insult. Then, too, the thing is so quickly done! It might be all over before Dewey could yell for help. The only plan was sleepless vigilance, and it was exercised to the limit.

"When a woman was spotted who looked as if she might be meditating a rush and a smack, she would suddenly find herself carried backward into the throng. It seemed like the natural swaying of the crowd, and how it really happened could only have been explained by the dozen or more quiet gentlemen in citizens' clothes who always bobbed up mysteriously whenever the admiral halted in his triumphal progress. They had several bad scares; but, taken altogether, the kiss patrol was a huge success. It was the first time on record that the government ever ordered a blockade on human lips."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Gifts For Dewey.

"Well," said the patriotic farmer, "ef Dewey ain't comfortable when cold weather sets in, all I've got to say is it won't be our fault! Gran'mother's half blind, but she's done knitted him six pair of woolen socks, my ole woman has made him a quilt, with the star spangled banner in the middle, the two gals has made him a flannel muffler, I've bought him a pair of jeans britches an the ole shoemaker has kilt his only cow to git a pair of shoes fer him out of the hide!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Tenacious Tenant.

Worth Reading.

To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

Good Afternoon.

The Norfolk County Teachers' Association will make a mistake to dissolve. It would be almost prima facia evidence that one of the objects of the annual convention was to get away from school. They attend lectures, etc., on Saturdays why not a convention?

Make it a point to see your next door neighbor between now and election day and induce him to go to the polls and vote. Quincy's representation in convention's will depend upon the size of the vote polled this year. This is important. If we do not want the rest of the county to outvote this city in the state and county conventions now is the time to get in our work.

The city of Quincy will go slow in urging the abolishment of grade crossings when it realizes the situation in Hyde Park. When too late the city may find that it cannot back out if it would, and that it will have to pay an assessment out of all proportion to the benefit. When anything is done by the railroad, one crossing will not be considered alone, but the whole line between the Neponset river and the Braintree line. The railroad would undoubtedly like a little help in relocating the Atlantic street and the Hancock street overhead bridges, the widening of the other six bridges for four tracks, and the building of new bridges at Water street, Warren avenue and Brook street. It is an improvement which the city cannot now afford, and should not be encouraged. We want other things more.

Another principal of a Quincy school has purchased a house out of town for a residence. In these days, when there is considerable opposition to the employment of non-resident teachers, the step is like throwing a red flag in the face of an enraged bull. If Quincy is a good enough city for a man to teach at a good salary, it should be a good enough place for him to live and pay taxes. A teacher is expected to teach loyalty to country and the city, quite as much as scheduled studies, and he should have a familiarity with city governments rather than town governments, and be in touch with the people. Now that two of the nine grammar school principals have elected the tax-dodging town of Milton as a residence, it is time that the School Committee took a hand. We would not advocate a rule requiring all teachers to be residents, but would require principals who have lived in Quincy to continue their residence here.

If one department can transfer money at its pleasure to another, in any sum it wishes, there is no way in which to confine an officer within his apropriation and the purposes of taxpayers and City Council are thwarted. The sum transferred by the Sewer Commissioners to the Commissioner of Public Works is excessively large. If it was to be used wholly for the purposes for which it is appropriated, there might not be that objection to it that now seems positive. It is very certain that $5,000 has not already been spent in 1899 upon resurfacing streets opened for sewers and whatever may have been expended, it is very certain that the balance will not be so used There are outstanding bills against the Commissioner of Public Works incurred under the appropriation for "Miscellaneous expenses for streets, including maintenance of horses and purchase of tools," which will be paid from this windfall, and when the year goes out the $5,000 will be exhausted and many of the streets opened for sewers left in the same wretched condition that they are today.

Last month the Ledger noted that the Auditor's report showed a balance of $225.47 to the credit for the Street appropriation on Oct 1. The Nov. 1 statement is not out, but inquiry of the City Auditor discloses the fact that the balance Nov. 1 was $222,08. This shows an expenditure of $3.39 during the month of October. Anyone who has observed what is being done on our streets outside of special appropriations, knows that much more than this amount was incured.

The testimony offered at the hearing before the Railroad Commissioners is reported at some length in this issue. The situation seems to have been well covered, and some were quite earnest, but none more so than the exigences demand. Not until the real estate men testified did we realize so fully the great injury which the train service and the depot were to Quincy, but it must be admitted that they knew what they were talking about. For some months it has been difficult to get tenants for desirable houses Something has caused a shrinkage in real estate values, and many have suffered. The freight facilities are wretched, and one can place no dependence on the time freight will arrive or when it can can be shipped. There have been so many changes in the management of the railroad, and so many great improvements in progress at Boston, Brockton, Forest Hills and Readville, that it may not be surprising that Quincy was overlooked. We now believe that the road will be willing to remedy the many evils which have been brought to their attention.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ He who helps a child, helps humanity with a distinctness, with an immediateness, which no other help given to human creatures in any other stage of their human life can possibly give again.—Phillips Brooks.

☞ Cambridge now knows what it costs the city to furnish street car rides for members of the City Council. There is a big discrepancy in the figures that shows that some members either had a great deal more business to attend to for the city than others, or else traveled on their personal accommodation at the expense of the treasury.—Lynn Item.

☞ Our next census will show a population of about seventy-five millions. To complete this count within the required thirty days about fifty thousand census enumerators will be employed. It will be necessary for them to count at the rate of two and a half million persons per day, or even faster. The population of all cities and towns of over eight thousand must be enumerated within a period of two weeks.

☞ The newspaper is practical, not theoretical, reading. It treats of live topics, of vital issues, and the children can see the difference between it and the dry text books. ☞ The launching of the new torpedo boat Shubrick from a private shipyard on the James river, to be followed by those of two other torpedo boats and of two destroyers, made by the same firm, is a striking evidence of the change that has come over the south since the work of her regeneration was commenced by the civil war. It is a good deal better than the industry of Virginia before the war, which was chiefly the breeding of Negroes to work as slaves in the cotton fields of the gulf states.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ Samuel Johnson wrote: "The first years of a man must make provision for the last." The average young man of the present generation adopts another policy—the first years are for pleasure; let the future take care of itself. The more he earns the more he can spend, and of course he expects to always be blessed with good health, and therefore a steady income from his labor. As intimated by the writer mentioned above, this is discounting the future. Strength and health of youth should be utilized for providing for old age. It is the old story of "providing for the rainy day." In good times we should cancel every debt. But some only learn from experience and others never learn.—Fibre and Fabric.

A NEW MASTER.

Veteran of Spanish War Elected by Rural Lodge.

The annual communication of Rural lodge, F. and A. M., was held Thursday evening. The report of the secretary showed an increase in membership. and the report of the treasurer showed an increase in the fund. The trustees of the charity fund also reported more money on hand, although large expenditures had been made.

These officers were unanimously elected:

W. M.—William H. Whitney.

S. W.,—F. W. Brett of South Braintree.

J. W.,—Herbert F. Pierce.

Secretary,—Walter E. Simmons of Wollaston.

Treasurer,—E. W. H. Bass.

There will be a public installation of the officers elect and appointive on Thursday evening, Nov. 23, when the ladies will be entertained and a banquet served.

Worshipful Master-elect Whitney is a Quincy born young man about 34 years of age. He became a Master Mason May 5, 1892, during the successful term of Wor. Bro. Hammond, and has been in office in Rural lodge almost continually since, being promoted chair by chair.

He was an officer in Co. K of the Fifth Mass. Militia at the outbreak of the war with Spain and promptly enlisted as a volunteer in the spring of 1898, and remained in service until his regiment was discharged. Members of Rural lodge presented him with a handsome sword soon after his enlistment, and while he was at the front reelected him Senior Warden.

Mr. Whitney is a son of Adam Whitney, and has lately accepted an appointment as assistant superintendent of the West Roxbury and Roslindale street railway.

Clare Discharged.

The complaint against Mr. James P. Clare of this city, for making a false return respecting the financial condition of the Hatch Storage Battery Company, was dismissed by Judge Dewey in the municipal court of Boston yestertay. It was alleged that Mr. Clare wilfully omitted from the return a note of $4,000 and sundry small items of indebtedness for goods purchased. It appeared, in respect to these items, that the goods were delivered at the factory only one or two days prior to March 1st, the date of the return; that the regular course of business was to have the goods examined at the factory, compared with the itemized bills, and to forward the bills to the company's office in Boston. The bills for these goods were not received at the office until after the filing of the return. Judge Dewey stated, in rendering his decision, that the evidence about these items made no impression whatever upon his mind.

Respecting the note, it appeared that although it was signed "Hatch Storage Battery Company," by its president and secretary, it was not contemplated that it should be paid by the company. It was to be paid under an agreement entered into by the principal stockholders of the Hatch company, whereby each agreed to contribute shares of stock, for sale, for that purpose'—the then market value of the stock so contributed exceeding the face of the note. It also a peared that prior to the filling of the return, Mr. Clare consulted the council of the company, made a full disclusure to him of all the facts, and was advised that the note was not a company indebtedness. The judge held that whether the note was, or was not, as matter of law, a company liability, the fact that Mr. Clare acted upon the advice of the company's counsel relieved him of any suspicion of not acting in good faith in making the return.

It also appeared that Mr Clare has assigned certain patent interests to the Hatch Storage Battery Company, the assignment containing a clause to the effect that whenever the company should cease to manufacture under the patents, Mr. Clare's interests should revert to him. The company has ceased manufacture and the patents have reverted to Mr. Clare; and this attempt at criminal prosecution is one of a series of attempts, made by certain discarded and discredited directors of the Hatch Company, to compel Mr. Clare to assign his interests to them.

The action of Judge Dewey who dismissed the complaint summarily, without argument by Mr. Clare's counsel, although the nominal counsel for the government made the most forcible argument which an empty case permitted, is only what was anticipated by all the business and personal connections of Mr. Clare.

—Mrs. Smith, teacher of music in the public schools, will be at the Greenleaf, Tuesdays and Wednesdays of November. She will be glad to meet parents desiring to learn more definitely in regard to the classes to be formed in Musical Kindergarten for the pianoforte.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

It started in to rain last night about 10 o'clock and it rained.

Mr. Amos T. Leavitt of Wollaston has been in poor health the past fortnight.

Mr. Henry Cunningham has moved from Oakman's block to Squantum street.

Wonder how Officer Dave Barry likes being called "the old Scotch sergeant," as he is designated in a morning paper?

The new house of Thomas Gearin on South street begins to loom up. It is bu l on high ground, is all boarded in and, will be finished before cold weather sets in.

The word "snow" has made its appearance in the weather predictions. The morning forecast said rain, possibly changing to snow flurries this afternoon or tonight.

Miss Grace Spear entertained a number of her young friends last Saturday with a theatre party at the Castle Square. Her mother, Mrs. Horace F. Spear, chaperoned the party.

The Merry Makers, a society of young ladies connected with the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday School, held a candy sale at the home of Miss Mildred Huston on Friday afternoon.

It seems strange that the City Hospital should allow such a good house to be sold as that on Coddington street when, by moving it a little way it would clear the line. The house is in good repair.

There was a presentation at the meeting of Maple lodge on Wednesday evening and one which the members prize, — a large portrait of Past Dictator Charles A. Foster, a valued member.

Rev. Judson Smith, D. D., who has lately returned from China, is to be the speaker at the Memorial church, Atlantic, tomorrow evening. An interesting service is expected.

The Ledger called attention a few days ago to the hollow place in the sidewalk on Hancock street in front of Brogan's barber shop. The hollow has now been filled by a load of crushed stone.

Near Newcomb Square is a handsome grove called in the neighborhood "Pine Pasture." During last winter's storms over 125 of the trees were blown down. Now they are being trimmed up and are to be towed around to Town river, and it is said they are to be used for a pier at Hanley's boat house.

The Social Democrats held another rally Friday evening which was very largely attended. W. T. Richards presided and addresses were made by Representative James F. Carey of Haverhill and candidates John A. Lamb and Philip J. Halvosa.

The work of widening Coddington street goes on quite slowly, and it now looks as if cold freezing weather would get here before the work is completed. It will be a great improvement when done and many will wonder why it was not commenced sooner.

Many who wish to protect their fruit and other trees from the canker worms have commenced putting tree ink about the trunks to prevent the millers from crawling up the bark. It is full time as cold, frosty nights will soon be here, which are sure to start the insects. Morrill's tree ink in cans is for sale at this office.

Last Sunday morning at the Methodist church Rev. W. W. Constein preached an appropriate sermon from "Other sheep I have, which are not of this fold" after which three were received into full membership and one upon probation. A strong choir has been organized with Mrs. Constein as organist. At the service next Sunday morning the junior choir will sing.

None Could Down Bogey.

Lester H. Monk of the Wollaston Golf club was the winner of the tournament of the Country Club on Friday, being aided by a handicap of 10. It was an open competition against bogey in which over 60 took part.

Two players with handicaps of 8 and 9, had 2 down, and Thorp and Lockwood the scratch men 3 down, and 36 had 7 or less down including J. J. H. Smith, G. E. Atherton, Jr., R. R. Freeman, and C. B. Cary of Wollaston. In medal play Atherton was fourth, Smith fifth, Freeman sixth and Monk eighth.

GLENWOOD RANGES.

The finest bakers in all the world. American Brains and American genius are always on top. These Glenwood Ranges are as much different from the range you have been using, as night is unlike day.

It takes at least half an hour to heat an oven in an ordinary range. It takes about 5 minutes to heat a Glenwood oven. You cook your food in half the time, and cook it as you never cooked before. You save your coal and time and never spoil your cooking. Think of the saving a Glenwood Range means to you.

Reception at Thayer.

The class of 1901 gave a reception in the gymnasium at the Thayer Academy last evening from 7.30 to 9.30 o'clock. Dr. William Gallagher, the head master, Miss Thompson, teacher of history, Miss French daughter of the chairman of the Board of Trustees, Miss Agnes Gallagher, and Mr. Merton Emerson for the class of 1901, formally received the guests. Light refreshments were served, and instrumental music afforded an informal entertainment. A large number of representative people were present from Braintree and the surrounding towns, showing the cordial and appreciative feeling of this section of the state for the Thayer Academy. Dr. Gallagher, his assistants and the students deserve much credit for taking this way of bringing the Academy into intimate relations with our people.

The reception closed with dancing by the young people. Miss Pray provided piano music for the dancing.

Does Your Baking Powder Contain Alum?

Prof. Geo. F. Barker, M. D., University of Penn.: "All the constituents of alum remain (from alum baking powders) in the bread, and the alum itself is reproduced to all intents and purposes when the bread is dissolved by the gastric juice in the process of digestion. I regard the use of alum as highly injurious."

Dr. Alonzo Clark: "A substance (alum) which can derange the stomach should not be tolerated in baking powder."

Prof. W. G. Tucker, New York State Chemist: "I believe it (alum) to be decidedly injurious when used as a constituent of food articles."

Prof. S. W. Johnson, Yale College: "I regard their (alum and soluble alumina salts) introduction into baking powders as most dangerous to health."

In view of such testimony as this, every care must be exercised by the housewife to exclude the over and over condemned cheap, alum baking powders from the food.

Baking powders made from cream of tartar, which is highly refined grape acid, are promotive of health, and more efficient. No other kind should be used in leavening food. Royal Baking Powder is the highest example of a pure cream of tartar powder.

CONVENTIONS.

Norfolk County Teachers' Association May Disband.

The 53d, and what may be the last, annual convention of the Norfolk County Teachers' Association met in Lorimer Hall yesterday, with a large attendance. The most novel feature of the session, says the Herald, was the appointment of a committee to consider whether the association is worthy of existence or ought to be discontinued.

At the business meeting, in the early afternoon, it was proposed to hold the next convention on Saturday, and thus refute the criticism that has come from some superintendents that the teeachers go to their convention to get a holiday and gain a day away from school.

A feeling has also gained some ground throughout the county, according to one member that spoke, that the teachers ought to use their own time rather than that for which they are paid to work. When the association was formed many years ago there were few opportunities for teachers to assemble and discuss their calling. But now the institutes managed by the state board of education meet this want and there is less demand for the association than formerly. The officers of the association were at length made a committee to decide on continuing the association.

President Roderick W. Hine called the meeting to order at 9.45 A. M. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Walker of Dedham, and then Edwin D. Mead exalted the teachers' function in the community and appealed for a higher type of patriotism.

After the reports Miss Sarah J. Walter of the Willimantic normal school read a paper on primary arithmetic, and Andrew J. George of Newton discussed "Aims in the Study of Literature."

In the afternoon the following officers were elected:

Councillors, — Samuel F. Dutton, Brookline; Miss Ruth E. Hubbard, Franklin; Arthur W. Armstrong, Hyde Park; Miss Martha E. Park, East Walpole.

Secretary,—Miss Dorcas C. Higgins, Brookline.

Treasurer,—Joseph Belcher, Randolph.

The first address of the afternoon was by Walter Sargent of Littleton upon "The Response to the Picture." He said that the glamor and superior beauty seen in old world cities and scenery is dua principally to the popular appreciation of those beauties, due to the description of those things, the many pictures painted of them, so that people think of Venice and Florence as artistic and beautiful. After 200 years, when Boston artists and poets have brought the people to appreciate its beauties, they will look upon the dominating dome of the State House above the Charles and know that Boston is as beautiful as if it were an old city of Europe.

Col. Francis W. Parker of Chicago, who revolutionized the Quincy school system, years ago, gave an interesting address upon "Education Into Citizenship." The first thing demanded of education, said he, should be physical health, but I know of no school or institution where health is the first object, except sanitariums, and they come in only after the injury has been done. Helpfulness, trustworthiness, good taste, a correct vocation fitting for the best life, these were things described as of supreme importance in education. The culmination of all education is patriotism.

Fire at East Braintree.

At eighteen minutes past one o'clock this morning box 26 of East Braintree was rung in for a fire on Mill lane followed by a second alarm in fourteen minutes.

The fire was at the Victor Metal and Foundry Company's Works, cause unknown. It started in the basement of the old structure formerly owned by Henry Gardner and known as the Fan Works. Our East Braintree department was at the fire very promptly and had it under control when the Braintree department arrived.

While fighting the fire in the cellar Mr. Battles fell into a pit about five feet deep and F. O. Whitmarsh jumped in to get him out and received in so doing a bad cut on his forehead.

Seven stitches had to be taken but we can not state, in going to press, his condition.

HYDE PARK NIPPED.

An Enormous Bill for Abolishing Grade Crossings.

Upon the outskirts of the town of Hyde Park is the little village of Readville. Great railroad changes have recently been made there, almost wholly for the benefit of the railroads, and now Hyde Park learns of a big assessment. The Gazette says:

It is a matter that is of the most serious moment to our town. It is the fact that Hyde Park is called upon to pay the enormous sum of $127,000 for the abolition of the grade crossings in Readville, an enterprise, if it may be so-called, that has resulted in wiping that section of our town almost entirely off the map, and which has given no earthly benefit to the community. The Consolidated railroad has alone benefitted by this movement, and now the town of Hyde Park is called upon to pay the enormous sum above mentioned, a burden that is at once apparent in view of the great demands made by the Metropolitan and local sewerage and Park Reservation schemes.

"If there were any legislative hearings in regard to this grade crossing project we do not recall that there was any publicity given to the matter, but we do know that when the plans to be carried out reached the railroad commissioners the selectmen and the town's attorney did appear before that board and strenuously objected against the plans and estimates submitted by the railroad as unjust to the town. There were several hearings before the commissioners, in all of which the town officials appeared, and which finally resulted in the adoption of the plans submitted by the railroad.

"The town of Hyde Park had plans, submitted by its engineer, Mr. Blake, which were practicable and less expensive, but the railroad company carried the day under its authority from the legisature, and the result is the town has to help to pay the bills out of all proportion to benefits derived. It is a cruel injustice to the town but there is now no remedy. Town Treasurer Bunton had already received notice that the first payment of $8,873.14 will be due on December 1, and it will be paid as the amount has been provided for in this year's tax levy. The town's proportion must be paid within twenty years."

The weekly rehearsal of the Union Choral society was not held Tuesday evening on account of the rain. It is hoped there will be a full meeting at the rehearsal next Wednesday evening.

THE FATE OF COLENSO

Causing Some Anxiety Among Officials of the British War Office.

Buller's Forces May Have to Fight Their Way to Interior.

London, Nov. 4.—Not a ward has reached the war office from Ladysmith and England is prepared for the worst. The officials say they think the railroad is still open, but admit that the report from Paris that the Boers have seized Colenso, thus closing the line, may be true.

It is a fact that Paris has had the news from the front long ahead of this city, and bearing this fact in mind everyone is prepared for the worst. Many charge the government with deliberately holding back the news.

The reason Paris hears the news so much earlier than London is explained by the fact that consular messages are sent through uncensored. In other words, the news is supposed to come from consular or official circles in the French capital.

One bit of news that has come in from South Africa is seriously alarming. In substance it is that English soldiers must not only fight the Boers, but the most dreaded disease of modern times—the plague. A cable announcing three cases of the disease at Bingersdorp, Cape Colony, came in last night.

This dispatch has caused a great deal of worry, for camp life in that country and the constant moving of troops will tend to spread the disease to a most alarming extent. It is not stated, however, that any of the troops are yet affected.

If, as reported, Colenso has fallen, the situation as regards Ladysmith is really critical, for it means that whatever relief Buller may send will have to fight its way in from the shore.

Colenso is Joubert's natural objective point, since the destruction of the railway bridge over the Tugela river would effectually prevent the passage of reinforcements to Ladysmith. If this bridge be strongly guarded, there are other bridges below Colenso which could be approached from the Orange Free State passes by raiders.

Joubert has concentrated the Boer forces slowly, and has shown little energy in completing the investment of Ladysmith by closing the gap toward the sea. White's friends assert that this movement of the Boers was deferred by Monday's operations, and that this was the chief motive of the British attack.

The war office yesterday moved to further strengthen Buller by ordering the mobilization of 20 more regiments, beginning Nov. 20.

The accounts that continue to arrive regarding the fighting on Farquhar's farm only confirm its serious nature and the narrow escape General White had. It now appears as if it were only the arrival of the naval contingent from the Powerful which prevented a worse disaster. It seems that, when it was seen that retirement was imperative, two Natal cavalrymen volunteered to convey a dispatch across the Boer lines to Major Adye, ordering him to retire, but the risk was considered too great, and flag signalling was employed instead.

The distance was too great, and the ground too rough, for cavalry to go to his assistance.

According to a dispatch filed on Tuesday, defensive works were being used on the hills around Ladysmith. The Boers were threatening to attack the town in force on Wednesday and Thursday, and the women, children and other non-combatants were being sent by train to the south.

A dispatch from Colesberg, dated Nov. 1, announces that six police, who were stationed at Colesberg bridge, were surrounded and captured. This is probably the origin of the story that the Boers had occupied Colesberg.

The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from Ladysmith, dated Wednesday morning: Matters today are quiet. The Boers are apparently mounting more heavy guns to the north and northeast, which are likely to give us trouble. A Boer contingent, 1500 strong, and clearly visible from the camp, is streaming away to the south. The inhabitants of Ladysmith continue to leave the town.

General Buller is still at Cape Town, and it is not likely that he will leave for a few days.

It is rumored that martial law will be proclaimed at Cape Town.

At Plymouth it is rumored that the channel squadron will be ordered to the Cape, where a great naval force is to be collected, with a view to establishing a cordon from the mouth of the Orange river to Delagoa bay, to prevent the landing of supplies for the enemy, and with a view, also, if necessary, of landing guns to assist the British forces.

Paris and Berlin continue to supply statements of British reverses, the latest being that Mafeking has fallen.

There are persistent rumors of a steady advance of the Boer command through Zululand in the direction of Greytown, whence it will be in a position to threaten Pietermaritzburg. It is stated that a relief column for Kimberley would be sent to Deaar Junction.

The Outlook announces that Lady Randolph Churchill is going to the Cape to attend the wounded.

The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail says: I learn that the Transvaal and Free State governments, before the war, placed large orders with the gun makers at Lecreusot, but that not all the weapons could be delivered, owing to the suddenness with which hostilities began. The guns the Boers are actually using are Creusot's 75-milimetre quick-firers and 155-milimetre seige and garrison guns—all mounted on light carriages and adapted in every possible way for use over muddy roads.

REACHED HIGHEST MARK.

Brads'reet's Reports That Trade In October Was Beyond Precedent.

New York, Nov. 4.—Bradstreet's says: Despite some variation in the currents of trade distribution the aggregate movement continues of immense volume; in fact, if the aggregate of bank clearings in the country outside of the metropolis is a trustworthy index, as it no doubt is, the country's trade reached its highest mark in October. Prices certainly show marked strength in view of the proportions of earlier advances.

Cooler weather has been welcomed by the retail trade of the country, and some stimulus has already been noted, alike to distribution and to the confidence of distributors. In some lines of wholesale trade, notably dry goods, there has been some quieting of demand without, however, any perceptible effect being exercised upon values of textiles which, in fact, are more firmly held than ever. It has indeed been a record period in the wool trade, sales at leading centers having exceeded all records for the week and the strength alike of the raw and the manufactured material is most marked.

Cotton goods are also very strong, partly on the extraordinary demand and partly because of the strength of the raw material, imparted by small receipts and growing confidence in ultimate light yield.

In the iron and steel trade strength of values is perhaps the most notable feature, but activity has been transferred from the finished branch of the trade to the market for pig iron, which has been very active at full prices. Interest in the ore situation is unabated and a heavy advance on last season is regarded as certain.

Influenced by the activity in the boot and shoe manufacturing and distributive trade leather is strong and tends upward, and some advances in hides are also reported.

In general industry employment continues apparently general, specially active features being the textile trades, those of iron and steel, machinery, jewelry, coal mining and coke production.

October bank clearings point to continued expansion in the trade of the country outside of New York. The aggregate clearings at all cities for the month have been several times exceeded in the past year, but, if New York's clearings are deducted, it is found that the aggregate in the rest of the country during October was the largest ever reported.

Liabilities Grow Larger.

Portland, Me., Nov. 4.—It is still largely surmised as to the condition of things in the Woodbury-Moulton failure. There have been no authoritative statements, but developments tend to make the liabilities more and the assets less. It has been stated on what appears to be good authority that the deposits with the firm amounted to $570,000. A greater part of whatever securities the concern owned appear to have been put up as collateral for loans. Both members of the firm have transferred their real and personal property to the assignees, but the Woodbury assignment was not signed by Mrs. Woodbury, indicating that she has not released her rights in the property under the state law.

Death of Aged Bishop.

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 4.—Right Rev. Bishop Louis De Goesbriand of the diocese of Burlington, for many years the head of the Catholic church in Vermont, died at the St. Joseph Orphans' home, which had been his residence for several years, last evening. The cause of his death was old age. Bishop De Goesbriand, in early life, devoted his life to the mission cause, and he had experienced all the hardships which have ever been the lot of those who marched in the forefront of civilization. Louis De Goesbriand was born at St. Urbain, in the diocese of Juniper, in the Catholic province of Brittany, France, Aug. 4, 1816.

The Outlook In Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 4.—Chairman Dick of the Republican state committee gives out the following statement, forecasting the result in Ohio: "The result is fully satisfactory from a Republican standpoint. The largest vote ever polled in a state campaign will be cast, approximating 950,000. Conceding Mr. Jones from 75,000 to 100,000 votes, Judge Nash's plurality will not be less than 50,000 in the state. The legislature will be Republican in both branches." Chairman Seward of the Democratic committee has so far declined to make any statement.

Professor Herron Resigns.

Grinnell, Ia., Nov. 4.—Professor George D. Herron has resigned his position as professor of applied Christianity in Iowa college here, because his opinions on the rights of property and other matters are obnoxious to the friends and supporters of the institution. The resignation has been accepted by the trustees and will take effect at the end of the college year.

Miniature Flood at Providence.

Providence, Nov. 4.—A 30-inch water main, supplying the business section of the city, burst last evening, and flooded several streets in the business centre. The break occurred just before the last business houses closed for the day, and at some street crossings temporary bridges had to be provided for the accommodation of pedestrians.

Bongbong Captured.

Manila, Nov. 4.—Chase's troops of the Third cavalry, and Rivers' troops of the Fourth cavalry swam the river and surrounded the garrison at Bongbong, entering the town. The enemy escaped. Six rifles and a quantity of ammunition were captured. Castner's scouts had a skirmish with the insurgents near Aliaga, killing five.

THE MARGIN OF PROFIT

Will Come Later, However, If Business Improves.

Disappointment In Labor Circles Is Tempered by an Implied Promise.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 4.—The hopes of Fall River's mill population were dashed to the ground late yesterday afternoon as a result of the special meeting of the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' association, called to consider the demand for an increase of 10 percent, made by their employes through the Textile council at the conference held last Monday with a special committee of the Manufacturers' association.

The manufacturers voted not to grant the increase at the present time, tempering it, however, with the statement that, should the market conditions warrant it, an increase may be granted later.

The meeting was called to order by President Chase shortly after 2:30 o'clock and adjournment was had at 4 p. m. The decision of the members was given out as practically a unanimous one, but the whole matter was thoroughly discussed before a final decision was reached. The manufacturers, at the conclusion of the meeting, gave out the following vote, which was passed just before its conclusion:

"Voted—That it is the sense of the meeting that an advance of wages at this time is inexpedient, in view of the fact that the margin between the cost of print cloths is no more than it was when the advance of 12½ percent of April last was made and the present scale of wages adopted.

"Should business improve so that the margin of profit will warrant it, an advance of wages will be made, but we believe that any advance at the present time would be premature."

The special committee which met the Textile council in conference was also given power to prepare a sliding scale of wages. An attempt had previously been made to establish such a system, but the committee having the matter in charge failed to report.

The decision of the Manufacturers' association was just what had been expected by the citizens of this city generally, the statement made public by the special committee and the printed interviews of mill men generally having been antagonistic to granting any advance in the wages of the operatives at this time.

The general feeling among operatives is one of disappointment in the announcement, but some of them look upon the implied promise of an increase later as a hopeful sign. These mill workers, however, have the utmost faith in their leaders and most of them are confident that they will ultimately gain the increase asked for.

A meeting of the Textile council will be called. Whatever the result of that meeting the secretaries of the different labor organizations will call special general meetings and report the result of the conference, with the decision of the manufacturers and the recommendation of the Textile council. Action will be then taken by the various bodies and a decision reached as to whether the refusal of the manufacturers will be opposed or not.

A prominent labor man, who refused to allow the use of his name, says: "I believe the manufacturers will give in. It is a part of their game to refuse now, but we hope and believe that the increase will be granted. I cannot say anything as to whether or not the various labor organizations will oppose the vote of the manufacturers now. That will be left in their hands. This attitude of the manufacturers on the question of margins is ridiculous. We have met them on margins and on the financial condition of their mills and we have quoted facts which prove the justice of our claims. We will finally get the increase."

The sales in the cloth market during the week have been less than the production of the mills in the six days. The ruling quotation is 2⅞ cents for the regular 64x64's, but it is stated by the cloth brokers that no sales of regulars were made at that or any price. The sales have been 150,000 pieces, mostly odd counts, on the basis of the ruling quotation for regulars. It is expected that as soon as the wage question has been settled finally, in one way or another, that the market for prints will become more active. Buyers are holding off just now on account of the wage agitation and manufacturers hesitate to make long contracts while the least uncertainty as to the future operation and the cost of running exists. Another reason for the quiet condition of the cloth is that manufacturers are sold so far ahead and for such large amounts that they cannot make large contracts for near delivery.

Figures From the Klondike.

Washington, Nov. 4.—In a report to the state department, dated Dawson, Sept. 14, Consul McCook says that the gold shipments for the season aggregated $9,247,745. Prices of living, he says, have been slowly declining. Typhoid was decreasing, and the death rate had also decreased. The rush to Cape Nome continues from mining camps all along the Yukon. At Circle City only 75 people remain, out of 300. Eagle City has lost 500 of its population of 1500 and Rampart City has only 200 of its former population of 1600 remaining. The Cape has now a population numbering thousands, and supports many stores, dance houses and saloons. The consul says that as to the richness of the country there can be no doubt.

Gotham's Disastrous Blaze.

New York, Nov. 4.—Three lives were lost in a fire replete with thrilling incidents, in the seven-story brick building at 94, 96 and 98 Mott street, yesterday. Chief Croker estimated the loss at $500,000, but the fire insurance patrolmen said they considered that it would not be more than $150,000.

THE BOERS' CAPITAL.

Pretoria an Attractive, Prosperous and Modern City.

From Johannesburg to Pretoria is 37 miles and from Cape Town 1,040. The hotels, bank buildings and streets are almost imposing, and the general appearance of the place is pleasing.

Around Church square the largest and most important buildings are located. On one side is the raadzaal (houses of parliament), an imposing structure of three stories, one of the largest, most attractive and costliest in South Africa. It contains the upper and lower chambers for the meetings of the volksraad, with galleries for visitors. About $1,000,000 was expended in its erection and furnishing. It is a credit in every way to the South African Republic. Where the capitol now stands was the old raadzaal, small and primitive, with a thatched roof.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING, PRETORIA.

On the opposite side of the square and facing the raadzaal is the law court building, now nearly completed, and, like the capitol, it is beautiful and modern in design. The new market building cost over $150,000. A public library, English and Dutch, has received liberal assistance from the government, is well managed and satisfactory. The museum contains a very creditable collection. The principal religious denominations have churches that indicate that they are in a prosperous condition.

Pretoria has a population of about 15,000. The streets are wide and regularly laid out, many of them having beautiful willow and other shade trees. Church street is the principal one for business and has a number of attractive stores. The president's residence is at the western extremity of this street.

The town has a good supply of pure water from natural springs three miles away. The capacity of the waterworks is over 2,000,000 gallons each day. There are good electric lights and surface cars. More than $500,000 has been expended on the streets and drainage.

The surrounding country is the richest and best in the Transvaal. The future for this place looks flattering. The nearest ocean connection by rail is at Delagoa bay, in Portuguese East Africa, a distance of 349 miles, and at Durban, in Natal, a distance of 511 miles.

$5,000,000 DEAL.

The story of what will be, financially, the biggest and, in influence, the most farreaching, deal in theatricals that has ever been attempted is, after all, says the New York World, only the story of the remarkable success of an obscure young girl who less than four years ago danced and sang in the back row of the Casino chorus.

It is the London success of "The Belle of New York," a Casino musical comedy first produced in New York, that made George W. Lederer one of the most influential theatrical managers whose enterprises are located in London. And it is the personal success of Edna May, who sings the part of the Salvation Army lass in the play, that is the basis of the success of the production.

Manager Lederer was the first to recognize Edna May's abilities, and he took her out of the chorus and gave her the role of a star.

Now, because of Manager Lederer's discrimination, London business men with $5,000,000 capital have formed a corporation and are going to back Mr. Lederer's abilities as a manager with their money and make him the managing director of theaters in New York, London and Paris. He will be in absolute control.

To Restore "Old Ironsides."

John Winfield Scott of New York proposes that the United States ship Constitution, "Old Ironsides," be restored by the government and kept at Washington as a memorial of the love of this generation of Americans for Admiral Dewey. "Enough of the original ship remains," Mr. Scott says, "to make the restoration possible. A survey of the ship by the navy department has shown that it would cost only $200,000 to restore her in every detail. I think that a popular petition should be started, and after all the signatures of those who would like to see the old ship restored have been secured, it should be sent to the president, urging him to recommend the appropriation by congress. She should be preserved at the nation's capital."

Two Inches Saved Him.

"There was one man in my battery in the Philippines," said Lieutenant Overton of the Seventh artillery lately, "who had a habit of stooping and crouching himself up while running on a charge. I said to him one day, 'Corbett, you never expect to escape a bullet by putting yourself in such a contortion and making yourself two inches shorter, do you?' In a few minutes a bullet struck Corbett on the top of the head and plowed its way clear across the scalp, carrying the hair with it. He was knocked senseless and had to be carried to the hospital, where I saw him a few weeks later. 'Well, Corbett,' I said, 'you had a close call.' 'Yes,' he replied, 'but the two inches saved me.'"

GAME BATTLE

Jeffries and Sharkey In Twenty-Five Rounder.

Californian Retains His Title of Champion of the World.

Did Fine Work In First Two and Last Three Rounds.

Spectators of the Opinion That It Should Have Been a Draw.

New York, Nov. 4.—Champion Jim Jeffries retains his title by winning a decision over Sailor Tom Sharkey at the Coney Island Sporting club last night.

It was a fight to the limit, 25 rounds, with George Siler referee. The wind-up was a fierce one, in which Jeffries, while fixing a glove, responded adroitly to Sharkey's repeated onslaughts. The sailor put up a great battle.

Siler parted them when they clinched. Then he gave the decision to Jeffries.

It was a picturesque ring battle. In several of the latter rounds, though both men had been severely punished, as it would seem from the layman's standpoint, they retired smiling to their corners.

Jeffries was carried from the ring like a gladiator of old—triumphant and cheered by thousands upon thousands of those who had won or lost on his victory.

JIM JEFFRIES.

In five rounds Jeffries had the better of the fight—in the first two and in the last three. During the other 20 Sharkey forced the issue, and, like a bull terrier, was at his man with both hands unceasingly. In those 20 rounds Jeffries' great weight and brawn helped him to hold off the sailor, and in the 22nd round he swung a couple of vicious uppercuts that made Sharkey groggy. Tom came back again in the 24th and 25th, but he was weakened greatly by Jeffries' vicious blows. One minute before the gong sounded to end the fight Jeffries' left glove came off, and practically the contest was over.

The referee motioned to Jeffries' corner, so an American flag was flung around the champion's shoulders. The crowd on that side and end of the house cheered wildly. The crowd on the opposite side and end, near Sharkey's corner, yelled for Sharkey, and the men were led back to their dressing rooms.

The thousands of spectators were banked 40 feet high around the building, and the place was packed from the ringside to the rafters. The aisles around the ring were lined, the tremendous crowd sweating under the glare of 400 arc lights, 15 feet or less from the canvas of the squared circle. The heat was intense. The fighters were almost exhausted, and the spectators shrieked themselves hoarse.

It seemed at first as though it would be a short fight, for in the second round Jeffries put the sailor to the ropes with a left on the jaw, and the referee began to call off the seconds, as Sharkey kneeled on the floor.

But from the third round on, Sharkey, with his vicious swings to the ribs and the jaw, kept the crowd on its feet waiting for a knockout.

Jeffries stood the terrific punishment, and, with his eye, nose and ear split, came back just as viciously in the last three rounds, and almost retrieved himself.

Then came the unfortunate and unsatisfactory ending. Jeffries' glove, flying off, bringing the fight to an end, although the crowd urged Sharkey to rush in and end it. This he tried to do, but Jeffries fought him back, and Refree Siler rushed to the rescue. It was noticeable that Jeffries used his weight to its best advantage, throwing himself all over the sailor, but the latter did his share of the hugging, too, and both were warned repeatedly.

George Siler refereed. Jeffries weighed 212 pounds, and Sharkey 25 pounds less, but the latter looked to be in better condition, the Californian being callow, with staring eyes and other evidences of not being in the best condition.

They shook hands and shaped up well. Jeffries led, and then landed several times. He was generally over or under. On the other hand the sailor was wild, going into the fight with both hands, and swinging wildly, but he did not land the first blow.

In the second Sharkey was flopping around, and he came in for a nasty left that rolled him over. It looked then as though Sharkey was clearly outclassed.

SHARKEY IN BUSINESS ATTITUDE.

O'Rourke, however, gave the sailor a talking to, and, to the amazement of all, Sharkey swung home on Jeffries' ribs and jaw almost at will, and there was a wild audience. As the fight went along, round by round, the sailor fought his way right into the hearts of those who marvelled at Jeffries' capacity for punishment. The Californian crouched down low, and, though his eyes blazed, he smiled and generally glanced at O'Rourke, who was coaching his man over the ropes.

Sharkey's vicious punches began to tell, and at the close of the seventh it seemed as though Jeffries could hardly walk to his corner, and it seemed certain there would be a new champion.

Sharkey's ear was split in the eighth, and it made him mad. He rushed, swinging lefts and rights, and landed nearly all of them, with Jeffries throwing himself over the sailor. The Californian pushed his man over the ropes at every opportunity, and in some of the rounds rested his great head on Sharkey's shoulder so much that he was hissed and jeered.

Jeffries landed a terrific uppercut in the 10th and Sharkey's eyelid was split, but in the 12th Sharkey got back with half a dozen left swings and a straight right, and it was wonderful they did not end the fight. Jeffries hugged the sailor hard and shook his head as he went to his corner.

Every round carried Sharkey across the ring at the start, and he was fighting the champion all over the canvass.

In the 15th Jeffries made a bluff at forcing, but Sharkey was at him again like a bulldog and swung high and low, and landed almost every time he swung. The Californian made a little effort to lead. He preferred the defensive and he was winded. Sharkey, too, was tiring fast, and they punched and swung and clinched and staggered all round the ring for the next few rounds.

The crowd shrieked from the sound of the gong to the close of each round. Both men were covered with blood and Jeffries was bleeding badly from his nose, which Sharkey's savage right had split.

Suddenly, in the 22nd, Jeffries seemed to take on new life. Just at the close of this round the champion swung right and left on Sharkey's jaw, and Tom was almost taken off his feet. He reeled, and the gong saved him.

He came back hard, however, in the next, but Jeffries had the better of it, putting in two right uppercuts. Jeffries' friends howled themselves hoarse, while Sharkey's urged him with loud cries to go in hard and rough it. He threw down his terrier-like head, and though his strength was fast leaving him, he had Jeffries' gauge to the gong sound.

No one could say who would get in the knockout blow and neither seemed able if he landed to put enough force into the blow to drop his man. And in the midst of the 25th, nearly one minute before the close, Jeffries' glove flew across the ring and Siler ran to help him on with it. Sharkey held back until his friends yelled at him not to stop, and it was a three-cornered fight for a few moments. The referee got Jeffries' glove and tried to draw it on. This was difficult to do, and then Sharkey rushed. Jeffries threw up his gloved and ungloved hand, and with the former uppercut Sharkey. Siler ran between them and made a second attempt to assist Jeffries. The sailor waited a moment, but wildly excited by the shrieks of the spectators, he rushed again. Siler dragged Jeffries away and the gong rang. The referee pointed to Jeffries' corner and his seconds and friends cheered wildly.

The majority of those at the ringside thought Sharkey would not get worse than a draw, for the sailor fought viciously, always after his man, with good judgment and outpointed the champion. On the other hand, Jeffries, while he had the better by long odds of the last three rounds, did very little leading in the other 22, and when he led he was either too high or too low, getting in but a few good punches.

The decision was not announced from the ring, or, if it was, few heard it, and a great mob surged around for several minutes yelling and shouting for the victor and vanquished.

When seen in his dressing room after the contest, Jeffries said: "Sharkey is the hardest and best man I ever met, and I hardly expect to meet a better in the future. Within six months I have met and defeated the best two men in the head tended to take away a great deal of my steam and the glare from the floor weakened my eyes. My left arm, the one that was injured while training, gave out in the fourth round, and I could not use it properly for the rest of the battle or the result would have been different, for I think that I could have knocked him out. Sharkey is a game man and hard to beat, but I had no thought of any different result at any time during the battle. After my rest, which I think the public will agree that I deserve, I will again be ready to meet any and all who aspire to my title."

Sharkey was inconsolable and cried like a child when he went to his quarters and refused to talk, but Tom O'Rourke, his manager, expressed the opinion that the sailor should have received the decision. He said that two of Sharkey's ribs were broken, and that during the last four rounds Tom's left hand was useless, having been broken on Jeffries' head. Although the decision was against him, he said Sharkey would not give up, but would seek another match and the next time the result will be different.

How It Was Done.

Minneapolis, Nov. 4.—Thomas Campbell, late of the Thirteenth Minnesota regiment, says the controversy between General Funston and Archbishop Ireland, regarding church desecration in the Philippines, is based on a misunderstanding of the facts. He says that he himself is a Catholic, and that there were a score or more of Catholics in his company, all of whom had as many churchly relics as did their Protestant comrades. The reason, he says, is that the Filipinos themselves had desecrated the churches before the United States troops came. The buildings were loopholed for small arms, and used as storehouses and hospitals, so that the destruction of the buildings became a strategic necessity. The paraphernalia either had to be taken away or suffer destruction with the building.

Waiting For Contributions.

New York, Nov. 4.—A cablegram from Dublin to the local Parnell monument committee announces the postponement of the sale of Avondale, the home of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, until the return to Ireland of Lord Mayor Tallon and John E. Redmond, who are in this country in the interests of a fund to redeem the home, and erect a monument to the great Irish leader. They are now in Boston.

Coroner Investigating.

Providence, Nov. 4.—Coroner Lincoln has begun an inquest to determine the cause of the death of Edward Patterson, who died during a scuffle with William H. Walls. Several witnesses who saw the affair gave their testimony. All agreed that Paterson and Walls engaged in an altercation, after which Paterson was found unconscious and died with a few gasps.

No Chance For Identification.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

The Braintree Literary Club met last Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Belcher of Hollis avenue. The club entertained at this meeting a number of specially invited guests. The chief entertainment consisted of an illustrated talk on Egypt by Dr. William Gallagher of Thayer Academy. Dr. Gallagher spent some weeks in Egypt a few years ago, travelling 'the whole length of the country by boat on the Nile river, visiting the many ancient famous ruins along its banks. His address was very interesting, vivid and eloquent, and his hearers could not but feel that they had really lived for a time in that peculiar land. The spirit and culture of the man was shown in his determination to climb the great pyramid alone at midnight and in his beautiful description of the scene from its top, consisting of the moonlit plains dotted with piles of ruins of an ancient civilization. Dr. Gallagher spoke without notes and was so full of his subject that his talk seemed merely an introduction to his life in this wonderful country.

Mrs. Albert E. Avery and Mr. Conrad W. Crooker rendered some beautiful vocal and instrumental selections.

The club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Ewart of Mount Vernon avenue one week from next Monday evening.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Tremont Theatre.

The popularity of the "Three Little Lambs" grows with each succeeding performance at the Tremont Theatre, and large audiences are nightly envincing their appreciation of Mr. Barnet's quaint and characteristic humor; the delightful music by Mr. Corliss; the cleverness of the members ot the Fifth Avenue Theatre musical company in interpreting the ideas of both author and composer, and the beauty and brilliancy of the costumes and stage setting. Miss Lemon's spirited acting and charming vocalism; the dashing methods of Messrs. Philip and Carleton; Miss Braggin's chic soubrettisms; the unctuous fun making of Messrs. Hitchcock and Lawrence; jolly Miss Cahill's irresistible humor; the eccentricities of Messrs. Vizard and Hadaway; the neat and fetching style of Misses Bassain and Hawley; the Hibernicisms of Mr. Whiffen; the care with which the less prominent parts are sustained; the fine appearance, good training and admirable singing of the large chorus; and the skilful dancing of almost everybody in the long cast of 65 people, combine to make the representation a most attractive one, and "Three Little Lambs" has evidently entered upon a long and prosperous occupancy on the stage on which, as "Queen of the Ballet," it was originally produced by the Boston Cadets. Matinees are given on Wednesday as well as Saturdays.

Park Theatre.

Last Saturday night James A. Herne concluded the first week of his engagement at the Park theatre in his new play "Sag-Harbor." Mr. Herne opened his engagement to an enormous house. and that his business increased from night to night, until finally at the close of last week, people were being turned away, unable to secure admission. There is little doubt but that "Sag-Harbor" now "on" for a long run, and the managers of the theatre are somewhat embarrassed by the surging crowd that come to the theatre late to buy their seats, and and so impede one another that they miss the first act, which is really one of the most beautiful in the play, and quite necessary to be heard to understand the action which ensues in the following scenes of the play. James A. Herne, as Capt. Dan Marble, creates another character similar in some ways, yet widely differentiated from his famous embodiment of old "Uncle Nat Berry" in "Shore Acres." As Capt. Dan Marble, Mr. Herne makes another distinct and telling characterization of a familiar and well-beloved New England type-man; and one well worthy to hang in that suberb gallery of character portraits which Mr. Herne has furnished to the American drama. Mr. Herne is surrounded with a company of extraordinary excellence for the performance of this—his second idyle of New England life; and one remarkably appreciative of our peculiar New England atmosphere as well as keenly intuitive in their understanding and bodying forth of characteristic New England types.

Boston Museum.

Andrew Mack, the most popular of singing comedians, and a remarkably strong Boston favorite, comes to the Boston Museum next Monday, Nov. 6, to begin a two weeks' engagement in "The Last of the Rohans," his new Irish comedy drama, which was written specially for him by Ramsay Morris, and which had four brilliantly successful trial performances at the Hollis St. Theatre last spring. Mr. Mack comes to Boston almost direct from a six weeks engagement at the Academy of Music, New York, where he played to the largest receipts known at that house since the original "Old Homestead" production. He has four fine songs: "Pat and his Pipes," "Grandmother's Songs," "The Story of the Rose," and "The Jack o' Lantern." Messrs Rich and Harris have given "The Last of the Rohans" a superb scenic production, and they have surrounded their star with a first class supporting company. Mr. Mack will play the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Castle Square Theatre.

Many evidences of the enterprise of the management of the Castle Square theatre in securing strong attractions for their house have been shown in the record of the long continued and successful dramatic season, but no better evidence of this enterprise has ever been given than the announcement of "The Heart of Maryland" as the bill for the coming week. Many weeks have been given to the preparation of this production and it promises to be the most elaborate known in the history of this theatre. Every scene has been built and painted, under Mr. J. R. Pitman's direction, by Messrs. Ansel Cook and B. W. Craig; many additional people have been engaged and no pains or expense have been spared to ensure the success of the production. The principal characters have been cast as follows: Gen. Hugh Kendrick, J. L. Seeley; Col. Alan Kendrick, John Craig; Col. Fulton Thorp, N. H. Fowler; Lieut. Robert Telfair, Tony Cummings; Lloyd Calvert, Charles Mackay; Maryland Calvert, Lillian Lawrence; Mrs. Claibourne Gordon, Leonora Bradley; Phoebe Yancy, Marian A. Chapman; Nanny McNair, Mary Sanders. Soldiers, scouts, sentries exchanged prisoners, etc. "The Heart of Maryland" will be retained as the attraction for the week beginning Monday, Nov. 13, and at the matinee on that day all patrons will be given a box of choice assorted chocolates neatly packed, as a souvenir.

Keith's Theatre.

The week of Nov. 6 brings to Keith's Bosion theatre that best of all high class comedians, Felix Morris, supported by an excellent company, in a one-act comedy sketch, entitled, "Behind the Scenes;" Cushman, Holcombe and Curtis, in a singing and comedy sketch; the three Marvellas, acrobats; Harry Lester and Irene Jermon, in a comedy act; Dan Allman, blackface monologue; Hedrix and Prescott, dancers; Sig. Alberti, noted violinist; Sarsuma, Japanese juggler; Annie Whitney, soprano vocalist; Harry Lacy and company, in a new farce, "Sam Todd of Yale," and new motion pictures in the biograph, including a series showing the principal events in the international college games which took place in London last summer, showing Quinlan winning the 100-yards and Fox the hurdles, two of the most important races at the meet. Both men were representatives of Harvard.

NOW FOR THE VOTES.

Republicans, Democrats and Non-Partisans Claim the Buckeye State.

Result In Nebraska Is Likely to Be Very Close.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—One of the most remarkable gubernatorial campaigns in the history of Ohio closed Saturday night. The large registration in the cities is regarded as significant of a deep-seated purpose of the voters to stand by their convictions, whatever they may be.

Though there are six tickets in the field, but thre of them have made an field, but three of them have made an effort for the mastery—the Republican, Democratic and non-partisan. Samuel Jones, mayor of Toledo, is the only candidate on the non-partisan ticket. George K. Nash heads the Republican ticket, and John R. McLean the Democratic. Nash, McLean and Jones are all ambitious for the political leadership that an election to the governorship would afford them.

This is what is known in Ohio politics as an off year, and off years have, as a rule, gone Democratic. But the anxiety of the Republicans east and west that Ohio should indorse the administration by electing Judge Nash, and thus pave the way for another great victory in 1900, has spurred the Ohio Republican campaign managers to a mighty effort to overcome the usual apathy of an off year.

The Democratic managers have been equally determined that they will maintain the precedent of keeping the off year. Both parties have organized very thoroughly in all the counties, and a tremenduous effort will be made to get but the vote. The indications are that the vote will be the next to the largest in the history of the state, and will be in the neighborhood of 900,000. The largest vote ever cast was in the presidential campaign of 1896, when the state polled 1,020,107 votes.

"The largest vote ever polled in a state campaign will be cast, approximating 950,000 votes. The legislature will be Republican in both branches. Conceding Mr. Jones from 75,000 to 100,000 votes, Judge Nash's plurality will be not less than 50,000 in the state."—Chairman Dick of the Republican state committee.

"John R. McLean will be elected; of that I am certain. Jones is not a factor in the field."—Chairman James P. Seard of the Democratic state committee.

"Neither the Republican nor Democratic party has gained converts in this campaign. The committees at headquarters, from reports received from nearly every village and headquarters in the state, places the vote as follows: Non-partisan, 335,000; Republican, 300,000; Democratic, 265,000."—Samuel Jones, "Golden Rule" candidate.

Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 6.—The Republican state committee says that Crane will get an old-time majority in this state, and gives out these figures: Winthrop Murray Crane of Dalton, 172,000; Robert Treat Paine, 98,768.

The Democratic state committee figure the Republican majority will be about 50,000, and say that Paine's vote will be 110,000, as against 160,000 for Crane.

George N. Swallow, chairman of the Republican city committee, says Boston will go Republican.

Nebraska.

Chairman Dahlman of the Democratic state committee claims the state by 12,000.

Senator Thurston says the state is Republican by 5000.

Kentucky.

Louisville, Nov. 6.—The Democratic (Goebel) ticket in Kentucky will be elected by a majority of 15,000 or 20,000. The intermeddling of the Louisville and Nashville railroad in Kentucky politics and the maintenance of an election law to prevent Hanna from again stealing the electoral vote of Kentucky as he did in 1896 are the local issues most prominent in this campaign.—J. C. S. Blackburn.

First district, 7000 for Goebel; second, 4000 for Goebel; third, 1000 for Taylor; fourth, stand off; fifth, 12,000 for Taylor; sixth, 1000 for Goebel; seventh, 2000 for Goebel; eighth, 2500 for Taylor; ninth, 2000 for Taylor; tenth, stand off; eleventh, 18,000 for Taylor.—Republican state committee.

Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—Chairman Vandiveer of the Democratic state committee says: "I believe we will carry 21 of the 23 counties of the state and all the legislative districts. We will win by nearly 12,000."

Chairman Shyrock of the Republican committee says the Republicans will carry every county in the state, but gives no figures.

Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6. — Chairman Reeder of the Republican state committee says that he has now received reports from every county in the state conveying conservative estimates of the vote tomorrow. Mr. Reeder declined to make public any of these county estimates, but said his estimates, based on the returns, is that the Republican state ticket will have a plurality of at least 175,000 votes.

Iowa.

Des Moines, Nov. 6.—"Reports show that we will receive at least 80 percent of the German vote of the state, and, if this proves true, Fred White, the Democratic nominee for governor, will be elected by not less than 20,000 plurality."—Democratic state committee.

"Governor Shaw will be re-elected by 40,000 plurality over Fred White, the fusion nominee, and it may be more. The result is in no way uncertain, except as to the size of the Republican majority."—Republican state committee.

Lodge on the Philippines.

Boston, Nov. 6.—At the Middlesex club dinner Saturday night the chief address was that of Senator Lodge, and it was an out and out defense of the administration's policy in the Philippines. He said there had been no criminal aggression in the Philippines. Explanatory of the early conflicts between the Filipinos and the American troops he read numerous press dispatches sent from the seat of war at the time, coupled with exerpts from the recent report of the Philippine commission, and messages sent to the war and navy departments. The senator analyzed the report he read, and at the conclusion said that he believed, as did many other able men, that war was forced upon us, and was unavoidable.

New York.

New York, Nov. 6.—Chairman Odell of the Republican state committee estimates that the Democrats will gain only three seats, but the general opinion is that the Democrats will gain at least twice as many as that. Except for the efforts of the independent labor party, the fusion county campaign has lagged, the bad blood engendered by the fights between Republicans and Citizens' union in the assembly districts having reacted on the county ticket.

Bullet In His Brain.

Buckingham, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Martin Williams, a student at the conference seminary here, in company with other students, burned the president in effigy. Seminary special police hastened to the scene, when the boys ran, and to stop them several shots were fired. Williams fell and must have lain unconscious for an hour or more. He made his way to his room later and fell unconscious to the floor. It was found that a bullet had entered the head below the left eye, piercing the brain. Williams is in a dangerous condition.

Kick From Convicts.

Santiago, Nov. 6.—There was [illegible] a riot in the Santiago prison when the order was enforced respecting the use of the conventional convict uniform of stripes, with clipped hair and clean shaven face. The prisoners flatly refused to obey, and the prison officials were compelled to use force. In several instances, prisoners were bound during the shearing operation. All consider the new regulation imposed the lowest degradation.

Death of Joseph Holloy.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Joseph Holloy, chief agent of the Citizen's Law and Order league, died at his home here from heart trouble. He was known in nearly every town and city in New England in which an organized crusade was ever made against violators of the liquor law, and he had appeared as witness in hundreds of liquor trials. He was born in Nantucket in 1842, and became an agent of the league in 1888.

Censured the Newspapers.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Rev. Dr. Perrin of the Every Day church preached a sermon yesterday with the recent fistic mill as his subject. He quoted newspaper extracts of the fight and said that the principals in such fights should be sent to the penitentiary to tame their bestial instincts, and every newspaper that spread out the filthy details should be boycotted for a twelvemonth.

A Denial From Davis.

Albany, Nov. 6.—Attorney General Davis is out with a vigorous denial of the statement made by President Dowe of the Commercial Travelers' league that his office had refused to take action against the alleged spool cotton trust. Mr. Davies says that not only has his office not refused, but that it is at present trying to get tangible evidence against the company.

A Dastardly Crime.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 6.—At Mount Pleasant, O., about 15 miles from this city, James W. Gosnell, a well-to-do farmer, was reading a newspaper last night when two revolver shots rang out, both taking effect in the unfortunate man's back and killing him instantly. They were fired from outside in the darkness through a window.

Charged With Sheep Stealing.

Minneapolis, Nov. 6.—A special to The Times from Great Falls, Mont., says: Something of a sensation has been caused by the arrest of State Senator Philips and Deputy Sheriff Green on the charge of sheep stealing. It is alleged that these men got away with a flock of sheep numbering 1737, belonging to Taylor Bros. and others.

Campaigning Under Difficulties.

Omaha, Nov. 2.—In order to meet an engagement to speak last night at Ravenna, W. J. Bryan was driven across country from Louis City, 22 miles, three relays of horses being employed. When about five miles from the start the carriage was upset over an embankment and Mr. Bryan and the other occupants were thrown out. All were more or less bruised, though not seriously. At Ravenna Mr. Bryan spoke in a lumber yard for an hour with the temperature at 12 degrees above zero and the water in a pitcher on the speaker's stand freezing.

BRIGANTINE ASHORE.

Block Island, R. I., Nov. 6.—The brigantine Plover, Captain Godfrey, of Barbadoes, from New York bound to Sierra Leone, Africa, with an assorted cargo, came ashore at Sandy Point, about a quarter of a mile north of the life saving station. Captain Godfrey claims that his compass was defective. The brig has six feet of water in her hold, but, as she is just out of dry dock with her bottom newly coppered, it is not thought that she is aleak. The water probably got in through the deck hatches. If the weather is good, the chances of floating her are excellent.

The captain thinks the cargo was insured. It consists of 300 barrels of pork, ship bread, crackers, a large lot of furniture knocked down, and 7300 feet of pine on deck.

No Fault to Find With Otis.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—The United States transport Ohio arrived here yesterday from Manila, via Guam and Honolulu. She brings three officers and 49 men of the Nevada cavalry and 215 discharged soldiers. Two deaths occurred on the voyage. E. C. Ross, correspondent of Leslie's Weekly, who was a passenger on the Ohio, said that he did not understand the attacks on General Otis, that he had never suffered from Otis' reported changing of matter submitted to the censor.

Safe In Port.

San Francisco, Nov. 6.—Advices from Honolulu, brought by the transport Ohio, report the arrival there of the ship Charles E. Moody, long overdue, from Norfolk. She was about 190 days out from the navy yard at Norfolk, with coal for the army at Honolulu, and had not been spoken since early in June. Reinsurance on the Moody had gone to 65 percent in San Francisco. The vessel arrived in good condition by way of the cape of Good Hope.

Hanged Himself In Barn.

Brattleboro, Vt., Nov. 6.—The body of James Christiansen, a Swede, aged 20 years, was found hanging from a beam in the barn of J. O. Frost of Vernon, by whom he was employed as a farm hand. The cause of the suicide is not known. He received his wages Saturday and had agreed to work for Mr. Frost another year.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

No well defined disturbance appears within the region of observation. Local rains have occurred in northern and eastern portions of the lake regions and in the northern Rocky mountain districts; elsewhere the weather has been fair. The temperature changes have been slight. Fair weather is indicated for New England. Light westerly winds will prevail along the New England coast.

VOTE.
Vote early.
It is important.
It is your duty.

Could any men please the majority better than Irepresentatives Sprague and Sheppard?

Vote for Sprague and Sheppard. Successful business men are needed in the Legislature of the State.

Another teachers' convention on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 1 and 2, that of the Massachusetts Teachers' Association.

It may be that there has been a good collection of taxes in Quincy this year, but it does not compare with Marblehead which has exactly the same tax rate. The collector of that town reports $94,046 already paid, out of a total of $121,000.

Why vote for a change? When Representatives Sheppard and Sprague have been tried and found worthy. When Senator Woodsum is a candidate for reelection. When County Commissioner Wadsworth is without an equal. When Councillor Davis is willing to serve a second year. When all the Republican candidates for State office are experienced men. A change might be a mistake.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ If General Butler's remark that fights among the Democracy made more Democrats on election day, the party in Boston ought to poll a million voters next Tuesday.—Milford Journal.

☞ A good school system will require good work of every teacher; a poor school system may permit a bright teacher to do good work; a deplorable system will not allow a brilliant teacher to keep up with the times.—Journal of Education.

☞ It has been some years since a "plain, practical business man" has been made Governor. Murray Crane is an ideal candidate for such a position. He will conduct the business of the Commonwealth with the same wisdom, care and fidelity that has made his own business a notable success. Such a man deserves a handsome indorsement from the voters of Massachusetts, and that he will receive it next Tuesday there is no shadow of a doubt.--Lynn Item.

UNTIMELY DEATHS.

One From Falling Down Flight of Stairs.

Another Suffocated in a Building on Fire.

The Wife of Sculptor Novelli Attempts Suicide.

Fire alarms were frequent Saturday night and the department was kept on the jump. Only one of the three alarms between Saturday night and Sunday morning was of any consequence, and that was the fire Sunday morning which resulted in the death John Thompson by suffocation. The first alarm was from Box 43 and came in at 5.28 Saturday night. This was a false alarm. The central station apparatus had hardly returned to the station when Box 172 was sounded, the time being 5.50. This was for a bonfire off Quincy avenue and Water street, near the house of A. C. Pettee. It was soon extinguished.

The third alarm of fire was from Box 25 and was sounded at 5.03 Sunday morning. This was for a fire in a small house on Brackett street owned by the heirs of Patrick McDonnell and occupied by William Savage. Boarding with Mr. and Mrs. Savage was a man named John Thompson, who has recently been employed by Patch & Son, Citizens Gas Light Co. and others. His body was found in a room upstairs after the fire had been extinguished.

Savage's story of the fire is that he was asleep in the room off the kitchen on the street floor, and was awakened by the smell of smoke. In order to reach the door leading out doors he would have to pass through this room the middle one of the three on the first floor. This is the room where the fire was the hottest, and his only means of escape was by a window. This he opened and jumping out pulled his wife after him. By this time the alarm had been sounded, and when the department arrived the fire was roaring briskly. Savage said nothing of a man up stairs. A neighbor suggested that there might be a man upstairs.

A ladder was raised to the only window where the smoke was very thick. The firemen hesitating to enter the room Chief Williams ordered them off and himself entered. He found the bed, but as it was empty concluded that the man, if there was one in the room had gotten out. Later another search was made and Thompson's body was found in a sitting position in one corner of the room back of the bed. His hair was singed somewhat by heat, but fire had not reached him and his death was undoubtedly due to suffocation by smoke before the alarm was sounded. The body was taken to the morgue.

Sunday morning, Fire Marshal Adams and Inspector McKay made an investigation, and after some difficulty located Savage at the house of Mr. Mead on Brackett street. Inmates at first denied that Savage was there but later he made his appearance. He said that Thompson went out about 7 o'clock Saturday night and that was the last he saw of him until the body was taken from the upper room. Savage himself went out in the evening to see George Morton. He says he returned home about 9 o'clock and half an hour later went to bed. He thought Thompson must be at home but his wife said no. The door was therefore left unlocked and lamp left burning on the table in the kitchen. That is all he knew until he was awakened to find the house full of smoke, and with difficulty, he got himself and wife out of the window.

Whether Thompson was the last to retire is unknown. When found he was dressed and evidently had not been in bed, but might have laid on the bed.

Thompson has been about Quincy for several years, but little is known of him other than that he was born in Scotland and was a baker by trade, at which he was employed in Edenboro and Aberdeen. Since coming to Quincy he has worked at odd jobs for various parties. He was a man of some education, but rum got the best of him, and to this his downfall in life is due.

FATAL FALL.

Murdock McDougal, a granite polisher, and recently a member of the Old Crowe Polishing Co., lost his life Saturday night by falling down stairs at the residence of George Milligan on Kidder street. Just how McDougal happened to fall is a mystery but may be determined at an inquest which Medical Examiner Jones will make.

Milligans story is that he was in bed when McDougal, who lives in another part of the same house, came in to see him. This according to one story was 6.30, and according to a second story, 8 o'clock. McDougal had been drinking and Milligan says that knowing he was likely to be ugly when in liquor that he remained in bed and let McDougal talk and kick about the room. A table and lamp and chairs show that evidently someone had been kicking. Finally McDougal started to go home and the next thing he heard was the noise of his fall and getting up he saw him at the bootom of the stairs.

Medical Examiner Jones was called and as the man was dead he was removed to his home. Sunday the Medical Examiner held a post-mortem examination, which showed that McDougal had received a fracture of the skull at the base of the brain and a hemorrhage around the brain. These caused his death.

McDougal was about 42 years of age and leaves a widow and children.

WOMAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

A dispatch from Barre, Vt., says Mary W. Novelli, wife of Samuel Novelli, a sculptor, tried to kill herself Saturday afternoon. She was found unconscious in her bed-room, with a bullet hole near the right ear and a revolver lying close by. She is 28 years old, and came from Quincy, Mass. Her recovery is doubtful. Mr. Novelli is the sculptor of the Burns statue at Barre.

NOT APPROVED.

Transfer from Sewer to Streets Questionable.

The Ledger has sought interviews with about twenty gentlemen prominent in city affairs, relative to the $5,000 appropriation by the Sewer Commissioners for street repairs, but few were willing to talk for publication.

W. W. Ewell, an ex-Commissioner of Public Works considered it an extravagant sum, and wondered where it would be expended. He was surprised at the loose financial management of some departments, and thought it was time for an uprising of the people.

C. F. Knowlton, who preceded Commissioner Cavanagh in office, was found well informed on the work of 1899. He said $5,000 was an outrageous amount, and that under certain conditions $2,500 would be about right. He recalled his offer to the Sewer Commissioners last year, to become responsible for the streets opened for two cents per linear foot, about $100 per mile, but even that was not accepted. All that the board would allow him was for the actual time of roller and engineer for rolling the trenches. He was told to watch the trenches and if any settled to attend to them and send in a bill. He did not recall how much his department actually received from the Sewer Commissioners, but books in the office at City Hall would show; perhaps $300 or $400.

He did receive sums from the contractors, but nothing like $5,000 or even $2,000. The present Commissioner should have received most of his money for these repairs in the same way. The Sewer Commissioners should not be expected to resurface a whole street because it had been opened for sewers. Some streets, like Adams street, were in need of rebuilding before the sewer was put in, and waited only until it was put in. Further any street could be resurfaced for 35 cents per square yard. The $5,000 transfer was a questionable one, and the Sewer Commissioners had no assurance that all the streets opened would be fixed.

Council Business.

Tonight's meeting of the City Council will probably be a busy one. There will be a public hearing on the widening of Newport avenue, and it is thought that the New Haven railroad will object, as some of their land is to be taken by the proposed widening.

The joint Committee on Streets and Sewers will report on the petition for a drain on Willard street. The committee on Streets will report on petitions of the Electric Light & Power Co., and the New England Telephone Co., for locations for poles; on the communication of the Mayor on numbering houses; on petition to widen the roadway of Quincy avenue and build a sidewalk on the east side; on enlarging the culvert on Phipps street; on light for Bates avenue; for repairs of Park avenue; on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a location for another track from Neponset bridge to the Braintree line on Independance avenue; for laying out Whitney road, Cranch and Deldorf streets as public ways.

The Committee on Licenses will report on the petition for a merry-go-around license. There is nothing in the calender. The Finance Committee has several matters before them upon which they may report.

Saturday nights on the last train out of Boston the last car to Weymouth has been greatly crowded, and a number of passengers have been obliged to hang on the best way they could. Supt. Some Good Done.

If nothing else results, the hearing before the Railroad Commissioners has been productive of some good. At the hearing, Councilman Packard offered a rough sketch of the freight house platform at the Quincy depot showing the eleven blocks of granite, which took nearly one half the platform, some of which had been there for years. The plan also showed the block of granite, the pile of ashes and debris in the driveway. Saturday afternoon a wrecking train came along with a gang of men who cleaned up the yard and loaded the blocks of granite onto the train, and carried them off. Councilman Packard claims the credit for this piece of work and it is unhesitatingly accorded him.

Quincy Point Church.

On Sunday morning Rev. Edward Anderson preached his sermon on "Forgiveness," the Communion was observed at the close of the sermon. The subject of the evening meeting at 7.15 was "Spending." The Ladies' Aid met in the vestry this afternoon at 2.30. The Home Science meet with Mrs. George A. Sidelinger at 3.30 on Friday afternoon. The subject of Mr. Anderson's Friday evening meeting will be "Standing firm to Principal."

—To lessen, if not to abolish altogether, the noise of a train when crossing a bridge, a German engineer has devised a scheme which has proved surprisingly successful. He puts a decking of planks between the cross girders, and on the planks a double layer of felt is placed. In this way any noise is prevented.

COUNT DELAYED.

Quincy Election Returns May Be Late.

Work Cannot Begin Until Two O'clock.

Straws and Predictions on Result Tomorrow.

A few days ago it was thought that the election returns of the Quincy vote would be unusually prompt, as no ballot would require over eleven crosses, but a new law steps in and delays the count, so that it cannot begin in this city until 2 P. M. The act of 1899, which is an amendment of 1898 provides:

"In towns, and after 2 o'clock in the afternoon in cities of less than 100,000 inhabitants according to the last national or state census, the ballot box at any polling place may be opened and ballots taken therefrom for counting when all the selectmen and the town clerk, or both the moderator and the town clerk, as the case may be, or all the election officers at the voting precinct shall so order.

"When the ballots have been thus removed the presiding officer shall select from the election officers an equal number from each of the two leading political parties, who shall canvass such ballots in accordance with this section; but no announcement of the result of such canvass shall be made by any election officer until the total result of the canvass of ballots has been ascertained."

The registration of voters is larger in some wards especially in Ward One, which is very large and has only one precinct. Unfortunately, too, this ward will have many new election officers who are unaccustomed to the work. All these things will delay the returns, but the new law is a wise one as it will prevent outsiders getting an early knowledge of the count. It will soon be necessary to divide Wards One and Five.

ELECTION STRAWS.

A well informed Quincy man says the strength of the Social Democrats of the city is under 150, but he gives the Representative candidates more; about 450 for Halvosa and 250 for Lamb. The same man predicts that Jordan will lead Cain, but says there is no doubt of the reelection of Sprague and Sheppard.

The Democratic State Committee concedes Candidate Crane 150,000 votes in the State, and counts on 110,000 for Candidate Paine.

The canvass of the Republican State Committee gives Crane 171,000 votes and a falling off in the Democratic vote, which was 107,960 last year.

The Herald estimates the Republican majority in the State as 50,000.

The polls will open at 6 A. M., and close at 4 P. M.

The vote of the Social Democrats in the State is not considered by the State Committee of the old parties.

The date fixed for the Democratic municipal caucuses is Nov. 16, next week Thursday.

Councilman Packard thinks he has been slighted for he has not been mentioned among the candidates for Councilman from Ward One. Councilman Packard says that he is a candidate for reelection and that he expects to be elected.

DIFFICULT TASK.

Believe However That Mr. A. E. Frye Will Be Successful.

About 25 years ago, Mr. Alexis E. Frye was a principal in the Quincy schools, teaching at the Coddington and Atlantic buildings. Quincy people have watched his progress and are pleased at his new appointment and the favorable comments. The Herald says: New England, and particularly Boston, feels a just pride in the selection of Alexis Everett Frye as director of education in Havana, Cuba, charged with the delicate and difficult task of organizing the public school system of that city. This task will be watched with interest, and will probably be the basis on which the educational system of the entire island will be established.

Mr. Frye is a Maine boy by birth, and a Massachusetts boy by education and training. He was born 40 years ago on the island of North Haven, in Penobscot bay, and came to this state when a mere lad, making his home for several years in Quincy. The basis of the education which has indirectly brought him the Cuban appointment he obtained in the Boston English high school. At the English high he was captain of one of the military companies of the school, and this apparently trifling fact seems to have had a direct influence on his subsequent career. He fitted himself as a teacher at the Bridgewater normal school, and then spent four years as a teacher at Quincy. From Quincy he went to the Cook County normal school, at Chicago Ill., where he spent four years as a teacher.

Mr. Frye then returned to Massachusetts and received the degree of LL. B. from Harvard, completing the required course in a phenomenally brief space of time. He never practised, however, but seems to have devoted himself to the application of a system of the law course to the preparation of material for a series of geographies. This series has since been published, and has taken a high place in school literature. They have been generally introduced throughout this country, and have been translated into several foreign languages for the use of schools in other countries.

About 1890 Mr. Frye went to San Bernadino, Cal., as superintendent of the public schoos of that place, and remained there three years, during which time he prepared an outline of this series of geographies. He submitted this outline to a Boston publishing house, and at the suggestion of the members of this firm he devoted two years to completing the series, resigning his position at San Bernadino.

While at San Bernadino Mr. Frye joined the national guard of California, continuing the fondness for military drill which he had manifested as a boy. He had some exciting experiences while directing the schools of this California town. There was a considerable element of Mormon population in the place, and this element was opposed to the public schools. It tried in every way to intimidate Mr. Frye, going to the lengths of setting fire to his schoolhouses and shooting him, but he refused to be intimidated.

When the Spanish war broke out, he was anxious to go to the front, but at the suggestion of President Elliot, and because of his knowledge of military matters, remained to drill the company of students being formed at Harvard College. These students had offered their services but the war ended before they had any opportunity for active duty.

Mr. Frye then went abroad, with several other scientists, to represent this government in an exploring expedition in Russia. The Russian government had invited several governments to send delegations of scientists, and Mr. Frye was one of those selected from the United States. Six months or more were spent in this interesting work, during which time he travelled over a large section of Russia and made some interesting studies.

About six weeks ago he went to Washington. It was his desire to obtain commission for service in the Philippines, and his intention to combine his military service with scientific observation. Secretary Root declined to issue the requested commission, although Mr. Frye had excellent letters from various persons of prominence in this state, among them Gov. Wolcott President Elliot of Harvard. The reason for this was the fact that he had not seen service in Cuba, and there was no need of additional commissioned officers in the Philippines. He was told that his services might be needed in another direction, however, and his next summons to Washington resulted in a conference with reference to the establishment of a public school system in Havana.

Mr. Frye went to Havana, and after an examination of the situation, decided that he would undertake the task. The announcement of his appointment was then made. Those who know him in Boston are enthusiastic over the appointment, and assert that no better selection could be made.

Mr. Frye is a man of tremendous energy and force. In addition to his work as a teacher, he has had a wide experience as a traveller and lecturer. He is a very conservative man, and shuns publicity, but he is very tactful in his address, and, with his wide knowledge to human nature, it is believed by all who know him that he will be entirely successful in the task by which he has been honored.

AFTER QUINCY CUP.

New Challenger to Make a Strong Bid for It.

The Globe says, The Quincy challenge cup will absorb a great deal of the interest in local yachting next season. Already one challenge has been received from A. H. Higginson on behalf of the Manchester yacht club, and it has been rumored that another one is soon to come.

Mr. Higginson will undoubtedly make a strong bid for the cup. He is going to have a "trial horse" for his boat, and will spend the last three weeks before the cup races in the waters of Hull bay, where he will be on the scene of the struggle and where his boat can be better tried out for her work than in any other place.

He talks quite freely of his coming challenger, and makes no secret of her proposed lines. The new boat is to be an improvement over last year's Hostess. She is to be a little more beamy, more powerful and quite a little longer on top. Mr. Higginson said in speaking of her: "Imagine a boat of extremely light construction, great beam, great power, very long and quite wide at the ends, and you have her."

This improvement over the Hostess is all right, but what is Mr. Faxon going to do all this time? If there are going to be any improvements over last year's defender, it is quite likely that he will be in on the figuring. He will also have the benefit of the Hostess for a "trial horse," and is in a better position to improve over her than anyone else.

There is no doubt that the races for the cup will be close and exciting, but it will be very hard for any one to take that cup away from Quincy. If there are any tide rips around that bay which Mr. Faxon does not know they have been introduced very recently. Consider again that he is one of the finest small boat skippers in this country, and figure the chances of "lifting" the trophy.

Of course he has not stated positively that he would build a defender, but when the time comes it is safe to say that he and Mr. Arthur Keith will get their heads together and talk improvements.

May Use Both Links.

The members of the Wollaston Golf club are seriously considering the matter of retaining the old grounds, says the Herald, rather than to let them go when the present lease expires. It was generally thought that when the club took full possession of its new course at Montclair it would not need the old links at Norfolk Downs. It now appears that many of the ladies and a goodly number of the members who play golf for exercise think the new course too long, and as it is much harder than the old one, they want the latter kept for their benefit. It is admitted that the new course is an ideal one, and it is more up to date for professional golfers than the one formerly occupied, which is considered easy by old players; but for pleasure the old links have the preference. The club's lease of the old grounds expires in about a year, and it is understood that it can be renewed if desired.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

It is expeted that Charles L. Prescott will be able to be removed from the hospital this week, but his wounds continue very painful.

Miss M. A. Forbes of Lowell and Miss M. B. Keating of Quincy attended a district meeting of the Sandwich teachers held in Sandwich on Saturday.

The Ledger learns today that the City Auditor has refused to allow the transfer of $5,000, and that he will ask the City Council tonight for instructions. Should the matter be debated there may be a hot time.

In anticipation of the Railroad Commissioners visit to Wollaston, the New Haven road has put a gang of men at work around the Wollaston station raking up the leaves and other debris and tidying up generally.

Annie, the 9-year-old daughter of John Murray of 35 School street, was severely burned Saturday afternoon by her clothing taking fire. The little girl was putting coal upon the stove at the time, and in some unaccountable way her clothing took fire. Before it could be extinguished she was severely burned about the arms and body. She was later removed to the City Hospital. It is not thought her burns will result fatally.

Fire Stations.

The City Council Committees on Fire Department and Public Buildings went on a tour of inspections Saturday afternoon. It was no junket, for the committee patronized the street cars and went in Yankee style, each paying his own fare. The first place visited was the Hose house at Wollaston, for the removal of which a petition is now before the City Council. The impression the committee got of the building was that it was almost too far gone to repair or move and that any expenditure on the building would be a waste of money. While out the committee inspected sites for a new fire station near Norfolk Downs.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible hat it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will confirm all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable.

GROWS STILL DARKER.

Loss of Colenso and Colesberg Considered Ominous.

London, Nov. 6.—The Belgian newspapers publish telegrams from Amsterdam and Berlin reporting the capture of Ladysmith.

A Lisbon report of Ladysmith's fall and White's surrender is believed to be based on the official message from Portugal's officials in South Africa. Portugal's territory abuts the storm centre, and her officials have every chance to know what is going on.

As to the Brussel's cable, it will be remembered that that city has had the news from the Transvaal many hours ahead of London since the war began.

According to the best advices available, all Natal is at the mercy of the Boers. The fall of Colenso and the almost certain capture of Ladysmith, with all the forces under General White, places the Boers in an almost impregnable position. There is nothing to prevent the Boers from marching on Pietermartizburg and Durban, and overrunning all Natal. On the western border large bodies of Boers have begun the invasion of Cape Colony.

The Boers have proclaimed the Upper Tugela division of Natal annexed to the Orange Free State.

The phenomenal success of the Boers so far has struck terror into the whole nation. One disaster to British arms has followed another in such quick succession as to almost stun public feeling.

The loss of Colenso is considered a fearful blow to the British plan of campaign. Then, too, it is taken for granted that Colenso was not abandoned until Ladysmith had been captured by the Boers. This meant the capture of all of General White's forces.

The Boers have now gained such a commanding position that they can overrun all Natal, and it will be a long time until General Buller has forces enough to cope with them.

It is considered doubtful in many quarters if his whole army corps, when he gets it, will be able to undo a fraction of the work done by the Boers during the past two weeks.

The Boers have annexed all northern Natal already, and they are rushing large bodies of troops on the western border to overrun Cape Colony. The capture of Colesburg is considered ominous. The British officials expected to make Colesberg their most important base of operation against the Orange Free State, and the announcement that it has fallen into the enemy's hands is most discouraging.

The general belief in London is that the Boers are now waiting for more guns from Pretoria before attacking Ladysmith. The fact that General Buller appears to have ordered a retirement from Stormberg, and perhaps from other places, relieves to some extent the public mind, which otherwise would have been further alarmed.

The third-class cruiser Pelorus has been ordered from Gibraltar to Durban, and the third-class cruiser Fearless from Port Said to the same point.

Dispatches from Cape Town and other centres in Cape Colony, indicate that the Cape Dutch are becoming very restless in consequence of the continued Boer successes.

There is some disquietude at Cape Town in consequence of a message from Pretoria, giving Commandant Cronje's report of his operations against Mafeking. The grand stand is only about a mile from Mafeking, and, if Cronje's account is to be believed, the Boers must be victors.

It appears that the Boers have destroyed the railway as far down as Knapdaar, 18 miles south of Bethulie.

The Daily Mail publishes the following, from Burgersdorp, dated Nov. 2: The large British camp at Stormberg Junction has been broken up today by the order of General Buller. Everything, including guns, stores, tents and the usual paraphernalia of a camp, is being removed to Queenstown, about 50 miles southeast of Stormburg.

An Orange Free State force, about 2500 strong, with several guns, which for some time was concentrated just across the Orange river, has crossed the bridge at Bethulie, destroying portions of the railway on its march. This is obviously with the intention of checking the coming advance of our army corps.

The enemy now appears to be waiting information before making a further move to the south. The impression here is that the removal of the Stormberg camp may result in a larger number of the colonial Boers joining the enemy. The English section is utterly upset at the "withdrawal of the British troops and the serious news from Natal."

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily News says he understands that in addition to Stormberg, Rosmead Junction and Naauwpoort are to be evacuated.

News that Colenso has been evacuated is another bitter pill for the British public, and is arousing fears that the continental statements of a second serious defeat of General White may prove true. A significant fact is that the war office does not say when Colenso was evacuated, so the statement which emanated Thursday from Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic representative of the Transvaal who is located at Brussels, that the Boers had occupied Colenso was possibly true. There is much apprehension that the war office is suppressing bad news.

A special dispatch from Cape Town, dated Nov. 2, says the Boers occupied Colesburg, Cape Colony, on Wednesday, meeting with no resistance from the local police, who yielded to superior force.

Transports have just been secured for the Wolwich Howitzer brigade, which will be hurried to the Cape. The brigade has 10,000 rounds of five-inch Lyddite shells awaiting it. According to the estimates a single shell, falling into a compact body, will kill 300 men. It was demonstrated in the battle of Omdurman, which destroyed the army of Khalifa Abdullah, that large numbers of Dervishers were killed by suffocation, while hundreds of vultures and eagles fell upon the battlefield from the same cause.

The Paris Temps corroborates the statement of The Eclair that the Boers have decided to employ privateers, and says: There is an immense fleet of transports now at sea carrying troops. The Transvaal government cannot seriously threaten these; but there is no doubt that it has issued letters of marque in Europe, and the United States and British commerce may suffer, even if the transports do not.

General Buller has wired the war office from Cape Town, under date of Sunday, that Colonel Kekewich, in command at Kimberley, reports, under date of Oct. 31, that all the wounded were doing well.

The official rollcall shows that 843 members of the Gloucestershire regiment and the the Royal Irish fusiliers are missing, as the result of the engagement on Farquhar's Farm. Thirty-two members of the Gloucestershire regiment, 10 members of the Royal Irish fusiliers and two members of the Tenth mountain battery were found killed. Between 70 and 100 escaped and returned to Ladysmith, whither 150 wounded have been brought.

A dispatch from Pretoria says that Colonel Moeller, who commanded the British huzzars, captured by the Boers, declined, on being interviewed, to give the details of the misfortune, but praised the treatment he and his men had received at the hands of the Boers. The British prisoners were playing football at the time their commander was interviewed. Their officers are anxious to be exchanged.

G. W. Stevens, describing for The Daily Mail the affair at Nicholson's Nek, says: "The Boers shot magnificently. The moment a Britisher raised his head to see where the enemy were, he instantly fell back with a bullet in it. On the other hand, after the engagement, the Boers acted with the greatest kindness to wounded and unwounded. They spent the afternoon singing doleful hymns under the trees, and they had reason to be doleful, for they had lost many men."

The correspondent of The Times at Ladysmith, under date of Nov. 2, confirms the report of artillery exchanges. He says:

"The investment of the town is now practically complete. Last night the enemy tapped the wires in our rear. He can therefore cut our communication whenever he pleases. It is suggested, however, that the Boers believe that Ladysmith is in their power, and that they are therefore anxious to have us get up all our military stores before they attack us.

"A reconnaissance by Lancers and a field battery today found a Free State laager, which the English shelled heavily, driving the Boers out."

The troopship Rapidan, which sailed from Liverpool for South Africa on Nov. 1, was obliged to turn back owing to damage received in Friday's storm. She lost 200 horses overboard in the gale.

Buller to the secretary of state for war:

Yesterday General French went out with cavalry and field artillery and effectively shelled the Boer laager, without loss on our side.

Lieutenant Egerton of the Powerful is dead.

General Joubert sent in Major C. S. Kincaid of the Royal Irish fusiliers and nine wounded prisoners. Eight Boers were sent out in exchange, no others being fit to travel.

Colonel Brocklehurst, with cavalry, field artillery, the imperial light horse and the Natal mounted volunteers, were engaged today with the enemy to the southwest of Ladysmith. The fighting lasted several hours. Our loss was very small.

Our troops are in good health and spirits, and the wounded are doing well.

Probably Fatal Shooting.

Hyde Park, Mass., Nov. 6.—While quarrelling in the Readville gravel pit last night, Vincenzo Vencre was shot by Generoasso Veatrice. The Italians were members of the gang at work on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in this vicinity, and lived in a colony near the pit. A surgeon was called, and he said that Vencre would probably die. The patient was then sent in to the Massachusetts general hospital. The police are searching for the assailant.

THE OUTCOME IN DOUBT

Ohio Is Claimed For Nash, McLean and Jones.

Brown an Unknown Quantity In Kentucky's Election.

Columbus, O., Nov. 7.—There are indications of a considerable dissipation of the support of the "Golden Rule" Jones' independent candidacy, undoubtedly due to the hammering it has received from the two regular party committees. They secured the names and addresses of the signers of Jones' petition for candidacy and have used influence on them to bring them back into their old party ranks, undoubtedly with some success. It is probable that many who have been wearing Jones buttons and working for him through the campaign will realize when they get into the election booths that there is no chance of his election and will vote for their next choice.

There are six candidates for governor being voted for. Three of them claim their election is sure. The Jones vote will reduce the vote of all others, including that of the Prohibitionists, the Union Reform and the Social Labor tickets, and the result depends very materially on where most of the Jones vote will come from.

It is certain that either George K. Nash, Republican, or John R. McLean, Democrat, will be elected. If Jones pulls more from the Democrats than from the Republicans, the prediction of Chairman Dick that Judge Nash will have 50,000 plurality may be realized. But if Chairman Seward is correct in assuming that Jones will draw much more heavily from the Republicans than from the Democrats, then McLean will be elected. The Democratic managers have made much capital out of the fact that Jones heretofore has been a Republican, that he was himself connected with a "trust" and that he would not pledge himself to vote for Bryan in 1900.

As Ohio is normally a Republican state, Jones could draw more heavily from the Republicans and still not affect the result, were it not for the factional feeling, which may also cost Judge Nash some Republican votes. It is conceded that any votes that can be controlled by Governor Bushnell, ex-Chairman Kurtz and other anit-Hanna Republicans will be cast for McLean, but this factional work may not extend to others on the Republican state ticket. Meantime the gold Democrats, as well as the Bryan Democrats, are supporting McLean, and there is no factional fuss among the Democrats.

William Cowell, manager for Mayor Jones' campaign, makes the following statement: "I have no reason to change the figures I have already made on the election. We will carry the state and elect Mayor Jones governor by a plurality of 35,000, and there is no telling how much more. We will carry Toledo, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland and in fact nearly every city in the state where there is any manufacturing interest. We have completed a second poll of the state and have every assurance that we will poll 335,000 votes, figuring the total vote at 900,000. Our reports from the rural districts show that we will have our share of the votes from those sections."

The campaign has been bitter, dirty and full of charges and counter charges.

Will Be Close In Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 7.—The Nebraskan campaign closed last night with rallies in a number of the larger towns. Estimates of chairmen at Republican and Populist headquarters do not vary greatly, and conservative men on both sides believe the result will be close. In this city and county Judge Reese (Rep.), for supreme judge, will run ahead of his ticket slightly, and his managers contend that the same rule will hold good all over the state. They refuse to admit of the possibility of his defeat.

At the state house there is greatest confidence in a fusion victory. Governor Poynter, who accompanied Mr. Bryan the greater part of the time in his two weeks of campaigning, said the latter's presence acted as an inspiration, and if the result was at any time in doubt Mr. Bryan had completely turned the tide. He predicted ex-Governor Holcomb's election as judge by 12,000.

Brown Vote the Determining Factor.

Louisville, Nov. 7.—A quiet and orderly election may be predicted. While the feeling between the factions is at a rather high tension, the general apprehension, it is thought, will do more to lessen the likelihood of an outbreak than the precautionary activity which has been noticeable among those who are directing the movements of the municipal police and the state national guard. If a clash should occur it is most likely to be in Louisville. But at the larger towns nothing more serious than the usual election day casualties is expected. In Louisville the greatest feeling has been aroused. One Democratic faction controls the police, while the other has made the alleged interference of these officers with the local primary and election machinery one of its principal campaign cries. Mayor Weaver has issued a proclamation appealing for order and cautioning the police.

Governor Bradley is in the city and will remain here until after election. A number of reports have been current as to orders said to have been sent to militia companies throughout the state to hold themselves in readiness for a call. Beyond the anxiety which springs from a knowledge of the feeling aroused in the campaign and the possibility, always present in a city election, of an outbreak of trouble with a certain class of political workers, there is nothing to indicate that the services of the militia will be required.

The campaign closed last night with large meetings which were addressed by the state party leaders. The Democrats crowded Music hall to listen to the final speeches of their leaders, William Goebel and Senator Blackburn. The Republicans held a rousing meeting at the Auditorium, where Governor Bradley and others spoke. Each of the state chairmen predicts success for his ticket. The vote for the Brown Democratic ticket is an unknown quantity, and it is likely to be the determining factor.

The Bay State Outlook.

Boston, Nov. 7.—There is nothing to indicate that today's election in Massachusetts will prove to be anything but the customary Republican victory. Not since 1892 have the Democrats carried the state, and the election of W. M. Crane, the present lieutenant governor and the Republican candidate for governor, is conceded beyond the possibility of a doubt. The legislature also will be Republican by the usual majority, only the manufacturing centers and this city contributing to the minority in that body. There are no state issues and very few local contests, so that conditions are more than ordinarily normal. Good judges place the Republican majority between 50,000 and 60,000, the weather being probably of greater influence on the vote than party theory.

The result in Boston will be watched with more than ordinary interest, as it will serve in a measure to gauge the municipal campaign. The Republicans have carried the city at the state elections on each of the past three years, but there seems to be every indication that this year the city will be Democratic.

The most interesting fight in the state is that against the return of Senator Parsons, the independent Republican candidate for senator in the Franklin-Hampshire district. The regular Republican nominee is Charles W. Hazleton, and there is no Democratic candidate in the field, hence the result will be interesting as a test of the popularity of the expansion policy, which was disapproved by Senator Parsons.

The Battle In Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 7.—Both parties are at the polls today, with the leaders of each assuring their followers of a certain victory. Chairman Vandiver of the Democratic state central committee asserts that his party will carry Baltimore city and 20 out of the 23 counties of the state, and George Shyrock, the Republican chairman, concedes to John W. Smith, the Democratic candidate for governor, nothing save his own county, Worcester. The Democratic prediction is for a plurality approaching 12,000, while the Republicans claim that Governor Lowndes will be re-elected by 2000 or 3000 less. Conservative estimates are that the Democrats will get a plurality of 1200 in the nine counties on the eastern shore, and about the same in northern-central Maryland, which will be overcome, probably, with several hundred votes to spare, by the Republicans in western and southern Maryland, leaving Baltimore city, with a registered vote of about 110,000, as debatable ground. Neither of the parties is holding its own voters solidly. Former Congressman Charles H. Coffin of the Fifth (southern Maryland) district, a leading Republican, has declared for the Democratic ticket, and a revolt of considerable proportions has been organized against Congressman Mudd in that section of the state. Senator Wellington's friends are rather lukewarm in their support of Governor Lowndes, the senator having accused the governor of treachery and retired at the begining of the campaign from the state committee chairmanship, which he had held since 1895, in which year Governor Lowndes was elected by 18,000 plurality.

AGUINALDO'S CAPTURE

Negros Filipinos Given an Autonomous Government.

Heavy Rains Have Temporarily Suspended Movements of Lawton.

Washington, Nov. 7.—There is an optimistic feeling in army circles regarding the Wheaton expedition to Dagupan, which in connection with Lawton and MacArthur's forces, aims to hem in Aguinaldo's army and capture him. This plan of campaign was mentioned several weeks ago, but the department had aimed to keep all knowledge of the expedition from reaching the public and the insurgents until now, when the movement is well under way and the junction about to be made.

It is of course possible and even probable that the insurgents will slip out of the American hands, just as they have done so often before. But if Aguinaldo escapes to the north he will be getting into what is at best only neutral territory, and a little farther north the people will openly antagonize him. This step is, on the Americans' part, the grand maneuver of their whole campaign, and army officials here believe that even if Aguinaldo himself gets away, his army will either be beaten so decisively or so scattered to the hills as to make his further stand impossible.

No campaign can be carried on by either side in the interior, and when the insurgents once are driven into that interior the Americans hope that the support of this insurgent army will prove such a burden upon the inhabitants that it will not be tolerated. If the Tagals become involved in a quarrel among themselves the war will soon be over.

A Manila dispatch announces that the first autonomous government of the Filipinos was established at Bacolo, in the island of Negros, yesterday. General Smith, governor of the Island of Negros, administered the oath of office to the judge of the supreme court, who in turn swore in the governor, three judges, 12 councilmen, the auditor and the secretary of the interior. The natives of the entire island attended the ceremony. The officers from Iloilo were also present.

Three days' feasting, in celebration of the new government and the first anniversary of the surrender of the Spaniards to the Negros revolutionists, ended with a ball in the government house last night. American flags were displayed in the village. The celebration consisted of horse racing and other sports, music, religious functions and an illumination. The ball last night attracted the wives of the wealthy planters, and there was as great a display of rich costumes and costly jewels as would be seen at a similar affair in America or Europe.

Elections were held Oct. 2, the number of votes cast being 5248. There were 40 candidates for the various offices. Senor Melecio Severino was elected governor, receiving 1305 votes. Senor Jaime received 1277 votes. Suffrage was determined by property qualification and ability to read and write.

Colonel Miner welcomed the officials on behalf of the United States. In the course of his remarks he said: "Negros leads in the van of civil government in the Philippines. Your honor lies in adding a new star to freedom's flag."

General Smith, during a speech which he delivered, said: "Your future promises as brightly as Japan's, who, today, is recognized as among the civilized nations of the world."

Senor Severino, in replying, said that the best thing for the future of Negros was the continuance of close relations with the United States.

General Smith then announced the granting of freedom to the political prisoners in commemoration of the event.

General Smith, in an interview, remarked that it was of the utmost importance that the Filipinos should be taught to recognize the sovereignty of the United States. The gravest danger, he said, threatening a peaceful administration was intrigue among the insular politicians, and he declared that the United States government must for years keep control of the Filipinos in order to prevent such conditions from existing.

A recently organized revolutionary movement has been discovered in northern Negros, and the leaders have been forced to withdraw to Panay. A number of bandits, under the leadership of Papa Issio, a religious charlatan, have been driven into the mountains, but it is expected that they will give more trouble. A force of 250 native soldiers, armed with Springfield rifles, are helping the Americans, and are found to be valuable as scouts.

General Lawton's operations have been temporarily suspended, owing to heavy rains. The country around Cabanatuan is flooded. The river, however, has begun falling rapidly, and probably the country in that section will soon resume its normal condition.

Jeffries Arrested.

New York, Nov. 7.—James J. Jeffries and his brother, John, were arrested last night after they had finished a boxing exhibition on the stage of a theater in this city. They had boxed three rounds in imitation of the Jeffries-Sharkey bout. Bail was furnished and the men were released, pending a hearing. It is said that the arrest was made for the purpose of testing the Horton law.

Good Afternoon.

Sewer Commissioner Jones did not get rattled much at the investigation last night. With him white was white, and black was black.

It was very thoughtful and kind of Supt. Austin of the Electric Light Co. to keep the street lights burning after midnight until the Councilmen could reach their homes from the midnight session. Most of the members were pretty much awake however. They had been seeking light all the evening.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ They are picking up the shot and shell on the battle fields of Cuba, and sending them to Philadelphia, to be worked over for purposes of war or peace as the case may be. There is a great scarcity of scrap iron in this country, and these war relics bring from $15 to $17 a ton. Five thousand tons of old iron have been imported from Cuba in the last two months.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ The Colorado newspaper which has renounced Populism and silverism for the Republican principles, says that it "would rather have an ounce of genuine prosperity than a ton of nostrums." For this reason the Republican prosperity in all of its genuineness is fast becoming the doctrine of westerners.—Lawrence American.

☞ Portland has had its experience with a private banking enterprise, and the lesson will teach depositors in that city the wisdom of making the regularly established institutions for savings the custodians of their funds. Private banking houses, however honest in purpose, offer no such security as those that are more closely under state supervision —Brockton Times.

ALL CONFIDENT.

Six Representative Candidates Sure of Election

But Four Must Be Defeated.

Majorities for All Republicans Probable.

It is a "Republican day" certainly as far as the weather goes, and the Republicans are not at all disturbed but what it will be a Republican day for all their candidates from Governor to Representatives. The Democrats however, are not without hope as far as Representatives go, or else they are putting up a big bluff.

Candidate Cain is very confident about his election, and looks for the election of his colleague, Mr. Jordan also. Candidate Jordan says it would not be surprising if Mr. Cain was about right in his anticipations.

Candidate Sheppard said he was unable to make any estimate of the results but after giving the Social Democrats the highest number claimed for either of their candidates there were enough left to elect both Mr. Sprague and himself handsomely.

Candidate Sprague looks at it in about the same light, and is confident of victory.

Everybody concedes majorities to all the other Republican candidates for office, but reduced from 1898.

The number registered who could vote today is 4,228 as shown in the middle column of figures below, and is compared with the number on the lists at other times.

QUINCY WARD.

Ward One is getting out the usual vote, being only 29 behind the big vote of 1898 at 12 M. The vote by hours is shown by these figures: At 7 A. M., 54 had been cast, at 8 A.M., 139; at 9 A. M., 225; at 10 A. M., 278; at 11 A. M., 325; at 12 M., 368.

The biggest vote was between 8 and 9 o'clock as will be seen, 85 between 7 and 8, and 86 between 8 and 9.

The familiar election officers are missed, especially Warden Packard who had filled the position since the first year of the city.

The officers are:
Warden, Philip J. Cook.
Clerk, Maynard C. King.
Inspectors, Thomas J. McGrath, James Dunn, Edward L. Goodridge, and Edward Johnson.

During the noon hour 67 votes were cast in this ward, so that there were 435 at 1 o'clock and 465 at 1.45. The total will go over 500. Last year it was 546.

AT QUINCY POINT.

The voting in Ward Two is fully as quiet as in other wards, and is hardly up to that of last year. This ward has no resident candidate for office at this election, which may account for the apparent lack of interest. There seems to be no question, however, but what the ward will poll a good Republican majority.

The election officers on duty are:
Warden, E. W. Newcomb.
Clerk, T. J. Carey.
Inspectors, Maurice Newcomd, W. H. Sampson, Jr., Daniel J. Ford and George Weston.
Police, Officers David L. Gordon and Calvin T. Dyer.

The total at 2.15 was 315.

AT SOUTH QUINCY.

Ward Three is supposed to be the stronghold of the Social Democracy, but up to noon but little of their strength had been shown. During the forenoon it was very quiet about the polling places. The usual large number of teams to carry voters were missed, and there was but little to show that an election was taking place.

In precinct one the voting was going at the average rate of thirty per hour, and up to 11.30 but 172 votes had been thrown. This is said to be behind that of last year. There may be a rush, however, between 12 and 1 o'clock but it is not looked for.

Precinct Two is the Social Democratic precinct and it was expected that a large vote would be shown here. On the contrary it was way behind that of last year, for up to 11.30 but 133 votes had been thrown. When it is considered that a year ago at 9 o'clock 150 votes had been registered, it will be seen that this precinct is not holding its own. Yet like the other precinct it may get a rush between 12 and 1 o'clock, athough it looks now as though the heavy claim of the Social Democracy as not based on facts.

Warden,—George D. Cahill.
Clerk,—W. W. Parry.
Inspector, — W. A. Kelley, Abel Nutting, W.F. McCalder and James H. Sullivan.
Police, — Officers Goodhue and Morrissey.

Precinct Two the officers are:
Warden,—Peter W. Dakers.
Clerk,—John Boyle.
Inspector,—Murdock A. Campbell, Thomas Higgins, John Kennedy and Francis Morrison.
Police,—Officers Curtin and J. J. Bradley.

AT WEST QUINCY.

Voting in Ward Four during the morning hours was very quiet, and unless it picks up this afternoon the total vote of the ward and will fall behind that of last year. In precinct one, the Democratic precinct, it was very quiet, and up to 11 o'clock but 124 votes had been deposited in the box. It was supposed that the Social Democrats would show their strength in this precinct, if anywhere in the ward, but there were no signs of it at noon. The largest vote is of course looked for between 12 and 1 o'clock but from present indications it will be lighter than usual.

In precinct two, the Republican half of the ward, the voting was a little heavier, and 184 votes had been deposited at 11 o'clock. This, however, according to the election officers is behind that of a year ago. A large vote is not expected here by the officers.

In regard to the counting of the votes there seems to be a conflict of authority. According to the statutes counting can not commence until 2 o'clock. The instructions however, sent out by the City Clerk say that counting can commence whenever a majority of the election officers so decide. Owing to the smallness of the vote it will not be commenced before 2 o'clock, and it is expected returns from here will be in as early as usual.

Warden,—M. B. Garey.
Clerk,—J. H. Campbell.
Inspectors,—Virgil W. Fuller, John Williams, John Burke and James Gillraine
Police,—Officers Lyons and Reddington.

Precinct Two officers are:
Warden,—Nathan Ames.
Clerk, F. J. Markham.
Inspectors,—W. H. Teasdale, J. F. Ronney, Thomas Shortle and H. W. Campbell.
Police, — Officers Hinchon and Milford.

AT WOLLASTON.

For the first time in the history of Wollaston the voting place was located on the east side of the railroad track. The place however, in view of the fact that a large part of the population use the steps to the station or the nearby side street, was convenient. The voting was done in the vacant store in the Emery building. The store is roomy and has ample accommodations for a large crowd. And by the way it seems a pity that the forthcoming Republican caucus cannot be held there instead of in that stuffy little room in the old hose house.

As in years past, Warden Sherman opened the polls promptly on the appointed hour. His assistants were as follows:

Clerk,—William P. Chase.

In this ward the outlook is of course flattering to the Republican prospects. Last year the Republican vote was 417 and the Democratic 45.

There seems to be no reason why it will not be substantially the same unless the Social Democrats cut a little ice.

Mr. Jordan has put up this year a warm fight for Representative. Last year he ran way ahead of his ticket. He will probably run ahead this year as he is popular with the boys. Representative Sprague will also run ahead. Both local candidates were out with picture cards. Jordan was the first one in the field. All of this makes an entertainment for the onlooker and a pleasing digression from the humdrum of what would otherwise be a dull campaign.

Candidate Jordan when seen by the Ledger reporter, told him not to be surprised at anything. That it would be well for the Ledger to prepare a head line saying Jordan scalps Sprague. He felt very hopeful of being second man at Wollaston in the Representative contest.

To add to the complication it is said that in the Wollaston ward many ballots have been thrown, both for Sprague and Jordan. Republicans predict rousing majorities for Sheppard and Sprague.

AT ATLANTIC.

Ward Six has an ideal voting place in Music hall. It is clean and roomy and without doubt is the most convenient polling place in the city. The voting up to noon was very light compared with a year ago and the indications are that the total vote of the day will fall behind that of last year. The Democrats of the ward are getting a good hustle on, and are getting out every voter, and the indications are that the full Democratic strength will be polled. This is said be due to the large amount of missionary work which Candidates Cain and Jordan have been putting in among the younger element. Just what thir strength will show can not be told until the votes are counted.

As for the Social Democrats there were no signs of such a party in this ward up to noon, and it is not believed that they will throw over a dozen votes at most. The vote of the ward at 12 o'clock noon was 236 which is behind that of last year at the same time.

The election officers on duty:
Warden, Elijah G. Hall.
Clerk, Cephas Drwe.
Inspectors, David C. Nelson, James Martin, Henry S. Weymouth and Conelius M. Duggan.
Police Officers, Maxwell and Mc Carthy.

It was an amusing sight on Monday afternoon to see how the up-growing youth of Atlantic utilized the new block at the corner of Sagamore and Prospect streets. The partitions are as yet unplastered, and to one approaching, it looked as if the walls were being scaled by innumerable little boys whose ear-splitting shouts betokened bliss in the extreme. A nearer approach revealed ten or fifteen sea-saws through the spaces in the walls, and the hatless and wind-tossed heads of the tilters bobbed up and down giving the on-lookers a sense of dizzy bewilderment.

The same committee reported an order authorizing the Mayor to continue the present contract with the Electric Light & Power Co. for street lighting to Dec. 31, 1899. Adopted.

NEWPORT AVENUE WIDENING.

There was a public hearing at 8 o'clock upon an order for the widening of Newport avenue between Beale street and Brook street by taking land owned by Railroad.

A. L. Baker favored the city taking the title of the land, but thought the traveled way wide enough for present use. Better to care for the streets that we have than to widen. Condition of Newport avenue at this point was disgraceful.

Councilmen Jameson, Bryant, Pinkham and Packard asked many questions also H. A. Faxon.

Lawyer Farnum represented the New Haven R. R., opposed widening. Did not wish to antagonize people, as what was the railroad's interests was for the interest of people. It would not be of advantage of city to take title of land when they can have the use without. The railroad realized that four tracks were necessary on the main line through Quincy. He did not know who would be elected Governor Tuesday, but he did know that the railroad was going to have four tracks. Then a station would be necessary on the Newport avenue side as well as the present site. Were the street widened there would not be room for a depot. There should be some station grounds. With a second station the fence would be eliminated, and a fence erected between the outward and the inward racks.

Councilman Bryant asked questions relative to station grounds and hack privileges.

Councilman Jameson asked if the land was not given to the railroad with the understanding that a depot should be built and maintained on the west of track. Counsel did not know. Railroad was willing to move back fence if Railroad Commissioners approved. Could give no promise of subway.

Councilman Packard asked as to second station.

To Councilman Pinkham, counsel could promise no change of material of fence.

Councilman Bryant said President Clark had promised Mayor Keith that the fence should be moved back, but when the newspapers said that would not wholly satisfy Wollaston people he had refused to act.

To this Counsel Farnum said President Clark had been misquoted. He had refused to act because there was a threat to take the case to the Supreme court, and under those circumstances the railroad preferred the backing of the Railroad Commissioners which it had.

Councilman Bryant wanted to review the case but Mr. Farnum said he did not enter employ of railroad until July 1, 1898.

To Councilman Pinkham Mr. Farnum said he could not promise gates in place of turnstiles in new fence.

Petition referred to Committee on Streets.

The joint Committee on Streets and Sewers reported reference to the Board of Health on petition to repair drain on Willard street. Accepted.

The Committee on Finance, on the petition of the School Committee for an additional appropriation of $1,500, reported in its opinion no further appropriation should be made this year. Accepted.

The same committee reported no legislation necessary on the communication of the Mayor relative to the street railway tax.

The same committee reported ought not to pass on the order relative to the change of ordinance relative to salary of Commissioner of Public works.

The same committee reported an order for $2,100 covering following amounts: $875 for fire alarm boxes and dividing number three fire alarm circuit; $200 for completing wall on Willard street; $600 for Madison avenue; $150 for wiring the almshouse, and $275 for a foot bridge over Beale street.

Councilman Poland moved to strike out the amount for the footbridge. He did not think it sufficient. The present structure was not strong enough to hold it, and it only delayed necessary accommodations Wollaston should have. At best it was but a makeshift.

Councilman Bryant. This amount will build a foot bridge there. The bridge was narrow and footpassers were in constant danger. All we ask is something to prevent loss of life. People who drive in carriages also have a right to ask a place where they can drive in safety. The last gentleman is perfectly willing to spend $3,000 on Billings road, where not over six teams pass in a day, but he kicks on this.

Councilman Poland—I do kick. I did not ask for a load of straw on Billings road. With an additional load of four or five tons on those spans, they are not strong enough. If we put in a bridge let us put in a good one. Let us have a committee to investigate and see what is needed.

The combination financial order was laid on the table, and the single orders taken up.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass, on order for footbridge over Beale street.

Councilman Poland hoped Council would consider this. The danger is no greater today than before. This means the blocking of better facilities.

Chief Engineer Williams was called before the Council and in response to questions said the weight of the footbridge would be about a ton and it would be perfectly safe.

Councilman Poland disagreed, but the order passed under suspension of the rules, Councilmen Nicoll, Owens and Poland voting in the negative.

The Committee on Finance reported ought to pass on each of the orders for wiring the almshouse; accepting Madison avenue; for fire alarm boxes and dividing number three circuit and on order for completing wall on Willard street. All passed under suspension of the rules.

The loan order was then taken from the table and passed.

The Committee on Finance reported a substitute order for $5,000 for purchase of land for school house on Whitwell street, and for $40,000 for a nine-room brick building. Substitute order accepted.

The part for $5,000 was passed under suspension of the rules, Councilman McLennan voting no.

SEWER TRANSFER.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant the communiation of the City Auditor relative to the transfer of $5,000 from Sewers to Streets was taken from the table, and the City Auditor was asked to explain.

Auditor Hall in response to questions by Counilman Bryant stated that the order to transfer $5,000 from the Sewer to the Street department was signed by two members of the sewer board. It was handed him by the City Treasurer, whom he informed he did not think he had authority to approve the transfer. It was not a properly approved bill. In other cases the department doing the work has made itemized bills of work done, and they had come to him approved. If this had come in the usual way I shoud have approved it. It was large sum and I questioned it.

Councilman Badger—I think the Auditor is right, $5,000 was exorbitant. The Council should prob into it before it is passed.

Auditor Hall—It usually comes in small sums.

Commissioner Cavanagh—This work has been performed and I have furnished an itemized bill.

Auditor Hall—He sent me a sheet of journal paper saying it was a partial list of work done on the streets. I did not consider I was authorized to approve a bill in a lump sum. It was not a proper bill.

Councilman Hill—Have you bills for $5,300 for repairs on streets.

Auditor Hall—No.

Counilman Hill—The Commissioner has told us a few weeks ago he did not have a right to fix up streets after the sewer and charge it to Misellaneous." Now he says he has done so.

Upon request of Counilman Jameson, Commissioner Jones of the Sewer board appeared before the Council, and in response to questions asked said:

In response to questions Commissioner Jones said he did not vote to transfer $5,000 for the reason that the work had not been done. Nothing has been done except on a few streets for which a bill of $1,400 was put, to which all the board objected. He did not know of any other bill. In August the Sewer Commissioners offered the Street department $2,500 which was refused. In October we talked the matter over again. Mr. Schenkelberger and our engineer went over the streets and concluded $4,000 was enough. Mr. Schenkelberger and Mr. Shea left the meeting and had a confab with Mr. Cavanagh, after which the amount was raised to $5,000. He could not help what the Commissioner said, the streets had not been repaired. If he has done it I do not know it. Last year we paid Commissioner Knowlton for fixing the streets. His bills were all small and they were paid. If there was any kick Mr. Shea made it. This year when large bills come in Mr. Shea does not kick. He knew by personal observation that the streets had not been fixed. I was willing to agree to $4,000. Mr. Cavanagh never presented but one bill to my knowledge.

Commissioner Shea said he voted for the $5000. In July bills were received for $3800 since then work has been done which brings the amount to $5-300. We told the Commissioner to put the streets in condition and render a bill. A majority of the board was in favor of this sum. The Commissioner assumes responsibility of the streets opened up to Dec. 31, 1899. He considered the $5000 had already been expended. He could not say how much had been withheld from contractors to repair streets. We thought we were driving a good bargain at $5,000.

We hold a written agreement for care of all streets. He thought Mr. Jones mistaken when he said we had conference with Mr. Cavanagh.

Mr. Jones recalled said at this meeting we first agreed upon $4000 but Mr. Shea and Mr. Schenkelberger left the meeting and when they came back they said they had had a talk with Mr. Cavanagh and they raised the amount to $5000 and they voted that amount. He had never seen any bill for $3,800 and if there was one it must have been kept in the dark.

City Auditor Hall, in reply to a question said no bills had been presented to his knowledge for work done on the sewer.

Commissioner Cavanagh said he presented bill for $5300 soon after the first of October. Messrs. Shea and Schenkelberger had told me to go ahead and fix up the streets and they would reimburse me. In August I presented a bill for $3800. They thought it was high but I thought I should have $6000. I have already spent $5300 on account of sewers and have presented an itemized bill for that amount. If I get this $5,000 I shall have it to fix streets with. The amount expended has been from "Miscellaneous highways."

The City Solicitor said it was perfectly legal to make this transfer and said the Council had no right to investigate or question it.

Commissioner Shea then addressed the Council saying this was simply in line with what had been done in other cases. He resented the statement of Councilman Badger that it was something which should be probed. If he has got any charges to make, let him do so. We challenge the fullest investigation. He did not think we were obliged to give an itemized bill.

Councilman Badger denied accusing the Sewer board.

The communication of the City Auditor was again laid on the table.

The total vote was 885 when the polls closed at 2 P. M.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible hat it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable.

UNPALATABLE ADVICES

Continue to Come In From South African Districts.

Much Depends Upon the British Holding Estcourt.

Disaffected Dutch In Natal Affected by Boer Proclamations.

London, Nov. 7.—The war office announced at midnight that no dispatches had been received beyond those already made public and that nothing further would be issued before noon today. Thus not a solitary official item of news has been posted for nearly 24 hours.

This has given rise to a crop of rumors that Ladysmith's ammunition is exhausted, that General White is mortally wounded, that both facts are being concealled and that other unlucky happenings have taken place. For all these reports there is absolutely no foundation. At the same time the Britisher has had little to stimulate him within the last 24 hours, except the news of the confident attitude of the Ladysmith garrison, and its slight successes last Thursday and Friday.

Advices from other parts of South Africa are distinctly unpalatable, and everything points to a critical situation in Natal and the northern portions of Cape Colony, likely to grow more acute until General White is either relieved or decisively defeated. Nobody dares to think of capitulation.* Rather than this he is expected, in last resort, if Ladysmith becomes untenable, to make a desperate effort to cut his way through the Boers back into lower Natal and to join hands with the garrison there, which is now almost certain to be reinforced by the first arrivals of the army corps from England, and to be pressed forward to renew touch with him.

It is generally assumed, however, that General White, with the aid of the naval guns, will be able to cope with any bombardment, and the idea that the Boers could take Ladysmith by assault is scouted as absurd. The defense thus depends upon the uninterrupted working of the naval guns. Right here arises the important question—upon which the dispatches have thrown no light—whether the naval guns, which themselves only arrived at the last moment, have with them sufficient ammunition to reply to a bombardment lasting possibly several weeks. If not, it is hardly likely that works exist in a small town like Ladysmith for casting the special shells needed for the 4.7-inch guns, and, moreover, there is no mention of stores of lyddite at Ladysmith for recharging these shells.

Meanwhile vague remarks in the dispatches point to the impending arrival of further big Boer guns from Johannesburg, to be mounted among the hills within range of Ladysmith. Such considerations explain the anxiety felt regarding General White's movements and position, not only by the public, but in official circles.

The British retirement to Estcourt has given the impression that it is intended to make a stand there. Estcourt is the last important town between the Boers and the capital of Natal, and, if the Boers swept past Estcourt, nothing can stop them from laying siege to Pietermaritzburg, which cannot be expected to make a protracted defense, while its fall would be a tremendous blow to British prestige through South Africa.

Already the British retirement south of Colenso has given the Boers an opportunity to make a bid for the active support of the disaffected Dutch in Natal by proclaiming the annexation of the upper Tugela section. Thus far the Dutch colonists seem to have confined their sympathy with the invading Boers to a platonic emotion. Except for surreptitious assistance, there is no evidence that they have yet joined the Boers openly in any appreciable numbers.

The reported British retirement from Stromberg Junction, however, will be followed doubtless by a similar Boer proclamation annexing the portions of Cape Colony lying directly south of the Orange Free State. These proclamations, as in the case of Bechuanaland, have been and will be immediately followed by British counter-proclamations, but to the eyes of the Dutch farmers the presence of one Boer commando is probably more impressive than the expectation of the arrival of the whole British army in the more or less distant future.

The British newspapers publish a list of the transports due to arrive at Cape Town from today. According to this some 20,000 men should reach the Cape by the end of next week, but the admiralty issued a chilling warning last evening to the effect that no disappointment must be felt by the public if the transports should not arrive at the dates mentioned, dates which, the war office says, are "based in many cases upon too sanguine expectations."

A dispatch from Estcourt, Natal, dated Nov. 4, noon, says: A reliable messenger has just arrived from Ladysmith, passing the Boer lines during the night, who reports that heavy fighting occurred on Thursday around Ladysmith. The hottest engagement was on George Tathams's farm, on the Orange Free State side of Besters. The British drove the Boers back to their camp. The enemy suffered great loss, and 36 mounted Boers were captured.

The fighting was resumed Friday, the Boers firing from Nosdwathshana hill, near Pepworth's farm. Again they were driven back with loss on their camp.

A large Boer force, with artillery, under John Wessals, has taken up a position on the left of Beacon, locating on the Woodhouse, Pieciones and Langvaracht farms, facing Besters, and a small commander is now encamped facing the south side of Pieters station, commanding the railway. The Boers have torn up the culverts of the railway near Pieters station and have burned the wooden portions.

No damage has yet been done at Colenso. The houses, stores, railway and iron bridges remain intact. The messenger says he heard that the Boers would be in Colenso Saturday, and that the volunteers were leaving.

Much regret is felt at the unnecessary alarm being created at Maritzburg when there is no need for it. The Natal naval corps, with guns, will return to Maritzburg to reassure the inhabitants.

Commenting upon a rumor from Amsterdam that Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic representative of the Transvaal in Europe, had declared that the intervention of France, Russia and Germany in the Transvaal was now assured, the Berlin Kolinische Zeitung says: "We do not know what Dr. Leyds may have said, but the matter of his supposed statement is false in every respect. Neither France nor Russia have shown the slightest inclination, either with or without Germany, to set the South African question on the order of the day."

The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from Kimberley, dated Wednesday, Nov. 1: This morning the Boers fired the veldt near Dronfield, seven miles from Kimberley, and this afternoon the flames set on fire the smaller of the two magazines, exploding the dynamite with a terrific report. Fortunately, no one was injured. The veldt is still burning, and it is feared that the larger magazine, where there are 1200 cases of dynamite, will be ignited.

Succeeded In Killing Himself.

Boston, Nov. 7.—Augustus Ludwig of Dedham attempted to murder his wife by shooting her at Hyde Park, and then attempted to commit suicide. The Ludwigs lived in Dedham up to two weeks ago, when Mrs. Ludwig left her husband and obtained employment in Briggs' woolen mill at Hyde Park. Ludwig arrived there shortly before noon yesterday, and waited for his wife to leave the mill for dinner. They were seen conversing with one another, and soon afterwards a pistol shot was heard. The husband had shot the woman just above the right ear. He then went to a stable, where he attempted to kill himself. He was brought to this city and sent to the Massachusetts general hospital, where he died last evening. Mrs. Ludwig is not seriously wounded.

Allen Will Succeed Reed.

Portland, Me., Nov. 7.—Amos L. Allen, Republican candidate for congress in the First Maine district, was elected yesterday by a majority of more than 4600 votes over Luther F. McKinney, the Democratic candidate. The surprising feature of the election was Mr. Allen's majority in York county, which was 3089. Mr. Reed's plurality in York last year was 2236. Last year the total vote in the district was 23,670. This year it amounts to less than 20,000. There were only two candidates this year, but it is evident from spoiled ballots that a considerable number of Prohibition voters made the mark in the Prohibition square on the official ballot, although they had no candidate.

Safely Democratic

Richmond, Nov. 7.—The election in Virginia today is for a full house of delegates and half the senate. The general assembly will in turn elect a United States senator to succeed Senator Martin and what are known as the capitol officers. The candidates for senator are Senator Martin and Governor Tyler. The vote throughout the state is light and the legislature will be overwhelmingly Democratic. The canvass has been spiritless and few speeches have been made.

Killed a Tresspasser.

Newburg, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Gustav Von Seidler, a Russian, was arrested last night charged with murder. Von Seidler is a farm hand in the employ of Mrs. Wells, who lives with her two daughters six miles from here. Mrs. Wells had given him strict orders to allow no trespassers on the farm. Six Italian hunters came on the place yesterday, and the Russian ordered them off. A bullet from Von Seidler's Winchester struck one of the party in the back, killing him instantly.

Investigating Townsend's Death.

Pittsburg, Nov. 7.—The prize fight at Homestead on April 21 last, which resulted in the death of Tucker Townsend, colored, is being officially investigated in the criminal court. There are seven defendants, including John Cavanaugh, the opponent of Townsend. The defendants are indicted for manslaughter and misdemeanor. The district attorney asks for a verdict of involuntary manslaughter on the first count.

Dewey Draws a Crowd.

New York, Nov. 7.—Admiral Dewey accompanied Mrs. Mildred Hazen on a shopping tour yesterday. The admiral and Mrs. Hazen walked to the Dewey arch. Here the admiral pointed out the figures to Mrs. Hazen and explained their significance. The admiral was recognized and a crowd collected. He was saluted by a number of persons and bowed pleasantly in return to their salutations.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Rosa Arvitch was fatally burned at Fall River, Mass., as the result of her endeavors to put out a bonfire set by playmates.

Theodore Halder, 45 years old, killed himself by shooting at Boston. He was well known among German residents, and had been employed as a collector for a brewery company. He was despondent.

The auditor of the postoffice department, in his annual report, shows that during the last year the number of postoffices in the United States increased from 72,976 to 74,384.

A dispatch to the war department announces the death of Major Samuel Robinson, surgeon U. S. A., at Hot Springs, Ark.

George H. Daniels, general passenger agent of the New York Central railroad, is at the head of a movement to abolish the practice of "tipping" on dining and sleeping cars.

How It Looks In Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 7.—The campaign has been warmly waged by both the leading parties, and the chairmen of both state committees express confidence in polling a comparatively full vote for an off year and belief that the contest of ballots will result in victories for their respective tickets. Chairman Weaver of the Republicans estimates that the plurality for his party will run from 40,000 to 45,000, while Chairman Huffman is satisfied with saying that he believes that enough disaffected Republicans will refuse to vote or will vote the Democratic ticket to give his party a small plurality. The best estimates on the legislature are that the Republicans will have an overwhelming majority on joint ballot and elect the next United States senator to succeed John H. Gear.

Republicans Feel Confident.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 7.—Any forecast on the election in South Dakota is pure guess work. Not a township in the state has been polled and but one thing is certain and that is that a light vote will be polled. Chairman Kidd of the fusion committee thinks 70 percent of the vote will be cast, and Chairman Harrack of the Republican committee agrees that this estimate is about right. Republicans generally feel that they will carry the state.

In the Empire State.

New York, Nov. 7.—At the close of the campaign, the Republicans are confident of electing a majority of the assemblymen, and the Democrats of carrying the four counties that make up the city of New York. Richard Croker says that the Democrats, even if they carried every assembly district in New York city, would still need to make gains up the state in order to gain the assembly. Of this he was not hopeful. "There is no organization up the state," he said.

In the Keystone State.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—What little interest is manifested in the election in Pennsylvania is centred in the vote for state treasurer, and particularly as to which of the prominent candidates will receive the greater portion of the big independent vote cast in the general elections of the last two years. This year there is no independent candidate. The Republican state chairman confidently claims that Barnett, the Republican state treasury candidate, will receive the full party vote, and that he will have a majority in the state of at least 175,000.

Rode Over the Veto.

Toledo, Nov. 7.—The board of aldermen last night passed, over the veto of Mayor Jones, the proposition to sell the city gas plant. The question was debated at times in the most acrimonious manner. The proposition was carried over the veto by 11 to 2.

NASH WINS.

He Carries Ohio Over Combined Opposition.

Republicans Also Elect Their Ticket In Kentucky.

Maryland Is Transferred to the Democratic Column.

Bryan and His Friends Elated at the Result In Nebraska.

Results of Yesterday's Elections In Massachusetts, New York and Other States.

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—Nash's election is conceded in this state. The Republicans claim that their plurality will exceed 50,000, with over 100,000 for Jones, out of a total of 900,000. The Republican majority in the legislature is larger than usual, but no senator is to be elected.

After 11 p. m. the returns showed that the Democratic gains in Cincinnati and other cities were reduced, and that McLean was likely third at Cleveland and possibly at Toledo, in which cities Jones drew much more heavily from the Democrats than from the Republicans.

At the same time the Republicans' net gains outside of Cincinnati, Cleveland and Toledo were increasing at such a rate as to indicate a plurality of from 30,000 to 40,000 for Judge Nash for governor and the entire Republican state ticket and the election of a majority of the legislature. Chairman Dick had, previous to the election, repeatedly claimed the election of the entire Republican state ticket by not less than 50,000 plurality. So far he has refused to give out any figures, but those around him say that means that he now has no reason to change his first figures.

GEORGE KILBON NASH.

The later returns seems to be growing in favor of the Republicans, especially since the returns indicate that Jones hurt the Democrats much more than the Republicans in Cleveland, Toledo and Columbus and other cities, while the first reports indicate exactly the opposite.

Toledo, Nov. 8.—Mayor Jones, at 9 o'clock last night, conceded his own defeat. "If my race has contributed in any way," he said, "to the success of John R. McLean and a rebuke to the infamous Philippine policy of the administration, I feel that it has not been in vain."

Judge Nash was serenaded after midnight at the Neil House. To an enthusiastic crowd he made a brief speech. He said that the Ohio result was a message to President McKinley that his home state endorsed his administration and presaged McKinley's renomination and re-election in 1900.

The Republicans made their largest gains at the homes of Judge Nash, Senator Hanna and Chairman Dick. The Democrats made their largest gains at the home of Mr. McLean.

Chairman Seward of the Democratic campaign committee, figuring on returns outside of Hamilton, Cuyahoga and Lucas counties, claims McLean's election by 12,000, but Colonel W. A. Taylor, one of McLean's managers, with the same figures, makes Nash's plurality about 8000.

The total vote of Quincy was surprisingly large, exceeding the big vote of last year. The Republican pluralities were above the average, but naturally did not come up to the phenomenal figures of last year. The regular Republican ticket was successful in every instance in this city.

All the fight centered on the Representative contests, there being six candidates in a double district which elects two members of the House.

Representatives Sheppard and Sprague were both candidates for re-election and they had against them the two defeated candidates of last year—Thomas F. Cain and William A. Jordan,—and also a new party the Social Democrats who nominated two strong men,—Philip J. Halvosa and John A. Lamb.

Party lines were not very closely drawn in any case, one Socialist having about twice as many as the other, while one Democrat proved much stronger than his colleague and Representative Sprague ran way ahead of Representative Sheppard.

The vote of the Social Democratic candidates, which has been problematical all through the contest proved to be as follows:

HALVOSA,	687
LAMB,	407
Together,	1,104
Average,	552

The above votes came from the four others and Mr. Blank and their individual losses were as follows:

CAIN loss	168
JORDAN loss	283
SPRAGUE loss	159
SHEPPARD loss	516
BLANK loss	44

Representative Sprague carried Wards One and Five; Representative Sheppard was the favorite son in precinct 1 of Ward Three and also in Ward Six; Candidate Cain carried both precincts of Ward Four and surprised all by his lead in the Quincy Point ward; Candidate Halvosa bobbed up serenely in precinct 2 of Ward Three and led in the ward on the combined vote of the two precincts. Candidate Jordan got his largest vote in precinct 1 of Ward Four and in Ward Five. Candidate Lambs vote was very equally distributed.

The Republican and Democratic votes for each office when summarized as below also afford a very interesting study:

	Republican.	Democratic.	Dem. Social.
Governor,	1,628	948	218
Lieutenant Governor,	1,673	911	227
Secretary,	1,603	828	225
Treasurer,	1,615	845	226
Auditor,	1,594	852	228
Attorney General,	1,648	815	245
Councillor,	1,763	1,047	—
Senator,	1,546	1,130	—
Representative,	1,393	1,025	697
Representative,	1,277	800	407
County Commissioner,	1,707	1,004	—

The handsome vote of Representative Sprague, and the fact that he was the leading candidate surprised everyone.

	Wolcott.	Bruce.	Peare.	Shapleigh.	Porter.

Ward II,	235	140	8	2	1

The Wrong Man.

Officer Cameron thought he had made an important capture Tuesday morning. He was returning to Quincy from Wollaston with the receipt from the election officers when he saw an Italian who resembled the one who committed the brutal murder in Boston the night before. Officer Cameron promptly held the fellow up and brought him to the police station. The fellow proved that he was not the one wanted and he was released.

Taylor, Republican, has been elected governor of Kentucky, by a majority variously estimated at from 7000 to 15,000 over Goebel, Democrat. Returns also indicate the election of the entire Republican ticket, while the complexion of the legislature is in doubt.

The weather throughout the state was perfect, and more than an average vote was polled, the total falling but little short of the vote polled in the last presidential election. Comparatively little disorder prevailed, although there were several arrests for alleged violation of the election law.

Governor Bradley remained in Louisville all day, and had the Louisville legion in readiness for marching orders. The militia was called out after the close of the polls, to enforce an injunction granted by a local judge, but the presence of the militia was not needed, and the companies were soon ordered back to the armory.

Chairman Long of the Republican campaign committee says that Taylor's plurality will not be less than 15,000. This estimate, he says, is based upon the returns received from a majority of the counties in the state.

A plurality of 7000 is conceded by many Democratic leaders, while some of the more faithful are claiming a plurality of 5000 for Goebel. The estimated plurality of the most sanguine Democratic leaders is based upon returns from the interior of the state. which probably will be overcome by the strong Republican counties.

NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—It is evident to both parties that Nebraska has repledged her allegiance to the fusion standard. While Republicans are not yet willing to admit defeat, figures, thus far, point that way. There has been a steady falling off of the vote of both parties, but, while the fusionists have suffered but little, the Republican loss has been not less than three to a precinct. If the present ratio is maintained, ex-Governor Holcomb and the fusion state ticket will be elected by not less than 10,000. Fusionists claim much more.

W. J. Bryan gave out this statement this morning: "The campaign in Nebraska was fought on national issues and the result is a protest against the policy of the administration."

Mr. Bryan said he had no comment to make on results in other states.

Chairman Edmiton of the Populist state committee says: "We have carried the state by 15,000 and have made gains in county offices."

Chairman Tefft of the Republican committee declined to make a statement, but many of his associates admitted defeat, though not by as large a majority as claimed by the fusionists.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Nov. 8.—Returns thus far indicate that the Republicans of Maryland have been overwhelmingly defeated and that John Walker Smith, the Democratic candidate, has been elected by a majority variously estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000. There is also a reasonable certainty that the lower house of the general assembly will be Democratic by a large majority, and that the Democrats will elect enough state senators to overcome the Republican advantage among the hold-over senators, thereby controlling both branches of the legislature.

The Democrats are wild with enthusiasm, while the Republicans are correspondingly depressed over the result, which they are inclined to attribute to treachery among the followers of Mayor Malster and United States Senator Wellington. The latter has taken no part in the campaign, and has not hesitated, since his resignation as chairman of the state central committee a few weeks ago, to predict the overwhelming defeat of the Republican ticket. The gold Democrats, as an organization, supported Governor Lowndes, but this seems to have had but little, if any, effect on the result.

Llyod Wilkinson, secretary of the Democratic state central committee, made the following statement regarding the result of the election: "Mr. Smith's majority in the state will be from 14,000 to 15,000, with a majority in both houses of the legislature. The result shows clearly that the Democrats were thoroughly united, and that the Republicans were divided in Baltimore city and in several counties. National issues were not considered in the contest. The nominees of the Democratic state convention were satisfactory to Democrats generally, and the way they were nominated met with general approval. The result of the election shows that Maryland is a Democratic state whenever the party is united.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Nov. 8.—The Republicans carried Massachusetts by 65,000 votes and W. Murray Crane of Dalton will be the next governor. The entire Republican state ticket was elected by practically the same plurality as the head of the ticket, and the legislature of 1900 will also be Republican by the usual large majority, there being few changes in either branch.

W. Murray Crane (Rep.), 168,846.

Robert Treat Paine, Jr. (Dem.), 103,812.

The result of the election was highly gratifying to the Republicans, despite the fact that the vote for their candidate showed a falling off of 11 percent from last year. On the other hand, the Democrats expected to hold their own and were therefore somewhat disappointed with their 4 percent loss. The election in Boston, however, made up materially for the decline in the vote outside, and the Democrats are rejoicing that the city, after a three years' absence, is once more in the Democratic column. Last year Governor Wolcott carried Boston by over 1000, but this year it went Democratic by 6191.

The expansion question apparently played little part in the election, and Senator Herbert C. Parsons of Greenfield, where the question was an issue before the people, was defeated. Mr. Parsons ran independently and was assisted in his campaign by a number of anti-imperialists from this city.

There were but few surprises throughout the state, and party lines were more strictly drawn than is ordinarily the case.

The senate of 1900 will stand 31 Republicans to 9 Democrats, and the house 166 Republicans, 70 Democrats, 2 gold Democrats and 2 Independents. This shows a loss of two Republican senators and three Republican representatives. In addition to these three Republican places, the Democrats this year also have filled two seats occupied by Independents last year. The Democrats of the First Middlesex senatorial district elected their candidate for the first time. The Socialists lost a representative in Haverhill but a member of that party was chosen from the Fourth Plymouth district, thereby giving them the same quota as last year. The Socialists at Haverhill made up for their loss by giving the candidate for governor a greater vote than that received by the Democratic nominee. In other parts of the state the Socialistic doctrine was given some indorsement.

The Democrats had no difficulty in carrying the city of Boston. For the past three years the city has indorsed the Republican candidate for governor, but this year, Robert T. Paine, Jr., the Democratic nominee, received a plurality of 6196 over J. M. Crane, Republican.

Paine's total vote was 32,592 and Crane received 26,396. Last year Wolcott (Rep.) carried the city by a plurality of 1897 over Bruce (Dem.). These figures show a loss for Crane from Wolcott's vote of 7179 and a gain for Paine over Bruce's total of 914.

The decrease in the Crane vote is partly due to the fact that he comes from the western part of the state, and did not have the local popularity that Wolcott had.

The election passed off quietly, comparatively little interest being taken by the Republicans, while the Democrats tried to roll up a big plurality to strengthen themselves for the city election next month.

NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 8.—The election in the four counties that make up the city of New York resulted in the victory of every Democratic candidate on every county ticket, except Gray, Democratic candidate for register of Kings, who was beaten because of his failure to put in an appearance before the Mazet investigating committee, and answer charges made against him. Democratic majorities were about normal, being in New York county over 50,000. In Kings county the Democratic vote fell off from last year, when Van Wyck ran exceedingly strong in Brooklyn.

The Tammany exultation was not over the county ticket's victory, which had been expected, but over the defeat of Assemblyman Mazet, Republican, which they had hoped, prayed and worked for. From Mr. Croker down, the Tammany men shouted over Mazet's downfall. Senator Platt intimated late last night that Mazet might be seated in the next assembly, in which he Republicans will have 32 majority, as against 18 majority in the present assembly.

The Tammany Democrats openly denounce ex-Senator Hill, whom they blame for the reverses up the state. The Republicans in New York county elected only four assemblymen, one of them a member of the Citizen's union. Walton, the Democratic candidate for sheriff of Kings county, wins by nearly 12,000 plurality.

Greater New York has given an overwhelming vote in favor of constitutional amendment No. 2. This separates city and county debts, and clears the way for rapid transit.

In the Thirty-fourth congressional district E. B. Vreeland, Republican, was elected by an enormous majority, at least 10,000.

With no possibility of change, save in two counties, a complet list of assemblymen elected in the entire state of New York shows 92 Republicans and 59 Democrats.

Taking all the assembly districts in the state, the Republican plurality is 35,800, according to The Tribune's returns, as compared with Roosevelt's plurality of 17,736 in 1898.

NEW JERSEY.

Trenton, Nov. 8.—The returns indicate that the Republicans have carried the state by about 20,000 plurality, although there was no direct vote on a state ticket. The Republicans will control both houses of the legislature by good working majorities, and will have an increased representation in the assembly. The senate will stand 14 Republicans to seven Democrats. The next assembly will be composed of 41 Republicans and 19 Democrats, as against 37 Republicans and 23 Democrats last year.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Republican State Chairman Reeder says: "Colonel Barnett's majority in the state will be 140,000. The majority in Allegheny will be about 20,000, and in the state, exclusive of Philadelphia and Allegheny, about 50,000. The other candidates will run somewhat ahead of Barnett, as the opposition within our own prty has been concentrated on Colonel Barnett."

Senator Penrose says: "It seems to be a staunch Republican victory all along the line, and a strong endorsement of the national administration.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 8.—The Sioux Falls Argus-Leader, basing its estimate on reports thus far received from points in South Dakota, claims the election of the Republican nominee for state supreme judge by 10,000 majority. This is also the estimate of the national Republican committeeman.

Chairman Bowler of the Democratic state committee concedes the election of the Republican judges by 2000.

The Argus Leader claims the state by not less than 10,000 for the Republicans.

MISSISSIPPI.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 8.—Scattering returns from representative sections indicate a very light vote in the Mississippi election. The entire Democratic state ticket is elected by a majority conservatively estimated at 30,000. The Populist vote shows a falling off of probably 30 percent. The vote on the Noel amendment providing for an elective judiciary will require an official count to determine the result. The chief interest centered in Yallobusha county, where a senatorial primary was held in conjunction with the election. A bitter personal fight was made on Senator Sullivan, a candidate for the short term ending March 4, 1901. Returns indicate that he has received the instruction by a majority of nearly two to one. McLaurin received the long term instruction by an overwhelming majority.

IOWA.

Des Moines, Nov. 8.—Weaver, chairman Republican state central committee, says: "I feel confident that Republicans have won by an increased majority over two years ago. Both branches of the legislature will be Republican by a large majority.

At 1:30 this morning 638 precincts of the state give Shaw, Republican, for governor, 91,593; White, 67,565. The same precincts, two years ago, gave Shaw, 86,565; White, 72,392. This is a net Republican gain of 9853, or about 14 to the precinct. The same ratio, if kept up, for the state, will give a Republican plurality of about 60,000. There are a few Republican gains in the legislature, and the indications are that the Republicans will have 115 of the 150 members.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond, Nov. 8.—Returns show that both houses of the legislature will be overwhelmingly Democratic. The vote was exceedingly light. The principal contests were between Democrats and independents.

Had "Ears to the Ground."

Washington, Nov. 8.—More than the usual amount of interest in off-year elections was mainfested in both official and unofficial circles yesterday. Particularly was this the case with reference to Ohio, Maryland, Kentucky and Nebraska. In administration circles the closest attention has been given to the progress of the campaign in Ohio, where it was felt, in a measure at least, the policy pursued in the Philippines would be put to a test. Considerable surprise was mainfested here when the news giving Jones' probable vote was received, as the Republicans were confident that it would not amount to the proportions it assumed. The size of the Democratic majorities in Maryland and Nebraska astonished most politicians, though it was expected that each state was more likely to go Democratic than Republican. With reference to the four states named and also New York, it was felt that personal considerations played an unusually large part in this year's elections.

A Pin's Queer Journey.

New York, Nov. 8.—A pin, which was swallowed three years ago by Percy Smith of Whitestone, L. I., has just been picked out of his hand. In 1896 Smith accidentally swallowed he pin, and all efforts to dislodge it were unsuccessful. In time Smith forgot all about it. A few days ago the little finger on his right hand became inflamed. Taking his penknike he cut the skin and started to remove what he thought was a sliver. He had some difficulty in withdrawing the sliver, and was greatly surprised when he drew out the pin that he had swallowed three years ago.

Negroes Ran Amuck.

Baltimore, Nov. 8.—Shortly after the polls closed last evening 50 intoxicated negroes ran amuck on Centre Market place. They fired pistols and threw stones promiscuously, one of the bullets entering the abdomen of Oscar Dietz, a 12-year-old boy, mortally wounding him. White residents chased the negroes and a riot seemed imminent. The negroes ran in all directions, followed by the whites and police. Four negroes were captured, one of them, Wesley Brown, being identified as the party who wounded Dietz. Only the arrival of the police prevented a lynching.

Quarrelled About a Woman.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Efforts are being made by the Boston police and the departments of the surrounding towns and cities to locate Luigi Storti and Vincenzo Bucilli, wanted for the alleged murder of Michele Calucci, at 57 Charter street. All three of the men lived at the above address. The police say that they quarrelled about a woman, and that one of the two men wanted struck Calucci on the top of the head with an axe. The two alleged murderers escaped, although the police believe they will be caught.

Orphan Asylum Benefited.

London, Nov. 8.—The will of the late George Smith, the pioneer banker of Chicago, who died in this city Oct. 7, has been made public. The personal property in England is sworn to be worth over $295,000. In addition to legacies to relatives and friends, the deceased bequeathes $10,000 each to various Protestan orphan asylumns in Chicago.

Let Off With a Fine.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Cashier C. E. Churchill of the defunct Globe Savings bank was found guilty yesterday and fined $400. The charge was that he accepted deposits knowing the bank to be insolvent. President Spaulding of the institution was found guilty of the same offense and of embezzlement and is now a convict in the penitentiary.

Olympia's Deserted.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Only the marine guard and some workmen are aboard the Olympia, as she lies at the Charlestown navy yard, and today at noon a quartermaster hauled down her colors and Captain Lamberton formally gave her into the charge of Captain Johnson of the yard. The officers of the ship broke up housekeeping yesterday.

A Sensational Announcement.

London, Nov. 8.—The Morning Post today makes the following announcement: We have received a dispatch from Washington respecting Anglo-American policy in the far East, which is of such a nature that it is desirable, at the present juncture, to withhold it from the public until we are able to confirm of deny it.

Automobile to Tow Boats.

New Haven, Nov. 8.—At Hartford work has been begun on an automobile which is intended to tow canal boats on the Erie canal. The automobile will be built on an entirely new pplan, and is intended to be powerful enough to tow from six to ten canal boats at once. It will cost more than $4000.

GRADUAL PROGRESS.

Both He and His Boy Are Advancing In the World.

"How's your boy doing?" inquired the man whose business takes him occasionally to a rural community where he knows all the inhabitants.

"Has a good job, has he?"

"He ain't got a job no more. He's got a situation. He started in with a job where he didn't get nothin but wages—$10 a week. But he done so good that they boosted him right along, so that now he's gettin $10 a week. That there ain't wages; that's salary."

"How are your own affairs prospering?"

"First rate."

"Still pursuing your old business?"

"No. I'm a farmer now."

"Why, isn't that what you always were?"

"No, sirree. I don't fool myself with no flatterin notions. Up to a little while ago, when the wave of prosperity struck, I wasn't nothin but a common cracker. But I've bought an extra piece of ground an lifted a couple of mortgages, an now I'm a farmer. Ef the luck holds out, I'll have some money in the bank in a few years. Then I'm goin to buy a three minute hoss an a buckboard an mow the grass in front of the house an be an agriculturist."—Washington Star.

A Welcome Phrase.

"Who is that man?" asked Aguinaldo.

"He is a life insurance agent."

"Well, let him come in and see me whenever he wants to. He said something about a cash surrender, and if he can give me any advice on how to arrange one it will be worth money to him."

In Old Rome.

The wounded gladiator gazed anxiously at the thumbs of the vast concourse of humanity in the great amphitheater.

"I am waiting," said he, "for something to turn up!"

Then they turned him down.—Indianapolis Journal.

Thrown Out Merely as a Hint.

"So," she said, "you really don't believe suicide is a sin?"

"Why, Miss Jewel," he exclaimed, "of course I do. What made you think I didn't?"

"I saw you, a little while ago get within less than four feet of papa while you had a cigarette in your mouth."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Interesting.

"Life must be very monotonous for you," said the sympathetic friend.

"Not at all," answered the Chinese emperor. "I find a great deal of excitement getting up early in the morning to see whether or not I was assassinated the night before."—Washington Star.

True to His Word.

"You shall pay dearly for this!" he hissed.

And the person addressed did, for it was the coal man, who had just deposited a ton in the cellar, who made the remark.—Philadelphia North American.

The Baby.

The Baby—Goo, goo, oo, oo!

Mother—Just hear that child talk! What must people think of him?

Must Have Been Born Lucky.

"How did you make out with that effort to break your uncle's will?"

"Fine! After it was all settled up and the lawyers had the estate I didn't owe them a cent."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Nipped In the Bud.

"There is only one story that can always bring tears to my eyes."

"What's that?"

"The story I was just getting ready to tell myself."—Detroit Free Press.

Really?

"The war department is buying balloons."

"What do they cost?"

"I think they get 'em for ascent."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Man Who Told the Truth.

There was a man who said one day
Unto himself: "Hereafter I Shall not be base enough to say
A single word that is a lie,
The truth I'll tell to each and all,
To high and low and great and small."

And so he bravely started out.
His heart was strong, his spirit bold.
Of all the things he talked about
The truth, and nothing else, was told.
He scorned the tricks of speech through which
Men make themselves adored and rich.

He told the whole truth, nothing more,
And when they bore him home that night
His face was battered up and sore,
And he was what is called a sight.
He lost his job, his friends were few,
But he had learned a thing or two.

Good Afternoon.

Congratulations to Representative-elect Sprague and Sheppard. Where the opposition was so confident of success it was a grand victory which they achieved.

When opportunity offers we propose to make some comments on the business of the City Council this week, but really there has been too much election this week to allow one to do other things.

It is said at Wollaston that Councilman Poland has not endeared himself to the travelling public of that ward by his antagonism at the Council meeting of the small appropriation of $275 to build a foot way across the Beale street bridge to allow pedestrians access to the station steps without periling their lives.

Considerable surprise is evinced at Wollaston that the Committee on Fire Department had under consideration a lot of land at Norfolk Downs upon which to erect a new hose house and ward room for Ward Five. Considering the fact that the larger part of Norfolk Downs is situated in Ward Six and that the Atlantic hose house is within 2,500 of the center of the Downs, and also that the Wollaston hotel is nearly a mile (5,000 feet) from the corner of Hancock street and Billings road. As one object of the new building is to furnish a suitable ward room, it is but natural that suprise should be evinced by the several hundred signers of the petition who did so upon the assumption that they desired to have the building erected upon a suitable lot on Beale street.

It is now understood that the Wollaston people were needlessly alarmed, as the committee viewed the Beale street lots and it is reported that they looked upon them favorably. After that they went to Norfolk Downs and viewed the lot of land upon which it was proposed to erect the building a few years ago. This proposition aroused such a storm at Wollaston at the time that it was killed while in its incipient stage. It is but fair to say that the present committee was not favorably impressed with that proposed location.

The proposed Beale street site seems by all odds the most favorable to the entire city, as well as to Wollaston. It is in close proximity to Wollaston's business center, including the hotel, the Hewitson block, the Gardner block, Boynton & Russell's store and Odd Fellows hall, the post office building and Wollaston laundry, the Perry building, the Brasee building, including the large hall, Prince's bakery, the L. J. Miller stores and the block which they are in, the V. J. Emery building, the Wollaston station, Boynton & Russell's, Lord's and Roger's big stables, the Magnerson store, and besides these business buildings the Unitarian, Methodist, Congregational, Baptist churches. It is also within a third of a mile of the Rivet works and Wollaston Park, and is also on the direct highway to Quincy centre and West Quincy, two facts which should not be lost sight of when making the selection of the land. For many years the fire losses at Wollaston have as a rule been in excess of those of any other ward. Every ward in the city in the meantime, with the exception of Wollaston has had improved service in the shape of new hose houses and apparatus. Possibly this is the reason why Wollaston's fire losses have been so large in years past. Year after year she has been put off while the other sections of the city were generously cared for. Finally the people petitioned the Council en masse for the abandoning of the old building and the erection of a new one, containing a suitable ward room, on Beale street. Thus the inspection of the committee of the various lots last week.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Tourists will read with mingled emotions the announcement that a large paper and pulp mill is to be built at the Flume, in the White mountains. —Milford Journal.

☞ One thing certain is that Mr. Aguinaldo Atkinson of Boston has either mislaid his voice or given it a much needed vacation. His silence is both melodious and refreshing.—Portsmouth Chronicle.

☞ We trust the Republican senators who will have the naming of the next postmaster of Boston will not be foolish enough to think that just because the assistant postmaster Henderson wants the job, that he is entitled to it and that the civil service humbug should be worked in this case. The Boston postoffice is a political pull and should be given to some good party worker, and of all the candidates named we know of none more deserving or better qualified than Hon. Joseph B. Maccabe of East Boston.—Beverly Times.

☞ Grumbling is a mighty disagreeable habit. It does no good and it does a deal of harm. No worse companion can be found than a grumbler. He is like a smoking oil lamp—he contaminates the social atmosphere all around him. He takes out of the companionship of others that which gives it energy and inspiration Indeed, he is more to be dreaded than a fog in September. The best treatment to prescribe for a confirmed grumbler is isolation. Set him off by himself, in the middle of a twenty-acre lot, or in a sound-proof room, and his disease will pass off.—Westerly (R. I.) Sun.

☞ The type of man which modern conditions produce is the capable, reticent man of business in the world of affairs, and in the intellectual world the alert, intelligent, well equipped man of science. Both are the essence of common sense, the thought of both is limited to the material world and both are just a trifle uninteresting. The great body of society tends at any time to approximate to the prevailing type. A dreamer like Shelley, a visionary like Blake, a speculative thinker like Coleridge could not exist in the social atmosphere of the end of the century. The tone of thought is too close to the ground, too exact, too scientific, too Darwinian for them to find the spiritual nourishment they need. No more can a gentle humorist like Charles Lamb, who went through life delighting in nothing so much as in vagaries and oddities of thought and expression and conduct, be nourished on the substantial mental food of our day. Lamb is a true representative of the quaint original "gentleman of the old school." The type has gone and with it has gone much of the charm of life, for the gentleman of the old school, though not so practical and successful as his successor, was mighty good company.—Hartford Times.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Probate court in this city today.

The City Council will hold another meeting next Monday.

How would a published list look of those registered who did not vote?

N. B. Furnald Tuesday cast his 51st ballot at a State election in Quincy.

The City Council Committee on Public Buildings will meet Thursday evening.

Registration has reopened for the City election. See notice of Registrars in this issue.

The Republicans have a notice to voters and also a caucus call for the City election in this issue.

It is rumored that Quincy will enter a basket ball league, and that a series of games will soon be arranged.

The dance held at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, last evening, was largely attended and a very sociable affair.

The Quincy basket ball team of our local Y. M. C. A. go to Everett tonight to compete with the team from that city.

The first meeting of the Registrars of Voters to prepare the voting lists for the municipal election will be held tonight.

In the Ledger today will be found music and words for a song, a story, column of humor, and considerable of interest.

Charles H. Winslow has accepted a position as assistant bookkeeper for the third division of the Massachusetts Electric Co.

A prize baby show will be one of the features at the G. A. R. fair. It will be held Nov. 15 and entries should be made before Friday night of this week.

City Clerk Harlow was at the District Court room all of the forenoon, having been summoned as a witness, and the officials totals of Tuesday's vote have not been made up.

The School Committee are little surprised that the Finance Committee of the City Council gave them no opportunity to be heard on their request for an additional appropriation for $1,500.

The Quincy Department Store will be opened by the Durgin-Merrill Company on Saturday, and an up-to-date stock is promised. Great changes have been made in the interior of the building and it has the appearance of a city store.

The fatalities reported in Monday's Ledger, where one man loses his life by suffocation from a burning house, and another by falling down stairs, both deaths being in fact caused by drink, is one of the strongest pleas presented to our voters in favor of a no-license vote at the city election.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

All kinds of carriages were employed to carry the voters to the polls yesterday.

Mrs. George W. Hill of Walker street is visiting relatives in Uxbridge, and will not return until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mueler go to Providence, R. I., today to attend the wedding of Mr. Mueler's sister.

W. R. Gay and family of Botolph street have moved to their new home on the corner of Webster and Squantum street.

Quincy Council, K. of C., held a smoke talk Tuesday evening at their hall. James F. Cavanagh made an address.

Mrs. Otho Hayward of Coddington street will be the pianist at the recital of Miss Graham tomorrow evening Mrs. Hayward is a finished player with an artistic sympathetic touch.

The family of Murdock McDougal, who met with death last Sunday resent the report that he was drunk, and further say that he had not been drinking, and that his fall was purely accidental.

You can now start in and make a clean sweep of all the dead leaves about your premises, for the trees are about all clear of their leaves excepting the horse chestnut, which seem to hang on the longest to life.

It is said the venders of fruit, who have been allowed to stand around on the streets near the curbing, have been ordered away. This seems just right for if the fruit stores and proprietors of the same have this kind of competition to butt against it is discouraging to try to do business against such odds.

A gentleman not far from Quincy tells the following story: Tuesday Mr. S. was looking over his ballot in Ward One polling room, when an old gentleman stepped up to him and asked him if that was the right ticket. Mr. S. looked at the ballot and told him it seemed to be all right, if that was his choice. Mr. S. was about to move on when the old gentleman said, and sure I dont know what's on the ticket but I do wants to vote for Commissioner Cavanagh.

Royal, the youngest son of Charles R. Safford of Botolph street, is seriously ill with diphtheria. Before his illness, the child had an unaccounted love for an artistic little afghan, and when ever troubled or hurt, he would lie down upon the floor and hold the afghan tightly in his arms as if it comforted him. Now that he is ill he begs constantly for his loved plaything; the Board of Health has ordered everything the child touches to be burned, and if the afghan is given the child for solace during his illness, he must do without it when once again able to be about. However, as diphtheria is so dangerous a disease, one cannot grant every present wish of the baby sufferer.

YOU WRONG YOURSELF

If you think you are making the most of your opportunities and do not advertise liberally in the Quincy Daily Ledger, which reaches most of the families of Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic, Norfolk Downs, Quincy Point, Quincy Neck South and West Quincy. It also circulates in Weymouth, Braintree and Milton.

JOHN WANAMAKER,

The millionaire of Philadelphia, who made his fortune by store advertising, says "I never in my life used such a thing as a poster, or hand bill, or dodger. My plan for 20 years has been to buy so much space in a newspaper and fill it up as I want it."

Political.

Nominations for the Republican caucuses cannot be filed until 7.30 p. m. on Thursday. It is the first time that an hour has been set at which time papers can be filed.

Councilman Sidelinger and Keith of Ward Two have notified the Republican City Committee that they are not candidates for reelection this year.

Councilman Hultman who has served as Ward Councilman will probably this year as counilman-at-large from Ward Two.

It is understood that the Ward Two Republicans, who favor anybody for Mayor who will agree to appoint Walter H. Ripley as Chief Engineer, held a meeting Tuesday evening and will put a list of unpledged delegates on the caucus ballot.

Councilman Newcomb of Ward Two is willing to accept another term.

The Election in Brief.

The New York Assembly will be Republican by about fourteen majority. Assemblyman Mazet, Chairman of the Investigating Commiittee, defeated by Tammany.

Republican victory in Ohio by substantial plurality indicated. Majority of the Ohio Legislature Republican.

Iowa registers emphatic approval of the national policy in the Philippines.

South Dakota emphatically Republican.

Overwhelming Democratic victories in Mississippi and Virginia.

There was a distinct loss in number of Socialist votes in their own strongholds.

Bennett of Saugus will have a chance to try for the Speakership.

Gardner was easily chosen Senator from the Third Essex District.

Mellen, the Republican candidate in Braintree, and Bradlee of Milton were both defeated.

Dalton has a local pride. Of the citizens who went to the polls 564 voted for the Republican candidate, and 15 for Mr. Paine. Last year A. B. Bruce, the Democratic candidate, received 151 votes in the town, while Gov. Wolcott had 318. The vote yesterday was certainly an eloquent testimonial to the esteem and affection in which Mr. Crane is held by his own neighbors and townsmen.

There will be two more Democrats in the next Massachusetts Senate but only 7 in a total of 40.

The Republicans will have only 4 less members of the House next year, 163, to 72 Democrats, 3 Independents and 2 Social Democrats.

WOODSUM AGAIN.

Jenney of Hyde Park Had Too Big Odds.

Braintree again has the honor of furnishing the Senator for the first Norfolk district. Senator Woodsum is reelected by a majority of over 1200 without lifting his hand. No work was done by the district committee for the candidate in his behalf, while the opposition made quite a rally. Mr. Woodsum had majorities in Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook, Hyde Park, Milton and Weymouth, while the only two towns in county to be Democratic on the head of the ticket, gave pluralities to Mr. Jenney, 64 in Canton, and 87 in Randolph. The vote by towns was:

County Vote.

But two towns of the 28 in Norfolk county gave majorities for the Democratic candidate for Governor—Canton and Randolph. Both these towns were the only ones to go Democratic last year. Both Governor-elect Crane and Candidate Paine received their largest vote in Quincy, but at the same time Quincy gave the largest Republican plurality; Brookline was second, Hyde Park third and Weymouth fourth. The vote by towns this year and last year, was:

Didn't Know Cleveland.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 8.—As ex-President Cleveland was leaving the polls yesterday he stopped a moment to speak to one of his friends, whereupon a policeman from Trenton detailed at the polls, not knowing who Mr. Cleveland was, ordered the ex-president to move outside the chalk line. Mr. Cleveland smiled, stepped into his carriage and was driven to his home.

A Change For the Better.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 8.—Vice President Hobart sat up at the window for several hours yesterday, and took solid food. Take all in all it was undoubtedly the best day he has had in many weeks. He appeared greatly interested in the results of the elections, and inquired especially after the indications in Ohio. The early returns were furnished him.

THE MAGICAL DANCE.

Dance me the dance that you danced, Clarisse,
That day, with your mystical art,
When joy had fled,
And love was dead,
And you danced o'er a dead man's heart!
Never a curve or a swerve amiss—
Dance as you danced that day, Clarisse!

Dance me the dance that you danced, Clarisse,
From the beautiful dancers apart,
For I'm weary tonight,
And I'm lost to the light,
And I haven't the ghost of a heart!
Dance me a dance for a woman's lost kiss,
In a rainbow of ribbon, Clarisse, Clarisse!

Dance the dance that you danced, Clarisse,
That day, with your wonderful art!
Dance down the sorrow
Of now and tomorrow,
And dance down the love in my heart!
For I'm weary at heart of a world like this;
Here! I toss you a bracelet. Now dance, Clarisse!

LA CRUZ.

How Two Lovers Were Reunited at the Foot of the Cross.

The light of day had died from the foothills of the Mexican city of Jalapa as I mingled with the crowd walking leisurely toward the Plaza Granda to hear the Sunday evening band concert. For a moment the jollity ceased as the brightly dressed senoritas and the gay cavalieros came into the view of the wooden cross which rose near the path leading over the mountain against whose bosom the little city nestled. Each uttered a prayer while viewing the crucifix as it stood out against the moonlit sky.

La cruz was the subject of much comment by the senoritas as they walked around the plaza, and likewise by the men, whose conversation was varied by a few remarks upon a particularly striking mantilla worn by some young caro.

"Why is every one so interested in the cross?" I said to my Mexican companion as we seated ourselves on a rustic bench.

"Have you never heard the story, senor?" he inquired.

"Never. And why are so many stones piled around it?" I answered. "Tell me about it."

"It was the custom," he began slowly, "among the Indians of this country to carry their dead on their backs to the place of burial, and when the burden bearer set aside his load that he might rest he, upon continuing his journey, planted a cross where he last rested the remains. And whoever passed that way was destined to cast a stone at the foot of the cross as a prayer for the soul of him whose mortal remains had rested there."

Music interrupted him. And, as the last echoing refrain of "La Paloma" was lost in the mountain air, I sat gazing at the cross.

"Santa Maria will bless you, senor, for your interest in the cross," he continued, reverently crossing himself. I inclined my head in response, and he related to me the following story:

"Years ago, when this little city was but a village, there lived a family who used to raise vegetables for a neighboring town. They had but one daughter, Jesita by name. Across the valley dwelt a stalwart young fellow named Leon. A friendship which grew into affection arose between the two. Often in the evening they would wander through the valley by the side of yonder stream or climb the ascent and watch the setting sun.

"One day there passed through the valley a man burdened with the weight of his dead father. He stopped to rest and refresh himself. Upon continuing, he planted that cross on the side of the hill. From the door of her adobe home Jesita had observed the burden bearer make and plant the cross, so when Leon came that evening they went up the mountain side to the emblem and cast, with reverence, a stone at its foot."

Here his story was interrupted by the soft strains of music floating through the orange trees and mingling itself with the gentle zephyrs heavy with the fragrance of the blossoming orange. Just behind us a little stream cheerily sang over the stones.

"Often after this they wandered to the cross and would seat themselves near its projecting arms. 'Twas there Leon told Jesita of his love for her, and there he met Jesita when she told him she would be his life companion. One evening as Leon started through the valley to drive the cattle to the corral, lest they stray into the next valley during the night, he stopped at Jesita's home. As lovers will, a quarrel ensued. In the midst of it Leon left Jesita, saying to her as he pointed toward the cross:

"'Senorita Jesita, the Holy Virgin is displeased with us for quarreling, for see the dove perched on the cross and hear it mourn.'

"But the senorita stamped her pretty foot, and her eyes snapped as she answered:

"'Go your way, Senor Leon.'

"Without answering he continued on his errand looking for the cattle. He walked by the cross, casting a stone at the foot and making the sign of holiness as he passed. Jesita watched him as he left her, thinking he might glance back as usual, but he did not. As she gazed after him tears dimmed her eyes, and she turned, seeing him no longer.

"Darkness crept into the valley, clouds floated threateningly, and soon an occasional flash of lightning in the distance told of an approaching storm. Leon had not returned. The sky grew black, and the thunder rolled with a heavy resonance. The lowing winds rose, and all nature seemed to belch forth fire accompanied by the resounding roar. The senorita's heart beat violently. She remembered she had spoken harshly to her Leon. The tears streaming down her beautiful face, she looked toward the cross into the now wild night. As she did so a screeching clap of thunder broke forth, and the lightning rent the heavens, darting about the sacred cross, illuminating it as it stood against the sky. Horror struck itself deep into the girl's soul. She fell to the floor, then hastily arose and started out into the fierce night. She must find her Leon. He must forgive her for her wicked words against him."

Again the sudden outburst of music interrupted us. Many senoritas passed by, and one smilingly bowed to my companion from behind her fan. He arose and responded profusely. The last sweet strain of the trio was lost, and as it died away it seemed to be absorbed by the moon illumined ensign. The senor continued:

"On she went, hastening toward the monumental cross. A mountain lion snarled dismally in the distance. He, too, had been caught in the storm. Half paralyzed with fear, groping her way in the darkness, she fell over an obstacle washed into the path by the rain. For a moment she lay where she fell and breathed a prayer, 'Santa Maria, protect my Leon and forgive me—forgive me.' Something crawled over her feet as she lay there. It was a snake disturbed by the torrents of water. She jumped up screaming, and as she did so the lightning played about the cross, illuminating again and again its every point. Just above it she thought she saw a dove hovering and heard its dismal mourn piercing the wildness of the night. Still the storm continued, venting its fury in the wild mountains.

"When Leon had left Jesita's home, he had passed the cross and hastened over the mountain into the valley below. Not finding the cattle and seeing the storm brewing, he started to return, but before he reached home the storm broke forth with terrific violence. At each burst of thunder his heart was relieved. The lightning quieted his spirits, while the furious winds breathed baffled relief in his ear. At last he reached the summit of the mountain near the cross, when a flash of lightning illuminated the benighted darkness, displaying a horrible sight to Leon's view, for there on the stones at the foot of the cross was the figure of a woman lying, her hands about the base of the rough wooden emblem. He rushed forward as fast as he could in the darkness. There was a sudden lull in the storm, the quietude of which was oppressive. As he advanced his heart beats resounded in his ears. Again the lightning made vivid the black clouds. His blood writhed in his veins, for he stood before the cross. There lay the prostrate figure embracing the great rough crucifix. It was Jesita.

"'Me Carita!' he ejaculated, rushing toward the dejected girl. Violently sobbing she looked up. He could see her ashy face by the light of the flashes.

"'Leon! Oh, forgive me—forgive me!' she sobbed, loosening one hand and reaching toward him.

"'Let us go from here, Carita,' he said sadly. Assisting her to her feet, they started down the mountain side toward the girl's home. The roll of thunder gradually distanced itself, then grew less and less; the wind sobbed less dismally, and the lightning seemed but to furnish the two light for their pathway."

The relator hesitated. Then pointing to the cross he continued: "Leon and Jesita were married by the good Father Moreno under this same cross on a holy Sunday years ago and lived happily and long in yon valley."

After a moment's silence I asked, "How do you know the story so well, senor?"

"Jesita is my mother," he answered, "and Leon, my father, leads this band."—St. Louis Star.

Paying the Doctor's Fee.

"It is an amazing fact that of all bills sent to a family that of the doctor is in hundreds of families the last one to be paid, and in more cases than it is pleasant to contemplate it is never paid at all," writes Edward Bok in The Ladies' Home Journal. "I have recently gone to the trouble to make some inquiries into this matter and have been astounded to find that not one-fourth of the bills sent by doctors are paid with anything like promptness. There is a quickening of the conscience, a simple realization of a proper sense of duty needed in this matter.

"It is high time, in the case of hundreds of families, that this matter should be brought home to their sense of fairness and justice. And as with them the doctors have for so many years been the last to receive their due in the payment of their bills, it would be only simple justice that hereafter 'the last shall be first.' No worker in the field of human industry deserves better at the hands of the people whom he serves than the doctor, and to pay his fee promptly and cheerfully is the least we can do for the service which he gives us."

Pistol Saber For Cavalry.

Proposals are being entertained by the French military authorities for a new weapon, called the pistol saber, which, if adopted, will be put in use in several cavalry regiments. This is an ordinary saber provided with a small firearm lodged in the hilt. On encountering a resistant surface the blade recedes and discharges the pistol, a recoil of about a tenth of an inch being sufficient for the purpose. The shot will, it has been ascertained, penetrate a steel breastplate. It is expected that the new weapon, which weighs only one-third more than the ordinary saber and which, of course, when the pistol is not loaded, can be employed in the usual way, will prove very serviceable, particularly in engagements between bodies of cavalry. —Paris Correspondence

PRESENTS EASILY MADE

Gifts That Are Both Pretty and Useful.

THREE BAGS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.

How to Make a Button Bag, a Sewing Bag and a Laundry Bag—Work That May Be Easily Done In the Home.

In Christmas gifts the ones most appreciated are often those made at home, the great center of affection and kindliness. For the clever needlewoman there is a variety of stuffs found in the market which, when made into pretty objects, furnish charming souvenirs for the day. In giving a handmade present what is more useful or decorative than a bag? It also has other distinctive features, for within its folds may be placed the accessories of which women are so fond, such as confections, a pretty trifle for the toilet, a purse, a handkerchief or any object which pleases the fancy.

BUTTON BAG.

Another inexpensive gift for the holiday time is a button bag of gold colored satin, which consists of three long pockets, which, although separate, form one scheme. Each of the three is left open for the depth of the frill. The casing is then sewed from one to the other, so that the ribbon which runs through the three holds all together, forming a handle for the bag. As a decoration for each end there may be a deep fringe of the same tint as the scheme or a number of brass rings buttonholed in an embroidery silk of the same tone and afterward put on in a pointed pattern like that indicated in the design. As a more effective show on each one may be embroidered a vine, with small blossoms outlined in a conventional pattern or left plain, as preferred.

For a holiday hint the sewing bag illustrated is very charming and may be made in any material, either silk, denim, linen or cretonne. If in silk, it should be lined with a fine sateen or complementary color or with a coarse swiss. A pretty way is to cut the upper edge into sections and then gather up with a drawing string of one inch ribbon. Supply the inside amply with pockets of various sizes for holding buttons, needles and pins or any of the necessary paraphernalia for sewing. As an outside decoration a maidenhair fern, a bunch of daisies or any pretty blossom is suitable. Silks and cottons are appropriately used.

As a good, honest, substantial Christmas gift what can rival a well made laundry bag? The design given is one of white effects, which may be duck, linen or plain pique. At the top of this bag is a colored scheme in a delicate blue. This lining reaches only a quarter of a yard beyond the top, the gathering string of heavy white cord being an advantage when hung. The decoration indicated is a round circle outlined with an edge irregular in pattern and embroidered in white silks, the inner ornamentation being a branch of chestnut burs in a needlework of the natural colors. The blue and brown make a dainty combination for the groundwork of white.

Another charming device as a holiday gift is a toilet bag in a scheme of different ribbons of complementary shades. These pieces measure a quarter of a yard each and are put together in a tree stitch, long or short, by embroidery silks of any color desired. As a foundation for this bag cut a round of cardboard, then cover with silk, to which the lower edge of the bag is overhanded. For the top there is a deep fall over of india silk, which may be of any color in the main scheme. Underneath this fall is a casing about an inch in width, through which is a long ribbon of the same tints, serving as a handle for the bag. Ribbons of any color, if rightly combined, will be a satisfactory effect.

THE USEFUL MAIL BAG.

A Christmas Gift For a Bachelor Girl's Desk.

The bachelor girl who has a well appointed boudoir and literary tendencies will bless the kind friend who presents her at Christmas time with a pretty mail bag to hang on her secretary. When she writes a letter or completes a manuscript, she will then be able to place it in the bag for mailing, and it will then be mailed if she doesn't emulate her big brother and forget it.

This pretty novelty is copied closely after the mail bags used by Uncle Sam, but may be made to vary in size and color until it fills many needs. In its best form, however, it is as realistic as possible and is made either of leather, with an etched design, or of brown canvas, on which the letters are painted or embroidered in brown.

The model, which is intended as a receptacle for old letters and to hang upon the desk, is 11 inches long by 9 wide. The circular bottom is cut from heavy cardboard, then neatly covered. The strip that makes the main portion is cut from the material and lined, and the flap is cut from lighter cardboard, covered neatly on both sides, then slashed on the outer one to allow the ribbon to be passed through.

When all the parts are in readiness, the long strip is folded over and made firm with brass paper fasteners, then passed around the cardboard foundation, to which it is attached in the same way, and the flap is neatly overhanded into place.

As illustrated, the ribbon run through the slashes is brown satin, as is the loop by means of which the bag is hung in place, but other colors may be used with equal success, and for the larger sizes heavy linen canvas in blue, old red and all the familiar colors is used.

DAINTY BONBON BAG.

It Is a Very Pretty and Welcome Christmas Gift.

Among pretty designs for Christmas make is the bonbon bag, of attractive style and generally of dainty color, in satin or silk. The tints considered the best are light cream, delicate blue and pale pink. Many of these are in Persian effects, which are beautiful for a bag of this sort. Of materials used one-half yard is really all that is necessary for the making. The foundation of this scheme is a piece of cardboard about four inches square. Covered neatly with silk and sewed to each corner are round gilt buttons to serve as feet. Divide the material, sew up both seams, then line carefully with white silk or very heavy swiss and overhand the lower part to the covered board.

Turn down the upper edge of the silk for a depth of four inches and stitch twice around so as to form a casing of one inch or thereabout in width. Into this casing run ribbons of a yard and a quarter in length, which form the handle of the bag. The decorating may be done in several ways, either by painting a bunch of flowers in water color or by embroidering the same in tones of the natural blossom. On the day of presentation the bag may be filled with bonbons or be made the storage place of a gift of more intrinsic value, but it is at least sufficiently attractive in itself to win approval from any woman of taste.

PLANS OF THE BOERS

Said to Have Been Drawn Up by European General.

Further Details of the Conflicts Around Ladysmith.

Boers Suffered Severe Defeats In Brilliant Sorties by the British.

Considered Unlikely That Basutos Will Take a Hand In the War.

London, Nov. 8.—The Standard's correspondent at Luxembourg gives details of the Boer plan of campaign, which was drawn up, he asserts, by "a general of European reputation."

Dr. Leyds obtained from several generals in Germany and Belgium, as well as Holland, a series of highly interesting plans, although there is no reason to believe that the general whose plan was selected even imagined that it would be put into execution.

The Natal portion included the seizure of the coast railway, north of Durban, by an attack through Zululand, or by way of Greytown and Umboti. Thus throughout Natal offensive tactics were suggested, but in the Orange Free State the plan proposed a defensive policy, based on the strategical advantage given by the position of the Orange Free State on the flank of the railway north of De Aar Junction, and trusting to the Orange river and the obstruction of the railway bridges to induce the British to advance through Kimberley to Bloemfontein, or through Mafeking and Pretoria.

The Boers are advised, in the scheme, not to oppose either of these movements in their earlier stages, but to operate on the line of communications, namely 150 miles from De Aar to Kimberley, and 250 miles from Kimberley to Mafeking.

Dr. Leyds has been assured that if the Boers can hold out 12 months, the European powers will intervene. It is perfectly clear, therefore, that the only way to disconcert their plans, is, at all costs, to obtain the right to dispatch a third army corps to Delogoa bay.

Dispatches from the front have rent the vail of gloom enveloping Ladysmith, showing the British garrison not merely standing on the dogged defensive, but executing a series of brilliant sorties. Accounts from different sources agree that the laconic official description of Thursday's engagement is "an effective shelling of the Boer laager," was unduly modest.

It appears that General White sent a strong force of cavalry and infantry to attack the Boers at Tatham's farm, about 10 miles to the northwest, near Besters, and apparently achieved a surprise, the Boers being caught on the open veldt and cut to pieces and their camp captured. Encouraged by this success, General White decided to risk an even more important engagement on the following day, which was again justified by success.

Ladysmith had been isolated and a Boer force had intercepted the railway between Ladysmith and Colenso. This force on Friday had descended upon Colenso and, as shown by the dispatches from Estcourt, having compelled a hurried abandonment of Colenso and a retirement of the British to Estcourt.

General White had ascertained that the Boers were attacking Colenso, but he was not aware of the British retirement. He had determined, therefore, to attack the Boers in the rear, thus hoping to achieve the double object of drawing an attack upon the weak garrison of Colenso and, possibly, of reopening communication southward. The Boers had advanced southward until they had occupied the hills north of Tugela river and dominating Colenso on the other side of the stream. The hill slopes to a plain that reaches the banks of the Tugela.

General White's division caught the Boers in the rear and, after the hills had been shelled, the British infantry stormed the position. Meanwhile the British cavalry swept round the hills, and, as the retreating enemy descended into the plain with British bayonets behind them and the river in front of them, they were charged by the cavalry and seemed to have perished almost to a man. The British then returned to Ladysmith without coming into touch with the Colenso garrison, which had retired to Estcourt.

Sunday's dispatch from Estcourt, however, showed that an armored train had been sent back to Colenso to repair the line, and the next news may possibly be of the restoration of communication with Ladysmith.

While the British troops were thus engaged in successful endeavors to wipe out the Nicholsons Nek disaster, the situation inside Ladysmith as shown by an official dispatch from the general at Estcourt was most satisfactory, encouraging a hope that General White may yet completely retrieve his shaken reputation, and that his force may emerge triumphant from the ordeal through which it is now passing.

The Daily Telegraph publishes the following dispatch from Pietermaritzburg, dated Saturday evening: "Widespread rumors of both Dutch and native origin have been current since yesterday (Friday) that, during a reconnaissance from Ladysmith northward, toward Matawans Hoek and Nicholson's Nek, the British troops engaged the enemy. It is said that a Lyddite battery drove the Boers into a valley, where the British cavalry charged through them. The Boer losses in this engagement are said to have reached 1000, the British losses being only about 100.

It is a fact that General Joubert drew in his line today, and that the Boers now have only outposts at Colenso. Runners are bringing the names of the Boers who were killed and wounded outside Ladysmith, and their reports have caused much mourning among the relatives.

According to special dispatches from Estcourt the Boers on Thursday asked a day's armistice. General White agreed to this, on condition that they would make no movement. The British military balloon, however, detected the Boers massing to the south, and General White thereupon renewed the attack.

Boer reports have reached Cape Town to the effect that on the arrival at Johannesburg of the news of the Boer reverse at Elandslaagte the whole Rand special police force was sent to the front with guns from Johannesburg fort, the fortress being left with only one gun and a garrison of 20 men.

The men of the Eighteenth Hussars who were captured at Dundee first took refuge in a Kaffir kraal, where they fought stubbornly, only surrendering after four Krupp shells had exploded in the kraal.

A large Boer force has been sent to reinforce General Schalk Burger on the Tuli border. The Boers have repaired the railway between Volksrust and Newcastle.

News has just arrived from Mafeking showing that up to Oct. 25 the Boers continued the bombardment, firing as many as 300 shells in 36 hours, though causing but little damage and wounding only four men.

That day they closed in all around the town, and made a determined attempt to rush it. The garrison turned out to a man, and delivered a terrific rifle and Maxim fire, which speedily stampeded the Boers, who were driven over mines which exploded and scattered them in all directions. It is believed at Mafeking that the Boers suffered heavily, and is not likely to make another attempt to storm the town.

Evidently more detailed reports of General White's doings at Ladysmith must be received before the public will be able to form a clear idea of what has happened. Reports from various sources show that another important reconnaissance or engagement occurred on Saturday to the south of Ladysmith, and a Cape Town newspaper reports that 2000 Boers were captured there.

The suggestion of General Buller, in his dispatch to the war office on Sunday, that the name of General French had been given by mistake for that of Colonel Brocklehurst in advices to him by pigeon post from Durban, is now explained by a dispatch from Pietermaritzburg, which says that General French has left Durban for Cape Colony. Evidently General Buller was aware of this.

While the British have retired from Stormberg Junction they appear to have no intention of giving up Naauw Poort at the junction of the lines from De Aar and Colesberg, for it would be a practical renunciation of an advance into the Orange Free State directly from the south. On the whole, it would appear that an entirely new plan of campaign from that originally intended will have been necessitated by the unexpected turn the war has taken in Natal and the uncertainty respecting the attitude of the Cape Colony Afrikanders.

As was to be expected the British after having evacuated Colenzo are preparing to make a stand at Estcourt, covering the railway issuing from the pass through the Mooi range of hills north of Pietermaritzburg; but it appears doubtful that the Boers will make a further advance southward while Ladysmith holds out. The country between the Tugela and the Mooi hills is comparatively open and favorable to the operations of cavalry and light artillery, which the Boers are not in a position to expose themselves to; they will therefore probably confine themselves to the defense of the line of the upper Tugela, which the proclamation of the President of the Orange Free State annexing northern Natal makes the southern boundary of the annexed territory.

The principal immediate danger the Boers in Natal have to fear, according to the latest reports, is an eruption of Basutos from the mountains on their right flank. Should the British government decide to let the Basutos loose, it would be possible to relieve Ladysmith and perhaps push the Transvaal Boers back across the Buffalo river, and up into the northwest angle of Natal to their main line of defense, and compel the Free Staters to withdraw to the line of the Drakensburg.

The impolicy of the proceeding, however, is manifest, for if the Basutos once get it into their heads that they had saved the British it would not be long before there would be trouble with them. It would besides justify the Boers in arming the Zulus and Matabeles, and letting the latter loose on Rhodesia. Taking this view, it would seem probable that the contest will continue to be waged by the present combatants.

Leather Workers to Strike.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 8.—At a special meeting of the Leather Workers' union last evening, it was voted to inaugurate a strike, because of the refusal of White Brothers & Son to receive a committee of the union which had been appointed to protest against a reduction of wages. The establishment of White Brothers & Son is a part of the American Hide and Leather trust.

Columbia Shut Out.

New York, Nov. 8.—Cornell and Columbia were well represented at Manhattan field yesterday when the football teams from Ithaca and the local university met on the gridiron. Columbia was a pronounced favorite. But the Ithacan rooters got all the cash as well as the glory, as Cornell won, shutting out the Columbia team by a score of 29 to 0.

Killed by a Crazy Woman.

New Haven, Nov. 8.—Mrs. Mary Reilley, a young inmate of Springside almshouse and violently insane, attacked Mrs. Anna Wheaton, who was confined in the same cell with her, and inflicted injuries that caused the victim's death. The Reilley woman attacked her cellmate with a chair. Coroner Mix will hold an investigation.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Fair weather and moderate and seasonable temperature has prevailed in all districts. No well defined storm appears within the region of observation. The weather will be more or less cloudy. Along the New England coast the winds will be light from the west.

RAINY SEASON ENDED,

A General Advance Will at Once Be Made In the Philippines.

Troops and Gunboats Leave For Northern Ports.

Insurrection Will Soon End Should the Concerted Operations Succeed.

Washington, Nov. 6.—A general advance all along the line against the Filipines within the next 48 hours is promised in a dispatch from General Otis to the war department. General Otis now has over 40,000 troops, a larger effective army than he has ever had before, his generals in the field have larger liberty and the war department officials are more hopeful than ever. Reinforcements will be arriving steadily, and the army will grow, until it numbers 70,000 men before the end of next month, when, the administration officials say, the end of the rebellion may come.

The rainy season is practically over, General Otis reports, and the preliminary movements of our troops, particularly the cavalry, have been quite successful. General Otis hopes to vindicate his retention in command by unprecedented success on the part of his subordinates.

The re-enforcements of the navy, ordered by the president at the request of Admiral Dewey, are all said to be due at Manila in from one to six weeks, and it is stated that, by the middle of December, all the ports of Luzon will be under the guns of the navy, blockaded and controlled so that Aguinaldo will have no communication with the world.

A dispatch from Manila states that a fleet of transports and gunboats left Manila last evening for the most important expedition of the autumn. Its destination is supposed to be Dagupan or some other northern port.

General Wheaton commands, with a brigade consisting of the Thirteenth infantry, the Thirty-third infantry, two guns of the Sixth artillery and two Gatlings. The transports Sheridan, Francisco De Reyes and Aztec carry the troops, with the gunboat Helena as escort.

A dispatch boat was sent ahead to arrange a rendezvous with the United States cruiser Charleston and the other warships that are patrolling the north coast of Luzon. The landing will be made under cover of the guns of the fleet. It is assumed here that the purpose of the expedition is to move down the Dagupan-Manila railroad toward Tarlac, or to prevent Aguinaldo's forces making another base farther north.

Dagupan and Apparri are the strongholds of the insurgents in the north, and it is supposed the points where most of the filibustering parties land.

Since the beginning of hostilities, it has been the unanimous opinion of military experts that Dagupan should be made a base of operations, but sufficient troops have heretofore been lacking. With Generals Wheaton, MacArthur and Lawton moving upon Tarlac from three directions, and the mountains hemming in the other side, the insurgent capital will soon become untenable.

Aguinaldo may attempt to shift his headquarters to the rich tobacco country at the northern end of the island. Possibly he may slide around General Lawton's front to the southern provinces, but, as MacArthur and Lawton's troops are spread across the country from Angeles to Cabanatuan, it will be difficult for the insurgents to escape.

Should the concerted operations succeed, organized insurrection on a large scale should be at an end early next spring, although guerilla warfare is likely to continue for a long time. No one anticipates that the insurgents will make many hard battles.

The problem is to move the troops about the country, to maintain transportation and to hold the territory gained. The general effect of the arrival of a large American army is calculated upon to sap Aguinaldo's strength by desertions and through the loss of hope among the supporters of the revolutionary movement.

Two columns of General MacArthur's division yesterday took Magalang, about six miles northeast of Angeles. Colonel Smith, with two battalions of the Seventeenth infantry, two guns of the First artillery and a body of engineers, advanced from Angeles. Major O'Brien, with a battalion of the Seventeenth infantry and two troops of the Fourth cavalry, moved from Calulut.

Colonel Smith killed 11 insurgents, wounded 128, and captured 50, as well as taking a lot of insurgent transportation.

Major O'Brien killed 49 insurgents, wounded many and took 28 prisoners. The Americans had 11 men wounded.

Objections to Sliding Scale.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 6.—When the textile council adjourned at 11:30 Saturday night, it was given out that resolutions had been framed to refer the reply of the manufacturers to the request for an advance in wages to the general bodies of the several textile unions for their consideration. It was further resolved to "not consider any sliding scale that may be presented for our consideration until the present demand for an advance in wages is definitely settled."

From an Orange Standpoint.

St. John, Nov. 6.—Rev. C. C. Phelan of Lewiston, Me., grand master of the Royal Orange lodge of Maine, in a sermon delivered before the Orangemen here yesterday, stated that if Admiral Dewey married the woman to whom it is announced he is engaged, he would never receive the presidential nomination, as she is a Roman Catholic.

Convicted of Manslaughter.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 6.—After being out 45 minutes the jury in the Quiron murder case brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter against Frank Quiron of Winslow. The trial of Quiron for the murder of Andrew Rosby in Winslow on the night of April 15 was in progress for four days.

THE SITUATION AT FALL RIVER.

Probability That the Textile Council Will Order a General Strike.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 7.—The five labor organizations of this city affiliated with the Textile council will hold meetings during the week, to consider the resolutions of the Textile council referring to them the refusal of the manufacturers to grant the increase in wages asked for, to take effect Nov. 13. The entire situation here, as far as it relates to the wage situation, will be gone over thoroughly.

From information given out last evening, it is probable that each of the labor organizations will pass a vote of confidence in its members on the Textile council, and refer the matter back to the council, with instructions to act in complete accord with the other unions. It will then be the part of the council to again refer the matter back to the unions for further action, upon the passage of which, the Textile council will have the power to proceed further in the premises. When all these formalities are gone through with, the time set for the advance to take place will have passed, and a crisis will have been reached.

The members of the Textile council are a unit in their belief that the manufacturers have fairly refused to grant their demands for an increase in wages, and if they are given the power by their organizations they will, if it is deemed practical, order a strike, as a protest against the action of the mill men.

Great Addition to Our Navy.

New York, Nov. 7.—John P. Holland, who for 25 years has given most of his time to sub-marine boats, the culmination of which is the boat named after himself, stood on the deck of the yacht Josephine at Greenpoint yesterday, with tears streaming down his cheeks, while the members of the board of inspection and survey of the United States navy shook his hand and congratulated him upon the success of his boat at her official trial. There was no expression of opinion by the members of the board, but the action was significant. The trial was satisfactory in every particular.

Living Upon Vitality.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 7.—The condition of Vice President Hobart is but little changed. Dr. Newton was asked what he thought of the chances of Mr. Hobart to survive during the week, and said that it was impossible to make even an intelligent guess, as his patient was liable to die at almost any minute, and might survive for several weeks, although his recovery was impossible. Mr. Hobart takes no solid food and comparatively little liquid nourishment. His vitality, upon which he is living, is remarkable, and his cheerfulness is a strong factor in sustaining the members of the family in their affliction. He fully realizes that his end is near. He sat up in bed yesterday, propped up by pillows, for a long time. The news of the day was read to him, but he was not allowed to enter into discussions upon it. He was in excellent spirits.

Awarded to McCue.

New York, Nov. 7.—Oscar Gardner, the "Omaha kid," met Marty McCue of New York in a 25-round go last night at 126 pounds. The men were in good shape. McCue had the advantage in height, reach and weight. They fought to the limit. Gardner had the advantage up to the 20th round, when McCue's fine condition helped him greatly. During the last five rounds the New Yorker gradually wore his man down and at the end Gardner was almost out. The referee awarded the bout to McCue.

Had a Tight Squeeze.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 7.—Schooner W. H. Swan, from Philadelphia with coal for this port, arrived after an exciting voyage. She ran into the storm of Oct. 30 off Hatteras. As she rolled, an oil lamp in the cabin broke loose and fell, starting a brisk fire. A keg of powder and 3000 cartridges were stowed under the companionway, in imminent danger. By heroic efforts the fire was quenched before the powder was reached.

Eastport, Me., Nov. 7.—A boarding house on Water street was entered by burglars, and a trunk containing between $300 and $400 and a gold watch was taken. The trunk was found on a side street with the cover torn off. It was evident from the condition of things, and the fact that $200 in gold at the bottom was untouched, that the burglars were frightened away before their job was completed.

Big Timber Deal.

Ashland, Wis., Nov. 7. — Frederick Weyerhauser of Chippewa Falls has just closed a deal for 1,000,000 acres of timber lands from the Northern Pacific company. This timber is located on the Pacific coast, and the price paid is $6,000,000. This is the greatest timber deal ever closed by a single individual in the history of the lumbering and logging industry.

Plover Badly Shaken Up.

Block Island, Nov. 7.—Brigintine Plover, which is ashore at Sandy Point, is full of water. The cargo is being landed by the wreckers. The vessel lies in a sandy bed, but she has been badly shaken up by the waves.

Careless Rider.

The fool bicycle riders are not all dead yet, but that one was not killed or badly injured at Wollaston Tuesday is a wonder. The fellow whose name could not be learned, was riding along Brook street. As he approached the corner of Farrington street a car for Wollaston passed. There was plenty of room for the bicycle to pass by the rear of the car as it had nearly crossed the street. Instead of that it seemed as though he tried to see how near he could come to the car and not hit it. He made a miscalculation, however, for instead of clearing the car he struck the rear platform and was rolled about in the dust. He escaped with a few bruises, but his front fork was broken and his tire punctured. The fellow is said to belong in West Quincy.

No License Campaign.

The Citizens' Temperance League are actively at work to increase the size of the No vote at our coming municipal election.

A large increase in membership of both men and women from all wards of the city is being received. It is most earnestly desired by the committee that all of whatever party they may be, who are interested in keeping our city free from the saloon will join in the effort and cheerfully respond when called upon to give of their time or money.

Polo at Braintree.

The members of the champion Braintree roller polo team met at the Hampton house last week and talked over polo matters for the coming season. After an informal talk the election of officers took place and Charles Gage was elected manager and Merton G. Churchill captain.

The team will be made up of old players with the exception of John Simmons, who will be unable to play on account of business, and his place will be filled by either Chester Hollis or Nelson Hyaden.

John will be missed from the team for he was playing fast a couple of seasons ago. Harry Thayer will be one of the rushers and that means a fast game. Capt. Churchhill will look after centre. Harlow Waite will look the ball at half-back and Harry Chase will keep them out of the cage. Whoever the extra man will be he will have to play fast to keep in the game.

Daughters of the Revolution.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Dyer and Mrs. F. Eugene Dyer of South Braintree, assisted by Mrs. S. J. Wilde and Mrs. E. G. Pratt entertained Adams Chapter most hospitably on Monday afternoon at the home of the Dyers.

There was a large attendance of members and a new member was welcomed, Mrs. Frank F. Prescott, of Quincy, also the name of Mrs. Mary F. Porter of Randolph was received for membership.

It was a great pleasure to the chapter to welcome their regent back to the meetings, Mrs. Titus having missed the meetings since May owing to the death of her husband.

At the business meeting the marking of the graves in Quincy of revolutionary soldiers was discussed and the committee was authorized to investigate further as many of the graves are hard to locate. The forming a children's society was also discussed and after more work on the part of the committee will probably be duly organized. The Junior auxiliary includes girls and boys under eighteen years of age, and on reaching eighteen they will be eligible for membership into the Sons or Daughters of the Revolution, without the payment of an initiatory fee. The expense of belonging to the young people's society is very light and the benefit much in the way of pleasant monthly meetings with patriotic features and entertainment.

Following the business came a most interesting literary hour which opened by singing America. Mrs. Frank Granger of Randolph read a most entertaining paper on "Old Time New England Fraternities." It was a very bright paper and gave much information unknown to many of her listeners.

The reading of "Pianos of Killymard" by Miss Annie K. Dyer in a rich Irish brogue caused much laughter and she was heartily applauded.

Miss Louise Burley, the little daughter of Dr. Burley recited, Eugene Field's "Seeing Things at Night" in a way that would have done credit to a much older person. So pleased were the ladies that they asked for another recitation and again were charmed with the little reader.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible hat it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

3 O'CLOCK.

CLAIMED BY GOEBEL.

Thinks He Was Elected Governor of Kentucky.

Democrats Swept All Before Them In Maryland.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 9. — Senator Goebel arrived here last night and was met by 1500 enthusiastic friends. From the balcony of the hotel where his headquarters are located Mr. Goebel made a speech, in which he said:

"I believe I have been elected, in fact I know I have. I see my friend, General Taylor, says he will assume the office of governor. All I have to say is if I have been elected, as I believe, I will be inaugurated in spite of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and Bradley bayonets."

Ex-Senator Blackburn also spoke, claiming Goebel's election by a slender majority and calling on the people to see to it that he is seated.

In view of the probability of a contest over the vote for governor, this statement, made by Chairman Long of the Republican campaign committee, is significant. Said Mr. Long:

"The legislature is close, but I think we have lost both houses. From semi-official returns from counties, except 12, and careful estimates from these, we have carried the state by 8090 plurality for Taylor."

In the event of a contest it will come before the legislature. The legislature may ultimately have to determine who is to be the next governor. In all expressions upon the result of the election coming from Democratic headquarters the legislature has been claimed as safe for that party. If the strength of the two great parties is nearly equal, the anti-Goebel Democrats probably would hold the balance of power, thus furnishing all the elements for a repetition of the bitter contest of 1897, which resulted in the defeat of Joe Blackburn for the United States senate.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Returns from Baltimore city and all the counties of the state show that the Democrats swept practically everything before them. Smith, Hering and Rayner, their candidates for governor, comptroller and attorney general respectively, were elected over the Republican candidates by approximately 11,300 majority. The official count, it is thought, will not materially change these figures. The Democrats will have 15 out of a total membership of 26 in the upper house. In the lower house the Democrats elected 66, while the Republicans will have only 25.

The plurality in Baltimore of all the Democratic candidates runs close up to those of the leaders on the ticket, while in the counties local prejudice cut down the majorities of the successful candidates for local offices. Careful analysis shows that the Democratic Independent voters supported Colonel Smith, while many disgruntled Republicans either remained away from the polls or voted for the Democratic candidates. A special election if the first congressional district will be made necessary by the success of Colonel Smith as a candidate for governor.

OHIO.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—The statisticians at the Republican headquarters were busy all day and night endeavoring to secure some accurate figure on the plurality of Judge Nash, the Republican candidate for governor, and last night an unofficial table of pluralities by counties was completed. This shows that in 57 counties Nash, Republican, has 84,399 over McLean, Democrat, and in 31 counties, McLean has 34,035 over Nash. This gives Nash over McLean in the state 50,364. It is not believed the official returns will make any important changes in these figures.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Nov. 9.—The expedition with which the Massachusetts election returns were completed, and the almost unquestioned decisions in every contest in the state, has already given impetus to the approaching municipal elections, of which the most interesting will be that in Boston. While the entire Republican state ticket was carried the Democratic jubilation is over the party victory in Boston. Only the official returns will serve to alter the figures announced on the state ticket, which for governor were as follows:

Analysis of the legislative vote is now in progress, but while several senatorial contests were close, especially in cities, no anticipation of recounts is held. In this case, the Democratic membership of nine, a gain of two, will remain, and for that party it means the ability to demand a rollcall, a parliamentary advantage not within Democratic means for some years. A scrutiny of returns shows this complexion of the next legislature:

The senate will stand: Republicans, 31; Democrats, 9. The house will stand: Republicans, 16 ; Democrats, 79; Social-Democrats, 2; independents, 2.

In the house of 1898 there were 167 Republicans, 67 Democrats, 2 Social-Democrats, 3 independents and 1 Prohibitionist. The Republicans have thus lost one representative and the Democrats have gained three, a net Democratic gain of four, while the socialists hold their own.

In Boston interest in the election has been supplanted by the activity of politicians in the coming election. The Democrats claim that as Paine carried the city by 6200 they will carry it again if either John R. Murphy or Patrick A. Collins is nominated. The Republicans, however, may nominate ex-Mayor Hart, and the canvass will be the most vigorous the voters here ever saw. The campaign has already started.

NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 9.—Returns received from up the state increase the Republican assembly membership to 93, against 57 Democrats, a Republican gain of 12.

In New York county the largest Tammany plurality was that of the candidate for surrogate, Abner C. Thomas, 55,670. He was formerly a Henry George leader. Ex-Justice Joseph F. Daly, fusion candidate for supreme judge, who was expected to get many Democratic votes, did not head the poll for his ticket. The independent labor vote, as indicated by the vote for John S. Crosby for supreme judge, was 5700, or 3000 less than the socialist vote. The Tammany pluralities in the several counties are about normal, the gains of assemblymen in this city being due largely to combinations with Citizens Union and labor men against Republican candidates.

Richard Croker again expressed his regret that the Democrats up the state "had no organization," and, although he did not say so, it is inferred that Tammany hopes to organize the whole state for the campaign of 1900. Mr. Croker pointed to Nebraska as an illustration of what energetic work will do, and declared that the Democrats can carry New York in 1900.

Senator Platt and Assemblyman Mazet denied interviews in which they were credited with declaring that Assemblyman Stewart's seat would surely be contested. They said that a contest would be made only in case convincing proofs of fraud were discovered.

NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—Complete county returns coming in do not materially change the early estimates of the results of the election. The fusionists carry the state by 12,000, perhaps more, on the face of the returns from nearly half the counties. They elect William Neville to congress over Moses P. Kinkaid, in the Sixth district, but by a reduced majority, and gain slightly in judicial districts. Chairman Edmiston of the fusion state committee insists that Holcomb is elected judge of the supreme court by 15,000. The Republican committee has given up the fight.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—Complete returns from 60 of the 67 counties in the state and including Philadelphia, with carefully revised estimates from the seven missing counties, show a plurality of 109,465 for Barnett (Rep.) for state treasurer over Creasy (Dem.). The plurality for Brown (Rep.) for supreme court judge will exceed that of Barnett by probably 30,000.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 9.—Additional reports show but little change in the Republican majority, increasing it from 3875 to 4017. Union and Davison counties practically nullify each other's vote, the fusionists carrying the former by an average of about 106 majority, while the Republicans carried the latter by about the same figures.

MISSISSIPPI.

Jackson., Miss., Nov. 9.—Late results do not change the estimated majority of 20,000 for the Democratic state ticket, headed by H. H. Lougin, nomineen for governor.

The Vanderbilt Will.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Vanderbilt will was probated yesterday. Edmund L. Baylies of Carter & Ledyard, who acted for Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., in making the settlement out of court, was seen at the office of the firm and said: "There is no possibility of any contest by our client. All has been most amicably settled. Mr. Vanderbilt has no desire to make any contest and, by signing his consent to the probate, barred himself legally from making any contest."

The Leather Workers' Strike.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 9.—A committee of the striking employes of the American Hide and Leather trust waited upon Manager White yesterday and stated their grievance. He replied that he was not prepared to announce his decision at that time. At a meeting of the strikers last night it was voted to continue the strike until Mr. White reaches a decision. They will now wait for him to make the first overtures.

Boy Victim of Hoodlums.

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Oscar Dietz, the 12-year-old boy who was shot by one of a crowd of 50 hoodlum negroes Tuesday evening, died last night. He was too weak yesterday to make a deposition, but it is said he indicated to the police the negro who fired the shot that caused his death. Four colored men were held without bail for a hearing three weeks hence on the charge of causing the boy's death.

Means Life Imprisonment.

Charleston, Nov. 9.—Dr. Maxey C. Lee of Darlington, who killed his father, Dr. Lee, several months ago, was yesterday found guilty, "with a recommendation to mercy," which probably means life imprisonment in the state penitentary. The plea of the defense was accidental homicide.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Showers have occurred along the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to North Carolina, and also over the Florida peninsula, and in the middle Mississippi valley, and rain was reported in the middle and North Pacific coast districts; elsewhere the weather was fair. The temperature changes were slight, and no notable departures from the seasonal averages are reported. Showers will occur along the immediate Atlantic coast south of New England, but are not likely to extend to the interior. Along the New England coast the wind will be light to fresh, from the southwest.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ To the statement made by a speaker at the teachers' institute last night that "that man is educated who has so developed his powers that he can do well what he undertakes," one is tempted to add, that that man is well educated who can wisely choose what work to undertake.—Providence Telegram.

☞ A good many young men in the country would be willing to take a million and a half and the girl they wanted. Really young Cornelius Vanderbilt comes out of the family confab easier than any of the others, though probably he does not realize the fact. A million and a half is all any man can need and all beyond that is a burden.—Hartford Courant.

☞ Up in Norfolk county the Teachers' association is consideringthe advisability in disbanding, owing to the opposition to holding the convention on a school day; and closing the schools to allow the teachers to attend. The same question is being quite generally agitated in Bristol county and the initiative note of disapproval sounded by the Taunton school committee may cause the next meeting of the association to be held on Saturday. —Taunton Herald.

☞ Assistant Postmaster General Heath calculates that rural free delivery of the mails has already had for one of its effects the enhancement of farm lands thus reached from $2 to $3 per acre, as well as better prices for farm products. All of which is important and of value to the farmer, if true, but as the aforesaid free delivery, if very generally entered upon, would probably add largely to the annual deficiency in the Post Office Department, it would seem to be a case of enriching certain portions of the country at the expense of others.—Lynn Item.

☞ If Great Britain is willing, as reported, to buy German and American interests in Samoa and take those islands into its possession, making unnecessary further triple protectorates over a few small islands that are a source of nothing but trouble, the United States ought to willingly and quickly dispose of what sentimental interests it has in Samoa. It was one of the craziest things done by an American department of state when it became involved in the joint Samoan protectorate.—Worcester Telegram.

☞ Dr. Moore, the New Hampshire swindler, has worked the "sick dodge" successfully at last, and got his pardon. It is very strange that all these prominent gentlemen who get jailed because of their deviltry, "are sure to die unless pardoned," when poor devils grow fat in prison. If the governors who pardon the distinguished criminals had to take their places and serve out the sentence, perhaps there would not be so many eminent gentlemen, who are temporarily detained by the hand of the law, in danger of dying.—Malden Mail.

MAYOR JONES.

Ward Three Republican Would Have It So.

Heartily Endorsed at Representative Meeting.

The Present Extravagant Administration Scored.

Ward Three Republicans had a good old-fashioned caucus Wednesday, which was at the same time a very representative gathering of the voters of South Quincy. It was not a regularly called caucus, and its action must be ratified later, but the unity of purpose cannot be overcome, so that it is safe to say that Ward Three Republicans will elect delegates to the Mayoralty convention pledged to vote for Frederick L. Jones for Mayor.

It was styled an "open meeting," and was called and held under the auspices of the Ward Three Republican Committee. Good notice was given by advertisement in the Ledger and by flyers and nearly 100 attended. It was the first time most of the gentlemen had been in Malnati hall and they were delighted to know that this section of South Quincy had such a well appointed hall, which was at the same time roomy and attractive.

Chairman Spargo of the Ward Committee presided, and Secretary Murray was secretary. The chairman said the meeting would be informal, and was called that the voters might take things into their own hands.

Ex-Councilman John. P. Bigelow thought there was a general demand for the meeting.

The Ward Committee did not care to run things. The ward had good many mayoralty timber, and might want to make itself heard.

Walter H. Dunbar had supposed caucuses were cut and dried affairs and was pleased to attend an open meeting like this. Ward Three seemed to be of little importance in city affairs; we simply vote and have nothing. We want Councilmen with opinions who will express themselves and back it up. Ward Three ought to be a power. It had "timber" and numbers.

Sewer Commissioner Jones was called for and greeted with applause. Such a meeting pleased him. There was need of more unity of action, and fewer clicks. A house divided amounted to little. Ward Three could be a power if it got together He did not agree with Mr. Dunbar in his criticism of our Councilmen; they were not talkers, but they had opinions. He had no fault to find with them. It was difficult to get men to give the time and assume the responsibilities. It was "heelers" from other wards that had broken up Ward Three. The practice should be discouraged. We should all vote for the party nominees. There was a necessity that Republicans should get into power. You don't know all that has been going on this year.

Ex-Representative Thompson was called for amid applause. He congratulated the builder of the block on his success, industry and courage, and drew a lesson of the opportunity this country offered to those who came from over the seas. We all have a vital interest in city matters; in electing servants, not bosses; men who will shape our financial matters and keep our taxes down. The situation has become somewhat strained. The valuation is excessive and the tax rate exorbitant. The law allows but $12 per $1,000 for running expenses but this year the rate is $7.20 in excess of this. Upon the $12 limit we can pay only the fixed charges, and the Assessors find it difficult to find valuation to raise that. He favors the "mill tax of schools" as one relief. He would retain the services of Councilmen as long as they are willing to serve. It took a year for new men to grasp the business. We need a Mayor who will have actual control over the expenditure of all money. There should be no deficiency bills. I don't know as I am talking politics, but I mean to talk business. We want the economical expenditure of every dollar. We want a Council and Mayor who will look into the future; limit appropriations and keep taxes down. Our tax rate is a burden.

Councilman Nicoll when called for, said he wanted light. He was interested in Ward Three, but the Ward Committee, of which he was a member, did not want to do it all.

Mr. Dunbar said he had no criticism of the present Ward Three Councilmen.

Councilman Johnson wished we had more meetings like this. It would strengthen the Councilmen. I find it requires time to get acquainted in the Council. He believed Ward Three had Councilmen with convictions.

However, he was prepared to step out to give others a chance, but realized a man was worth more the second year. He was tempted to suggest a Ward Three man for Mayor, but would not. He believed Ward Three had a gentleman who should be put forward. (Applause.)

Mr. Jones—That's the kind of a councilman we want. Laboring men have brains as well as lawyers. He didn't believe in letting him step out.

Peter Dakers had been a Republican for many years and had watched the work of our Councilmen. He did not know that we could improve on them. He depreciated deals, and endorsed meetings of this kind. Ward Three should be a power. This meeting should say whether its first choice was John O. Hall or not.

Murdock Campbell moved that a committee of nine be appoined to present a double list of candidates for Mayor, three ward Councilmen, and a Ward Committee of seven.

After some discussion the motion prevailed and the followlng committee retired: George Bowman, William J. Williams, Murdock Campbell, Charles H. Grindell, John Coyle, Walter Dunbar, Julius Johnson, James W. Pierce and Andrew McIntosh.

While the Committee was out, there was an informal discussion of candidates for Mayor. John C. Murray suggested Frederick L. Jones for Mayor. If he must say it, the present government was rotten. The sewer transfer voted was only to get the Commissioner of Public Works out of a hole.

L. J. Myers endorsed most heartily the suggestion of Mr. Murray as to expenditure of money and criticised the assessment of taxes.

John Roberts and Councilman Nicoll endorsed Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones said emphatically that he would not be a candidate without the unanimous support of Ward Three.

Another gentleman suggested the nomination of James Thompson.

Mr. Thompson said he was not a candidate, because his business since the death of his brother required all his attention. He heartily endorsed Mr. Jones.

The committee then reported a double list which was accepted.

It was voted to proceed to ballot and a committee was appointed. They reported:

Number of votes cast	78
John O. Hall had	4
Frederick L. Jones	74

Mr. Bigelow thought if anything could be more unanimous it would be difficult to find.

Mr. Jones thanked the meeting and was satisfied with the unanimity, especially as he had cast one the four votes for Mr. Hall.

Upon motion of Mr. Thompson it was voted, that the list headed "Pledged to Federick L. Jones for Mayor," and that each name suggested signify his willingness to accept an election. The following weere nominated from the floor James Thompson, John P. Bigelow, Wm. Cummings, W. J. Williams, J. Roberts, W. T. Spargo, J. L. Johnson, Andrew Milne and Thomas W. Smith all of whom accepted.

James W Pierce and Harry S. Nicoll were suggested for Councilmen-at-large but the ward committee was empowered to have a name ready in case the ward should be entitled to one.

COUNCILMEN.

A strong pressure was brought to bear to have each of the present Councilmen from the ward, J. J. Johnson, Harry S. Nicoll and Daniel McLennon, and Messrs. Johnson and McLennon consented reluctantly, Mr. Nicoll declining.

The following names will also be presented on the ballot, Lester M. Pratt, Thomas W. Smith, James W. Pierce and Alfred Diack. Mr. Pratt was not present and his wishes are unknown.

Difficulty was experienced in getting candidates for ward Committee although a double list was presented. The secretary was authorized to obtain acceptances if possible.

It was about 11 P. M. when the very harmonious meeting adjourned.

The innocent deer and other game in Maine have got to be very careful for the next few days as the celebrated gunners, Messrs. Frank S. Patch and George J. Richards of this city, have gone to the woods to show their skill as marksmen. We do not know whether they took enough money to buy any game, but if they did not, we do not know how good a supper their friends may expect on their return.

WARD FIVE FOR HALL

Some Opposition to Renomination of Councilman Bryant.

At the coming municipal caucus at Wollaston, there will probably be six candidates on the ballot for Councilmen, nomination papers for that number having been taken out. This means an old-fashioned fight at the caucus and plenty of hustling by the various candidates for votes previous to next Wednesday evening, when the fight will be pulled off at the Hose house. The candidates for whom papers have been circulated are Charles M. Bryant of the Park, E. F. De Normandie of Highland avenue, Charles A. Campbell of Beale street, George E. Thomas of Newton street, Dr. E. R. Johnson and Walter F. Nichols of Newport avenue.

It is probable that Wollaston will send a solid Hall delegation to the Republican convention.

Said a well known Republican yesterday, "It is understood that there is some opposition among the Republicans of Wollaston over the candidacy of Councilman Bryant. It is claimed that last year he came before the Republican caucus and asked to have his name go on the ballot as a Republican councilman.

The caucus nominated him. After the municipal convention it is alleged that Mr. Bryant repudiated the Republican ticket and openly worked for the Democratic nominee for Mayor in direct violation of the fealty which he owed to the party which made it possible for him to have political aspirations. If he intends to support Mayor Keith for Mayor this year, it would seem that it would be more proper for him to seek a nomination to the council from the hands of the Democratic party."

PARISH RECEPTION.

Pleasing Gathering of Christ Church People.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter Russell Breed were tendered an informal reception Wednesday evening by the vestry of the church, in the parish house from 8 to 10 o'clock, and during these hours the parlors were thronged with the parishioners of the church.

The affair was entirely informal, and as it gave the church people an opportunity to meet their rector and Mrs. Breed in a social manner, the evening proved one of pleasure.

Rev. and Mrs. Breed were assisted in receiving by Rev. Mr. Waters of Chelmsford, Warden and Mrs. George H. Brown and Warden and Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick.

The guests were presented by Mr. Ramon Burke, Mr. J. E. Sprague, Mr. L. W. Lothrop and Mr. James Smith, Jr.,

The Philharmonic orchestra of Boston furnished music during the entire evening, and Besse of Boston served ices and cake. There was no programme of entertainment, the evening being passed in a social manner. Mrs. Breed was presented with an exquisite bouquet of American beauty roses.

Adams Won.

Adams played Milton High the second time Wednesday afternoon at the Park. Milton proved unable to hold Adams at any stage of the game, and her constant fumbling was very costly. Long runs were frequently made by Adams, and in 35 minutes of play she rolled up a score of 24 to 0.

The line-up was as follows:

ADAMS.	MILTON.
Hardwick, l.e.,	r.e., Connors
Thomas, l.t.,	r.t., Littlefield
Doble, l.g.,	r.g., Forbes
Cashman, c.,	c., Sanford
Donaher, r.g.,	l.g., Choate
Hamel, r.t.,	l.t., Fanning
Bennett, r.e.,	l.e., Bowman

Score—Adams, 24; Milton, 0. Touchdowns—Flaherty, 3; Boyd, 1. Goals from touchdowns—Doble, 1; Bennett, 1. Umpire—Wallis. Referee—Burchstead. Linesmen—Weston, Hoxie. Time—20 and 15 minute periods.

In dry goods, groceries, drugs and medicines this store can supply your wants as they never have been supplied before. Only a few cents take you to the door. Polite and hustling clerks will show you the rest. Watch the columns of this paper for news of the bargains.

Everybody wishes that the beautiful weather this week remains with us until Christmas.

The engine of the 12.43 train from Boston this afternoon which passed through Quincy about 1.10 is disabled near the Weymouth station.

The Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.'s office looks lost now that the Furnald building on the corner of Coddington street has been removed.

James Nicol of Quincy was awarded the first and second prizes for yellow chrysanthemums at the annual show in Horticultural hall, Boston, Wednesday.

The singing by the singing classes of little girls will be a pleasing feature of Miss Graham's recital this evening. There will be four in one group and seven in the other.

There are many mud holes on the west side of Hancock street from Adams street toward Neponset that drivers would like to see filled up with something besides large sized rocks.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford had a large gang of men at work at the Quincy depot Wednesday clearing up. The platforms were washed, as were also the floors and windows of the station a regular fall cleaning. The depot yard was also raked over and the debris collected, loaded into a car and carted off.

Political.

The notice for the Democratic municipal caucus to be held Thursday evening Nov. 16, is advertised today. The Australian ballot will again be used and the polls will be open from 5 to 9 P. M. Nomination papers signed by five Democratic voters of the Ward may be filed with the secretaries of the several ward committees at 7.30 o'clock tonight and any time thereafter up to 7.30 o'clock next Monday evening, when they will be opened. For the Mayoralty convention Ward One is entitled to 12 delegates; Ward Two, 10; Ward Three, 15; Ward Four, 20; Ward Five, 9; and Ward Six, 6. The secretaries of the ward committees and their residences are: Ward One, Joseph F. Welsh, Cranch street; Ward Two, Timothy J. Carey 44 South street; Ward Three, George D. Cahill, 4 Water street; Ward Four, J. Gilraine, Jr., Quarry street extension. Ward Five, Edward H. Austin, Taylor street; Ward Six, Bernard Cullen, Newbury avenue.

The Republicans will have from 7.30 o'clock tonight until 7.30 o'clock next Monday night to file nomination papers for councilmen and delegates to the Mayoralty convention to be voted for at caucuses next Wednesday evening. Nomination papers must be signed by five voters of the ward and contain the full name and address, as well as a written acceptance of the party nominated. They may also state under what designation they wish the names placed. Any number of persons may be placed in nomination, not to exceed the number the delegation or position is entitled to. The nomination papers must be sent to the secretaries of the several ward committees who will prepare the official ballots. The name and address of the secretaries of the several wards are as follows: Ward One, I. M. Holt, 37 Hancock street; Ward Two, John S. Gay, 10 Newcomb place; Ward Three, John C. Murray, 5 Liberty street; Ward Four, Nathan Ames, 56 Cross street; Ward Five, Edward E. Jameson, 8 Farrington street; Ward Six, Charles A. Hall, 15 Walker street. The number of delegates to the Mayoralty convention the several Wards are entitled to are: Ward One, 9; Ward Two, 6; Ward Three, 9; Ward Four, 7; Ward Five, 9; Ward Six, 5.

Rumor has it that the Social Democrats are to run Rev. Silas B. Duffield for Mayor. Other rumors are that they will not nominate a candidate for Mayor.

Both the Republicans and Democrats of Ward Two are all sea for candidates for councilmen and the office is going begging.

Both parties will hold caucuses next week.

F. F. Prescott of the Republican State Committee rather over estimated the Democratis strength in Massachnsetts, but came verv close on the Republican vote. His estimate was 170, 000 for Gov. Crane and he received 168, 773.

Only two cities went Democratic at the State election—Boston and Lawrence. The same was true last year.

The Social Democrats did not get 3 per cent. in the state.

From Madison To McKinley

In 1810, when Madison occupied the President's chair, JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT was originated by Dr. A. Johnson. For nearly a century it has remained a household remedy of the first rank. The grandparents of many who now use JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT were brought through whooping cough, croup and all the accidents of childhood in safety by this remedy. Many a time a bottle of JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT in the cupboard of some remote farm house, has saved life when sudden and acute disease has developed in the night. Many are now living in old age who owe their lives to this remedy. You can safely put your trust in a remedy that has stood the test of nearly a century and gained such a high reputation as has

Johnson's ANODYNE LINIMENT

A majority of the ailments of humanity begin, or are accompanied, with inflammation, and it is by controlling and removing this condition that JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT cures widely different diseases, such as colds, coughs, croup, catarrh, bronchitis, la grippe, lameness, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, cholera morbus, bites, bruises, burns, stings, chafing and pain and inflammation in any part of the body. Sold in two size bottles, 25c. and 50c., the larger size being the more economical; it holds three times as much.

BRIGHTER FOR BRITISH.

Railway to Ladysmith Expected to Soon Reopen.

Much Depends Upon White's Ability to Hold Out.

Arrival of Reinforcements Will Turn a Fresh Page In the Campaign.

Indications That Colenso Has Already Been Reoccupied by the British.

London, Nov. 9.—There is practically no further news from the seat of war this morning. It is asserted under Sunday's date from Estcourt that General White received a message from General Buller on Saturday. So far, however, no messages appear to have been received in London from General White concerning Thursday's and Friday's sorties.

A special dispatch from Pietermaritzburg, dated Sunday, says: It is confidently expected that railway communication will be restored with Ladysmith within a few hours.

Further details from Mafeking, carrying events up to Oct. 27, indicate that the Boer firing was easing off, the garrison was in high spirits and the siege was growing a farce. The correspondent says that the people were in the habit of shouting from the housetops "Ware shells," and that rabbit holes had been excavated in the town, into which the men would dive when the smoke of the Boers' big gun was seen. General Cronje is accused of dropping shells in the direction of the women's laager.

According to a dispatch from Kruman, British Bechuanaland, dated Monday, Colonel Plumer's column, marching from Fort Tuli to the relief of Mafeking, had reached Asvogel Kop, opposite Ootsi, 10 miles north of Lobatsi, on Oct. 18, and was nearing Mafeking.

To the eyes of military experts the darkest page of the war is now being written. But even that is illuminated with bright passages, such as General White's victorious sorties. If he can keep the British flag flying over Ladysmith until he is relieved, the campaign will turn a fresh page, and, with the advance of General Buller's force, the British public is promised more cheering reading.

This feeling of relief inspired by recent good tidings is, nevertheless, tinged by a certain alloy of anxiety lest General White should again make some fatal miscalculation involving a repetition of the Nicholson's Nek disaster. Her majesty does not share this anxiety, and, apparently, is sanguine of his ability to pull through successfully. It is asserted that she has written to Lady White expressing sympathy with her husband in the trials and difficulties he is now experiencing and assuring Lady White of her own undiminished confidence in his generalship. The purport of this letter has been cabled to General White by the Marquis of Lansdowne.

The most interesting news is a dispatch from Estcourt announcing the departure of a strong force of mounted troops and artillery for a destination not given in the advices. Another message announces the arrival at Estcourt and Pietermaritzburg within the last few days of reinforcements from Durban, and that 3500 troops are assembled ready for a readvance to Colenso when the opportune moment arrives. The latter dispatch throws light upon the former, and the force which left Estcourt Monday has doubtless reoccupied Colenso and, possibly, is now advancing cautiously up the railroad toward Ladysmith, General White's sortie of Friday, almost to the banks of the Tugela river, encouraging its commander in the hope of joining hands with him.

General Joubert, the latest advices would indicate, drew in his horns after Friday's engagement, and has since withdrawn the southern Boer contingents, leaving only outposts on the line from Ladysmith to Colenso. The Boers who occupied Colenso about the middle of last week retired without damaging Bulwer bridge over the Tugela river or the railroad as far north as the village of Nelthorpe, seven miles south of Ladysmith. Evidently they nurse a hope of eventually utilizing both in their descent on Pietermaritzburg.

Meanwhile the British are also able to use both, as they have already done, in running up an armored train, which may, at the present moment, be covering the advance of the Estcourt force.

At Estcourt and Pietermaritzburg the defensive works have been greatly strengthened within the last few days, and they are now believed capable of holding their own against any Boer force which General Joubert would, at the present juncture, risk sending against either town. Both are likely to be strengthened before the week is out by a further naval force, and even by the first detachment of General Buller's army corps.

None of the troopships has arrived. The one which it was predicted might reach Cape Town at the earliest on Monday is as yet unannounced, and even when it does arrive there it will have three days' steaming to reach Durban. As many as six transports with 4500 troops were expected to be in Cape Town harbor by this time; but the war office last evening issued a statement to the effect that the only arrivals at Cape Town were the Sumatra, from Durban, with wounded; the Southern Cross, from Gibraltar with mules, and the collier Wenvoe.

Of course it is possible that dispatch boats have been sent to meet the troopships with instructions to proceed direct to Durban, and in that even the war office statement that not one has arrived at Cape Town would be literally accurate, even though several should be half way between Cape Town and Durban.

The situation looks brighter at Mafeking, where the Boers are apparently disheartened at the unexpected resistance, a large body of their force having been detached to the south to assist in the investment of Kimberley, around which the cordon is drawing tighter. Evidently the Boers intend to make a concentrated effort to capture Kimberley and their arch-enemy, Cecil Rhodes.

The reported departure of a Boer contingent from Pretoria, with German artillery gunners, moving in a southerly direction, is taken to mean co-operation in the invasion of the northern portions of Cape Colony, an undertaking which, thus far, has not progressed very rapidly.

Reports of a treacherous use of the white flag by the Boers, coming from native sources, are not received with complete credulity, but, at the same time, their reiteration is making an unfavorable impression.

The Dewey-Hazen Wedding.

Washington, Nov. 9.—A marriage license was issued yesterday to George Dewey and Mrs. Mildred Hazen. The application for the license was made by Lieutenant Harry H. Caldwell, U. S. N., Admiral Dewey's secretary. The information furnished the clerk and set forth in the license is that Admiral Dewey is 61 years of age, and his bride-elect 43; that both are citizens of the United States, and that in the case of each party there was one former marriage. The marriage ceremony will be performed at Mrs. McLean's residence. Only a family party, with a few intimate friends and several high officials, will witness the event. No authoritative information is obtainable as to the exact date of the wedding. It is believed that Archpishop Keane will celebrate the marriage rites.

Talks Like a True Sportsman.

Southampton, Nov. 9.—Sir Thomas Lipton arrived at Southampton this morning. On being interviewed regarding his experiences in the United States he spoke most appreciatively of the treatment he had received at the hands of the Americans. He admitted the superiority of Columbia, but said Shamrock was considerably handicapped by the illness of Mr. Fife. Sir Thomas reiterated his determination to try again, saying that he would issue a challenge immediately, and that, unless there was some one else desirous of entering the lists, he would build a boat for 1901.

No Agreement With England.

Washington, Nov. 9.—A report was in circulation here that England and the United States were negotiating a treaty for mutual advantage in China, agreeing to maintain an open trade door there. Secretary Hay promptly denied that there was anything in this report, and naturally ridiculed one feature of it, to the effect that the agreement was secret. The efforts of our government are now directed towards maintaining our trade advantages in China, and from this has doubtless sprung an exaggerated notion of the international aspects of the affair.

Cole's Resignation Accepted.

Boston, Nov. 9.—At a meeting yesterday of the board of directors of the Globe National bank the resignation of Charles H. Cole as president was accepted. Horace H. Stevens was elected president and George H. Ball vice president. The directors state that the bank incurred no loss from or through the transactions of its late president, Mr. Cole.

"Could Not Sleep."

Sleeplessness marks the very climax of human suffering. It is only a step removed from insanity. When sleep no longer restores the exhausted nature, the struggle with disease cannot last long. The starting point of the nervous disorders which produce ill-health and sleeplessness, is generally a diseased condition of the womanly organs. Restore these organs to sound health and the appetite comes back, the day's work no longer wearies, and sleep is sound and refreshing. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures diseases of the womanly organs. It stops the drains which weaken women; it heals the inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is a temperance medicine.

"My health has been poor for many years and I had taken a great deal of medicine, but it did me no good," writes Mrs. Rose Kennedy, of Springbluff, Adams Co., Wis. "Last August my health was very poor; I had no appetite and could not sleep. I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he kindly advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription.' I took five bottles of the 'Prescription' and one bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I feel like a new woman."

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible hat it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a portion of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

AGITATION IS GROWING

Fall River Manufacturers Must Yield or a Strike Will Probably Ensue.

Textile Council's Sentiment Endorsed by the Unions.

Employers Claim That Condition of Marke Will Not Permit Increase.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 10.—The wage agitation is growing and is tending toward trouble unless a modification of the manufacturers' refusal is made. Out of 3000 operatives in the city, about a third are now in the unions, and the others are influenced by them. The membership of the unions is not larger because in some families of four or five workers only one member of a union is enrolled, but the others follow usually in the wake of the unionist.

The delegates of the five labor organizations of this city connected with the Textile council will be called together and a new demand will be made upon the Manufacturers' association, this time, however, with the evident purpose in view of bringing the wage question to a crisis. A new date at which the time limit for the increase to go into effect will expire will be set, and, should the mill men fail to make the concessions asked for at that time, it is claimed the unions which vote to enforce their demands will strike as a protest against the action of their employers.

The members of the Textile council are a unit in their belief that the manufacturers should grant the 10 percent increase, and three of the unions affiliated with the council have endorsed this sentiment, at a special meeting called this week. The Spinners' association, through its secretary, claim that they are entitled to the increase, and will act in harmony with the other unions. The Carders' association adopted a set of resolutions, endorsing the action of the council, and declaring further, that "inasmuch as the manufacturers have seen fit to refuse the proposed advance on the date named, we instruct our delegates to the Textile council to ask for an immediate meeting of said council, and insist that our demand be complied with at a later date, such date to be as near as possible to the original date named by the council for the advance to go into effect. The loomfixers, Secretary McCarty says, favor enforcing the demand by every means, even by striking alone. Their action is practically a strike vote.

The slasher tenders' executive committee will recommend opposing the manufacturers' refusal. The weavers also will vote in harmony with their brother members in the other unions. The sentiment throughout the city is in favor of enforcing the demand of the employes by a strike, and, unless a compromise is effected within a short time Fall River will be made the battleground of New England in a fight for increased wages.

A prominent manufacturer, a member of the special committee which conferred with the Textile council, says: "The condition of the market today destroys any argument in favor of increased wages. The mill employes must not forget that they are receiving higher wages than in the last 15 years, except in 1892 and 1893, when voluntary increases were granted them. In the spring, when the last advance was given, cotton was quoted at 6½, while today it is quoted at 7 13-16, although a good grade of midland uplands cannot be bought for less than 8¼ cents, or about 2 cents more a pound than the listed price when wages were increased last spring. This advance in cotton makes a difference to mills using 100 bales per week, or about $60,000 per annum in excess of the cost of production as figured last April."

It seems to be the general opinion among manufacturers that there will be no withdrawing from the position now taken by their association, in refusing the increase.

At a largely attended meeting of the Weavers' union last evening it was voted to endorse the action of the Textile council making a demand for advanced wages. It was also voted to instruct the delegation to the Textile council to favor making another demand, the date to be fixed by the council. In the event of another refusal to advance the wages the delegates are instructed to vote in favor of enforcing the demand. The weavers believe all of the unions should act as a unit.

Lowell Strike Settled.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 10.—The strikers at the local factory of the American Hide and Leather corporation returned to work today, having been granted the old scale of wages and reimbursement for the loss in pay incurred since the cut-down went into effect. Conferences on further grievances will be held later.

A Costly "Initiation."

Chicago, Nov. 10.—John Shinder was probably fatally burned here yesterday through an attempted joke. Two fellow workmen bound him with a tarred rope, and, after lighting it, left the room, thinking the rope would burn slowly. In an instant the prisoner was a mass of flames. Charles Becker and Allie Chudzinsky were arrested. They say that Shinder was a new man, and they merely wished to initiate him.

Boy Charged With Murder.

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 10.—Charles B. Cross, the 17-year-old boy suspected by the police of having caused the death of Mrs. Sarah C. King in Long Ridge Wednesday night, has been formally placed under arrest, and Deputy Sheriff Miller, who has him in charge, says he believes he will confess to the crime.

Ashamed of His Poverty.

Philadephia, Nov. 10.—Colonel J. J. Moore, who, during the Civil war, was chief engineer and superintendent of the military roads of Virginia, died suddenly yesterday in a cheap lodging house in this city. Colonel Moore had been stopping at the house for nearly 10 months under the name of J. J. Jackson, which he assumed, fearing his impoverished condition would become known to his friends, and wishing to avoid the embarrassment of accepting money or assistance from any of his old-time associates or the members of his family. Asthma is believed to have caused his death.

Policeman Killed by Electric Car.

Watertown, Mass., Nov. 10.—Joseph B. White, a police officer of this town, was struck by an electric car of the Boston Elevated Railway company last evening and injured so badly that he died within an hour. His skull was fractured. Motorman Gallagher was arrested, but was released on bail. Witnesses of the accident attach no blame to the motorman. He reversed the power, but too late to prevent the accident, and Officer White was struck and thrown fully 25 feet. He was picked up unconscious and died in that condition.

Denied Right to Speak.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Superintendent of Schools E. Benjamin Andrews, formerly president of Brown university, was denied the right to speak before the school management committee of the Chicago board of education yesterday. He was interrupted in the midst of an emphatic protest against action which the committee was about to take. The committee refused to hear his protest to its end, refused to grant him opportunity to explain and then passed the measure against his advice.

ARRANGEMENTS KEPT SECRET.

Washington, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Mildred M. Hazen and Admiral George Dewey were quietly married yesterday at the rectory of St. Paul's Catholic church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James F. Mackin, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. Joseph A. Foley, assistant pastor, and Rev. Sidney S. Hurlburt.

ADMIRAL DEWEY.

The ceremony was strictly private and of the simplest character. The bride was accompanied by Mrs. Washington McLean, her mother, and Mrs. Ludlow, her sister, while Admiral Dewey was accompanied by Lieutenant Caldwell, his aide. There were no other guests, and after the ceremony the admiral and Mrs. Dewey entered a carriage and were driven to the residence of Mrs. Washington McLean, where a wedding breakfast was served.

ADMIRAL DEWEY'S BRIDE.

The arrangements for the wedding were made with all the secrecy which has attended the whole affair. After procuring the license for the wedding, Lieutenant Caldwell called upon Fr. Mackin of St. Paul's, at which church Mrs. Hazen is a communicant, and arranged for the wedding. As Admiral Dewey is not a Catholic, a special dispensation was required for the performance of the ceremony. The general public had no intimation of where the ceremony was to take place, and not a single spectator was present when the party reached the church. Mrs. Hazen and the admiral immediately took their places in the centre of the little reception room, where the ceremony was performed according to the nuptial rites of the Catholic church. It consumed less than five minutes. Father Mackin was first to hail the bride as Mrs. Dewey.

If the new department store can keep at home some of the trade which goes to Boston, and at the same time draw trade from all the South Shore towns, it will be a good thing for Quincy.

☞ The republicans of Haverhill breathe a little easier. They succeeded in retiring one of the two social democrats who represented that city in the last legislature. — Brockton Times.

☞ We can be stout party men and still remain Americans in the larger sense. The man who cannot see the hand of providence in our accidental occupation of the Philippines will be unable to see it in any of the larger movements which have changed the face and character of the world. ☞ One by one the pet arguments of the American Tagals are blown to flinders. Admiral Dewey now says that he never made any promise or compact with Gen. Aguinaldo. Secretary Winslow will doubtless be heard from in this matter with a challenge to the admiral to prove what he says.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ As regards the question of license and no-license, there has not as yet been much comment along the street. Such little as we have heard indicates a scaling down of the enormous majority for no-license given last year, but we have heard nobody of political foresight announcing as yet a belief that the city will turn back to the license column.—Brockton Enterprise.

THEY CAME AND SAW

Railroad Commissioners Inspect Quincy Depots.

Said Never a Word But Actions Talked.

The Hearing to be Continued Friday, Dec. 1.

The Railroad Commissioners made an official visit to Quincy Thursday afternoon, to see for themselves the condition of affairs at the several stations in the city, as complained of in the petition presented to them, and which was more fully brought out at the public hearing Nov. 3.

The Commissioners were accompanied by Gen'l Supt. Clarke, Division Supt. French, Counsel Farnham and City Solicitor Blackmur, who arrived at the Atlantic station at 2.37 where they were met by Mayor Keith, Representative Sprague, Councilmen Jameson, Pinkham and Packard and H. T. Whitman.

As soon as the train came to a standstill one of the Commissioners dived into the gentlemen's toilet room and immediately dived out again, a quick view being enough to satisfy him. Attention was called to the narrowness of the platform in front of the depot bow window and other things complained of. Also the narrow overhead bridge at Hancock street.

From Atlantic a special strain was taken for Wollaston where quite a crowd had collected. Here Assessor Fay button-holed Supt. French about more lights at the depot and was promised they should be put up before night. The officials looked at the famous fence, tried the turnstiles, examined the proposed plan for widening Newport avenue, climbed the hill, crossed Beale street bridge thence down the steps to the depot. The Commissioners were very thorough in their examination. They asked a number of questions and took in the complaints and mutterings fired at them by the bystanders, but said never a word.

Quincy proper was next visited. Here it was found that the door of the gentleman's toilet room which an hour before had been locked and had a card on the door, "Out of Order," was open. This was looked into and a look was evidently sufficient. The floors of the waiting room were still wet from the washing that had been given them, the attention of the Commissioners being called to the fact. At the freight house the location of the blocks of granite that had been removed since the hearing, was pointed out, as well as the spot where the two heaps of ashes had stood. A solution to the Quincy centre problem was suggested in the purchase of the Brackett estate, which was upon the market for a passenger depot.

From Quincy the party went to Quincy Adams thence via. Braintree to West Quincy where the Quincy contingent said adieu.

Before the train started for Boston however the Commissioners announced that the hearing would be continued at their office Friday, Dec 1, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The Commissioners gave no hint of what they thought of the condition of affairs at the several stations but it must have been apparent that there was some warrant for the complaint.

Magazine Night.

The City Band Musical and Literary society met Thursday evening. It was "Mazagine night," and if anything is looked forward to more eagerly than another it is Magazine night. There were two live subjects submitted. The Dreyfus Case in France, supporting strongly the verdict; the other, The Transvaal question, the writer taking the side of the Boer, and of arbitration. He condemned the use of armed force to settle a question that should be left with the aggrieved Utlander. The paper was freely debated and emphatically against the sentiment put forth, and encouraged progress instead of retrogression, or the "Survival of the fittest."

Next Thursday evening Dr. R. W. McLennan will give a paper on, "The healing art from the earliest period down to the present," which will be well worth hearing.

The society is increasing its membership rapidly and will soon be a power for advancement in literary progress.

Unitarian Sociable.

There was a big crowd at the Wollaston Unitarian sociable which was held in the vestry on Thursday evening. Mrs. W. E. Simmons was the chairman of the committee. She was assisted by Mrs. William E. Rowe, Mrs. Walter J. Wellington, Mrs. Walter M. Hatch, Mrs. Charles R. Sherman, Mrs. Herman Wieting, Mrs. William Logan, Mrs. Dr. Curtis, Mrs. George H. Collyer, Mrs. George A. Loring, Mrs. Samuel S. Delano, Mrs. Adelaide Armstrong, Mrs. Charles H. Brigham, Mrs. Munroe and Mrs. Hubbard.

Supper was served from 6.30 to 8 o'clock. There was a brisk demand for the tempting eatables with which the ladies supplied the tables.

After the supper there was an entertainment. It was a good one. First came the play "No cure, no pay," which was given by the Merry Makers, an organization of very young ladies whose good doings we often have the pleasure of chronicling. The play was well staged and brilliantly acted. It went off with a snap. The dialogue and situations were well done.

The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Languish,	Marion Lewis.
Alice, her daughter,	Mildred Huston.
Lucy Aiken,	Clare Jones.
Jennie Carter, friend of Alice,	Helen Sprague.
Susan Dean, friend of Alice,	Helen Barnes.
Aunt Midget,	Buelah Hatch.
Bridget,	Marion Hatch.

After the play there was a piano solo by Miss Lillian Smith and the entertainment closed with the "Bellamy Quadrille," the dancers being costumed "looking backwards." In this quadrille there were W. E. Simmons, Jr., Jack Simmons, Miss Simmons, Miss Kate Simmons, Miss Mabel Fairbanks, Miss Zanetta Sprague, Harry M. Fairbanks and Clifton Baker.

Joseph F. Berry Dead.

Joseph F. Berry, a well known and long resident of Quincy, died at his home at No. 5 Hancock street at 2 o'clock this morning, after an illness of a few weeks' duration. Mr. Berry has been a sufferer from diabetes for several years but his disease did not assume a serious form until ten weeks ago since which time he has been confined to his bed and has been gradually failing until he passed away.

Mr. Berry was born in Parsons Field, Me., in 1827. When quite a young man he came to Quincy and obtained employment on the milk farm of Charles Spear. Later he purchased a milk business of his own, which he carried on in Quincy a few years, and then removed to Charlestown that he might be nearer the seat of his business. About twenty-five years ago, he retired from active business, and returned to Quincy, where he has since lived a retired life. In 1856, Mr. Berry married Sophia, a daughter of Alpheus Spear of Quincy. Mr. Berry was of a genial disposition but not given much to display, preferring to live a quiet life. During active life he was a prominent member of the Universalist church. He leaves a widow and adopted daughter.

Active Mason Dead.

Mr. Francis A. Massey, an old and respected resident of Atlantic, passed away at the insane asylum at Taunton, on Thursday. Mr. Massey was for many years in the employ of the Old Colony railroad at its shops in South Boston. He was greatly interested in Masonry, and was an active member of Rural lodge, being annually appointed as marshal. During his affliction the lodge rendered great aid to the family. He will have a Masonic funeral on Sunday.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible hat it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

MAYOR HAS OPINION.

He and the City Auditor Have a Conference.

On the $5000 Transfer of Sewer Commissioners.

Solicitor Claims Auditor Is Acting Illegally.

It is rumored today that City Auditor Hall was requested to meet with Mayor Keith last evening, and that when he responded the transfer of the $5,000 by the Sewer Commissioners to the Commissioner of Public Works was the subject.

Rumor has it that City Solicitor Blackmur was also present, and that he and the Mayor read the "riot act" to the City Auditor, winding up with an order that he must approve of the order of the Sewer Commissioners with a certain time, a few hours.

An effort was made to reach Mr. Hall by telephone after he left this morning for Boston, but unfortunately his telephone was out of order.

Up to noon the Ledger was unable to locate Mayor Keith.

City Solicitor Blackmur was finally located. He said that he was not at such a conference. He admitted that he had at the request of the Mayor rendered an opinion, but he was not at liberty to state what it was. The Mayor and City Auditor may have had a conference, and the opinion may have figured.

Sec. 2. The Auditor, in addition to the duties prescribed by the Charter, shall certify all bills and claims against the City, which have been approved by the heads of department, and after certification shall place the same in the hands of the Treasurer. He shall also serve as clerk to the Committee on Finance and Accounts.

He shall keep his accounts in such form and in detail such as may be necessary to a clear exhibit of all expenditure and receipts. He shall keep an account with the Treasurer, charging him with the whole amount of taxes assessed for collection, with the amounts of loans and sums of money that may be borrowed for the city, and with all securities and sums receivable, in order that the description and value of all personal property belonging to the city may be shown at any time by his books. He shall credit each account with its appropriation for the financial year, and with its receipts, and charge against the same the expenditures as they shall from time to time be allowed. Whenever an appropriation for any account is expended, the Auditor shall immediately give notice thereof to the Mayor, the City Council, and the Committee on Accounts, which committee shall not pass or allow any claim or account chargeable against such appropriation, until the City Council provides the means of paying the same. The Auditor shall once in each month furnish the City Council and administration boards with a statement, showing the condition of each account giving amount of appropriations and receipts, expenditures, and unexpended balances under the same.

Mayor Keith when seen just before the Ledger went to press said he did not know where such a story could have started, for there was nothing in the nature of the reading the riot act. He further said, that he and Mr. Hall had a conference although it was more in the nature of a pleasant talk, as to what was best to do, as both were anxious to do what was right. He had requested an opinion from the City Solicitor which had been given. This opinion in brief was that there was no objection to, and every reason why, the Sewer Commissioners should employ the Commissioner of Public Works to put the streets back into perfect repair after the sewer had been built in them. That the action of the City Auditor in declining to audit the payment to the Commissioner of Public Works for work done for the Sewer Commissioners was illegal, and although it had been referred to the City Council for instructions, the latter body under the charter and Ordinances has absolutely no authority in the matter. That although they elected the City Auditor his duties are defined by the charter and ordinances, and he is presumed to act independently of the Council without its interference.

Mayor Keith further said that everything was perfectly pleasant during the entire conference.

A FINE RECITAL.

The concert season has commenced but we venture to say that there will be none better throughout the whole season than the recital given at Bethany chapel on Thursday evening by the pupils of Miss Gertrude Graham. They were assisted by Mrs. Otho Hayward pianist, Mrs. Myrtle Phyllis Markson, contralto, and Hubach Male quartette, composed of Messrs. C. Edward Hubach, J. L. Day, Alfred G. Hubach, and M. F. Hogan.

Miss Graham is to be congratulated on the singing by her pupils, the solo and chorus work by the young people was more than creditable and every selection was enthusiastically received. In one chorus were: Misses Muriel E. Clapp, Eva Clough, Corinne Hayward, Breta Mitchell, May Willwerth, Annie Johnson, Annie Laing, Margaret Milne, Ada Emery, Margaret Holton, Carrie Parker and Miss Merrill.

Another chorus was made up of Misses Etta Beaulieu, Louisa Birney, Annie Birney, Elizabeth Collins, Mary Collins, Mary Murray and Frances Murray.

The Hubach quartette, were prime favorites and their songs were received with applause and encores were given every selection. Miss Myrtle Phyllis Markson was in fine voice, her rich contralto notes pleasing the audience. The solos by Mrs. J. Francis Merrill, Miss Clapp, Miss Willwerth, Miss Mitchell and Miss Merrill were all well sung and were received with the enthusiasm they deserved.

One of the most prominent participants in the recital was Mrs. Otho Hayward, who was the accompanist for the Hubach quartette and also rendered several fine piano solos, the Prize Song from "Die Meistersinger" being especially fine and receiving appreciative applause.

Miss Graham is to be congratulated on her programe, for the recital was a a pleasure to the audience from beginning to end.

Smith the Champion.

The finals for the championship of the Wollaston Golf club were played Thursday on the new links, and the honors go to Mr. F. F. H. Smith.

The keenest interest has been taken in the championship match this year, and the contest was close from the beginning. In the preliminary round Smith beat Bremer 2 up, 30 holes, and in the semi-finals Smith beat Atherton by the same score, 2 up, 30 holes. In the other semi-final Porter beat Freeman 2 up, 1 to play, 27 holes.

The finals were the closest match that has been held on the new links. The two were even up at the 24th hole and halved the next six. At the 31st hole they were still even up, with 5 to play. Smith took the 32d hole and was 1 up, 4 to play. They halved the 33d hole and Smith took the 34th, and they halved the next hole, giving Smith the game by 2 up, 1 to play.

Porter, the defeated player, already possesses three championship prizes of the club, having won in '95, '96, and '97. Last year the championship was won by Cracknell.

The scores by holes are given below:

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued cases of Joseph Rooney, Timothy Downey and Louis Bates for disturbing the peace at Cohasset were heard and they were fined $7 each.

A little girl whose name is said to have been Zucusky and whose home is at Germantown ran in front of a bicycle in front of the Ledger office, this noon and was knocked down. The lady who was riding the wheel was in no way to blame for the accident and tired in every possible way to avoid it. The little girl was taken to the Department drug store and later to her home.

Political.

Councilman Hill had decided not to be a candidate for reelection, but because of the extreme pressure brought to bear by the Republicans of Ward Six, he has reluctantly assented to allow the use of his name. The people of Madison street, Webster street and Billings road may thank him for good work for the improvements obtained, and the firemen appreciate the burning of the street lights after midnight.

Secretary Jameson of the Ward Five Republican Committee had these names filed with him on Thursday evening in the order named: For Conncilmen, Charles M. Bryant, E. F. DeNormandie, Walter F. Nichols, George E. Thomas and Charles A. Campbell.

Delegates to the Municipal Convention, R. R. Freeman, Walter S. Pinkham, Edward E. Jameson, James S. Whiting, Henry O. Fairbanks, E. F. DeNormandie, A. L. Baker, Charles A. Macfarland and E. S. Thomas.

Regarding the Democratic notice to file Ward Five nomination papers with Edward H. Austin, Taylor street, upon inquiry it transpires that there is no such person residing either in the ward or city. Mr. Austin to whom this notice referred, became a resident of Somerville some time ago.

Wollaston has much to be thankful to Councilman Bryant for. He secured the defeat of President Pinkham for a reelection, so that Ward Five has suffered in the Legislative branch. Mr. Bryant last year worked for the defeat of the Republican candidate for Mayor, so that Wollaston secured scarcely an appointive office this year. By the appointment of Commissioner Cavanagh our streets have never been so neglected. More might be said, but it is unnecessary.

Ward One Republicans already have four candidates for Councilmen, nomination papers having been filed for Elisha Packard, Henry P. Kittredge, William F. Hoehn and Frank F. Prescott. Councilmen Nash and Swithin do not care for reelection.

It is rumored that there was a political smoke talk in Farnum's hall, West Quincy, Thursday night.

But one nomination paper was filed by the Republicans of Ward Four Thursday night and that placed in nomination Mayo Fuller and John Evans as Ward Councilmen.

WEYMOUTH.

AMERICA'S SYMPATHY

Highly Appreciated by Our Cousins Across the Sea.

Great Britain Has No Fear of European Hostility.

Will Not Permit Interference in Dealing With Boer Adversaries.

London, Nov. 10.—At the Guild Hall lord mayor's banquet last night the lord mayor proposed "The Ministers" in a speech in which he vigorously denounced "the ignorant arrogance of the invader," dwelling on the fact that Sir Alfred Milner, in spite of herculean efforts, was unable to prevail with the overbearing, corrupt oligarchy, therefore other of our champions have the business in hand.

Lord Salisbury, rising to reply to the lord mayor, was greeted with intense enthusiasm. The premier said:

"I have had to answer for many years similar kind receptions in this hall, but never before under conditions that justified me in appealing so confidently to your sympathy and support as in the present grave state of public affairs. Before turning to this serious point my duty is to inform you that our situation in South Africa is the only part of our relations with other nations to which any term of apprehension or doubt can be applied.

"For several years our relations and cordial feelings toward our kinsmen on the other side of the Atlantic have been constantly growing; and, though neither we interfere in the affairs of their continent nor they interfere in the affairs of ours, we feel we can now always look for sympathy and a fair hearing among those who share with us so vast a mission for the advancement of mankind.

"But perhaps you think I am sanguine in saying that on the continent of Europe we have no hostility to fear. There is undoubtedly a certain cerbity of tone among the writers for the foreign press; but I am quite certain it does not affect their governments, and I will say that I have noted as one of the cheering symptoms of the present time, the happy relations existing between the United States and ourselves and the sympathy with which we watch their approach toward the same great problems that we ourselves have had to solve.

"That is not to say that I do not feel the greatest sympathy with their late antagonist, the kingdom of Spain. We entertain the highest hope that out of that war, a blessing in disguise, will grow—and be an abundant growth—civilization and culture in that ancient and most interesting monarchy.

"This morning you had intelligence of an agreement between ourselves and one of the great continental states, with which for many years we have entertained relations of sympathy and friendship beyond others. Samoa is not in itself a very important matter; but it was important because it constituted a subject of difference between ourselves and a nation whose good will we prize very highly. I do not know entirely the reason why the German people and government attach so much importance to Upolu, but they do, and we are very glad to find the means whereby, without in the least diminishing the rights and advantages of England, we are able to gratify their views and sentiment. At the present moment our relations with the German people are all we could desire.

"The great subject that interests all of us, undoubtedly, is this war, adorned with so many splendid feats of heroism and skill, but saddened by so many losses. I have great difficulty in dealing with the war. If I speak at all it may rather be to deprecate criticisms and statements which I think unfounded than to attempt to pass judgment on what still depends upon the future for its full determination.

"Respecting the feeling expressed that the want of troops is due to a want of action on the part of the home government I would point out that there have been two or three voices. Two or three months ago we were told by the most authoritative voice outside the government that there was no occasion for military preparations. Since then we have been blamed because there were no military preparations. But neither of these criticisms is at all relevent to the events which have been taking place.

"It would have been nothing to the purpose to issue proclamations for reserves some weeks earlier. For, what was the cause of the war, and what was the cause of the ultimatum? It was not because of any demand we had made. It so happens that, at the moment the ultimatum was issued, we had withdrawn our demands, and there were no demands before the Transvaal government. It was because we had taken measures to increase the amount of our forces in South Africa. But, if that had been done a few months sooner, exactly the same result would have taken place. The moment you had shown signs of raising your force to an equality with the force opposed to it, that moment the ultimatum would have been issued and war would have begun.

"It is not, therefore, right to say that there was not adequate military preparations. The evil goes farther back. It dates to those unfortunate arrangements in 1881 and 1884 by which we deliberately permitted a community obviously hostile to enjoy the unbounded, unlimited right of accumulating munitions of war against us. Year after year an accumulation of munitions was made which could only be directed against us. Hampered by these arrangements, it was impossible we should avoid the interval of trial and danger necessarily to intervene between the moment when war was declared and the moment when our forces could accept contest and appear upon the field.

"That interval has nearly passed. Our troops are beginning to arrive. Foreign nations have complimented us upon the calmness with which we have received the intelligence of occasional checks. Whatever strategy there might be, we are well aware that the beginning of our conflict with the Boers must be marked by a retirement of our troops from positions they are not strong enough to occupy. It is necessary that they should wait for sufficient reinforcements. I do not attempt to forecast the future. I only say that my faith in the British soldier is unbounded, and I am deeply gratified to feel that he is in the vigorous and sagacious hands of General Buller.

"Regarding the future, I will only deprecate some very strange assertions that I see occasionally in the continental press. Only the other day I saw it asserted that this war had for its objects the gratification of the lust of greedy lords, who desired a partition among themselves of the gold and diamonds of the Transvaal.

"Her majesty's cabinet have not had a farthing from the Transvaal or from any other gold fields. There is Yukon, about which there is no contest. If there had been any chance of our gaining advantages these Yukon gold fields should have yielded something.

"I go further. England as a whole would have had no advantage from the possession of gold mines except as her government conferred the blessings of good administration upon those engaged in the industry. All successful industry breeds commerce, and all commerce has produced is to the advantage of England, and all industries and commerce flourish better under her good government than under any other regime in the world. But that is the limit of our interest.

"What we desire is equal rights for all men of all races and security for our fellow subjects and our empire. The hour for agreeing by what means these results can be obtained is not yet come; but these are the objects and the only objects we seek. We do not allow any other consideration to cross our path.

"I have seen it suggested—and it seems to me a wild suggestion—that the other powers will interfere with this country and in some form or other dictate to those who are concerned in it as to what its upshot should be. Don't let any man think it is in that fashion the conflict will be concluded. We shall have to carry it through ourselves, and the interference of anybody else will have no effect upon it. In the first place, because we would not accept that interference and, in the second place, because we are convinced that there is no such idea in the mind of any government in the world.

"Whenever we are victorious we shall consult the vast interests committed to our care. Vast duties lie upon us to perform; and, taking counsel of the uniform traditions of our colonial government and of the moderation and equal justice to all races of men which it has been our uniform practice to observe, I do not doubt we shall so arrange that the issue of this conflict will confer good government upon the area where it rages and give the security, sorely needed, against the recurrence of any such dangers and the necessity of any such future exertion, and for the restoration of peace and civilization to that portion of the world."

During the course of the banquet Lord Wolseley announced that orders had been given to mobilize another division for South Africa, and that the government was quite prepared to mobilize a second army corps.

The Ladies' Implement of War.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Silas J. Coyne, a carpenter, has invented a new implement of warfare. The device consists of a series of kites, supporting a cable, upon which a "trolley" kite is made to travel. The trolley kite carries a bomb of high explosive power, which is automatically released. By means of especially constructed kites, he claims to be able to support a cable nearly seven miles in length, by using a number of the kites in tandem. The traveling kite will support a weight of more than 20 pounds. It folds automatically upon releasing the bomb and returns of its own weight. Successful practical tests are said to have been made of the kites.

Navy Needs Coaling Stations.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The urgent necessity of adequate coaling stations for our warships is dwelt upon by Rear Admiral Bradford, chief of the naval bureau of equipment, in his report to the secretary of the navy. He relates the difficulties encountered during the war with Spain in securing coal, transporting it and getting it aboard the ships. While these efforts were successful the admiral says it was due almost entirely to the near proximity of the theater of war to our own coast. He says that a United States fleet, if called upon to act at any point across the Atlantic, must encounter even greater difficulties than were found by Admiral Cervera.

One Was Bound to Be Killed.

Boston, Nov. 10.—The Italian who was arrested at Hudson, Luigi Storti, has confessed to the murder of Michale Calucci early last Tuesday morning. Storti was arrested on the railroad tracks near Hudson. Search for Storti's companion, Vincenzo Bucilli, is being continued, but it is said that Storti's confession would stop all further proceedings against Bucilli. The police say that when Storti confessed he said that there had been trouble between himself and the murdered man for a long time, and that it had been only a question of time when one should kill the other.

DR. CODERRE'S — RED PILLS

BACKACHES

Most women complain of backaches. They are tired because they work too much; from early morning till late at night. Thousands of women have been cured of Backaches and other symptoms of a similar character, by the use alone of Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. This is gospel truth. We do not claim that they will cure everything, but simply female troubles, and these they will cure more quickly and more cheaply than any of the old-fashioned liquid remedies. We ask those ladies who doubt what we say to write to any of those whose testimonials we publish.

Mrs. H. M. Mathewson, 61 Wilson Street, Providence, R. I., writes:—
"I was suffering from a most severe case of female weakness. I had backaches and womb trouble. I could get nothing to cure me until I tried Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women and I am to-day a healthy woman. I am pleased to recommend this remedy to all suffering women."

Mrs. G. E. Elliott, 93 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Mich., writes:—
"I used to suffer terribly from backaches. My system was completely run down. I was weak, always tired and discouraged until I took Dr. Coderre's Red Pills, which cured me and made me a new woman. I will never be without them again, as I find them cheap and very reliable."

Mrs. E. Angers, 705 N. Van Buren St., Bay City, Mich., writes:—
"I am more able to do my work to-day than I have been for years. The main cause of my trouble was my kidneys and terrible backaches. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are the remedy that has cured me. I have tried many other ones, but all without effect. I was surprised at the good this remedy has done me and I am pleased to recommend it to all sick women."

Mrs. Chas. Oslan, 75 Lake Avenue, Manchester, N. H., writes:—
"When I began to take Dr. Coderre's Red Pills I had not much faith in them. A friend recommended them to me. How I wish I had known this remedy before. I had to work in the mill and I was suffering from female weakness in the worst way. I am to-day cured and am gaining in flesh. My appetite is good and I am much stronger."

Women who will keep on suffering when such a remedy exists can surely have no excuse. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are for women only and are only intended for legitimate use. They are not intended for any bad purpose. We refer all ladies who have been suffering for years to our celebrated specialists who will be pleased to send them such advice as they require; or, if possible, they are invited to call at our offices. The consultation is free and the advice given is the best that the greatest experience on the continent can guarantee.

Send us your name and address and we will mail you free our Doctor's book, Pale and Weak Women. We call your attention to the fact that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are not a purgative. If you are constipated, and wish to get the best results from the Red Pills, take Dr. Coderre's Purgative Tablets, and you will be surprised at the results.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are sold by all first class druggists at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. We mail them all over the world upon receipt of price. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred pills, or at 25c. a box, for they are not ours; they are imitations. In the interest of your health do not be imposed upon.

Write or come and see our Doctors at either of the following offices, open every day until Six o'clock, Sundays excepted.

The Pickwick Club.

The first dramatic evening of the Pickwick club for the season was held at the home of Mrs. Isaac on Wednesday, Nov. 8. The bright little comedy in two acts, "A Fool for Luck," was given by the following excellent cast:

Mr. William Betterby,	Mr. J. O. Hall, Jr.
Mr. Robert Bidder,	Mr. Arthur Hall.
Mr. Athur Babburton,	Mr. Mitchell.
Wates,	Mr. Simmons.
Mrs. Betterby,	Mrs. Beattie.
Miss Carrie Pollard,	Miss Sargent.
Miss Pattern,	Mrs. Marsh.

The play as a whole went with a snap and facility that was highly creditable to the performers. The burden of the work rested upon Mr. Mitchell, who gave a well-conceived impersonation of the amiable but weak-minded Englishman. Mr. J. O. Hall, Jr., was capital in the role of the mercurial Betterby and Mr. Arthur Hall was in every respect acceptable as the friend of the family. Mr. Simmons as Watts, the valet, was inimitable and added another success to his long list of effective impersonations. Mrs. Beattie acted as always, with ease, spirit and intelligence, and Miss Sargent made a most attractive and piquant Carrie, her scene with Mr. Arthur Hall being particularly commendable. Mrs. Marsh, as the elderly aunt interested in incubators, created an abundance of hilarity and deserves a word of special praise for her very effective makeup. The actors may congratulate themselves on having provided a most pleasing entertainment to the members of the club and their friends.

The Friday Club.

The Friday club, composed of eighteen well-known ladies of this city, has successfully opened its season's work. The subjects to be studied and discussed this winter are: "A Period in Scottish History," and "A Period in English literature and History."

The first meeting of the club was held on Oct. 13, with Mrs. Saville and was in charge of Mrs. Arnold. A fortnight later the club met with Mrs. Tupper in Brighton, the session being in charge of Mrs. Saville.

Yesterday's meeting was at the home of Mrs. Wilson Marsh, the committee in charge being Mrs. Gurney, president of the club.

At each meeting carefully prepared papers are read, followed by a discussion, and by an exceedingly pleasant social half hour, at which light refreshments are served by the hostess.

High School Alumni.

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association of the Quincy High school was held last night at the school building, and was fairly well attended. The reports were encouraging. These officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Alden, '65.

Secretary, Charles A. Hall, '87.

Treasurer, A. L. Litchfield, 72.

Directors, with above, Miss Mary Dinnie, '95, Miss Margaret L. Thomas, '85, Miss L. Merton Pratt, '97, and Miss Bessie Whittemore, '99.

Unity Club.

There were 146 members present at the regular meeting of the Unity club, which was held at the Wollaston Unitarian church vestry last evening.

"Cotton" was the subject under consideration. Mr. Frederick H. Bishop was in charge of the evening.

Miss Minnie G. Riley read the opening paper, which treated upon "the plant and its cultivation." Miss Edith F. Bates described the process from the field to the mill, and Mr. F. H. Bishop from the bale to thread and the manufacture of cloth. Several plantation melodies were sung by a quartette consisting of Mrs. F. A. Page, Mrs. E. A. King, Mr. Benjamin Sargent and Mr. E. Walter Arnold.

Wedded at Chicago.

Saturday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. Matson, 113th Place, Chicago, Miss Selina A. Hedvall and Mr. August N. Weeden, both of Quincy, Mass., were married by Rev. O. C. Wideen, pastor of the First Swedish Baptist church of this city. Only the Chicago relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony.

Mr. Weeden is a cousin of Rev. O. C. Wideen. He is a prominent business man in Quincy, where he has been running business for the last eleven years.

Mr. and Mrs. Weeden are well known in Quincy as true and active Christian people. They have returned thither, where they will make their future home, after a few weeks' visit in the west.

ODDS AGAINST WHITE.

Boers May Make Ladysmith Untenable Before Reinforcements Arrive.

Buller May Not Begin Campaign Before Christmas.

No News From the Front of a Particularly Enlightening Nature.

London, Nov. 11.—General White is making a heroic stand at Ladysmith, but at the same time it is realized that he is confronted by heavy odds, and the absence of reliable news is disquieting.

The fear is beginning to be felt that he is out of ammunition for his long range guns, for in the recent reports from him nothing is said of the naval guns whose work was so effective in the early engagements.

At the same time the Boers seem to be keeping up a continuous bombardment, and he is evidently relying on frequent sorties to prevent the Boer line from closing in too near.

The great question now is how soon General Buller will be able to send him relief. It is feared that the Boers, with the heavy guns which they have been getting into position during the last few days, may be able to render the place untenable before the expected reinforcements arrive.

But in any case the British officials are moving heaven and earth to get aid to Ladysmith at the earliest possible moment. Troops are now rushing from Cape Town to relieve General White. A thousand men have already covered part of the way from there to Durban. They will probably land there from the transport Roslyn Castle on Sunday or Monday. Within a week or 10 days a force of 8000 men may be ready to begin the advance, if General White can hold out until that time.

News that the Boers are bringing up heavier guns against General White has come from Durban. This has made the sending of reinforcements more urgent than ever. Buller may go to Durban himself to direct the Natal operations.

Public anxiety has only been deepened by the dispatches from General Buller, giving the latest news received by pigeon post from General White. White's communication covers occurrences at Ladysmith up to Tuesday.

The most significant feature of it is the absence of details as to the fighting around Ladysmith. It is certain that fighting occurred on Friday. The two English residents of Ladysmith who escaped through the Boer lines, and are now at Estcourt, say that the British lost 150 killed and wounded in that fighting.

No one here believes that White would send dispatches without giving an account of that fighting. It is believed that he did send such an account and that General Buller has suppressed it. As there would be no reason to suppress it if it was at all favorable, it is believed that it was very unfavorable. This has deepened the fears as to White's safety.

Another ominous feature is the peculiar inactivity of the Boers around White's position. The enemy is apparently planning some coup, and experience with the Boers has shown that when they begin to plot something serious is likely to happen.

It is believed here that they are hurrying heavier guns from Pretoria and quietly getting them into position for a final effort to destroy White.

The latest press dispatches, dated Nov. 6, declare that the Boers then had their guns dominating Ladysmith on the east, north and west. They add this ominous statement: "Our large naval guns, unfortunately, are not yet ready to reply." These are the guns on which White depended, and if the Boers have brought up more heavy weapons his position may be made desperate.

Everything indicates that there is some important move contemplated by the Boers. As they have only got about a week to reduce Ladysmith, it is believed that they are going to make a tremendous effort to overwhelm White.

The troopship Bavarian sailed from Queenstown last evening for the Cape, carrying the Connaught Rangers, the first battalion of the Royal Dublin fusiliers and a contingent of miscellaneous troops, altogether over 2000 men, and a large quantity of stores. Crowds witnessed and cheered the departure of the vessel.

It is said that General Buller never expected to commence the campaign before Christmas, and it now looks as though this will be the case. Certainly no artillery can reach Durban before Nov. 14, and, without additional guns, an advance from Estcourt would be impossible. No doubt, as Lord Salisbury said in a recent speech, England will "muddle through it," and yet another illustration of muddling has become apparent in the fact that gunnery instructors have only just arrived at Woolwich arsenal for instruction in siege train duties. Although hurried preparations are being made to prepare the siege trains, the fact that men are at Devonport and the guns at Woolwich seems to show that the idea of the siege train was quite an afterthought.

The Morning Post says: "What will come of such muddling if we ever come to fighting a foe able to turn it to advantage? Some radical reforms are still needed in our mobilization arrangements."

The statement from Ladysmith that the British guns do not reply to the Boer artillery because the concrete beds for the guns have not yet hardened is interpreted in some quarters to mean simply that the British are husbanding their ammunition, as the Boer fire is only a trick to get the British to waste shells.

Among the few items that have arrived at Cape Town is one saying that the Boers are planting more guns on the hills surrounding Ladysmith. All the correspondents in the beleaguered town are safe and anxious to reopen communication.

The latest advices from Kimberley, dated Nov. 2, say that all was well there then. An explosion had been heard, and the supposition was that the Boers had blown up the railway culvert south of Dronfield.

The Belgian government, it is said, has warned Dr. Leyds, whose headquarters are at Brussels, that Belgium is a neutral country.

A corps of engineers from Gibraltar will accompany the siege train to the Cape, and the men will be used in mounting the heaviest guns in embrasures. Two battalions of mounted infantry, every man selected for his riding and shooting qualities, will be sent to the front.

At a banquet in London yesterday, the Duke of Cambridge, speaking on the war, said: "We ought never to have allowed ourselves to be in the position in which the outbreak of war found us. I could cry over the valuable lives which might have been spared, had we been better prepared."

WOMAN IN THE CASE.

Shooting of Young Middleton Expected to Develop Into a Sensation.

Stoughton, Mass., Nov. 11.—The Middleton shooting incident is the talk of this entire neighborhood, especially as the police say that they will have a man under arrest within a few hours, whom they are certain did the shooting. As the police surmised, there is a woman involved, and an extremely interesting story is expected to be developed.

Since Monday night, when 17-year-old Frank Middleton was shot by an unknown man on the lonely railroad bridge at McHugh's crossing, both the state and local police have been at work, and while developing considerable evidence to show reasons for the shooting on the part of a certain man, they were constantly misled by conflicting statements by the victim. The local officers went to the hospital in Boston, at which Middleton is being cared for, and got what they think is a straight story from him. On their return the officers said that the arrest would be made within 24 hours, and promised some interesting facts.

The principal interest in the case at this stage centers on the reason given by Middleton for his being at McHugh's crossing at 8 o'clock that night, and whether there were two or three witnesses to the shooting.

Considered by the Cabinet.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The question of the purchase of United States bonds by the government was under discussion by the cabinet for nearly an hour yesterday. Secretary Gage explained the situation fully, and it now appears to be settled that no purchases will be made for the present at least. Although the secretary has not expressed his views on the subject for publication, it is known that he is considering the question of refunding the 4 and 5 percents into long term bonds bearing 2 percent interest. This action would necessitate congressional authorization, but whether the secretary will recommend such legislation is not known. The decision to extend the United States domestic postal system to the Philippines gives that archipelago the same domestic rates, classifications and conditions as apply here.

Fire and Loss of Life.

Woburn, Mass., Nov. 11.—The factory of Beggs & Cobb was practically destroyed by fire yesterday. The factory is one of the three owned by this firm, which constitutes the largest leather manufacturing plant in the world. It is not in the trust. For some time the factory has been running at its utmost capacity. Much valuable machinery, as well as a large amount of stock, both finished and unfinished, was in the building. The body of a workman, named Pardeau, was found near the door of the shop. Pardeau had a chance to escape, but it is thought he returned to his workbench to get his street clothing. He ws 61 years old.

Hopes of Hobart's Recovery.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 11.—There was another change for the better in Vice President Hobart's condition yesterday. He was able to sit up in a chair. The patient was evidently stronger, and took more nourishment than at any time since his bad attack of nearly two weeks ago. Despite the statements of attending physicians, the family still have hopes of his ultimate recovery. They were much encouraged by the fact that he was able to sit up such a long period of time, and by the way in which he apparently relished his food.

Many Deserters.

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 11.—One hundred and twelve members of the Forty-third regiment were absent from roll call at Fort Ethan Allen yesterday morning. Some of them have returned to camp. It is thought that some have deserted. The officers believe, however, that most of the men will rejoin the regiment before it leaves New York for the Philippines. A number of uniforms that had been discarded by the soldiers were found near the depot and docks. Probably they changed their military garb for citizen's clothing, to make detection less easy.

Mysteriously Missing.

Pittsburg, Nov. 11.—W. F. Kantze, general eastern freight passenger agent of the cotton belt road, with headquarters in Pittsburg, suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from this city Oct. 29, and since that time nothing has been seen or heard of him, although every effort has been made to ascertain his whereabouts. Kantze had been summoned to the main offices of the company at St. Louis, but he never reached there. It is feared that he has met with foul play and that he never got outside of this city.

Dishonorably Discharged.

Atlanta, Nov. 11.—Privates Berlin, Bowen, Hurst, Baird and Kelley of the Fifth regiment, Georgia volunteers, were discharged yesterday from the service of the state by Governor Candler for the good of the service. The men are charged with looting a small store and barber shop at Hamlet, N. C., on the return of the regiment from New York, where it had been participating in the Dewey celebration.

DIAMONDS ARE DEARER.

Advance of Forty-five Per Cent Caused by Anglo-Boer War.

One of the most striking, though the least known, results of the Transvaal trouble has been the further aggravation of the already bad position of the diamond trade.

The president of the Diamond club (Mr. Bernhard Cohen) was good enough recently to give a London Morning Leader representative a few facts in regard to the situation that has arisen. According to Mr. Cohen, some 18 months back diamonds began to grow scarcer in consequence of the restriction of the output by the De Beers syndicate. The restriction was the more effective because with the exception of a few from Brazil and India the bulk of the diamonds comes from South Africa.

The inevitable result of this limitation was, of course, to send the price up fully 33 per cent according to Mr. Cohen. The war, coming upon the heels of the De Beers action and the cutting off of Kimberley altogether from the rest of the world, has still further restricted the supply and driven the price up another 12 per cent, or 45 per cent higher than 18 months ago.

Naturally not a little shaking of heads has resulted among the jewelers and dealers in precious stones. Tempted by the high prices, the dealers have rushed to sell and realize the profits within their grasp. But in spite of these sales the values have continued to rise, making the sellers heartily sorry they did not wait a little longer. One man who had all but clinched a bargain for £20,000 worth of rough stones was told the next day that if he then wanted the goods he would have to pay 6 per cent more for them.

Needless to say small dealers find their trade practically at a standstill, while the manufacturing jewelers, who were always full up with work, are almost completely idle—at all events, so far as commissions from diamond dealers are concerned. People, again, who used to come to London from Antwerp to sell their diamonds keep away, for the very good reason that they have nothing to sell.

INTEREST IN COURSING.

Flourishing Condition of the Sport In California.

As a result of a crusade waged in Los Angeles by the League of Good Government the superior court there has convicted the proprietor of a local coursing park of cruelty to animals. The decision has created a good deal of consternation in this part of the state, where the pastime of coursing has become thoroughly established.

It is astonishing what a vast interest has been aroused of late in the sport, says the Oakland Tribune. Four or five years ago coursing was confined to a few desultory meetings each season in cheap resorts for small purses of a few dollars, the competing dogs being the ordinary greyhounds around town. Now, however, all is changed. Two large, handsomely equipped coursing parks are in full blast across the bay, and a third is about to be opened. Stakes aggregating in value several thousands of dollars are run off each week. The kennels of the whole world have been ransacked in order to secure the best bred and speediest dogs in the market. Thousands of people attend the weekly meetings, and the sport is flourishing in a manner that means fat financial returns for those conducting the ventures.

SEES END OF THE WORLD.

Medina (O.) Preacher Sees Signs In Amount of Building Now Going On.

The pastor of the First Baptist church of Medina, near Cleveland, Rev. B. F. Griffith, sees signs of the end of the world in the great volume of building now going on. "I get my ideas from the Bible," said Rev. Mr. Griffith to a Cincinnati Commercial Tribune reporter. "The Scriptures indicate that there is to be a great amount of building just previous to the end of time, and cite the building which was in progress previous to the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah as a parallel. There has never been as much building as at present. It is true that there is more building here in Cleveland than anywhere else, but the spirit of building is rampant all over the world.

"All the signs of the times show that the end of the world is near. The wars and rumors of war, earthquakes in divers places and many other indications I might refer to, all show that we are in the seventh seal of Revelation."

Cinematographs In the War.

Whatever may be the final result of the Boer-British war, it is certain that the public will be favored with the first moving pictures ever taken of armies in combat. Not only are cinematograph artists present with the English army on the firing line, but every detail of the departure of the troops and of their arrival in South Africa has been photographed for future reproduction, says the Chicago Tribune. For instance, when General Buller, the British commander in chief, left Southampton the mayor of that city was persuaded to walk with him up and down the gangplank of the steamer until the enterprising photographer had got the views he wanted.

Shou'd Manufacturers Refuse Request Operatives Will Strike.

Feeling That Advance Rightfully Belongs to Them.

Heavy Stockholder Thinks It Will Be Granted Rather Than Allow a Strike.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 11.—The action of the Weavers' union Thursday night, to all appearances, will make positive the sentiment in the Textile council as to future action on the wage question. That sentiment will be to ask for an advance of 10 percent once more, naming a later date than Nov. 13 for it to go into effect, and this will give the manufacturers another opportunity for a conference. It is said by some that this opportunity will be taken advantage of, and it is hoped that a peaceful settlement of the wage difficulty will be reached.

"If it were the middle of winter and the snow deep on the ground," declared a prominent member of the Textile council very earnestly, "the operatives would strike as a protest against the action of the manufacturers. And when they once come out they will make a long and determined fight. I say this because a few of the manufacturers have the impression that because winter is so near at hand the operatives will not fight. The help of this city will fight and fight hard for what they believe in justice belongs to them. Manufacturers point to the higher price of middling uplands cotton in the New York market today, when they know that no regular print cloth mills in this city use such a grade of cotton. I was given a sample of cotton used in one of the mills here, and it was made up of the sweepings of the cotton field, after the crop had been gathered. There was no staple to it at all, and this is the grade of uplands many of the Fall River mills use. The greater portion of the cotton warehouses of this city are stocked with from nine months to a year and a half's supply of cotton, bought when the quotation was low.

"We will win this fight. If it were spring instead of winter the mill men would yield more readily, but I tell you if it were spring we would ask for a 20 percent increase instead of demanding 10 percent."

The words of this member of the council express the sentiment in that body, and it is a probability that if the manufacturers do not yield the council will order a strike.

A stockholder who holds a large number of shares in local mills said that he believed the advance should have been conceded gracefully and without any hesitation on the part of the Manufacturers' association. He believes that it will be given rather than allow a strike to occur.

The Slasher Tenders' union last night discussed the wage situation in the mills of this city, and concurred with other unions in instructing its delegates to the Textile council to insist on the 10 percent advance. It was further voted to abide by any decision the Textile council should make in pressing the demand, but is not bound to accept the council's decision should that body decide not to urge the increase. Only two votes were against the proposition in the secret ballot.

Will Be Added to Our Navy.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The navy department has received a formal report of the inspection board upon the recently acceptance trial of the torpedo boat Dahlgren. The report is highly complimentary to the builders of the craft. It says that the seagoing qualities of the Dahlgren are excellent. The vibration is very slight. The boat is said to be strong and well built, in strict conformity with the contract requirements. The engines are in excellent condition. At top speed the propellers made 318.08 revolutions per minute, with the result that in 60 consecutive minutes the boat covered a distance of 20.75 knots. Upon this report the Dahlgren will be accepted by the government as soon as some unfinished work is performed.

For Murder at Boston.

Boston, Nov. 11.—A dispatch from Rome states that Antonio Di Blasi, who killed James M. Ellis, foreman of the Boston street cleaning department, on May 23, 1898, has been sentenced by the Messina assize court to serve six years in prison. Di Blasi, who was a peddler in Boston, was ordered by Ellis to move his pushcart out of the way. The Italian refused, drew a revolver and killed Ellis. Di Blasi escaped and was next heard of in Italy. Chief Watts and Lieutenant Rosatto went to Italy to bring him back, but the government there refused to allow him to be extradited on the ground that he was an Italian citizen and should be tried in his own country.

Where Is Cashier Deering?

Portland, Me., Nov. 11.—Nothing is yet known of the whereabouts of Edward P. Deering, the missing cashier of Woodbury & Moulton, the firm of brokers that recently assigned. His absence has proved a very serious drawback to the assignees, and has prevented the making of a statement to the creditors. No time has been taken to go over the books of the concern to see if Mr. Deering's accounts are entirely straight, but as soon as the first statement is made they will be examined by an expert with that end in view.

Admiral Schley Made a Knight.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Rear Admiral Schley last night received the orders which made him a Knight Templar and a Knight of Malta. The degrees were conferred by the officers of Columbia commandery, No. 2, District of Columbia. On account of the fact that Admiral Schley will depart in a few days to assume command of the South Atlantic station the illustrious order of the Red Cross and the orders of the Temple and Malta were all conferred upon him at the conclave last night.

MODEST GENERAL FUNSTON

Declares That Honors Showered Upon Him Should Be Divided With Others.

Kansas City, Nov. 11.—Generals Funston and Metcalf, Colonel Little and the staff of the Twentieth Kansas regiment arrived here yesterday as guests of the Knife and Fork club. Last night an elaborate banquet was held. Generals Funston and Metcalf and others made speeches.

There were probably 7000 persons in Convention hall when General Funston responded to the welcoming speeches. In the course of a brief speech the general said:

"I am not a hero. I don't feel like one. Just an officer is all I am, who has been very fortunate because the officers and men under him have never failed to follow when he went somewhere. I know that it has been my lot to receive the major portion of the honor that belongs to the men. I gave them three-fourths and claim only a share of the rest.

"There were and are a great many officers and men in the Philippines who have done braver deeds—braver were never done—and whose names pass with no cheer. They never get into the papers. On the night of April 27, 1898, when General MacArthur told me that the Grand river bridge would have to be taken and I asked 16 officers and men to go with me, where to be taken apparently meant certain death, 50 of them were eager to go. Since I returned to America I have heard not one word of Captain O'Hara, who was one of the bravest and most efficient officers in the Orient. Numberless instances could be mentioned where bravery has not been applauded."

Preliminary Estimates on Crops.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The November report of the statistician of the department of agriculture will give 25.2 bushels as the average yield per acre of corn, according to the preliminary returns of the department's correspondents. The preliminary estimate of the average yield of buckwheat is 17.2 bushels per acre, against 17.3 bushels last year. The estimated average yield of potatoes is 88.7 bushels per acre, as compared with 75.2 bushels last year, 64.6 bushels in 1897, and 75.2 bushels, the mean of the preliminary averages of the last 10 years. The estimated average yield of hay is 1.35 tons per acre, as compared with 1.55 tons last year, 1.42 tons in 1897, and 1.27 tons, the mean of the preliminary averages of the last 10 years. There is a decided decrease in the rate of yield throughout the eastern, east central, southern, southwestern and Rocky mountain states.

A Novelty For Foreigners.

Meridian, Miss., Nov. 11.—R. C. King of this city, commissioner from the state of the Mississippi to the Paris exposition in 1900, has secured at the right season 500,000 selected full grown cotton bolls which will be sold at the Paris exposition by original cotton field negroes as souvenirs of the American cotton exhibit. These will be the first cotton bolls ever shipped abroad, and they will probably be eagerly sought after by people who have used quantities of American cotton but who have never seen it in natural forms.

Rough Riders For Philippines.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—A cavalry regiment, to be known as the Illinois Rough Riders, is being formed here by Captain J. G. Clarke. Captain Clarke claims to have enough men enlisted already to form one troop, and has five more troops in sight. It is planned to ultimately tender the regiment to the government for service in the Philippines, Captain Clarke believing that thousands of cavalrymen will be needed in the islands before the war is brought to a conclusion. Each man is to equip himself.

The Agile Aguinaldo.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary Root feels no concern over the transfer of Aguinaldo's base of operations. The secretary says that the move is distinctly retrograde and in the nature of a retreat after finding that his former base was untenable. Throughout the war department the view prevails that Aguinaldo's move does not materially change the campaign plans, and that these will be pushed with unabated vigor.

Poisoned by Gas.

New York, Nov. 11.—The body of Mrs. Ernst, who was found dead at 341 Third avenue, was removed yesterday to the morgue, where an autopsy was performed. It was found that the woman died from gas poisoning. Mrs. Ernst's son is in jail on suspicion of being concerned in the death of his mother, and attempting the life of his father, who was made unconscious by the gas.

Of Interest to Mariners.

Boston, Nov. 11.—Commander Selfridge, inspector second lighthouse district, has received word from Washington that the lighthouse board has approved his recommendation that the position of Boston lightship be changed to a point one mile north of its present location; also that a whistling buoy be placed to mark the location of Thieves ledge.

Hurricane Visits Jamaica.

Kingston, Jam., Nov. 11.—Advices from various points of the island show that on Wednesday the heavy weather culminated in a tremendous hurricane, which completely razed the banana and other cultivation parishes. Portland, St. Thomas and Morant Bay are reported severely damaged. Details are anxiously awaited.

A Far-Reaching Decision.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—In the United States district court Judge Philips established a precedent by a ruling that where the mails are used every letter sent out with the purpose of defrauding constitutes a separate offense.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

The St. Lawrence valley storm has disappeared over Newfoundland and the Carribean sea disturbance has apparently dissipated. Fair weather has generally prevailed. Unsettled weather with marked changes in temperature is indicated for the northern half of the country during the next few days. Along the New England coast the winds will shift to fresh northerly and northeasterly.

A PERIOD OF SUSPENSE.

London Feels Gloomy at Lack of News From South Africa.

Buller May Be Holding Back Reports From White.

Boers Likely to Devote Their Whole Energies to Reducing Ladysmith.

London, Nov. 10.—The scanty and conflicting news from the seat of war and the fact that General White has not yet said a word about the alleged fighting around Ladysmith are again producing a feeling of gloom. It may be that General White has sent news and that General Buller has thought best to keep it to himself. Indeed, this is the version that is beginning to be believed, as it is held to be impossible that the news of heavy fighting brought by Kaffirs in such circumstantial detail can be wholly groundless. If this is so, it is ominous, for there could be no ground for concealing favorable news.

It cannot be long, however, before a change occurs. General Buller's force will soon arrive at Durban, and will probably begin the advance to the relief of Ladysmith about Nov. 15.

The Boers, if they ever entertained the idea of a real invasion of Cape Colony, have probably now abandoned it, and will devote their whole energies to reducing Ladysmith. They have only about a week in which to do this. The fact that they are rather inactive indicates that they are waiting for something, which they feel sure will justify their delay.

The latest Estcourt dispatches seem to hint that the garrison is about to retire further southward.

Orders have been received at Woolwich and Devonport for the mobilization of a large train, which, it is supposed, is intended for the purpose of shelling Pretoria. The force manning it will approximate to the strength of eight batteries, and will consist of 32 officers and 1104 non-commissions and men. Its armament will be 30 howitzers, 14 six-inch guns, eight five-inch guns and eight four-inch guns, the whole train weighing over 3000 tons. This will be the first employment of a modern siege train by any European army, and the progress of the reduction of the forts by lyddite shell fire, a preliminary to storming by infantry, will be watched with interest and curiosity by all professional soldiers.

Three large steamers have just been chartered at Liverpool to convey the 10,000 troops of the division which Lord Wolseley yesterday announced would be mobilized. The transport Arawa has been further delayed by a disarrangement of her electrical plant. The disabled Persian will transfer her troops to the Goth, which will leave Southampton next Tuesday.

From Port Elizabeth comes the intelligence that customs officials there have seized a bale of new flags consigned to the free state, consisting of Orange Free State colors, with The Netherlands flag in the corner.

Proposed Against Polygamy.

Boston, Nov. 10.—A largely attended mass meeting for the purpose of protesting against the admission of B. H. Roberts of Utah as a member of the Fifty-sixth congress was held here last night. The principal speakers were Eugene Young of New York and Dr. Josiah Strong. The audience, while not enthusiastic, expressed its approval of the speeches. The speakers appealed to the people of the country not to allow the acknowledgment of polygamy in the seating of Mr. Roberts. Resolutions were adopted to the effect that the election of Mr. Roberts, under the circumstances, was a declaration that polygamy is approved among the Mormon people and was equivalent to a challenge to the people and congress of the United States demanding the recognition of polygamy. It was resolved that it was now an opportune time for an amendment to the constitution of the United States that will make it possible to stamp out polygamy within its borders.

Suspicion of Murder.

New York, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Margaret Ernst, 86 years old, was found dead at her home here yesterday. Her husband, Captain August Ernst, 80 years old, a veteran of the Civil war, was taken unconscious to a hospital, where his death is expected. The room in which the pair lay was full of escaping gas. At first the police supposed that Captain Ernst and his wife had been accidentally overcome by gas. But later they arrested on suspicion August Ernst, Jr., 38 years old, son of the old couple Dangerous Rivalry.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 10.—A sensational schoolboy warfare was terminated yesterday in the district court. About 50 boys were arrested, charged with disturbing the peace, and, after a lengthy trial, were placed on probation. The boys used air rifles, bows and arrows, stones, shinny sticks, etc., and many of them were injured, although none seriously. The cause was intense rivalry between grammar and intermediate schools.

Ruhlin After the Championship.

New York, Nov. 10.—Gus Ruhlin has posted $1000 for a finish fight with James J. Jeffries. The conditions of the challenge are that the fight must be arranged for within six months. If the money is not covered by that time Ruhlin will claim the championship. Ruhlin says that he will fight Jeffries for a side bet of from $1000 to $5000 and, is in favor of the bout taking place at Carson City, so that it will be to a finish.

A Snap For McCoy.

Buffalo, Nov. 10.—"Kid" McCoy knocked out Jack McDonough of St. Paul in the fourth round of what was to have been a 20-round go here last night. The men fought at catchweights. McCoy outfought and outponted McDonough at every stage.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a portion of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

Good Afternoon.

Taxpayers will regret that so many members of the City Council have declined to allow the use of their names for renomination. Perhaps a dozen only of the 23 may be renominated either at large or by wards, and some may be defeated.

It is the abutters upon the sewers who have just been assessed heavily by the city, who should have a vital interest for or against the transfer voted by the Sewer Commisioners. It is the assessments upon the abutters just now which are paying the whole cost of the sewers—the watering boards, the interest, the maintenance of the plant, etc.,—and it is too much to expect them in addition to a tax rate of $19.20 upon an excessive valuation, to pay the cost of Macadamizing streets at the rate of $5000 per year.

The City Council will meet the wishes of the majority of the voters and taxpayers if it endorses the action of the City Auditor in refusing to approve of the transfer of $5,000 by the Sewer Commissioners to the Commissioner of Public Works. All appropriations originate in the City Council, and the members have a right to expect and demand that money shall be expended for that for which it was appropriated. The City Council represents the voters, and the voters certainly have some rights. We hear too much in these days about the people having no rights, and yet the city officials are only their servants. The communication of the Auditor should take the usual course, that is, be referred to a committee. Now it is upon the table and no one feels called upon to investigate.

In the controversy over the transfer by the Sewer Commissioners, considerable depends upon a contract or agreement. No evidence has yet been introduced that the board ever made either. If it did the records of the Sewer Commissioners will show it. It is not sufficient that a member or even two members of the board should tell the Commissioner of Public Works to "go ahead." Unless there was a contract or agreement there is a question whether the board has any right to make such an appropriation. Further the City Charter says:

Sec. 48. No sum appropriated for a specific purpose shall be expended for any other purpose, and no expenditure shall be made, nor liability incurred, by or in behalf of the city, until an appropriation has been duly voted by the city council sufficient to meet such expenditure or liability, together with all prior unpaid liabilities which are payable out of such appropriations;

It would seem by this that the Commissioner of Public Works had no right to expend money on account of sewer openings, that is to be payable from the sewer account.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The Boston Advertiser says that now the state election is over business men think they have spent all necessary time on election affairs, and that it is now in order to pay strict attention to business. Nevertheless, it is perfectly safe to say that as great and probably a greater attention will be paid to the municipal elections which are to come off in December than there was to the state election. And this is as it should be, for in nothing have the people a deeper concern than in the management of their municipal affairs.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ The eight hour day for city laborers will probably be discussed a great deal between this time and the day of the municipal election. The indications at the present time are that it will be adopted.—Brockton Enterprise.

☞ Political parties and political platforms are good as polar stars to guides in great and important national and state events, but it is clearly demonstrated at each recurring election that local likes and prejudices are more potent than parties and platform, and that the individual voter is more controlled by likes and dislikes than he is by party ties.—Weymouth Gazette.

☞ It does not take some Democrats long to recover their equanimity and pugnacity after defeat. The Republican victory of last Tuesday in no wise diminished the order or the temperature beneath the collars of the irrepressible element at the Hub, for Thursday night found them up and at it again. It doesn't make the slightest difference to the average specimen of Boston's unterrified who the enemy is, providing that there is one for him to sail into and gratify his belligerent desires. It might just as well be one of his own kind as any other and thus it transpired that a Collins rally in Ward 3, Charlestown, Thursday evening, afforded him an opportunity for a lively participation in the game of politics.—Lynn Item.

☞ We have already been engaged in making municipal experiments too long. Acting upon the theory that somehow—nobody has apparently taken the pains to figure out just how—things would come out all right we have been living beyond our income It has been so easy to go to the bank for loans that the day of reckoning has been lost sight of, yet every dollar of this indebtedness will have to be paid with substatial interest. Where, then, will be the thoughtless man who now preaches social revolution? The chances are nine out of a possible ten that he will have shaken the dust of Haverhill from his feet, leaving behind a legacy of debt to discharge which the can't-get-aways will have to settle. For this reason every man who means to make Haverhill his permanent abiding place should set his face like a flint against any policy whose tendency is to revolutionize. The man of small means is in the same boat with his more wealthy brother. The man who depends upon his daily wage cannot, with due regard to his own safety, encourage conditions which are sure to increase taxes, to discourage industry and to add to the cost of living.—Haverhill Gazette.

Waiting for Instructions.

City Auditor Hall agrees with Mayor Keith that everything was pleasant at their conference on the Sewer transfer Thursday evening. He says, however, that the opinion of the City Solicitor is weak, when he claims that the City Auditor is acting illegally in refusing to indorse the transfer, and the opinion would make no difference with him. He should act only as instructed by the City Council.

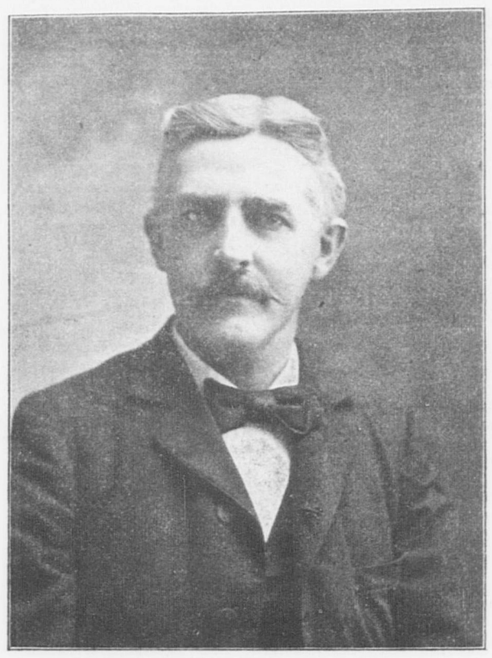
SOCIAL DEMOCRATS

Make a Nomination for Mayor of Quincy.

Gustave B. Bates, the Plumber, the Man.

He Accepts and Severely Arraigns Old Parties.

The Social Democrats held a meeting Friday evening at their hall on Canal street, at which they nominated Gustave B. Bates as their candidate for Mayor. The matter of nominating Councilmen was also considered at length. Several names were mentioned as candidates, but as their acceptance was a matter of doubt this subject was referred to a committee who will report at a meeting to be held next Tuesday evening, when councilmen will probably be nominated.



When nominated Mr. Bates made a lengthy speech of acceptance. A reporter of the Ledger waited upon Mr. Bates this morning to get an abstract of his speech of acceptance. He said he had given his speech to Boston papers but refused to give the reporter the desired information.

He did say, however, that he made an attack upon both the Democratic and Republican parties and "ripped them up the back." That from them the people got nothing but whitewash, incompetency and reckless extravagance.

In further conversation Mr. Bates said he had a conference early in the year with Mayor Keith about the appointment of the Board of Health, and that he had the privilege of naming one of the board, and that he named Dr. Garey. Furthermore, that he was assured by Mayor Keith that the chairman of the board was "all right." He also said his desire was to get an impartial board who would be governed by the evidence.

This admission of Mr. Bates throws a little light on the appointment of the members of the Board of Health and the part played by Mr. Bates in the last election, for it was very evident that the plans were well laid to cut off Inspector Keniley's head. However, the plan, if such it was, failed.

Candidate Bates repented at the 11th hour that he had refused to give the Ledger his letter of acceptance, and has forwarded it for publication. But a few minutes' time was offered to put it into type. It is given, however, in full:

Mr. Chairman, Comrades and Fellow Workingmen:

For this unanimous nomination by your choice here tonight, as your candidate for the highest and noblest office within the gift of the citizens of our beloved city, I thank you sincerely I would have personally preferred to have you select some other person who might be better qualified and equipped for this high office, as I am a very busy man, but as your standard bearer in this political battle for equality, justice and right, I will pick up the gauntlet.

We all know and are well aware of the results of the two old political parties in our city affairs, we have tried them and they have been found wanting, you know the rest. The result has been the same.

We have tried the Republicans and for an emetic; they used whitewash and the people have had enough of that. We are now trying the Democrats and the people are heartily sick of them, as their emetic has been whitewash, reckless extravagance and incompetency. Under these conditions our only choice and hope is one of two things, take to the woods or take these two political octopuses by the horns and meet them openly, fairly and squarely in a battle of the ballot, and I will assure you when the ballots are counted on election night these two old hidebound, moss-covered political machines will realize that they have been in a fight and feel a good deal as Sharkey did.

Comrades, as your candidate for the mayorality of this city I will promise you that I will stand by my friends, whether in defeat or in victory and I will pledge you if elected that I will not postitute any office by any appointment of mine for political gain or profit of any man who is unfit, incompetent or unworthy and right here let me say that if there is a strike in our fair city next Spring, among our granite workers, and I am mayor of this city, those men and their wives and children will not starve or go hungry so long as we have city work to do.

I am unequivocally in favor and shall advocate the readjustment of the assessing of the real estate tax of the laboring people, who are over-burdened by an unjust taxation on their little homes; by a too high and oppressive valuation.

I promise you, and you can depend upon it, that if we do have the opportunity to examine the books and doings in City Hall we will know more then than we do now.

Brother workingmen, for that is what I am, what I always have been and what I always shall be. Having toiled all my life for a living, permit me to say that, if elected, I shall go to the people and not to the politician, for I shall have no use for them, to secure my co-workers in the management of the city's affairs.

So long as the people are willing to choose between two evils so long will the politicians give you two evils to choose between. They will buncoe you in the future as they have in the pa t Refuse to take either evil, as we have had enough of choosing between the Devil and the deep sea. It is much better to vote for what you want and get it, than to vote for what you don't want and get it.

Right here, and now, I wish it distinctly understood and known that I am not and never was an A. P. A. Politicaly speaking, I have invariably voted the Democratic ticket. In National affairs my first vote being cast for Hancock and English, my second and third for Grover Cleveland and my last for W. J. Bryan.

In city affairs, I have always been an Independent and am now and I hope with courage to oppose that which I believe to be wrong.

I also want it understood that I am not opposed to any faithful official, I care not what his nationality may be, if he is honest and upright, as we are all Americans. There will no doubt be an effort made by our opponents to create a prejudice among our people that I am opposed to the interests of our Irish American people. That would be a malicious falsehood. I have too many Irish American friends who have known me from childhood, with whom I have associated through life, that know better, and such a statement is a vicious and malicious political lie.

I respect and admire any man, I care not what his race, religion or his politics if he is an honest, upright and good citizen, be he white or black, young or old, rich or poor.

Quincy's Largest Department Store. || Quincy Department Store. || Quincy's Largest Department Store.

OUR OPENING BROADSIDE.

We heartily thank the people of Quincy and surrounding towns for the response they have made in visiting this gorgeous opening.

We have clearly demonstrated that the people need no longer go to Boston for their needs, as the lines we carry are complete and superior to those found in Boston's largest department stores. The outpouring of the people and the compliments exchanged by them was most gratifying to us which shows that a long felt want has at last been placed at their disposal. Now for the reasons why we should continue to receive your patronage.

GRANITE SHIPMENT.

An Unusual Demand for Stock During October.

The shipment of granite from the West Quincy station during the month of October was the largest for many years, for that month, if not the largest ever shipped from this terminal in any one month. The amount shipped was 11,041,780 pounds, against 4,289,763 pounds for September and about 5,000,000 in October. The larger part of this shipment was of rough stock, which was sent all over the country. The unusual demand for Quincy stock is said to be due to the report that had become widely circulated that the Quarry syndicate were to assume control of the quarries in Quincy, Nov. 1, and that the intention was to raise the price of stock. There was therefore a rush on the part of dealers to lay in a supply of stock before the price went up.

The shipment from West Quincy was largely to out of town parties. Quincy manufaturers also bought heavily in Otober, and without a doubt more rough Quincy stock was sold in that month than ever before in one month.

The Quarry syndicate have not assumed control of the quarries in the city as yet although it is likely to come any day. Many of the quarries have already been practically transferred, and the minor details of transferring the others are being accomplished as fast as possible. The quarries will probably be under the new management by Dec. 1.

Takes a Swim Daily.

This is rather cold weather to go in swimming in salt water, yet there is a Neponset man who goes in swimming off Frost's coal wharf at Neponset every morning at 6 o'clock. He has been doing this for some months past and no matter what the weather, 6 o'clock sees him dive off the wharf and swim about for five or ten minutes. His object is said to be to cure rheumatism and he says that he intends to keep it up all winter. For the past few mornings at that hour it has been quite cool and a crowd has collected on the bridge with their coats buttoned tight about their throats and shivered, to watch the fellow dive off and swim about as unconcernd as though it was in midsummer.

Prof. Frye's Trials.

There are other perplexities beside education for Alex E. Frye formerly of Quincy, who is establishing a public school system at Cuba. A dispatch from Havana yesterday says:

The attempts which have been made by certain local papers to blackmail Professor Frye of Boston, the new superintendent of schools, resulted yesterday in the issuing of a warrant for the arrest of one of these editors, who declared that he would publish certain alleged facts unless he was paid to keep quiet. Mr. Frye declared that the accusations were absolutely baseless and that he would press the charge unless the editor gave the name of his informant. The police say the editor is in hiding. A heavy rain and windstorm Wednesday night caused the downfall of many houses in the suburbs of Havana. The river near Lar Lajas overflowed, ruining the crops. The railroads in the vicinity of this city suffered considerably, though at present communication is not interrupted.

RED BRONCHO MARE'S DEATH.

Savage Indians of Mexico Who, Popular Tradition Says, Are Able to Run Down Deer—Race Between a Horse and a Human Greyhound

"Of course you have all seen that old circus fake of the man running against a horse on the quarter mile hippodrome track," said a man recently returned from Mexico. "I want to tell you that less than a month ago I saw a race of a man on foot against a wild horse, where the man won, and the race was on the dead level, too. It was down in Mexico on the edge of the Yaqui country, where they are just now pulling off their semiannual bargain counter insurrection. I was down there looking after the interests of some people who had money in the Yaqui placers, and I wandered over to the northwest to the edge of the Seri Indian country, where I happened to see the man who could beat a running horse.

"The Seri country is about 50 miles northwest of Hermosillo, the capital of the state of Sonora. The Seris are probably the most peculiar Indians in the western hemisphere. They do not seem to be related by language, customs or physical make up to any other known tribe. They are a race of big, black giants for the most part, some of them measuring 6 feet 7 and nearly all of them one or two inches over six feet. The women will average taller than white men, so that the tribe as a whole is a formidable proposition. They have the pleasant habit of killing off all weakling children, as well as the members of the tribe who are too old and feeble to shift for themselves, and the country they live in is so inhospitable that the tribe is a fine type of the survival of the fittest. In color and features they are more like negroes than Indians, and some of their rites and superstitions seem to have a distinctly African tinge. It is a capital offense for one of them to marry outside of the tribe, and the principal tenet of their religion, according to the neighboring Mexicans, is to kill every one they meet who is not of their own blood.

"All this don't bear on the horse race particularly, but it will give you some idea of the sort of people the Seris are and lend a color of probability to an otherwise rather strong story. I kept hearing all sorts of pipe stories of the Seris as soon as we got anywhere near their country. The Mexicans are afraid of them and endow them with almost fabulous powers of endurance and desert cunning. We were told that a Seri could trail a man across country by starlight and that they never used horses except to kill and eat and that they could run down a deer on foot. The deer story was repeated by everybody, but I never met a man who pretended to have actually seen it till we stopped at the Costa Rica ranch, owned by old Pasqual Encinas, right on the edge of the Seri country. Encinas is the Daniel Boone of Mexico, and the man who solved the Seri problem for Sonora. He got a grant of land from the government and settled down right in Seri territory, surrounded himself with a small army of vaqueros and Papago Indians, as armed retainers, and fought the Seris to a standstill. Now they are thoroughly afraid of him, and never kill his stock if they can find any other brand on the range and never shoot his vaqueros from ambush with their poisoned arrows unless they happen to have some personal score to settle. As the old man and his followers have planted some 300 Seris in that part of the country it may be inferred that there are still some scores of that sort outstanding.

"Old Encinas is very fond of talking over his coffee and cigarettes after dinner out under the brick floored veranda of the ranchhouse, and he assured me that he had several times seen Seris run down deer on foot. His explanation was that they trail almost as well as dogs, running by eye, of course, instead of by nose, and that they can go at a lope and keep a deer's trail through the brush, no matter what sort of ground he crosses. One of them will start out and scare up a deer in the mesquite and keep after it at a swift wolf trot all day if necessary, never giving it a chance to stop for food or water. In the course of a day he will run it off its feet and kill it with a knife.

"'The first time,' said the old man, 'that I ever saw a deer run down in that way was soon after I got well settled here. The Seris were nominally at peace with us for the time, and I had a lot of them working for me, as I have off and on all the time. One afternoon one of them came to me and asked to get off to go hunting. It was well on in the afternoon then, and I said to him: "Valga, you do not want to hunt. You want to get drunk on Antonio Meguile's mescale and not go to work tomorrow." But he sulked around and said I wanted to starve his sorrowing family and that there were deer out in the mesquite yearning to be killed. So I told him to go, knowing well enough he would go anyhow and probably take the whole lot of his fellows along with him if he were crossed. I did not think anything more about him till after sunset, when he came up, just as we were stopping work for the day. I said to him: "Well, you have had a good sleep in the brush. I hope you are satisfied." Said he: "Yes, I did have a good sleep, and I dreamed that I killed a deer. If the senor will look over there he will see my son bringing him in." I looked, and there sure enough was a boy staggering in with a doe on his back with her throat freshly cut. The Seri had nothing with him but a knife, and I examined the doe all over, and there was not a mark on her except the slit in her throat. I noticed that all four of her hoofs were off, and the Papagos noticing this said: "Yes, it is true that he ran her down. A deer always casts its hoofs when run to death by a man." I find that that belief holds good among all the Indians, but I have since noticed that in summer time, when the ground is very hot and the deer are fat and heavy, the same thing often happens if you run them down with horses.'

"That was Encinas' story of the Seri running power, but the next day I happened to get an exhibition of it myself that satisfied me even better. Just before we were going to bed the major domo came up and reported that the verba colorado had come into the troughs. It seems the verba colorado was a little red mare, the incarnation of a devil in the wild range horse. She had a reputation among all the 3,000 head of stock on the ranch, having been a maverick so long that when she was finally caught up and branded she was too wild to be of any use for either work or breeding. She had nearly killed an Indian and a Mexican who had undertaken to break her and had been turned loose again. She never came into the ranch except in the driest weather, when all the outlying water holes had gone dry and she was forced to steal in at night for a drink from the big tanks in the corral. It had passed into a saying on the Costa Rica and other ranches around when a particularly bad spell of drought occurred, that it was bad enough to bring the red mare home.

"Old Encinas told the foreman to keep the verba penned up for the night and, then chuckling, rubbed his dry hands and said we would have some sport in the morning. Then he sent a peon off to the Seri rancheria to see if Pablo was there. While the messenger was gone he explained to me that Pablo was one of the most noted runners of the tribe, and as the red mare was fit for nothing but killing anyhow he was going to match her in a sprint race with the Indian.

"When Pablo came up, it struck me that if any man could run down a broncho horse he probably was the one. He was 6 feet 4 and weighed about 180, all bone and whipcord. He was black as a lead idol, and as nearly naked as the law allowed. He was barefooted, too, but the old don explained to me that none of the Seris ever wore anything on his feet, which was the way their trail was always to be distinguished from a Papago's. Encinas explained to Pablo that he was going to turn the red mare loose in the morning, and that if Pablo could give her ten feet start and catch her in 300 varas, approximately 300 yards, he could have her.

"Next morning everybody who could spare the time assembled at the corral. The wild mare was inside, circling uneasily and sniffing at every corner for an outlet. Encinas drew a line ten paces from the corral gate and told Pablo he must let the mare get over that before he started for her. Then a vaquero was sent inside to get the broncho started and the bars were let down.

"Pablo was waiting just at the opening, guiltless of any adornment except a breechclout and a big butcher knife strapped to his hip. It would be straining the term to call him a bronze Adonis or Apollo or any other old Greek deity, for he wasn't. But such another human greyhound I have never seen. Standing 6 feet 4 and lean as Pharaoh's kine, he hardly gave promise of the power that was really in him. Dark as a negro, but with long, straight hair falling almost to his shoulders, and his white teeth gleaming as he occasionally moistened his lips, he had a sinister look like one of the old Ethiopian stranglers out of the 'Arabian Nights.' His powerful neck and great race horse chest were his most striking features, and if it had not been for those and his broad hips, his wasplike waist and sunken abdomen would have made him look almost delicate.

"As the vaquero rode into the corral the broncho mare started for the open gate. She shied from the little crowd outside and swept around the inclosure again. Pablo was waiting at the gate, his foot braced against the post, and stooping forward with his hands on his knees, every muscle like a spring coiled up ready to be released.

"The red mare came round again at a gallop, and, as the vaquero made a feint at her with his rope, she swerved and dashed through the gate like a Futurity winner at the wire. Almost the instant she flashed by Pablo was in the dust at her heels, but it was a standing start against a flying one, and by the time he had got into his stride she had increased her lead to 15 or 20 feet. She headed straight across the wide, dusty clearing like a deer seeking cover, and the Seri at her flank going her jump for jump. It was a race for blood, a case of beast against beast, for the big, black, naked figure looked like a wolf more than a man, and bounded free like a wolf at full stretch.

"Half way across the clearing he had closed up the gap again. Then a long black arm shot out, and in a single spring he had the mare by the tail. With a powerful twist he threw her, and both of them disappeared for a minute in a cloud of dust. As it cleared away we saw the knife flash at her throat, and when we came up Pablo was complacently catching the warm blood in his hand and drinking it.

"The distance was measured, a scant 250 yards. No one held a stop watch on the performance, but I believe it would have cut considerably under any existing record."—New York Sun.

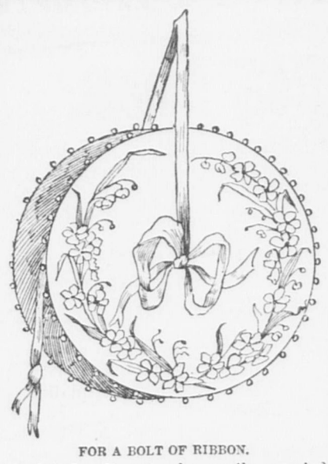
Attractive Christmas Gifts and How to Construct Them.

FOR A BOLT OF DAINTY RIBBON.

A Very Pretty and Useful Present For a Woman Friend—Design For an Embroidered Catchall—How to Make a Pretty Fancy Work Basket.

A pretty trifle for the dainty ribbon all women love so well makes an always acceptable Christmas gift. It may be made of any sort of silk or linen, as desired, and embroidered or not, as one may prefer. The one here given is of palest pink silk on the outside and blue on the inside. To make it cut four disks of cardboard and cover two with pink and two with the blue silk. The pink, which is to form the outside, must be first embroidered in a wreath of tiny forgetmenots.

For the lover of fancy work a dainty basket such as is described below is a Christmas gift that is certain to be appreciated. It may be easily carried from room to room and may be made by using the ordinary grape basket as a foundation. To do this first cover the basket with one layer of sheet wadding, inside and out, and then with nearsilk of light blue or any delicate shade preferred. Wind the handle with a narrow strip of cotton cloth and then with the nearsilk. The inside of the basket should now be fitted neatly with point d'esprit, slightly full on ends and sides, but quite smooth on the bottom.

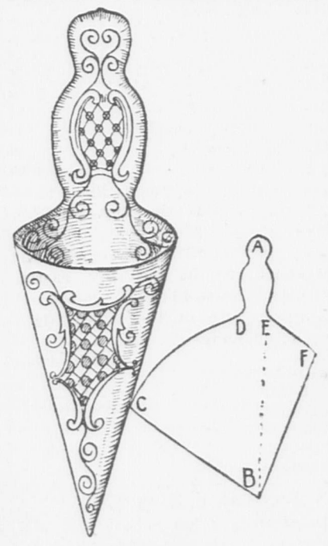


FOR A BOLT OF RIBBON.

For the pockets and needlebook use china silk of whatever shade is selected for the lining. Make a full frill of nearsilk and sew to the edge of the basket and over this one of the lace, edged with two or three rows of baby ribbon. To finish the top, where the frills are attached, use a box plaiting of satin ribbon.

For the handle use ribbon of the same sort and wind carefully, so as to entirely cover the lining, and finish at the top with a bow. The basket when complete is dainty in the extreme and will prove a useful and attractive gift.

A catchall that is quite simple to make is shown in the illustration. It is decorative and may be laundered when soiled, coming forth good as new again, a thing much to be desired in an article of the sort. Select heavy linen or duck is still better, only let it be linen duck. Draw, according to the diagram, on the material and buttonhole all around very closely with white twisted embroidery silk. From the letter A to B is 12½ inches, from B to F 8 inches, from C to D 8½ inches, from D to E 2½ inches and from E to F 3 inches. If all these lines are carefully measured, the proportions must be correct. Embroider all the scrolls with gold colored floss. The jewels should first be stuffed very high with white darning cotton, then done in filo floss, very close and fine, and great care taken to preserve a perfect outline. The stones chosen are topaz and amethyst. For the former use pale shades of yellow, for the latter a medium lavender. When the work is all done, cut carefully along the buttonholed edge. Starch very stiff and iron on the wrong side. Bring the point C over to E and baste or tack together.



AN EMBROIDERED CATCHALL.

Finger Bowl Doilies.

A charming gift is a set of finger bowl doilies, which need not involve a great outlay of time or trouble. An extremely dainty one is of fine linen lawn, finished with a hemstitched hem about three-quarters of an inch wide. The size of the doily when completed should be five inches square. On each sprinkle small blossoms of some sort, such as daisies, buttercups, anemones or the like.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 12—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The Living Bread.—John vi, 26-35.

Christ was often wont to use types and figures to illustrate His character and His work. This was particularly the case when men misunderstood or failed to understand Him and His mission. To Thomas, who had failed to grasp Christ's mission, He illustrated it by saying, "I am the way." To those who falsely thought that the blessings He was to bring men temporal and carnal He here describes Himself as the true Bread, the living Bread from heaven. He was not to feed the body by multiplying loaves and fishes, but was to satisfy the longings of the soul by Himself. What He means by Himself as the Bread of life is simply that as bread food is necessary to the physical life and is able to satisfy and sustain the physical life, so He is necessary to the life of the soul, able to satisfy its cravings and able to sustain it forever. Note—

1. The philosophy of bread in its relation to life. That bread sustains life is indisputable. The man who ceases to eat soon ceases to live. But how bread sustains the life cannot be explained. We may follow the food in its changes in the human system, but just when or just how the food we eat becomes our life no scientist can explain. We know the fact, but the philosophy of it is unknown. Nor can we tell how Christ satisfies and sustains the life of the soul. This fact has led many to refuse to accept Christ. But such a course is as foolish as it would be for one to refuse to eat food because he does not know how the food becomes his life. We know that Christ does sustain spiritual life. Without Him the soul languishes and dies. How He becomes our Bread of life we need not worry about, so long as we know that He does satisfy all our spiritual longings.

2. Bread in its application to life. 1. Bread to sustain life must be eaten. We must actually partake of food before it can become our life. The mere possession of the richest abundance of food will not keep us alive unless we partake of the food. The 5,000 had to actually eat of the loaves and fishes before they were satisfied and filled. So Christ must be actually partaken of before he can sustain the spiritual life within us. It is not enough that God has provided the living Bread. We must partake of it, we must actually accept Christ and feed upon Him by faith. 2. Bread to sustain life must be eaten constantly. The craving once satisfied, soon returns and must be satisfied again. So we must be in constant communion with Christ, if he is to sustain our spiritual lives. A Sabbath communion with Christ, a quarterly communion with Christ will not suffice—daily, hourly, momentarily, we should be in close touch and communion with Christ, the living Bread. Let us keep in constant communion with Christ by prayer, by daily study of His word and by a constant indwelling of the Holy Ghost, that He may be the Bread of Life to our souls.

The Cheerful Face.

Next to the sunlight of heaven is the cheerful face. There is no mistaking it. The bright eye, the unclouded brow, the sunny smile, all tell of that which dwells within. Who has not felt its electrifying influence? One glance at this face lifts us out of the mists and shadows into the beautiful realms of hope. One cheerful face in the household will keep everything warm and light within. It may be a very plain face, but there is something in it we feel, but cannot express, and its cheery smile sends the blood dancing through the veins for very joy. There is a word of blessed magic in the plain, cheerful face, and we would not exchange it for all the soulless beauty that ever graced the fairest form on earth.—St. Xavier's Monthly.

Churches In Summer.

The time is rapidly coming when American Protestants will have to call a halt to the custom of closing town churches in the summer. The cessation of church work in the summer is accountable for a very large proportion of the neglect of the Sabbath among Christian people. You cannot intermit public worship for two months and then sustain it with enthusiasm the rest of the year. The number of people who go out of town in the summer is grossly exaggerated, and those who do go are not all away at the same time.—Watchman.

Confidence In God.

Confidence in God can be cultivated. A habit of looking upon the bright side, a habit of counting our mercies, a habit of prayer, a habit of recognizing God's goodness in the thousand daily mercies and comforts that we enjoy, will strengthen and confirm us in the habit of putting absolute confidence in God. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is staid on Thee, because he trusteth in Thee."—United Presbyterian.

True Friendship.

Friendships that are for the sake of convenience sputter and die out as a candle, and at best their light is dim and weak. But the friendship that is born of love shines with the warm, steady glow of the eternal sun. There is nothing fitful or occasional about it. Constancy is its invariable characteristic. "A friend loveth at all times."—William T. Ellis.

The Strong Man.

It is the man of strong convictions who counts in this world. He who stands for something in the end carries the day. He of the easy going or milk and water type of character drops out in the battle of life.—Presbyterian.

CIVIL RULE FOR CUBA,

Presence of Military Force, However, Will be Required For Some Time.

Ravages of War Must Be Repaired by Americans.

Brooke to Be Retired and Wood Will Become First Civil Governor.

New York, Nov. 11.—Brigadier General Ludlow, military governor of Havana, was interviewed yesterday on the Washington report that General Brooke is to be retired as military governor of Cuba and that General Wood is to be appointed civil governor of the island. He said:

BRIGADIER GENERAL LEONARD WOOD.

"Assuming that the administration really proposes a change substantially as set forth, it does not surprise me. The change outlined would not, however, in my judgment, be so radical as might at first be thought. General Brooke is now virtually a civil governor, as well as a military governor. General Wood, if he should be made the head of the government of Cuba, would be, as I understand the scheme, denominated civil governor, but he would not be divested either of his military rank or of military authority and power. A military force would remain in the island and would be necessarily—or at least almost certainly—subject to the supreme head, the civil governor.

"It has been our constant aim to subordinate the military to the civil power. Hence I should not regard the change stated to be proposed as a long step towards the establishment of a purely native government, followed by the absolute withdrawal of the United States from all active participation in the direction of Cuban affairs. The paramount obligation which rests upon the government of the United States is to see that there exists and continues in Cuba a form of government which preserves peace and order, and protects the lives and property of all. With this obligation fully assumed, as I believe it to be, the step suggested as about to be taken cannot be interpreted as abridging in any great degree the period to elapse before the Cubans are fully intrusted with their own destiny.

"I speak from my knowledge of the present situation in the island, with its ravages of war as yet unrepaired and requiring time to repair, its agricultural collapse, its industrial depression, its educational hiatus and the character of the Cuban people. That character in the best representatives of the people is full of urbanity, refinement and intelligence, especially acuteness and subtlety, but it is almost totally devoid of executive and practical power, and particularly of that instinct of cohesion, which is essential to the formation of majorities, and of that respect for the majority which can alone render a minority orderly and safe. Thus they lack prime elements of effective national action.

"With reference to General Wood, I have no hesitation in expressing a strong sense of the admirable quality of the work he has accomplished in Cuba, and of the ability which has enabled him to do it.

"Of the Cuban cabinet it may be said that it has not been entirely satisfactory, a fact chiefly resulting from those fundamental defects of Cuban character to which I have just alluded, and which seems to pervade all spheres of native administrative action.

"I should not think that our government contemplated any extensive work upon the fortifications of Cuba. The first thing for us to do is to create in Cuba something worth an enemy's taking. Let us have schools there before we talk of fortifications. There is not in Cuba a schoolhouse worthy of the name—nothing but the most dilapidated and disreputable hovels ever called by the name of schoolhouses. In Havana alone I want $3,000,000 for schoolhouses. As to harbor improvements it is not unlikely that the government may undertake something."

Which Shall It Be?

Louisville, Nov. 11.—The official count of the ballots cast on Tuesday was begun yesterday throughout the state. Judging from the progress already made the official returns will show no great variation from the unofficial figures, which give Louisville and Jefferson county to the Republicans by a plurality of about 3000. There is no change in the claims of the party managers. The Democrats assert that Goebel will have a plurality of 5000, while the nominee himself places it at 7000. The Republicans claim that Taylor is elected by a plurality of 4000.

Error in Proceedings.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The four soldiers who were sentenced to death at Manila now stand an excellent chance to save their lives. Irregularities have been discovered in the proceedings of the courts-martial which will require correction in the first instance at Manila, if indeed they don't bar the death sentence entirely.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

New York, Nov. 11.—Bradstreet's says: Strength of prices, a natural outcome of active demand, is still the leading feature of the trade situation, notwithstanding that unseasonably warm weather in some sections tends to restrict retail trade. Less than ordinary interruption is indicated by election day observances.

The strength of textiles, both raw and manufactured, has been accentuated during the week, increases being noted in raw cotton, wool and hemp. Bradstreet's approximate index number of Nov. 1 showed a gain of 1 percent for the month and of 12 percent as compared with Jan. 1 this year, and is at the highest point reported since April, 1893.

The strength of textiles, leather, oils and miscellaneous products was calculated to offset the weakness and irregularity in metals, not including iron and steel, however, cereals and other food products.

Raw cotton advanced early this week on an appearance of better buying by foreign consumers and active domestic demand for the manufactured product. Realizing later imparted some irregularity and even excitement to this staple.

Wool has been equally strong, though transactions are smaller, and a material gain in prices is to be noted, while from the manufactured goods branch come reports of confident strength and of probable future advances in men's wear goods and carpets.

Cereals show little or no change. The dullness of wheat at domestic markets finds explanation in Bradstreet's statistics of world's stocks, which indicate a gain for the month of over 17,000,000 bushels, contributed entirely from American sources, however, as foreign supplies showed a slight shrinkage, the United States and Canadian stocks gaining over 19,000,000 bushels during October.

Corn is strong, largely owing to the readiness of foreign buying at concessions. Signs accumulate that shoe manufacturers and jobbers are meeting with success in securing recently advanced prices.

Hides and leather are sympathetically strong and shoe manufacturers are actively employed.

Activity in lumber is a feature at many markets and strength of prices is no less marked.

Special testimony to the heavy distribution of groceries is found in reports from all leading points.

In iron and steel there is rather more irregularity noted. Active demand on railroad account has induced an advance in iron and steel bars of $5 per ton, but steel billets are lower. There is a heavy volume of business reported in pig iron for late 1900 delivery, and that product is slightly higher at the east. Blast furnace statistics for October point to a further increase in production, but stocks again show a decrease.

Weekly bank clearings reflect some reduction, growing out of election day suspension, in a total of $1,710,967,000, a falling off of 11 percent from last week, but a gain of 37 percent over this week a year ago and of 26 percent over 1897.

Business failures for the week number 182, as compared with 187 in this week a year ago and 273 in 1897.

THE GIANT OF TODAY.

A STORY OF CURRENT EVENTS.

BY LOUISE AUGUSTA GORE.

THE "FIREFLY."

I may not tell you my young friends, where the wonderful things are happening I am about to relate. I will ask you however, to imagine a beautiful city close to the blue ocean, where fort and arsenal boom out a loud greeting, or good night, as the sun rises and sets. Where the people are busy-bodies from early morning until long after the street lights have begun shining brighter than the stars and midnight has sounded from the clocks on the church towers.

Now there is much about these same bright lights I wish to tell you. The little old fashioned dwarf lamps which were set so far apart, that one skipped through the darkness to linger for breath in the light of their pale, tiny beams, had given place to tall slender stems that branched and bloomed in wonderful radiance above and shone like binnacle lights to guide the traveller over the constantly shifting waves of shadow, far into the night beyond.

Long ago, so the birds say, when people began to be numerous and crowded for room, and the struggle for bread grew hard and bitter, trouble became serious. Everyone hurriedly pushed his neighbor aside to win himself, quarrels were frequent and many a little light had been found in the gray of morning with all its pretty windows broken and no one ever had a word to say about it.

Of course, this would never do. The people thought and talked and fretted over the mater till their hair began to grow white, yet got no nearer the hoped for relief. All the while the little lamps grew fewer and every day the tale of their destruction was told in shattered glass until thousands had perished.

Some persons sighed vainly for daylight all the time. Others suggested huge bonfires should be lighted. They tried this experiment. Every stick, even the smallest twig was gathered to add to the great cheerful flames.

Alas! it left nothing for the poor who depended upon these supplies for fuel and they began to crowd around the bright blaze in such number, that the shadows grew denser than before and the bonfires had to be given up.

The people were at their wits end, when one fine morning there rode into town in most remarkable style a wonderful being who had heard of their difficulty and hastened with a plan for their benefit.

Without an animal of any description, his strange vehicle moved swiftly along, a flood of light falling with each turn of the wheels. Down one street and up another, it sped with a funny little hum and the ocasional clang of a gong that sounded as loud and impatient as a country school-bell. The strange sight attracted the attention of everyone, filling the windows with curious faces and straining every neck in the street below.

Bidda and Jimmie scampering on behind, led a crowd of children shouting,—"Der Wizard!"—"Der Wizard!"—until they were hoarse and the carriage drew up in front of the great City Hall gate.

How they pushed and crowded! Jimmie's little elbows were sore from pounding the ribs of his companions in his efforts to keep his position in the lead; but he succeded and watched with widely opened eyes, the curious creature who slowly emerged from his wrappings.

This person appeared to be rather short, almost round in fact with a very dark complexion, coarse coppery hair and wore a long back cloak reaching to his heels, with a wide leathern belt confining it at the waist. Little green flames now and again played around his rubber overshoes, and he left a scent of boiling oil in his wake as he passed within the heavy gates.

Now this being believing he held the forces of nature within his control, realized his importance and lost no time in seeking an official of influence and no less a personage than the Mayor himself.

It was marvellous with what readiness the officers in waiting served him. A glance of his flashing eye was quite enough to speed their willing steps and pilot him safely through the miles of red tape stretched throughout the building, until he was at last ushered into the presence of the chief magistrate.

Fortunately the Mayor was alone and at leisure and at once hastened with all possible courtesy to make his visitor comfortable. His most luxurious chair was offered and with his own hands he arranged for use a foot-stool of rainbow-hued glass, the latest offical gift.

The "Wizard" seating himself stiffly, after some rasping and scraping, announced himself the "Genralissimo of the World." As such, he had come to submit a plan for the relief of the people, having heard of their needs through his faithful servants. In return, his demands would be simple and easily granted.

The Mayor bowing graciously, now settled himself to tell the stranger all the misfortunes and sad tales of a century, all the efforts made to benefit, all the unfortunate results.

He talked long and earnestly. The Generalissimo listened, sitting very erect, but occasionally chuckling to himself in a strange fashion. The Mayor, somewhat annoyed, at length asked with some warmth, the kind and amount of benefit he might hope could be bestowed upon the unhappy and badly scared people.

Again in a rasping voice the visitor repeated his title and announced he had come officially prepared to make him a generous offer, an offer of no less than the services of Giant Dynamo, who would send the spirits of darkness unto the ends of the earth and bring light and happiness to the children of the city.

With a face wreathed in smiles the Mayor sat enchanted, arranging with his visitor wonderful plans for the future, till the short day waned and the embers in the neglected grate, settled themselves with a loudly whispered, "chee!"

One of the most methodical of men was the Mayor. He never, under any circumstances, allowed business to detain him beyond a certain hour, nor the viands on his excellent table to cool, so at the warning sound, after a hasty glance at the clock, he politely bowed to the Generalissimo, in unmistakle manner announcing the interview at an end.

His visitor still having his own benefits to plan, was not so easily gotten rid of however. The Mayor saw with some uneasiness the matter was neither to be settled at once, nor delayed for a more convenient opportunity, but was hardly prepared to agree to make the odd payment now demanded for the service. This was no less than the assignment of all the city clocks to the Giant's care, following which, he pledged bright light should be furnished for the city streets.

These were moments of deepest misery to the Mayor. But after earnest thought and a careful balancing of chances, he concluded time was of less value just at present, than the fears of the excited citizens so accepted the proposal with some misgivings.

This apparently satisfied the Generalissimo, who now arose, slowly adjusting his coat and belt, with a slight scowl upon his swarthy face. The Mayor meanwhile rearranging the papers his private secretary had as carefully put in order, quite impatient for the departure of his visitor.

Turning towards his very deliberate caller as he was about leaving with one of the stiffest of bows, the Mayor noticed a small pair of scissors had become attached to the Generalissimo's when, to his astonishment, he saw a fine pair of pincers lying upon the table, suddenly take flight and alight beside the scissors, while a patent knife with a cork screw extension, the gift of a friend, showed evident symptoms of joining its companions not to mention the general uneasiness of all metalic articles not secured in position.

The Mayor was much disturbed by what seemed a sleight of hand, mountebank trick, and determined that the knife at least should remain. Just as the door opened for his August visitor's departure therefore, he reached out his hand to relieve him of this burden with an apology upon his lips, but in some strange way—he never could tell how he found himself suddenly seated upon the opposite side of the room, while the Generalissimo disappeared looking like a porcupine with his ill-gotten gains.

To be continued Monday.

She had an excellent memory and retained her faculties to the last. Mrs. Merritt came from a ong lived family all living to a ripe old age. An extended sketch of Mrs. Merritt was published in the Ledger on the occasion of her birthday last month.

Department Store Opened.

The new Quincy Department store in Durgin & Merrill's block threw opsn its doors to the public for the first time this morning, and it is certainly a magnificent well arranged store, an equal to many seen in our large cities.

The two stores formerly occupied by the Boston Branch Store and the Granite Clothing Company are now one large room. Long counters run lengthwise of the store leaving side aisles between the counters which will be appreciated by lady shoppers. Here are located the dry goods, hosiery, gents' furnishings, and dress departments, each being complete in itself and carrying a full line. In the rear of these is the cloak department, where cloaks of the prevailing styles are displayed in an attractive manner.

The rear of this part of the store is devoted to groceries. On the north side is the drug department. On one side and in the rear are long counters and shelves containing everything usually found in a drug store as well as a full line of confectionery. On the opposite side is the soda and cigar counter and teas and coffees.

In the front rear is a line of silk waists. Over this as a balcony in which is located the prescription department and the cashier's desks, which is reached from all departments by the Lampson cash carrier system.

The store is well lighted by day and at night artificial light is furnished by twenty arc lamps.

In the front of the store facing on Hancock street are three large show windows. Those in the dry goods department have been in the hands of an expert window decorator and are very handsome and must be seen to be appreciated. There are at present about forty-five clerks employed in the store.

That Woman in Black.

Friday about 2 P. M. a middle aged woman in deep mourning was around soliciting aid from the stores, in small sums of five cents and upwards, and the story she told was to the effect that she was asking aid for a little sick girl who lived on Gay street, Quincy.

A lady and gentleman were in the real estate office of C. H. Johnson when the lady in black came in and asked for a small sum for the sick girl. The lady who was looking for the house, then spoke up and said, that is very strange, for it was only last night that I read in the Record of a woman in Boston being arrested, of just your description, madame. She was asking aid for a little sick girl, and you claim your daughter is doing the same thing in Dorchester.

The woman in black was much dazed. Mr. Johnson questioned her, and then took her in his team and drove to Gay street. Her residence was not found. The woman wanted to get out of the team and proved to be a fraud. She was questioned by Inspector Mckay, but as nothing could be proved against her she was allowed to get out of town, which she did. Mr. Johnson did well to rid the town of her.

Another girl about 18 years of age was begging for money yesterday to enable her to learn type writing and shorthand. She was lame and walked with a crutch. A wararnt is out for her arrest.

Galen Bowditch, the noted singer of this city, will be sixty-two the twenty-seventh of this month. He is considerable of a boy yet, and has a finer head of dark hair than many a man of forty. He is not engaged, to our knowledge, yet he is kind of sly about those matters, and like Dewey, may be engaged and married before one has time to think about it. He has a lot of pretty women talking with him, and as he is in want of a good home, it ought to be an easy nut to crack. One can tell every time where he is in politics, without a doubt, but when he is talking about matrimonial matters the girls say he is equivocal.

TODAY'S COURT.

—Woburn met with a heavy loss by fire yesterday by the burning of the currying shop of Beggs & Cobb, valued with contents at $85,000 or more.

The Alum Baking Powders.

The recent discvssion in the papers of the effect upon the human system of food made with alum baking powders and the opinions that have been published from noted scientists to the effect that such powders render the food unwholesome, have caused numerous inquiries for the names of the various alum powders.

In this and many other states of such importance do the food authorities deem the matter that the names of alum powders are officially made public, and in two states at least the laws provide that there shall be printed upon the labels of all packages of this class of powders the statement that they contain alum.

Information as to the list here given has been obtained from the official report of the Massachusetts State Board of Health, from the Agricultural Department chemist at Washington, and from other equally reliable authority:

Baking Powders Containing Alum:

DRY YEAST Contains Alum.
R. B. Davis & Co., New York.
DAVIS' O. K. Contains Alum.
R. B. Davis & Co., New York.
PILGRIM Contains Alum.
Pilgrim Baking Powder Co., Boston.
WASHINGTON Contains Alum.
Washington Baking Powder Co.
HANLON'S Contains Alum.
Hanlon Bros., Norwalk, Conn.
BOSTON Contains Alum.
Boston Baking Powder Co., Boston.

In addition to these, it is learned that many grocers are selling what they call their own private or special brands. These powders are put up for the grocer, and his name put upon the labels by mmanufacturers of alum powders in New York, New Haven, Boston, and elsewhere. The manufacturers, it is said, find their efforts to market their goods in this way greatly aided by the ambition of the grocer to sell a powder with his own name upon the label, especially as he can make an abnormal profit upon it. Many grocers, doubtless, do not know that the powders they are thus pushing contain alum and would be actually contraband in many sections if sold without disguise.

It is quite impossible to give the names of all the alum baking powders in the market. They are constantly appearing in all sorts of disguises, under all kinds of cognomens, and at all kinds of prices, even as low as five and ten cents a pound. They can be avoided, however, by the housekeeper who will bear in mind that all baking powders sold at twenty-five cents or less per pound are liable to contain alum, as pure cream of tartar powders cannot be produced at anything like this price.

A Perfect Balance

Of mind and body was the Roman idea of perfect health. They defined this balance as "a sound mind in a sound body." A weak or sickly body tends to drag down the mind to its own level. Keep the body in health and the mind will take care of itself. The health of the body depends mainly on two things: A sound stomach and pure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery preserves the balance of health, because it makes the stomach strong and the blood pure. People who had not had a well day in years, nervous of body, depressed of mind, have been perfectly cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

"During the summer and fall of 1896 I became all run down," writes Charles H. Sergeant, Esq., of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio, "nerves were out of order and stomach was out of order. I wrote to Doctor Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery: I used six bottles, and since I stopped taking it, about one year ago, I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and have been able to work every day. My appetite is good. I do not feel that burning in the stomach after eating, and my blood and nerves are in good shape."

To Boom White Head.

There has been filed with the town clerk of Hull the survey of a road to run from the main avenue or county road at Nantasket Beach to White Head, the extreme point of an arm of land that forms the right bank of the mouth of Weir river.

This is one feature of the plans of a syndicate of Hull capitalists to create a summer resort having certain privileges now denied to Nantasket Beach through its taking as a part of the metropolitan park system. It is understood that the land needed for the right of way of the new road has been bonded as, also, has White Head itself, a tract of several acres owned by Elisha Thayer. This road is to be 60 feet wide and about 1 1-2 miles long, that being the distance between its point of connection with the county road land its terminus at the head.

The plans of the syndicate, as far as at present known, contemplate the building of four hotels, and it is said arrangments have already been made for electric railway connection with Hull and the Nantasket steamboat landing.

Park Theatre.

"Sag-Harbor," the new play written by James A. Herne, and now in the third week of an enormously successful run at the Park theatre, Boston, may be set down as the great dramatic triumph of the current year. Many ministers and prominent men have thanked Mr. Herne, personally or through the mail, for the high lesson in living contained in his play. Several large theatre parties attended "Sag-Harbor" last week: one from Brockton, of one hundred people, and from Concord, N.H., of over forty. The manages of the Harvard and Yale football teams are making arrangements for the evening of the great Harvard-Yale game, Nov. 18th. There will be a special performance Thanksgiving Day, and Mr. Herne will also give a professional matinee in response to requests he has received from players, to give them an opportunity to see his latest work. Capt. Nathan P. Hand, a famous old whaling captain from Sag Harbor, the original from whom Mr. Herne received the inspiration for his own character has been invited to visit Boston and witness "Sag-Harbor." The captain has accepted and will be present November 13th, on which occasion a party of Sag Harbor folks numbering over seventy will journey to Boston to honor the play. "Sag-Harbor" is responsible for the organization of a new club in Boston called the "Sag-Harbor Club." It is composed of young men working in Boston who originally came from Sag Harbor, Long Island. They are naturally amongst the most enthusiastic of the great play's supporters.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square theatre management has found such a widespread interest in the production of David Belasco's great drama "The Heart of Maryland," as presented at this playhouse, that another week will be given to this production. The advance demand for seats for the performances of this play is in excess of any former record at this theatre, and the excellent character of the production easily explains this fact. The members of the company have all won distinguished favor in their several parts, the stage settings are exceptionally fine and realistic, all the minor details are supplied with a lavish hand and the musical features of the performance are an important element in its success. The great belfry scene makes a thrilling sensation and all the realistic effects are admirably presented. A new set of art photograph souvenirs will be begun at the Monday matinee of the coming week with a beautiful photo of Mr. John Craig, and all of the members of the company will be similary honored during the weeks of the winter season.

Keith's Theatre.

The programme at Keith's Boston Theatre for the week of Nov. 13 will include, beside Felix Morris and company, now playing there, who will change their sketch to "Night and Morning," a condensation of a famous play originally adapted by Dion Boucicault, the following entertainers: Al Filson and Lee Errol, in the roaring farce, "A Daughter of Bacchus;" the Bruett—Revieres, French vocalists and mimics; Patterson brothers, comedy bar act; Kimball and Donovan, banjoists; Wilson and Lorraine, comedy sketch; Kittie Mitchell, popular vocalist; Ferrell and Stark, comedy bicycle act; Freeze brothers, tambourine spinners, and Wormwood's dog and monkey circus, a great act to amuse the children. There will be the customary change of pictures in the biograph. Milton and Dollie Nobles, in a comedy sketch, and Lydia Dreams, the wonderful ventrilcquist, are underlined for the week of Nov. 20.

Ladysmith Was Heavily Bombarded All Day Thursday.

Signs of Greatly Increased Boer Activity In Natal.

Belief That White Has a Good Chance to Withstand Attacks.

Dread of Possibility That He May Succumb to Personal Ambitions.

London, Nov. 13.—A dispatch from Estcourt, Natal, dated Nov. 9, says: Heavy firing has been going on all day in the direction of Ladysmith. It began at daybreak.

Some reports are so much heavier than any previously heard as to lead to a general belief that the British naval guns are again active.

A party which rode out several miles about noon to observe the bombardment of Ladysmith could see a "Long Tom," a 40-pounder, posted on the railway side of the Bulwara, firing at intervals of six to eight minutes. Another gun was observed in operation a little distance away.

Puffs of smoke were discernible on the opposite side, showing that Ladysmith was withstanding a big bombardment. The locality of the town was nothing but a huge cauldron of smoke.

It is also reported from the same quarters that some fires have been seen in Ladysmith, indicating that the Boer bombardment has been to some extent effective.

The war office this morning issued the following official dispatch from Cape Town, dated Nov. 12, noon:

"Colonel Gough, at Orange river, reports that during the reconnaisance of 15 miles, to a point nine miles west of Belmont, on Nov. 10, the officers of the patrol first came on a Boer position, taken on a great semi-circular ridge, standing out into a plateau. They endeavored to make the Boers develop their strength by demonstrating with two squadrons of the Ninth lanciers and a field battery on the left wing, with one and one-half companies of mounted infantry on the right wing, and with artillery in the middle of the plateau out of the infantry fire.

"The enemy began by firing at our cavalry from a gun at the north end. As the cavalry, in open order, began to circle around them, the hills seemed full of sharpshooters. The mounted infantry endeavored to outflank the enemy's left, in order to discover the laager, coming under a heavy and unexpected fire from a few skirmishers.

"Our guns fired several apparently effective shots, but the enemy did not respond, having withdrawn with the wounded. The enemy did not fire on an ambulance. Colonel Gough withdrew his force after a demonstration lasting three hours, and returned to camp the same afternoon near Orange river.

"The guns and a few horses were brought in by rail. The wounded were sent to Orange river by rail immediately after the action. The enemy's strength appeared considerable, apparently 700, with one gun, under David Libe and P. Van Der Merwe."

The war office announces that the troopship Roslin Castle has arrived at Durban, and the troopship Gascon at Cape Town.

There are signs of greatly increased Boer activity in Natal and along the western frontier. All the dispatches tend to show that the British are holding out ably. Colonel Baden-Powell reports that all was well at Mafeking on Nov. 6.

Ladysmith's latest date is Nov. 9. While nothing adverse is heard from the latter point, and confidence is felt in General White's ability—previous experience having shown that the Boer artillery is not very effective—it is beginning to be proved that the acquisition of artillery, which has destroyed the former mobility of the Boer forces, has also failed to give them any compensating advantage. On the contrary the reverse is the case. It is held here that, if the Boers had not been hampered by the transport of heavy guns, and their rescue from tight places, General Joubert might ere this have been in Pietermaritzburg. Unless the Boer heavy artillery justifies itself by reducing Ladysmith, it will again hamper him in the eventual retreat from Natal, when General Buller sends the relieving force.

It is believed that the Boer retreat will be made over the Drakensberg range into the Zoutpansberg district, where every preparation for provisioning and maintaining the Boers is said to have been made for the last stand, and where it will be difficult to dislodge them. Already it is rumored that they are in straits for food around Ladysmith and may, therefore, be obliged to abandon the siege.

Dispatches from Estcourt say it has been ascertained that the British have laid concrete beds for firing the lyddite naval guns, showing that there is no foundation for the fear that the lyddite ammunition at Ladysmith has been exhausted. It is also reported from the same quarters that some fires have been seen in Ladysmith, indicating that the Boer bombardment has been to some extent effective.

A special dispatch from Cape Town confirms the earlier report that it was General Buller who ordered the British evacuation of Stormberg and Naauw Poort, as he considered the frontier line too weak and too much extended. It is understood, however, that Naauw Poort will be occupied again as soon as the advance from Queenstown is ordered.

Strong bids are being made by the Boers for the support of the Cape Dutch, but without much success, although it is believed that the Dutch farmers, especially in Picquetberg district, are armed with Mausers and are watching the course of events before joining the Boers.

From Stormberg it is reported that the Free State forces are working slowly toward Dordrecht, with a view of attacking Queenstown and cutting off the towns in the northern districts of Cape Colony.

The Boers must know just as well as the British military authorities that 23 transports will arrive in South Africa before Nov. 18. They must also realize that their time is short, for in the present emergency, it is believed, General Buller will not wait to organize an army corps, but will content himself with rushing to the front every regiment he can dispose of. Hence, news telling either of General Joubert's complete rout or General White's capitulation, it is claimed, can be expected daily.

It is thought more than likely that the engagement, understood to be imminent, will prove to be the most serious encounter of the war. If victory lies with General Joubert, it will be a month or more before General Buller can dispute with him the possession of Natal, for while it is still perfectly feasible to send reinforcements to General White, it would, apparently, be absolutely impossible to assume the offensive were General White no longer a military factor. The destruction of the railroad bridge over the river Tugela would greatly retard the progress even of minor reinforcements, while it would much more seriously affect the onward march of a British force of any proportions.

However, there is no reason to believe Ladysmith has not a good chance to withstand the most determined Boer attacks. General White's ability to hold his own until now, and the reported success which has crowned his sorties have done much to restore confidence in him. If General Buller continues to send transports to Durban and disembark troops there, General White will only have to wait about a fortnight before he is reinforced, or, at any rate, before the reinforcements create a diversion of the Boer forces.

But it is impossible to predict with any degree of exactness when the troops will disembark, on account of the idiosyncracies of the transports, several of which have developed a remarkable penchant for breaking down or discovering, after leaving port, that their coal, boilers or other essentials were worthless.

Among the military critics, what is most dreaded is the possibility that General White may succumb to the pettiness of personal inclinations, which, in the history of the world, has so often influenced the actions of the greatest generals. On this score, The Naval and Military Record says:

"It looks as though General White will not be content to await the arrival of reinforcements, and the supremacy of General Buller. But the spirited soldier, who held a high command over the whole Indian army, might be pardoned for being slightly influenced by private ambitions."

Nearly all the authorities, while withholding definite criticism until fuller information is obtainable, fail to understand why General White did not fall back south of the Tugela, thus drawing the Boers after him into the arms of General Buller. It is charitably supposed that the government of Natal exercised influence over General White, and is in no little degree responsible for his gallant, yet, from a strategic point of view, doubtful efforts to hold the neck of Natal. But, even then, it is admitted that no general has been exonerated in history merely because he allowed his actions to be hampered by a civil government, to which he was not directly responsible. Naturally, there is a great division of opinion on these points.

The fact that the latest two official dispatches were received from General Walker, and not from General Buller, seems to indicate that the latter may have already left Cape Town. A Brussels telegram asserts that he has actually reached Durban.

Ready For Meteoric Shower.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 13.—Arrangements have been perfected here for photographing the shower of meteors expected tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The observations will be for Harvard university. Preliminary observations have been made, and the apparatus is in place. The chief interest is in the photographic observations which will be made with cameras on equatorial telescopic mountings, and also on stationary mountings, aided by the telescope. It will require a corps of eight or ten observers to make the observations successfully.

Remarkable Rifle Shooting.

Denver, Nov. 13.—A record of rifle shooting, which, it is believed, stands unequalled, was made at the regular meeting of the Denver Rifle club yesterday. C. C. Ford, the secretary of the club, scored 199 out of a possible 200 on a 500-yard range, with the regulation target for the distance. The record was made from 40 shots. Ford scored 88 bulleyes, then put the next shot in the circle immediately outside of the bullseys, following this with 31 bullseyes. The latter is the most remarkable feature of the record.

VOTES OF THE PAST.

Last year 3,577 votes were cast at the City election and Mr. Keith led Mr. Sears 45 votes. The vote of the former was 1,786, and of the latter 1,741. A majority of the whole vote was 1,789 but as Henry H. Faxon had 1 and there were 49 blanks no one had a majority. The vote by wards was:

	Keith.	Sears.	Blanks.
Ward One,	298	359	8
Ward Two,	244	252	3
Ward Three, Pre. 1,	217	184	10

Ward Five,	215	279	10
Ward Six,	143	254	2
The City,	1,786	1,741	50

The recent vote for Governor will be valuable for comparison with the above:

	Crane.	Paine.	Porter.
Ward One,	362	120	45
Ward Two,	189	125	29
Ward Three, Pre. 1,	166	139	24

Ward Five,	366	69	27
	1,628	648	218

The Prohibition candidate received 43, the Socialist Labor party 128, and there were 181 blanks.

The total vote of Quincy at the recent State election was 3,153 compared with 3,187 last year. The vote at the coming city election will therefore be about as large as last year, possibly larger.

Money in It.

Running from Newcomb Square through Crane's meadow past the ice plant of Rogers Bros. are the old car rails and track which have an ending at Wendell's quarry and ledges. Many a car has been run over these rails, freighted with stone which has loaded many a scow and sloop with granite at Hayward's creek. Many years have the rails been covered partially by weeds and small shrubs. It is said that Charles Mitchell and Mark Wendell laid them down fully 25 years ago. Mr. George H. Brown closed a deal last week whereby the neat sum of $20 per ton was received for these rails for old iron and fully $1,000 was realized. They will be taken immediately.

Wholesale Theft of Stamps.

New York, Nov. 13.—Warwick J. Price, the former Yale student, who was arrested on Saturday, just after he had disposed, as the police allege, of several hundred dollars' worth of revenue stamps, stolen from the office of the Mutual Life Insurance company, where he was employed, was held in $4000 for trial. Price, it is declared by representatives of the insurance company, has taken more than $10,000 worth of stamps. James A. Meade, the stamp dealer, who bought the stamps, was also held.

Long Pastorate Closed.

New York, Nov. 13.—Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Virgin, who for the past 29 years has been the pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, Madison avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-first street, resigned his charge yesterday at the close of the service. The announcement was a surprise to the congregation. He says that he will devote most of his time to literary pursuits, and that most of his time will be spent at his country home at East Chelmsford, Mass.

THE COTTON INDUSTRY

Another Crisis Reached In Agitation Over Wages.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 13.—A labor leader says that if a strike is ordered every mill in the city will be affected by it, and this will mean the loss of about $200,000 weekly to the city. He said that Fall River has employed in her mills 28,300 operatives. There are 82 mills, 2,901,056 spindles and 70,878 looms in the city, representing an invested capital of over $25,000,000, and a weekly production averaging 250,000 pieces of print cloths.

Fall River has one-half of the spindles in Massachusetts, about three-fifths of the spindles in New England and about half of the aggregate number in the United States. Referring to the southern mills he said that Fall River has more than double the number of spindles in all the southern states combined and almost as many as all the states in the Union, outside of New England.

This will show the effect a strike will have upon the cotton industry of the United States. With about 28,300 employes and a union membership of one-third that number, Fall River is the most strongly organized mill city in the world. The weekly payroll of the Fall River mills reaches $188,000, or an average of over $6.50 per week to each employe, from the agent and treasurer, who received as high a salary as $10,000 per year, to the lowly paid back boy, who gets $2.50 per week for his labor. If the 10 percent increase is given to the industrial workers of the city the weekly average will be about $7.25 for each employe, from the back boy up to the agent.

At the time the last restoration was made, M. C. D. Borden, managing owner of the Fall River iron works mills, forestalled the members of the Manufacturers' association by giving his employes the 11 1-9 percent increase without a strike. At this time such an act on his part is not looked for by many of the laboring element. Should he voluntarily restore wages to the original basis of two years ago, the whole wage situation will be settled amicably, for it is realized by both manufacturers and operatives that if Mr. Borden followed his precedent of a year ago the employers of this city would be forced to follow.

A special meeting of the Textile council was held yesterday, lasting nearly four hours. Reports from delegates from all the unions resting upon the final decision of the Textile council were accepted. Considerable discussion led to the adoption of the following unanimous resolution:

"We demand of the manufacturers an increase of 10 percent in wages on the present schedule for all operatives, the same to go into effect on Dec. 11, and a reply is requested on or before Nov. 24. In the event of refusal, we recommend all operatives not to return to work Dec. 11."

Secretary Whitehead said: "This is practically a recommendation to strike Dec. 11, if our demand is refused."

The Textile council feels that its position is justifiable, so much so that it is willing to submit the question to an arbitration committee of five members, two to be selected by the council, two by the manufacturers, and the four to select the fifth member. The committee must report by Nov. 24. This suggestion is sent to the manufacturers, together with the demand. This proposition was unanimously indorsed by the council members.

Fu Little For Creditors.

Portland, Me., Nov. 13.—The report of Messrs. Bradley and Verrill, assignees of the banking firm of Woodbury & Moulton, has been mailed to the creditors of the insolvent firm. The report reveals liabilities of $837,000. When the assignees came to examine the assets they found that the firm had in safety deposit vaults securities of large face value and little market worth. The list includes a great amount of bonds and stocks in corporations in all parts of the country, largely water companies. On a total face value of over $569,000 the assignees place an estimate of $53,000 as the market value. From this must be deducted the expenses of winding up the affairs of the firm.

A Damaging Affidavit.

New York, Nov. 13.—The World today publishes the affidavit of Joseph Koch, manager of the Commercial Advertising agency. Koch positively identified Roland B. Molineux in this affidavit as a man who called at his place of business a few days before the appearance of the false Harry Cornish and inquired whether he could arrange to receive his personal mail there. A few days afterwards he says the stranger entered and arranged for the private letter box in which the so-called Cornish letters were received.

Overcome by Faintness.

Boston, Nov. 13.—While Eugene Young, grandson of Brigham Young, was delivering an address at Berkeley temple yesterday he was overcome by faintness and was unable to resume his discourse on "Mormonism, a National Peril." After the young man was forced to retire Professor Benner of Wellesley spoke. He said he considered the campaign against the seating of Mr. Roberts one of intelligence. At the conclusion of the meeting resolutions condemning the seating of Brigham H. Roberts were adopted.

BOSTON'S MAYORALTY CONTEST

Being Waged in Exceedingly Vigorous Manner by Parties on Both Sides.

Boston, Nov. 13.—This week will see the greatest canvass for municipal honors known in the political history of Boston. Both Republicans and Democrats will hold ward caucuses for the choice of delegates to the mayoralty conventions and to select aldermanic and councilmanic candidates.

On the Democratic side issues are lost sight of in the personality of the two candidates for nomination as mayor—Patrick A. Collins, former consul general to London, and John R. Murphy, late head of the water department, whose resignation of that office was solely to enable him to stand for the mayoralty. The friends of both candidates are waging a fight so determined that it surpasses in in interest any campaign of one party candidate against his opponent of the other party. Ward rallies held last week, and which will be held until the caucuses, were skirmishes which, exciting for their vocal bitterness, almost approached physical set-tos by the friends of one candidate invading the ward rooms occupied by friends of the other candidate.

The division of sentiment over a choice has shown itself in the Democratic city committee at several times, and the caucuses are expected to be the warmest political events on record with unequalled figures as far as voting is concerned. Both candidates have ward headquarters adorned with huge transparencies and political discussions are heard everywhere.

On the Republican side the contest is equally interesting except that the canvass is being worked quietly. Ex-Mayor Hart, apparently, will capture enough ward delegates to win, his chief opponent being Alpheus Sanford, although some conservative Republicans have suggested the name of Thomas L. Livermore in case of too strong a fight between Hart and Sanford.

As a rule, the fact that the Democratic candidate for governor carried Boston upsets calculations as to the city elections. The Democrats are convinced that they will win, while the Republicans expect the bitterness in the Collins-Murphy fight to make their chances better than at present appear.

Steadily Gaining Strength.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 13.—Vice President Hobart passed a favorable night, and the improvement that has been observed for several days continued yesterday. He ate solid food with relish, and it promptly assimilated. With his meals he took milk and between meals was given milk punches. This is a marked change from his condition 10 days ago. At that time he was rapidly sinking, and his stomach had refused food of all kinds. For several days he lived on grapes, and the juice of grape fruit, but it soon appeared that his stomach was so congested that he could not even take these. Mr. Hobart now spends most of his time in a reclining position and he sleeps without the aid of opiates. The most painful and alarming feature of his illness has been his attacks of nervousness as night approaches. These attacks have much decreased.

A Labor Tangle.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—To break up the present trades unions, to stamp out the arbitrary power of walking delegates, arbitrators and professional organizers, and then to invite workmen to form new unions, that will co-operate with employers, is the plan of campaign of Chicago contractors and architects. The first step in the campaign to destroy the existing unions was taken Saturday when 14 manufacturers of sheet metal locked out over 400 employes. Several of the manufacturers issued letters to their men, declaring that their action had been forced upon them by the unjust demands the unions made to a roofing company.

On Errand of Mercy.

New York, Nov. 13.—On the Atlantic transport line steamship Mesaba, which sailed yesterday for London, were five nurses and three surgeons, who represent the first instalment of the American personnel for the hospital ship Maine, which the Association of American Women in London is sending to South Africa. The surgeons are taking with them an ambulance which is the personal gift of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

Middleton Is Reticent.

Stoughton, Mass., Nov. 13.—Contrary to expectation, there was no arrest made as a result of a conference with Frank Middleton, who was shot on Tuesday last, and who has since been in a hospital. There is considerable excitement over the case, and developments are not looked for until Middleton tells how he came to be near the bridge at the time of the shooting.

Train Struck a Team.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 13.—One man was instantly killed and three other persons were injured in a crossing accident on the Pennsylvania railroad at Night's road crossing, two miles south of this city, last night. The four were driving in a double team and did not, until too late, see the approaching train as they started across the railroad track.

Ate Poisonous Food.

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—Fifty privates of company K of the Forty-second volunteer infantry were the victims of ptomaine poisoning, and 18 of them are now in the general hospital at the presidio slowly recovering from the effects of their sudden indisposition. The poison is supposed to have been in the hash.

Talked to Thirty Thousand.

Kansas City, Nov. 13.—Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, who began an eight-day revival service here yesterday, spoke to 30,000 people at Convention hall yesterday. Four thousand people were unable to gain admission.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

The storm which was central Saturday night on the southern New England coast has moved northeastward to Cape Breton island, its passage being followed by strong north to northwest winds and clearing and colder weather in the New England states. Fair weather with slowly rising temperature is indicated for New England during the next two days.

THE VERY LATEST PILLOW

A Handsome Gift For the Merry Christmas Season.

In the making of sofa pillows there is no end. They are always acceptable as Christmas gifts and are not very expensive. Each season has new suggestions, and a cut of the very latest pillow is given herewith.

This pillow is a delightful effect in agra linen in a good tone of green. In the model shown the center decoration is a wreath of white blossoms and green leaves.

These flowers are made of the very same linen, only in a tint of pure white, and, with leaves treated in the same way, are appliqued on. All edges are embroidered in a long and short stitch, while the middle of each flower is marked in heavy French knots, so as to form the petal of the blossom.

The leaves can be more solidly worked in tender shades of green. Around all four edges is a ruffle made of four inch ribbon in a darker tone of green, or, if preferred, a double ruffle can be given of white ribbon against the dark green, making an extra spread for this decorative plan.

HOMEMADE WORK TABLE.

Useful Present That May Be Made at Small Expense.

A roomy and attractive work table for the busy woman may be made from an empty cheese box and a discarded curtain pole. The box must first be well scrubbed, then lined with cretonne or with colored muslin, covered with swiss and finished on the outside with a deep frill, headed by a band of ribbon tacked into place with ornamental gimp nails. To the inside lining must be attached one large and two small pockets, a pincushion and needlebook, all made of material which either matches or harmonizes with the lining. The cover of the cheese box must then be neatly covered and also finished with a deep frill. When both are complete, the pole or other available uprights should be sawed into lengths about the height of the ordinary table, then screwed fast to the cover and to the bottom of the box, as indicated in the illustration. In making work tables or baskets of this sort one is not confined to any set color. All tints are available, according to the prevailing scheme of the room. These cheese boxes can be furnished in denim, a flowery cretonne, linens in all shades, lace with a lining of colored muslin, and swiss, the prettiest in dots, of fine make.

USEFUL WORK TABLE.

Handmade Handkerchief.

For a Christmas present what is more acceptable than a handmade handkerchief, a pretty affair of linen and lace, which is not bought in any shop and which is in every stitch a living thought?

This dainty affair is of linen. The center is nine inches square. On the edge is a very tiny hem, and above it is a well defined hemstitch. If you desire to make it inexpensive, it may be trimmed prettily with an insertion of rather narrow mechlin lace, with a wider piece of the same pattern on the outside. These should be put on perfectly plain and gathered only slightly at the corners.

Another clever idea is to sew to the small linen center square a footing about three-quarters of an inch in width. This should be folded over at each corner so as to destroy the regular rectangular shape and produce the effect of having had the corners snipped off. Between this and a wider footing which forms the edge is an insertion of valenciennes lace of the same width as the extreme inner piece. These two are put on plain, although the wider of the two must be gathered rather full, so as to form a dainty ruffle effect for the outer edge of the handkerchief.

There are numbers of other unique devices, but the following is worthy of attention for the reason that the treatment tends to give it the appearance of having come from abroad: After the square of linen is hemmed an insertion of drawn work is put above it. For a frill of extra length there is a half inch wide insertion of mechlin lace, then a footing of the same width, then another band of insertion and another of footing. This arrangement of the ruffle produces a very showy effect and is not particularly expensive.

A LA MODE.

Coats, jackets and capes look best with the collar cut in one with the garment—that is, without any seam at the neck. This method gives a certain grace and an appearance of length.

One of the attractive autumn fabrics is the Rochemont weave—a fine wool rep, with dots of silk of another color and which, though of pure wool, is remarkable for its lightness. It is used for both gowns and dress trimmings.

Handsome fur trimmings of sable, mink or marten tails, hanging like deep fringe from yokes or rounded cape collars of Russia velours or silk velvet, overlaid with costly silk appliques or heavy guipure lace, are to be worn.

A new and stylish French walking coat in Louis XVI style is rounded and much cut away on the fronts and has two underarm darts which extend down over the hips. The coat fits as closely to the figure as a French riding habit.

Black and colored moire petticoats trimmed with frills and flounces of the watered fabric and faced up a third of its length with silk covered haircloth are an autumn device for keeping the dress skirt well flared around its lower portion.

At present there seems not the slightes indication that skirts will be shorn of their popular dip or sweep at the back. French designers affirm that the demi-train will remain in vogue just as long as the long stately cloaks with the wide flounced borders and three-quarter coats.

One of the latest shapes in erratic millinery is called the Spanish turban. It is almost an exact reproduction of the headgear worn by Spaniards. The brim is turned up all around and edged with crumpled velvet. The trimmings consist of large velvet bows, a brilliant redbird and a large sparkling rhinestone buckle. —New York Post.

POULTRY POINTERS.

If the hens are too fat, change the rations for a time.

Too much soft feed is detrimental. The fowls need some employment for the gizzard.

To keep up the vigor and fecundity of the flocks new blood must be infused from time to time.

While inbreeding has its objects, they are more for the fancier than for the practical poultryman.

The man who cannot make a dozen hens pay a fair profit will not succeed with a larger number.

The best remedy for overfatness is exercise. The more active the fowl the less danger from that source.

Females that are 2 years old make the best breeders. They may not lay quite so many eggs, but a larger per cent will hatch, and more vigorous birds will come from them.

Once a hen learns to eat eggs she rarely if ever forgets the trick. The best plan is to kill before the other fowls learn the habit. Gather the eggs frequently and thus in a measure prevent the temptation.

One advantage in supplying plenty of grit is that the food, being better masticated, is better digested, and the result is better health and more eggs. Keep a supply where the fowls can help themselves.—St. Louis Republic.

RECENT INVENTIONS.

An improved automatic bicycle pump is clamped directly to the center of the hub, with a lever at one end which engages an adjustable screw at every revolution of the wheel to operate a piston and force the air into the tire.

A Kansas inventor has designed a new form of wind wheel, having horizontal rods arranged radially from a vertical shaft, with a pair of partially folding wings on each rod which open when moved with wind and close when going against it.

To give an alarm when the speed of motor cars is too great a small dynamo is used to generate power, with an armature set to respond at a predetermined speed of the dynamo, ringing an electric bell as soon as the abnormal speed is reached.

Clothespins are always handy for use in a new receptacle formed of a cloth sack with a ring at the mouth to hold it open, the holder being suspended on the line by a wire bracket, which allows it to slide along within easy reach of each garment.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

If any kind of garden seed is sown, let it be the best.

When weeds or grass are allowed to grow with the vines, they rob them of the plant food that rightfully belongs to the plants.

Dwarf pears bear sooner, and the fruit is more easily gathered, while the trees occupy less room and are more easily sprayed.

Plant raspberries in rows five feet apart and three feet apart in the row; blackberries in rows eight feet apart and three feet apart in the row.

Old quince trees may often be benefited if the branches are carefully thinned out and a good dressing of manure applied.

THE GIANT OF TODAY.

BY LOUISE AUGUSTA GORE.

Meanwhile outside, the strange carriage had been gazed at by eager crowds. Bidda and Jimmie had spent a gala day and satisfied their curiosity on many points, at intervals resting upon the curb and munching peanuts until some bright buttoned official warned them off.

This establishment was worthy the attention it received. A lofty two seated affair reached by one steep step, it had a multitude of cogs and wheels and brushes enclosed in well varnished boxes underneath. Plenty of luxurious furs piled upon the seats made it comfortable for the Generalissimo and a higher seat in front was occupied by a modern coachman dressed in a shaggy suit of bear-skin. The nose, eyes and ears of the beast formed a novel hat which almost concealed his features, while the paws stretching over his fingers, kept them quite warm and assisted him in turning the silver brake at his side and the long thick fur reaching to his heels defied the storm and cold.

A strange giant face decorated the panel of the dasher, in whose forehead shone one great eye of light to brighten the roadway, while an arched tube encased in silver, heavily wrought, extended over the coachman's head and swinging from its centre a brilliant light shone as the Generalissimo stepping quickly within gave the signal for motion.

At once the motorman grasped a little silver handle giving a quick turn with his huge paw and instantly two pretty silver wings spread out upon either side of the carriage and the wheels revolved. Like a great firefly, the vehicle sped off into the distance humming busily and leaving a wirey cobweb trailing in the air behind while its gong gave ample warning of its approach to slower moving conveyances that obstructed its path.

Bidda and Jimmie had lingered to catch one more glimpse of the queer man with the funny little flames that flared and blazed yet never burned his feet. With open mouths and straining eyes they watched the "Wizard" start, then, quicker than thought with a bound Jimmie landed upon an out stretched wing just when the back cover with its soft fur concealed him from sight, and vanished round the corner before Bidda realized the little clinging figure was her Jimmie.

But Jimmie was out for a ride and a good time and with a smothered chuckle cuddled beneath the furs when the lash of a long whip, kept for the purpose curled around his more exposed little legs.

Everywhere the wonderful carriage created a sensation, though few could resist a hearty laugh when they caught sight of the pair of well worn boots standing upon the tip of one of its graceful silver wings and saw Jimmie's roguish face with its blunt nose and small blue eyes peering out amid the fine furs, his shock of bright hair blown helter-skelter by the wind and topped saucily with a shabby schoolboy cap.

How they flew! Jimmie thought he never had had such a ride, just skimming along in the air, for the strong elastic springs extending under the carriage, upheld the wonderful wings as well and gave an easy, swinging motion quite fascinating. Aloft the light now glowing with intense brilliancy, again paled and almost vanished to reappear with renewed splendor. It was indeed a veritable "Firefly," as the heavy silver lettering on the dasher indicated and Jimmie was in luck.

On, on they went tireless, never slackening speed, past all the city sights and sounds, out into the country beyond, while the light paled in the western sky and the stars came out one by one, Jimmie began to think it was cold in spite of the heavy robes and the frosty air nipped his poor little toes through his gaping boots. A whiff from the Generalissimo's cigar just then wafted a bright thought under the schoolboy cap.

Jimmie had done quite a flourishing business in "butts," in more childish days, and knew the value of a good cigar end. At once he determined if possible, to secure the fragrant one so near at hand and watched his chances fancying it might serve in his case to fill the open jaws of an unfortunate boot.

He had not long to wait. The Generalissimo conveniently dropped the coveted treasure close at hand and Jimmie made a swift dive for it just as the "Firefly" swerved suddenly to avoid a heavy stone lying in the road. The unexpected turn loosened Jimmie's grasp and in trying to regain it he was conscious of a very unpleasant sensation in striking the lower part of the vehicle; with the shock, he lost his presence of mind, tumbling back into the roadway with a loud shriek as the Firefly sped away wholly unconscious of its lost burden.

So quickly had it all happened Jimmie was quite overcome and for some minutes lay perfectly still looking up at the stars wondering where he was and listening dreamily while the busy little hum grew fainter and finally ceased to be heard altogether.

In the silence and loneliness without a doubt, had he known of it, the story of the poor little woman who fell asleep on the king's highway would have sung itself again, indeed, Jimmie felt surely "I," was "not I," at all. Then he thought of Bidda waiting for him all this time, perhaps growing tired and going alone to the bakery around the corner for her crust and cup of milk.

Jimmie grew suddenly very hungry, cross and tired. The tears came at last and he chocked and sobbed till the cold north wind blew heavily through a clump of sighing pines. Jimmie had a great fear of ghosts and stopped crying to listen. He did not know, poor fellow, that the trees also mourned for the summer days that had passed, but fancied some evil thing mocked him and scrambling upon his feet, started upon a frightened run, taking the direction whence the Firefly had disappeared.

He had not gone far before he began to wonder how long a time it would take to reach Bidda. Finally deciding he had chosen the wrong direction, he retraced his steps until he reached the sighing pines. Again terrified he turned at once, this time keeping on till he was quite out of breath.

Still no house was in sight; just the stars, the gaunt trees and a long stretch of empty roadway. The keen frosty wind stung him and made him shiver, yet cold and bewildered he trudged on, slower now, while a wall of rough granite at his right grew taller and taller until it was too lofty for one to even guess what might be upon the other side.

A beautifully bright cloud seemed to hover over this hidden land. In its atmosphere Jimmie saw all the moths and flies of summer sailing in huge numbers and forgot his fears to listen in wonder to the strange hum of so many wings, high above the rest the shrill piping of mosquitoes.

At last a break occurred in the great wall and a heavy gateway appeared. While Jimmie was gathering courage to attempt an entrance, a deep voice from within demanded: "Who's there?"

Jimmie was startled, but whether it was the voice, or the sudden descent just then of a June-bug buzzing like a bullet, he could never have told.

Turning for another flight, a treacherous ankle twisted painfully and with a groan poor Jimmie sank like a suppliant upon the earth.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

The Commissioner of Public Works has furnished the public with a list of the streets upon which he has done work this year which he thinks the Sewer Commissioners should pay for. It would now be in order for him to furnish a list of streets which he has rebuilt or repaired under the general appropriation. His appropriation this year was larger than was ever given a Commissioner, as will be seen by a summary of the eleven years of the city government below. The summary also shows the credits received:

Year,	Commissioner.	Appropriation.	Credits.
1889,	Pritchard,	$18,179	—
1890,	Alexander,	17,270	—
1891,	Ewell,	14,710	$200 00
1892,	Ewell,	15,134	1,324 50
1893,	Ewell,	15,921	2,349 58
1894,	Eaton,	14,000	2,626 53
1895,	Eaton,	18,000	2,885 00
1896,	Knowlton,	18,300	544 93
1897,	Knowlton,	19,226	2,313 23
1898,	Knowlton,	20,400	2,936 25
1899,	Cavanagh,	22,000	*

If Commissioner Cavanagh receives a credit of $5,000 from the Sewer appropriation, his appropriations and credits for general repairs of streets will amount to nearly if not quite $30,000.

This will be twice the amount which was at the disposal of Commissioner Ewell in 1891. Mr. Ewell had the same difficulty during his term from water trenches as the present commissioner has had from sewer trenches, for the Water Commissioners laid 16,878 feet in 1892, and 35,570 feet in 1893, about ten miles in the two years.

At the close of Commissioner Ewell's three years' term it was generally admitted that the streets of Quincy were never in better condition. With an appropriation of only $15,921 in 1893, he not only took good care of the streets generally, but he succeeded in rebuilding several streets with the steam roller out of the appropriation. Some of the streets of the city, which have been built since 1893, may be in better condition than in 1893, but in the other streets there has scarcely been any improvement, and many have gone backwards a notable case being Washington street.

Aside from the $22,000 for general highways the Commissioner has had this year other large sums for special work, including $30,700 for Coddington street, $11,000 for Hancock street, $7,500 for Quarry street, $1,125 for Arthur street, $1,500 for Beale street, $3,000 for Billings road, $200 for Goddard avenue and Federal street, $1,400 for Howard street, $500 for Nightingale avenue, $300 for Payne street, $200 for culvert on Washington street at the corner of Canal street, together with balance of $347.52 and material from 1898, $500 for Trafford street, and $1,500 for Willard street. The Commissioner has also expended large sums for special appropriations on account of 1898, including Billings road and West Elm avenue, Faxon road, East Elm avenue, Hancock street widening, Payne street, and Newcomb street extension.

The special appropriation for streets in 1899, not including engineering, removal of snow, salary of Commissioner, salary of clerk, etc., amount to about $60,000, so that in all the Street Department had this year about $85,000 and wants more. Again, we ask where has the general appropriation of $22,000 been expended?

The letter of Candidate Bates was a fearless statement of his platform, and contained many sentiments that will be applauded. Like Mr. Bates, many employers of labor can say they are laborers, but the Socialists generally refer to all employers or manufacturers as belonging to the capitalistic horde. It is all very well for Mr. Bates to say that he would, if Mayor, readjust taxes so that they would not burden the laboring people. This reminds us of a criticism on the stump speeches of Candidate Paine during the State campaign: He had no probability of being elected so he could promise anything, while Candidate Crane must be more careful, as he would be called upon to fulfil his promises. It would not be justice to assess the lot of the laboring man five cent per foot, and the adjoining lot of a more successful man ten cents per foot. The rich undoubtedly escape considerable taxation by failure of the Assessors to find personal property, and by such laws as exempt the mortgages from taxation Where one escapes, some one else must bear the burden. It must be admitted that the valuation is high and oppressive, but yet it does not seem to be high enough to pay the current expenses of the city under the $12 limit without borrowing. If all the valuations were reduced the tax rate must go up, as a certain sum of money must be raised. The Republican party escaped much easier than the Democrats in Mr. Bates' letter, as they used only whitewash, while the Democrats were charged with not only whitewashing, but also reckless extravagance and incompetency.

An important hearing by the Railroad Commissioners is advertised for next Friday, Nov. 17, when Houghs Neck people will be heard on their petition for better electric car service, not only during the summer, but throughout the winter. After the widening of Sea street, now in progress the Quincy & Boston Company should put in three long turnout between the present turnout and each terminus, so that cars could be run every five minutes, if desired, in summer. If cars cannot be run all winter they should be run later in the fall and earlier in the spring.

It is hardly to be expected the Railroad Commissioners will order the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. to erect new depots at Quincy. That may be outside their jurisdiction. It is the train service rather to which they may turn their attention, if it can be shown that the present number of trains is not adequate.

We began Saturday a serial story by Louise Augusta Gore of Vine street, Braintree entitled "The Giant of Today," a story of current events. The story is divided into five parts: The Firefly, The Great White Light, A City of Magic, Giant Dynamo's Ball, and A Thanksgiving Fire, and each part will be very interesting reading.

Candidate Bates and the Socialists cannot complain that the Ledger did not give them space on Saturday. We usually make a charge for inserting the letter of acceptance of a candidate, but made an exception in this case that the public might know more of the new party.

Is it the general custom of Chief of Police Hayden to wait for a complaint before he arrests players of hurdle, base ball or other offences on the Lord's Day. If golf is an offence, as several chiefs of police say it is, why wait?

Drift of Opinion.

☞ General Passenger Agent Daniels, of the N. Y. Central railroad, is said to be at the head of a movement to abolish "tipping" on dining and sleeping cars. There ought to be something done to rid the travelling public of his abominable nuisance, not alone on the railway trains but in hotels. It is an outrage which has been endured long and patiently. It is time the gate was shut down.—Milford Journal.

☞ Many New England farmers, who were not averse to trusts when it came to forming one of their own, are now mourning the supposed loss of from $2 to $10 each, paid out for promoting in anticipation of an issue of stock No milk has been derived from that stock and they are receiving no better price for that given by their old stock. It cannot be denied henceforth that the farmers are not trusting, but it may be that some of them heartily welcomed anything that came along as a substitute for the perennial gold brick.—Lynn Item.

☞ Some attempt is being made to show that the occasional death of a college student while undergoing a secret society initiation is only an incident and not an essential part of the ceremony. Probably; but it is the part which the public sees most certainly, and it happens almost too often.—New Bedford Standard.

The G. A. R. Fair.

The annual fair of Paul Revere of Post 88, G. A. R., for the benefit of the relief fund opens tonight at Music hall, and will continue every night during this week. It is from the proceeds of these annual sales that the post replenishes its funds to carry on the good work of relief to those who when in sturdy manhood responded to the nation's call. Many are now in need of assistance, and it behooves all to attend and purchase liberally of the many useful and fancy articles which will be displayed upon the several tables, and thus show that they have not forgotten the soldier boys of '61, and what they did that this country might be free. The opening exercises will be brief and will consist of music, addresses by Commander Warner and others, and the formal opening by Department officers.

The tables arranged about the hall will be in charge of the Women's Relief Corps, the Ladies' Aid, and the Sons of Veterans.

Cold Day for Bath.

Harry Warmsley of Weymouth, aged about 13 years, a runaway from the truant school, who was captured at Weymouth on Sunday, made an attempt to escape from Officer Fitzgerald this morning. The officer handcuffed the boy to another prisoner he was bringing to Quincy. The trio started to take the car for Quincy, when the boy slipped his hand from the irons and started to run with Officer Fitzgerald in hot pursuit. The boy attempted to dodge under the bridge over the river at East Braintree, when finding himself cornered he jumped into the water. Miss Torrey put out in a boat and rescued the boy from a watery grave. The boy was wrapped in a coat and taken to Quincy to the boiler room in the Adams building to dry out.

Officer Faxon.

An old resident of Braintree, who will be eighty years of age July 1, 1900 is about to leave this town in which he has lived forty-seven years. His early years were spent in Quincy and in 1852 he moved to Braintree. He has served his last town warrant and will reside in Brockton with his son and family.

For thirty-one years Constable Horace Faxon has served the warrants, in a very satisfactory manner. During that time he has lived in only one house, which he rented on Tremont street, paying about five thousand dollars in rent.

His wife died May 6, 1892 and if she had lived sixteen days more, she would have completed as his wife fifty years.

Seldom does the cold day of November come so early in the month. It was not until Nov. 27 last year that the noon temperature was as low as on Sunday. In 1897 it dropped to 27 on Nov 24, and in 1896 it was 32 on Nov. 20.

The leading article in the Journal of Education for Nov. 2, was a two-page paper by Frederic Allison Tupper, on "Debating in Secondary Schools," the success of which was so well exemplified while Mr. Tupper was principal of the Quincy High.

SUNDAY GOLF.

Chief of Police Hayden Waiting for a Complaint.

The Herald has interviewed the chief of police in several towns as to Sunday playing, because of the action of the police of Saugus, in forbidding members of the Riverside Golf to play on Sunday. It finds the action has created a deal of discussion in golfing circles, and also among the police officials of the cities and towns in which there are links.

The grounds of the Wollaston Golf club at Montclair are partly in the city of Quincy and partly in the town of Milton. Eight of the nine holes, as the course is now laid out, are in Milton. Chief of Police Maurice Pierce of that town has warned the members that he shall prosecute all persons whom he finds playing on the links in his bailwick on Sunday, and the club has posted a warning to its members to this effect, so that at present none of the players are using the Milton links on Sunday.

The club's old grounds are wholly in the city of Quincy, and Chief of Police Joseph W. Hayden of that city, informed the Herald correspondent that he had not yet received any complaints against the members of the club for playing on Sunday. He further stated that unless there was a formal complaint made, he should not interfere. If he should receive complaints however, he would then take prompt action to stop the playing and prosecute those who defied his warning.

Chief Dearborn of Brookline is waiting for a decision on the Saugus case; Chief Tarbox of Newton believes law forbids Sunday golf, and should be enforced; Chief McLaughlin of Melrose is in sympathy with the Saugus chief; the chief of Winthrop says it would not be allowed in town; Watertown golfers have been notified not to play; Chief Franks of Lexington rates golf with base ball; Chief Craig of Concord will stop any attempt. Other chiefs are indifferent or are waiting for complaints.

Council Business.

At tonight's meeting of the City Council, the Committee on Elections will report on the election of last Tuesday; the Committee on Fire Department on the petition for a fire alarm box at Germantown; the Committee on Licenses, on petition for minor licenses; and the Committee on Ordinances on the schoolhouse order.

In the calendar are the orders granting Electric Light & Power Co. and the New England Telephone Co. locations for poles, the orders accepting Whitney road, Cranch and Deldorf streets as public ways, and a transfer in the Poor department.

On the table is the communication from the City Auditor relative to the transfer of $5,000 from the Sewer to the Street department.

Capt. White Dead.

Albert F. White who formerly lived in Quincy, died in Chelsea Sunday of heart failure following gastric fever. He was educated at the Coddington school in this city, and was a clerk at the Quincy post office during the term of Postmaster Spear. He also worked for awhile for Frank F. Crane. While in this city he was an active member of Francis L. Souther camp Sons of Veterans, and when he went to Chelsea he identified himself with Abraham Lincoln camp 106 of that city. At the time of his death he was captain of that camp. Funeral services will be held at Chelsea Tuesday, and the burial at Mt. Wollaston in this city. He leaves a mother, one sister and two brothers. His age was about 27 years.

IN THE WEE SMA' HOURS.

The Story of a Bell and a Very Angry Householder.

It was a tousled and sleepy looking head that popped hurriedly through the second story window. There was a frown on the face and an angry flush in the half closed eyes.

"Who in thunder's there?" was shouted by this forbidding looking presence, totally unmindful of nature's beauty at 5 in the morning. "Who's there, I say?" it repeated in louder and more threatening tones.

There was no answer.

"What do you mean coming around here this time of night and ringing my bell like this? I never heard of such infernal impudence. Get out in the yard where I can see you and talk to you. Say, I'll be down there in about two minutes if you don't tell me what you want."

"Anything the matter, dear?" yawned the sleepy wife.

"I should say there was. Didn't you hear the bell? Rang for five minutes straight. Whoever it is must be either drunk or crazy. Where's my revolver?"

"Don't you think for a minute of going down there with a revolver. It would be terrible if you'd shoot some one. I'll go."

"Indeed you won't."

"Then we'll both go."

Just as they faced the window a curtain shot up at the next house, a dozen feet away, and the pretty young girl who was to take an early train appeared winding one of those round, nickel, loud ticking clocks.

"Why," she laughed, "did the alarm bell disturb you?"

He crawled into bed saying intense things, and the more his wife shook in the effort to restrain her mirth the more he said.—Detroit Free Press.

TO HISTORIC SITES.

Class Trip of Gridley Bryant Pupils.

The following account of a class trip to Lexington, taken by pupils of the Gridley Bryant school, was written by Mary Geary, a grade VIII pupil, aged twelve years. The editor congratulates the young lady on excellent penmanship, correct spelling, good punctuation, and for her very readable paper:

We went on our trip to Lexington for the purpose of visiting the historic places, the first of which was a stone tablet. This tablet marks the spot, where at early dawn, Benjamin Wellington was captured by British scouts who took his gun. He, with great courage, borrowed another gun and hastened to Lexington Green where he fought under Capt. Parker. He also fought at White Plains, Saratoga. The tablet stands near the town pump.

The next place we visited was the home of Jonathan Harrington who was the last survivor of the battle of Lexington. When he fought in this battle, he was only nineteen years of age, acting as fifer-boy. On the morning of April 19, 1775, his mother went to his chamber door calling, "Jonathan, Jonathan, arise! the British are coming, something must be done." He died March 27, 1854.

We next stopped at a large elm tree, set out in 1740. It is now one hundred and fifty-nine years old and about sixteen feet in circumference, requiring six boys to reach around it.

Leaving this tree we walked a short distance to a wood, where we stopped and took lunch. After lunch Mr. Greene took our pictures in a group.

We then went on to Munroe Tavern, a very historic house. Earl Percy had his headquarters in this house, and Washington at one time dined here. One room of the house was used by the British as a hospital for the wounded soldiers.

Sergeant Munroe, who kept the tavern, was, on the 19th of April, guarding the house where Hancock and Adams were sleeping. He left his wife and children at the tavern and placed a man named Raymond in charge. When Mrs. Munroe saw the British coming around the bend of the road, she took the children and ran up the hill behind the house to give the alarm. The British had received orders to capture any person who should spread the alarm, but Mr. Munroe heard them say, "She's a woman, let her go." There were many liquors in the tavern, and many of the British soldiers became intoxicated. Some people think that the British were ordering Mr. Raymond about, and he refused to do something, so they shot him. Others think he tried to escape, and, fearing he would report their number of wounded, they shot him. When Mr. Munroe returned to the house he found Mr. Raymond lying dead outside the door. The chair which Washington sat in when he dined at the house, is still preserved there. In the centre of the ceiling in one room is a bullet hole which came from the gun of a British regular. He, accidentally stamped his gun down on the floor, discharging it immediately. Before the British left the house, they set it on fire, but Mr. Munroe came in just in time to extinguish it. The grandson of Mr. Munroe still lives in the house and he is a very old man. He was very kind to us, telling us all about the battle.

On the grounds of the Lexington High school stands a stone cannon, marking the spot where the British planted a field-piece to cover their retreat. The cannon points in the same direction as the field-piece did.

We next visited the old belfry from which the alarm was rung on the 19th of April. It stands on a hill near the Hancock school. It is a very curious belfry, looking much more like a henhouse or a small summer-house. There is a small ladder leading up to a tiny tower where the bell was kept.

The first thing we examined on Lexington Green, was the stone pulpit marking the spot where the meeting-house stood. Parson Hancock and Parson Clark were ministers of this church, and in it all the town meetings were held. The town's powder was stored in the basement of this church. Opposite the stone pulpit is a tree which Gen. Grant planted in 1875.

Below the stone pulpit is a large battle monument. The inscription on it was written by Parson Clark. Around the battle monument are buried the eight men who were killed in the battle of Lexington, and also Mr. Raymond who was killed at Munroe tavern. The day the soldiers were buried they had a large celebration. At this celebration Edward Everett delivered a famous speech which made him known as a great orator. In 1824 Lafayette visited the monument, which is over one hundred years old.

Back of the Unitarian church is a very historic cemetery. In it are buried Sergeant Munroe and Capt. Parker. There are many old monuments, the oldest bearing the date of 1690. Governor Eustis, Parson Hancock and Parson Clark are also buried here.

On the road leading to the "Hancock--Clark House," stands a house where Jonathan Harrington, Sr., after being wounded on the Green, dragged himself to the doorstep and expired at his wife's feet.

The so-called "Hancock---Clark House" is over two hundred years old. Parson Hancock and Parson Clark resided in it, and it was in this house that Samuel Adams and John Hancock were sleeping when aroused by Paul Revere. The house is free to visitors, and they are shown through the rooms by the one in charge. The house does not stand on its original grounds, as the owner of it wanted to use the land for some other purpose. When the Historical society heard of this, they purchased it and removed it to some land on the other side of the road. The first room we entered contained many relics of colonial days, among them a writing chair and a warming pan. The warming pan was used for warming the bedcloths on a cold night by filling it with hot coals and moving it around through the bed. Nailed on the wall, near the door is a contribution box. The next room we entered was the kitchen or living-room, in which is kept many cooking utensils. The sign which hung over the door of Munroe Tavern, stands in one corner of the room. Off from this room is a small, narrow room which was used by Parson Hancock as a study. Opposite a glass showcase was a bookcase containing many old books. In this showcase are many old photographs and papers.

We next entered the parlor, the room where some claim Hancock and Adams were sleeping. There is a bed in this room as was the fashion in colonial days. In one corner of the room stood a curious fashioned cane chair. There were also many rope-seated chairs as well as many other quaint pieces of furniture.

We then went up a flight of stairs, over the banister of which, Madam Hancock and Dorothy Quincy leaned while listening to Paul Revere's message. In the first room we entered upstairs was a bed handsomely hung with delicate tasseled curtains.

The next room contained no bed and was very scantily furnished. There were fireplaces in all of the rooms except Parson Hancock's study. In one of the rooms upstairs was a large spinning wheel. The window shutters are the same that were used when the house was first built, as are also many other things.

Leaving this house we visited a large stone boulder marking the spot where Capt. Parker stood when he said to his men, "Stand your ground, don't fire 'till fired upon." The boulder was moved to the spot a few years ago

On the opposite side of the road stands Buckman tavern which is closed and tenantless. The "minute men" used to meet in this tavern, and here they assembled before the battle of Lexington. In the walls of this building are many holes through which the minute men watched the movements of the British. Many of the clapboards have bullet holes in them, which were made by British guns. The tavern was built in 1690.

We next visited the Carey library, the interior of which is very beautiful. On each side of the doorway are two beautiful marble statues, each representing some famous man. There is also an interesting collection of old relics. In this collection are the silver mounted pistols which Pitcairn used in the battle of Lexington, and the plate Washington used when he dined at Munroe tavern. Among the various other articles is a small picture of the battle of Lexington.

The second floor is used as the Town hall. Over the platform hangs a valuable painting of the battle of Lexington. The picture is named, "Too Few to Resist, Too Brave to Fly." It was painted by Sandham and is valued at $4,000. Before painting the picture, the artist went out doors very early in the morning to study the change of color.

The library was the last place we visited. After a delightful ride in both electric and steam cars, we arrived at the West Quincy station at about 6 P. M., thoroughly tired, but well pleased with our day's outing.

Worth Reading.

To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

Yours truly,

SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

Story of Postponed Wedding and Disappearance of Groom-to-Be.

Report That He Was Killed Proved to Be Unfounded.

Other Sensational Features as Reported by a New York Newspaper.

New York, Nov. 13.—The World today says: The mystery surrounding the death or disappearance of Edwin Buckley Guilbert on the eve of his marriage to Voice Adams Beecher of 182 Macon street, Brooklyn, presents many bewildering features.

Miss Beecher, a niece by adoption of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, was to have been married at her home, Nov. 6. On the day before, a telegram was received from Paul Smiths, in the Adirondacks, saying that Guilbert had been accidentally shot while hunting. Two days later came a telegram abruptly announcing his death.

Now comes the surprising revelation that no one bearing the name of Guilbert has been shot at or near Paul Smiths. Persistent inquiry has failed to throw any light on the puzzle.

If Edwin Buckley Guilbert is dead there is a complete mystery as to how it happened, and as to what has been done with the body. If he still lives his whereabouts is entirely unknown.

Voice Beecher is a middle-aged woman whose life has been eventful. Her maiden name was Adams, and her birthplace was Braintree, Mass.

At 14 she married a Mr. Lyons, three times her age, and became a widow in 1886. About that time she entered the home of Dr. Edward Beecher, brother of Henry Ward Beecher, as a boarder. Alice Beecher, the doctor's only daughter, and Mrs. Lyons became fast friends. Alice died, and Mrs. Lyons remained with the bereaved parents, filling a daughter's part.

The doctor finally adopted her formally. In time the old couple passed away, and the adopted daughter, having changed her name to Voice Adams Beecher, inherited the Macon street home and a snug little bank account. She rented rooms to a few desirable people, and added to her income by working on a local newspaper.

No one knows exactly how Miss Beecher and Mr. Guilbert first met. But Guilbert registered at the Waldorf-Astoria, June 30, from Leadville, Col. He was a quiet, unassuming gentleman, seemingly about 50 years old. No one around the hotel saw much of him. He had no intimates and volunteered no confidences.

Ten days ago Guilbert gave up his room at the Waldorf-Astoria and departed, bag and baggage. To Mr. Mills, the mail clerk of the hotel, he said: "Please redirect my mail to Bangor, Me." This is the last seen of Mr. Guilbert.

Meanwhile Miss Beecher was preparing for the wedding. Then the telegram was received from Paul Smiths, announcing the fatal accident to Guilbert.

Miss Beecher was almost prostrated under the shock, but rallied, and in company with a woman friend left home, saying she would go to Paul Smiths and learn the particulars of Guilbert's death. The women returned with the seal of silence on their lips. They had absolutely nothing to say.

A nephew of Miss Beecher named Ensley, 18 years old, who lives at 328 Marion street, Brooklyn, is something of a detective, and he started investigations which yielded surprising results. It had been reported that Guilbert's body had been taken to Peekskill by friends and buried there.

Inquiry at Peekskill shows that Guilbert's body was not brought there. At Bangor, Me., where Guilbert's mail had been sent from the Waldorf-Astoria, according to his orders, no man of that name was known.

Dispatches to The World tell of two letters received at Bangor addressed to Guilbert which are still undelivered.

Advices from Paul Smiths, in the Adirondacks, deny the alleged shooting of Guilbert or anyone else in that locality. Guilbert is totally unknown there. To cap the climax, Guilbert, who was here reputed to be a prominent business man of Leadville, is unknown there.

Miss Beecher vehemently refused to talk about the remarkable case yesterday. "Nothing to say—not a word," was Miss Beecher's reply to all inquiries. Her sister, Mrs. Robert Toughlin, was equally reticent.

Funds Have Given Out.

Boston, Nov. 13.—Under orders from the navy department a force of over 100 skilled workmen at the Charlestown navy yard were discharged today by reason of a lack of funds to the credit of the department for its construction work. The navy yard force remaining will number from 650 to 700. The chief items of work this month are the refitting of the Machias for sea by Dec. 1 and the equipping of the training ship Chesapeake for commission on Dec. 15. The expenditures are limited to $50,000 monthly, but it is necessary to cut the figure to $33,000 in order to eke out available money until the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Perhaps Fatal Knockout.

New York, Nov. 13.—At the Pelican Athletic club's bouts in Brooklyn Saturday night, Harry Apfel and Jack Fox were matched at 138 pounds for 20 rounds. Apfel was knocked out in the 13th round, and lapsed into a state of coma, from which he has not yet recovered. It is claimed that when Apfel fell he struck his chin upon the floor, receiving a fracture. It is said that the chances of his recovery are small.

Thirteen Horses Burned.

SUNDAY CRIMES IN NEW ENGLAND.

A Number of Serious Cases In Which Pistols and Knives Figured.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 13.—A woman and a revolver made matters interesting and serious for T. E. Moran, a railroad employe, in this city last night. The woman, Mrs. Jennie Murray, with a 22-calibre weapon, made a desperate attempt to kill Moran by firing three shots at him. One bullet took effect in Moran's throat, and his condition is critical. The woman was locked up. The trouble is said to have grown out of Moran's intention of sending a letter and $20 to his wife and family in New Haven. Moran is 50 years old. Mrs. Murray is 38 years old, and is a French Canadian.

Boston, Nov. 13.—During a fight over a poker game, in the Brighton district, last night, Robert Johnson, colored, and Kate Clark, white, were wounded by bullets from a revolver used by Frank Lee, colored, of Cambridge. Lee, thinking he had killed the others, made his escape. The trouble occurred in Johnson's house, where a game of poker was being played. Johnson got angry, and, covering the stakes with one hand, drew a razor with the other, and made a slash at Lee. The latter drew a revolver, and fired four times, the Clark woman, who was Lee's companion, being struck in the cheek, and Johnson back of the right ear. The othre bullets went wild. Neither wound is serious, but the police are searching for Lee.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 13.—While visiting at the house of his brother Saturday evening, Frederick Mason stabbed William during a quarrel, and it is feared that the latter will not recover. The blade of the knife penetrated the lung in one instance, the other wound being in the knee. Mason will be held to await the result of his brother's injuries.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 13.—George F. Maguire stabbed his brother John yesterday afternoon, inflicting a wound which penetrated the abdominal cavity and is considered dangerous. Family quarrels and bad whisky caused the fracas.

Japan and Russia a Olds.

London, Nov. 13.—Hurry orders have been received by the builders of the Japanese battleship now in process of construction at Clyde bank to complete the vessel as speedily as possible. The new ship, which will be one of the largest afloat, is to be finished by January, 1900. It is believed that these instructions are the result of the increasing tension between Japan and Russia.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail says: An uneasy feeling regarding the relations of Russia and Japan is spreading here. There is no doubt that Japan is practically allied with China.

Aguinaldo Can't Be Found.

Manila, Nov. 13.—Colonel Bell's regiment and a small force of cavalry entered Tarlac last night without opposition. Where Aguinaldo, with his army and the so-called government, have fled, is a mystery.

BIT OF BOER HISTORY.

Frightful Suffering of Some Pioneers In South Africa.

IN QUEST OF A PROMISED LAND.

They Started With Large Hopes, but Were Stranded In the Heart of a Desert Where the Wells Had Given Out—Their Struggles and Privations.

During my residence at Walfisch Bay, southwest Africa, in 1880, where I had been appointed to represent the Cape government in Damaraland, I assisted in the dispatching and delivering of supplies and ammunition to the starving trek Boers, from whom I learned the following details of their five years' wandering and hardships in the Kalahari desert, writes W. L. Manning, formerly of the British consular service, in the Chicago Evening Post.

In 1875, two years prior to the first military invasion of the Transvaal by the British, notwithstanding the Dutch farmers had colonized and practically settled the whole of the Transvaal and Orange Free State, matters were not progressing at all well with them. In the Transvaal especially there were signs of deep discontent in many districts. There had been numerous small native wars in which the settlers had been "commandeered" and led against remote tribes, while their farms lay spoiling and neglected. The republic was well nigh bankrupt, and, the frontier Boers having always evinced the strongest objection to taxation in any form, taxes were only wrung from them with the greatest difficulty, those in faroff places often declining to pay at all.

Goldfields had been discovered in the eastern Transvaal, and foreign prospectors and diggers were already overrunning the soil. The Boer hates a coward. He loves to surround himself with a vast solitude, where the smoke of his neighbor's chimney is not visible and where, surrounded by his flocks, his herds and the members of his own family, he can live his ideal life. There was even talk of railways and other crazy innovations, and the Boers hated the very hint of such things.

As a consequence of all this a large number of discontented farmers gathered themselves with their wagons, wives and families and their flocks and herds upon the northwest border of the Transvaal, determined to set out for a new promised land. Their ideas were crude in the extreme. Many of them whose forefathers had been cut off from civilization for more than two centuries held a fixed idea that the sources of the Nile lay somewhere down toward South Africa. They expected to find the "Nyl," as they spelled it, somewhere to the north or northwest, and they fully expected, too, to find great snow mountains, beneath which lay fertile plains and valleys rich in pasturage and abounding in game.

In August, 1875, they were gathered together at Liclutsi, on the Crocodile river, but owing to the uncertainty of the reports as to the country they had to traverse this great assemblage stood for nearly two years idle upon the river, losing thousands of cattle from disease and the attacks of lions, besides many of their own lives from fever.

After obtaining permission, given only with great reluctance by the chief Khama, to cross the almost waterless desert of the North Kalahari, the Doorstland (Thirstland), as it is always called by the Boers, they made their first great objective point Inkouani and sent forward from Liclutsi 7,536 oxen and cows, 483 horses, 1,034 sheep and 30 donkeys, together with 486 fowls, ducks and geese. Then after sending on the bulk of their flocks and herds they followed themselves in three parties, each containing a large number of wagons. The time of the year was June, midwinter, and the driest season in South Africa, when no drop of rain might be expected to fall for months.

Inkouani is a waterway situated in the center of the Thirstland, lying 60 and 40 miles in each direction from the nearest water pits, neither of which affords any but the scantiest supplies. There are two deepish wells in limestone formation, sufficient perhaps to water five or six span of oxen at a pinch. Each Boer wagon, it must be remembered, is driven by a span of 16 or 18 oxen. The first party arrived at Inkouani only to find that the loose cattle sent in advance had drunk up all the water and yet had not been a tenth part of them satisfied.

These loose flocks and herds went wandering in search of water on an absolutely waterless veldt. Thousands of them perished, and only 926 out of over 7,000 head were ever recovered. There, stranded in the heart of the desert, were scores of wagons containing hundreds of farmers and their families. The scenes that followed beggar description. The very bushmen of the desert to this day speak of them with awe. The pits were already choked up with dead oxen which had fallen in in their struggles to obtain water. These were cut out piecemeal and the remnants of blood, filth and water scooped out.

For three days and nights the Boers drank the blood of slaughtered animals and the little water in their bellies. Mothers moistened the lips of their tender infants with blood and other dreadful substitutes for water. The blood was served around in tablespoons. Here you might see a group which had caught a sheep and were struggling for its warm blood, while others fought many for the paunch and its moisture. There the feebler of them cast themselves despairingly upon the sand and with big Dutch Bibles in front of them prepared for death. The bellowing of cattle frantic and dying, the bleating of agonized sheep and goats, the cries of suffering children, all combined to add to the horrors of that dreadful journey, a journey recalled only in years and sufferings by the 40 years' wandering of the Israelites in the Sinaitic wilderness.

But there were indomitable men and women still at work. Some few and their wagons had with incredible toil managed to reach T'klakani, 40 miles farther on. Others struggled forward on foot through the sandy waste. Some died, some few turned back, but the majority kept their faces doggedly westward and set their teeth and suffered. Numbers of wagons were abandoned; quantities of farming implements, furniture and cherished household goods were cast away. For years these impediments littered the desert.

The journey across this terrible bit of thirstland can, as a rule, be accomplished with stout oxen and constant trekking in about a week, but in the case of these poor people, sadly reduced and enfeebled as they were, the struggle lasted two and a half months. At last they struck the Botletli river, where to their incredible joy they found an abundant supply of water. Upon counting their losses it was found that 37 members of the expedition had perished from thirst and hardships and that nearly all of the flocks, herds and span oxen had vanished. From Sebituane's drift the Boers sent forward for aid from the party that had pioneered the way two years before. These sent them back 183 head of cattle, and, with the 926 stray cattle recaptured, the expedition, somewhat rested and recruited, proceeded slowly on.

Steadily pushing up the Okavango river, it presently turned south. Here again were terrible scenes enacted. Numbers were stricken with fever and dysentery, and the miserable sufferers wandered in their delirium into the bush and forest and perished. The oxen had eaten of some poisonous herbage and lay dead about the encampment in scores; yet the people were so reduced that they were found by the rescuing party eating the flesh of these festering carcasses. At Oliphant's Pan, where three hunters, Van Zyl, Botha and Laurens, found 106 elephants embogged in a marsh and shot them all within the day, 43 of the party died from fever, and at Witwater and other places their numbers were still further reduced.

In this desolate and unhealthy region the main body seems to have remained for nearly two years, matters steadily getting worse with them. Messages were sent to the Transvaal and the Cape begging for relief, and in 1880, thanks to the exertions of the Cape government, a quantity of supplies was with great difficulty forwarded to them via Walfisch bay. Finally the remnant of this disastrous expedition, after years of wandering and unheard of sufferings, bravely and stubbornly endured, settled themselves at Humpata, a little northeast of Mossamades, where since 1882 they have been quietly thriving by hunting, farming and occasionally assisting the Portuguese as mercenaries in native wars.

LONG ISLAND BEAUS IN LUCK

Babylon Giddy Girls' Darning Club Will Mend Hose For Charity.

A new social and charitable organization formed at Babylon, N. Y., is known as the Giddy Girls' Darning club. The club was formed after a fashionable function, at which it was noted that the hose of one of the beaus present was sadly in need of mending, a hole larger than a dime being distinctly visible, says the New York World. His attention being called to the orifice, he stammered that as yet he had no one to mend them. This set the maidens to thinking, and the G. G. D. C. was formed.

According to the bylaws any eligible young man who does not smoke, drink, play cards or do anything real naughty can become a patron of the society and have his socks darned by paying to the treasurer one dime per week. The funds raised will be devoted to charity. Among the young ladies prominent in the society are Miss Lillian Kellum, Miss Jessie Weeks, Miss Carrie Weeks, Miss Lutie Conklin, Miss Annie Oaks, Miss Minnie Pettit, Miss Annie Smith, Miss Nettie Scudder and Miss Bessie T. Weeks.

He has sent out consignments to China, where this new clothing is finding a large sale.

☞ The price of tin plate in England has increased a great deal more in the last year than has the price in the United States. Yet some badly informed persons are asking for the removal of the duty on tin plates because the price has been advancing in this country. Wages have been largely increased in the United States within that time, while they have been reduced 10 per cent. in Wales. The wages paid in this country are from 150 to 200 per cent. greater than in Wales. There is a trust in both countries. Tin plates of American manufacture are now sold for a good deal less than imported plates can be sold for. The American manufactures could materially raise their prices without fear of combetition, which demonstrates the falsity of the assertion that the tariff is being used to make undue exactions of American consumers.—Haverhill Gazette.

SENATOR M'MILLAN ON THE WORK.

Water Power Canals at Sault Ste. Marie That Will Accommodate Two Miles of Mills, With Lake Superior For a Mill Pond—Power Already Parceled Out.

Senator McMillan of Michigan has just made a trip to the upper peninsula of his state, and has found, according to a Washington dispatch to the New York Sun, that the present great prosperity of the United States is about to result in making Sault Ste. Marie one of the manufacturing centers of the country. This place, situated on the St. Mary's river, at a rather remote point of the national boundary, has escaped attention very largely since its boom fell flat about ten years ago. But with the revival of business new men have taken hold and the senator declares that he is astounded beyond measure at what he saw. A water power canal one and a quarter miles long is being cut on the American side, and one a half mile long has already been constructed on the Canadian side, where it runs a wood pulp mill for the company which is developing the water power. The same people are constructing a railroad from Sault Ste. Marie to Hudson bay, and by it rich deposits of iron, nickel and copper will be tapped and vast areas of timber land made tributary. The whole scheme, which is in the hands of one company, is expected to transform the American "Soo" and the Canadian "Soo" into one vast water mill, having Lake Superior for a mill pond and all the mineral and forest wealth of upper Michigan and Canada to draw upon for raw material.

The thing about it that pleased Senator McMillan more than anything else was the apparent total absence of the speculative incentive. The company, which is composed mostly of Philadelphia men, is incorporated under a special charter granted by the legislature of Connecticut, and is managed by a man from Maine. It pays spot cash for everything and already has its great enterprise so well advanced that its completion is only a matter of a few months. The water power canal on the American side will accommodate a row of mills directly upon its banks about a mile long, giving each a fall of water of 18 feet and in ample quantity. Yet all this power has already been parceled out to manufacturing concerns which will begin building as soon as the canal is completed. Six trains of cars work night and day upon the excavation, which is being cut through a soft shale. The work is proceeding along the whole line and has all been contracted for at a cost of $1,600,000. It appears to the unskilled observer to be at least two-thirds completed, although the contractors say it is only a little more than half done. The Hudson Bay railroad is already so far along that the rolling stock is on hand and in use. On the Canadian side the pulp mill turns out 150 tons of wood pulp per day, which is all shipped to Japan.

The Maine man who organized the company and manages the enterprise is F. H. Clergue, already a familiar figure to mining and iron men in the United States. He has rebuilt an ancient blockhouse on the Canadian side of the river, and there he centers the wires by which he reaches out to direct and control his work, from the factories of the Hudson Bay company to the paper mills of Japan, while tame bears sport and dig in front of his door and a St. Bernard, as big as a pony, lies at his feet. Science and fiction stand side by side on his bookshelves, and in a laboratory big enough for an ordinary college 15 chemists and explorers unite their efforts in defining the value of the mineral grants the Hudson Bay railroad has received from the Canadian government. One iron mountain which cost $500 is still in Mr. Clergue's hands, although he has refused an offer of $700,000 for it. Mr. Clergue is described as a man well equipped to assimilate all the information that comes to him from his laboratory, and withal he is an inventor, having devised several of the machines used in the pulp mill. When the American water power is ready, he will erect an immense pulp mill on that side and commence to convert Hudson bay timber into paper from which the people of New York, Chicago and San Francisco may read the news on the same day.

Senator McMillan found a peculiar fascination in studying the work that is about to rear a great manufacturing center in that northern wilderness, because it brings to realization a dream of his own. The present city of Sault Ste. Marie, with its 8,000 or 10,000 inhabitants, is the direct result of the railroad which the senator built into the then struggling village. The international railroad bridge there was also his enterprise, but the company which first endeavored to develop the water power there failed, and the growth of the place was checked until the present national boom sent the man from Maine looking for a water power, upon a transcontinental route, suitable to the manufacture of wood pulp, and when he found one almost rivaling Niagara he proved equal to the task of developing it.

Senator McMillan makes no estimate of the size of the city he expects to see grow there, but he points to the great extent of the water power soon to be available, to the mines and timber almost without limit in adjacent territory on both sides of the river and to the fact that by means of electricity factories of various kinds can secure power over an area not less than 15 miles in diameter.

Temper of Leaders Is Not to Rush Into a Strike.

Almost Certain That Advance Will Not Be Granted Under Present Conditions.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 14.—C. C. Rounseville, secretary of the Manufacturers' association, received a communication last night from Secretary James Whitehead of the Textile council, notifying the mill men of the action of the representatives of the operatives at Sunday's meeting of the council. The letter was substantially the same as the draft of the vote given out by the council, and is very formal in its nature.

But by the decision of the council the manufacturers are given until Nov. 23 to make reply to the new demand, and in case of a refusal it calls upon the operatives to leave their work on the morning of Dec. 11. A proposition by which the whole matter may be settled by arbitration is included in the communication.

The decision of the council is the talk of the city. It would be regarded by many as a direct threat of strike if it were not for the saving clause, suggesting arbitration in case the manufacturers cannot see their way clear to grant an increase otherwise.

"We are so sure of the strength of our case," said a Textile council delegate, "that we had no hesitation in offering to allow the whole wage question to be decided by an impartial board of arbitration. We feel certain of a favorable decision from any arbitration committee, and we will abide by its decision."

The council, it will be noticed, leaves plenty of time between the time at which the manufacturers must reply and that at which the operatives must leave work. This is necessary, as the various unions must meet to take action after the reply of the mill men is received.

It is stated that there is but little prospect of M. C. D. Borden, managing owner of the large Iron Works plant in this city, which is outside the Manufacturers' association, of voluntarily increasing the wages of his employes, and thus settling the wage difficulty in this city.

Should the manufacturers continue in their refusal to advance wages, all hopes of avoiding a strike are not lost, even though the Textile council's action of Sunday seems very strong. With winter at hand and operatives conscious that they can get steady work at the present rates there is a strong feeling that radical action will be deferred. It is entirely possible, also, that now it having been shown by the members of the Textile council that business is meant by the formal demand and threat, the manufacturers will begin work in earnest to offset the labors of those who have agitated the advance among the operatives.

It will be four weeks at least before the worst can happen, and in the meantime some plan may be evolved that will appear fair to both sides. The temper of the leaders is not to rush into a strike, and while none of them admit it, it is thought that some slight concession in the way of a promise to the members of the unions will stem the desire for fight that is growing.

That manufacturers will not advance wages while the margin between cotton and cloth is as low as it is at present is almost a certainty. The men who usually advise conciliation, even at a business loss, are not willing to take part in any attempt to raise wages now. They may later on, but their talk at the present time is stiff and in some cases bitter. Some of them want to get to work on a sliding scale at once, and to insist upon its enforcement if an advance is to be enforced by the annulment of contracts that must come with a strike. Others are openly reconciled to a strike, believing that it will not last two weeks in most of the mills. But, as a rule, most of them want no trouble and are ready to get to work among the operatives to prevent it if necessary by personal appeals to the public who must be affected.

Some of the treasurers of the mills speak as if the operatives in their mills would not strike if the council finally decided on that course, but it has been the history of things here that opinions of operatives who do not want to strike change rapidly to the union side of the issue. As a rule, manufacturers do not think it necessary at this time to arbitrate the question of wages. In principle they agree with the unions that arbitration is a good thing, but many feel that it would be next to impossible to get five men capable of handling the question who would be willing to serve in a time of stress like the present.

If the committee on arbitration was to act on the merits of disputed questions arising while a sliding scale was being discussed, it would be impossible to get good men to serve, but there is always so much feeling on the wage question that service is likely to be uncertain. If no agreement between the parties can be brought about without the services of an arbitrator it may be decided to try them, but for the most part the impression exists among the mill men that some way will be seen out of the present difficulty without either side receding markedly from its position.

It has been agreed among some of the mill men that the less that is said in a public way about the situation as it now stands the better for all concerned. These men feel that the executive committee will see some way out of the difficulty in a few days, and will then call the association together.

The death of Mrs. Sarah Allison, who passed away at her home on Garfield street, Saturday, at the advanced age of 71 years, removes a lady who will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends. Mrs. Allison was born in Scotland and came to Quincy nearly forty years ago with her husband. Mr. Allison was a quarryman and was employed by McKenzie & Paterson, and was killed by an explosion twenty-five years ago, leaving a large family. Mrs. Allison had a hard struggle during the years following her husband's death and few could have withstood the trial. Mrs. Allison has been ailing for a year, but was able to be about until a week prior to her death, when she took to her bed. She leaves five children, three daughters and two sons, one son and daughter being at home.

Political.

Republican caucuses tomorrow night, and Democratic Thursday night.

Dr. Elmer R. Johnson's name was presented in Ward Five as a Republican, candidate for Councilman without his written acceptance, and he has declined to be a candidate.

Sewer Appropriation.

And now comes the report that the Sewer Commissioners have a number of outstanding bills, which, with the transfer of $5,000 to the Street department, will leave a deficiency in their department.

MANY CONTESTS.

For the Republican Caucuses This Week.

Some Over Delegates and Some Over Ward Committees

Plenty of Candidates in All Wards for City Council.

Nominations for the Republican caucuses were opened last evening, and no additonal names will be printed upon the ballots to be used at the caucuses on Wednesday evening.

Only three wards will have contests for Mayorality delegates, Wards Two, Three and Four.

In the Quincy Point ward the first list, headed by John S. Gay, is "favorable to John O. Hall," and the second list headed by Frank E. Burrell is "favorable to Fred L. Jones."

In the West Quincy ward both lists are unknown yet the preferences are said to be well understood.

In the Wollaston and Atlantic wards the single lists are unlabelled, but are recognized to be in favor of Mr. Hall.

For Councilmen, each ward except Ward Four, the Republicans will have the choice from lists of 4, 5, 6 and 7, the last number being nominated in Ward One.

There will be no contest in the caucuses for School Committee either in Ward Four or Six.

In Wards One and Four there are contests over Ward Committees, each ward having two complete lists.

The Democrats also have contests in some of the wards.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. THE SIEGE IS STILL ON.

No News Received From Ladysmith Since Nov. 6.

Father Matthews Tells a Rather Unpleasant Story.

Flag of Truce Was Hoisted at Nicholson's Nek Without Orders.

Says That British Prisoners Are Being Well Treated by Their Captors.

London, Nov. 14.—Though the brief news received from the seat of war is encouraging to the more enthusiastic persons, it is nevertheless received without excitement by conservative folk. They refer one to the experiences of the past, urging the idea that one should not jump at conclusions from the meagre details supplied.

Dispatches say that heliograph communication has been established with Ladysmith, but so far no news has been received, the latest date being Nov. 6, which shows that the occupants of Ladysmith had no news of the outside world since General French reached Pietermaritzburg, and that they were puzzled at the inactivity of the Boers. Everyone was confident and cheerful, but all were suffering the inconveniences of the siege, bread selling at 3 shillings per loaf.

Colonel Baden-Powell's dashing sorties at Mafeking encourage the hope that the British garrisons along the western border are well able to hold out.

Cecil Rhodes is employing 8000 men, white and black, at Kimberley in road making as a remedy for destitution.

According to a dispatch from De Aar the Boers at Kimberley have got the exact range of the mines and are constantly throwing shells at the dynamite huts. Several of the latter have been blown up; and the damage done to the mines already amounts to many thousand pounds.

Among the stories from Brussels is one that General Joubert and General White have been endeavoring to negotiate for the capitulation of Ladysmith, but have failed to come to terms.

The story of Father Matthews, cabled from Ibrenzo Marques, regarding the surrender at Nicholson's Nek is too vague to be very convincing; but, in military circles, it is considered unpleasant reading, and it will be impossible to learn the facts until the officer concerned has been court-martialed.

The report that the British cruiser Magicienne had fired on the French steamer Cordoba raises the doubtful point whether Great Britain has yet actually declared war. It is believed, however, that European nations have been made acquainted with the severance of relations between Great Britain and the two republics. It is understood that the admiralty, on General Buller's advice, has arranged that cruisers at the Cape should go out to intercept all arriving transports and inform them of the latest orders respecting their destination, which are to be kept secret.

A dispatch from Cape Town announces the arrival there of the troopship Armenian, with three batteries of artillery and an ammunition column, and the troopship Nubia, with the Scots guards and half a battalion of the Northamptonshire regiment. This brings the total number of reinforcements to 12,802, of which about 6000 are already on the way to Durban. The Armenian and Nubia, whose troops belong to the first division, will probably also be ordered to proceed. Nine troopships, carrying 11,000 men, are due at Cape Town today.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking last evening at Bristol, said: "The war in South Africa has destroyed both conventions with the Transvaal. We must establish there a pure and honest government on the basis of equal rights, and on something more enduring than paper safeguards. Subject to this, we should give whatever self-government may be possible in South Africa. No one desires that great country to be governed permanently from Downing street."

The Paris papers protest against the stopping of the French steamer Cordoba by the British third-class cruiser Magicienne off Lorenzo Marquise. The Petit Bleu says: This arbitrary act of England requires an apology to the French government and indemnity to the owners of the Cordoba and to the authorities.

The Soleil and the Echo De Paris protest in similar terms. The Matin demands that an investigation be made, as there is no effective blockade, otherwise the authorities would have been notified.

The Gaulois does not consider the incident serious.

A dispatch from Lorenzo Marquez says that Father Matthews, chaplain of the Irish fusiliers, who was captured at Nicholson's Nek, complains that though General Joubert promised to allow him to return to the British camp, he was taken to Pretoria. The secretary of war released him two days after his arrival, and he was permitted to leave. He admits that the British prisoners are well cared for.

Father Matthews says, with reference to the surrender of the Irish fusiliers and the Gloucestershire troops at Nicholson's Nek, that after the mules stampeded the force got hard pressed by the enemy. They would have held out, however, but some subordinate, without instructions, hoisted a flag of truce on his own responsibility. Nothing then remained but to surrender.

"We were sent out," says Father Matthews, "to occupy a position with the object of preventing two Boer forces from joining. We started at 8:30 Sunday evening, marched 10 miles and got to the hill about 1 o'clock Monday morning.

"The first mishap was that the mountain battery stampeded and scattered the whole lot of mules. We formed up again and gained the top of the hill. The guns were gone, but not all the ammunition. I do not know what stampeded the mules. It was pitch dark.

"We had one hour sleep. The firing began just after daybreak, being somewhat slack for a time. But finally the Boers crept round and then the firing became furious. Our men made a breastwork of stones.

"Soon after 12 o'clock noon there was a general cry of 'cease fire,' but our fellows would not stop firing. Major Adye came up and confirmed the order, and then the bugle sounded, 'Cease fire.'

"In our locality there was a rumor that a white flag was raised by a young officer who thought his batch of 10 men were the sole survivors; but we were 900 alive, having started with perhaps 1000. I think many of the battery men escaped.

"Our officers and men were furious at the surrender. The Boers did not seem to be in great numbers on the spot; but I heard their main body had galloped off. Our men had to give up their arms, and the officers were sent to Commandant Steenkamp. The officers then ordered the men to fall in.

"The officers were taken away from the men and sent to General Joubert the same day, traveling in mule wagons and sleeping that night in some store on the way. The next morning they took a train at Waschbank for Pretoria. They are very well treated, and so, I have heard, are the men.

"There has been no unpleasantness in Pretoria. The officers are in a school building and are allowed to walk as they please in the grounds.

"The surrender, in my judgment, was a great blunder, caused by a misunderstanding. Major Adye was much put out. The white flag was not hoisted by the Irish fusiliers."

A Stubbornly Contested Case.

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 14.—Sensational evidence was adduced yesterday in the noted Hillman insurance case, in which Mrs. Sallie Hillman, for the fifth time in 20 years, is suing eastern insurance companies to recover on policies held by her husband, John W. Hillman, who disappeared in 1879. Arthur Simmons, a Leavenworth cigar manufacturer, swore positively that Adolph Walters worked for him in May, 1879. This was two months after the insurance companies allege that Walters was killed by Hillman and one Brown. Simmons showed his books of 20 years ago to prove that Walters worked for him at that time. The main point of the insurance companies has been to prove that Hillman, Brown and Levi Baldwin were in a conspiracy, and that they killed Walters to pass his body off for that of Hillman. The insurance, with accrued interest, now amounts to nearly $100,000.

Heavy Robbery of Diamonds.

Cleveland, Nov. 14.—Diamonds valued at $30,000 were stolen yesterday from the store of Sigler Bros. Three men entered the store, which is on the second floor. One of the trio stood at the elevator cage and the other two entered the Siglers' office. One of the strangers engaged the attention of the clerks and the other talked to Mr. Sigler, at whose side was a box containing the diamonds. Sigler's attention was attracted elsewhere for a moment, and upon turning to his supposed customer both men had fled, and the box of jewels was gone. The police have no clue.

Ou ccme of Evil Passion.

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 14.—Charles Cross, the youthful farm hand, has admitted to detectives that he killed Mrs. Sarah King, his aged employer, at her home in the Farms district. The murderer is but 17 years of age, while his victim was over 70. Medical Examiner Sherrill testified that death was caused by a blow on the head by a blunt instrument, which caused a hemorrhage of the brain. He also testified to evidences of an attempt of a criminal assault on the aged woman.

Shot Seven of One Family.

Caruthersville, Mo., Nov. 14.—At a levee camp below here Charles Pearman became angry with a family named Poe, went to Poe's tent with a double-barreled shotgun and fired both barrels into the tent, dangerously wounding seven out of the family of nine. One small child was instantly killed, one has since died and the mother is not expected to live. Pearman took refuge in a forest. A posse followed and captured him and he is now in jail here.

Forty-Third Infantry Moves.

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 14.—Ten companies of the Forty-third infantry of volunteers left here last night for New York, where they will embark for Manila on the transport Meade. The men were recruited at Fort Ethan Allen, and left here on three special trains. The reports that there had been many desertions here previous to starting proved untrue, as 1091 of the 1060 were on hand and started. The regiment is under the command of Colonel Murray.

Burned to Death.

Greenfield, Mass., Nov. 14.—Thomas Moore, aged 45, unmarried, was burned to death yesterday in a fire in a house in which he was a lodger. The fire was insignificant, but it was not known that Moore was in the house until after the fire. Apparently he had tried to escape from the house, but the smoke overpowered him and the flames later burned the flesh.

Buffalo Has the Measles.

Buffalo, Nov. 14.—Buffalo's epidemic of measles is spreading, and new cases are being reported at an alarming rate. During the past three days 68 new cases have been reported to the health department, and it is believed that there are many cases which have not been reported. This makes a total of 237 cases reported since Oct. 1.

Corbett to Tackle Jeffries.

New York, Nov. 14.—George Considine, manager of Jim Corbett, yesterday handed Al Smith a certified check for $5000, which he posted with a challenge for Corbett to fight Jim Jeffries within the next seven months. Brady will meet Corbett on Friday, and, after covering his forfeit, will arrange details with him for a fight.

NOVEL TOBACCO EXHIBIT

One Is Being Prepared For the Paris Exposition.

VARIED AND EXTENSIVE SHOWING.

Collection Which Is to Represent the Tobaccos of the United States Will Include About 1,000 Samples—The Industry to Be Shown by Photographs—Foreign Types.

The leaf tobacco exhibit for the Paris exposition of 1900 is now being prepared for shipment in the division of soils of the department of agriculture at Washington. This will be, without doubt, the finest collection ever exhibited by the United States. It includes the varieties, grades, types and qualities of tobaccos from all of the principal tobacco growing sections of the United States, says the Washington Star. The display will comprise only the raw material, supplemented by a large collection of photographs, and in a few instances samples illustrating the different stages of the tobacco in the process of manufacturing.

The leaf tobacco exhibit is under the immediate direction of Professor Milton Whitney, chief of the division of soils, assisted by Mr. Marcus L. Floyd, tobacco expert of that division. All of the important tobacco growing districts were visited by Mr. Floyd during July and August, when material was collected for this exhibit. Neither time nor labor has been spared to make this display a credit to the United States at large and to those who have aided in the work in particular.

To the most casual observer the collection of samples now being packed for shipment would prove interesting. The variety of shading, from the bright yellow and white Burley to the dark wrappers and African black, immediately attracts the eye. Add to this the uniformity of the arrangement of the samples, the difference in texture of the thin and heavy leaves, the various qualities and the large number of grades, and the display is readily considered an excellent one. The lover of the plug, the cigarette, the pipe and the expensive Havana will find his special "weed" in the raw material. The stogies, snuffs and pipe smoking tobaccos are also represented in the collection. To the smoker of the good and poor tobacco, and to those interested in the tobacco trade, this exhibit will prove of great interest and a source of useful study.

The differences in the foreign types are worthy of consideration. These are not foreign in the sense that they are grown in other lands, but in the sense that they are cured and manipulated according to the demands of the foreign trade. To the general public a difference is at times hardly perceptible, but to the trade the slightest shade of color and thickness of body of the leaf, and often the length, are taken into account. England takes all kinds of our tobaccos, while Austria prefers the medium colors with a long, broad, silky leaf, with small fibers. The dark brown types find the highest favor among the Italians, and the French like a still darker leaf, long and smooth, about the same in quality as the Italian, but made darker by stemming and hard pressure. Spain prefers a fine, leafy plug, such as is grown in Kentucky and Tennessee, while Portugal requires a medium sized, red leaf. Belgium, Denmark and Norway use all grades of the bright tobaccos, and Holland and Sweden prefer the dark, heavy types. The low grades find favor among the Germans, Japanese and Chinese, while the African, true to his colors, is satisfied with and demands a black, oily type.

All of the tobacco sections have displayed much concern in this exhibit and have shown much pride in the arrangement of the samples contributed. The displays are of what is known as the manufactured and export types, such as are used for cigarettes, snuff, plug, chewing and pipe smoking and export tobaccos.

The tobacco exhibit will be accompanied by many photographs illustrating the tobacco industry from seed bed to finish. The finest types, so far as price is concerned, will be furnished in the form of the Cuban and Sumatra varieties, which are equal in quality to the imported goods. The exhibit will also be supplemented by tobacco in the various stages of curing, manipulation and fermentation and by literature relating to tobacco in all its branches.

The collection will include about 1,000 samples and it will soon be ready for shipment. The exhibit is to represent the various tobaccos of the United States rather than the display of any particular firm. With a few exceptions the samples are in duplicate, the duplicates to be reserved for the judges of awards. Both the secretary of agriculture and Mr. Charles Richards Dodge, the representative and director of the agricultural exhibit, have expressed themselves as being thoroughly pleased with the work of the division of soils in the exhibit prepared for Paris.

English Interest In War Maps.

One remarkable result of the Transvaal war has been to make the English people study the geography of South Africa in a way which they never studied it before. Go where you will, to suburb or to the heart of the city, in the window of nearly every stationer and in the window of nearly every newspaper office you will find a "war map," and gathered around you will see a deeply interested crowd. The crowds before the windows in which photographs of Dreyfus were exhibited were considerable, but they were not so big or so interested as the crowds around the war maps.—London Mail.

Secrets.

Women can keep secrets. They often keep secret for a long time the fact that they are suffering from drains, inflammation, ulceration, or female weakness. But they can't keep the secret very long, because the hollow eyes, cheeks that have lost their freshness, and the irritability which comes from sorely tried nerves, all conspire to publish the story of suffering. The usual motive for such secrecy, dread of indelicate questions and offensive examinations, is removed by Dr. Pierce's methods. Diseases of the womanly organs are perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"Your wonderful medicine, 'Favorite Prescription,'" writes Mrs. C. N. Anderson, of Rockbridge Baths, Rockbridge Co., Va., "is a God-send to weak and sickly women, restoring good health without subjecting their weak nerves to the shock of an examination. I was all run down in health; could not work but a short time without resting. Was very nervous and had a very poor appetite. I decided to write to Dr. Pierce and state my case, and am thankful that I did, for I received a favorable reply. I took six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and one vial of 'Pellets,' and I can now work as well as I could before I was taken sick. I think Dr. Pierce's medicine the best in the world for sick and nervous women."

Drift of Opinion.

☞Henceforth it must be "commercial traveler," and not the old familiar "drummer." The Associated Press has ordered its correspondents to use hereafter the former term in preference to the latter. We shall miss the drummer. Sometimes he was fresh and fast, and his glass diamond and tall hat were distinguishing features but he was always a good fellow in spots, and he threw in good stories with his wares.—Kennebec Journal.

☞Mayorality candidate Murphy knows a thing or two about Democratic politics in the city of Boston, and so being forewarned believes in being forearmed, which is why he has asked for police protection to prevent repeating in the Democratic municipal caucuses this week. He knows "how the old thing works" if let alone to accomplish its errand of mercy. — Milford Journal.

☞The secret of the influence of the Bible is found in its character. It is a collection of the world's best literature. The psalms of David, the proverbs of Solomon, the book of Job, the creation epic in Genesis, parts of Daniel and many other passages are wonderful productions. The Bible is also wonderful as a collection of biographies of all kinds men, and is full of accurate portrayals of human nature. The memoirs of Nehemiah, the reform governor of Jerusalem, are artless and free from self-consciousness. Paul was a born orator and knew well how to emphasize the agreement between himself and the audience before passing to the new teachings that he wished to impart.—Melrose Reporter.

☞This must always be said of Superintendent Andrews of Chicago, that if he does sometimes say and do things that startle or even shock the conservative members in the profession, even if he makes some mistakes, he says more good things, and does more that is praiseworthy than a dozen ordinary men and women who never make mistakes. It was Henry Ward Beecher who said that a very stupid fellow can carry a little milk in a pan without spilling it, but no one can carry a full pan without slopping over sometimes. —Journal of Education.

GRAND ARMY FAIR.

Auspicious Opening at Music Hall.

Department Commander Gilman and Others Speak.

Singing and Tableaux by Lincoln School Children.

Paul Revere Post 88 G. A. R., is holding its annual grand fair in Music hall, and it was auspiciously opened last evening.

The post, headed by the City Band, made a short march early in the evening, to inspiring tunes. Fireworks were discharged along the route, and it was an enthusiastic time. They arrived at the hall about 7.30, and when the opening exercises took place a little after 8 o'clock, the hall was crowded.

Commander Warner spoke briefly. He said last year the net receipts of the fair were $478, but $600 had been required for aid rendered during the year, and the Post hoped to realize more this year.

Col. Edward Anderson spoke enthusiastically, and was followed by Mrs. Gilman, Senior Vice President of the Woman's Relief corps of Massachusetts, and John E. Gilman, Commander of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R.

Then the Star Spangled Banner was sung, the solo by Miss Annie Roche, and near the close there was a surprise, the curtain rising and disclosing a pretty tableaux. In the front was the one arm soldier, Department Commander Gilman; in the rear as the central figure, the Goddess of Liberty impersonated by Miss Catherine Roche; on the right and left was an armed soldier, and they were flanked by a bevy of girls from the Lincoln school dressed in white, trimmed with National colors and carrying flags.

The fair was then declared formally opened by Department Commander Gilman.

The tables for the sale of the various articles are arranged on the sides and end of the hall. Those in charge are as follows:

A WORD OF CAUTION.

With a loved one lying on a bed of sickness you call a Physician in whom you have confidence to prescribe at the bedside. The Pharmacist who fills that Physician's prescription should be one in whom you have the same degree of confidence. You would not call a dry goods drummer to prescribe for that loved one. Do not go to a grocery store to have medicine for the sick one dispensed.

ONE WORD MORE.

THE M'GIFFERT CASE,

Presbytery Considers It Expedient to Shelve It For the Present.

May Come Before the General Assembly Next May.

Accused Steadfastly Refuses to Recede From the Stand He Has Taken.

New York, Nov. 14.—The case of Professor Arthur C. McGiffert of the Union theological seminary, who is charged with holding views that are at variance with the doctrines of the Presbyterian church, came before the Presbytery yesterday, and action was taken which will probably result in a reference to the general assembly.

PROFESSOR M'GIFFERT.

A committee was appointed last June to confer with Professor McGiffert and prevail upon him to withdraw from the church, came before the Presbytery Meetings have been held which Professor McGiffert attended, but he steadfastly refused to recede from the stand he had taken on certain church matters, saying that he had been misunderstood. The general assembly prepared expressly for Professor McGiffert's case an outline of the fundamental principles of the church. These were:

1—That the statements of the Holy Scriptures are absolutely truthful, i. e., free from error when interpreted in their natural and intended sense.

2—That in Jesus Christ there were two perfect and distinct natures, the Godhead and the manhood being, inseparately joined together in one person, without conversion or confusion, so that he was in no particular liable to error.

3—That the Lord's supper was instituted by the direct and personal act of Jesus Christ, to be observed in his church unto the end of the world, and,

4—That God justified men by imputing the obedience and satisfaction of Christ to them; they receiving and resting upon him in all his righteousness by faith, which faith they received as the gift of God.

It is only the last of these statements that Professor McGiffert accepts as it stands.

The committee to whom the matter was referred was composed of Rev. Dr. Robert F. Sample, chairman; Rev. Dr. John B. Shaw, Rev. Dr. R. R. Booth, and Rev. Dr. John C. Bliss, and the following elreds: William Magie, Oscar E. Boyd and Titus B. Meigs. This committee presented its report to the Presbytery yesterday.

The report was voluminous. Its essence was that the case should be referred to the general assembly, which meets at St. Louis next May. The report was ordered to be printed for private distribution among the members of the Presbytery, and made the order of the day of the December meeting.

At the conclusion of the reading of the report, Professor Francis Brown, Rev. Dr. Howard A. Johnston and Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke read suggestions in which it was advised that the controversy over Professor McGiffert be dropped.

The papers were in substance alike. Dr. Van Dyke said that while a majority did not agree with Professor McGiffert the wisdom of a heresy trial was doubtful, and might result in harm to the Presbyterian cause. In view of preparations for a series of Presbyterian revivals in this city this fall and winter, the postponement of the discussion of the subject and the reference to the general assembly is thought desirable.

Plant Will May Be Contested.

New York, Nov. 14.—The Tribune says that the will of Henry B. Plant, the steamship and hotel owner, who died in Connecticut on June 24 last, leaving an estate of several millions, is likely to be contested by his widow, who, it is said, is not satisfied with the allowance of $30,000 per year bequeathed to her. A few days before Mr. Plant died he got up from a sick bed and hurried to New Haven, where he made his will, entailing his property. This act of Mr. Plant prompted the suspicion that his mind was partly unbalanced.

Made a Business of Bigamy.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—James Monroe, who is said to have wives in half a dozen cities, and who is also wanted for a number of alleged swindling operations, has been arrested here and will be held pending the arrival of officers from Rochester, where he will be tried on charges of bigamy and swindling. Monroe is said to have conducted his operations through various matrimonial bureaus. In a satchel of Monroe's were found several hundred letters from women all over this country, accepting Monroe's advertised proposals.

Killed by a Cave-In.

Boston, Nov. 14.—Antonio Lonares, who was employed with other workmen digging a trench on the Ward estate, in Dorchester, was buried in a cave-in yesterday, and was killed before he could be released. He was covered by 12 feet of earth.

WRECK OF THE CHARLESTON.

One of Our Finest Cruisers Strikes a Reef While Patrolling Asiatic Waters.

Manila, Nov. 14.—The United States cruiser Charleston, which had been patrolling the northern coast of Luzon, was wrecked on a reef off the northwest coast on Nov. 7.

All of her officers and crew have been saved.

The Charleston has been in Asiatic waters more than a year. She was one of the first vessels to be sent to Manila after the destruction of the Spanish fleet by Admiral Dewey. She carried ammunition and other supplies for the Asiatic station. Previous to sailing for Manila she had been overhauled at the Mare Island navy yard, and was in prime condition. The Charleston belonged to that class of vessels commonly referred to as the "new navy." She had a full complement of officers and crew. The naval register issued at the beginning of the present year gives her commander as Captain William H. Whiting, and her lieutenant commander Gottfried Blockinger.

The cruiser Charleston, which was built in San Francisco in 1888, had a displacement of 3730 tons, was 312 feet 7 inches in length, 46 feet 2 inches in beam, and 21 feet 6 inches in draught. She was of steel, having two propellers, one funnel and two masts with military tops.

She had the following armament: Two eight-inch guns, six six-inch guns, four six-pounders, two three-pounders, six one-pounders, two machine guns and one light gun, with four torpedo tubes. She had a complement of 306.

As Viewed by a Britisher.

London, Nov. 14.—A British naval officer, who has just returned from a town in the Philippines, has been interviewed regarding the situation there. He thinks that more river gunboats are needed, and that General Otis is trying to run the campaign too economically. Paying a high tribute to the "surprising intelligence and confidence of the American soldier," the officer says: "Patience and bravery the American soldier has shown in a high degree; but he would be more efficacious if, instead of being collected in comparatively enormous numbers, he was used in smaller forces, moving more rapidly and living on the country, instead of requiring vast quantities of potted luxuries. Moreover, he looks tired and as if he wanted something to do. Except for an occasional game of baseball there is nothing for him to do but to drink. Now if he were a British soldier he would be diverted by all sorts of sports."

Midgley Deeply In Debt.

New York, Nov. 14.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday by William E. Midgley of this city, with liabilities of $1,716,039, of which $274,762 is nominally secured. The value of assets is not given. Midgley was president of the American Casualty Insurance and Security company, which collapsed in 1894 after its $1,700,000 capital and surplus had been expended. Midgley, with three others, were indicted in connection with the failure. Midgley attributed his trouble to the enmity of Austin Corbin. A jury in the general sessions declared Midgley not guilty. Midgley then sued the Long Island Railroad company for $250,000 for false arrest and he got a verdict for $20,000.

Kentucky Muddle Continues.

Louisville, Nov. 14.—The tangle growing out of last week's election grows worse with each day. The third day of the official count disclosed little information to clear the situation. Chairman Long of the Republican campaign committee repeats his claim of a plurality of 3111 for Taylor, based on official returns from 110 counties and unofficial returns from the remaining nine. The Democratic papers and leaders here have ceased to give figures, but specials from Frankfort quote Candidate Goebel and other party leaders as saying they are confident of Goebel's success.

Shot In Rifle Range.

Boston, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Hannah Hazard, aged 19, was shot with a rifle in the hands of Mrs. Irene A. Potter, aged 23, last night, at a rifle range in Hanover place. Both women are employed at the range. The latter was examining a rifle which had missed fire, when it was discharged, the Flobert bullet striking Mrs. Hazard in the abdomen. The shooting was accidental, but Mrs. Potter and W. F. Rudd, who ran the range, were arrested.

Disaster Off Casquet Rocks.

London, Nov. 14.—On Friday night the Belgian steamer Belgique, Antwerp for Alexandria, foundered off the Casquet rocks, near the island of Alderney. The night was stormy. A boat was launched with 16 men, but five of these died of exhaustion and three others were drowned in the endeavor of the ship Saint Kilda to rescue them. Eighteen persons, including the captain, out of a total crew of 26, are believed to have been drowned.

Two Fighters Killed.

Shamokin, Pa., Nov. 14.—While John Younsk and Conrad Winske were engaged in a fist fight on the Pennsylvania and Reading railroad track near Enterprise an express train ran them down and instantly killed them both. The men had been at a Hungarian christening, and becoming involved in a quarrel they walked down the railroad to fight it out. The fighters were not seen in time by the engineer to stop the train.

On Charge of Forgery.

Berlin, N. H., Nov. 14.—M. J. McLeod, who was arrested on a charge of forgery in using the name of James R. Gordon as claimant for life insurance on a policy made out to an alleged brother, was given a hearing yesterday. The testimony given was quite damaging to McLeod, and he was held in $1000 for the February term of the grand jury.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

The temperature has risen in the central valley and the lake region, and is 15 to 20 degrees above the seasonal average in the middle Mississippi and extreme lower Missouri valleys. The lower Missouri valley disturbance will move eastward and will cause rain in the New England states Wednesday. A marked rise in temperature will occur in the Atlantic states. Along the New England coast the winds will be light and variable.

MAN AND THE NATION

THE PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY OF EACH INDIVIDUAL.

The Social Organism Is What We Make It, and We Neglect It For the Ego—As a People We Have No Ideal—We Refuse to Hear the Other Fellow.

[Special Correspondence.]

One of our shrewdest reform editors (and we don't have one-tenth as many as we need) has recently expressed himself as follows: "No; to our mind it is utterly useless to strive forcing an ideal principle on an unideal people. It is bound to be as prolific of results as the proverbial casting pearls before swine. Swine don't want pearls. Swine prefer swill. The great majority of our people don't want an ideal condition of life, not if it costs them a dollar or an hour of self denial to bring it." These emphatic thoughts are copied from the Hartford Weekly Examiner.

Grant for a moment that those thoughts represent something of an exaggeration; grant that they only embody an approximation of conditions in all our so called advanced nations; grant that we are not any worse than the best nations abroad or that we are even somewhat better. After we have granted all that let us localize our minds on our home evils, the only ones we can suppress, after all, because it is only through the power of good example that we can improve the nations abroad. We can hardly do it by becoming heroes on battlefields of wholesale murder and destruction. All such heroes shall occupy very humble seats in heaven if they have squeezed themselves through the portals.

Yes; let us look around and see if there is anything wrong among us. We can only do that by first dropping the spectacles of race infatuation. Commence by taking any few friends when they talk with each other on any subject above the level of gossip or fun. You can then notice that each one of them has but one ideal in his talk, that of carrying his point. In his fervor to accomplish that he seldom allows his antagonist to finish his own thoughts. Much less does he stop a few seconds after the thoughts are uttered to let his own mind gather the spirit of what his friend has said, because it takes time to even grasp concepts after they have been stated orally or seen in writing. Besides, our defective human language often gives to the same words different meanings or applications. In the heat of our discussions or in the hurry with which we devour most of what we read we generally take the concepts and words of our antagonist not in the way to give him the benefit of the best spirit for the purpose of his illustrating some truth, but for that of carrying our point and for self flattery. Is it not the letter that kills? Is it not the spirit that verifies?

And do you know why it is that our discussions, verbal or written, are seldom quiet and self collected? We refer to discussions on social subjects. Our absence of consideration for what we say along that line springs up from our desire to repudiate all personal complicity in our public wrongs. But how could such wrongs exist without the personal equation of every one of us in the making up of our social adjustments through laws, through politics—that politics, that public good of the old Greek, which we all say to be rotten from foundation to ceiling? And that personal equation in the complicity of social evils becomes more and more important in proportion as we claim that our institutions are better than those of other nations by the extension of political power to every one of us and so the power to form common consensus, backed by the force of ballots, indorsing legislation along this or that channel of thought.

Oh, friends of ours, fossils or reformers, reformers by 10 per cent or by 100 per cent, we cannot realize the ideal nation until we want it. The ideal nation means the thoughtful, ideal citizen. The ideal citizen means the ideal man, the ideal Christian. Choose whichever you prefer of the two. By ideal we don't mean anything dreamy or impossible of realization today. By ideal we simply mean as follows:

Each one of us ought to be betrothed to God and humanity and so remain constantly on the lookout for fresh inspirations from the former calling for any new duties required from us. That the latter, humanity, may be in perfect peace with God the sooner the better. Instead of that it is to be feared that most of us, if not every one of us, is betrothed to self, to his class, his party, his church, his nation. The human ideal seems to be that our nation should be the richest and strongest, right or wrong; that our church should be the most flourishing, wrong or right; that our party should succeed, no matter how; that our class should remain on top of other classes; that self should be on top of others in his own class. We thus forget that no nation can be really rich and strong but in proportion as all others are strong and rich; that no church can flourish unless all flourish in the spiritual realm; that not one of us can be really wealthy or happy or good or righteous but in proportion as we all are everywhere on earth righteous, good, happy and wealthy. "That they may be perfect in one," perfect in the social organization.

That was the prayer, that was the dream of the Sinless One 1,900 years ago. That dream would soon cease to be such if we all entered into the spirit of our best thoughts and aspirations, since we all have them now and then. All that is necessary for the realization of that divine dream is that we should have some real love for the equal, natural rights of all God's children on earth.

THE GIANT OF TODAY.

A STORY OF CURRENT EVENTS.

BY LOUISE AUGUSTA GORE.

THE GREAT WHITE LIGHT.

Following the Mayor's contract with his strange visitor, came an army of brisk work men with a flurry and bustle. Everyone had a wire to pull, or an axe to grind, and the Chief Magistrate was beside himself with annoyance. He much regretted also the heavy price demanded for the new lights, for such he had come to consider it and had it been honorable, would have been strongly inclined to retract his promise to Giant Dynamo and wait for a better opportunity.

However, the work went busily on and at last the Giant's plants of light were all set out one fine evening blooming into radiance that put the stars to shame, robbed the northern sky of its glory and turned night into day.

The people were delighted. The Mayor was relieved and forgot to remember the poor little clock prisoners except when once a day the noon hour pealed out over the city, then he would grow pale and anxious, yet finally as the clocks submitted peaceably to the new order of things, he forgot about them altogeher.

Meanwhile Bidda had waited till Jimmie had turned the corner upon the new vehicle, when she skipped carelessly down the street and off to the low wooden dwelling she and Jimmie had called home so far back as they could remember.

Bidda and Jimmie were twins, something less than ten years old, though birthdays were unheard of things in this little family of two, left desolate when their mother died some months previous. An Uncle James somewhat better off in worldly goods, had befriended them in the the matter of rent, but considered his duty done when once a month he paid the small sum required for the purpose, and concerned himself no more about them.

Being the larger of the two children-Bidda considered herself a bit the elder and felt a half motherly care over the wild harum-scarum boy. This he returned with affection after his own fashion, yet quite content after earning the few pennies necessary for their food, to spend the rest of his time in the street, where Bidda, it must be confessed, oftener than otherwise, followed him.

Their great friend and playmate Teddy Quinsig lived across the hall in one of the large front rooms. Being so well fixed in life, his acquaintance was esteemed an honor. Beside this, Widow Quinsig had endeared herself by giving them the cast off clothing of her own family, and when Jimmie was sick, had sent Teddy to tell their uncle, though that kindness had brought no result.

Nor had she forgotten the needs of their hungry little stomachs but had given them of her own bread till Jimmie got about again. Some said Mrs. Quinsig was rich and ought to do these things, and others that she was aying up trouble for herself and would get no thanks.

At all events Bidda now sought this one friend, to whom she told the story of Jimmie's ride on the queer new-fashioned team without horses. Mrs. Quinsig smiled unbelievingly until mention was made of the black gentleman inside and the furry driver who did not drive, when her horror knew no bounds, and she joined Bidda in loud lamentations for poor Jimmie whom the widow declared—"Had flown away wid der evil one an' no one'd iver see him again."

Bidda wept loudly and long and would not be pacified. Mrs. Quinsig for relief, at last sent her to her own little forlorn room in the rear, where a chorus of screams from an adjoining apartment together with her own sobs made an alarming din that spread the news in all directions.

At length she fell asleep exhausted, too soundy sleeping to hear generous little Ted when he came to share his bread and milk with her.

The morning dawned and brought hope and faith to Bidda, again sending to dreamland all terrifying thoughts. With this new belief in the speedy return of Jimmie, she ran off contentedly to help the little candy-woman on the corner for the promise of a cake and an apple; when night came Jimmie would add enough to buy a couple of rolls for their supper the proceeds from tidying up the cellar shop of a shoemaker.

Occasionally they indulged in the luxury of a little fruit or candy when the shoemaker had promised Jimmie to sell for him a few of his large collection of bad debts in the shape of odd boots repaired and never called for and for which Jimmie was usually able to secure a market in Stump Alley near by.

But night came and brought on Jimmie and the next and still no sign of his coming. Bidda began to have a sore little heart and to look hungrily in at the baker's gay window. Mrs. Quinsig and the good candy-woman gave her what they could spare from their families at home and upon this and the occasional gift of a bit from the scanty store of somebody scarcely better off than herself, together with the few pennies she contrived to earn, Bidda managed too keep off actual suffering. Begging was tabooed in the family as an unhealthy practice, and too often the grief in her heart caused a supply of tears that put to flight all thought of hunger.

So day after day passed until weeks were numbered without a glimpse of Jimmie's round good-natured face crowned with its shock of red hair. Then Mrs. Quinsig took it upon herself to tell her second cousin's husband, a policeman, of Jimmie's disappearance. With great consideration he passed the news on to the next man beyond his beat, and by degrees it slowly moved down to the City Hall. After a while the answer came back in the same way, when he came to see the widow Quinsig and shook his head.

So they all gave Jimmie up for lost but Bidda who still clung to the belief in his coming, in spite of the fearful tales crowded upon her most unwilling ears.

Rent day came, and with it their Uncle James. Finding the boy gone and Bidda absent from the room his money had provided as shelter, without more ado he decided to forego payment longer, and at once set about removing the few articles of furniture which had served to make a home for the two children.

Bidda was heart-broken as she watched the disappearance of the familiar things with their Uncle James sitting astride a wee old-fashioned tin box that had done good service since her babyhood. He had not attempted to speak a word with her, perhaps he had not recognized her among the swarm of children that filled the street; Mrs. Quinsig having attended to all necessary matters

The kind-hearted woman was really sorry for the poor little waif left alone and desolate with "niver the good of a rilitive in the wurrld," and at once generously made room for her with her own brood.

The widow had none too much for their needs however, and this arrangement could not last long. She too, grew tired of her extra burden, and one day suggested the child should go to a charitable home for destitute little waifs near at hand. Bidda with a swelling heart acquiesced in Mrs. Quinsig's new plan, until having formed one of her own, she at once proceeded to carry it out.

The world was wide, Bidda knew, but Jimmie was somewhere and she would find him. The childish figure drew itself up very straigtht, her cheeks glowed and her dark eyes looked very large and determined.

Then she carefully examined her small stock of shoes, deciding at last to make the attempt in the stoutest pair since she should walk until she did find him, never admitting to herself any chance of failure at last.

The world was cold too, Bidda knew, so she wrapped her old shawl well around her, over her short, faded gown and tucking her elf locks out of sight, securely tied her old hood over her ears. A piece of bread she had saved from an over hearty meal, till she should be very hungry, and five pennies the candy woman had given her one lucky day, were the only burdens for her to take. With these, Bidda started.

EXPLOSION OF NITRO GLYCERINE.

Bored, Hole in Solid Rock and Was Felt at the Distance of a Mile.

Tiffin, O., Nov. 14.—A magazine used by the Bradford Nitro-Glycerine factory, 2½ miles east of Gibsonburg, exploded yesterday. The shock was heard within a radius of 40 miles. Benjamin Card, driver of a wagon, had brought a load of 720 quarts of nitro-glycerine from the factory at Bradford, and was unloading it when the explosion took place. Card and the two horses were blown to atoms. It is supposed that Card had a companion. The explosion made a hole seven feet deep in the solid rock, and trees in the vicinity were blown to splinters. People within a mile of the place were knocked flat, pictered and houses moved from their thrown out of cupboards, windows shattered and houses moved from their foundations. All the windows in Gibsonburg were broken.

From Convict to Millionaire.

London, Nov. 14.—George C. Cooper, who in 1892 was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment after a sensational trial for having killed his wife at Douglas, Isle of Man, has just been released. He finds himself the inheritor of a fortune estimated at nearly £1,000,000. Both his father and father-in-law, who were always convinced of his innocence, and that the death of his wife was accidental, died during his imprisonment, leaving him large properties.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

Appreciates Hospital.

Just four weeks ago I was unfortunate enough to meet with an accident and was brought to the Quincy Hospital and left in care of our matron. I was surely left in good care for Miss Thayer has proven most efficient. At all times she is looking after the comfort and health of her many patients.

Another whom we find most thoughtful and attentive at all times is our head nurse Miss McRay. She is one who takes pleasure in looking after all details, instructing nurses and assisting physicians. I am sure our little city should feel fortunate that they retain the services of two persons who are so thoroughly adapted to their blessed profession.

Next, whom we are thankful too, is the little band of nurses, who are busy as bees from morn til night, but who never get cross or out of patience with any of us. Sometimes, however, I think they have just cause.

We have our visiting hours each day from two to four. Visitors cheer us up a great deal. Every day in rain or shine my wife has made her call. On Sunday a great many come. One whom we see every Sunday is Mr. W. B. Rice. We an plainly see that he is interested in us all and is proud of the institution.

Now, as to myself. You know they say that "Time heals all wounds." This being the case, my hopes have been good all through, for besides time I have also Dr. Gordon's skillful treatment. But it was an ugly wound. A furrow plowed through my leg but no broken bone.

I asked Dr. Gordon about a week ago how long before I might go home and his reply was, "Being no prophet, he never prophesied." Just the answer I deserved. The wound has been most painful from the first. Nights it is most severe and I have slept very little. I lie awake and take comfort in the thought that it might have been worse. Very much worse. As yet I have not been out of my bed. Am compelled to lie on my back which of course is most tiresome. But my courage is still good, for the doctor assures me at every visit that the healing process could not be doing better. Nearly healed up. This being so I am going to predict that I will reach home in about one week or about Nov. 15. At home I shall have no visiting hours and shall thoroughly enjoy a visit from all.

SEWER TRANSFER.

Council Decide No Action Necessary.

Change Favored in Board of Assessors.

Vote to Petition Legislature for Change of City Charter.

Councilmen Alden, Blanchard, Clark, Dugan, Hill, Packard and Pinkham were the absentees:

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor forwarded the opinion rendered by the City Solicitor, relative to the transfer of the $5,000 from the Sewer to the Street department which was read and laid on the table.

PETITIONS.

Petitions were received from F. F. Crane for an auctioneer's license, and that Upland street be accepted as a public way. Referred.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committte on Licenses reported favorable on a petition for a minor license which was adopted.

The Committee on Fire Department reported order changing the location of the fire alarm box at Germantown. Adopted.

The Committee on Ordinances reported ought not to pass on the petition that the registrars hold sessions in the several wards. Accepted.

The Committee on Election reported the result of the recent election, which was adopted.

The Committee reported correctly engrossed on order for $40,000 for new schoolhouse on Whitwell street. Order passed.

THREE ASSESSORS.

Councilman Bryant offered an order that the Mayor petition the Legislature to amend the City Charter, so that the board of Assessors shall consist of three instead of seven members.

In support of this he said, the question of proper assessment interested all. At present three men take three wards and another three the other wards. It was therefore not strange that assessments of property was never equalized, as each has a basis or plan of his own and therefore the same judgment is not exercised in all wards. He would favor dividing the salary of the present board among the three men.

Councilman Jameson said we now have men from each ward with a small salary. Under the proposed method there was a question whether there would not be too much politics, and the office be given as a reward for political work.

In reply to a question of Councilman Swithin, Councilman Bryant said that the matter of having the board consist of one, two and three year members could be brought out before the Legislative hearing.

The order was adopted.

CITY ELECTION.

Councilman Jameson offered the order for the Municipal election Tuesday, Dec. 5, which was adopted.

SEWER TRANSFER.

The communication to the City Auditor was taken from the table upon motion of Councilman Bryant, and upon motion of the same gentleman the Council voted no legislation necessary.

CALENDAR.

The orders were passed under suspension of the rules transferring $550.-76 in the Poor department; laying out Whitney road, Cranch and Deldorf streets as public ways, and granting the New England Telephone Co. locations for poles on Penn, Elm, Washington and Hancock streets, and the Electric Light and Power Co. location for poles on Highland avenue and Belmont street.

Rule I was suspended and at 8.27 the Council adjourned until Nov. 27.

WEYMOUTH.

Mrs. Mary A. Gardner who has been making a visit at New Hampshire has returned to Porter.

Mr. Austin Shaw is having his houses painted.

SOME REASONS.

Why You Should Vote for Mr. John O. Hall.

A Ward Three Voter gives these reasons why you should vote for City Auditor John O. Hall, both at the caucuses and at the polls:

Editors of the Quincy Daily Ledger:

Because he is a friend of the city and believes in its prosperity.

Because he is a man of experience in the affairs of the city and is familiar with every department of the public business.

Because he is a man of experience in financial affairs and in the management of large business interests.

Because he is a man of good executive ability and with a long experience in the employment of labor.

Because he is a man who believes in hiring Quincy citizens to do the work which Quincy has to do.

Because he believes in economy in the administration of the affairs of the city.

Because he believes in the expenditure of the money which is raised from the citizens by taxation, in the interests of all the citizens, and not in the interests of a few to the disadvantage of the many.

Because he has never been afraid to stand against all unwarranted use of the public money for improper purposes.

Because he believes in retrenchment in our expenses and the most rigid economy in the administration of our affairs, that we may get to a low tax rate by the proper methods.

Because he has the courage of his convictions and is willing to stand by what he considers best for the public good, although all men oppose him.

Because he is a friend of the laboring man, is the most persistent kind of a laboring man himself, and does not fear to touch shoulders with the poorest honest laboring man in the city.

Because he will, to the utmost of his power, look after the interest of the laborer.

Because he has always been a friend of the city's interests, and has always been an active contributor to her welfare both with his labor and his money.

For these reasons we urge, not only the Republican voters, but all good citizens of whatever party, to vote for Mr. Hall. Ward Three Voter.

The Howland Society.

The preliminary meeting to organize the Society of the Descendants of Pilgrim John Howland and his wife, Elizabeth Tilley, of the ship "Mayflower," was held in Plymouth on May 18, 1897. Ten descendants were present. Since that time the names of about three hundred ladies and gentlemen, all lineal descendants of John Howland and his wife, Elizabeth Tilley, have been secured, many of whom desire to see the Society formally organized and incorporated.

Some months ago a circular was sent out by the Rev. E. E. Hale, Hon. Winslow Warren and Hon. John D. Long, to the members of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, calling attention to the new Pilgrim church now being erected at Plymouth, and asking for contributions for its completion.

It occurred to a member of the Howland family that it would be pleasant and suitable, that some lasting memorial of the Howland family should be placed in the Pilgrim church, and that the pulpit should very properly be the gift of the Howland descendants. There are a very large number of the descendants of John Howland scattered throughout the country, and it is proposed to limit the contribution for the pulpit to the sum of one dollar for each member, thus placing it within reach of all. It is proposed to have the names of the contribntors engrossed upon parchment and placed in a box within the pulpit for future preservation.

Another object to which the society may very properly turn its attention in the preservation of the historic Howland house at Plymouth, where meetings of the society might occasionally be held. A meeting, therefore, to organize the Society, for the election of officers, and for the adoption of a constitution and by-laws, and the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting, will be held at the Parker House, Boston, Wednesday, Nov. 22, at 2.30 P. M., when any descendants of the Pilgrim John Howland will be welcome.

The Howlands of Quincy are direct descendants and are interested in the society. It is hoped Mr. Charles A. Howland the popular president of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance company will be selected as president.

Mr. Theophilus King, Mr. Delcevare King, Miss Zayma King, Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, Mr. E. P. Howland, Mr. C. A. Howland and Mr. C. A. Howland, Jr., are all descendants of John Howland.

CENSORSHIP IS BLAMED

For Allowing Father Matthews' Story to Reach the Public.

Much Importance Attached to Relief of Ladysmith.

Usual Crop of Rumors In Regard to the Situation There.

Boers Said to Have Deliberately Shelled the Kospital at Mafeking.

London, Nov. 15.—In the absence of fresh news, today's papers are driven to discuss President Kruger's threat to execute British officers now in his hands unless Nathan Marks, supposed Boer spy, is released by General White. President Kruger's threat has excited widespread indignation. The Daily News demands that his friends should promptly inform him that his own neck and that of Mr. Reitz, the Transvaal state secretary, will be held responsible for any such violation of the elementary rules of civilized warfare.

For once the censorship is blamed on account of laxity. It is asserted that the censor ought to have suppressed the story of Father Matthews regarding the surrender of Nicholson's Nek, which, while too vague to be considered evidence, must cause uneasiness. The feeling is that until the facts can be ascertained, it would have been wise not to have divulged details.

How much importance is attached to an early relief of Ladysmith is shown by the way in which troops originally for operations elsewhere are being sent on to Durban, where General Buller himself is said to be hourly expected. In regard to the situation at Ladysmith itself there is the usual crop of rumors, more or less rose-colored, to tranquillize the public, which is beginning to manifest its dissatisfaction with a "war run in the dark, with dispatches privately written and edited by the staff," as one writer describes it. It cannot be long, however, before the force now arriving at Durban is in a position to take the field and bring matters to an issue. But everything depends on the length of time for which Ladysmith is provisioned, and of that we shall know nothing until it is disclosed by events.

Meantime the news of the tampering with the railway tracks at several points in Cape Colony by Boer sympathizers is calculated to give considerable uneasiness to the military authorities, and when active operations begin will call for the detachment of large bodies of troops to guard the long stretch of 501 miles of rail between Cape Town and De Aar, and the lines between East London and Queenstown, the British advanced post on that side, with the withdrawal from Stromberg Junction, Port Alfred and Middelburg, and Port Elizabeth and Middelburg, the three lines running up from the southeast coast.

The center of interest, however, is at Ladysmith and in the operations for its relief. The probability is that a strong attack will be made on one of the flanks of the Boer army to force it to uncover the investing line on one side, and after the junction with the beleaguered garrison is effected while one wing is held in check, the other will be vigorously pushed back and the country south of the Biggarsberg and east of the Drakensburg cleared of the Boer forces. That is, of course, assuming that Ladysmith has not capitulated or been taken before the relief column's advance.

There are vague reports from Berlin of General White and General Joubert being in treaty for the surrender of Ladysmith, but failing to agree over conditions. If the report as given is true it indicates either that the British garrison is at the last extremity or that the offer to surrender is a ruse designed to detain the Boer army near Ladysmith while relief is organizing.

A dispatch from Mafeking, forwarded by a runner, dated Oct. 31, says that during the afternoon General Cronje, the Boer commandant, sent an envoy to Colonel Baden-Powell, under a flag of truce, to declare that he did not consider the Geneva convention authorized the flag of the Red Cross society to fly from several buildings in the town, and that in his opinion the employment of natives against the whites and the use of dynamite mines were both opposed to the rules of war.

Colonel Baden-Powell replied that the Geneva convention did not stipulate as to the number of Red Cross stations permissible, and that the Boers were only required to respect the convent, the hospital and the women's laager, all of which were beyond the town limits. The British commander also pointed out that mines were recognized adjuncts of civilized warfare, and that the defenses of Pretoria were extensively mined. Moreover, he reminded General Cronje that the Boers had fired upon natives, burned their kraals and raided their cattle, and that the natives only defended their lives and property.

Despite three warnings from Colonel Baden-Powell the Boers continued deliberately to shell the hospital and the women's laager. The sending of the Boer envoy was regarded, the dispatch says, as a mere pretext for penetrating the British lines at Mafeking. According to the latest reports the town is confident of its ability to hold out until the end of the campaign.

Nothing is known as to the whereabouts of General Buller. H. M. S. Powerful has arrived at Simons bay, from Durban, and begun to coal. The cruiser will return to Durban immediately with more guns.

Lord Hamilton, secretary of state for India, announced in a speech last evening, that a relief force would immediately be sent to Ladysmith, but beyond that nothing is known of the British plan of campaign, and equal secrecy shrouds the movements of the Boers.

The Morning Post, which complains that it was unwise tactics on the part of the British officers to leave the railway intact in their retirement to Ladysmith, says: It is another illustration of British contempt for the Boers that they treated the retirement as though it were an advance, and preserved the enemy's line of communication as carefully as if it had been our own.

Dr. Jameson, the hero of the raid, left Cape Town for England last Thursday.

The great delay on South African cables, now amounting practically to five days, and the lack of any definite news from Ladysmith, give rise to some apprehension, which is only relieved by the fact that no adverse tidings have come from either British or Boer sources.

So far as Kimberley is concerned, the mental condition of the British there may be judged from the fact that three weddings have taken place since the siege began, the last having been celebrated on Nov. 8.

New England Will Suffer.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The unusual scarcity of coal in the New England states and the fact that the Augusta (Me.) insane asylum is almost entirely out of fuel, are responsible for the charter of the schooner E. C. Allen, now here to load 775 tons of fuel for Augusta at $3.50 a ton, the highest freight paid out of Philadelphia to a port in Maine for 40 years. So far as is known, the last rate quoted to Augusta was between 90 cents and $1 a ton. Philadelphia coal shippers cannot begin to fill the orders that are pouring in from the New England states, and in the opinion of dealers it looks very much as though that section of the country is about to experience a coal famine that will mean much suffering and heavy losses in the manufacturing districts. Coal is scarce at tide-water points, and even upon its arrival at seaport towns the greatest difficulty is being experienced in getting bottoms to carry it forward to the points required.

Seamen Suffered Severely.

Eastport, Me., Nov. 15.—Schooner Henry F. Eaton, Captain Ashford, New York for Eastport with coal, went ashore in Schooner cove, Campobello island, early Saturday morning. The crew were brought to this city yesterday. In launching the boat it was smashed. Mate Patterson swam ashore and then walked three miles through the snow, barefooted, for assistance. When the tide receded the crew succeeded in reaching the shore. Captain Ashford was completely exhausted and was left in the woods, while the others made their way to the nearest house. Ashford was found the next day in a semi-conscious condition. His feet and hands are badly frostbitten. The vessel and cargo are a total loss.

ONCE A MILLIONAIRE.

Ex-Senator Whitman Is Branded as a Notorious Swindler.

The Head of a Gang Which "Worked" Many Cities.

Ran For Congress and Was Defeated, Then His Downfall Began.

New York, Nov. 15.—Alonzo J. Whiteman, prince of confidence men, once a millionaire, author of Whiteman's election law, "welshing," bookmaker, and described by the Pinkertons as the boldest and cleverest forger in the country, was arrested here yesterday by Captain McClusky. Three of his pals were also arrested. They were formally held by a police magistrate an the nominal charge of being suspicious persons.

The police of New York say that most of the prisoners have been convicted, here and elsewhere, of all kinds of swindling, that has netted them many thousands of dollars. The prisoners are: Alonzo J. Whiteman of Dansville, N. Y., the alleged head of the gang. He is a graduate of Columbia law school, former state senator of Minnesota, a former candidate for congress and once a millionaire; Frank Edmunds, clerk of New York; John Thompson, alias Hartley, alias P. Lawton, alias Dr. George W. Johnson, a clerk, residence unknown; Robert J. Knox, lawyer, of New York. There is under arrest at Pittsburg a fifth member of the gang, D. Stewart, alias Charles Ward, about 60 or 70 years old.

Whiteman, who came from Danville to this city on Saturday last, was arrested at the Hotel St. Maro, on Fifth avenue, where he had registered as C. W. Caldwell of Philadelphia. He had been sending invitations to himself by telephone and telegraph to occupy a box at the horse show, and to dine at various prominent clubs.

Chief of Detectives McClusky says Whiteman is wanted in Chicago, where he was tried a year ago for grand larceny and sentenced to serve 2½ years, he having jumped his bail when he learned that the Illinois court of appeals had affirmed his sentence. He will be turned over to the Chicago police, who are believed to be on their way here already.

The police records in this city charge Whiteman with swindling several hotels in this city, the Grand Pacific hotel in Chicago in May, 1898, and the Parker House, Boston, in June, 1898; the Isleworth hotel in Atlantic City in August of the same year.

Thompson was tried here for swindling the Central Trust company of Brooklyn. Among his operations the police credit him with swindling the Hollywood hotel, Long Branch; the Narragansett hotel, Providence; the Russell House, Detroit, and the Spalding hotel in Duluth.

Edmunds will be sent to Woonsocket in all probability to stand trial with Stewart for the theft of $3000. Edmunds' picture is in the rogues' gallery, and he has served terms in both Elmira reformatory and Sing Sing.

Charles E. Stewart has his picture in the rogues gallery in this city. He served five years in Sing Sing for forgery about 1877, and later 18 months for obtaining money on false pretenses. In 1889 he stabbed a woman in Cincinnati and served four years for it in the Columbus penitentiary. He served a term in Rochester for robbery, and last of all three years and three months in Sing Sing for the theft of thousands of dollars worth of bonds and other papers from the Waldorf-Astoria, the property of John C. Calhoun.

Of Knox, Captain McCluskey says he knows nothing at present save that he was with the others.

Alonzo J. Whiteman is No. 5284 in the rogues' gallery. He has been arrested a score of times. He has traveled all over the world. He inherited $500,000 from his father in 1888 after leaving college. He led his class in the Columbia law school and after getting his sheepskin and being admitted to the bar he went to Duluth. He made over $1,000,000 there, it is said, during the boom times. He drafted the Whiteman election law, under which that state voted for years. He was a delegate to the national Democratic convention. When he was defeated for congress he began to lose money and his downfall was very fast. He lost his fortune on the Chicago board of trade within a year. He then turned to the race track. He made money as a bookmaker, met a bad streak of luck, welched and was ruled off the track for passing bad checks. He was sentenced to serve nine months for forgery in San Francisco in 1895, appealed, got a reversal and was released. He was arrested for swindling the Columbia bank of this city out of $580. He got out of it, and has successfully evaded prison walls ever since then, though arrested several times on various charges.

Whiteman worked with confederates, he furnishing the brains for the party. It is said he was behind the operations whereby Charles E. Stewart secured $2000 from a business man at Woonsocket by means of a draft made by the Lawrence National bank of Kansas, drawn on the First National bank, New York, which turned out to be a forgery.

With Whiteman when he was arrested were R. J. Knox, who passed as P. E. Webster in the deal just alluded to, and William Hartley, alias Lawton. Whiteman had previously ordered 10,000 books of checks of the Lawrence National bank. Hartley was a member of the Fisher and Wallace gang of forgers, which has been operating for the last seven or eight years, and Whiteman was indicted for forgery in 1892.

Notice to Ward One Republicans.
Johnson Bros.—Canned Goods.
Quincy Music Hall—Uncle Tom's Cabin.
Charles C. Hearn—Patent Medicines.
D. E. Wadsworth & Co.—Flannelette Goods.
To Let—Cottage House.

Good Afternoon.

Ward One Republicans are fortunate in having such a large list of gentlemen who are willing to serve as Councilmen. Most any of them would acceptably discharge the duties of the position. Councilman Packard should be renominated.

The letter of Mr. Charles L. Prescott, written while at the Quincy Hospital, shows that many do not appreciate the good work which the institution is doing until misfortune overtakes them. It was a pleasure to note the satisfaction which is being given by matron and nurses.

With single lists filed in Wards One, Five and Six, all favorable to John O. Hall for Mayor, it looks as if his nomination by the Republicans was assured before the caucuses, as these three wards have a majority of all the delegates to the Mayoralty convention. The convention is entitled to 45 delegates, and Ward One will have 9, Ward Five 9, and Ward Six 5, a total of 23. The other wards have but 22, viz: Ward Two, 6; Ward Three, 9; and Ward Four, 7. We congratulate Mr. Hall upon his excellent prospects and wish him success at the polls.

The City Council in a few instances seems to do business altogether too expeditiously. An important matter like the change proposed in the Board of Assessors, would seem to be one that should very properly be considered by a committee, or laid on the table until the next meeting of the Council. Any change in the method of assessment may be a benefit, but there is one objection to a reduction of the board, and that is, that three gentlemen would find it impossible to properly assess the whole city within the time allowed. The proper place to consider such a change is in the City Council, but when such a thing is sprung at a meeting, and passed in a few minutes, it cannot be said to be properly considered. Then, again, seven of the twenty-three Councilmen were absent, the smallest meeting of the year.

Should Ward Two elect both Harry S. Crane and George Crane to the City Council, that body should be able to raise the weight resting upon the taxpayers. We will have all the Fax-on the case when Henry M. and Harold B. are elected. A nickel is not always five cents, as Candidate Nichols from Ward Five and possibly Harry S. Nicol at large are worth more. Whether it is advisable to encourage Lanes in our city rests with Ward One and Ward Four voters; C. C. and P. A. want the experience. All have heard of the only "Kel," but this year there are two, J. F in Ward Two and William A. in Ward Three. Truly the nominations remind one of Noahs' ark, where they all went by twos. Some may Pack-ard the caucuses tonight, but we Gass-ett will not be many Weeks before we have Fuller light, and know whether it is Thompson or Thomas.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ John Jacob Astor's gift of $100,000 toward the permanent Dewey arch, is receiving a good deal of commendation from the press, but it deserves all that can be said. Mr. Astor is making a heroic and determined effort to live down some of his past and present relatives.—Pawtucket Times.

☞ In New Jersey the local judges are sentencing refractory boys to be spanked, or rather to commuting fines against their parents for spankings well laid on. But Judge Ely of the Boston superior court thinks this system will not do for the latitude of Massachusetts, though he acknowledges that the dealing with children brought before the courts is a difficult problem to solve. On the whole he is of the opinion that our probation system works sufficiently well, and shows good results.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ We are to have Germany as a close neighbor in the Samoan Islands; but we can stand that better than trying to jointly control the whole group with her. Somehow our consuls and those of Germany have never shown too much cordiality in that quarter of the world, and Samoa has thus been the source of more trouble than the whole group of islands is worth. It is better to take our own share in the apportionment and be responsible only for that share.—Brockton Times.

☞ At this season of the year, when tax lists are due, it is the newspaper custom to urge readers to make full revelation of their assets to the assessors and to give the usual reason for the advice. We refrain therefrom, not because the "last day" is not near, nor yet because the usual reason do not apply, but solely because such advice is wholly ineffective. The average property owner dodges all taxation that can be dodged, and he is often an artful dodger thereat. Nothing can check this tendency.—Bridgeport (Conn.) Farmer.

☞ Grumbling is a mighty disagreeable habit. It does no good and it does a deal of harm. No worse companion can be found than a grumbler. He is like a smoking oil lamp—he contaminates the social atmosphere all around him. He takes out of the companionship of others that which gives it energy and inspiration. Indeed, he is more to be dreaded than a fog in September. The best treatment to prescribe for a confirmed grumbler is isolation. Set him off by himself, in the middle of a twenty-acre lot, or in a sound-proof room, and his disease will pass off---Westerly (R. I.) Sun.

Meteor Alarm.

The shower of meteors expected every night has not yet made its appearance. In Cambridge and other cities arrangements have been made for the sounding of a signal upon the fire alarm when the Harvard observers discover the shower. The Telephone Company has also agreed to notify all its subscribers if requested. Chief Williams should request that the Central fire station be notified and that it in turn give a signal, say 9-9.

Later—Chief Williams when seen by the Ledger this noon, said that Quincy should not be behind the times and that if the expected show came off tonight notice would be given by sounding the special call, nine blows, upon the fire alarm circuit thus 9-9. If you hear this signal tonight get up and look out of the window for nature's pyrotechnics.

Grand Army Fair.

There was a large attendance Tuesday night at the Grand Army fair at Music hall and the sales of articles on the several tables were good. The entertainment was a very pleasing one, and consisted of a series of pretty tableaux, representing, "Faith, Hope and Charity," "Star Spangled Banner," "Admiral Dewey, Jr.," and a quilting party. There was also fancy dancing by Miss Helen Rhines, and a piano solo. Music during the evening was furnished by Richardson's orchestra.

The boiled dinner at the Sons of Veterans' table was captured by George Delphiene of Weymouth who guessed 33 3-4 pounds, the exact weight.

GRAND RECEPTION.

To be Given Lord Mayor Tallon and John E. Redmond, M. P.

A meeting of the representative Irish American citizens was held Tuesday evening to arrange plans for the reception to be tendered to Lord Mayor Tallon and John E. Redmond, M. P., upon the occasion of their visit to Quincy Friday evening, Nov. 24.

John Cavanagh was elected chairman, Henry McGrath, secretary, and James F. Burke, treasurer.

Addresses were made by Dr. J. H. Ash, James F. Burke, Thomas H. McDonnell, James O'Dowd, Thomas Murphy, Peter A. Lane, James H. Cunningham, Patrick Ferguson, Edward J. Parker, Thomas F. Hogan and John J. Byron.

It was decided to hold the reception in Music hall, and a committee was appointed to wait upon Mayor Keith and request him to extend the freedom of the city to the distinguished guests, and also to arrange for a parade on that evening previous to the reception.

Political.

Fred W. Austin desires the Ledger to say that his name was used without his consent as a candidate for the Ward Two Democratic caucus. He does not wish to be considered a candidate, and furthermore says he is not in politics.

Richard S. Talbot is another gentleman who was surprised at the use of his name to head a list of delegates at the Ward One Democratic caucus, also as a candidate for the Ward Committee. He proposes to act with the Republicans and will vote at their caucus tonight.

The Democrats as well as the Republicans in Ward One are having a contest over Ward Committees. They also have filed two lists of Mayoralty delegates, and both sides are hustling for votes tomorrow night. There is a remarkable unanimity on Councilman, all being concentrated in Mr. Faxon.

The Social Democrats met at their hall on Canal street Tuesday evening and considered municipal affairs. The matter of nominating Councilmen was discussed, but as they have more time to file nomination papers than was at first thought, it was not decided just what would be done. It is probable however, that complete tickets will be nominated in Wards, One, Two and Three, and representations in the remaining wards. A party municipal platform was outlined which will be drawn up and made public later.

Economical Mayor.

To Editor of the Ledger:

The politicians of Quincy are shrewd enough to realize this year that a man must be elected who will economically fill the position in the Mayor's chair, and the voters of this city are the ones to make the selection. With them rests the whole responsibility of putting good men in office who will look to the people's interest. Voters who attend the caucus tonight should see to it that they make good selections in delegates who will nominate John O. Hall, an honest, upright citizen of Quincy and a man who will serve his party faithfully in all his actions.

After the lodge meeting, hot coffee, rolls, frankfurts, doughnuts and cheese were served. Whist tables were then brought out and an hour or more was passed in a pleasant manner.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

A GREAT STRUGGLE.

Contests of Various Kinds at Caucuses Tonight.

Politics are lively in Ward One today. There is apparently little interest in the nomination for Councilmen, the contest being the most interesting in the selection of the Ward Committee. The fight being whether the present committee shall be retained in office for another year, or whether their administration has been such that a change is desirable. Friends of both delegations are out hustling and a large caucus is probable. For Councilmen there are seven candidates. Only one list of delegates appears on the official ballot.

In Ward Two the fight is more particularly over the delegates to the Mayoralty convention. The first delegation favors Mr. Hall while the second list is for Frederick L. Jones. Of the four councilmen on the ticket it is probable that Messrs. Newcomb, Weeks and Crane will win out.

In Ward Three the home of Mr. Jones, there are two lists of delegates for the Mayoralty convention, and there is not much question but what the Jones list will win out. There are six names for councilmen on the ticket.

Ward Four will probably see as lively a caucus as that previous to the State election. There are contests here over the Mayoralty delegates and Ward Committee. In plain language it can be called a Ripley and anti-Ripley fight. At the State election caucus the Ripley faction won out, and they are equally as confident of winning out tonight, while the anti-Ripley element are fully as confident that they will win. The unpledged list of delegates is said to favor Mr. Hall, while the Ripley delegates are reported to favor Mr. Jones. Mr. Ripley tells the Ledger he is not against Mr. Hall, and at the same time says he is not out for Hall. If Mr. Hall or any other Republican is nominated he proposed to do all he can to land him.

In Wards Five and Six the only contests are over the candidates for councilmen. Ward Five has five on the ticket, and Ward Six four. There is considerable opposition to Councilman Bryant in the Wollaston ward.

A Serenade.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fitts of Bigelow street, who were married about two weeks ago, were the victims of a serenade last night. It was in the vicinity of eleven o'clock, some hours after all the lights in the house had been extinguished, that the alarm was given. The "boys" first "fixed" the electric door bell so it would ring until the inmates got tired of it. Then they brought their instruments into play, and the seige began.

As it progressed, a crowd gathered, and enjoyed the concert. It was not, however, until the original orchestra had been reenforced half an hour later by an old wash boiler that the citadel surrendered. Mr. and Mrs. Fitts appeared at the door; recognized the artists as friends; took it all good naturedly, and insisted that all should come in. They were afterwards sorry that they did, for the crowd was hungry and they were "good stayers." It was long after midnight when they adjourned to the lawn for the final concert number. Where was the night patrol?

Sewer Transfer.

City Auditor Hall has approved of the order of the Sewer Commissioners, transferring $5,000 of their appropriation to the credit of the appropriation for general repair of streets. No alternative was left the Auditor after the action or non-action of the City Council, and in face of the opinion of the City Solicitor. The stand taken by the City Auditor is generally endorsed nevertheless.

City Auditor Hall has also signed the bill of Contractor Driscoll which has also been questioned by him.

May Go to South Africa.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Rear Admiral Schley, who is about to assume command of the South Atlantic squadron, called at the navy department yesterday and had a long conference with Acting Secretary Allen concerning the general character of the service on which he is about to embark. The admiral's visit led to a renewal of the conjecture as to the probability of his going to some of the South African ports. As to this, however, the admiral declined to say a word. It is understood, however, that this was among the matters gone over, and the view prevails in well informed quarters that the government's general line of policy as to the South African war will be made known to Admiral Schley before he sails, as thereafter he will be the executive officer in closest touch with that field of action.

Fact: Covered in Previous Reports.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The annual report of Major General Miles was made public at the war department yesterday. It bears date Oct. 17, 1899, and is extremely brief and formal in character. It announces the transmission to the secretary of war of the reports of the department and staff commanders, and makes a brief statement of the strength and distribution of the army, including the muster out of the volunteer regiments, most of the details of which have been already published in the reports of the adjutant general.

Statesman Disagree.

Madrid, Nov. 15.—In the senate yesterday Montero Rios, replying to Count Almenas, who recently declared that, owing to ignorance of the Spanish-American peace treaty commissioners, three islands of the Philippine group—the two Batanos and Calayan island, both north of Luzon—were not included in the scope of the treaty, said the islands referred to were not ceded because they belonged to Japan and were not claimed by the Americans.

A Fatal Fall.

Medford, Mass., Nov. 15.—Miss Almira J. Stetson, while returning last evening from the house of a neighbor on whom she had been calling, fell down the steps, striking on her head. She was taken to her home, where she died without regaining consciousness. Miss Stetson had been a teacher in the public schools of Medford for 25 years.

The Funniest Topsy.

Middaugh's New Orleans Uncle Tom's Cabin Company is booked for Quincy Music hall Monday evening, Nov. 20. The fact that this company has the funniest Topsy and the best Uncle Tom, makes it always popular. Mr. Middaugh says, "In organizing this company, after ten years of active experience no expense has been spared in securing the very best people in the profession to fill the cast, and when we tell you, we have the best people, the finest scenery, the most elaborate mechanical effects, the best and only genuine Siberian bloodhounds, and in fact everything requisite to a first-class metropolitan production of Uncle Tom's Cabin, without introducing donkies, ponies, log cabins, etc., on the streets to mislead the public. Rest assured we mean every word and our promises will be carried out to the letter. We positively guarantee you a strictly first-class, legitimate, original version of "Unce Tom's Cabin" with new elaborate scenic and mechanical effects, but we do not give you a free street show to mislead you."

OVER TERRIBLE ROADS.

Our Troops Advanced and Administered a Defeat to Insurgents.

Never Wavered When Officers Were Picked Off.

No Hope of Saving the Charleston or Her Paraphernalia and Contents.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The following has been received at the war department from General Otis, under date of Nov. 14:

"Rain continues, typhoon prevailing, nearly four inches this month in Manila; more central in Luzon. General Lawton has passed beyond telegraphic communication; nothing from him since yesterday. Wheaton reports engagement 11th inst., short distance from San Fabian; battalion Thirty-third under Marsh attacked and defeated 400 of enemy entrenched, has two men wounded; enemy left 14 dead on field and 41 rifles. Wheaton about to attack San Jacinto, result not learned. Hughes, Panay, operating west Iloilo, Cordova Maasen, Cabatuan. Enemy make no stand."

A detailed story from Manila shows that in one of the sharpest two hours' engagements of the war, with an equal force of insurgents, five miles from San Fabian, Saturday, the Thirty-third infantry lost one officer and six men killed and had one officer and 12 men wounded. The Americans captured 29 Filipinos and 100 rifles and found 81 insurgent dead lying in the trenches and rice fields. Many more Filipinos doubtless were killed or wounded.

General Wheaton was informed that the enemy was gathering at San Jacinto for the purpose of preventing the Americans from controlling the road from Dagupan north, whereby Aguinaldo might retreat. The Thirty-third, Colonel Howe commanding, and a detachment of the Thirteenth with a Gatling gun, Howland commanding, were sent to disperse them.

The troops encountered the worst road ever found in the island of Luzon. There was a succession of creeks whose bridges the Americans had to stop and repair; miry ditches, and at certain places men and horses struggled waist deep in quagmires. A hundred soldiers had to drag the Gatling gun part of the way, the horses being useless.

The insurgents opened the fight two miles from San Jacinto, while the leading American battalion was passing a clump of houses in the midst of a cocoanut grove, knee deep in mud. The Filipino sharpshooters, hidden in trees, houses and small trenches across the road, held their fire until the Americans were close to them. When they began firing other Filipinos opened fire from thickets right and left further away. The insurgent sharpshooters picked off the officers first. Five Americans who fell wore shoulder straps or chevrons.

But the Thirty-third never wavered. Its crack marksmen knocked the Filipinos from the trees like squirrels, and the Americans rushed the trench, leaving four dead insurgents there. The regiment then deployed under fire with Major Logan's battalion in the centre, Major Cronic's on the right, and Major Marsh's on the left. The skirmish line, which was a mile long, advanced rapidly, keeping up a constant fire. The Filipinos made an unexpectedly good stand, many of them remaining behind cover until the Americans were within 20 feet of them.

Major Marsh flanked a small trench full of insurgents, surprising them and slaughtering nearly all of them before entering the town. The Gatling killed five of the force holding the bridge, and swept the country beyond the town, driving about 150 Filipinos into the hills. Marsh's battalion entered the town first, and captured a battleflag which was flying over a convent.

The insurgents are supposed to have retreated toward Dagupan. It was impossible to pursue them, as the American troops were exhausted, and their supply of ammunition was low. The outposts killed five Filipinos during the night. The body of the Filipino lieutenant colonel, commanding, was found among the killed.

The regiment returned to San Fabian Sunday, it being impossible to get supplies over the roads.

A proclamation of the Filipino secretary of war was found in all the villages, giving glowing accounts of alleged Filipino victories, and saying that 7500 Americans had been killed and 15,000 wounded during the war.

The dead and wounded were brought to Manila yesterday. The officers who are returning say it is impossible for General Wheaton to attempt a junction with General Young on account of the roads. Prisoners said it was reported that Aguinaldo, with an army they estimated at 20,000 men, probably a great exaggeration, was retiring towards Dagupan, intending to leave by railroad for the northwest. Some of them said they believed the Filipino army had passed the line intended by Generals Wheaton and Young to be covered in Aguinaldo's rear, ad that he passed San Fabian, going northwest, a fortnight ago.

Further details regarding the grounding of the cruiser Charleston show that she struck an uncharted coral reef 10 miles east of Kamiguin island. Her stern was almost submerged and the bow almost out of water. A heavy sea was on, and the cruiser began rolling violently. The watertight doors were quickly closed, but were stove in under the engine compartment, the largest of the ship.

After the first efforts to right her the officers feared she might slide off because of the heavy sea and therefore abandoned the attemnt to save her. They hurried to the launch and boats and rowed away, prepared to fight for a landing, with two Colts, 134 rifles and 10 days' rations. Some of the officers and men were dressed only in pajamas and their underclothing. The breech blocks of the cannon were removed before the boats put off. Two hours after the Charleston struck all had gotten away. The report that the crew remained two days on the vessel is inaccurate. A party returned two days later, but found it impossible to save anything.

The first landing was made on a little island, with a front of barren rocks. Next day the boats again took to the water and proceeded to Kamiguin island, where a landing was made in expectation that fighting would be necessary. So far from this being the case, however, the Charleston's men found a half-savage people, who regarded them with curiosity rather than hostility.

On the third day the storm had greatly subsided and Lieutenant McDonald, with Boatswain Glynn and six men, started for the gulf of Lingayen in a 30-foot sailing launch, hoping to find an American warship, but entirely ignorant of General Wheaton's expedition.

Lieutenant McDonald was four days afloat, keeping under shelter of the hostile shore for two days on account of high seas, being most of the time in a soaking rain. Finally, flying the Union Jack down, clad in underclothing and drenched to the skin, the officer and his companions overtook the transport Aztec, which carried them to the battleship Oregon.

The gunboat Helena was due to arrive at Kamiguin island Monday.

The Charleston was returning from a five weeks' cruise along the eastern coast of Luzon, and Admiral Watson was beginning to be uneasy. He supposed, however, that she had joined General Wheaton's expedition.

In naval circles the accident is considered quite unavoidable. The only wonder is that there are not more such disasters in Philippine waters, which are most indifferently charted.

The Charleston lies practically on the open sea and there is no hope of saving her of the valuable paraphernalia and contents of the cruiser.

Denial of Rumors of Friction.

London, Nov. 15.—The correspondent of The Times at Tokio says: The rumor of friction between Russia and Japan is without foundation. No international question now exists between them. The recent excitement connected with Japanese purchases of land over Russia's head at Masampo grew out of purely private transactions and in no way concerned the Japanese government. At present the atmosphere is clear.

TIRED OF THE SIEGE.

Report That Burghers Are Beginning to Leave For Home.

Retirement Would Compel Joubert to Move North.

Colonel Baden-Powell Plays a Great Trump Card at Mafeking.

Made Charge on Boers In Trenches and Wrought Terrible Havoc.

London, Nov. 16.—The most interesting and in fact that the only news of the war now comes from the western frontier, the accounts of Colonel Baden-Powell's brilliant exploits at Mafeking forming quite lively and encouraging reading. Trench work is quite novel in Boer tactics, and some curiosity is evinced as to who may be directing and as to what is still to be shown.

Nevertheless, both at Mafeking and Kimberley conditions seem altogether favorable. So far as Natal is concerned, the Britisher must possess his soul in patience and trust to General Buller.

Belated dispatches from Ladysmith, dated Nov. 7, tell of a languid bombardment and of a native rumor that the Basutos are on the warpath, which is supposed, according to one correspondent, to have had the effect of inducing some of the Orange Free State troops to abandon the siege and to return to their own territory, and also to be accountable for the slackness of the attempts on the Ladysmith defenses.

Another correspondent says it is reported that in the attack on the Free State forces at Dewdrop, the Boers had 300 in killed and wounded. If the reports that the Free State burghers are tired of the affair and are going home should prove true, the fact would be most important, as their retirement would probably compel General Joubert to withdraw northward. The statement that the Boers are entrenched so closely to Ladysmith is held in some quarters to indicate that they are running short of ammunition for guns.

All General Buller's arrangements for the advance from Durban, it is rumored, are practically completed; and news of it may be expected in a few days. The war office has received several dispatches dealing with military details, but it is not likely that these will be published. The whereabouts of General Buller is not publicly known here, but he is believed to be up country somewhere.

Colonel Plumer, it is thought, has abandoned the attempt to relieve Mafeking.

Troopship Hawarden Castle, with the second battalion of the Royal Irish Fusiliers, has arrived at Durban, bringing the number of reinforcements that have landed there up to 5227. Five other troopships are now en route from Cape Town to Durban.

The total reinforcements that have arrived in South Africa since last Friday are 19,000 men, chiefly infantry, nearly 13,000 horses and mules, three batteries of field artillery and a number of quick-firing Maxim guns.

The fact that the Britannic proceeded for East Durban is taken to mean that General Buller is satisfied that the troops which have already landed or are now on the way to Durban will be sufficient to carry out his plans for the relief of Ladysmith.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Mafeking, sent by way of Magalapye because the runners sent southward were unable to traverse the Boer lines, gives an interesting account of the fighting during the last week in October. The correspondent says:

After the failure to rush the town, General Cronje had recourse to the tactics employed during the siege of Potschefstrom in 1881, making an advance to the town by a succession of trenches in Echelon. Such a move had been anticipated by us for some time, and, for that reason, there had been sent out parties to worry the Boers incessantly by night attacks.

These tactics the enemy disliked, but he contented himself with a daily shell fire, which exposed him to little personal risk.

Then Colonel Baden-Powell played his trump card by sending out Fitzclarence's party to worry the occupants of the trenches. The little force stole out silently in the darkness. No shot was fired, and the men, with fixed bayonets, creeping rather than walking along the veldt, gradually approached the chief Boer position near the race course. Then, as they closed in, there was a shrill screech. It was Fitzclarence's whistle, and the signal for onslaught. A ringing British cheer, which the listeners back in camp caught up, was the only reply, as the party dashed into the trenches. There was a fearful struggle, the attacking force catching and bayoneting the Boers under the tarpaulins, where they crouched crying for mercy. At least 50 bayonets got to work, and the havoc they wrought was terrible.

For just a moment there was no systematic return fire, but then a perfect hailstorm of bullets poured in from the trenches to the rear. Again Fitzclarence's whistle sounded. It was to cease firing and scatter homeward. The British forces scattered, silently creeping back, under the furious fire, in the darkness to the appointed rendezvous, where the roll was called.

Colonel Baden-Powell met and congratulated Captain Fitzclarence and his men upon their splendid work, saying that it was a heavy price to pay, but that the Boers had to be stopped making rifle trenches within range of the town. The members of the party are now the envy and pride of the garrison. Even the Boer commander, Botha, expressed admiration of the attack and added that he would take Mafeking ere long, for he meant to do one thing or the other quickly.

Sunday passed quietly, the volunteer band playing in the women's laager. All Sunday night the Boers poured a rifle fire into the town. It was set going after dinner Sunday evening when Colonel Baden-Powell hoisted a red lamp on the cottage which was the scene of Captain Fitzclarence's night attack. The ruse answered splendidly. The moment the light appeared the Boers opened fire, and their fusillade lasted the whole night through.

There has been a tremendous waste of ammunition. Indeed, it is estimated that 30,000 rounds of ball cartridges were wasted on the occasion of the night attack on the Boer trenches. Double rations have been served out to the men, who are under shelter so as to be on the safe side if the Boers should sweep the town by a long range rifle fire. The garrison is hanging on finely. Colonel Baden-Powell has the fullest confidence in everybody, especially in the matter of implicit obedience to the order to hold the fire until the Boers get to close range.

The dispatch then describes General Cronje's great attack of Monday, the details of which have already been cabled from Colonel Baden-Powell's official dispatches.

"The end came," says the correspondent, "after five hours' fighting. The enemy retired, being heavily beaten for all time so far as Mafeking is concerned."

It was the hottest day of the siege and the firing was terrific, the Boers evidently recognizing that the way into Mafeking, if any, is by a kopje, which was gallantly defended by Colonel Walford's men. The garrison is jubilant, while the Boers have been hurled back in disorder on their laager and will have to content themselves with a long range bombardment unless they are strongly reinforced.

The enemy lost heavily. For hours after their fighting line had been rolled back two wagons went slowly along their position, picking up the dead and wounded. The kopje resembled a shambles after the fight. All the men were killed by bullets or shells. The lookout tower was shot to pieces, while even the saddles of the horses were fearfully battered about. The whole place was simply smashed up by the concentrated fire of seven guns and 1000 rifles.

The Boers at first held on their advance pluckily, but they could not live when they came to short range, the men being shot down at 300 yards.

The enemy is expected to draw off early in order to defend Pretoria. There is still no news from the south. As I send this message off 600 Boers have gone south with wagons and have commenced shelling.

Cardinal Vaughn's letter to the pope, pointing out the evil effect which attacks upon England, appearing in the Vatican organs, are having upon British opinion has already borne fruit. Last evening The Osservatore Romano published a paragraph declaring that it is the official organ of the holy see in announcements of fact only, and that its comments upon the war in South Africa are not inspired by the Vatican. It says that the holy see will not take the side of either party in the hostilities.

His Mind Is Clouded.

Nyack, N. Y., Nov. 16.—News at last has been received which tends to clear up the mystery of the disappearance of Rev. William H. Dexter, who went to New York about a week ago and concerning whose whereabouts the police of the metropolis have been unable to ascertain anything. Foul play was feared by his family. Last evening Mrs. Dexter received a letter from Andrew N. Morse of Asheville, N. C., stating that her husband was at his home and being cared for. The letter stated that Mr. Dexter's mind was not clear, but that he was getting better. Mr. Morse, who wrote the letter, is an old friend of the Dexter family. His letter does not state how Mr. Dexter made the trip from the city south nor anything regarding the details of his strange disappearance from New York.

Voluntarily Surrenders.

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—Anthony J. Dittmier, who says he was a first sergeant in the marine corps, and served on the cruiser Brooklyn when Cervera's fleet was destroyed off Santiago, yesterday gave himself up for a murder committed in St. Louis in 1894. Dittmier, who is 26 years old, killed his employer with a blow of his fist, in self-defense, he says. Fearing arrest he enlisted in the navy under the name of Dittmayer, and served with distinction until a few days ago, when he was discharged. He gave bond to appear and answer any charges made against him.

LONG MARRIED.

Seventh Golden Wedding in One Family in 43 Years.

About one hundred relatives and friends gathered at the residence of Mr. William and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Curtis on Pearl street, Wednesday evening, to assist them in celebrating their golden wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis are both well known in Quincy. They have one daughter Miss Elizabeth A. Curtis. Although somewhat advanced in years both enjoy good health. The evening was passed in a pleasant manner, and many wishes were expressed that they might live to celebrate their diamond wedding twenty-five years hence. Mr. and Mrs. Curtis were remembered by numerous presents of gold.

Mr. Curtis is a boot and shoe worker which business he has followed for years and he is at present employed daily at the Old Colony Boot and Shoe Co.'s manufactory.

Mr. Curtis is a grandson of Noah and Ann Pray Curtis and comes from a long lived family. His grandfather had seventeen children, three of whom are now living, Ann Curtis, Elizabeth F. Williams and Thomas Curtis.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Curtis was the seventh that has been celebrated in the family during the past forty-three years. The others were as follows:

Feb. 11, 1856, Noah and Ann (Pray) Curtis, the grandparents of William.

Nov. 1, 1870, Adam and Eliza A. (Baxter) Curtis, parents of William.

Oct. 10, 1872, Paul and Ann (Baxter) Wild, the latter a sister of mother of William.

Jan. 22, 1879, Daniel and Abigail Curtis (Baxter), the latter a sister of father of William.

May 14, 1885, Benjamin and Emeline (Spear) Curtis, the former a brother of father of William.

Nov. 15, 1899, William and Elizabeth A. (Rideout) Curtis, the subjects of this sketch, the former a grandson of Noah Curtis and son of Adam Curtis.

Aside from these there have also been golden weddings of two cousins, Benjamin L. Crane in 1879, and John Crane in 1898.

Leg Broken.

William H. Teasdale of West Quincy met with an accident Tuesday afternoon, which resulted in the breaking of his leg. Mr. Teasdale was seated upon one of Doble's delivery wagons, intending to ride home. Two others got into the team and Mr. Teasdale moved over to give them room. This brought him on the end of the seat. When the team started, it turned suddenly, and Mr. Teasdale losing his balance fell off. He first thought he had only sprained his ankle, but the physician summoned saw at once that it was a fracture.

TODAY'S COURT.

James Sullivan was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Friday.

The liquor seized from Alice Thayer at Weymouth were forfeited.

HALL LEADING.

His Majority Over Jones But Three.

But Six Councilmen Were Renominated.

Chairman Dolliver of City Committee Reelected.

It was a close call for City Auditor Hall for the delegates to the Municipal convention. In the three wards where there were contests he only secured one delegate in 22. In Wards One, Five and Six the voters had no choice, as only Hall delegations had been filed. However, as any five voters had the privilege of filing a list of delegates, it shows that these wards are well united upon Mr. Hall. These wards have 23 delegates, a majority of the convention which numbers 45. With the addition of one delegate from Ward Two, Mr. Hall will have 24 votes in the convention, to 21 for Frederick L. Jones and all others, as this summary will show:

	Hall.	Jones.
Ward One,	9	0
Ward Two,	1	5
Ward Three,	0	9
Ward Four,	0	7
Ward Five	9	0
Ward Six,	5	0
	24	21

But six of the present City Council were nominated, Messrs. Packard, Johnson, McLennan, Bryant, Alden and Hill. If six more are nominated at large it will make a total of but 11.

The doings of the caucuses are given at length below:

DOLLIVER REELECTED.

The old Ward Committee carried the day in Ward One, all being reelected by safe majorities Chairman Dolliver was low man on the old list, but he led ex-Mayor Sears the leading man of the new list by 27 votes. There was also a contest for Councilmen from Ward, a list of seven being presented from which to select three. Councilman Packard was handsomely renominated, and Henry M. Faxon and Henry P. Kittredge had safe pluralities.

Only one list of Mayoralty delegates were presented, all were elected.

Warren W. Adams was chairman of the caucus and Wilson Marsh secretary. The ballot clerks were James F. Merrill, Henry W. French, Herbert Pratt and Charles Sampson.

The progress of the voting is shown by the following figures; 75 at 6.30, 100 at 6.37, 150 at 7.01, 200 at 7.20, 250 at 7.46, 300 at 8.18, and 334 at 9.

The caucus authorized the chairman and secretary to fill any vacancy in nominees for Councilmen.

The vote in detail was:

CLOSE IN WARD TWO.

A majority of the delegates elected in the Quincy Point ward are favorable to Frederick L. Jones for Mayor. It was a very close and sharply fought caucus, and all the candidates for delegates received between 67 and 72 votes. The total vote was 143. The first five on the Jones list were elected but Councilman A. W. Newcomb who led the Hall list, received one more vote than Mr. Weston, the low man on the Jones list. The vote is so close that a recount of the votes for delegates is talked.

For the three nominees for the City Council, Councilman A. W. Newcomb was a candidate for renomination, and he had as rivals three new men. The new men won.

Eugene C. Hultman was chairman of the caucus, and Albert Keating the secretary. The ballot clerks were Alexander Thompson, Fred Alden, George Taylor and Thompson B. Crane.

For Councilmen there were six names to select from. The two old members, Messrs. Johnson and McLennan won easily, the third man being Thomas W. Smith.

For Ward Committee a list of eleven names were on the ticket, from which seven were to be elected. Everything was harmonious, and although 191 votes were cast, the result was announced early by Chairman Bigelow.

RIPLEY IN WARD FOUR.

That the West Quincy Republicans are becoming interested, is shown by the largely attended caucuses held this year. That for the State election was called an unusually large caucus, but that of Wednesday night broke the record and never in the memory of the oldest inhabitant was such a large Republican caucus held in this ward.

There were two lists of Mayoralty delegates, and two lists for Ward Committee, and friends of each put forth every effort to get out the voters. Carriages were in attendance all the evening, and men voted who had never been known to attend a caucus of any kind before. The polls were to close at 8.30 but at that hour upon motion of Walter H. Ripley, they were kept open for fifteen minutes more.

The Ward Committee had provided 225 ballots, which was thought to be amply sufficient, but as the voters began to come in, it looked as though they

We are glad to see that the people of Adams street believe in a liberal use of printer's ink. All the beautiful old elm trees that line the roadside and adorn the grounds of the residents have bands of tar paper covered with ink. Next summer we hope these thoughtful citizens will enjoy the shade from these trees without the disagreeable canker worms that they might have had but for their timely precaution.

Quincy should be comparatively free from canker worms and bugs on the trees next spring, as more attention than usual has been paid to them this fall. There has been a great demand for printer's ink and it is a great pity every owner of apple or elm trees has not secured some, for where one man goes to the trouble of doing his trees and his next neighbor, does not, his labor is almost as good as wasted.

Won by Big Score.

The Quincy High second eleven defeated Abington first eleven yesterday by 47 to 0. Quincy had the ball in her possession almost the entire game, and by fast end plays, succeeded in running up her largest score of the season. The features of the game were William's excellent running around the ends. Miller's dodging, Murphys' line bucking, and a sensational run of ninety-five yards by Tupper on a double pass. The game was interesting throughout.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

With a loved one lying on a bed of sickness you call a Physician in whom you have confidence to prescribe at the bedside. The Pharmacist who fills that Physician's prescription should be one in whom you have the same degree of confidence. You would not call a dry goods drummer to prescribe for that loved one. Do not go to a grocery store to have medicine for the sick one dispensed.

ALL WERE PRETTY.

But No Trouble in Selecting Prettiest Baby.

If anyone has the idea that babies are a scarce article in Quincy, they should have attended the baby show at the Grand Army fair on Wednesday afternoon. It was not much of a day for babies to be out, yet forty-three proud mothers appeared with their infants which they exhibited to the eyes of an admiring crowd. There were large babies, small babies, and pretty babies, and not a homely baby in the lot. Each baby had its own individual distinctive traits, and the mothers never tired of extrolling their good qualities and funny and witty sayings.

There was no need of the mothers burdening themselves by carrying their babies about, for there were plenty of willing hands who were ready to relieve the mothers of their charge. With so many youngsters and confusion, it is no wonder that the babies got tired, but in spite of all that they were quiet, much more so than one would expect.

The selection of the prettiest baby did not prove to be as hard a job as might be imagined and the choice of the judges met with the hearty approval of all.

The task of weighing the babies was tiresome and took some time. There were numerous complaints that the scales were not right, but as all were weighed upon the same scales it was as fair for one as another. The weighing was done by Commander Warner.

The judges were Mrs. Walter M Packard, Miss Abby Barnes, Mrs. Alonzo Minchen, and they awarded the prizes as follows:

Prettiest, Effie Henrietta Peterson.

Heaviest, Lucy Hale Waite, 36 1-2 pounds.

Lightest, William Peterson, 8 pounds.

The prizes were silver gold lined cups marked "G. A. R. Baby."

Carriage Accident.

Just before noon today as Mrs. Stephen E. Moxon and daughter of Atlantic were driving on Granite street, near Quarry street, in a light buggy, the forward axle broke and the carriage was overturned. Mrs. Moxon was hurt on the right foot and arm, and Miss Moxon escaped unhurt. The injured lady was kindly cared for at the residence of James W. Pierce, who afterwards drove her home in his carriage. The horse driven by Mrs. Moxon dashed up Packard's lane as far as the quarries.

might run short. They held out, however, although there was none too many, for 219 votes were cast.

Chairman Burke called the caucus to order, and Arthur W. Woodward was elected chairman and Arthur W. Loud secretary.

The tellers were Eugene M. McCormick, Alex. McWilliams, J. Frank Merrill, and J. H. Campbell.

When the votes were counted it was found that the voters as a rule did not confine themselves to any one delegation, but selected some of each. In other cases voters had voted for more than the requisite number and in still other cases they had voted for every name on the ticket. It was eleven o'clock before the result was announced, when it was seen that the second list of delegates, known as the "Ripley list" had won out. Two of these, Messrs. Ferguson and Duane received 96 votes each, beating Messrs. Shirley and Ames of the first list, who received 95 votes each. A recount will probably be asked.

For Ward Committe, five of the second list and Messrs. Campbell and Burke of the present committee were elected.

BRYANT NOMINATED.

Promptly at 7 o'clock Chairman Freeman of the Ward Five Republican Committee called the Wollaston caucus to order. Permanent organization was effected by electing R. R. Freeman as chairman, E. E. Jameson, as secretary and A. L. Baker and H. M. Fairbanks as tellers.

There were 211 ballots cast, about 40 less than at last years' municipal caucus. The utmost good feeling was in evidence among the candidates as well as among the voters. For a Wollaston caucus it was rather tame.

The contest came wholly on the councilmen. Councilman Bryant polled the largest vote, 157, but in this number there were many ballots variously estimated at from 20 to 35, the larger part of which were supposed to have been cast by the Park voters. There were also a few ballots cast for the other candidates.

The result was as follows:

ATLANTIC FOR HALL.

The Ward Six caucus brought out 71 voters, the only contest being over Councilmen. The Mayoralty delegates elected, while unpledged on the ballot, are understood to be solid for City Auditor John O. Hall for Mayor.

Four names were presented from which to select three candidates for Councilmen. The first three, including Councilmen Alden and Hill and William G. Gassett. Mr. Dittmer the defeated candidate made a protest against the location of his name upon the ballot, claiming it should have been placed second so as to have been in alphabetical order. The rule of the Republican City Committee was that the names should be placed in the order they were filed with the secretary, so that if Mr. Dittmer's name came in last it was properly placed.

Ex-Councilman F. E. Badger was chairman of the caucus, and George E. Kempton secretary. They were assisted by Frank W. Blanchard, Edwin Thorpe and Stephen E. Bennett.

The Ward Committee was elected without contest, and the result in detail was as follows, those marked with an asterisk being elected.

THE UNLUCKY PATRIA

Takes Fire and Places Lives of Passengers and Crew In Peril.

Russian Steamer to the Rescue In Nick of Time.

Flames Worked So Rapidly That Personal Belongings Were Left Behind.

New York, Nov. 16.—Emil Boas, general manager of the Hamburg-American line, when told of the steamer Patria's misfortune, said: "The Patria carried only second-cabin passengers, and steerage. She may have had about 150 persons in the steerage. The cargo was worth the greater part of $1,000,000. The vessel herself was worth about $700,000. We insure ourselves. The Patria had about 60 officers and crew, all of them living in Germany."

In her short life the Patria was unlucky. She was a steel, twin screw, four-masted steamship. She was built at Stettin in 1894. Her total tonnage was 6664. She was 460 feet long. She had triple expansion engines. Her horse power was 578. She was a combination cargo and passenger steamship. Her last trip to this port ended Oct. 26, and she sailed for Hamburg on Nov. 4.

The Patria, Captain Frohlien, which left New York Nov. 4, for Hamburg, and passed the Lizzard Tuesday, is on fire near Dover. All of the passengers were rescued, and have arrived at Dover.

The Russian steamer Ceres sighted the Patria, showing signals of distress and demanding imemdiate help, about 12 miles from Hinder lightship. The liner was enveloped in smoke. Putting on full steam, the Ceres soon reached the Patria, and sending a boat learned that Captain Frohlich was in urgent need of assistance. The boats were got out, and, with great difficulty, all the Patria's passengers, numbering 150, were transferred to the Ceres. The Ceres proceeded for Dover, where she arrived just before midnight. Among the saved are many women and children, as well as six babies in arms.

The hurry of the rescue was indicated by the fact that most of them were enveloped in blankets only. They were rapidly distributed among the hotels or sent to the sailors' home, and everything possible is being done for their comfort.

According to interviews with some of the passengers, which elicted the fact that most of them are American citizens who have come for a vacation in Europe, all were ordered on deck at 6 o'clock Wendesday morning, when they were informed that a disastrous fire had broken out among the general cargo, and, as the crew were unable to master it, the captain said he considered it advisable for the passengers to take to the boats.

At this time it was evident that the fire had obtained a thorough hold upon the cargo. Smoke and flames were ascending with overpowering force, and causing the greatest alarm. The crew, according to several passengers, worked like heroes in their endeavors to keep the flames under, but the great quantity of linseed among the cargo and the oil supplied by this made all their efforts hopeless.

There was very great excitement among the women and children, but the example set by the coolness of Captain Frohlich and the crew had a calming effect upon the passengers generally.

The boats were promptly got over the side, the crew working as if they were at drill. The safety of the ladies and the children was the first consideration. As the fire had by this time consumed the greater part of the passengers' belongings they had to get into the boats as they had come from their bunks, and some were in very light raiment.

The scene was a striking one, with some touching aspects, as husbands and fathers parted from their wives and children.

Although everything was carried out under the most trying conditions, thanks to the great coolness of the captain and crew, there was no panic, all the passengers being gotten into the boats and into two fishing boats which had come up in the meantime.

Just as this had been effected a large steamer was seen to be making toward the burning liner. She proved to be the Ceres, which first sent a boat and then picked up all the Patria's passengers.

The Ceres offered also to take off Captain Frohlich and the crew, but the latter preferred to remain by the vessel so long as there was any chance of saving her, although there was the greatest danger in doing so, her hull being hot at the time, and there being every evidence that she would burn for a considerable period.

The passengers say they learned from the officers that Captain Frohlich hopes to put his steamer ashore at some point on the coast where there will be a possibility of saving her.

The passengers, who had nothing to eat since 7:30 Wednesday morning, were treated with the greatest kindness on being landed at Dover. Among them were 24 ladies and about 20 children, who looked very wretched as they landed at the admiralty pier.

The crew of the liner is said to consist chiefly of Americans.

In Goebel's Favor.

Louisville, Nov. 16.—Goebel gained 52 votes yesterday on the official count of the returns from this city. Aside from this there was no change anywhere in the state yesterday. It is thought the canvassing of the Jefferson county votes will be completed in a few days. Then the whole question will be put before the state board, which will meet at Frankfort some time between now and Dec. 4.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Rain has fallen in the south Atlantic states and from the Ohio valley northeastward throughout New England. The temperature will rise. Generally fair weather is indicated for New England. On the New England coast the winds will be light to fresh northwesterly.

SITUATION AT FALL RIVER.

Manufacturers Think That Wage Question Can Be Peaceably Settled.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 16.—The belief prevails here that the special committee of the manufacturers having under consideration the last communication from the Textile council and the question of introducing a sliding scale into the mills of this city will take the limit of time given them by the operatives in which to reply to the final demand for an increase of 10 percent. One reason given for delaying until such a late day is that it will be impossible to secure sufficient data in a shorter time, and as it is proposed to make the sliding scale as complete as possible, much work of a difficult nature will be involved. Another reason for the delay is stated to be the fact that the manufacturers believe that the operatives are not quite as anxious to enter upon a strike as surface conditions would seem to show, and they believe that as the time limit for action draws near a peaceable means of settling the wage question will be presented.

Labor leaders will not discuss the question of a sliding scale, and a prominent leader said: "When the manufacturers offer such a scale it will be time enough to talk, and we will then consider it. The council will act upon whatever communication the mill men send them."

The executive council of the National Federation of Textile Operatives, with which the local unions are affiliated, will meet next Wednesday for the purpose of considering the conditions here and taking some action on them. The day following is the time limit fixed for the reply from the manufacturers, and it is probable that the action of the national body will be governed in a great measure by its tone.

Notwithstanding the strike talk and the wage agitation it is stated upon reliable authority that several corporations are contemplating building additions to their plants, the Sagamore and Cornell mills being among those mentioned. A subscription list will be opened shortly, if conditions warrant it, for the purpose of erecting a new fine goods mill, with a capacity equal to that of any similar mill in the city.

VOTERS TURNED OUT IN FORCE.

Caucuses of Democrats of Boston Indicate That Collins Is the Nominee.

Boston, Nov. 16.—The Democratic caucuses in all the wards of the city last night were the largest ever held in Boston, the fierce contest for the mayoralty nomination between Patrick A. Collins, formerly consul general to London, and John R. Murphy, a former water commissioner, being sufficient to attract thousands to the polls.

The convention is entitled to 291 delegates. There are 146 needed to win. Collins has about 150 pledged delegates. He has all Republican wards, and his forces were generally successful where it was expected. Murphy has less than 100 pledged delegats, though he is favored by unpledged tickets.

The caucuses were generally quiet. The caucus in ward 8 was an exception. The warden was arrested after one of the most stormy caucuses ever held. Three arrests were made in ward 18 and one in ward 21.

In East Boston General Collins won. Representative Douglass made a hard fight for Murphy, but the Collins ticket was successful.

Murphy carried Charlestown, winning by large margins in each of the three wards.

Congressman Fitzgeraldd had no trouble in carrying ward six for Collins. The Lomasney ticket won in ward eight by a vote of three to one.

The Collins ticket had easy victories in wards 9, 10, 11, 20, 22, 23, 24 and 25. Nawn's unpledged ticket won in ward 21 and the Davis unpledged ticket in ward 12 was also successful.

The Collins ticket in ward 14 was defeated by a narrow margin. The successful ticket is unpledged, but supposed to be for Murphy. The indications are that the ticket in ward 13 will be split.

The Collins ticket won by 150 votes in ward 16.

The Murphy ticket carried wards 17 and 19, and the O'Toole unpledged ticket in ward 18 is thought to be successful. The Collins ticket won in ward 22.

Difficult to Obtain Jurymen.

New York, Nov. 16.—The trial of Roland B. Molineux, charged with causing the death of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams, was continued before Recorder Goff yesterday. Efforts were directed toward securing a jury, but notwithstanding the fact that 46 talesmen were examined not one juryman was chosen. Of those who failed to qualify seven objected to the death penalty, about the same number declared their unwillingness to convict on circumstantial evidence, half a score were unable to define the meaning of terms submitted by the counsel, five had an insufficient knowledge of the English language and the others, except those peremptorily challenged, were excused on the various grounds of general consent, ill-health and old age.

Plan to Defeat McKinley in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Nov. 16.—One of the most prominent Democrats in Ohio is authority for the statement that a conference is to be held by the leaders of the Democratic, Union Reform and Socialist Labor parties and the leaders of the Jones campaign, seeking to bring about a fusion of those interests. The reason given for this is that Nash did not have a majority of the votes cast in the recent election for governor, and it is hoped, if the fusion can be brought about, the anti-imperialists can defeat McKinley in Ohio in the presidential election.

Probable Murder and Suicide.

New York, Nov. 16.—Henry Luben and his wife, Mary, were found dead in their room, 850 Third avenue. The police believe that the woman was murderd by her husband and that he then killed himself. Both were shot through the head. They separated three months ago by mutual agreement, the man being a consumptive and unable to contribute to his wife's support. Yesterday he called on her, their death being the result of the visit.

Still Gaining Strength.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 16.—Vice President Hobart passed a comfortable day yesterday. He has eaten solid foods for some days now. He was very much grieved to learn of the death of Major Logan in battle. They were personal friends at Washington.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire, if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

CAUGHT IN BOER TRAP.

Armored Train of the British Meets With Disaster.

Loss of More Than a Hundred Men Near Estcourt.

Shows That Boers Are Rapidly Pushing Their Positions Southward.

Stories of the Death of Commander Joubert Are Not Credited In London.

London, Nov. 17.—The worst British disaster since that at Nicholson's Nek is reported from Estcourt.

A British armored train reconnoitering to the north was derailed and shelled by the Boers and most of the force on board were either killed or captured.

Special dispatches from Estcourt estimate the killed, wounded and missing of the armored train contingent at from 100 to 150. The missing include Lieutenant Winston Churchill and Captain Haldane. The only hope is that some escaped over the veldt and will return to Estcourt in a few days.

Through the most heroic efforts on the part of the men, with Lieutenant Churchill at their head, they got the engine and tender back on the track again and the few who were able to get back on board ran the engine back to Estcourt.

From the fierce fire of the Boers as shown by the dispatches, it is feared that few escaped death or capture.

Misfortune steadfastly pursues British employment of armored trains, the fascination for which has given the Boers their first and latest victories. On this last occasion the British seem to have walked into a deliberate trap.

Of the killed, wounded or missing the Fusiliers claim 50 and the Durban infantry 40. It is believed that few escaped and that the others are prisoners in the hands of the Boers. Many of the wounded were brought backion the locomotive and tender of the armored train.

Captain Haldane of the Gordon Highlanders was attached to the fusiliers, and other officers were with them. The list of casualities is awaited with great anxiety. In time of trouble Lieutenant Winston Churchill has proved himself more a soldier than a correspondent, and his gallantry is highly praised on all sides. The fate of Lieutenant Churchill is unknown.

WINSTON CHURCHILL.

The Natal Mercury, describing the engagement, says: "The enemy apparently opened fire with a Maxim and two nine-pounders, getting the range accurately The fire was so severe that telegraph wires and poles were destroyed. Their guns were posted on a kopje covered with brushwood, and their sharpshooters were hidden behind boulders. The Dublins and volunteers, fighting an unequal battle, thrice drove the enemy back, but the fierceness of the rifle and big gun fire was too much for the brave little party, which was weakened at the outset by the overturning of the trucks, hurting several.

"Lieutenant Churchill's bravery and coolness were magnificent. Encouraged by him, all worked like heroes in clearing the line to enable the engine to pass."

Later details show that a heavy rain and mist compelled a cessation of firing. Lieutenant Churchill bravely carried the wounded to the tender, under fire. While the Boers were destroying the train their scouts pushed in and exchanged shots with the British pickets, a few miles from Estcourt. It appears that the Boers were in ambush. As soon as the train had passed up, they emerged from cover and dislodged the sleeper bolts.

The latest dispatches from Estcourt say that the train was capsized by an explosion, presumably of dynamite. The engine returned to Estcourt with two dead fusiliers and the following wounded hanging on: Captain Wylie, three non-commissioned officers, and nine privates, all belonging to the Durban volunteers.

Another Estcourt correspondent says: A Boer contingent of 20 men came south of Frere on Wednesday, and two companies of mounted troops, imperial light horse and Natal carbineers, engaged them eight miles from Estcourt. The Boers occupied a strong position on a kopje. The carbineers worked around on their right and drove the enemy back, whereupon the imperial light horse opened a brisk fire at a medium range, killing several. One man of the imperial light horse was wounded.

The most serious feature of the affair, apart from the loss of men, is that it shows that the oers are rapidly pushing their positions south, and apparently closing in on Estcourt.

Only a few days ago some doubt was expressed as to whether even Colenso was occupied by the Boers, but yesterday's event shows that they have actually mounted heavy artillery many miles south of Colenso, and almost within range of Estcourt. Their movements would show that they have no fear of General White escaping them, and that they are preparing to resist General Buller's advance to relieve Ladysmith.

The rumor of the death of General Joubert is discredited. It is understood that the war office has news that he is still directing affairs. It is also rumored from Pietermaritzburg that the Boer losses at Ladysmith on Thursday were heavy and included General Lucas Meyer, who was either killed or wounded.

The report as to General Joubert probably arose from the fact that his wife has left the Boer camp at Ladysmith for the Free State.

According to the Pietermatizburg correspondent of the London Outlook, rumors are current in the Natal capital that the Boers contemplate a retreat. It is needless, however, to attach importance to such reports, which are spread in all probability with a view of luring General White, if possible, to abandon his defensive attitude. Similar rumors are current regarding the Boers at Mafeking, and are spread industriously by native spys.

The Standard and Diggers News of Johannesburg on Tuesday published official advices confirming the report that 3:00 Boers were advancing on Estcourt.

The searching of the mines continues, but no startling discoveries have been made beyond the finding of a case of interesting documents in one of the shafts relating to the reform conspiracy at the time of the Jameson raid.

Special dispatches from Lourenze Marques say that the Transvaal government is exercising a severe censorship over all war news, and will not allow newspapers to leave the country. One correspondent says that the Boers are hurrying new commands to Ladysmith, and are declaring that the place must fall speedily, in order to liberate their force so that these may go to meet General Buller's advance.

The West Yorkshire regiment, the "Prince of Wales' Own," commanded by Colonel Kitchener, brother of Lord Kitchener of Khartoum fame, has arrived at Estcourt from Durban. The trops there "sleep in their boots," and the utmost vigilance is maintained, and it is rumored that some important movement is imminent.

According to a special dispatch from Lorenzeo Marqueze, General Lucas Meyer has gone to Pretoria for his health. Moreover a difference of opinion exists among the commanders. The Boer military council wants the army moved elsewhere, but General Joubert insists that Ladysmith must fall first.

The postal authorities at Durban open and inspect all letters from Delagoa bay.

A Lourenzo Marquez newspaper reports that Ladysmith was subjected to a very heavy bombardment all day Tuesday, and that at midnight all the cannon on the hills surrounding the town opened fire simultaneously, pouring shells from all points of the compass. Several buildings were afire, the newspaper asserts, and could be distinctly seen from Bulna Hill.

The transport Mohawk, having the Twelfth Lancers on board, has arrived at Cape Town.

The transport Armenian, with three batteries of artillery, has reached Durban.

Small Dividend From Moore Estate.

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 17.—The dividend checks on the assets in the hands of Assignee Edwin F. Jones of the Dr. J. C. Moore estate are being sent out, and they are equal to 11-6 percent. The claims are many, and vary in amount from $92,003.50 to $3.65. Some of the larger claims are as follows: Derryville Savings bank, A. T. Lovering, receiver, $24,881.50; Commonwealth National bank, $59,564.44; People's Fire Insurance company, $35,881.50; D. W. Lane, $45,175.49. There are many claims for comparatively large amounts, and some ridiculously small. On one, for $3.65, the claimant's dividend will amount to 4 cents.

Mr. Dexter's Troubles.

New York, Nov. 17.—A special dispatch to The Evening Post from Asheville, N. C., says: Rev. W. H. Dexter, the missing Nyack clergyman, is in this city. It is learned that Mr. Dexter says that he was undergoing an attack of mental aberration when he left home. He states that he had borrowed money until he was so deeply in debt that it preyed severely on his mind, and he decided to disappear forever from the knowledge of his wife and children. It was his idea that thinking he was dead they could collect the insurance on his life.

THE HEALING ART.

A Popular Local Physician Reads a Paper.

The City Band "Musical and Literary Society" listened to an excellent paper Thursday evening on "The Healing art; a brief sketch of its progress from early historic periods," by Dr. R. McLennan.

It was immensely enjoyed by the members and those who heard it. In closing he said:

"A history of the progress of the healing art, is the story of its evolution from faith and credulity to rational empiricism, and from rational empiricism to science. It is a long story and by reflection we would think it could be accomplished in a much shorter time, but it takes humanity a long time to get anything through its head. In this long story we would meet with numberless remedies, each of which was in its own day sanctioned by the highest authority and afterwards laid aside as useless. This only reminds us how far astray an honest opinion may be, and what a great difference there is between what we believe and what we know, even in the most intelligent of people.

"This has lead the profession to be indulgent towards an individual opinion, to be broad-minded and at the same time critical, as to what is and is not evidence. It has taught the profession to be sceptical—perhaps of all the learned professions, it is most so, in respect of what humanity is willing to believe.

"It has taught them not to take life too serious, but to enjoy the benefits of nature, to think and to examine for themselves, to take nothing for truth on the authority of others which experience has taught them investigation will often prove erroneous.

"It has taught me that none of the Christian dogmas are essential to character, usefulness or happiness. I make a comparison between a medical society meeting and an ecclesiastical conclave. The scientists irrespective of race or nationality are deliberating lovingly, cheerful and honestly according to conviction, having an eye singly to the good of their fellow-man. The "salt of the earth" are wrangling over some professor who allowed his mind to broaden out sufficiently to burst the sacred relic that came down from pre-anatomic times—the creed."

"It has taught me on a very sick bed to meet with death:—

"Like one that wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to a dreamless sleep."

The society will give a whist party on Friday evening, No. 24, when valuable presents will be presented.

Next Thursday evening there will be an essay on "Socialism," by Alex. C. Smith.

The City Council Committee on Streets meets tonight and the Committee on Finance Monday night.

Democratic Delegates for Present Mayor.

Nominees for Council Mostly New Men.

Some Contests Over Election of Ward Committees.

Democratic caucuses were held in all wards of the city Thursday evening. the fact that it was necessary to call them as early as 5 P. M., gave a longer time than usual to vote, and therefore the vote was larger. In some wards there were contests for delegates, but it was a fight among factions rather than over the nominees, for all the delegates are understood to be favorable to renomination of Mayor Keith. Several of the appointed officers of the Mayor were candidates for delegates and the Ward Committee in Ward One, but were defeated.

Councilman Hogan was the only member of the present Council renominated, and the list of 13 nominated includes but one ex-Councilman. No Councilmen were nominated in Ward Five.

WARD ONE.

The Ward One Democratic caucus was larger than usual; not because there was any contest as to preference for Mayor, but because there were two lists nominated for delegates to the Mayoralty convention, and two lists for the ward committee.

But one candidate was on the ballot for councilman, but as eight of the voters wrote the name of George H. Wilson on their ballots he becomes a candidate, although it is understood that he may withdraw his name.

When the time arrived for the caucus to open there were a number present, but as it turned out there were but two out of the number who were not candidates to be voted for.

These two gentlemen were therefore made the caucus officers, viz: T. H. Sullivan, chairman and W. J. Welch, secretary. When the polls closed the situation was the same and the chairman and secretary had to count the votes. The result was the defeating of what was called the "toney lists."

The ballot resulted as follows:

‡ Elected.

WARD TWO.

The only contest in Ward Two was over the selection of Councilmen. Five names were proposed for this office but the caucus was very decided in its choice. The caucus was quite large for this ward, 28 ballots being cast. William H. Sampson, Jr., was chairman, Henry P. Moynihan secretary, Michael T. Sullivan, Thomas H. Little and John F. Donovan were tellers. The result was as follows:

For delegates,—Fred E. Austin, Timothy J. Carey, Dennis J. Ford, John Lyons, Frank Barnes, Hugh J. Tracy, James D. Griffin, David M. Frazier, John H. McDonnell, William H. Sullivan.

For Councilmen,—James F. Cleverly, 26*; Alex. W. Thompson, 8; John W. Welsh, 28*; J. F. Kelly, 5; William Kiernan, 21*. *Elected.

For Ward Committee,—F. J. Carey, T. J. Ford, James M. Cleverly, William H. Sullivan, Daniel J. Ford, 2d, John W. Walsh, William F. Cain, C. F. Ford, W. H. Flynn.

WARD THREE.

The poles in Ward Three opened at 5 o'clock as in other wards but was not until 7 o'clock that enough voters were present to open the caucus. No contest was the cause for the lack of interest. When the caucus organized it was with John Boyle as chairman, Charles Cahill secretary and John Hanlon and Thomas L. Lewis as tellers.

For Delegates,—William A. Kelly, D. F. Griffin, Edward J. Parker, Anthony Sweeney, Samuel A. Dorety, Cornelius Moynihan, Timothy Dacey, Thomas M. Murphy, Charles J. Sullivan, Robert E. Foy, David J. Thomas, Thomas Curtis, Thomas Higgins, Welcome J. Blake, Michael Hartly.

For Councilmen,—William A. Kelly, Cornelius Moynihan.

Ward Committee,—William A. Kelly, George D. Cahill, James F. Parker, Dennis P. Donaher, Timothy F. Ford, Andrew W. Howley, Thomas Higgins, Thomas M. Murphy, Francis Morrison.

WARD FOUR.

There was no contest at the Ward Four Democratic caucus and therefore but little interest shown, the caucus being slimly attended when it is compared with the Republican caucus of the previous night and that this is the banner Democratic ward of the city, as 105 was the highest vote cast.

Patrick F. Hughes was chairman and Martin King secretary. The tellers were Thomas Keating and John Reardon.

For Delegates,—Jeremiah Curtin, John W. Burke, Matthew Lyons, James E. Gilraine Thomas F. Cain, James H. Elcock, William T. Shea, James F. White, Henry Hughes, Thomas Hogan, John J. Dugan, Thomas Shortle, James E. McDonald, John Cocoran, James Eagan, Ludwig Schatzl, Louis White, Peter Connelly, Michael B. Geary.

For Councilmen,—Thomas F. Hogan, William H. Callahan, James H. Elcock.

For School Committee,—Stephen B. Little.

For Ward Committee,—James F. Burke, Thomas F. Cain, Cornelius Crowley, Jeremiah Curtin, Jr., John Barry, Cornelius Driscoll, James A. White, James E. McDonnell, Michael B. Geary, James E. Gilraine, Matthew Lyons, Thomas H. Shortle, James F. Rooney, John Callahan, Lawrence P. Tracey, Henry Hughes, John Dineen, Timothy Driscoll.

WARD FIVE.

William P. Chase was chairman, Stephen H. Maloney secretary and George J. Shaw, teller at the Ward Five Democratic caucus. There was a light attendance. No nominations were made for the Council.

The result was as follows:

For Delegates, — Arthur Murphy, Francis R. McCormick, William J. Colligan, Richard F. Forrest, David J. Roche, William A. Jordan, V. J. Emery, Edward Twitchell, James J. Colligan.

For Ward Committee,—D. J. Roche, Arthur Murphy, William A. Jordan, James M. Mahony, Edward Twitchell, Francis McCormick, Edward Colligan, William J. Collagan, Frank J. Mahoney.

WARD SIX.

The Ward Six caucus brought out a larger vote than at the Republican caucus the night before, there being a contest over ward committee. There were 96 votes cast resulting in the choice of the following:

For Delegates,—Patrick Dolan, J. H. O'Brien, Jr., John A. Duggan, Stephen H. Edwards, John H. Edwards, John H. Sullivan, Elijah G. Hall.

For Councilmen,—John A. Duggan, Levi H. Turner, Horatio N. Holbrook.

For School Committee,—Frederick J. Peirce.

For Ward Committee,—John P. Granahan, John W. Creedon, Bernard Cullen, John J. Collins, John A. Duggan, S. H. Edwards, Martin W. Cunniff, John F. Sullivan, Cornelius M. Duggan.

The explosion of a lamp at the residence of Mrs. Kincaide on Franklin street, Thursday evening, was the occasion for the alarm from Box 32 at 6.35 o'clock. The fire was extinguished before any damage had been done.

A man staggering under the influence of liquor was seen wending his uncertain way up Sagamore street Thursday afternoon. Had he been a hero, he could have occasioned little or no less attention, for the sight is an uncommon one in Ward Six.

Parents should use great care when they give a boy an air rifle to play with. They are dangerous weapons, and in the hands of a careless boy are more so. Boys who own them about town amuse themselves by shooting birds, and that may get them into trouble.

Mrs. M. V. McCabe of Penn street left Thursday morning for New York where she expects to meet her son, William A. McCabe, who sails on the transport Logan, Saturday, for the Philippines. His young friends wish him a safe journey and a happy return home again.

The funeral of Albert White, formerly of Quincy was held in Chelsea, Wednesday, and remains were interred in Mt. Wollaston with military honor by Abraham Lincoln camp and Francis L. Souther, S. V. The company partially formed in front of cemetery in the square, and marched through Temple street.

Sixty-five men and eleven tip carts are at work on Coddington street. Of the sixty-five men, five at least are bosses. At the cut through the embankment near the almshouse, the men are as thick as they were on that famous Liberty street job under Mayor Hodges administration. The number of men at this particular point is twenty-five with five carts.

If anyone desires to see how foolishly money is being expended on streets let them take a walk through Arthur street, which has just been built. Instead of a top dressing of gravel it has received a thick coat of clay and loom, and when it rains the mud is ankle deep. As one resident of the street remarks it is rich enough to raise potatoes and other vegetables in.

A WORD OF CAUTION.

With a loved one lying on a bed of sickness you call a Physician in whom you have confidence to prescribe at the bedside. The Pharmacist who fills that Physician's prescription should be one in whom you have the same degree of confidence. You would not call a dry goods drummer to prescribe for that loved one. Do not go to a grocery store to have medicine for the sick one dispensed.

ONE WORD MORE.

As it it evidently the purpose of a newly organized "Company" to attempt to build up a business by holding out as an inducement some cost prices on a few of the more liberally advertised PATENT MEDICINES I wish to inform my friends and patrons that I will meet any and all prices in my particular line. These prices will hold good not only on Mondays and Tuesdays but on every day of the week.

School Teachers.

The Journal of Education quotes Supt. Lull of the Quincy schools as follows:—

"It costs more too equip a teacher now than it did a person who 'kept school' a few years ago. In most cases a longer time is spent in preparation before actual teaching is begun. Time and money so spent is an investment upon which interest must be reckoned. School authorities urge teachers to attend summer schools and courses of lectures, to own a pedagogical library, to subscribe for magazines, and in general to avail themselves of every means of culture open to them. All this renders teachers more valuable to their schools, that goes without saying, but—it also costs money, and no employer has a right to demand expenditure for his own benefit from an employe too whom he is paying only living wages, nor can he with justice require a constant increase in efficiency unless he expects to offer some pecuniary return."

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

Political.

There were 40 "bullets" thrown for Councilman Bryant at the Wollaston Republican caucus.

The Wollaston Republican nominees will have a Citizens' endorsement this election, the Democratic party not having made any nominations.

The Republican Mayoralty convention will be held Monday at Republican headquarters on Washington street, at 1 o'clock, and the Democratic convention will be held at French's hall at 4 o'clock the same day.

It is rumored that Councilman Newcomb may file nomination papers.

The vote at the Democratic caucuses in Boston exceeded the vote of the city for Candidate Paine.

John R. Muprhy and his friends have not yet given up the fight for the Mayoralty nomination in Boston.

Municipal Convention to be Held Before 5 P. M.

This Because the Caucuses Were So Late.

How the Law Regulates the Conventions.

An afternoon convention for the nomination of Mayor and Councilmen at large is something new for Quincy, but the caucuses were put off until such a late date that both Republicans and Democrats find it necessary to call their conventions before 5 P. M. on Nov. 20. An amendment by the Legislature of 1899 provides that "conventions shall be called for a date not later than 48 hours prior to the hour for filing certificates of nomination as provided in secton 145 this act."

Section 145 provides; "In cities, except Boston, certificates of nomination for city officers shall be filed on or before the second Wednesday (Nov. 22); and nomination papers on or before the second Friday (Nov. 24) preceding the day of election."

The date of the caucuses plays an important part, as Section 137 reads: "No convention to nominate candidates for any State or City office shall be called for a date earlier than four days after the holding of the caucuses for the choice of delegates thereto."

The Republicans by holding their caucuses on Wednesday, Nov. 15, could not hold their convention Saturday night because the four days would not intervene, and it could not be held Monday evening after 5 P. M., because it would be within 48 hours of the time of filing nominations, so it was called for Monday afternoon, Nov. 20.

The Democrats by holding their caucuses at 5 P. M. Thursday, Nov. 16, must count Sunday to allow four days to intervene, and they do not then get four full days before 4 P. M., Monday, Nov. 20, but it must be called before 5 P. M., Nov. 20.

Another year if evening conventions are preferable, the caucuses should be held the third Monday or Tuesday before election.

THE DONATION PARTY

Amateur Actors Score a Success At Atlantic.

The realization of pleasure at the presentation of "The Donation Party" at Music hall, Atlantic, Thursday evening was fully up to the anticipation, and Mr. Merrick and his Sunday School class scored a success.

There was much originality displayed in the acting and in the costumes, the latter oftentimes proving complete disguises.

It was to be expected that Miss Lillian Waterhouse would do well as she always does. Her "Aunt Jerushy" won for her unstinted praise both for her play and conception of the part and the appropriate dresses in which she was arrayed in the several scenes.

The singing and dancing and crying and general cutting up of Miss Annie Hall as "Phoebe," the colored maid of all work, was a continued source of entertainment.

"Marm Brown, the deaf woman but not dumb" Mrs. Winfred Ware acted her part true to "nater."

The parson's wife, Miss Annie White; the gossips, Miss Emilia Gassett, Miss Florence Wilson and Miss Emma Curtin, "Miss Pettingill," dumb but not deaf, whose part was taken by Miss Maud Gray, and the Parson's daughters, Miss Florence Gray and Miss Alice Coe, were all in the spirit of the play, and made excellent impressions. Miss Emma Curtin's make up was a particularly fine one and a complete transformation.

In both the parts taken by Mr. Merrick, "Pete" the chore-boy and "Seth" one of the farm hands, he displayed his customary vigor and skill in acting and in his songs with Miss Annie Hall and as a member of the male quartette was exceedingly pleasing.

Mr. Frank Coe was an excellent representative of a quiet, submissive country parson.

Mr. Percival Hall showed very much ability in acting his part of "Squire Appleby" and was very easy and natural.

Mr. Charles Cherrington's entire make up and acting were first class and entitle him to special recognition.

Brother Smith, Mr. George Bennett, and Herbert, the lost son, and Mr. Angus Polson the tree agent were well taken.

Mr. Winfred Ware, the village beau, and the farm hands, Messrs. Merrick, William Gassett and Charles Hammond enlivened the play with their pranks and quartette singing.

It was a most enjoyable evening and with the fine music by Miss Florence Wetherbee, as violinist and Miss Gertrude Hall, pianist, made the entertainment most successful and satisfactory.

The audience was a large one and was very generous in its expressions of approval and gratification.

A Collision.

A furniture team, which obstructed a full view of the street, was the cause of two carriages, one driven by William T. Shea and the other by Miss Pawsey, colliding on Washington street near the residence of N. B. Furnald about 5 o'clock Thursday evening. One of the rear wheels to Mr. Shea's buggy was smashed and he was thrown out. He retained control of his horse, however, and brought him to a stop. Miss Pawsey escaped unhurt, but the shafts and cross bar of her buggy were smashed. The horse cleared himself and ran toward City Square where he was stopped.

☞ "I have always deprecated the talk of inevitable and irrepressible conflicts between labor and capital, and I venture to deny that such is the normal condition. Capital would be merely accumulated rubbish were it not for the labor, and so there need be cooperation. I believe that those contests, with greater knowledge of and wisdom on both sides, are sure, in the long run to diminish. I welcome the combination of labor, and trust that your deliberations in this hall will result for good for the whole country. Good will come of it. You will receive the wisdom each one of you possesses, and I hope you will carry away with you a better knowledge of Massachusetts men. Welcome to the soil of Massachusetts."—Gov. Wolcott at Knights of Labor convention.

AN AWFUL EXPERIENCE

Sailors Were Brave and Cool During Terrible Ordeal.

Captain Even Found Time to Joke to Keep Up Courage of His Passengers.

Southampton, Nov. 17.—The rescued passengers of the Patria spent the night at Southampton. They were cared for at the Hamburg-American company's expense, while awaiting the arrival of the Kaiser Friedrich. Four of the passengers were left at Dover, and one of these, Mr. Duplace, died last night as a result of his terrible experience in the English channel.

It now seems probable that the Patria will, at least, be partly saved. What caused the fire is still a mystery, but it is asserted that the fact that the steamer was on fire was withheld from the passengers for some time, Captain Frohlich apparently wishing to take his ship to Hamburg without causing alarm if possible.

Mr. Duplace has been for 20 years German consul at San Juan, P. R. With him were his wife and Mrs. Ivers of New York city, a fellow cabin passenger, who, being a trained nurse, and seeing the distress of Mr. and Mr. Duplace, had volunteered to stay and nurse the consul, declining the opportunity to continue her journey to Germany.

The fourth survivor left at Dover is Captain Frohlich's steward, who went to the help of Mr. Duplace when the passengers were ordered on deck. Mr. Duplace was suffering from anemia, and the shock of the exposure aggravated the complaint to such an extent that death ensued.

Mrs. Duplace gives the following description of their escape: "It was about 10:30 Wednesday morning, the weather being calm and fine, and several of us being seated in the deck saloon, when suddenly Captain Frohlich appeared and shouted: 'All passengers on deck.' Everybody started forward with a rush. 'We are afire,' said the captain, 'but there is no danger. Don't get excited.'

"Just then smoke began pouring out through the deck near the smokestacks. My sick husband was in his cabin and undressed. I hurried to him, and began to dress him, when in came the steward, shouting 'Get out of this, quick.' He took my husband by the feet, and I supported his head. We started to carry him to the deck, but the smoke choked us, and the water from the fire hose swished around our knees. I feared that all was lost, but, going backward through another passage, we managed to reach the deck in safety.

"There all the passengers were crowded together. Thick clouds of smoke were blowing over the whole ship, and distress signals were flying. One passenger, who had hastily come from the bath room, appeared with scarcely any clothing on. Others found themselves equally unprepared. The captain told us he would lower the boats as a precaution. So we lined up.

" 'Women and children first,' shouted the captain, who was standing near me. I replied that I supposed I would have to wait for the men's turn, as I could not leave my helpless husband. Captain Frohlich answered me by lifting my helpless husband, placing him in the bottom of one of the boats, ordering me to follow, and telling the steward to go with us. Our boat was the first lowered.

"We were all terribly frightened, but, though a few cried, there was no disorder. The officers and crew did all they could and encouraged us to be brave and cool. While one boat was being lowered, the bottom began to give way. The women screamed and for a moment it seemed as if the bottom would drop out, but the boat was quickly hauled back. Another boat had no crew, the passengers doing the rowing.

"Meanwhile some fishing smacks had come up, and several passengers boarded these, but Captain Frohlich bellowed through the smoke that no one must leave the Patria's boats, so they left the smacks. From this order we inferred that the sailors, who were working ceaselessly, hoped to put out the fire. For more than an hour we lay alongside the liner, now hot and smoke-covered, cinders and debris falling over our boats. Through the fire we occasionally caught sight of Captain Frohlich on the bridge. He divided his attention between giving orders to the crew and joking with us. Once he said, laughingly: 'The fire is in my cabin. Now I can't get my pipe, and you all know I can't do anything without my pipe.'

"Then the Ceres came up, and her captain sang out 'Your ship's afire. Shall I take your passengers?' Frightened as we were, we laughed. Captain Frohlich made the Ceres promise to take us to Dover, and then our boats pulled over to her, and we were taken aboard. The last we saw of the Patria she was a mass of smoke, and going slowly toward Hamburg. Many of us had to pay for what little we could get to eat on board the Ceres. At Dover everybody was very kind.

"If the captain had put us ashore as soon as the fire was discovered we would not have lost our belongings, nor been exposed to such danger. I have made 15 trips across the Atlantic, and have seen a good many storms, but I never experienced anything so awful as being on board a ship which was on fire. I do not know what Mr. Duplace and I would do or could do, had not Mrs. Ivers offered to stay and to try and save my husband's life. We did not know her on board the Patria, but her deed is quite in keeping with the generous actions done by the American women whom we had so frequently met at San Juan since Porto Rico came under American control."

While waiting for the Kaiser Friederich, which arrived last evening, the passengers were cared for on board the Isle of Wight steamer Carisbrooke, provided for their accommodation by the Hamburg-American company. They presented a strange spectacle on their arrival. Some of the men were wrapped in blankets. The little children, several mere babes in arms, were crying for want of bread. Dinner was served them immediately on the Carisbrooke, as, although every attention had been shown them at Dover, they had had little to eat since morning. Some were prostrated with nervous excitement and had to be carried on board the Carisbrooke.

All are loud in their praises of the coolness and courage of Captain Frohlich and the crew, and of the courtesy shown them since they were rescued. Cowden Loughlin, a New Yorker, who is on the way to Berlin, confirms the statements of other passengers regarding the complete absence of anything like a panic. He says:

"The worst feature was the loss of the baggage. I lost all my diplomas, which were in my trunks. The opinion of all is that we should have been informed as soon as the fire was discovered, which would have enabled us to save our effects; but I believe the officers did not know the extent of the danger."

There is considerable conflict of opinion as to the date of the outbreak of the fire, some of the passengers declaring that it was Tuesday. This, however, lacks confirmation.

It is certain, however, that the officers knew of the existence of the fire at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, or nearly five hours before the passengers were told to come on deck.

Sixteen valuable race horses on board the Patria were suffocated or burned to death.

Other Marine Disasters.

New York, Nov. 17.—Steamer Olinda, from Cuban ports, brought as passengers six distressed seamen belonging to the British schooner Tacoma, Captain McKetchie, which went ashore on the south coast of Fortune island Oct. 29 and became a total loss. The Tacoma sailed from Guantanamo Oct. 18 for New York with a cargo of mahogany and cedar.

Kingston, Jam., Nov. 17.—Steamer Admiral Schley, from Kingston for Philadelphia, with fruit, on Tuesday was reported to have broken down, and to be drifting eight miles off Port Morant. The Admiral Dewey was dispatched to assist her and tow her to Port Antonio. These are all the details known as this dispatch is sent.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Captain Lawson, the steward and two sailors from the wrecked schooner Alfaretta S. Snare, which was abandoned off Cape Cod Sunday night while on a passage from St. John to New York, arrived here yesterday from Provincetown. The Snare was valued at between $6000 and $7000.

A Compromise Schedule.

Thompsonville, Conn., Nov. 17.—The striking employes in the dye works of the Hartford Carpet company, who quit work about five weeks ago, will return next Monday, as the differences between the employes and the company were adjusted yesterday. The strike was settled by arbitration. The men will return to work for 12½ cents an hour. They asked for 13½ cents, while, according to the schedule posted by the company, which precipitated the strike, they were to receive but 11½ cents. The company employs 1200 operatives.

DR. CODERRE'S RED PILLS

SICK WOMEN

The following women were all sick from diseases peculiar to their sex. Everyone of them will tell you that they have been cured by Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. No other remedy has ever cured so many women. They cure permanently, quickly and cheaply.

We never publish a testimonial of a lady unless it is in every way genuine. We do not have to, for we have thousands waiting their turn to be published. You do not know, or you never have heard of any remedy having such a great record of curing. If you ask why, we will tell you that the remedy is good; it is not like those cure alls or oldfashioned and expensive remedies. Ours is modern and cheap. Fifty Red Pills for 50c. will last longer than any $1.00 liquid remedy advertised to cure everything. If you stop to think, and consider what we tell you, you will want to know more, and we tell you again that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills cure women.

Mrs. H. Warner, 248 Valley St., Providence, R. I., writes: "All sick women ought to take Dr. Coderre's Red Pills, for I do not believe that there is a better remedy. I have taken them for women's troubles and general weakness. I, at the same time took the Purgative Tablets, and I am really surprised at the good these two remedies have done me. I am not at all sick to-day. I wish I had known this remedy long ago."

Mrs. L. Taylor, 1577 Gilbert St., Grand Rapids, Mich., writes: "I have taken Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for sick headache and biliousness. I was always tired, weak, had no courage and had severe backaches. I find this remedy to be the best I have ever taken; it is also the cheapest. I will never be without it again."

Miss J. Williams, 167 First Street, Detroit, Mich., writes: "I am glad to inform you that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills have cured me of what the Doctors told me was a very bad case of kidney trouble. I have suffered for years without being helped by medicine or Doctors. Your remedy is the one that has cured me. I honestly recommend this remedy to all sick women."

Mrs. Phillip Bourque, 302 Carter St., Manchester, N. H., writes: "I was suffering with everything that a woman can suffer. In fourteen months I tried three different doctors, none of them could cure me. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills alone have cured me. I am to-day altogether better."

The great number of women who have been cured by Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are enough to prove their merit. We ask every sick lady to believe what we say, for we say nothing but the truth. We ask them to compare this remedy with cure alls or oldfashioned liquid remedies, and they will find that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are for women alone and will wonder no more at their great success. They cure female weakness of every kind. They can be taken by old and young women. If you have been suffering for years it does not matter, take a few boxes and send a full description of your sickness to our Doctor Specialists who will be pleased to answer you fully and give you the best advice. It will cost you nothing. If you would prefer, come and see them at their offices. In the meantime send us your name on a postal card and we will mail to your address, free, our doctor's book, Pale and Weak Women.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are not a purgative, they should not be taken for that. Women who are suffering from constipation should take Dr. Coderre's Purgative Tablets which sell for 25c. a box. The combination of these two remedies always cures permanently and promptly. Read and follow carefully the directions given on the circular. It is very important if you wish to get the best effect.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are sold by all first class druggists at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. We mail them all over the world upon receipt of price. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred pills or at 25c. a box, for they are not ours, they are imitations. In the interest of your health do not be imposed upon. How yellow is each pumpkin
That in the meadow lies,
Almost as good as sunshine,
And better far for pies.

Golden Wedding.

Thursday evening at the Brunswick hotel, Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Erastus B. Badger of Braintree, observed the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding by a largely attended reception. The Venetian room was filled with quantities of flowers, the gifts of friends. The bay window, where the couple stood, was filled with great golden chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Badger wore a Worth gown of heavy black satin, trimmed with jet, and a point lace collar and looked very handsome. Her ornaments were diamonds and an elegant amethyst brooch set in diamonds and pearls, the gift of her children, who also presented their father with a diamond stud.

Mrs. N. F. T. Hayden of Braintree, their daughter, wore a most becoming French dress of black Brussells lace over black silk, embroidered with je paillettes.

Mr. and Mrs. Badger were married Nov. 16, 1849, by the Rev. Rollin H. Neale, pastor of the First Baptist church. They have 10 children and 14 grandchildren. The children are Daniel B. Badger, who resides in Winchester, William C. H. Badger of Keene, N. H., Annie C. Hayden, wid. of N. F. T. Hayden, late of Braintree, Mass.; Erastus F. Badger of Boston, Walter I. Badger of Cambridge, Clara H. Sargent, wife of Albert A. Sargent; Arthur C. Badger of Boston, Edward J. Badger of Wollaston, Fannie Gertrude Pollard, who was recently married to Dr. Charles Pollard of Omaha, and who was the only member of the family not present Thursday evening, and Dr. George S. C. Badger.

Mr. Badger was born on Fort Hill Oct. 1, 1828. He was the son of Daniel and Clarissa Clark Badger. He was educated in the Boston schools and learned the trade of coppersmith of Rice & Jenkins. He became one of the partners of the firm in 1854. This partnership continued until 1879 when Mr. Badger's two sons, Daniel B. and Arthur C., were admitted to the firm, which ever since has been E. B. Badger & Sons.

Mrs. Badger, whose maiden name was Fannie B. Campbell was born in Milton, Nov. 16, 1828. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell. Mr. and Mrs. Badger make their home with their daughter, Mrs. Hayden, in Braintree, though they spend a good deal of time in travel, having recently returned from an extended trip in Europe, while part of last year was passed in California. They are a remarkably young looking couple. Both are members of the First Bapitst church, Commonwealth avenue. Mr. Badger has been a director of the Tremont Temple corporation for years, and was a memebr of the building committee. He is a member of the Baptist Social Union, of the Mechanics' Association, and has held many offices. He is a director of the Home for Aged Couples.

Among the guests were Mr. Will Brewer, Mrs. E. J. Jones and Mrs. Rufus L. Chapman who were present at the first wedding of the couple. The ushers were the sons, the grandson, Mr. Lowell T. Hayden, and Mr. A. L. Sargent.

Among the gifts was a handsome mantel clock and ornamennts from Mr. Badger's employes.

The reception was largely attended as Mr. and Mrs. Badger have a large circle of friends in Boston and suburbs. Braintree was well represented among the guests.

CAPTURED.

Italian Wanted for Shooting in Malden.

Identified by Quincy Police from Description.

Confessed When Confronted by the Malden Officers.

An Italian who answers the description of the man wanted for shooting the two Italians at Malden yesterday, was arrested at Quincy this morning by Officer Driscoll, while hanging about a sewer trench at South Quincy. The fellow gives his name as Pasquadi Guisnaldo, and claims to have come from Boston this morning, where he has been living for about three months. He says he lives with Peter Guilando but can not tell where his house is other than it is numbered 116. The fellow is about 23 years of age, 5 feet tall and has on a red sweater, dark coat, vest and pants and black soft hat. He is held awaiting the arrival of the Malden officers who have been notified.

IDENTIFIED.

Officer Michael T. Curley of the Malden police force arrived in Quincy on the 11.49 train, and as soon as the prisoner was brought out of his cell he recognized him as the man the Malden police were looking for, and who is known to them as Angelo Minetti.

Officer Curley's face was all smiles as he shackled his left hand to Angelo's right, and to the latter's query, "Me and you is friends," he replied, "Sure." Officer Curley left with his prisoner on the 12.12 train for Malden.

The Quincy police and especially Special Officer Driscoll deserve great credit for his capture as the description published in the morning papers was very meagre. He was a stranger in Quincy, and as he hung about the sewer trench his resemblance to the Malden murderer was very marked. Officer Driscoll became convinced that either the Italian was the man wanted or he was not, and rather than take the chances of letting a murderer slip through his fingers, he decided to take him to the police station.

Inspector McKay who was on duty, also remarked on the resemblance.

Minetti or whatever his name may be, is a boyish looking youth, and one would hardly believe that he could have committed the crime with which he is charged. He speaks fairly good English. He was questioned closely by Inspector McKay and told a confused story.

He had a miscellaneous assortment of articles in his pockets but no dangerous weapons, other than a common pocket knife. Another thing he had was a time card of a contractor which he claimed a friend had given him to collect, but he could not tell where the firms place of business was, or where they were at work, and did not tell who the friend was that gave him the card. When asked if he ever shined boots, he replied, no, he worked in the sewer.

There is no question but what the fellow is the one wanted, for when confronted by Officer Curley he confessed that he did the shooting.

Officer Curley reported that Lam was dead, and that the other man was in a critical condition.

The Journal gave this report of the shooting:

There was an exciting shooting affray in Malden about 11.35 o'clock yesterday morning, in which two Italians were seriously wounded, and a bystander, also an Italian, was hit.

It all took place at the Western Division station of the Boston and Maine. The two victims of the shooting were waiting for the train for Boston. Upon their arrival in Boston they had planned to take a steamship for Italy. For months they had been looking forward with pleasure to the journey to their home land.

The two Italians are now at the Malden Hospital in a dangerous condition, while their assailant is still at large.

There were a large number of people waiting about the station at the time for trains, and several of them narrowly escaped being killed when the bullets were flying.

It is said that the trouble which causd the shooting was the fact that one of the Italians who was shot owed his assailant a sum of money which he refused to pay.

The names of the victims of the shooting were Arnie Fuchs and James Lam. They have been living on Abbott street and had left their lodging place about 11.15 o'clock to take the train for Boston.

When they arrived at the station they were confronted by Angelo Mannetti, a bootblack, who demanded $5 from Fuchs, which he claimed that Fuchs owed him. Fuchs refused to give Mannetti the money. Mannetti whipped out a revolver and, thoroughly angered, fired four shots at Fuchs in rapid succession.

Two of the shots took effect, one in Fuchs's right side and one in his right arm. Upon firing the second shot Mannetti started to run. Lam ran after him and Mannetti turned and fired a shot at Lam which penetrated the latter's arm, and another which also struck Lam, and, glancing off, struck a bystander, an Italian named Truleo, in the heel.

Mannetti ran down Maple street at the top of his speed, with the crowd in full cry after him. He turned into Lake street and raced through Pearl street, and then went over the marshes to Canal street.

At Canal street Fuchs, who in spite of his injuries, was in the lead of the pursuers of his assailant, was arrested by Officer Costello of the Malden police. During the chase Fuchs threw away a revolver which he was carrying. It was picked up by a citizen and turned over to the police.

None of the five cartridges in it had been exploded.

During the confusion over the arrest of Fuchs, who, it seems that the officer thought was the principal in the affair, Mannetti made his escape. It is thought he went to Boston.

Fuchs and Lam were both taken to the Malden Hospital suffering severely from their wounds.

Hingham Veteran.

Samuel W. Marsh, Hingham's old man, who had nearly reached the age of 100, died yesterday at his home on Main street. He was born in Boston, Dec. 28, 1803, and was the son of David and Mary (White) Marsh. He was educated in the Boston public schools. He went to Weymouth when a young man, and learned the bootmaker's trade.

He married Dec. 3, 1826, Miss Susan Nash, daughter of Capt. Timothy Nash of Weymouth. They had seven children, six of whom are living. Charles N. Marsh, who has been for 40 years town clerk of Hingham, and who is purser of the Nantasket Steamboat Company's steamer Mayflower, and a messenger at the State House; Caleb B., Mrs. Moses Leavitt, Mrs. J. Stanley Mears, Miss Martha B. Marsh and the Rev. William G. Marsh of South Adelaide, Australia.

In 1829 Mr. Marsh removed his family to Hingham where he has since resided, and engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes with Elijah Burr.

Mrs. Marsh died July 21, 1884, at the age of 75 year, having been married nearly 58 years.

Mr. Marsh was a prominent member of the First Universalist church, and for many years was one of the deacons. He was connected with several local temperance societies, the Hingham Agricultural and Horticultural society and the Hingham Veteran Firemen's association.

The funeral services will be held at the Fort Hill cemetery chapel, Sunday.

WAS NO CO-OPERATION

Filipinos Did Not Aid Americans In Taking the City of Manila.

Professor Worcester Shows Aguinaldo In True Light.

Peace Negotiations Failed Because Natives Did Not Know What They Wanted.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—"The Philippine Question" was discussed by Dean C. Worcester, member of the Philippine commission, at Central Music hall last night before a large audience.

Professor Worcester took up various arguments presented against the American policy in the Philippines and, quoting from senate documents, from the proclamations of Aguinaldo and from a mass of official evidence, most of which has been made public heretofore, answered the several criticisms."

DEAN C. WORCESTER.

Professor Worcester said at the outset that the issues raised by the Philippine question, directly and indirectly, were more important, more far-reaching in their consequences than any our nation had been called upon to meet since its birth. He deprecated the idea of those willing to make party politics of questions which involved the well-being and future destiny of millions of their fellow beings. Proceeding, he said:

"If all the accusations brought by those who declaim against our so-called 'crime in the Philippines' are true, we have indeed committed a great transgression against the people of those islands."

He also stated that members of Aguinaldo's own cabinet testified before the commission to the fact that even after his proclamation of June 18 he freely admitted that no American had ever promised him independence for his people. The speaker added:

"It has been often stated that our consul at Singapore, Mr. Pratt, exceeded his authority and made the promise in question, if not directly, at least indirectly. I am indebted to Admiral Dewey for the statement that Mr. Pratt is ready to take oath to never having made any such promise, and I may add that legal proceedings brought by Mr. Pratt against a publisher for this and other charges resulted successfully."

Professor Worcester said, after citing much evidence: "I believe I have shown that there was no true co-operation between our land forces and the Filipinos, except in the fact that we fought a common foe, each in his own way. I may add that we required no help in taking the city. It lay completely at the mercy of Dewey's guns, and soldiers were needed to occupy it, not to take it. The fighting Aug. 13 was perfunctory and designed only to save the honor of the Spanish troops. After the fall of the city, Aguinaldo modestly demanded of General Merritt the royal palace for himself, and, in addition, the principal churches, a share in the public funds, and, most important of all, the arms and ammunition surrendered by the Spanish troops, of which he had long planned to possess himself. It is needless to add that his requests were refused."

Speaking of the efforts to avoid a conflict, Professor Worcester said: "I am often asked the question: 'Might not all this have been avoided, if, even after the fall of Manila, attempts had been made to come to an understanding with the insurgents?' I am glad to say to you that such attempts were made by General Otis, who did not believe that the insurgent leaders were plotting trouble, had repeated interviews with one and another of them."

After detailing the fruitless negotiations and citing from General Otis' letters, Professor Worcester said: "The prime cause of the failure of these final negotiations lay in the fact that the Filipino commissioners were unable to formulate any definite statement of their own desires. They did say that they desired independence under United States protection, but in discussion made it evident, first, that they did not themselves know what they meant by these words, and, second, that they were not agreed among themselves even as to the general demand."

At another point the speaker said: "I have no hesitation in saying that the United States did infinitely more than Aguinaldo's army toward driving out and destroying Spanish power in the Philippine islands. If our claim to sovereignty was shadowy, what shall we say as to the claim of a tribe representing less than one-sixth of the population of the islands, and exercising jurisdiction over but a small part of the Philippine territory?

As showing the bloody work of the insurgents, Professor Worcester said: "At the time I left Manila the province of Batabgas was overrun with thieves and murderers. No attempt was being made to enforce law and order. The public schools were abandoned. Forced contributions had been wrung from the people at the point of the bayonet, until many of them were ruined. Unwilling contributors had been punished by having their hands hacked off, and even by being buried alive. Individual houses were intrenched in order that the inhabitants might defend themselves against their neighbors. The military governor of the province, although a Tagalog and an insurgent, had characterized the condition existing as "complete anarchy,' and had repeatedly sent in secret to Manila, asking for aid to restore order, and promising to surrender with his troops if we would only dispatch a small force to his aid."

The speaker announced as false statements that the Americans had no friends among the Filipinos, and declared we had many good true friends among the leading Filipinos.

"Finally, a word as to the way out. Is it conceivable that we should withdraw our troops, abandoning our friends to the certain vengeance of our enemies, and the people at large to civil war and utter anarchy? There can be but one answer to this question. Our troops must stay until armed resistance has ceased and public confidence has been fully restored. The day will come, sooner or later, when native soldiers, under American officers, or under officers of their own, will do a large share of the work that remains to be done.

"In the matter of autonomy, we have already made a safe beginning, and the experiments in municipal and provincial governments, which are even now in progress, will eventually furnish a safe basis for congressional action.

"In closing, let me say that there does not live an anti-imperialist, who has more sincere interest for the people of the Philippine islands, or a keener interest in their present and future welfare, than myself. I have great faith in them. I believe that, under our guidance, they will make rapid progress in civilization, and will soon be able to take an important share in the burden of their country, but I know that if the full weight of that burden were thrown upon them today, they would inevitably sink under it.

"Those who affect to believe that we are creating bloody disorder by our presence in the Philippine islands; that teh natives would continue to hate us, even if we gave them good government; that they would be better off under a very bad government entirely their own than under a very good one administered in part by others, and that the only logical and honorable course open to us is to withdraw our forces, and leave the peaceable and law-abiding natives of the Philippine islands at the mercy of Aguinaldo and his army, may be sincere in their convictions, but, by freely giving voice to them, they are encouraging the ambitious Tagalog leader to prolong a hopeless struggle. The prolongation of this struggle is costing us millions of dollars, and what is far worse, good red American blood. Let history fix the responsibility for it.

"Those of us who believe that the flag should stay in the east, and that under its shadow we should patiently teach to our new wards the lessons they must learn ere they can take their place in the great family of nations as a free and united people, should stand shoulder to shoulder. There is work for us to do. Let those scoff who will. The future of ten millions of human beings and the honor of a great nation are in our keeping, and the eyes of the world are upon us. Let us not prove unfaithful to our trust."

Prosecution Abandoned.

Boston, Nov. 15.—The government yesterday abandoned prosecution in the case of Mary P. Foster, arrested last February on the charge of obtaining large sums of money under false pretenses, because the chief witness would not come here from New York. Miss Foster's case created a great stir in the spring. She obtained money, it is claimed, by representing that she had much property in her own name, and held in trust for her in New York state. For four months she was imprisoned, and then was released on bail. She was young in years and of refinement and well dressed. The case in the superior court was placed on file. Through imprisonment Miss Foster is partially blind.

Figures on Deaths of Fighters.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Surgeon General Sternberg's annual report shows that the total number of deaths in our armies, including regulars and volunteers, from May 1, 1898, to June 30, 1899, was 6619, of whom 496 were killed in battle, 216 killed by accident, 202 died of gunshot wounds and wounds received in action, 2774 from typhoid fever, 476 from malarial fever, 359 from pneumonia, 342 from diarrhoea and dysentery and 185 from yellow fever. As to food supplies, General Sternberg says he considers it wise to go slow in changing the army ration until experience has shown just what changes are accuredly desirable.

Youngsters In a Fatal Quarrel.

New York, Nov. 17.—During a quarrel in Brooklyn last night Gustave Lucca, aged 14, stabbed Theodore Cockfair, aged 13. Cockfair died while he was being conveyed to the hospital. Lucca was arrested. He was the son of Christian W. Lucca, the Brooklyn grocer who was murdered several years ago by Charles McIlvane. Mc Ilvane was executed.

The board reports that all the requirements of the department were fulfilled by the performance of the Holland on this trial.

Trolley Jumped a Trestle.

New York, Nov. 17.—A dozen passengers, riding on a trolley car of the Jersey City, Passaic and Paterson line, dropped with the car a distance of 10 feet from the trestle over Weasel brook, near Clifton, a mile from Passaic, N. J., yesterday. All but one were injured. The car was travelling at the rate of 15 or 20 miles an hour. It leaped from the rails, and dropped over the side of the trestle.

NEW AUTO-HANSOM.

Carries Four Passengers, and the Seat Is Semicircular In Shape.

The autobain hansom attracted much attention at the recent automobile exposition in Paris. An attempt has been made to depart from the usual design of autobains, which has, as a rule, heretofore merely followed that of horse vehicles. The carriage was exhibited by Captain Draulette. The seat of the driver, according to The Autobain, is in the rear, and passengers mount from in front between the two steering wheels. The seat is semicircular in shape, which allows four people to be seated with the slightest inconvenience to each other. The steering wheels are 30 inches in diameter and the driving wheels 42 inches in diameter. Solid rubber tires are used. The frame, which is of steel and U shaped, is supported by springs forward and rests directly on the rear axle, where it contributes support to the mechanism.

The electric brake is not necessarily employed alone to stop the carriage. By means of a new arrangement, special in this carriage, when the mechanical brakes are applied the electric brake circuit is automatically thrown in. In addition, the combination is such that the electrical breakage becomes the more powerful as one bears more strongly on the brake pedal, the mechanical breakage being thus also increased. It will thus be seen that the two braking arrangements being independent, if one does not act, the other will still be in service. The usual switch for breaking the circuit is not used. When the pedal is manipulated, the controller automatically comes to zero, then passes to the braking position. This disposition has an additional advantage of avoiding incorrect manipulations such as may occur when, going at high speed, the current is stopped by applying suddenly the mechanical brake. In this case, if the driver forgets and leaves the controller at the position of higher speed and takes his foot away from the brake pedal, a serious accident is inevitable. The combination of the mechanical brake and the controller is such that by working the controller wheel the electric brake can be operated without operating the mechanical brake. This disposition is utilized with much advantage on down grades, and owing to the several progressive values of the electric brake the carriage can be permitted to descend at a convenient speed, which will be automatically maintained at a fixed value, there being no necessity to apply the mechanical brake.

The carriage carries 44 storage batteries, weighing 770 pounds, and gives a capacity of 105 ampere hours at a discharge rate of 21 amperes. The battery is placed under the seat. The carriage with its load of passengers weighs about 2,500 pounds.

NEW SAFETY THIRD RAIL.

Successful Test of an Ingenious Device at New Britain, Conn.

The first public test, and a successful one, of the McElroy-Grunow safety third rail was made in New Britain, Conn., the other afternoon before a party of prominent experts, says a Waterbury (Conn.) dispatch to the New York Press. They were J. H. McElroy, brother of the inventor; William Grunow, Jr., E. M. Fitzgerald and Alfred Beers of Bridgeport, Charles S. Rogers and E. C. Boynton of New Haven, P. S. Mitchel, professor of physics, and S. E. Tillman, professor of chemistry, United States Military academy; Harry A. Wolcott of Hartford, A. H. Blake, C. C. Simonds and Charles S. Rogers of New York and John Brisben Walker.

Each of the several sections of the rail is connected to an electro magnetic circuit, the closing of which automatically charges the third rail sections. The motor car enters upon them, and the sections are again deadened and rendered harmless as the motor passes from them. The power is in a thin rail alongside the center rail, and the shoe makes the connection.

SIEGE TRAIN TO FIGHT BOERS

New Feature In Modern Warfare to Be Adopted by British Army.

According to a London dispatch to the New York Herald, orders have been received at Woolwich and Devonport for the mobilization of a siege train, which, it is supposed, is intended for the purpose of shelling Pretoria. The force manning it will approximate the strength of eight batteries--32 officers and 1,104 noncommissioned officers and men. Its armament will be 30 howitzers, fourteen 6 inch guns, eight 5 inch guns and eight 4 inch guns, the whole train weighing more than 3,000 tons.

This will be the first employment of a modern siege train by any European army, and the progress of the reduction of the forts by lyddite shell fire, as preliminary to storming by infantry, will be watched with interest.

Paid a Freak Election Bet

The first freak election bet on the Ohio election was paid at Napoleon, O., the other night. John C. Bushman walked 12 miles and jumped from the railing of the Maumee bridge to the water, 60 feet below, swam to the shore, donned dry clothing and declared his wager made with C. F. Mulholland paid. One of the conditions of the wager was that the leap was to be made after sundown by the loser. The bet was paid in the presence of about 20 persons, who previous to the jump were pledged to secrecy, on account of fear of police interference. Bushman has had no previous experience as a bridge jumper.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 19—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Liberty and love.—Rom. xiv, 1-23. (A temperance meeting.)

In this chapter Paul treats of the duties of Christians toward one another, in things not binding on the conscience. In the first 12 verses he points out that Christians who are overscrupulous, who have weak consciences, are not to be harshly condemned, but to be kindly treated. In the remaining part of the chapter he discourses upon the manner in which Christians who are strong in the faith should use their Christian liberty, pointing out the fact that their liberty should not be used in a way that would prove an injury to others; that though they are free and should live in freedom, yet their freedom should not become a stumbling block in the way of others. In other words, Paul declares that liberty should be tempered with love; that we should not insist on doing all that we have a right to do, but be governed by the effects of our actions upon others. Paul had a perfect right to eat meat offered to idols, but if the use of his liberty in this respect injured a brother, for whom Christ died, Paul was willing to surrender his liberty for the sake of his weak brother.

Paul not only lays down this principle of liberty and love in the Christian life, but gives many reasons to support his position. 1. Because Christ died for the weak as well as the strong. "Destroy not him with thy meat for whom Christ died." It would be extremely preposterous for any one to claim the right to use his personal liberty in a way that would make Christ's death on the cross of no effect. 2. Because of the reputation of Christianity. "Let not your good be evil spoken of." Liberty is good, it is desirable, but if used in a way that results in evil it would cast reflection upon Christianity itself. If Christianity gave us a right to do that which injured others, this would be a serious reflection upon it. 3. Because Christianity is not "meat and drink, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost." To refrain from eating meat or using drink does not violate any principle of our religion, for it consists in internal graces rather than in outward observances. 4. Because it is morally wrong to do even what is lawful in itself if it injures others. "It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth or is offended or is made weak." The moment that which we do injures another that moment it becomes morally wrong for us to do it, no matter how inoffensive the thing itself, considered alone, may be.

The application of this subject to the temperance question is easily made. To drink wine or intoxicating drinks moderately (if we can) may be our right, but if to do so means to injure our brother it is uncharitable, unwise, unnecessary for us to do it, and not only so, but morally wrong.

Power of the Fifty-first Psalm.

It is impossible to comprehend the power of the Fifty-first Psalm upon the race. Kings, scholars and cottagers have read it with the same spiritual profit. It was the death song of the French Protestants in the times that for cruelty have had few equals. It was sung by George Wishart when taken prisoner before his martyrdom at St. Andrews. Its opening verse was the dying cry of the Scottish martyr, Thomas Forret, whose grave was green a quarter of a century before Scotland became free from ecclesiastical tyranny. Its cry for mercy was repeated by Lady Jane Grey upon the fateful day of her own and her husband's death. Its burning words broke from the lips of John Huss at the place of his execution, near Constance. John Rogers repeated its confessions and triumphant paeans on the way to the fires of Smithfield. The words of the Hebrew psalmist were spoken by Sir Thomas More, "who was famous through Europe for eloquence and wisdom," as he laid his head upon the block. Its seventeenth verse, written by St. Augustine upon the wall of his sick chamber, did not make the text any the less real to the great German reformer. The seventh verse of this same psalm was found on a tablet of copper amid the eternal snows on the highest point of the earth's surface near Cape Beechy, "Wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow."—Selected.

Higher Sense of Prayer.

There is no way of making one's prayers real and strenuous save as God is made real and present in one's thoughts. It is impossible to speak with any sense of reality to an absent deity or to put soul and passion, faith and love into words that are spoken into empty space, and we can never know what Jesus meant by prayer nor what prayer meant to Him until we have bathed our spirits in His rich and satisfying thought of God. Once let that thought take possession of us, and prayer is lifted forever above the mere realm of petition, and all doubt or misgiving as to its answer is lost in the higher wish, not that our particular requests shall be granted, but that the will of God may be known and done.—Rev. F. W. Baldwin, D. D., in Congregationalist.

All In Character.

We love a friend for his inward graces and not for his outward appearance. A handsome face cannot be a permanent basis for a friendship. The roots of friendship are all in character. It is what our friend is that draws us to him. This is the reason why only true men and women can experience friendship at its best. It is a prize reserved for the pure and the noble.—William T. Ellis.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

TO TAKE AGGRESSIVE.

British Are Ready For the Field South of Ladysmith.

Reinforcements In South Africa Now Number 23,500.

Zulus Growing Insolent and May Attack Unarmed Britishers.

Special Dispatches Say That Bombardment of Ladysmith Actively Continues.

London, Nov. 18.—The admiralty announces the arrival at Cape Town of the troopship Arcana, with a battalion of the Argyll and Sutherland highlanders (the Princess Louise's regiment), bringing the reinforcements up to 23,500, of which 7290 have already disembarked at Durban, with 18 field guns, a number of machine guns, engineers and hospital troops, as well as 700 mules.

This force, with that already between Estcourt and Durban, is considered sufficient to enable General Hildeyard to advance and to take the aggressive against the Boers south of Ladysmith.

According to the latest advices, Ladysmith is holding out satisfactorily, everything having been well up to Wednesday.

In view of the Boer destruction of bridges, the war office has issued orders for the shipment of a quantity of bridge work between this and the end of the year.

Advices from Zululand testify to the growing uneasiness of British residents, whose stores are looted by the Boers, with the result that the Zulus themselves are growing insolent, giving rise to a fear that they may attack the unarmed British population.

It is reported that the British government has purchased the Creusot guns ordered by the Transvaal, but not delivered.

An official dispatch confirms the statement that Captain J. A. Haldane of the Gordon Highlanders, attached to the Dublin fusiliers, and Lieutenant T. H. C. Frankland (not Franklin) and 37 noncommissioned officers and men of the Dublin fusiliers are missing.

Captain Haldane distinguished himself by his services in India, for which he received the D. S. O. (companion of the distinguished service order). He also was wounded at Elandslaagte.

The Paris Gaulois says that Colonel Deville Boismareuil, formerly of the general staff, left France on Oct. 26 for South Africa, on the invitation of the Transvaal government, which offered him a high rank in its army.

Special dispatches from Pietermaritzburg and Lorenzo Marquez say that Ladysmith is bombarded night and day and hard pressed. On Nov. 9, having during the night placed men close to the town, the Boers' after a heavy bombardment, began an assault, but were repulsed at every point with heavy losses. The Boers have destroyed one of the bridges over the Tugela river.

Major Wolfe-Murray has returned to Pietermaritzburg to take command of the line of communication, and Colonel Long of the Royal artillery has taken command at Estcourt. The forces now at Pietermaritzburg are too weak to attempt to reopen communications. Artillery and cavalry especially are badly needed; and it will necessarily take a very long time to obtain either, owing to the difficulty of entraining and the necessity of allowing the horses to rest after the long sea voyage.

From the indiscriminate distribution of various divisions at unexpected points it seems clear that the original plans of General Buller have been wholly changed. Not the slightest word regarding the new plans has been allowed to escape.

It has been reported that the Belmont fight arose owing to the advance of a British column to relieve Kimberley; but this seems incorrect, all the most reliable accounts representing the engagement as growing out of a reconnaisance. The announcement of the arrival of General Methuen at Orange river, however, doubtless means that arrangements are in a forward state for an advance from that point, if the advance has not already begun.

Kimberley was safe on Friday, Nov. 10. Last Tuesday a Boer force of 600 entered Aliwal north, Cape Colony, hoisted the flag of the Free State and declared the town and district to be part of the republic. The activity of the Boers in this locality would almost point to the necessity of insuring the safety of the column marching to the relief of Kimberley from attack from this direction or from Bloemfontein.

Advices from Maseru, Easutoland, dated Wednesday, Nov. 8, say that Chief Joel, terrorized by false Boer assertions that the British have been beaten in every engagement and are being driven out of South Africa, is preparing to join the Boers, believing their's the winning side. The Boers are said to have supplied him with guns, which they have accompanied with specious promises. Those who are aware of Basuto history know that Chief Joel and Chief Jonathan had a quarrel in their earlier years and have never been on the same side, Chief Jonathan having committed himself to British interests.

Sir Godfrey Magden, resident commissioner in Basutoland, according to these dispatches, left Maseru suddenly on Nov. 7 in order to meet Chief Iorothodi, the principal chief of the Basutos, who is ill and unable to travel. Sir Godfrey was expected to use every effort to prevent Chief Joel taking a foolish step.

The advices go on to say: The country is full of reports of wonderful Boer successes, and color is lent to these by the absence of reliable information of British victories; but the chiefs rely on the word of the government officials, who declare that a day of reckoning is coming, and that disloyalty will be punished. It is possible that the Boers will proclaim a strip of Basuto territory to the north to be their own.

In view of the reticence of General Buller it is almost useless to speculate regarding the report of a movement to relieve Kimberley. It can only be intended to withdraw the Boers, if possible, from Natal. The object of the occupation of Aliwal North is understood to be to prevent the large quantity of ammunition at Herschel being forwarded to Jamestown and thence to Queenstown. The Boers have notified the inhabitants that no looting will be allowed and that all goods seized by their military authorities will be paid for at Queenstown.

There are reliable reports of mysterious movements of Free State commandoes along the Orange river, and important developments are expected. Everything tends to show that the relief of Kimberley could only be safely undertaken by a strong column.

Lorenzo Marquez continues to send Joubert stories, the latest being that no news has been received from him at Pretoria for three days, and that it is rumored he was taken prisoner.

German Eagle Spreading Itself.

Kiel, Prussia, Nov. 18. — Emperor William, the empress and the younger princes arrived here yesterday. The emperor, accompanied by the two elder princes, attended a muster of naval recruits. The kaiser, in the course of an address, alluding to the fact that Germany, a decade ago, had lost many brave sailors and excellent officers on the Samoan coast, said: "This land, however, is now ours and will remain ours as long as there is a German empire. The German eagle is gradually spreading itself and increasing the fleet destined to protect our brothers abroad." Admiral Von Koester, replying to his majesty in the name of the Baltic naval station, declared that all were ready, at any time, to do their duty for the honor of the flag, even to the last drop of their blood.

Socialists In Hopeless Minority.

Boston, Nov. 18.—The political atmosphere in this city is still full of life through interest of the Democrats in the recount of the caucus vote and of the Republicans in the convention next Tuesday evening. The election commissioners have promised to get the recount ended by Monday, so that the Democratic convention can be held as called. Last night the Socialist Labor party held its caucuses, polling a total of 266 votes. In one ward two candidates for aldermanic honors were tied with four votes each. The party will put a municipal ticket in the field, although in some wards it is doubtful if there will be mere voters than ward delegates.

Cheers For the Boers.

Detroit, Nov. 18.—About $1000 was raised last night for the Parnell monument fund at a meeting held in the Empire theatre, addressed by John P. Redmond and Mayor Tallon of Dublin. Mr. Redmond aroused a storm of applause when he read the following telegram sent by Parnell to his secretary at the time of the first Boer trouble in 1877: "Give notice that on Thursday next I will call attention to the Transvaal trouble, and shall maintain that the Boers, by their gallant resistance, have earned the right to independence." Every mention of the Boers brought forth cheers for them and their cause.

Shooting Affair at Malden.

Malden, Mass., Nov. 18.—As the outcome of a dispute over an alleged debt of $5, two Italians were shot by a third one yesterday in front of the Boston and Maine station here. Anbelo Manette, who, it is alleged, fired the shot, is at large, and the police at once began a search for him. Jose Lem, one of the men shot, received four bullets, all of which are thought to have penetrated the lungs, and it is not believed that he will recover. The other victim, whose name is Scurke, while not as seriously wounded as Lem, has two bullets in his body—one in the left arm and the other in the fleshy part of the back.

McConnell Whips Handler.

New York, Nov. 18.—California furnished a new fistic wonder to the eastern sports last night in the person of Frank McConnell. McConnell met Jimmy Handler of Newark, N. J., before the Broadway Athletic club, and scored a clean-cut victory over Handler in the 15th round. McConnell proved himself to be a clever offensive and defensive fighter, and most of his work was patterned after "Kid" McCoy's style. While Handler was beaten badly, he put up a gilt-edged fight, and administered hard punishment to the Californian.

Schley For Vice President.

La Porte, Ind., Nov. 18.—James Murdock of Lafayette, one of the best known Democrats in the state, says that the sentiment of the Indiana Democrats is favorable to the nomination of Admiral Schley as vice president on a ticket with Bryan. Mr. Murdock is credited with being a candidate for the Democratic state committee chairmanship, and is also spoken of for national committeeman from Indiana, and his utterances are accepted as a significant movement to start a Bryan and Schley boom in the state.

Where Contracts Will Go.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The board on naval construction yesterday agreed upon a report recommending that the navy department award the contracts for constructing the six new protected cruisers authorized by congress to the following concerns: Union Iron Works of San Francisco, Lewis Nixon of the Crescent Shipbuilding Works of Elizabethport, N. J., the Bath Iron Works of Bath, Me., the Trigg Shipbuilding company of Richmond, Va., the Fore River company of Massachusetts, and Neafie & Levy of Philadelphia.

Physicians Not Encouraged.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 18.—Vice President Hobart retired last night feeling much better than Thursday. Dr. Newton states that the physicians feel the same anxiety for the patient that they did three weeks ago.

SIGNS OF COMPROMISE.

Fall River Mill Men to Meet Committee From Textile Council.

Points Raised by Latter Not Clearly Understood.

Indications That Trouble May Be Settled Without Resorting to a Strike.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 17.—The Textile council held a session last night upon the receipt by Secretary Whitehead of a letter from the manufacturers as a reply to the ultimatum from the council, asking for an increase to begin on Monday, Nov. 13, and stating that should the increase not be granted at that time and a favorable reply received by Nov. 23 a strike of the operatives would be recommended.

President Tansey called the 15 members of the council to order last evening, and placed the letter of Secretary Rounseville before them for their consideration. The letter follows:

"Your communication of the 13th inst. was duly received, and referred to the manufacturers' committee. I am instructed to inform you that some of the points in your letter are not clear, and need explanation.

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding in regard to your position we would suggest that you appoint a committee of five members from the Textile council, to meet a committee of manufacturers at such time and place as you may decide on. The manufacturers' rooms may be used as a place of conference should you so desire."

The discussion over the letter was quite lengthy, and as a result it was decided to notify the Manufacturers' association that five members of the governing body of the operatives would meet them, taking advantage of the offer of the mill men and meeting them in the rooms of the association. Although the names of the five men who will represent the operatives at this conference were not given out, it is very likely that the secretaries of the five labor organizations affiliated with the textile body will be chosen, as follows: James Whitehead, secretary of the Weavers' union; Thomas O'Donnell, secretary of the Spinners' union; James Tansey, secretary of the Carders' union; John McCarthy, secretary of the Loomfixers' union, and Joseph G. Jackson, secretary of the Slasher Tenders' association.

The Textile council will ask for an early conference.

Following is a copy of the letter sent to Secretary Rounseville of the Cotton Manufacturers' association by Secretary Whitehead of the Textile council on Nov. 13:

"At a special meeting of the Textile council, held Nov. 12, to consider the wage question, it was unanimously voted to demand of the Manufacturers' association an increase of 10 percent on the recent rate of wages paid all operatives, said increase to take effect on and after Monday, Dec. 11, 1899; and we request a reply to our demand not later than Thursday, Nov. 23; and in event of the demand being refused it was decided to recommend to all operatives to cease work on Saturday, Dec. 9, until said demand for an increase of 10 percent in wages is granted.

"It was further voted that this Textile council, recognizing the justice and reasonableness of their demands, are willing to submit this question to an impartial board of arbitration, said board to consist of five members, composed of resident citizens, two to be selected by the Textile council, two by the Manufacturers' association, the fifth member to be selected by the other four; said board to report not later than Saturday, Dec. 2, 1899."

The points that are left open in the council's letter are, first, whether both sides are to be bound by the decision reached by the proposed board of arbitration; second, what matters are to be arbitrated in particular; and third, does the possibility of delay in the report of the board violate the vote of the council whereby a strike is ordered on a certain day.

The willingness of the Manufacturers' association to confer again with the operatives' representatives admits of the discussion of some form of compromise that will be certain to avoid a strike. The manufacturers are earnest in their wish to adopt a sliding scale, and the question will be asked of the Textile council's representatives whether they expected a board of arbitration to consider a scale or only to consider the immediate demand for an increase.

Alleged Smuggling of Chinese.

Boston, Nov. 17.—A charge of smuggling Chinese into this country over the Canadian border is brought against several government officials, and in bringing matters to a head Moy Loy, formerly Chinese inspector on the New York border, was arrested yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Waters. It is alleged by the authorities that the defendant conspired with other government officials in smuggling Chinese into the country. It appears that an indictment has been returned against him in the northern district of New York.

Victims of Ignorance.

London, Nov. 17.—In Russia the Leonid display caused a panic in many places. It was believed that the end of the world had come. Churches were open all night long, and hundreds of thousands spent three nights in the open air, fearing earthquakes and a general cataclysm. There are even rumors that in some villages Russian parents murdered their children to save them from an expected worse fate.

Charged With Killing Apfel.

New York, Nov. 17.—Thomas N. Fox, whose glove contest with Harry Apfel at the Pelican Athletic club in Brooklyn on Saturday night last has ended fatally for Apfel, was re-arrested yesterday. He furnished bail in $1500, and pleaded not guilty to the new charge of homicide.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Time was when the female branch of humanity pretty generally and not very generously criticised the masculine proclivity for clubs. But we don't hear so much of this now that gentle women has from one to half-a-dozen clubs of one sort or another on her calling list.

☞ John D. Long doesn't want to be vice-president. The office hasn't an attraction for him. No more has any other office. "I want to get out of political life," he says. "I don't care to live in Washington; I want to live here in Massachusetts, where my personal interests are, and with my family." A very sensible man is John D. Long.—Hartford Courant.

☞ The excitement concerning Socialism will have one important and salutary effect, i. e., to mark more clearly the faults of our economic system. It is in this way that legitimate action may be taken to limit popular delusions and to prevent the caprices of the individual from gaining a misplaced confidence among the unthinking.—Haverhill Gazette.

☞ The seriousness of the coal problem at the present time is shown by the announcement that the Iron and Steel Manufactuaing Co. at Lebanon, Penn., has had to shut down all its mills on account of an exhausted coal supply. When such a fuel complication presents itself in the very state where coal mining is one of the chief industries there is little wonder that there should be more or less anxiety in places more removed from the source of supply.—Brockton Times.

☞ The sputtering of sparks under the wheels of a passing electric car gave to a belated inebriate, Tuesday night, the impression that several meteors had fallen on the railroad track. With a wild whoop over his supposed discovery, he threw his arm around a telegraph pole and confided to passers-by his determination to stay and see the whole show. He is the only one whom we have heard of as seeing the meteoric shower Tuesday night.—Lynn Item.

☞ The serious illness of Vice President Hobart is attracting attention to the law of succession in the presidential office. Under the present law if the presidency becomes vacant and no vice president to succeed to that office, Secretary of State Hay would become president for the entire remainder of the term. In case of his death the secretary of the treasury would succeed him, and so on down, embracing the whole cabinet. It is a wise provision and prevents any possibility of a headless government.—Beverly Times.

☞ It is our hope that the mill managements will do everything in their power to avert a strike at this time. We cannot avoid the conviction that if such an event should actually occur, sympathies of the public would this time be with the operatives. It is said that the latter are willing to arbitrate with the manufacturers, a step which perhaps they would not offer to take if they were not sure that their position is this time impregnable.—American Cotton and Wool Reporter.

POSTPONED.

Houghs Neck Must Wait for Better Electric Service.

Yesterday was the date assigned for the hearing by the Railroad Commissioners on the petition of John Dolan and others, owners of real estate and residents at Houghs Neck, Quincy, for better accommodations on the Quincy and Boston Street Railway by a through line of cars without change from Neponset to Houghs Neck; by a change from half hour to fifteen minute time; by running the cars during the whole year; by issuing eight cent checks from all lines centering at City Square to Houghs Neck line; and for repair of track.

When the matter was called up counsel Pattee for the Quincy & Boston railway company told the board that his attitude in the matter was just the same as it was last spring, when the petition was first brought to the railroad commission. He said that the leading petitioner, A. A. Meyer, has a suit against the railway now pending in the superior court. Although Mr. Meyer's name does not appear on the petition, he said, it is instigated by him through his counsel, W. H. Baker. The hearing of this petition at this time would or might prejudice the case now before the courts.

In reply, counsel Baker practically admitted the contentions of Mr. Pattee, but insisted that the issue between Mr. Meyer and the railway could not affect the other petitioners.

Chairman Jackson stated to the parties that the board had refused last spring to take action in this same matter on account of the suit referred to. On general principles he felt the matter should be indefinitely postponed. This was done after counsel for the petitioners had put on several witnesses to prove that others besides Mr. Meyer were interested in the question of better railway service.

Further, none of the ballots were used by me in any way. My attorney has requested the editor of the Advertiser to retract his statements derogatory to me in the issue of the above date.

Rescued from Pond.

Mrs. Maria Margerson, employed in factory of Stevens and Willis, Braintree, had a narrow escape from drowning yesterday noon as she was going to her dinner. She lives on Plain street and by cutting across the dam which divides the Ames' pond and the Stevens and Willis' pond, she in some manner tripped and fell about eight feet into the pond of Stevens and Willis'. There was only four feet of water, and there is no doubt that if the water had been deeper she would have been drowned.

Her cries were heard by Fred Peterson and Harry Burrell, employes at the mill. They rushed to her assistance and by the use of a ladder she was brought to terra-firma, safe and sound.

Credit should be given these gentlemen by the cool manner in which they showed in rescuing her. She went home, and at the time of writing is quite well. She was in the water about eight minutes.

VANITY OF CUBAN POLICE

Ex-Chief McCullagh Talks of Recent Changes In Havana.

MILITARISM THE FEATURE OF IT.

When He Reorganized the Cuban Force, He Had to Fight That Spirit. Officers Wanted to Carry Swords, the Men Guns—He Compromised on Canes and Clubs.

John McCullagh, ex-chief of police, was not surprised recently when he read the dispatches from Havana stating that Chief Cardenas of the Havana police department had determined to reorganize the department and establish it on a military basis, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. Mr. McCullagh went to Havana at the request of Major General Francis V.

JOHN M'CULLAGH.

Greene and Russell A. Alger, former secretary of war, a year ago to organize a police force in Havana along American lines. He spent three or four months in that city, and before leaving 1,000 uniformed policemen were patrolling the streets of the city very much as the New York police patrol that city.

Chief Cardenas, who succeeded the first chief installed by Mr. McCullagh several months ago, was dissatisfied with the system and has determined to transform the department into a military organization, in which men will be required to enlist for a term of two years. The department will also extend its jurisdiction to include the entire province of Havana, instead of the city alone.

"I expected it would come before this," Mr. McCullagh said the other day. "The men down there are vain, and they are full of the military spirit. They know nothing better than to carry a rifle and bayonet and to wear fancy uniforms, while the officers are fond of swords and take particular delight in being saluted and admired. The spirit of militarism was one of the greatest difficulties I met in organizing the department. The inhabitants have become so accustomed to it that they feel that any police system which does not include machete, bayonets and swords is quite incomplete and consequently inefficient.

"In organizing the department I fought the military idea at every point. I wanted to establish a modern system and to make it as simple as possible, and at the same time as American as I could. I am confident that a chief of police who is self reliant and firm will always be master of any situation which might arise in the city with 1,000 men under him. The Havana department seems to have stood well the test of the first nine or ten months, and the change will not necessarily alter the system to any great extent. The men will carry rifles and bayonets instead of night sticks and 'billies,' and the officers will carry swords instead of canes. In organizing the force I found it better to grade the officers as captains, lieutenants and sergeants, instead of having sergeants and roundsmen, as we have here in New York. Thus the department has been from the start on a semimilitary basis. At least, it had the military color, so to speak. The extension of the chief's authority over the entire province of Havana is probably the result of the withdrawal of American troops from the island.

"When the department was first organized, the territory outside the city was in the hands of American soldiers, and their police work made it quite unnecessary for us to consider that part of the province. I think this extension is a good one, judging from a distance. I believe in giving a chief of police power over a large territory. Then he has the entire situation in his own hands and can handle the criminal classes to better advantage than if his power is limited to a single city or village. One central bureau, with a good man in charge, will check the criminal element more effectively than a number of bureaus each in control of a separate man."

As for the order compelling men to enlist for terms of two years each, Superintendent McCullagh said he was uncertain as to the reasons for this order.

Remains of an Old Timer.

The skeleton of a prehistoric sea monster resembling a shark was unearthed recently at the quarry of J. H. Davis, who lives ten miles south of Bonham, Tex. Its jaws, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, were about four feet in length and, though buried in several feet in solid limestone, were in a good state of preservation, the enamel being plainly visible on the teeth.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

The housewife will find the Royal Baking Powder indispensable in making finest foods. It makes the hot bread, hot biscuit, cake and other pastry, light, sweet and excellent in every quality.

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, the most healthful and pleasant of all fruit acids, and adds anti-dyspeptic qualities to the food.

Many low-priced, imitation baking powders are upon the market. These are made with alum, and care should be taken to avoid them, as alum is a poison, never to be taken in the food.

MAY BE A FIZZLE.

Granite Manufacturers Opinion of the Syndicate.

The delay in bringing to a head the scheme to consolidate the quarries of Quincy seems to indicate in the minds of many manufacturers that it will end in a fizzle, as did a similar plan at Barre, Vt. In Barre everything was ready for the syndicate to take hold the first of November. The deeds transferring the property had all been made out and the only thing lacking was the money. The quarry owners were to receive cash for their plants, the same as proposed here. Instead of cash there came a long letter from the Boston bankers who were engineering the money end of the scheme, saying that it was proposed to pay thirty per cent. of the purchase price in cash and seventy-five per cent. in stock. This would give a premium of five per cent.

The quarry owners did not take kindly to that proposition and the thing has slumped.

In Quincy the local parties who are engineering the deal have been promising for six months that the scheme would be consumated in a few days, but the day has not arrived. Nov. 1 was the time set when the money would surely be paid over. That date past and then Nov. 15, was given out as the date. The latter date has also passed and another date has been fixed upon, and this date will probably see the scheme launched or go up in smoke.

Various reasons are given for the delay. Some say that it is the Title Insurance Co. that is keeping the thing back, and still others says that the reason is that the New York parties who were supposed to come down with the hard cash, do not come to time, and many believe that they never will.

One thing however is certain great injury is being done the manufacturers, for the reason that quarry owners are not working their plants, expecting to sell out, and Quincy stock is next to impossible to be bought, or rather to be delivered when wanted.

Whether the scheme goes through or not, the board of Assessors have opened their eyes a little in comparing the value some of the quarry owners place on their plants with the assessed value.

Reception to Hero of '98.

About a hundred friends of Allie Williams, late quartermaster on the U. S. gunboat Oneida during the Spanish war, tendered him an informal reception at the old K. of H. hall on Beale street, Wollaston, on Thursday evening.

Mr. Williams' part in the late war is familiar to most of our readers who followed his career in the series of letters which appeared in these columns from time to time.

He was the first resident of Wollaston to enlist and go to the front. He enlisted at the Boston Navy yard on May 3, 1898, and was assigned to the Oneida. Through ability he speedily arose to be gunner and then quartermaster.

After seeing blockade duty off the Cuban coast he was transferred to the Sterling. While in her he cruised along the South American coast to Puenta Arenas, Patagonia. During these two cruises he collected several interesting relics of the war.

At the reception he gave an interesting exhibition of "wig-waging,"—the system of signalling by hand flags from one vessel to another.

Before the close of the reception he was presented with a valuable gold ring set with a precious stone.

There was music by an orchestra. Lunch was served.

The affair was in charge of Miss Miner and Miss Sparrow.

Recount in Ward Four.

The recount of the votes for Mayoralty delegates and Ward Committee cast at the Republican caucus Wednesday evening was held last evening at Burke Bros'. office. There were several changes in the totals but the result remains the same as announced by the caucus officers.

In the Hall delegation, John R. Walters, James R. McCormick and Frank Tinney each gained one, Joseph Walker gained two, and William H. Teasdale lost one.

In the Ripley delegation J. Frank Merrill and Walter H. Ripley each gained one, and John C. Kapples lost one. There were no other changes.

By the recount for Ward Committee Tobias H. Burke and William H. Teasdale, of the first list, each gained one and John W. Dunn of the second list lost one.

Thayer 78, Quincy High 0.

In two twenty-minute halves, the Thayer academy team defeated the Quincy high school team 78 to 0. The latter team were as heavy as our warriors, but they were too slow. Harrison Uniac and Gallagher of our team never played better, and all came home happy and sound. Uniac collided with a post which dazed him for a short period in the game. The academy eleven is keeping up to its record of last year.

Foot Ball.

The Thayer Scrub eleven journeyed to Hull last Saturday in a pouring rain and defeated the Hull A. A. eleven by a score of 22—0. The game was played in between six and eight inches of black mud and water, which with the rain, made the game particularly interesting. The Hull eleven was composed of grown men who weighed between twenty and thirty pounds more than each Thayer man, but they had no team work and could not withstand the Academy boys' rushes. Harrison, Gallagher and Newell put up the best game for Thayer.

In one of the prettiest games of foot ball ever seen on French's Common, Thayer Academy defeated the strong Hopkinson eleven of Boston last Wednesday afternoon by a score of 17—5.

Thayer's work exceeded the hopes of her most enthusiastic admirers, and plainly showed the excellent coaching which Mr. Towsend has given them. A faster, snappier team has never represented Thayer Academy.

Thayer kicked off to Hoppy who immediately punted; Thayer than pushed the ball to Hoppy's three-yard line only to be held for downs.

Hoppy punted out of danger and a Hoppy man fell on the ball. It then looked as though Hoppy would score but she lost the ball on a fumble.

Thayer then rushed the ball up the field and Gallagher took the ball over the line for a touchdown by a brilliant run a double pass. He kicked the goal.

Thayer scored again in this half, Estabrooks being pushed over after some short rushes.

Hoppy came near making a touchdown in the second half, but was held on the 10-yard line from which a pretty goal from the field was made.

Thayer scored one more touchdown in this half from which Gallagher kicked a goal.

Gallagher's work at quarter back was the most brilliant over seen on the local gridiron, and all the Thayer men without exception should be commended for their excellent work.

Granite Cutters Strike.

A dispatch of Friday to the Herald says, Last Tuesday between 80 and 90 stone cutters at Mt. Waldo, who were engaged in cutting for the postoffice and court house building for Chicago, went on a strike, the alleged reason being the company's refusal to grant more pay.

During the summer the Mt. Waldo Granite Company has been paying from $2.50 to $3.25 per day, for nine hours work five days in the week and for eight hours' Saturdays. The delegate from the association to which the men belong came to Frankfort Monday, and after a conference with Albert Pierce, the company's manager, ordered a general strike, offering to pay the fare of all the workmen to New York, where he said they would find work. More than 80 of the men, about 60 of whom are Italians took advantage of the offer, and have gone. The company expects to resume operations in a few days.

HIDING IN A COTTAGE.

Boy Desperado Captured Close to Prison From Which He Escaped.

Was Brought to Bay at the Point of a Revolver.

Declares That He Will Have Liberty Even If He Has to Commit Murder.

Barnstable, Mass., Nov. 18.—Marshall N. Benson, who broke jail last Sunday noon, was captured between 11 and 12 o'clock yesterday in the house belonging to Miss Nellie F. Young, within 75 yards of the jail, and 20 yards of the courthouse.

The boy desperado was brought to bay at the point of a revolver held in the hand of Warden Cash of the Barnstable county jail.

During the night of Thursday, the variety store of W. H. Paine was broken into and a large amount of plunder taken. Thursday evening, after blowing out his light, A. F. Sherman, who lives in the house next to the Young cottage, stepped to the window to look out, and in the clear moonlight discerned the figure of a man standing back of his house.

Upon hearing of the break Mr. Sherman notified his son, A. F. Sherman, Jr., who visited the garden and found a number of distinct tracks, freshly made, and called the attention of Mr. McArdle, the assistant jailer, to them, who said they were the size of the shoes worn by Benson.

Mr. Sherman, Jr., visited the Paines and learned the amount of plunder taken, and drew the conclusion that if the man seen by his father was the guilty party he must have a rendezvous in the immediate vicinity, as it was necessary for him to have made more than one trip to carry away his booty, or else there was more than one party interested.

Mr. Sherman met Warden Cash on the arrival of the train from Buzzard's Bay, and together they made an inspection of the footprints. Procuring the keys to Miss Young's cottage, the warden and Sherman, together with Assistant Jailer McArdle, went to the house. Cash went inside, while McArdle and Sherman were placed outside.

Cash soon found evidence that assured him that Benson was in the house, and, summoning his assistants, made a search, which had not proceeded far before the culprit was found hiding behind a sofa in the parlor.

The warden at once grappled with the prisoner, and pulled him out. Benson fought stubbornly, but was finally overpowered, and, at the point of a revolver, soon brought into subjection. He was taken from the house to his old quarters in the county jail.

Upon being caught the tears flowed from Benson's eyes, and he said to his captor: "If I had a revolver I would blow a hole through you, and no ball and chain will keep me in this place."

When asked by Warden Cash if he was not well used, he said he wanted his liberty, and would have it even if he had to commit murder.

After landing their man in his cell the officers made another search over the Young premises and found all the goods taken from the Paine store and also the plunder taken from the depot on the night of the prisoner's escape. All this shows conclusively that although secreted under the very nose of the officer this desperate prisoner made his visit to stores and broke in at will. It is a surprise to all the people to know that he was so near them.

County Sheriff Chase refused permission for any one to see the prisoner, but it is well known that Benson goes into prison with the distinct resolution of getting at liberty again.

In his hiding place he was comfortably situated. His favorite place was in a dark closet. He had two kerosene lamps, an easy chair and other home comforts. His midnight depredations brought him plenty to eat. Although supplied with firearms he had no cartridges, which is probably responsible for his weak defense when Jailer Cash found him.

Benson is one of the most desperate criminals ever known on Cape Cod, being one of the principals in the shooting of Sheriff Burgess and Officer Smalley at Bourne in August last. After a long flight for this offense he was captured at Holbrook, Mass., Oct. 4, and given a sentence of two years, which he was serving at the time of his escape.

Newspapers Will Be Asked to Assist.

Washington, Nov. 18.—At a meeting last night of the Schley home fund committee of 100 plans were adopted which, when put into operation, will give friends of the admiral an opportunity to contribute to the fund. A number of subscriptions were made. Colonel James G. Barrett was appointed chairman of an executive committee to have charge of the matter. As soon as practicable a committee of 25 persons in each state will be named to receive subscriptions, and in addition the newspapers will be asked to assist in the work.

Corbett to Fight Jeffries.

New York, Nov. 18.—A match between Jeffries and Corbett was yesterday arranged by Corbett and W. A. Brady, representing Jeffries. The articles will be signed next Tuesday. No date has been set for the bout, but this will be left to Jeffries. Brady said that Jeffries would fight Fitzsimmons 30 days after the bout between Corbett, and Jeffries was decided, provided Fitzsimmons would agree to allow Jeffries 65 percent of the gross receipts.

Praises His Command.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The war department yesterday made public the report of General Lawton upon his expedition in Laguna and the capture of Santa Cruz. The report is dated Aug. 1, and gives in detail the operations of the expedition, the main facts of which have heretofore been published. General Lawton speaks in the highest terms of the officers and men of his command.

SUFFERS FROM HEART TROUBLE.

Evangelist Moody Compelled to Cancel Engagement and Start For Home.

Kansas City, Nov. 18.—Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, who has been preaching here to thousands nightly in Convention hall, was stricken with heart trouble yesterday. His engagement here was cut short and he is now en route for his home at Northfield, Mass., in the care of Dr. Schauffter of this city and C. M. Vining, teller of the Union National bank.

DWIGHT L. MOODY.

Since last Sunday night the evangelist has been preaching in Convention hall, where the audience on several occasions has numbered close to 15,000. Several times he has spoken with difficulty and has been compelled at times to sit up all night, as he could not breathe while lying down. Yesterday he was too ill to go to the hall, and a large audience which had gathered was turned away.

The reports as to the seriousness of Mr. Moody's condition are conflicting. Several intimate friends stated that while his condition is serious it is not critical. These friends, however, reluctantly admit that they believe his career as public speaker is nearing the end.

Dr. Schauffter said that in his opinion the evangelist's condition was not essentially worse than for some time past, and that he was simply exhausted from his recent exertions before the big crowds that have gathered to hear him. Dr. Schauffter added, however, that Mr. Moody must have quiet and rest.

The Knights' Convention.

Boston, Nov. 18.—It was business all day and a dance in the evening at the general assembly of the Knights of Labor yesterday. The greater part of the morning session was devoted to action on the report of the committee on appeals and grievances. The afternoon session was devoted chiefly to routine business. The case of the contested credentials of a New York delegate was settled satisfactorily and he was admitted. The proposition of the United Mine Workers of America to turn over that body to the Knights of Labor 12,000 miners provided John Flannery, editor of The Trade Journal, was dropped from the order, was received coolly, as the assembly doubted the ability of the officials to make such a stupendous transfer without the 12,000 men having anything to say about it. In the evening the visitors enjoyed a complimentary ball.

Two More Jurors.

New York, Nov. 18.—The trial of Roland B. Molineux was interrupted yesterday by the sudden illness of one of the jurors, Daniel Fraad, who was the third man accepted. Fraad was found to be suffering from acute indigestion and was taken home. On a doctor's report that the juror's illness was serious, Recorder Goff declared Fraad's seat in the jury box vacant. It was the fourth day of Molineux's trial, and thus far over 100 talesmen have been examined. Not counting the selection and the dismissal on account of illness of Juror Fraad, the net results of Friday's trial was the selection of two jurors, as follows: Herbert G. Thomson, iron manufacturer; Abraham Altmeyer, a retired real estate dealer.

Christian Scientists Punished.

Americus, Ga., Nov. 18.—The cases of the Christian Scientists who refused to be vaccinated were settled yesterday in the mayor's court by the sentencing of E. J. McMath to imprisonment for 30 days and a fine of $15. Five women of the congregation were sentenced to 15 days' confinement and to pay a small fine. The same sentences will be assessed against other members of the congregation who may refuse to obey the vaccination ordinance. McMath is a leading merchant here, and the women involved belong to the best families. Counsel has been employed to represent the Christian Scientists and the cases will be taken to higher courts.

Fury Fisherman Missing.

St. Johns, Nov. 18.—The storms of the last six days have caused extensive damage in shipping in this region. The schooner Romp is ashore at Burin, Placentia bay, and will prove a total loss, with her cargo of fish. The crew of seven men escaped. Schooner Eleanor, with 40 fishermen, has been missing for two days. Schooner Western Lass had her masts carried away, and the bark Imogene lost her sails, bulwarks and deck-gear, together with a considerable quantity of fishing property.

No Hope For Mrs. Maybrick.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Hope for the liberation of Mrs. Maybrick, confined in an English prison, has been given up by the state department and her friends in Washington. It is said that the British government in reply to Ambassador Choate declared that the case was not one in which clemency should be exercised, and that Mrs. Maybrick must serve her term.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

The temperature has fallen in the Ohio valley and the lake regions, where it is 10 to 20 degrees above the seasonal average. Elsewhere the temperature changes have been slight. During the next 24 hours the Lake Superior storm will move slowly eastward, and will diminish in strength. Over the Atlantic coast states the weather will be warmer and more or less cloudy, with showers over northern New England. On the New England coast the winds will be fresh to brisk, from easterly to southeasterly.

VOTE OF LOUISVILLE.

Kentucky Democrats Ask Board of Canvassers to Throw It Out.

A Move Which Would Give Goebel a Safe Plurality.

Its Attorneys Charge That Voters Were Intimidated by the Military.

Louisville, Nov. 18.—Attorneys for William Goebel yesterday filed notice with the local election board asking that the vote of the city of Louisville be thrown out. They claim that the election officers and voters were intimidated by the militia, ordered out by Governor Bradley on Nov. 7.

The notice served on the commissioners follows:

"For the Democratic candidates, we now give notice that at the close of the count and before any certificates are issued, we will move the board and all other authorities that may consider this election, to declare null and void the election held in the city of Louisville on Nov. 7, 1899.

"First, because of the usurpation of William O. Bradley, in calling out and illegally using the militia and overaweing and intimidating the voters and officers of and at said election, and interfering with the progress of said election, and with the duties of the officers of said election.

"Second, because S. B. Toney unlawfully usurped power in requesting said William O. Bradley to call out the militia for said purpose, when said call was entirely unnecessary and the civil authorities were able and wiling to execute any order made by said court.

"Third, because said militia was used for the unlawful purposes aforesaid.

"Fourth, because said election was not a civil election, but a military election.

"Fifth, because said use of the militia was unlawful in every respect, and a criminal usurpation of power by said named persons, and thereby the civil power was subordinated to the military power, and an overt act of a treasonable nature against the constitution of the state of Kentucky was committed."

This action has been expected ever since the official count began. It was freely reported on election day that if the militia was called out, it would result in some such step.

With Louisville thrown out Goebel would have a safe plurality in the remainder of the state. This dispute will prolong and aggravate the fight, for the Republicans will make every effort in their power to retain Taylor's plurality.

The official count was received last night from Floyd and Knott counties. Floyd gives Goebel 156, and Knott gives him 459 plurality. In the last tabulated returns from Democratic sources Goebel's plurality was figured at one vote. In this table, Floyd (unofficial) gave Goebel 400 plurality, and Knott 439 plurality. The official returns from these two counties show a net loss of 224 from the unofficial.

Buford S. Williams, Coleman Carr and Wingate Thompson, Democratic election officers of Franklin county, were yesterday indicted by the federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy and intimidation against colored voters.

Great Labor Struggle Impending.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Chicago contractors and builders made an open declaration of war last night on the trades unions, charging them with causing the present apathy in building operations here. An ultimatum, setting forth the employers' view of the situation, and stating the terms on which labor must meet capital, after Jan. 1, 1900, was presented to the trades council. The council referred the resolutions to its arbitration committee. The communication from the employers is thought to foreshadow the greatest struggle in which purely local labor organizations ever have become involved.

Fought With Fists and Jaws.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—"Kid" McPartland and Matty Matthews last night fought the liveliest and most ever fight seen here in a long time. The fight was declared a draw at the end of the sixth round. From start to finish the bout was full of ginger. There appeared to be considerable bad feeling between the two men, and in nearly every clinch the wordy battle between them was as hot as the pugilistic encounter.

Dexter Changes His Mind.

Nyack, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Rev. William H. Dexter telegraphed from Washington yesterday for his wife to meet him at North Wales, Pa. Mrs. Dexter did not go, but sent her brother. Mrs. Dexter is preparing to remove to Springfield, Mass., and her husband will join her there if he does not come back here. He telegraphed Thursday that he was coming here, but has evidently changed his mind.

Mayor Asked to Withdraw Approval.

Boston, Nov. 18.—The board of aldermen yesterday concurred with the common council in the passage of the order protesting against the erection on Boston common of a monument in commemoration of the British soldiers who fell at the battle of Bunker Hill, and requesting the mayor to withdraw his approval of the proposition to erect such a monument.

Widespread Disaster in Jamaica.

Kingston, Jam., Nov. 18.—A continuance of stormy weather and torrential rain is reported, extending over the area previously damaged, making the popular distress more widespread, while isolating from immediate relief certain districts, principally the northern and eastern parishes. Some fatalities are reported.

Troops Move Northward.

Manila, Nov. 18.—General MacArthur, with the Thirty-sixth infantry, a battalion of the Seventeenth infantry, a troop of the Fourth cavalry, several Gatlings and a detachment of the signal corps, has begun his northward advance from Tarlac, which will be continued to Bayombong, province of New Vizcaya.

STRENGTH OF PRICES MAINTAINED.

Continuation of Favorable Conditions Previously Reported In the Business World.

New York, Nov. 18.—Bradstreet's says: General trade and industry continue at a maximum volume for this season of the year, while prices, as a whole, manifest a strength unapproached in recent years. Strength of values is still most notable among manufactured textiles, but cereals, hides, leather and manufactures thereof have also strengthened slightly. On the other hand, pork products, raw cotton and tin are slightly lower. The great majority of prices, however, remain firm at unchanged quotations. The strength of cotton goods this week has been in striking contrast with the irregularity and, at times, weakness manifested by the raw product.

Aside from the active demand for goods, an interesting feature of the cotton industry is the reported intention of mill hands to ask for higher wages. An active consumptive demand for wool is reported at the leading markets, accompanied by a fair export demand and a further reduction in stocks. American markets are still claimed to be the lowest wool markets in the world.

Cereals do not manifest any striking change this week, but the resisting power of the market is apparently greater. Another feature attracting attention is the active demand for, but generally reported small, stocks of coal available, both east and west. Talk of a famine is heard from New England and short supplies are reported generally throughout the west and northwest.

Lumber displays continued strength, and advices are of an expected very heavy cut this winter, both in the northwest and at the south.

Some shading in provision prices is noted, largely as a result of heavier receipts of hogs.

Sugar is in rather slow demand, notwithstanding reiterated reports of the settlement of the war among refiners.

The market for iron and steel is rather quieter at the east, but a heavy demand both for pig iron and steel is reported at Chicago. A very heavy order for steel rods for export was placed this week. Reports are also that a large foreign contract for rails has been secured, and advices come of the shipment of an immense amount of bridge material. Some shading in prices of plates and steel billets is reported, but Bessemer pig iron is higher.

The aggregated bank clearings this week are the heaviest reported since the second week of May, amounting to $2,031,321,823, an increase of 18 percent over this week a year ago and of 59 percent over 1897.

Business failures for the week number 199, as compared with 229 in this week a year ago, 235 in 1897.

The Netherlands' Good Will.

The Hague, Nov. 18.—In the second chamber of the states-general of The Netherlands yesterday, the minister of foreign affairs, Dr. W. H. De Beaufort, said: "The government infinitely regrets the sanguinary war in South Africa, and will always be found willing to take advantage of all means which may conduce to its termination. This good will is not unknown to the combatants. Nevertheless, the government does not think it desirable now to make public the steps that have been taken, or may be taken in the future. The British government has declared that it does not desire the intervention of foreign powers, and all powers have hitherto abstained." This statement was made in reply to representations by the bureaux of the chamber.

Dishonest Postmaster.

Boston, Nov. 18.—Frank A. Chapin, postmaster at Salisbury, was arrested yesterday on the charge of embezzlement from the United States government to the extent of $375. When Chapin was arraigned before the United States commissioner here he pleaded guilty and was held in $1000 for the circuit court.

THE GIANT OF TODAY.

BY LOUISE AUGUSTA GORE.

Just to be out in the clear fresh air was a pleasure. What a sense of freedom the child had!

There was not a soul in the world who cared for her but Jimmie. She would do much for Jimmie if she could only find him.

Bidda hastened on, up and down streets, winding here and there among vehicles, neither noticing nor caring for the shouts of the teamsters, yet always escaping destruction. At last the great City Hall was reached and she looked up wonderingly at its lofty height where the golden eagle kept silent watch.

From this point she had decided to begin her search. A policeman chanced by the great gate at this moment and Bidda went up to him, with a quickly beating heart saying,—"Have you seen Jimmie, a little boy with red hair anywh ere?"

But he answered "No," adding that, "Perhaps he might be up the street, just round the corner."

Bidda darted off and was round the corner almost before he had ceased speaking, pausing to look for the familiar face. But no sight of the missing boy gladdened her, so she ran on again, almost knocking over a poor, overweighted, sandwiched advertisement, man, who only recovered himself by a great effort, and treading blindly upon a miserable little monkey in her flight, that made a frantic leap for his post upon a hand-organ while the owner discharged a volley of oaths in a foreign tongue.

Bidda did not stop to listen, look, nor care, but went faster than ever till she caught sight of bright buttons again as another policeman came in sight.

Slacking her speed, again she anxiously enquired, "'Have you seen or heard of my Jimmie?"

But her success was no better, for he paused only to tell her he was not on duty just then, nor was it his beat and that possibly Jimmie might be found in a saloon near by, the doorway of which he pointed out to her and passed on.

Bidda took a few steps within the small shop mentioned, where the fumes of strong liquor and tobacco filled the air, only to see a rough man who enquired in a disagreeable voice what she wanted. Glancing around upon a company of hard-faced men, Bidda suddenly concluded she didn't want any thing and left in haste, the heavy doors banging fiercely behind her.

On, forever on she went, occasionally turning aside to follow some merry urchin who chanced to bear some slight or fancied resemblance to Jimmie, only to return to her fruitless search upon the main street.

Bye and bye she began to grow weary and the hopeful spirits to flag, but just then a pleasant faced lad in a wagon drew up at her side and Bidda ventured to ask if she might ride a little way, she had so far to go. He assented readily and she quickly climbed in at the back of the cart sinking gratefully upon the straw it held and was soon speeding away with new courage and hope, for Jimmie himself, had taken this very road she was following.

A half smile lighted up the pinched, anxious face under the hood, and the bright eyes followed keenly every little figure that came within sight. Her companion who had his errands to think of, or at all events his own thoughts, did not trouble her with questions and the monotonous rumble of the wagon had a mot soothing effect upon the weary child. After a while she forgot to watch so closely for Jimmie and then—at last—the little eyelids closed and the tired head sank back upon a bundle lying near. Bidda slept long. The quiet lad had driven far beyond the city limits and finished his errands yet the child still slept. He turned about at last on the home stretch and with kind forethought refrained from disturbing the little sleeper, covering her carefully with a spare blanket.

Finally darkness came and the feeble little lamps shone out timidly. But when the great square was reached one of the Mayor's grand new lights beamed lustrously, a friendly beacon, the admiration and pride of everyone in its vicinity.

Bidda awoke with a start as the strong rays fell full upon her face and hastily sitting up, endeavored to gather her senses and find out where she was. But she recovered soon enough and with a sob and a great pain at her heart, recognized Teddy and Mrs. Quinsig coming towards her, having barely time to duck her head into the shadows ere they passed.

The child's disappointment was keen and bitter when she realized her efforts and time had been completely wasted, for here she was, within a stone's throw of her starting place in the morning.

Bidda sobbed aloud. This quite disturbed the lad who lost his patience and at once reining in his horse, gently lifted the child out, telling her he must leave her there as his work was done.

Waiting long enough to bestow an orange and find out that she knew her whereabouts, he left her with the excellent advice to "Stop crying and run home like a good girl."

Bidda was alone. Should she follow Mrs. Quinsig and Teddy and go back to the old life again to which she had so firmly bidden adieu only that morning?

Bidda hesitated. Then came the thought of Jimmie. Jimmie whom she would never see again if she allowed tomorrow's sun to find her in Mrs. Quinsig's neighborhood. She might find other playmates in that great home for the homeless, but no Jimmie, never her Jimmie again.

That was enough—her resolution was taken.

It was dark, she thought it must be late. Where should she sleep? Munching her crust of bread and holding fast her great golden orange, she wandered up the lonely street full of huge mishapen shadows, looking here and there, down the alleyways and doorways and cellar-ways.

Bidda was brave and she was not going to be particular, for she must start off again early in the morning she told herself, to look along the road where she so foolishly went to sleep.

The faint cries of a cat finally caught her ear and a brief search for puss following, she soon discovered the animal brushing against a closed lower window in a large warehouse, eager to get out.

Bidda stole carefully towards it and found within a niche close by a door which stood ajar. It was a little removed from the sidewalk and she could have easily stolen in without being seen had there been any belated traveller abroad. But everything was quiet in the deserted street save the last faint footfalls of some walker homeward bound, now echoing in the distance.

At once Bidda took advantage of the opportunity and hastily entered to find herself in a large basement filled with boxes. She groped her way carefully in the darkness, reaching at length a staircase which she ascended to enter an immense room devoted to supplies of dry goods and notions of various kinds. A dim light shone here from a brilliant one in some room farther on and by it Bidda managed to see her way towards a small count-room or office, hastening with a nervous dread lest she might encounter someone yet lingering in the building.

But her fears were groundless. The only life within those walls beside her own, was close by her, as the little animal trotted along at her side purring gratefully whenever she stooped to give a caress.

Bidda soon found two old coats hanging near, and spreading them carefully, made herself a comfortable couch, cosily tucking herself, among the folds while the cat cuddled close at hand. There were tears on the thin little cheeks but the soft purring beside her was a soothing lullaby that gave promise of better things on the morrow and Bidda soon drifted into dreamland.

—Boston is just now getting what may be called a surplus of Mormonism. This city is the headquarters of the Morman propaganda which is being pushed throughout New England, with some very persistant missionaries who want to preach on the Common and are ready to forswear polygamy and all other offensive tenets in exchange for the privilege. And, on the other hand, Boston is just now in the throes of the crusade against the new Congressman from Utah who modestly boasts the possession of three wives and arrogantly asks what we are going to do about it.—Boston Courier.

—The Chicago Tribune has discovered that a man can support a wife and family on $15 a week, and then proceeds to show how it is done, says The Springfield, Ill., News. We hardly see how the Tribune can claim a scoop on this bit of information. If it will explain how some people get married on nothing and afterward live in comfort on no more, it will solve what has always been to us a double-acting, single-jointed puzzle.—Boston Beacon.

Governor's Proclamation.

Whereas, We of the present generation have equal cause with the generations that are past to be sensible of our dependence upon Divine Providence, and to acknowledge our gratitude to the God of Nations for His merciful and abundant favor.

Now, therefore, I, by and with the advice and consent of the Council, appoint Thursday the thirtieth day of November current, as a day of joyful thanksgiving to God in church and home or the blessings of the past year.

May we remember that bounteous harvests and the teeming products of the mine, the factory and workshop cannot alone make a people great and powerful, but that nations like men, are great only through righteousness and honor. May the courage and high purpose of those who founded the republic be the potent inspiration to honorable citizenship. May wealth, the product of labor, be not used for selfish indulgence, but for the equal good of all. May the nation rise to the full height of its greater opportunties and duties, and in the future, as in the past, tread the pathway of enlightenment, liberty and peace.

BOERS AND THE BRITISH

Former American Consul's Views on the South African Situation.

CONSIDERS FAULT IS WITH BOERS.

Colonel Roberts Went to Cape Town Prejudiced Against the English, but With Knowledge of Conditions His Sympathies Changed—Thinks Kruger Narrow Minded—Secret of the War.

Colonel Frank W. Roberts of Biddeford, Me., formerly a United States consul in South Africa, is heartily in sympathy with the English in their present conflict with the Boers. In an interview the other day with the New York Herald correspondent Colonel Roberts said:

"Transferred to Cape Town, South Africa, to fill a vacant consulship, I began my duties there just after Jameson's raid. I had read many newspaper articles on the troubles in the Transvaal, and at that time I had made up my mind that the English were crowding the Boers. My sympathies were wholly on the side of the Boers. In fact, I went to Cape Town strongly prejudiced against the English.

"After arriving in Cape Town and taking charge of the consulate, I was not long in seeing that I had held a very mistaken idea of the situation in South Africa. At that time the consul's district was much larger than it is now.

"Soon after assuming my duties I had occasion to visit the Orange Free State and the Transvaal on official business and then saw for myself the true situation of affairs as between the English and the Boers. The feeling of hatred between the two races was so intense I became satisfied it would sooner or later end in a clash of some kind.

"I had heard so much adverse criticism of President Kruger that I was really desirous of seeing him face to face and having a chance to talk to him before making my own judgment of him. I visited him in his home in Pretoria and engaged in conversation with him. It was then a time of peace in South Africa, though Jameson's fiasco had only recently taken place, and, as far as I could see, the English were doing nothing to disturb the tranquillity of the Transvaal, yet Kruger was full of venom for the English, regarding them apparently as the worst people on earth and just waiting for an opportunity to pounce on their prey. I could not help thinking, as I sat in Kruger's presence and heard him run on with his torrent of invective against the English, that, with all his sagacity as a ruler, he was possessed of a very narrow and bigoted mind.

"With the Boers it is more than a fight for independence. It is a fight to the death—to crush out, in a dying effort, the inroads which the audacious Anglo-Saxon has made in the sublime, unprogressive stagnation of their Boer life, lived out, as their progenitors of two centuries ago lived it out, on the shores of the Cape of Good Hope.

"Yet there is a question whether the Boers would have taken this surprisingly aggressive stand against this large foreign population which has lately come into their midst, numbering perhaps four times the Boers, had it not been that there was coming among them at the same time a small contingent of brainy speculators and capitalists from the Netherlands.

"Certainly as bright a man as there probably is in the world today is that young Dutch physician, Dr. Leyds, who went to Pretoria not many years ago as secretary of state of the Transvaal. If President Kruger has been very wary and successful thus far in coping with the most astute statesmanship of England, I am satisfied it is due to the guiding hand of his more wary secretary of state behind the scenes.

"If ever there was a Mephistopheles in politics, with the eradication of some of the eccentricities of that famous character, that man is this active and bright young Holland physician who has been carrying state secrets in the Transvaal, till Kruger found a better use for him by sending him as embassador to Europe, with headquarters in Germany.

"The denial of the right to vote and have any participation in the management of affairs of government; the excessive taxation, of which the uitlanders paid 95 per cent; the many monopolies as to the manufacture and sale of indispensable articles; the exorbitant freight and passenger rates, and many other causes of complaint were the means of incurring the ill will of Americans there, as well as the great mass of English who populated the Transvaal country."

Park Theatre.

James A. Herne is now in the fourth week of his engagement at the Park Theatre Boston, in that exquisite and enormously successful play "Sag Harbor." "Sag Harbor" is beating all records for receipts and far exceeding in popularity and patronage any other play that has appeared so far or that is now being presented in Boston. Mr. Herne and his managers-Liebler & Co., have received so many requests from professionals in Boston, for an opportunity to see him in his new play that the gracious author-star has finally consented to give a professional matinee. This matinee will be given at the Park Theatre on the afternoon of Tuesday November 21st, and the regular Wednesday matinee will be omitted. Many famous stars and players will be present on this occasion and the public will also be admitted to a limited number. Thanksgiving is fast approaching and with it a unique event that is scheduled for the Park Theatre. Mr. James A. Herne, always an intense lover of children, has determined to give them a good time on this famous New England day of good-cheer. Mr. Herne is to invite the poor children of Boston, quite without regard for cast, color or creed to be his guests on Thanksgiving morning at the Park Theatre. Here he will provide them with a special entertainment with a little collation, will make a speech to them, and present each with some little souvenir or token of remembrance. In the afternoon a special Thanksgiving matinee will be given by the "Sag-Harbor" company. Liebler & Co. are planning to make this occasion particularly interesting through some medium characteristic of the ancient New England feast-day.

Castle Square Theatre.

The third week of "The Heart of Maryland" is announced at the Castle Square theatre, beginning Monday, Nov. 20th., and there are ample evidences of a continued great demand for seats even beyond that limit. The company at this theatre has never made a greater success than in this play and the production displays all the resources of this great playhouse to the best possible advantage. The audiences at each performance thus far have tested the capacity of the theatre and the great scenes of the play arouse the greatest enthusiasm, that showing the heroine swinging in mid air with the clapper of the bell, resulting always in a thunder of applause. All of the minute details of this production have been given the most careful attention and the several stage pictures are veritable art creations. Excellent incidental music goes to heighten the enjoyment of the play and the success of the production is a well merited recognition of the enterprise of the managment. At the matinee of Monday, the 20th inst., the souvenir will again be a box of the fine chocolate bon bons that gave such satisfaction a fort night ago.

Boston Museum.

A welcome attraction will come to the Boston Museum next Monday evening when "Because She Loved Him So," will begin a limited engagement there. This production will be remembered for the conspicuous success which it made here last season when it was Charles Frohman's annual production in Boston. It had its presentation at the height of the season and ran for weeks to crowded audiences. Its run was only interrupted when it came necessary to take the production to New York for the presentation at the Madison Square theatre, where it ran all the remainder of the season. The play returns with the Boston verdict indorsed by all the principal cities of the country. Everybody has laughed over it and pronounced it the funniest play in years. Taking a French suggestion, William Gillette has improved upon his original, and the result is the richest treat in the comedy line that Boston will have this season. J. F. Bodson, who made the principal character emphatically his own, again returns at the head of the company and will repeat the impersonation which was unanimously agreed to be the most genuinely artistic and deliciously droll bit of comedy work that the local stage has seen. The Boston engagement is positively limited to two weeks.

—Count Esterhazy, who figured somewhat prominently in the recent Dreyfus case, and who found it prudent to get out of the country during the great trial, has just been sentenced to three years' imprisonment, together with a fine of 50 francs, for swindling a relative. As Esterhazy is still out of the court's reach, and politely declines to return to France and accept his punishment, it looks very much like a case of "first catch your hare."—Milford Gazette.

"Pay me the six-and-eight pence you owe me," said the Irish attorney to one of his clients.

"For what?"

"For the opinion you had of me."

"Faith I never had any opinion of you in all my life."

The surest way to keep the womanly health is to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It promotes perfect regularity. It dries the drains which weaken women. It cures inflammation, ulceration, and female weakness. It soothes and strengthens the nerves, drives away despondency, and gives a healthy appetite and refreshing sleep. It makes childbirth easy, and nursing mothers will find in it a strength giving tonic.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic.

"I never courted newspaper notoriety," writes Mrs. E. A. Bender, of Keene, Coshocton Co., Ohio, "yet I am not afraid to speak a good word for your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets.' Over a year ago I suffered terribly for nearly four weeks with prolapsus and weakness. After using one bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Pellets' I was a well woman. I have taken no medicine since and have had no symptoms of my former trouble. Have used the 'Favorite Prescription' at different times for more than four years and find it has no equal."

NOTORIOUS SWINDLER.

James C. Hart Is Once More Within the Grasp of the Law.

Many Women Out of Pocket By His Operations.

Has Already "Done Time" and Confesses Crimes When Confronted With Victims.

New York, Nov. 20.—The police have at headquarters James C. Hart, who spent 18 months in Sing Sing for swindling a woman out of $10,000 worth of diamonds in 1896, and whose latest operations, carried on in New York city, have consisted of swindling women out of sums of money varying from $75 to several hundred dollars, their jewelry or whatever else he could successfully lift and carry away. For the past three months Hart has done a lucrative business, and at police headquarters yesterday, when he was confronted with a number of his victims, he confessed to the crimes one by one.

Since the time of his release from prison in 1898 nothing had been heard here of Hart until September last, when Mrs. B. W. Zingsem of Brooklyn complained to the police that she had been swindled out of $162 by a man who called himself J. I. Mason, but whom she readily identified as Hart from his photograph in the rogues' gallery. On Sept. 19, Mrs. Zingsem, who is a French woman, inserted an advertisement in a New York paper as follows:

"A French lady being acquainted with Parisians, speaking good English, French and German, would be willing to transact their business abroad during the Paris exposition."

In response to this advertisement Hart called on Mrs. Zingsem and stated that he was general superintendent of the W. B. Corset company of Chicago. He said that he would like to employ her as agent of the company at the exposition, but would first have to communicate with the company in Chicago. This he did, he said later, and then engaged Mrs. Zingsem at $75 per month. He told her, however, that he should require a bond of $15,000, the charge for which, $162, would be refunded to her at the termination of her service for the company. He got the money and disappeared.

His next victim appears to have been Miss Rebecca E. Boyd of Lexington avenue, whom he employed as a governess for the family of his sister, now living in San Diego, Cal. He secured $160 from her to pay her passage to California.

Mrs. Herman Gagain of West Fourteenth street on Nov. 3 was swindled out of nearly $100, after Hart had engaged her to enter the service of his sister in Bermuda.

On Nov. 12 Miss Mary S. Gray of West One Hundred and Eighteenth street entered into negotiations with Hart, who was then under the name of "O. G. Smith of the Edison Mimeograph company," to conduct a boarding house for him where "the highest paid employes of the largest corporation in the city" were to reside. Hart gave as his references Thomas A. Edison and Colonel Lawrence Kip, and it was after the negotiation with this lady was completed by which Mr. Hart secured three $100 bills from her that he was arrested outside of the Albemarle hotel.

In addition to these named, there have been a number of other women who lost money through him.

Seamen In Desperate Affray.

Belfast, Me., Nov. 20.—As the result of an affray which took place on board a fishing smack in the harbor Saturday night, Captain Elbridge Rolerson of Belfast was drowned, and Captain Dell Dailey, the owner of the smack, is suffering greatly from wounds and exposure. Captain Dailey, who gave himself up, says that Rolerson came aboard his boat in an intoxicated condition, and made a vicious attack upon him, biting and pounding him. Captain Dailey clinched him, and in the struggle which followed both were precipitated into the water. Dailey succeeded in getting back into his boat again, although nearly exhausted. Rolerson's boat was found adrift, covered with blood, and it is believed that the owner was drowned.

Many Lodges Secede.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—About 2500 Chicago members of the Knights and Ladies of Honor have seceded from the organization because of dissatisfaction with the management of the affairs of the body by the supreme lodge. Fourteen lodges in Chicago have withdrawn, and have set up a rival concern, which is styled the German-American Federation of Illinois. The members of the 14 lodges say they seceded because they thought the assessments which the supreme lodge levied upon the members were too high.

FATAL STABBING AFFRAY.

Robert Emerton Killed by S. N. Bugbee During a Dispute at Norwich, Vt.

Norwich, Vt., Nov. 20.—Robert Emerton, aged 35 years, an employe of the Dartmouth college heating plant at Hanover, N. H., was stabbed and killed here Saturday night by S. N. Bugbee, a fish dealer of Wilder. Bugbee has been arrested and taken to White River Junction.

The trouble occurred in the grocery of I. L. Niles, father-in-law of Emerton, in which Bugbee was trading. Some words passed between Emerton and Bugbee and the former left the store, being followed by Bugbee.

The dispute was resumed when Bugbee called Emerton back, using, it is said, vile epithets, which the latter resented vocally, and then knocked Bugbee to the ground. The latter, on rising, drew a knife, and in the mix-up which followed it is believed that Bugbee stabbed Emerton in the abdomen, the blade reaching a vital part, as Emerton fell back and died before aid could be given him.

Bugbee left town at once, but a little later, at Hanover, Officer McCauley placed him under arrest and took him to White River Junction. From appearances, Bugbee was thought to have been under the influence of liquor, and he claims that the knife was used in self-defense. Emerton leaves a wife and two children.

Moody at Home.

East Northfield, Mass., Nov. 20.—Dwight L. Moody, who suffered an attack of heart trouble while engaged in evangelistic work in Kansas City, reached his home Sunday afternoon and is resting comfortably. His condition seems to have improved since he left Kansas City. With him were Dr. Schauffler and C. M. Vining, both of Kansas City. Shortly after his arrival Dr. Schauffler said: "The general condition of Mr. Moody has much improved. His temperature is nearly normal and his pulse continues to improve. I look to see him gradually recover. He has no valvular disease of the heart. His circulation is rapidly improving."

Good Afternoon.

In the selection of John O. Hall as their candidate for Mayor, the Republicans have nominated a gentleman of unspotted character, sterling integrity and marked ability. A gentleman who has all the business qualification, and who would zealously guard the interests of the taxpayers. A gentleman who is on the right side of all moral questions, and who takes pleasure in upholding good government. A gentleman who is loyal to the country, and appreciates the services rendered by the Grand Army and the Spanish War Veterans. But one who above all believes in Quincy. Not alone for its early history and its past achievements, but for its future under good government.

Mr. Hall is a firm believer in home industries and home labor. As Mayor he would insist that all supplies for the city should be purchased in Quincy. He believes in an economical government, and is confident that he can reduce the burden of taxes and the tax rate by proper methods. As City Auditor he had been in a position to see many leaks from the city treasury which he has been powerless to check, and his acquaintance with all the departments make him an ideal candidate at this time.

Mr. Hall is in no sense a politician. While he is a staunch Republican, he would not stoop to questionable or dishonorable methods. His canvass for the nomination was free from objectionable features, manly and above board, and a sample of what might be expected of him as Mayor.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ It is not surprising that Governor-elect Crane is going to appoint Major General Samuel Dalton as the adjutant-general of his staff. It would be surprising if he didn't.—Somerville Journal.

☞ Municipal Socialism can only be applied with common sense and business prudence. There is a limit to the taxes which it is wise to impose upon any community at a given time, and nothing should be undertaken which cannot be properly managed.—Mayor Quincy of Boston.

MADE IT UNANIMOUS.

Republicans Nominate City Auditor John O. Hall for Mayor.

A Strong Ticket Presented for Councilmen-at-Large —Sketch of the Candidate.

The Republican Mayoralty convention convened at 1 o'clock this noon at Republican headquarters. Chairman A. G. Dolliver called the convention to order and a temporary organization was effected with R. R. Freeman as chairman and A. L. Baker as secretary.

Upon vote an adjournment was made to City Hall.

A committee on credentials was appointed as follows:

Clarence Burgin, Rollin H. Newcomb, James Thompson, W. E. Badger, E. F. DeNormandie and Harry W. Read. They reported all delegates present.

The temporary organization was made permanent.

Voted to proceed to an informal ballot.

Messrs. C. A. Howland, Walter J. Wellington and Michael Owens were appointed a committee to receive and count ballots.

The result of the informal ballot was as follows:

Whole number of votes	45
John O. Hall had	31
Frederick L. Jones had	14

Upon motion of ex-Mayor Russell A. Sears the informal ballot was made formal.

James Thompson moved that the nomination be made unanimous and it was so voted.

A committee of two, consisting of Russell A. Sears and James Thompson, was appointed to bring candidate before the convention.

COUNCILMEN.

The following nominations for Councilmen at large were then made:

Ward 2—Eugene N. Hultman.
Ward 3—Harry S. Nicoll.
Ward 4—William E. Badger.
Ward 5—Richard R. Freeman.
Ward 6—John E. Poland.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Upon motion of Councilman Walter S. Pinkham, ex-Councilman Charles F. Merrick of Ward Six was placed in nomination without any opposition. Mr. Merrick was formerly principal of the Quincy and the Willard schools.

The Republican City Committee was empowered to fill vacancies in case of death, resignation or disability.

A recess was taken until Candidate Hall appeared.

Candidate Hall was introduced by Mr. Thompson and was warmly received.

SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE.

Mr. Hall, in accepting the nomination, said it gave him great pleasure to accept the nominations at their hands. Anyone would be an object of pity whose heart would not respond to the assurances of support that had been given him. Words were inadequate to return his heartfelt gratitude for the many words of kindly greeting and for confidence placed in him. You know the history of the past, I have been a candidate for nominations many times. I have labored for him who you have selected. I have to the best of my ability labored for the Republican party in this city. It was his hope this year to see the selection a unanimous one by acclamation, not for myself, for I should be glad to assist in that choice. With the spontaneous and comprehensive assurances that had been accorded him he had no doubt of the success of the party.

Some question has been asked as to my course. There need be no doubt as to that. I was born a Republican and have always worked and labored to support the principles of that party, for I have felt the glory of the republic was in the Republican party, the friend of the poor and oppressed, of the laboring man and for the uplifting of mankind. The work is before us and I ask your support and assistance, and I have no suspicion but what it will be given.

Whether victorious or not I want it understood there shall be no unfriendliness, no animosity, and when the issues are decided there shall be the same good feeling of heartfelt love as now, and I shall not say if you had not done so and so the result would have been different. It shall be a contest of principles for the uplifting of the city, and we shall be successful, as we are pledged to business principles, to see that the city's money is expended for the city at large, and not that the candidate elected may be perpetuated in office, not in the slightest degree.

That we will put forward our conscientious efforts, he had no doubt. He had confidence of the result, and that the words from the heart backed by brain, and supported by the hand, would prevail.

The convention dissolved at 1.45.

CANDIDATE HALL.

The Republican candidate for Mayor has been a resident of Quincy for a quarter of a century, and is one of the substantial taxpayers of the city. He moved to Quincy when his children were small, and gave them a good education in our public schools, at Adams Academy, and at Harvard college, and they are now among the most exemplary young men of the city. From the first, Mr. and Mrs. Hall have taken an active interest in Quincy; in its churches and religious work; and in literary fields. Mr. Hall has been a fearless champion of no-license; always ready to speak on public occasions, and on Memorial days.

The first City Council elected Mr. Hall City Auditor in January, 1889, and he has annually been elected to that responsible position every year since, and has become thoroughly acquainted with the various departments of the city.

Mr. Hall was born in Hingham in 1843, and his friends hope he may celebrate his 56th birthday on Dec. 7 as the Mayor-elect of Quincy. When a school boy he kept books for a grocery store and got an early financial training. Then he attended a grammar school in Boston and was graduated from the High school. For two years he was in the employ of the old Maverick bank of Boston, then he became selling agent for Audenreid, Norton & Co., the coal shippers, in charge of their Boston office, and five years later up to 1880 he was with Carter, Dinsmore & Co. as bookkeper and confidential clerk. For a few years he was a manufacturer of blank books and stationery. In 1885 he assumed charge of the large estate of A. H. Allen, and has conducted it very successfully to this date.

The same attention which Mr. Hall has given to estates entrusted to him, would be given by him to affairs of the city, and Quincy will be fortunate indeed if she secures the services of a gentleman so well equipped to fill the executive chair in 1900.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

The Star Tea and Coffee store has reduced the price of flour.

The week's fair of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., is said to have been a financial success.

The degree staff of court Gustaf Wasa will perform the work for court John Ericson of Foresters of this city tonight.

George W. Havens, D. D., will give a smoke talk before Quincy council, K. of C., Tuesday evening.

The street railway tracks are being relaid on new locations, and blockades of Dewey Square will be less frequent.

Councilman William E. Badger received his ernomination for the Council on his 44th birthday. He was the leading cancidate last year.

An enterprising Houghs Neck citizen has started a barge line between Hough Neck and the Quincy depot, and it is well patronized.

It is reported that an unsuccessful effort was made to have ex-Mayor Fairbanks allow his name used at the Republican Mayoralty convention.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Company arrived in town this morning and makes its headquarters at the Greenleaf. There are 30 in the company. A street parade and concert were given at noon.

A well appearing young man with gold eye glasses went into the livery stable of Mr. Frank Cardell on Washington street last Thursday, and gave the name of Starrett of Wollaston and hired a team to go to a funeral at North Abington. As yet the team has not been returned. It was not Mr. Starrett of Wollaston, who is justly indignant.

Tuesday, the Y. P. S. C. E. of Memorial Congregational church will give a sale of fancy and useful articles at 21 Billings street. Articles will be on sale from three to five in the afternoon and in the evening after 7.30 o'clock. A pleasant social time has been planned for the evening, and everybody is invited to come and bring friends and neighbors.

Large audiences greeted Rev. Walter Russell Breed at Christ church, Sunday, at the commencement of his seventh year as rector of the church. At the morning service Mr. Breed departed from the usual custom of preaching a sermon, and delivered an address on parish matters. He gave an interesting talk on the seal of the church and that his remarks might be better followed, imprints of the seal were placed in each pew. Mr. Breed also spoke regarding the enlarging of the parish house, and that the time would soon come for a new rectory.

MANY CANDIDATES.

Probability of Four for Mayor of City.

Nomination Papers for Councilmen Out.

Ward Three May Have Choice of Nine Men.

From present indications the coming municipal election will not only be the hottest kind of a fight, but a mixed up affair as well. The reason for this is the number of nominations that will be made by nomination papers.

For Mayor besides the regular Republican and Democratic nominations the Social Democrats will have a candidate. It is also understood that the Independent Democrats are circulating nomination papers for John F. Lyons of Quincy avenue as Mayor.

Besides papers for Mayor, the Social Democrats are circulating nominations for Councilmen, as follows:

Ward One, William M. Packard, and Peter M. Carlson.

Ward Two, George K. Carter.

Ward Five, Hosea B. Johnson.

Councilman at large, Alexander Russell of Ward Three.

It was planned to nominate Carmine P. Gardner as Councilman from Ward Six, but owing to the delay in getting out the papers it is probable that his name will be dropped.

The Ward Three Democrats only nominated two candidates for Ward Councilmen at the caucus, but it is understood that the caucus officers have exercised their power to fill vacancies, by adding the name of Thomas Shea. This means that there will be at least nine candidates for Councilmen from this ward upon the official ballot and two and possibly three Councilmen at large.

To Build a Crusier.

Business will continue to boom at the Fore River Engine Works on Quincy avenue as the good work by this company on torpedo boat destroyers has secured for it the contract for one of the protected crusiers for Uncle Sam.

A Washington dispatch to the Trancript says: The Board of Naval Construction has agreed upon a report recommending that the Navy Department award the contracts for constructing the six new cruisers authorized by Congress to the following concerns: Union Iron Works of San Francisco, Lewis Nixon of the Crescent Shipbuilding Works, Elizabethport, N. J., the Bath Iron Works of Bath, Me., the Trigg Shipbuilding Company of Richmond, Va., the Fore River Engine Works of Weymouth, Mass., and Neafie and Levy of Philadelphia. The recommendations will be made in a report to be submitted to Acting Secretary Allen by Admiral O'Neil, president of the construction board, and the awards are not final until the board's findings are approved by the secretary. The lowest bidders did not receive the preference in all cases, and it is to be presumed that the board was influenced in its selections by consideration of meritorious design and unquestionable ability of the concerns to perform the work they will be called upon to undertake.

Democratic Convention.

The Democratic Mayoralty convention is called for 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. Owing to the unseasonable time the plan is to organize the convention and then adjourn until this evening at City Hall.

THE POLO LEAGUE.

Quincy Lose Their Game With the Brocktons.

The games in the Southeastern polo league Saturday evening resulted in victories for Brockton and Taunton, and defeats for Quincy and Plymouth.

There was no game at East Weymouth because of the non-appearance of the Middleboro team, which may have disbanded.

At Brockton the teams were very evenly matched. The Quincys won four for the first seven goals, and five out of ten, but the Brockons won two more before the time was up. After the whistle for Brocktons eighth goal had been blown, the ball rolled out of goal; the referee refused to withdraw his decision and the Quincys continued the game under protest.

The summary in full is:

BROCKTON.		QUINCY.
P. Murphy, r.,		r., Purcell
Dawson, r.,		r., Connell
Fitzgerald, c.,		c., Devlin
Gendreau, h.b.,		h.b., Genereaux

The score at Plymouth was: Plymouth, 7; Taunton 4.

The standing to date, not counting the game scheduled for East Weymouth, is:

POLO TIPS.

No games are scheduled for tonight.

Tomorrow night the Middleboro team play at Quincy, the Plymouths at Taunton and the East Weymouths at Brockton.

Referee Moran referees the game in an impartial manner and his decisions should not be hissed if the visitors get the better of a decision. With the large experience that Mr. Moran has had the audience certainly ought to have confidence in his ability to conduct the game in a fair manner.—Weymouth Gazette.

One by one New England League players are jumping to the Southeastern League.—Brockton Enterprise.

Manager Upton has engaged a new rusher for the Quincy team.

The Taunton News is happy. It says the Taunton team has a cinch on last place, anyway.—Brockton Enterprise.

Portland has a big lead in the New England league, its percentage being .833 to .643 for Manchester.

John Connell has a roving commission, as it were. He plays with the Salems in home games, and on other days takes trips elsewhere. Quincy made him a liberal offer and secured him for Saturday night, but he proved unable to assist in a victory, for Brockton won easily.—Herald.

Yacht Building.

Embree, at Quincy Point, is busy making some changes on the 35-foot "sled" Golden Rod and he is also getting ready to build the schooner for J. L. and L. H. Sturtevant, who own the 25-footer Redskin. The new schooner is of the pronounced scow type, 65 feet on deck, 35 feet on the line and 16 feet beam. The boat will be fitted with a fin and centreboard working through it. Both fin and centre-plate will be heavily ballasted. Embree also expects to build a 55-footer for New York yachtsmen.

Hanley has the Fred Brown 25-footer started and has a number of plans of cruising and racing yawls that he will doubtless be ordered to build from a little later in the season If the Royal Canadian Yacht club challenges for the Canada cup, which now seems quite probable, Hanley will be given a chance by the Chicago Yacht club to build a defender. Hanley has also built an 18-footer to be sent out West.—Herald.

COMES TO A HEAD.

Granite Quarry Syndicate a Success.

All Deeds Desired Have Now Been Deposited.

Owners Will Receive Orders in Payment Within Week.

News comes from Boston that the Quincy Quarry syndicate is a success, and that it has accomplished its purpose to obtain possession of all the valuable granite quarries of Quincy.

A few days ago the New York people and the underwriters agreed to deposit the money required with the American Loan and Trust Company as soon as all the deeds of the Quincy Quarries were obtained.

The delay has been caused because the deeds of some of the quarries could not be obtained.

This morning the last one was ready however, and all have been deposited with the American Loan and Trust Company at 53 State street.

Now a call will be issued to all the underwriters to deposit the necessary money within five days with the above company. It is understood that the underwriters may not take all the quarries offered, but they will make their choice.

It is expected that the owners of the quarries selected will by the first of next week receive from S. M. Tucker & Co. orders for the amount due them for their quarries. The move is an important one for the city of Quincy, and it is hoped that it may be for the benefit of granite cutters and the city at large.

Street Railway War.

Stoughton is now having a street railway war and Sunday was an exciting day. Some three months ago the Stoughton and Randolph Street Railroad Company laid its tracks around the end of those of the Brockton Street Railroad Company, the work being done at 5 A M., so as to prevent the Blue Hill Street Railway Company from laying its own tracks. Early Sunday morning a large gang of workmen of the Blue Hill Street Railway Company appeard on the scene and proceeded to lay the connecting rails on top of those already put down by the Randolph Street Railroad Company, in order to secure the necessary connetion grading the street so as to cover up the tracks of the Randolph Company. One of the Selectmen was for stopping the men from working on the Lord's Day, but the other two were contra-minded.

Co. K Inspection.

Col. J. H. Whitney of the Fifth Infantry has detailed Maj. H. P. Ballard to inspect Co. K of Braintree on Monday, Dec. 11. He will be assisted by Lieut. H. A. Clark. Inspections will be in fatigue uniform Particular attention will be paid to uniform and equipment, that all shall be in good repair and in first-class condition. Reports of inspectors will be forwarded to headquarters no later than Dec. 23, and will cover the following points: Enrollment attendance at inspection and at regular drills; knowledge of drill and guard duty; appearance of company as to neatness and set-up discipline, military courtesy, efficiency of non-commissioned officers, drill of company by commissioned officers, condition of books and papers; alarm list, armory and its condition, and such other information as the circumstances may warrant.

WEYMOUTH

Mr. W. L. Jenkins of North Weymouth, the author, is out with a new book "Madrine Doucet" which bids fair to become widely read. The scenes are laid in New England and Kentucky. The characters are strongly portrayed and there is a touching love story told in a most charming way. Madrine Doucet is a striking contrast to some of the present day novels in that it is clean and wholesome throughout.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1-4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

But no work for the mender.

Political.

Rumor has it that the opposition to Mayor Keith among the Democrats may result in an independent Democrat being nominated for Mayor on nomination papers.

Local politics will be lively from now out.

A recount of the votes cast at the Ward Two Republican caucus for delegates to the Mayoralty convention was held Saturday night, at the request of George Weston who was defeated by Arthur W. Newcomb by one vote. The recount resulted the same as the original count.

The following cities will have their elections on the same date as Quincy Dec. 5, Chicopee, Fall River, Fitchburg, Gloucester, Haverhill, Holyoke, Lawrence, Malden, Marlboro, New Bedford, Northampton, Pittsfield, Somerville, Springfield, Taunton and Waltham.

Keith's Theatre.

There is a perfect feast of good things promised at Keith's Boston theatre for the week of Nov. 20, including: Milton and Dollie Nobles, in a new and original farce, "A Blue Grass Widow;" Al. Filson and Lee Errol, in "A Tip on the Derby;" Mouliere sisters, in a wonderful exhibition of acrobatic work on the triple horizontal bars; Lucy Holman Hinchcliffe, the celebrated female baritone; Tom and Hattie Nawn, in one of their delightful Irish comedy sketches; Bruett et Riviere, French vocalists and mimics; Lydia Dreams, the noted English ventriloquil comedian; Bedini and Arthur, comedy acrobats, their first appearance here; Baby Lund, a marvelous juvenile entertainer; the Cosmopolitan trio, comedians and singers; Stanley and Wilson, dancers; Stella Rinehart, instrumentalist, and Claude Thardo, monologue comedian. Mme. Hermann, widow of the famous magician, is underlined for the week of Nov. 27, presenting many of her late husband's most mystifying illusions.

PUSHING NORTHWARD.

MacArthur's Command Doing Good Work In the Philippines.

Getting Into the Neighborhood of "Friendlies."

Refugees Say Insurgents Do Not Know Which Way to Turn.

Manila, Nov. 20.—The American occupation of the country between Manila and Dagupan is proceeding with a rush. General MacArthur is within five miles of Dagupan, which place General Wheaton or General Lawton will probably occupy. The railroad is practically intact beyond Bamban except for a distance of five miles to the north, and the rails for that portion have been discovered. Large quantities of rolling stock have, however, been destroyed.

General MacArthur is moving his troops by train; and the roads within General Lawton's territory are becoming passable.

Captain Leonhaeuser accomplished one of the best coups of the war. Reaching Odonnell by a night march from Capas on Nov. 18, he surprised the insurgent force, numbering 200, and captured all of them, with their arms, 10,000 rounds of ammunition and four tons of subsistence. One Filipino was killed, but there were no American casualties.

General MacArthur entered Gerona Saturday afternoon. The insurgents had fled last Monday after burning the depot. Nothing else was destroyed by them. Gerona is the first town along the Manila-Dagupan railway where the natives did not run at the approach of the Americans. The padres offered quarters in the church and convent. The town has one good house. It is the seat of heavy English sugar interests.

The trip there was a hard one, and occupied six hours in covering seven miles and a half, most of the time being spent in fording a quarter of a mile flood, running out of the Rio Tarlac. There were no wagons, and pack mules and native bearers carried all our supplies.

The natives at Gerona say that Bayombong was occupied a week ago by mounted troops, probably General Young's brigade of General Lawton's division. The people of Gerona are of a better class than we have usually found, and they welcomed the Americans, as they evidently realized that their agricultural interests will revive. General MacArthur said: "We seem to be entering a different political atmosphere. The people here seem to be less attached to Aguinaldo's cause than those in many towns we have entered on the railway line."

The command moved northward at once, toward Bayombong. Gerona was garrisoned with two companies of the Ninth infantry, assisted by two companies of the Thirty-sixth.

Immediately on entering Gerona Slaven's scouts moved up the track toward Panique. On the way they encountered an intrenched party of insurgents whom they drove back, then entered the town and captured four locomotives and 13 cars. They learned that 500 insurgents had left the town in the course of the afternoon.

General MacArthur's troops arrived at Panique from Gerona Sunday morning. The railroad beyond this point has not been destroyed. The captured railway stock is being repaired to handle supplies. The expedition will go north toward Bayombong probably today. The signal corps is constructing lines with great rapidity. A native courier from Bayombong reports that the American troops left the town soon after they entered, and that many natives remain, although no insurgents.

General MacArthur discovered at Panlgue Major Joneson, formerly chief surgeon on the staff of the Filipino commander, General Mascardo. He resides at Bacolor, and is about to return there to resume his practice. Major Joneson says that all respectable Filipinos are disgusted with the behavior of the insurgents, and are very glad that the Americans have the upper hand.

A continuous procession of refugees is entering Panique from the north, indicating the proximity of other American troops, probably off the railroad line. These refugees say that the insurgents have not known which way to turn, with the Americans occupying so many places in the north.

Panique is a rich sugar town. Some of the wealthy Chinese and the poorer natives fled at the approach of our troops, but they are now confidently returning. The rain has ceased, the weather is fine, and the country is drying rapidly.

Advancing through the enemy's country by train from Panique, a distance of five miles, the Americans reached Moncada, where the natives have displayed a friendly disposition. The train was stalled at Moncada by the wreck of two locomotives and 54 cars, evidently intentional, on the main track. The freight house and depot has been burned. No attempt will be made to save the wrecked rolling stock, but the tracks will be cleared, and, as soon as two small breaks have been repaired, the expedition will continue northward. Thus far the advance has been a complete success.

"Wild Cat" Banker Sentenced.

Kansas City, Nov. 20.—Leonard B. Imboden, formerly of Fort Worth, Tex., who was found guilty of conducting a "wild cat" bank in this city, has been sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment in the state penitentiary. Imboden had in his time engaged in numerous big financial schemes in the southwest.

Civil Strife in British Possessions.

London, Nov. 20.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Sydney, N. S. W., says that a disastrous civil war has broken out in the British possession of New Guinea, 11 villages having been obliterated, with a heavy slaughter of the inhabitnts.

BOTH SIDES ARE HOPEFUL.

Probability That Compromise Will Be Arranged Between Mill Men and Operatives.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 20.—Members of the Manufacturers' association, it is learned upon reliable authority, believe that this afternoon's conference between special committees of five each from the Textile council and the Mill Men's association will result in an amicable settlement of the wage difficulty, the agitation over which has been progressing for over a month past and disturbing the business interests of the mills to such an extent as to make it imperative that some sort of an agreement be reached by the operatives and manufacturers at an early date if possible.

They hope that, from the tone of the Textile council's latest statements, a compromise which may contain a definite promise of an early advance and the adoption of a sliding scale of wage payments will be effected. The courteous letter of the Manufacturers' association sent to the council on Wednesday did much toward making the relations between employe and employer more friendly, and it is certain that both sides are in an attitude which will make a friendly settlement of the question probable.

A prominent labor leader says that, providing the Manufacturers' association offers an immediate advance, together with a fair schedule of wages, sliding either up or down, it will be considered by the council and offered to the operatives for adoption. Such action as this would be followed without either side receding from its previous course.

Another member, however, thought that the adoption of a sliding scale would require too much time and consideration, and that it would be impossible to come to a definite agreement on that point within the time named in the ultimatum of the council.

The developments have been followed with interest by the operatives, and the result of today's conference is awaited with hopefulness by both sides.

Both Fought Valiantly.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 20.—Harvard's football players, with a season's record untarnished by defeat, trotted onto Soldiers field Saturday to the sweet music of deafening applause, confident absolutely of victory. Yale's superb athletes romped onto the gridiron hopeful almost to confidence that the blue would wave above the crimson when the battle was history. Two hours later it was all over and neither team had scored a point. Though victory had flirted with the crimson, but never once throughout the play seemed to have a smile for the blue, the prize was snatched away when Harvard fairly had its fingers on it. Though the victory came to neither contestant, they both seemed worthy of it. Never has there been a greater contest on the gridiron with both elevens struggling for every inch and yielding with a stubbornness that thrilled those who watched until from the strain of the excitement the 35,000 people felt as though they had been through a game down on the chalked field.

After Fifty-Three Years' Pastorate.

New York, Nov. 20.—Great surprise was caused at the Church of the Pilgrims in Brooklyn yesterday by the announcement that Rev. Dr. Storrs, the venerable pastor of the church, would resign. Dr. Storrs has been in poor health this fall, and has been unable to attend to the duties of the church for some weeks. His place in the pulpit has been occupied by visiting clergymen. Dr. Storrs has been the sole pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims since its incorporation, 53 years ago. In all that time he has carried on the work of the church, unassisted by any associate, and until a few years ago has enjoyed the best of health.

Suspicion of Bubonic Plague.

New York, Nov. 20.—Steamer J. W. Taylor, from Santos, Brazil, with the captain and cook ill with suspected bubonic plague, has been disinfected as far as possible without discharge of cargo. The patients are at Swineburne Island and there is no change in their condition. The crew will be removed to Hoffman island and detained for observation for 10 days. There has been no further development among them. After the removal of the crew the cargo, coffee in sacks, will be subjected to steam disinfection.

Captain Frohlich's Statement.

Cuxhaven, Nov. 20.—Captain Frohlich of the Patria, in the course of an interview yesterday, made the following statement: "I knew nothing of the fire until the Patria was off Folkestone, where I promptly brought the ship up. There was a panic among the passengers. Otherwise they could have saved their personal belongings. The fire, however, had such a strong hold of the fore hatch as to prevent us reaching the heavier baggage. The vessel is now only a shell, and there is little hope of realizing much."

The Kentucky Muddle.

Lexington, Nov. 20.—Governor Bradley and the adjutant general of the state guard, Daniel Collier, conferred here yesterday with Colonel Williams of the Second Kentucky regiment, and the latter returned with them to Frankfort. None would talk. Republican leaders say that if the vote of Louisville is thrown out Governor Bradley will refuse to recognize Goebel as his successor, and will maintain his position even if forced to use the militia.

Fears of Many Disasters.

St. John's, Nov. 20.—Severe storms continue to rage in this section, causing much damage to shipping. Several vessels are missing. The railroads are blocked and the telegraph lines destroyed by the severe snowstorms in the interior. The steamer Bruce, which usually crosses Cabot strait in six hours, was 19 hours in effecting the passage on her latest trip.

Stabbing May Result Fatally.

Bangor, Me., Nov. 20.—Walter E. Dalton is in a critical condition as the result of a knife wound inflicted near the heart by William H. Teeling. Teeling was arrested. Teeling claims that the stabbing was accidental, as that he had no intention of injuring Dalton.

Mrs. Katie Gould

writes: "I suffered during seven long years with the worst kind of female weakness. I was very nervous. I was so sick to my stomach that I could scarcely eat. My liver was inactive. I had palpitation of the heart, and headache. My back ached so that I had to have a cushion made for it. I could scarcely stand on my feet. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills cured me."

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

FOR A SLIDING SCALE.

Fall River Manufacturers Submit an Agreement to Operatives.

Would Settle Wage Question on Margin System.

Proposition Quite Different From Any Heretofore Offered In That City.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 21.—The conference between the manufacturers and mill operatives ended shortly after 6 o'clock last evening and resulted in the manufacturers making a proposition for the adoption of a sliding scale, which will be followed by an advance of 5 percent Monday, Jan. 1, if accepted by the mill operatives. The agreement as submitted by the manufacturers follows:

"From and after this date, the wages to be paid to the operatives in the mills of this city shall be governed by a schedule based upon the margin existing between the price of cotton and the price of 28-inch and 38½-inch, 64x64, cloth made from the standard yarns required to make 28 weigh 7 yards to the pound.

"The standard by which wages shall be figured from time to time shall be 18 cents per cut for weaving 28-inch, 64x64, and the margin shall be found by taking the cost of 8 pounds of cotton at the price of New York middling uplands, and 45 yards of 28-inch, 64x64 print cloth, and 32.72 yards of 38½-inch, 64x64 cloth, at the market price averaged together.

"The margin fixing the price of 18 cents per cut for weaving and the existing scale of wages shall be 75 cents. If the margin shall increase to 85 cents, the wages shall be increased 5 percent above said standard. If the margin shall increase to 95 cents then wages shall be increased 10 percent above such standard. If the margin shall increase to 105 cents, then wages shall be increased to 15 percent above such standard.

"If the margin shall decrease to 65 cents then wages shall be reduced 5 percent below such standard. If the margin shall decrease to 55 cents then wages shall be reduced 10 percent below such standard. No changes in wages shall be made oftener than once in six months.

"If, at the expiration of a six months' period, the margin for the previous 60 days has risen or fallen to either of the standards fixed by the agreement, then, at the beginning of the following six months, the advance or reduction established by this agreement shall go into effect. Said period of six months shall begin on the first Monday in January and July of each calendar year."

It was further stipulated that the offer of a 5 percent raise on the first Monday in January be contingent upon the acceptance of the sliding scale, followed by its introduction.

The Textile council received the offer and agreed to consider it, and report back to the manufacturers at their earliest convenience. This action was in no sense an acceptance.

Much debate characterized the meeting, but mainly upon the details of the manufacturers' offer. There was little disposition shown by the Textile council to put the offer in favor of arbitration. The meeting was quite harmonious.

The offer is a radical departure from any previous local wage schedule. The last has been based upon cotton and the selling price of regulars, while the new basis would be figured from cotton and standard wide and standard narrow goods, the production of which is steadily increasing in this city, while the opposite is true of the manufacture of regulars.

The manufacturers were represented by Secretary C. C. Rounseville, Thomas E. Brayton, Charles M. Shove, N. B. Borden, James E. Osborn and President S. B. Chase. The Textile council was represented by the secretaries of the five local labor unions.

New Bedford Operatives Want an Advance.

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 21.—The committee from the labor union yesterday met a committee of the treasurers of the cotton mills, and discussed the subject of an advance in wages and a standard scale of wages. After a full and free exchange of views the conference was adjourned, to meet in two weeks. With the action taken by the Fall River manufacturers, the operatives here are hopeful that the manufacturers at the next conference can see their way clear to grant an advance.

COLLINS GETS THE NOMINATION.

Former Consul General Will Lead Democrats In Boston's Municipal Campaign.

Boston, Nov. 21.—With scarcely any friction, but with some opposition by one-third of the delegates, Patrick A. Collins was nominated at the municipal convention last night as the Democratic candidate for mayor of Boston. Collins received 187 votes in the convention, to 104 for his opponent at the caucuses, John R. Murphy, but the nomination was not made unanimous, the bitterness aroused during the late campaign not having subsided.

PATRICK COLLINS.

Still the convention, in view of this fact, was very harmonious, and only once was there any sign of disorder. The named of both the candidates had been placed before the convention, when former Senator Quinn, in seconding the nomination of John R. Murphy, aroused considerable ill feeling by referring to an unfortunate incident at the Democratic headquarters, and the assault which took place there, which he charged to the Collins delegates. There was a growl from the Collins side, and shouts of "Liar," but the speaker immediately after softened his remarks, and the incident passed without further comment.

In placing the name of Mr. Murphy before the convention, and seconding it, all the speakers expressed the highest appreciation of Mr. Collins, and it is believed that the animosity aroused against the managers of his campaign will subside before election day.

Good Afternoon.

There is an honest difference of opinion, probably, as to the success of the present administration of city affairs. The Democrats by their renomination of Mayor Keith have expressed approval, but we mistrust that many who voted for Mr. Keith last year are among his most active opponents this year. Among these are many taxpayers and independents who have become convinced that the government has been too partisan for the best interests of the city. That faithful officials were removed and their places filled by others who have not given as good service. That an equivalent has not yet been obtained for the large expenditures of the year, especially in the Street and Water departments. That it was unwise to consolidate these two departments under one head. That the city was shown in a false light by the petition to the Legislature to secure a refund of the maturing debt. That it was unwise to secure legislation authorizing the expenditure of $150,000 outside the debt limit for street improvements on a 25-year loan. That the movements for a State highway and Metropolitan boulevard were not pushed as they should have been when they were within our grasp.

Perhaps the greatest grievances of all are the high valuation of property, and the increase in the current expenses of the city as recommended in the Mayor's budget. Mayor Keith in his inaugural address made an important issue on the assessment of taxes. He said, "Equalization of taxes is the grand point to be accomplished. This is not to be gained either by raising or lowering all valuation indiscriminately. Regard should be had to what property will bring if purchased for investment," etc. How well the Assessors appointed by the Mayor without confirmation "assesssed in harmony with these views," the taxpayers are best able to judge. All the increase in the tax levy was not for maturing city debt, as that alone would not have increased the tax rate so much. Had the Mayor a desire to retrench, he would not have increased the current expenses in his annual budget.

All the candidates at-large on the Republican ticket are valuable members of the City Council and it is important for the interests of the city that they should be reelected. But 13 of the 23 Councilmen of 1899 have been renominated, and but 12 can be elected. Experience counts in the transaction of city affairs as in other lines of business and voters should see the necessity of reelecting all faithful men who are willing to serve the city another year.

The strength of Candidate Hall in the Republican convention was surprisingly strong. Very few indeed expected that there would be so much difference between the two aspirants for the position. The motion of ex-Representative Thompson, who conducted Mr. Jones' campaign, to make the nomination unanimous, met with hearty approval of all, and it must be acknowledged that the Republicans are well united, enthusiastic and confident.

The marriage of Dewey and the transfer of his gift house to his wife, have lowered him considerably in the estimation of many people.

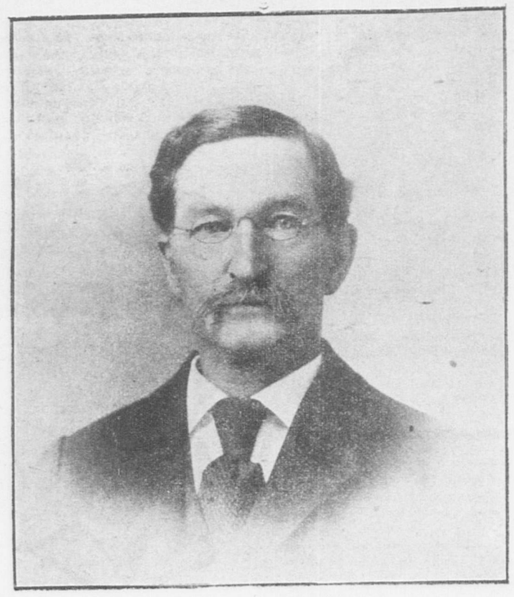
MAYOR KEITH RENOMINATED

He Gives an Extended Account of His Stewardship.



The Democratic Convention Harmonious—South Quincy Favored in Choice of Councilmen.

The Democratic Mayoralty convention convened in the council chamber at City Hall, Monday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock.

Elijah G. Hall called the convention to order and read the call. A temporary organization was made with Thomas F. Cain as chairman and Edward J. Parker as secretary.

A committee on credentials was appointed as follows: William A. Hodges, Hugh J. Tracy, Michael Hartery, Lewis J. White, Edward Twitchell and John A. Duggan.

William T. Shea moved that a committee of seven be appointed, to consist of one at large and one from each ward, to report a list of councilmen at large and school committee at large at 7.30 o'clock. Voted.

The chairman appointed the following: Philip J. Cook, Frank Garbarino, W. H. Sullivan, Cornelius Moynihan, J. W. Burke, Edward Twitchell and John A. Duggan.

The temporary organization was made permanent and it was voted to take a recess until 7.30.

It was 7.45 when the convention reassembled.

The Committee on Credentials reported 66 delegates present out of 71.

The temporary organization was made permanent.

W. H. Sampson, Jr., moved the convention proceed to nominate a candidate for Mayor.

William A. Jordan presented the names of Hon. Harrison A. Keith and moved his nomination by acclamation. In presenting the name, he said he was rather diffident in addressing the convention knowing that he was entirely incompetent to express the admiration for the gentleman he was to name. It was a pleasure to be a member of the Democratic party and to be allowed to rise and name a distinguished gentleman whom he knew would be triumphantly elected when placed before the people. We had five years of Republican administration and the citizens then concluded an unpartisan government was needed, and elected a Democratic Mayor. He was followed by another. Then came another year of partisan government. One year ago you elected a gentleman who had instilled into the minds of our young men the seed of successful business men. We had assured us a year ago that what was needed was to have a Mayor with a free hand untaminated, capable of administrating the affairs of our city the way they should be. We selected a man and all wards rolled up majorities and he was elected. It gives me pleasure to name one who is regarded by the people as entirely capable and satisfactory to the people. He had lived in Wollaston eight years and the streets were never as well cared for as at the present time. People have conceded that he is entirely worthy of executive ability and impartiality.

Councilman Thomas F. Hogan, seconded the nomination and endorsed all that Mr. Jordan had said. It was a credit to the Democratic party to have such a gentleman whom the people renominated and reelected.

The motion to nominate by acclamation was carried.

Messrs. Stephen H. Edwards, J. C. Dorgan and W. H. Jordan were appointed a committee to escort Mayor Keith to the hall.

The committee appointed to select Councilmen at large and School Committee at large made the following report which was accepted and adopted:

School Committee at large, Charles F. Merrick.

Councilmen at large: John Swithin, William W. Craig, James E. McDonnell, Thomas Curtis and Thomas H. McDonnell.

The convention officers were impowered to fill any vacancies caused by death, resignation, etc.

The committee then entered with Mayor Keith who was received with applause. His Honor read a lengthy speech of acceptance reviewing his stewardship.

"Gentlemen: I give you my most sincere thanks for your renomination. I consider it a mark of your confidence and satisfaction. Some of you may know that there are many disagreeable things connected with the administration of the office of Mayor, but they must be many, indeed, when the unsolicited approval of one's fellow citizens does not drive them out of view. I can truthfully say that I have been guided only by my opinion of what was the best for the city. How great has been my measure of success, others must pronounce. It is that fact which makes me doubly proud tonight.

"It is well occasionally to take a backward glance and to consider what we have been doing so that we know the better what we ought to do in the future. With that in view and to give you some account of my stewardship I have prepared a brief statement concerning some of the matters which have occupied my attention during the past year.

"First, as I announced at the beginning of the year, I have made it a special purpose to see that our sidewalks and crossings were kept in a cleaner and better condition.

At least a dozen new crossings have been built this year in places where they seemed to be most needed and the satisfaction which they have given leads me to believe that many more would be very acceptable to our citizens.

"At the beginning of the year it became very evident to me that certain things were advisable for the city, which could be obtained only by special permission of the Legislature. I therefore presented four petitions.

"First: That the city might borrow sums of money for permanent improvements, such as the building and widening of streets on a loan of twenty-five years, instead of ten years as for ordinary purposes. In spite of some opposition, a law to that effect was passed.

"Second: A petition in favor of a boulevard from Squantum to the Blue Hill Reservation. The result of this was the passage of a law appropriating a certain sum of money to be expended by the Park Commissioners, a part of which it was pretty distinctly understood was to be expended on this boulevard. While the land has not actually been taken for the purpose up to the present time, yet, persistent efforts have been made in this direction all through the season and we are confident that success will shortly crown our efforts.

"Third: A petition to re-enact a provision of a former law that the Mayor might take the control of the Water Department from the hands of Repairs Neglected.

Editors of the Ledger:

Immediate attention should be paid to the condition of the public highway leading to Squantum. During the storm of last November the high tide took down a portion of the fence along the shore of Dorchester bay. An expenditure of a few hundred dollars for repairs in the spring would have saved the whole fence, but nothing was done about it, an the planks laid by the roadside all summer just as the tide left them and have gradually disappeared for firewood; the posts now are going for the same purpose.

About ten years ago, the writer, while driving from Squantum in a blinding snow storm, before the present fence was built, drove completely off the road into the marsh, the sleigh was upset, a valuable horse ruined and two people narrowly escaped with their lives. The result of this was that a substantial fence was built, which stood until last November.

After the snow comes, it will be impossible to see the great holes that are now in the road, and it will be an easy matter to drive over the stone wall where there is a drop of four feet onto the marsh, and some day there may be a terrible accident.

The day has gone by when Squantum is deserted in winter. The road to Squantum and to the city of Boston works at Moon Island is travelled constantly by day and night, and it seems that the attention of the authorities should be called to this matter and the fence repaired before an accident occurs that may cost the city of Quincy many thousands of dollars.

LIEUTENANT BUMPUS

Charged with Permitting Looting in the Philippines.

The Boston Journal prints the following dispatch from Washington relative to a Quincy young man, who is an officer in our army in the Philippines:

Washington, Nov. 20.—The War Department has received from Maj. Gen. Otis the records of a court martial before which Second Lieutenant Edward A. Bumpus of the Twenty-first Infantry of the regular army was tried for permitting looting in the Luzon campaign. The court was convened by Gen. Lawton, commanding the first Division of the Eighth Army Corps.

Lieut. Bumpus is the son of Judge Everett C. Bumpus of Quincy, Mass. He was commissioned as Second Lieutenant on July 8, 1898. He had been a private in Battery C, First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery, from May 12, 1898. It is not remembered here who his sponsors were. The charge against him was that he, having been in command of certain United States troops, commanding a detachment of Company C, Twenty-first Infantry, and of a caso and its crew, in the employ of the Government, did through neglect at Paete, permit members of his command to take, steal and carry away and destroy, certain articles of merchandise, such as handkerchiefs, shirts, dress goods and liquor of the appraised value of about $2,498, Mexican, the property of the residents of Paete. This occurred about July, 23, 1899. The accused was found not guilty and was acquitted. Maj. Gen. Lawton, in reviewing the case, said:

"The proceedings and findings are disapproved. The failure to produce testimony other than the report of accused made to the office who investigated the case is unaccountable. The distinct and direct responsibility of Lieut. Bumpus for the conduct is clear beyond question. Though he found positive evidence of looting among his men, there is not a particle to show that he took a single step to investigate as to their guilt or to bring them to deserved punishment. He and his men were in a peaceable town under express orders to get certain property which had been left there.

"The acts of commission and omission could not have been better devised to defeat their purpose. And as a result the accused by his failure and neglect to take prompt and vigorous action, contributed to the disorders which followed and the alienation of friendly feeling on the part of the peaceful inhabitants. Every officer should be held to the full measure of his responsibility, and it is hoped that the easy escape of Lieut. Bumpus will not be taken as a precedent or an encouragement for similar dereliction in the future."

Edward Avery Bumpus is one of the Harvard men that took up arms with great avidity when the first call for volunteers came, and at the first opportunity laid aside his studies and enlisted in Battery A, First Heavy Artillery, which was the first division of the Massachusetts militia to turn out for duty in the Spanish war.

He was born at Weymouth, Mass., June 24, 1875. From the public schools of that town he entered Thayer Academy, where he prepared for Harvard.

When he enlisted in the First Heavy Artillery he was a student in the Architectural School of the Scientific Department of the university.

Though never taking part in the public meets, he was regarded by his fellow-students as a good all-around athlete. He is big of stature, well built and has all the characteristics that go to make up a good soldier.

He is the son of Judge E. C. Bumpus of Quincy, who, in the War of the Rebellion, was First Lieutenant of the Forty-fourth Massachusetts Regiment. A grandfather and an uncle were also soldiers in the Civil War, both serving as Captains in Massachusetts regiments, the later receiving his death wound during Sherman's march to the sea.

James P. Lambert who claims to hail from Cambridge, was brought to Quincy Monday from Houghs Neck by W. H. Lettori, who claims to reside on Prospect street, Cambridgeport. Lambert was suffering from a bad gunshot wound in the right leg. He was taken to the residence of Dr. Jones and from there was removed to the City Hospital. From the story told by Mr. Lettori it seems that Mr. Lambert was gunning in a boat off Houghs Neck, when the gun was accidentally discharged. The charge of the gun entered the right leg, which was badly shattered.

NATION MOURNS.

Vice President Hobart Died Today at 8.30.

[Special to the Quincy Ledger.]

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 21—Vice-President Hobart died this morning at 8.30 o'clock.

GARRET A. HOBART.

Hon. Garrett A. Hobart was elected Vice President on the ticket with President McKinley in 1896, and was in full sympathy and close friendship with the administration, and would have been renominated next year if in good health.

Vice-President Hobart was inaugurated in office most auspiciously on March 4, 1897, and on the stroke of 12 M. took the oath of office as President of the Senate, and in turn administered the oath of office to the newly elected senators.

When McKinley and Hobart it was with considerable pride that Quincy gave their electors 2,420 votes to 682 for their nearest rivals.

His death was not unexpected as his condition has been critical for some months.

Garrett Augustus Hobart was the 24th vice president. He was born at Long Branch, N. J., June 3, 1844.

At age of 15 years he entered the Sophomore class at Rutgers and graduated in 1863. He taught school in Marlborough, N.Y., and studied law in office of Socrates Tuttle, whose daughter, Jennie Tuttle, he married in 1869.

He was admitted to the New Jersey bar in 1866 and in 1875 was made receiver of several New Jersey railroads.

In May, 1872, he was elected counsel to the Board of Freeholders of Passaic courts, and in the autumn of the same year was elected assemblyman.

He served in the state senate in 1874 and 1879, and was president of that body in 1881 and 1882.

In 1880 he was elected chairman of the Republican State Committee of New Jersey.

MANY NEW VOTERS.

Big Increase in Total Number of Year Ago.

The great interest in politics in Quincy is shown by the big increase in the voting lists over the recent State election, and the Municipal election of a year ago. There are now 4,414 on the eight lists, a gain of 186 over the recent State election, and 218 over December last year.

The greatest gain in one year has been in Ward one, which now has 835 voters, to 808 in Ward three and 506 in Ward Four. The gain by wards has been: Ward One, 58; Ward Two, 16; Ward Three, 19; Ward Four, 57; Ward Five, 26; and Ward Six, 42.

The greatest spurt since the recent State election has been in Wards Three and Four, but all have gained as will be seen: Ward One, 38; Ward Two, 26; Ward Three, 46; Ward Four, 44; Ward Five, 10; and Ward Six, 20.

The following summary is of interest:

	Dec. 1899.	Dec. 1898.	Nov. 1899.
Ward One,	835	777	797
Ward Two,	612	596	586

Clerk Churchill Treats.

John P. S. Churchill, clerk of the District Court, wore a pretty red pink in the lapel of his frock coat as he called the cases in court this morning, and his face was illuminated with a happy smile. The regular attendants knew at once that something unusual waf on tap, and when the criminal business was concluded, and a civil case started, his friends were invited into his office, where he smilingly announced that today was the fifth anniversary of his marriage and that the proper thing was for all hands to smoke at his expense. The cigars were then passed, and as the wreaths of blue smoke slowly made their way heavenward, there were many expressions of a congratulatory nature and wishes of continued health and happiness.

RENOMINATED.

the Water Commissioners and transfer it to those of the Commissioner of Public Works. This petition was opposed by several citizens of Quincy before the committee on Cities, but we presented the case so clearly that the committee reported unanimously in favor of the plan and the law was passed. The Commissioner of Public Works kindly agreed to take the entire charge of that department in addition to his numerous other duties, without any increase of salary, simply with the hope, on the part of both of us, that there might be a decided economy in operation. I think that I can assure you that by this action alone there has been a saving of more than the combined salaries of the Commissioner of Public Works and of myself. This has been accomplished without any impairment of the efficiency of the service, inasmuch as about the usual number of miles of pipe has been laid and more than the usual number of house connections. In fact, the number of house connections is larger than in any previous year.

"Fourth: Last, but not least, I asked the Legislature for permission for the City to refund a portion of its maturing debt. At the beginning of the year, from the fact that about $81,950 of the debt was to fall due this year, it was plain that the tax rate would be unreasonably high. That is to say, almost one-third of our whole municipal debt fell on the shoulders of the taxpayers of 1899, notwithstanding a large part of that debt was incurred for benefits that might be called permanent. It did not seem fair and just that advantages to be enjoyed by our citizens for a long term of years, or perhaps forever, should be paid for, in such large proportion, by the taxes of any one year. This large share of our debt to be paid in this year and next year, was caused by the fact that our City Councils, in contracting a debt, did not look forward enough in all cases in determining what amount should fall due in each year. The consequence is that if we were compelled to pay $81,950 this year, our tax rate would be phenomenally high and our tax bills phenomenally large. therefore asked for authority to refund a portion of our existing indebtedness, not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, the amount so refunded to be determined by our City Council. The bonds to be issued under this act, if it was passed, were to be payable not more than ten years from the date of issue.

"An additional argument in favor of our being allowed this privilege lay in the fact, that of the sum of nearly $82,000 of debt falling due this year, $53,764 was incurred for permanent improvements.

"Notwithstanding a good deal of opposition before the committee on Cities, this measure was finally passed, but the City Council, in its wisdom, saw fit to decline to take advantage of this means of lowering our tax rate. I asked the Council to refund $40,000 or about one-half of the debt maturing this year, which would have had the effect of so reducing the tax rate that it would probably have been under seventeen dollars instead of nineteen dollars and twenty cents.

"If the Board of Assessors had gone on in the way adopted by the Board of 1898 and had increased the valuation over a million dollars, the tax rate might have been kept down to a reasonable sum. The Board this year raised the valuation of real estate, exclusive of new buildings, only by the conservative sum of $134,000.

"You are most of you familiar with the recent application made by the Mayor to the railroad commissioners to use their influence with the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co. for better accommodations, both passenger and freight, and for better train service for the people of Quincy. While this matter has not yet reached a final decision I think that we can safely hope that the action which I have taken in this matter will be, at least, of no injury to our interests.

"By any of these official acts I am willing to stand. While no man can be exempt from criticism and must not expect to escape it, I claim that the City affairs this year have been carried on as economically as in any year in which I have had knowledge of them. As to the extravagance which has been paraded, there has been no such thing. Such charges are simply for campaign purposes.

As to the Commissioner of Public Works, against whom this charge has been urged, he will at the end of year, show an unexpended balance of his Highway appropriation. The executive officials have no power of appropriating a cent; the appropriations are all made by the Council and are expended by the different department officials. I have given all my time to the performance of the duties of my office, and so has every one of the department officials. None of the City offices have this year been a side show, but have taken up the entire attention of their occupants.

There will come before the voters at the next election the important question whether eight hours shall constitute a day's work for city employes. In this connection I can only say that if the question is decided in the affirmative, I shall consider it my duty to see that the will of our citizens is enforced.

CANDIDATE KEITH.

For nearly a year Hon. Harrison A. Keith has been Mayor of our city and needs no introduction. From a party standpoint he has satisfactorily discharged the duties of the executive, hence his renomination.

His Honor was born in Quincy Nov. 28, 1838, at No. 78 Washington street, in the house now owned by Frank F. Prescott. He was a brilliant pupil and at the age of 19 was graduated from college. In 1868, when only 30 years of age he became principal of the Quincy High school, and continued in the position for 22 years.

In 1890 he was elected at large as a member of the School Committee, serving one term. He has been a trustee of the public library since it was established in 1871.

In 1894, Mr. Keith was appointed by Mayor Hodges as City Clerk, serving two years under that administration and two years under Mayor Adams.

Last fall he was elected Mayor over Russell A. Sears, the Republican candidate, by 45 votes; his total being 1786 to 1741 for his rival.

As Mayor he has given practically all of his time to the city. His first step was to appoint Democrats in place of Republicans as Department officials. Then he sought legislation at the State House, authorizing the transfer of the water works from the Water Commissioners to the Department of Public Works. He also secured the passage of a bill authorizing the city to refund $100,000 of its maturing debt, and a bill authorizing the appropriation of $150,000 outside the debt limit for street improvements, payment to be extended over 25 years. He also labored for an appropriation for a Metropolitan boulevard in Quincy; the Legislature included all boulevards in a general bill; Quincy has not yet been favored. During his administration the sewer system has been put in operation, and many improvements accomplished by special appropriations.

Better Fire Protection.

Combination Engine No. 2 of Atlantic has been recently equipped with a permanent three-horse hitch. This piece of apparatus is one of the best in the city. With this new rig and its close proximity to Norfolk Downs gives that place good fire protection as well as Atlantic.

The apparatus weighs about 5,600 pounds. There is a high driver's seat in front, back of which is the hose wagon which carried 1,000 feet of hose. Beneath this there are two chemical tanks of 35 gallons each. These are connected by a siamese valve, so that there is no interruption of a stream, for as soon as one tank is empty the other is thrown into use. The apparatus also carries a 25-foot extension, a roof ladder, axes, crow-bar, wrenches, etc. The hose for the chemical is on a reel on the front of the carriage and is always connected with the tanks. It is so arranged that it can be played from the front or rear as occasion may demand.

As now equipped this piece of apparatus, which cost $1,750, gives the north part of the city, including Atlantic, Norfolk Downs and the Park protection from fire of which they have long been in need.

Assault Case.

There was a row at the Quincy House Monday afternoon which resulted in Eugene E. Coffin having his left eye and cheek badly cut and bruised, which he claims was caused by a kick and pounding administered by Joseph F. Simpson, the proprietor of the house.

According to the story told by Coffin in court this morning, he had been at work as cook for Simpson. Monday, he was discharged, and as he was leaving the house with his bundle of clothing he made some remark to Simpson, at which the latter jumped upon him with the result that he was badly used up.

A son of Simpson, who witnessed the assault, and who it is alleged was also bruised in the affair, was summoned as a witness but failed to appear. The case was continued until Wednesday that he might be brought in upon a summons.

READY FOR A RISING.

Report That Cape Colony Natives Are Anxious to Fight For Boers.

Enemy Takes Possession of More British Territory.

Outline of Supposed Plan of Campaign to Be Adopted by Opposing Forces.

London, Nov. 21.—A Berlin dispatch says that the Cologne Gazette publishes the following dispatch from Cape Town: Everything is prepared for a general rising of the natives throughout Cape Colony. They are ready at any moment to make common cause with the Boers.

Yesterday the Boers occupied Campbell, in West Griqualand.

Beyond the fact that the Boers are daily receiving fresh reinforcements and supplies there is practically nothing new. The Boer invasion of Cape Colony continues steadily and rapidly. There are 1300 Boers at Colesberg, and news has reached East London that Ladygrey, near Aliwal North, has been deserted by the British and is now in the hands of the enemy.

A Pretoria dispatch announces the arrival there, among the British prisoners, of Major Haldane, Lieutenant Brochie and Lieutenant Hallway. It also declares that the British on Sunday made two unsuccessful attempts to oust the Rustenburg commando from a position near Mafeking, and that severe fighting took place.

From Delagoa Bay come reports of the arrival of more German officers and artillerymen who have volunteered to serve with the Transvaal forces.

The war office semi-officially asserts that all news received from Africa has been published with the exception of demands for the renewal of stores, war materials and the like. There is an unconfirmed rumor that more troops have been ordered from India to the Cape.

The plan of operations on both sides is slowly unfolding itself. General Joubert is evidently moving south to prevent, if possible, the junction of the British relieving force with the forces at Estcourt and Ladysmith, while, on the Orange river border, the Boers are believed to be concentrating at Bonkerpoort to oppose General Buller's advance. It is said that 6000 Boers have already laagered at Donkerpoort.

The English plan seems to be a threefold advance—from Durban to Ladysmith, from Orange river to Kimberley and from East London by way of Queenstown to Burghersdorp.

General Buller has wired the commanding officer at Queenstown announcing the dispatch of General Gatacre, with the first battalion of the Seventh brigade, to East London. This was the place from which it was originally intended that General Gatacre's column should start. Thus it is possible that General Buller's first plans have suffered less modification than have been supposed. General Gatacre will be able to keep the Boers on the Orange border sufficiently occupied to preserve General Methuen from undue molestation, especially if rumors from various sources are well founded that describe the Free State burghers as in no wise enthusiastic for fighting.

It has been reported that General Buller will take up his quarters at De Aar, but this seems doubtful. De Aar, where a vast amount of stores has been collected, is the base for General Methuens' advance, and General Buller may have been there for a day or so. It is believed, however, that he still has his headquarters at Cape Town.

Although Kimberley is supposed to be the objective point of General Methuen, many military critics are of the opinion that his advance will be not toward Kimberley, but across the Orange Free State, in order to secure complete command of the Orange river.

The debarkation of troops at Cape Town is proceeding in the most satisfactory manner. Eighteen hundred and fifty railway carriages have been collected there for the conveyance of troops northward, and there is talk of suspending the suburban traffic, so as to accelerate military work.

A report from Ladysmith, Thursday, Nov. 16, by runner to Estcourt, says: "All well here, with nothing important to report. We are amply supplied with ammunition and confident of our ability to hold out. Information from outside is very scarce, but it is believed here that the Boers now investing the town are only a small force. The heavy weather continues, and the rain is hampering the Boer operations severely."

Details of the assault by the Boers on Nov. 9 purport to show that it was repelled without difficulty, and with great loss to the attacking burghers. The fact that the Boers have excellent communication with Pretoria is shown by the prompt arrival of the British prisoners from the armored train disaster of Wednesday in the Boer capital.

On the west there is promise of speedy action. The column for the relief of Kimberley began to assemble at Orange River Station on Wednesday last, when a brigade of the guards reached that point from Cape Town. Other regiments have no doubt joined them. Lord Methuen commands the advance, and the column is in light marching order and appears to contemplate pushing forward by forced marches. Not the least of the British difficulties in this advance will be the keeping open of their lines of communication with their base or bases on the coast whence their haversacks and ammunition belts mus be replenished.

This line appears to be seriously threatened by the Free State Boers operating from the line of the Orange river east of Orange river station, where they await General Buller's advance. These Boers have already overrun the extreme north of Cape Colony. Aliwal North has been in their hands for some days, and they have occupied and "annexed" Burghersdorp, Colesburg and Jamestown, the latter approximately 50 miles due north of Queenstown, the present British outpost in that direction. This Boer column seems to have received considerable reinforcements.

The unpleasant predictions that have been made of trouble with the natives seem in a fair way to come partially true. Khama, chief of the Bamangwatos, appears to have been definitely taken into alliance by the Rhodesian authorities; in which case the Boers can legitimately accept the assistance of the Basutos and Zulus, who offer their services, and already statements are being made that Basutos are with the Boers. This gives color to the reports of the defection from the British side of one of the most important of the Basuto chiefs.

On the other hand, the statement is made that the predatory raids of the Boers into Cape Colony have incensed the Cape Dutch, who have suffered to such an extent that they are no longer sympathizing with the Boers. This statement must be accepted with some reserve.

Taylor Elected on Face of Returns.

Frankfort, Nov. 21.—The Democratic state campaign committee concedes that Taylor has a majority on the face of the returns, but bases a hope for the election of the Democratic ticket on throwing out the vote of Louisville, on account of interference of Governor Bradley's soldiers, and Johnson and Knox counties, where tissue ballots were used. The Republicans assert that, should Louisville be thrown out on the pretext claimed, they have assurances that Governor Bradley will back them up in resistance, which, they say, is already fully planned. Goebel managers announce they will not take an appeal from the decision of Judge Jones, at Glasgow, where 1193 majority of Nelson county votes, erroneously certified for W. P. Taylor, were ordered counted for W. S. Taylor. In this state of the case, the vote of Jefferson, Knox and Johnson counties must we wiped out to give Goebel a majority.

Carnegie Capital In Cuba.

Santiago, Nov. 21.—Rumors current for several weeks culminated yesterday in the definite admission by officials of the Satanillo and Moroto railroad and the Ponupo mine that both properties had been sold to the Carnegie company. Ponupo mine is considered one of the richest manganese mines in the world. It has a practically unlimited deposit of ore, assaying at 65 percent. The railroad is now a paying property 50 miles into the interior. Mr. Carnegie's representatives have been active in the district for a month, and have options on many valuable iron and manganese deposits along the route of the proposed railroad extensions.

Had a Petty Grievance.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 21.—The strike of the freight handlers, which threatened a tieup of the Fall River steamers at this end of the line, was settled yesterday by the dismissal of 50 men and the hiring of green men in their places. The only statement the company officials would make was that the old men were discharged for "the good of the service." The men had no complaint to make in regard to wages, each receiving about $15 per week, but they stated that one of their number had been dismissed without reason.

Fleetwood Sent to Prison.

Boston, Nov. 21.—For killing his wife, Catherine, and on the indictment for manslaughter, John Fleetwood was sentenced in the superior court yesterday to state prison for not over 12 years nor less than nine years. Fleetwood pleaded guilty earlier in the day to the crime charged against him. The victim lived with Fleetwood, being known as Catherine McDonald, and one morning she was found dead. Evidence pointed to Fleetwood's hitting her the night before.

"I was troubled with malarial fever of about three years' standing and was under doctors' care for quite a time," writes Mr. J. R. Kidd, of Farmleysville, Wayne Co., Ky. "They had almost given me up, and my suffering was very great. My pulse was very weak, breath short and I had severe pains in the back, head and legs. Had palpitation of heart, and from June 1st, 1895, to May 1st, 1898, I was not able to do a day's work. I purchased five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and before I had finished taking the first two bottles I was very much better. I continued taking the medicine, and by the time the fifth bottle was gone I was a well man."

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

DEATH OF MR. HOBART,

The Sixth Vice President Who Has Died In Office.

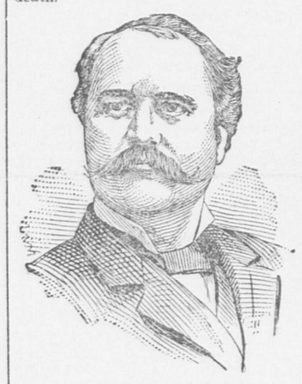
Many Statesmen Will Attend Funeral In a Body.

President Calls For Official Observance of the Sad Event.

Senator Frye Will Become Presiding Officer of the Senate.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Vice President Hobart died at Paterson, N. J., at 8:30 a. m. yesterday. Mr. Hobart had been failing since late Monday afternoon, although the reports given out at the house were that he was holding his own.

Mr. Hobart's death had been expected for some hours. The beginning of the end was Monday afternoon, when there was a sudden failure of the heart, and from this attack Mr. Hobart never rallied. He had been sick for a long time, and had suffered frequently from heart failure, and his strength had been undermined. Gradually the failure of the heart's action became more apparent, and soon after midnight Monday night Mr. Hobart became unconscious. He remained in that condition until his death.



VICE PRESIDENT HOBART.

Mr. Hobart's death was due directly to angina pectoris, complicating myocarditis.

Nearly all the representatives of foreign nations in this country have already sent messages of sympathy to Mrs. Hobart.

Although many regarded Mr. Hobart's illness in the early and latter part of the summer as serious, it was not until late in October that his family and friends began to despair of his life. Mr. Hobart was then informed of the fatal character of his malady—dilated right heart, due to myocarditis—and he remarked: "Well, if it must be that I am to go, I may as well be resigned to my fate."

On the morning of Oct. 31 it was thought that the end had come, but the patient rallied and for more than a week continued to improve and to eat solid food with a relish. On Sunday, however, his appetite failed, and he gradually grew weaker and weaker. He realized a few hours before he became unconscious that he was near to death, and he said to those about the bedside: "I know that my time is nearly up, but death is welcome to me."

Mrs. Hobart remained in the room to the end and after her husband's death until she and her son, who was with her, were taken away by friends.

The last change for the worst in the vice president's illness was observed Monday afternoon when he was visited with a weak spell. He had battled through several similar attacks, and it was thought for a time that he would come out of this one. He did, but he was very weak, and it was plain to be seen that he was sinking. He rallied again, however, and tried to be cheerful, but toward midnight his condition was beyond hope.

Dr. Newton called Mrs. Hobart and the vice president's son and Mrs. Newton, and with the nurse they gathered closer to the bedside of the dying man. Now and again the patient rallied, and in these moments spoke to his wife and son. What he said is known only to them. Shortly before 12 o'clock the vice president was again stricken with an attack of angina pectoris, and following this he lapsed into a state of unconsciousness, from which he never again emerged.

Vice President Hobart's funeral on Saturday will be attended by the president and his cabinet, the supreme court, the senate in a body and a large committee from the house of representatives, besides many other high dignitaries of the government, who will journey to Paterson to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of the vice president. Every senator has been invited to be present, and the senate will meet in New York Saturday, and thence travel in a body to Paterson.

Sergeant-at-arms Bright has engaged a special train to convey the president and his cabinet and the United States supreme court to Paterson.

Owing to the fact that the house of representatives is without a speaker no arrangements with reference to the house committee were made. General Henderson, who will be the next speaker, telegraphed to Major McDowell, the clerk of the house, at his home at Sharon, Pa. Upon his arrival he consulted General Henderson and other representatives who are in the city, and a committee will be appointed to attend the funeral.

The law applicable to the vice presidency was enacted Jan. 18, 1886, by the Forty-ninth congress, first session. The main features are as follows:

"Be it enacted, etc., that in case of removal, death, resignation or inability of both the President and Vice President of the United States, the secretary of state, or the secretary of the treasury, or the secretary of war, or the Attorney general, or the postmaster general, or the secretary of the navy, or the secretary of the interior, shall act as president until the disability of the president or vice president is removed, or a president shall be elected."

The law further provides that when one of the above cabinet officers succeeds to the presidency he shall call a special session of congress. A proviso limits the succession to those who would be eligible to the presidency under the terms of the Constitution, and who have been appointed with the advice and consent of the senate.

The effect of the law is not to provide a succession to the vice presidency, but merely to ensure a succession to the presidency.

By the death of Mr. Hobart, Senator William P. Frye of Maine becomes president pro tempore of the senate, and will discharge all the duties of the vice president as presiding officer of that body. The senate rules specifically provide that no election is necessary at the beginning of the session. Senator Frye, accordingly, will continue as presiding officer till the end of President McKinley's administration, unless he chooses to resign, or the senate wishes to elect another senator to the office.

A curious coincidence is found in the fact that of the six vice presidents who have died in office, four died in the same month of the year, and on days of the month that are not far apart, the date of Mr. Hobart's death being Nov. 21, 1899; that of Mr. Wilson, Nov. 22, 1875; that of Elbridge, Gerry, Nov. 23, 1814, and that of Hendricks, Nov. 25, 1885. The other two vice presidents who died in office were Clinton and King. The former died April 20, 1812, and the latter April 17, 1853.

The president has issued the following proclamation:

To the People of the United States—Garret Augustus Hobart, vice president of the United States, died at his home in Paterson, N. J., at 8:30 o'clock this morning. In him the nation has lost one of its most illustrious citizens and one of its most faithful servants. His participation in the business life and the law-making body of his native state was marked by unswervering fidelity and by a high order of talents and attainments, and his too brief career as vice president of the United States and president of the senate exhibited the loftiest qualities of upright and sagacious statesmanship. In the world of affairs he had few equals among his contemporaries. His private character was gentle and noble. He will long be mourned by his friends as a man of singular purity and attractiveness, whose sweetness of disposition won all hearts, while his elevated purpose, his unbending integrity and whole-hearted devotion to the public good deserved and acquired universal respect and esteem. In sorrowing testimony of the loss which has fallen upon the country, I direct that on the day of the funeral the executive offices of the United States shall be closed, and all posts and stations of the army and navy shall display the national flag at half-mast, and that the representatives of the United States in foreign countries shall pay appropriate tribute to the illustrious dead for a period of 30 days.

In witness whereof I have set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this twenty-first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine, and in the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-fourth.

Mr. Hobart's illness first attracted public attention when he went to Long Branch last summer. He spent a portion of the summer there, and during that time had a number of weak spells. It was not admitted then by his physician or family that he was seriously ill. Although he continued in failing health, he was able to drive out and attended the Long Branch horse show, near the end of the Long Branch season. Mr. Hobart went to his Paterson home in company with Mrs. Hobart, his son and secretary. It was not publicly admitted then by his physician or family that he was seriously ill.

About a month ago Mr. Hobart's illness took a decided change for the worse, and shortly after that a notice was issued by the family to the public, admitting that the vice president's condition was critical, and that little hope of his recovery was entertained. It was also announced that he certainly would never again appear in public life. Mr. Hobart's family, his personal and intimate friends and political associates have since been resigned to the inevitable, although there were times in the last days of the vice president's illness that he was bright and appeared to be growing stronger. This was especially the case during the last 10 days. His appetite improved, and he was reported to have passed several comfortable nights.

A Day Wasted.

New York, Nov. 22.—The second week of the trial of Roland B. Molineux began with seven jurors in the box, and at the adjournment the number was still seven, no juror having been selected during the day's examination. The defense challenged one of the talesmen peremptorily, while the others were excused on general grounds, bias or because they were opposed to circumstantial evidence or the death penalty.

Suicide by Hanging.

Middleboro, Mass., Nov. 22.—The body of an unknown man was found hanging from an oak tree near the railroad track at White's Hill yesterday. The stranger was apparently about 70 years of age. His beard was as white as snow and his hair was also white. There was nothing in his pockets by which he could be identified.

Drift of Opinjon.

☞ In a few of the cities, like Salem, for instance, the majority of the registered citizens run for Mayor instead of the lower branch of the City Council.—Lynn Item.

☞ A western exchange discussing the New England blue laws cites one which provided as the penalty for lying to the prejudice of one's neighbor to sit in the stocks or to be whipped fifteen stripes. On the whole this was not a half-bad law, if it was honestly and impartially enforced. Something of this sort would not be out of place in this century.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ New York politics may be rotten, but other sections of the country can do a little in that line. For example, here's a judge in Cleveland who files in his bill of election expenses an item as follows: Politician to carry three wards sure, 50 cents. Individual votes must be quoted at rather low rates in that section at present.—New London Day.

THE QUINCYS WIN.

And Move Up in the Southeastern Polo League.

The Quincy team by defeating the Middleboro team last night passed them in the Southeastern league, and gained 133 points. The Brocktons by their victory over the East Weymouths took the lead. The Tauntons, who have been the tailenders defeated Plymouth and have overtaken the Middleboro team in games won, lost and percentage.

The standing to date is:

	Won.	Lost.	Per ct. won.
Brockton	7	2	.777
Plymouth	6	3	.666
East Weymouth	5	3	.555
Middleboro	2	6	.250
Quincy	2	4	.333
Taunton	2	6	.250

THE QUINCY GAME.

There was an increased attendance at the polo game at Music hall Tuesday evening, and Quincy polo stock went up several pegs when the local team rolled up goal after goal, and at the same time completely shut out the visitors. Thayer of Braintree who was called into the game to fill a vacancy, proved a valuable man, as his aim was good, and he caged the ball three times. Purcell also scored three times. Both goal tenders were reckless in leaving their goals; it proved expensive for the visitors, and good luck alone saved the Quincys. The home team secured two goals during the first period of 15 minutes, three during the second, and two during the last.

The summary:

QUINCY.		MIDDLEBORO.
Purcell,		rush,	Broadbent
Thayer,		rush,	Jones
Devlin,		centre,	Allen
Genereaux,		half back,	McGunnigle
Farrell,		goal,	Fox

Goal.	Won by.	Made by.	M.	S.
1	Quincy,	Purcell,	2	20
2	Quincy,	Thayer,		50
3	Quincy,	Purcell,		37
4	Quincy,	Thayer,	1	01
5	Quincy,	Purcell,		50
6	Quincy,	Genereaux,	1	46
7	Quincy,	Thayer,	2	00

Score—Quincy, 7; Middleboro, 0. Stops—Farrell, 21; Fox, 27. Foul—Devlin. Referee—White. Timekeeper—Dr. Halloran

At Taunton—Taunton, 8; Plymouth.

At Brockton — Brockton, 14; East Weymouth, 7.

IN THE NETS.

A Boston paper credits Quincy with 4 victories and but 2 defeats, and has mixed up most of the other teams in the league standing.

The Quincys will have a hard time to defeat the Brocktons tomorrow night at Quincy, but the teams were very evenly matched at Brockton last Saturday, and the match was not decided until the last goal.

Y. P. S. C. E. Sale.

The sale given by the Y. P. S. C. E. of Memorial Congregational church at 21 Billings street, on Tuesday evening, was a complete success. The rooms were made attractive, not only by the tempting candy table and fancy salables of every description, but the drapings of the rooms and artistic touches here and there showed how much care had been spent to please the friends and neighbors who came in answer to the invitation by public notice. The sale was well patronized, and at the close, a surprise awaited the guests in the presentation of a bright and spirited entertainment which had been planned in secret. The proceeds will go to the church.

Not a Democrat.

Thomas H. McDonnell, Esq., who was nominated as one of the Democratic candidates at the convention of Monday, has written the following letter of declination:

Edward J. Parker, Secretary Municipal convention, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir: I learn by the Boston Herald, Nov. 21, that I was nominated at the Democratic convention held in City Hall on Monday evening, the 20th inst., as councilman at large, and I herewith tender my resignation for such. I have not taken any part or affiliated the principles of the Democratic party, either in State or National affairs, for a number of years, therefore could not conscientiously accept the nomination.

Respectfully yours,
THOMAS H. McDONNELL.
Quincy, Mass., Nov. 21, 1899.

Proved Fatal.

J. Peter Lambert, who was accidently shot while gunning in a boat off Houghs Neck on Monday, died at the City Hospital this morning. The shot shattered his right thigh. Lambert was 44 years of age, unmarried, and resided at 11 Pearl street, Cambridge. His occupation was that of a shoemaker. From what can be learned the boat had just come ashore and Lambert in some way hit the gun as he got up from the seat. The charge passed through the board seat and then into his leg.

Political.

The Republican and Democratic caucus and convention nominations have been filed with the City Clerk.

There has been but one official withdrawal thus far, that of Thomas H. McDonnell, nominated as Councilman at large.

Malden Shooting Case.

Angelo Mannetti, the Italian arrested in Quincy last Saturday for the shooting in Malden, was arraigned in court, and the case continued two weeks without bail. He confessed to the police and has been identified by Fucci and Lem, the injured men at the hospital. Lem did not die as reported but is in a dangerous condition. Fucci will be around in a few days.

Bumpus Promoted.

It was in July last that the alleged case of looting occurred in the Philippines. That it did not operate against the standing of 2d Lieut. Bumpus is shown by the fact that he has recently been promoted to first lieutenant and assigned to the Ninth infantry. Lieut. Bumpus was for a while in the hospital at Manila but has recovered from his illness.

Out for Dr. Dion.

In West Quincy there are many residents of French descent who are pleased over the nomination of Dr. Thomas J. Dion for the School Committee, and will work for his election. He can count on the vote of all those who are voters, and when he comes up for reelection three years hence there will be three times as many French voters to keep him there.

Tuesday evening a French Naturalizations club was formed with these officers:

President, C. D. LeClair.
Vice President, W. B. Dalpe.
Secretary, P. A. Dalpe.
Treasurer, E. Dutemple.

The president is probably the oldest French voter in the city. Messrs. Dalpe are popular and influential among the French. Mr. Dutemple is the station agent at Quincy Adams. Another prominent worker is Louis Bernier.

A French play will soon be given by the new club, and the proceeds will be used to educate the French that they may all become intelligent voters.

Had No Manager.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

Yours truly,
JAMES THOMPSON.

USED FOR A LESSON.

Lieut. Bumpus Not Guilty of Faithlessness—Good Soldier.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The statement made in the Washington dispatches concerning the court-martial of my son, Lt. E. A. Bumpus, calls for an explanation.

The facts as detailed by the Army and Navy Register, a paper known to be accurate on such matters, at the time of the court-martial, are that my son was sent out in command of his company to gather together some government horses that had strayed away; arriving at the Philippine town, he was compelled in order to get the horses to divide his men into squads and send them off in different directions under the charge of uncommissioned officers.

He notified them of the order against looting and directed that it must be strictly pursued.

After the horses were brought in, he discovered that his men had been looting, had them at once stripped, the property taken away from them, and he at once made a full report of the proceedings.

It was not shown or claimed that he knew of the purpose or action of the men at the time, and as soon as he discovered the facts, he compelled restitution and did what any honest soldier would have done —made his report.

He was tried by a court-martial made up of superior officers from the colonel to captain, men drawn from regiments with whom he could have had but little, if any, acquaintance.

The case was carefully tried. The government was represented by a capable judge advocate.

The question involved the good of the service. He was but a young officer, with very few, if any, acquaintances, and the tribunal before which he was tried had certainly no other disposition than to see that strict justice was done. He was promptly acquitted, and there, I thought, this incident, no doubt so painful to his pride, had terminated.

The only consolation that I could take out of it was the statement in the register that he was a good and brave soldier, liked by his fellow-officers and by his men, and that he in no way had been concerned except as above.

My son, however, seems to be called upon to pass through another ordeal, and that is, after being court-martialed and honorably acquitted, his conduct is criticised by his commanding general, and his action, for which he has been acquitted, is blazoned all over the world.

He is but an unassuming soldier, trying to do his duty. I am sure that he is undeserving of censure, and that when it comes to showing what metal he is made of he will show it efficiently and honorably.

Knowing him as I do, I will yet stand by the action of the courtmartial, and attribute the censure of his commanding general rather to a desire to read a severe lesson over his back to the army, rather than to faithlessness in his work.

I appreciate how easy it is to hold up a young man to censure, and how difficult it is to defend him at all times.

Let me add that it is my purpose to make a thorough investigation of this matter, and when finished lay it before the proper authorities.

In that matter, of course, my son is in no way responsible for my action.

It is his business while in the army to discipline without comment upon action taken, and I may say for him that he in no way has undertaken to criticise what happened. I propose to do this upon my own responsibility, and I believe that every man having the interest of fair play at heart will commend me for so doing.

Since writing the above, I have received a letter from my son, giving me his account of the affair, I am satisfied, the difficulty arose from a misunderstanding, and that when the facts are all known there can be no criticism to pass upon him. E. C. Bumpus.

OFFICIALS SCORED.

Cambridge Held Up as a Warning to Quincy.

As many of the statements in the following article are applicable to the city of Quincy under present conditions, I trust that the voters will carefully read this interesting document, and remember that, if political tramps are elected to municipal offices, honesty will be regarded only as a side show.

Henry H. Faxon.

Extract from the annual report of Secretary George G. Wright of the Library Hall Association, Cambridge, Mass. He scores the Mayor and City Council. From the Cambridge Chronicle, Nov. 18 1899:]

"Of late years there has seemed to be a steady lowering in the ability of the members of the city council and of the motives which have controlled their action. It has seemed as if many of the members considered their election in the same light as the keepers of intelligence offices consider the granting of their licenses. In many ways some of the members show that they consider it their first duty to procure employment for their friends and to so legislate as to create the greatest amount of work possible. It is even reported that a member of the present city council was compelled this year to choose between paying his poll tax or being committed to jail for non-payment.

"How people of moderate circumstances living in their own homes bought and paid for with the result of years of self-denial and hard labor, have been willing to support such men, the secretary cannot understand. The fact that they have done so only more fully convinces him that the root of the evil is in the present

CAUCUS SYSTEM.

The condition has become so serious the present year that it is time for the citizens of Cambridge to consider what steps are necessary to restore the character and efficiency of their city council.

"While the city council contains some capable and efficient members, the city has not for many years had a less efficient city council than the present body of aldermen and councilmen, or one less representative of our citizens. On the part of some of the members there has seemed to be a disposition to regard their position as a snap, to be worked for all it is worth

"The statement of one of the aldermen of Boston some years ago that he believed the amount of money paid by him for campaign purposes justified him in travelling at the city's expense whenever he felt so disposed finds a response, apparently, in more than one of the present city council. While the number of meetings called does not exceed 165, which would require, at the most, 16.50 for carfare, many members, apparently, have not been careful to limit their use of the free tickets to the city's business.

"The statement furnished by the city treasurer to the city council shows that one member who had attended only 101 meetings had used $48.00 worth of tickets.

on the part of the city council has borne its fruit in the departments also, if common report is to be believed. Statements have been made that the head of a department has been seen using these tickets to pay the fare of a party of ladies on the way to the theatre in the evening; that the head of another department for whose use the city provides a horse, uses the city tickets to travel between his home and his office; that the secretary of another board not only uses them himself, but furnishes his wife and family with them also; that many department clerks who have access to these tickets, use nothing else when travelling on the cars of the street railway.

"The amount involved is not very large, it is true, yet the sum paid for car tickets has increased from about $990 in 1890 to $3,577 in 1898, and the expense the present year exceeds $3,-100 to November 1. These figures reveal a tendency which, taken in connection with other incidents, bodes no good to the city of Cambridge.

"Unless they have been very much misrepresented, some members of both branches have been constant applicants for favors from the various public service corporations which are compelled to apply for permission to transact their legitimate business in our city, and rumor has even charged worse demands. A perusal of the letters received by these corporations, and a knowledge of the requests made would probably do much to destroy the pride with which our citizens have been accustomed to regard their city council.

"Some persons console themselves with the thought that our city council is not as bad as that of Boston. Even this doubtful praise will not be true much longer if the present tendency continues.

WITH REGARD TO THE EXECUTIVE

the secretary cannot feel that the city has received that service from the present mayor which an unopposed election would seem to warrant the citizens to expect. Appointments have been made which to many appeared as the payment of political service; unnecessary questions have been raised as to the authority of the city council, and hair-splitting opinions have been relied upon to carry out the wishes of the executive.

"The interests of the city certainly call for not only a change in the membership of the city council but also the defeat of the present mayor, and the election of a city government which will work together more harmoniously for the city's welfare. The situation demands a strong and vigorous effort, on the part of our citizens, first, to induce the proper kind of men to accept a nomination,—men who will devote their energies to the task of bettering our city instead of paying political debts. Having secured such candidates, they must be properly supported, and their election made certain. It is very unfortunate for our city that of late there has been a great falling off in the personal service which many of our influential citizens have been willing to give."

P. S.

This morning it is my pleasure to add the result of the Cambridge caucuses of Nov. 21, which shows that the voters of the University City awoke to the situation, and administered a rebuke to such a government as it has been the misfortune of many cities to be cursed with. The Herald of today says in part:

"The Temple Hall nonpartisan caucuses, held in Cambridge last night, resulted in a remarkably sweeping victory for David T. Dickinson, a young man who entered the field only a few days ago, and contested the nomination against Mayor Edgar R. Champlin, who was a candidate for a second term. Four out of the five wards declared for Dickinson, all the caucuses being unusally largely attended. Mayor Champlin only carried ward 4. The result is the biggest political upheaval known in Cambridge for many years, and is all the more surprising considering the very short campaign. Dickinson was brought into the fight only a few days ago by the anti-Champlin people in the hopes that he was the strongest man to put up against Mayor Champlin. As a result of hard work by both sides in a comparatively short time, a tremendous vote was brought out. The total vote in the city was 5,380. Of this number, Dickinson received 2,964 and Champlin 2,413, a majority of 551 for Dickinson." H. H. F.

IS NOT ACCEPTABLE,

Union Operatives Not In Accord With Provisions of Mill Men's Offer.

Think Increase In Wages Should Be Granted First.

Sliding Scale a Matter That Must Be Worked Out Gradually and With Care.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 22.—The prevailing impression here among the labor leaders and employes generally is that the proposition submitted to them by the members of the Manufacturers' association, together with the new sliding scale of wages and a promise of an advance of 5 percent at the beginning of the new year, will not be accepted by Fall River's mill operatives. When offered, the labor leaders looked upon the sliding scale with favor and would have made recommendations to the five unions of the city that the manufacturers' agreement be ratified, with perhaps a slight change. But this feeling has undergone a change, and the union operatives declare themselves not to be in accord with its provisions.

President Tansey of the Textile council called the 15 members of that body to order last evening in Carders' hall, and a long discussion of the manufacturers' proposition was had, the members seemingly being a unit in opposition to accepting the sliding scale before an increase in wages was granted.

The members of the council consider the adoption of such a scale as that proposed by the manufacturers to be of too much importance to be taken up and disposed of hastily. They prefer to accept the advance conditionally and work out the details of a sliding scale gradually and with care. Both sides admit that a scale on lines similar to that proposed by the manufacturers, with such changes as should be agreeable to all parties interested, would be of great advantage to the cotton cloth industry of the city.

The schedule proposed by the manufacturers is only a rough draft, and it was not believed that the textile body would accept it in its present stage. It was simply submitted to make a start and get both sides interested in the wage question and finally bring about an agreement which would settle the differences resulting from dissatisfied help in the local mills.

Manufacturers intimate that they believe they have made a concession to the help, and that they hope for favorable consideration of it. A sliding scale would be of great advantage, they say, and would promise operatives and mill men security. Contracts could be based on actual conditions and labor disturbances would not hav to be taken into consideration.

Victoria Gives a Banquet.

Windsor, Eng., Nov. 22.—A state banquet was held last night in St. George's hall. The guests numbered about 140 persons, including all the members of the British royal family and the visiting royalties, the United States and other ambassadors. Lord Salisbury did not attend, owing to the death of his wife, which occurred yesterday. The massive gold plate used at the banquet is estimated to be worth £2,000,000. Her majesty received her guests in the king's guard chamber. Troops of the household cavalry, bearing lances, lined the grand staircase, while within the banquetting hall beefeaters and royal yoemen formed a picturesque fringe. The queen sat at the centre of the long table, facing the Prince of Wales. On her right was Emperor William and on her left the Duke of Connought. The toasts were very formal.

Was In Track of Storm.

Baltimore, Nov. 22.—The former Baltimore and Liverpool liner Queensmore, now known as the Manchester Enterprise, has foundered at sea. All hands have been saved. The news of the disaster reached Baltimore from Cape Henry, when the steamer Lakonia passed in from Antwerp. The Lakonia signalled, "Manchester Enterprise foundered at sea. All hands saved." It is supposed that the rescued men are on the Lakonia, which is at anchor somewhere in Chesapeake bay. The Manchester Enterprise probably went down in the hurricane which has been raging on the track of transatlantic liners during the past two weeks.

Hub Republicans' Nominee For Mayor.

Boston, Nov. 22.—As foreshadowed by last week's caucuses, Thomas N. Hart was the nominee of the Republican mayoralty convention last night, receiving 239 votes, to 107 for Alpheus Sanford. On motion of Mr. Callender, who placed Mr. Sanford in nomination, the nomination was made unanimous. The name of William Berwin, who received a complimentary vote in his own ward caucus, was not even mentioned in the convention.

Taunton Man Fatally Shot.

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 22.—Joseph F. McMahon was shot and probably fatally wounded while asleep at his home here early Tuesday morning. Adjoining towns and cities have been notified by the police to apprehend John Gallagher, a brother-in-law of McMahon, who is charged with the crime. The wounded man was taken to the Morton hospital, where, after an examination, it was decided that his chances for recovery were slight.

Costly Blaze at Boston.

Boston, Nov. 22.—An explosion, followed by flames bursting from the third-story windows of the six-story brick block, corner of Portland and Sudbury streets, last night, was the forerunner of a fire that caused a loss to owners and tenants variously estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000. On the third floor was said to be located a plating company, although its name does not appear in the directory, and it is believed that the explosion occurred upon its premises.

ANOTHER TRANSFER.

Admiral Dewey's House Goes to His Son, It Being the Original Intent.

Washington, Nov. 22.—George Goodwin Dewey, Admiral Dewey's only son, is now the owner of the residence presented to the admiral by the American people. Papers were prepared and signed yesterday by which Mrs. Dewey transfers all right and title to the property known as 1747 Rhode Island avenue, this city, to George Goodwin Dewey. This is the property which Admiral Dewey had transferred to his wife. The papers making the new transfer were placed on file today.

GEORGE G. DEWEY, JR.

In explanation of the transaction, a relative of the Dewey family made this statement to the Associated Press:

"Admiral and Mrs. Dewey have transferred to the former's son, George Goodwin Dewey, the title to the home presented to the admiral by the people of this country. It will continue to be the home of the admiral and Mrs. Dewey so long as he may live.

"It may be desirable now to say that it was the wish of both the admiral and Mrs. Dewey to provide for a proper succession to the property. The transfer of today completes the transaction begun yesterday, and is the carrying out only of the original intention of both the admiral and Mrs. Dewey.

"By all those interested in the matter the method of transfer adopted was considered the best and safest that could have been adopted. It is to be considered naturally that the transfer was to be the act of Mrs. Dewey, as well as of the admiral. It was her desire that she should release any claims she might have to the property through her marriage to the admiral, and to do this the transfer was made through her to the admiral's son as soon as was practicable.

"Through the method adopted no dispute can ever arise over the disposition of the property."

Free Silver Left Off Button.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Members of the Democratic executive committee held the final meeting of their session yesterday to complete the routine work and for the further discussion of the informal outlining of plans for the coming presidential campaign. Chairman Johnson of the ways and means committee reported on the national work as regards the campaign fund, and showed that $175,000 had been subscribed and $147,000 collected. Just previous to the calling of the meeting the first button for the campaign of 1900 was passed around among the members, and the legend inscribed thereon was favorably commented on. The button bore the words: "No foreign alliance. No trusts. No imperialism for the United States." "That's a good platform," remarked committeeman Clayton of Alabama, "but it ought to have 'Sixteen to one' also."

A Bloodthirsty Shooter.

Camden, N. J., Nov. 22.—James Baxter of Wilmington, Del., came to Camden yesterday for the purpose of killing his wife, who had left him and taken refuge with the family of Jerry Ryan. Baxter and Ryan were companions in arms under General Shafter at Santiago. Baxter called at the Ryan house last night and talked with his wife in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Ryan for a moment and then drew a revolver and began shooting. Mrs. Ryan was fatally wounded, her infant child was killed and Ryan was wounded. Mrs. Baxter was not hit. Ryan seized Baxter, beat him ferociously and tried to kill him, but was prevented by officers, who arrested Baxter.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the car. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Suspicion of Foul Play.

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 22.—The authorities at Hampton are puzzled over the finding of the body of William Coburn of Hampton Falls in a dory in Hampton river yesterday. The body was in the stern of the boat, and was propped up in such a way that it sat upright. There are no marks of violence on the body, but the fact of the boat being anchored leads to suspicion of foul play. Coroner Prime is of the opinion that death resulted from exposure. Coburn was 45 years of age, and unmarried.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

THE HOBART FUNERAL.

Service at Home Will Be Followed by Public One In Church.

Family Deemed It Best Not to Have Masonic Ceremony.

Emblems of Mourning Displayed on Private Residences Throughout New Jersey.

New York, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Hobart, who had been worn out by her long vigil at her husband's bedside, is feeling much better, and is able to assist Attorney General Griggs and her husband's law partner, Albert A. Wilcox, and Private Secretary Evans in the preparations for the funeral.

The funeral will take place at Paterson on Saturday. The morning service at the residence will be attended only by the members of Mr. Hobart's family, President McKinley and his cabinet and Mr. Hobart's most intimate friends. At the Church of the Redeemer in Paterson the public service will be held at 2:30 in the afternoon.

The body will not lie in state in the city hall at Paterson, as was desired by the city authorities, but on Friday afternoon the casket will be open in the library of his home, and for three hours the public may view the face of the late vice president. The body lies in a handsome casket of oak, the plate bearing the following inscription:

Garret A. Hobart.
1899

Inasmuch as the seating capacity of the church is entirely inadequate, it will be necessary that seats be reserved for the various national, state and local officials, representatives of the organizations with which Mr. Hobart was connected, and intimate personal friends of the family. It is therefore impossible to provide for the general public until the various officials, representatives and friends have been accommodated.

Four companies of regulars from Governor's island will take part in the funeral ceremony, and will probably act as an escort from the late residence of the vice president to the church. The military will also act as an escort to President McKinley and his party.

It is expected that President McKinley and his cabinet, the supreme court justices and other officials from Washington, will arrive before noon on Saturday. A special train, bearing the senators and representatives and other United States officials, will start from New York, and committees will be on hand at Paterson to take charge of those on board.

All of the public buildings in Paterson have been draped, as well as many private residences throughout New Jersey.

Dr. Newton, the vice president's physician yesterday filed the certificate of death, giving the cause of death as "dilatation of the heart, due to myocarditis."

Mr. Hobart was a member of the Order of Free and Accepted Masons, of high rank, a Thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason and a Knight Templar. In reply to inquiries of representatives of various Masonic bodies, it has been explained to them that the family deemed it best not to have a Masonic funeral.

Up to the present the names of the pall-bearers have not been announced. Mr. Hobart, two months ago, fearing something might happen, named six of his most intimate friends in New Jersey, and it is believed that these will act as his pall-bearers.

Mrs. Hobart is bearing up well under her great trouble, and was able to see a few of her most intimate friends, including Attorney General Griggs and Mrs. Griggs and Rev. Dr. David Magie, who will deliver the funeral oration.

President McKinley and cabinet will leave Paterson immediately after the interment of the remains of Vice President Hobart in Cedar Lawn cemetery, and the United States senators will return on the same train with him.

The services in the house will probably be conducted by Rev. Dr. Magie of Paterson, Rev. Dr. Hamlin of Washington, and the blind chaplain of the senate, Rev. Dr. Milburn. The musical part of the program will be in charge of the Orpheus club of Paterson, and A. H. Smock of New York, a relative of the vice president

Mr. Hobart's wealth has been estimated at from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. It is of a character difficult to estimate, as the major portion consists of stock in 60 companies. The life insurance policies on Mr. Hobart's life aggregate about $350,000. It is understood that the vice president made a will, and named as his executors William Barbour and E. T. Bell, both his personal friends, and it is likely that they are two of the pall-bearers selected before his death.

Meetings of various bodies continued yesterday to adopt resolutions on the death of Vice President Hobart, and at all of them it was agreed that Paterson had lost its best friend. All day a great crowd walked up and down in front of the house.

SATISFACTORY SETTLEMENT EXPECTED.

Representatives of Operatives Will Hold Another Conference With Manufacturers.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 23.—Secretary Rounseville of the Cotton Manufacturers' association has received a communication from the Textile council, asking for another conference this afternoon. The letter states that while the members favor the idea of a sliding scale, the one presented Monday does not meet with their approval. The labor leaders wish to have the wage question settled first, after which they will be ready to take up a sliding scale agreement.

The letter further says that the time between now and the new year will not be ample enough to allow full consideration of such an important matter, which in the end must go to the large body of operatives for final approval. The council has no power to accept a scale now; they are asked to obtain a higher scale of wages first. When the sliding scale is considered by the council they must place it before the labor organizations with their recommendations for action.

The secretary of the Manufacturers' association would not say whether the conference would be held this afternoon or tomorrow. The special committee would decide that. There was no doubt that the conference would be granted, however.

The feeling on the street is that the whole question will be settled amicably. At the new quotation of 3 cents for regular 64x64's, 100,000 pieces of goods have already been disposed of by the selling committee of the manufacturers. The confidence of buyers and sellers in the ability of the mills to run is based upon the belief that the help will be retained at work by a satisfactory settlement of the wage difficulty.

Much Business Disposed Of.

Boston, Nov. 23.—Wednesday's sessions of the general assembly, Knights of Labor, were occupied with some of the most important business of the convention. Among the matters disposed of were the election of the executive board; the question of the publication of souvenir books by members, which was ordered discontinued; the adoption of a resolution threatening a retaliatory boycott against the Springfield, Mass., Central Labor union, in case the boycott of the latter body against the brewery workers of New York is not lifted; and the decision to establish a corresponding school of civics at Washington. The following executive board was elected: Henry Bostock, Muncie, Ind.; A. J. O'Keefe, Birmingham, Ala.; J. Conner, Pittsburg, and the general master workman and general worthy foreman ex-officio.

Rivers Over Their Banks.

Denison, Tex., Nov. 23.—This section is in the early stages of a flood that threatens to be the most disastrous known in many years. Thousands of acres of valuable farming lands are under water. Families are fleeing for their lives from the bottomlands. It is thought that many houses will be swept away. The Washita, the largest river in the Indian Territory, is at the highest stage ever known. Great damage has been done by the high water. The town of Paul's Valley is reported under water. All the large streams in the southern portion of the Indian Territory are out of their banks and enormous damage has been done to farming lands. There is no ferry communication between Texas and the territory. Red river and Washita are still rising rapidly.

Southern Brother In Grand Army Post.

Boston, Nov. 23.—There were a number of interesting incidents connected with the annual dinner of the E. W. Kinsley post, 13, G. A. R., last night. Chief among them was the election to honorary membership of a former Confederate officer. The officer thus honored was Colonel William G. Vincent, commander of the Louisiana brigade of cavalry. Then there was a letter read from General Joseph Wheeler, now in the Philippines, full of patriotism and expressions of love and good fellowship, and in addition there was a vigorous defense of John D. Long against the attacks made upon him by a western newspaper, by Rev. Edward A. Horton. Secretary Long was given a grand tribute by the post.

Parnell Homestead Saved.

New York, Nov. 23.—The mission of Messrs. Tallon and Redmond to this country in the interest of preserving the Parnell homestead has been successful. Thomas F. Smith, private secretary to Richard Croker, last night presented the lord mayor, in the name of Tammany hall, with a certified check for £3000 to save the Parnell homestead. This was $5000 in excess of the amount needed. In accepting the check Mr. Tallon said that Mr. Croker had saved the Parnell estate, and that his name will be remembered as long as the Irish race survives.

Good Afternoon.

The school census of Newton shows a DECREASE of 89 in the number of children compared with a year ago. The total number is 5,170 in a population of less than 30,000, valuation of $60,000,000, and 9,353 polls. Quincy by the school census just taken has 4,999 children of school age, a population of 25,000, valuation of $19,684,319, and 6,502 polls. While Newton is one-fifth larger it has only 171 more children, where if the proportion held good it should have just 1000 more. Further, Newton has over three times the wealth, and it is as ridiculous for Quincy to try to keep pace with Newton as it would be for a man earning $2 to day to support a family of ten as well as a rich man can.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews is conducting the fight of his life in behalf of sound educational methods in the Chicago public schools. The present issue is whether the board of education shall issue certificates to night school principals without any examination into the fitness of those seeking certificates. Dr. Andrews may have his weaknesses, yet the man who succeeds in placing the public schools of Chicago upon a sound and honorable basis, with politics left out of the underpinning, must have some of the Andrews fearlessness and talent for making enemies.—Springfield Republican.

☞ The massing of property in trusts and gigantic corporations, giving to single individuals the control of almost unlimited wealth and the ability to shape and control legislation, has added immensely to the power of gold, till thoughtful men of all classes are facing the problems of the future with apprehension. Indeed, only a firm Christian faith can look without anxiety to the results of this rapid augmentation of wealth and its increasing concentration in the hands of a few. Nevertheless, the church still holds to the faith that the world has yet to be conquered for and by Christ, and this not by miraculous interposition, nor by calamitous upheavals of the material elements nor by the overthrow of society, but by the conversion of the people to Christian faith and spiritual obedience.—Zion's Herald.

☞ Few people are aware of the terrible danger in store for the world on account of the ever widening chasm between rich and poor. The rich would not hoard another ruble to their wealth were they conscious of the peril that threatens them. There are few self-sacrificing Christ-like people who in compliance with the command of the Saviour will "go and sell all they have, give it to the poor and follow him." There are few who by these means will help to put off the day of universal disaster. All honor to these few, for it cannot be denied that theirs is the true, unsophisticated brotherly love, which requires an uninterrupted sacrifice until death. But their benevolence is like attempting to empty the ocean with a few small buckets.—Leo Tolstoi in the New York Journal.

TALLON RECEPTION.

A Street Parade to Precede the Exercises at Hall.

A final meeting to make arrangements for the reception to be tendered Lord Mayor Tallon of Dublin and John E. Redmond, M. P., tomorrow night, was held Wednesday evening in French's hall. There was a large attendance and enthusiasm was unbounded. It was decided to have a parade in the evening and to escort the distinguished guests to the hall. The lord mayor and Mr. Redmond will have lunch at the residence of Mr. John Cavanagh in Braintree at 6 o'clock and will then drive to the President Adams houses in this city. At this point the party will be met by the Irish and Catholic organizations and the line of march will be taken over the following streets:

Franklin street to School street, to Hancock street, to Washington street, to Temple street, to Hancock street, to Music hall.

Red fires will be burnt along the route of parade and fireworks will add to the spectacular scene.

At the meeting, Capt. William Boyd was appointed chief marshal of the parade.

A vote of thanks was tendered the manager of the Quincy polo team for surrendering the hall tomorrow evening to the committee.

Mayor Keith will preside at the meeting and members of the city government and other prominent citizens will occupy positions on the stage.

Universalist Social.

A very enjoyable supper, social and entertainment was held in the Universalist vestry Wednesday evening. About 125 enjoyed the tempting supper which was served at 6.30 o'clock. After supper a social hour was enjoyed giving all a chance to become acquainted with each other and with the new pastor, Rev. Merrill C. Ward.

During the evening a short entertainment was given, consisting of a few hearty words of welcome by the pastor, readings by Miss Belden of the Emerson School of Oratory, and solos by Miss Ewell, who is studying at the Conservatory of Music. The readings of Miss Belden were well rendered and greatly enjoyed by her audience, all being new and up-to-date. Her encores were especially good. The solos by Miss Ewell were equally well enjoyed, her voice being very sweet and pleasing to listen to.

All attending enjoyed the evening greatly, and the future of the church looks much brighter.

Wollaston Unity Club.

The regular meeting of the club will be held on Friday evening, Nov. 24.

Dr. W. G. Curtis has charge of the literary part of the programme and has been successful in securing the following list of essayists, and the club is thus assured of a delightful evening on Switzerland. This meeting will be the second in the series on that interesting country.

The music will be in charge of Mrs. Rowe and will be as follows:

Piano duet, Mrs. Moulton and Miss Munroe; cornet solo, Mr. B. Critchley; and vocal solo, Miss Isaacs.

King's Daughters' Sale.

The Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters of Wollaston, gave a largely attended sale and entertainment at the vestry of the Unitarian church on Wednesday evening. The chafing dish table at which was served Welsh rarebit, tomato souffle, and creamed chicken, was presided over by Miss Howard, Mrs. Edmund S. Taylor and Miss Dunham; the apron table was in charge of Mrs. Albert E. Rhodes. Miss Robbins, Miss Riley and Mrs. Emery; the candy table, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Miss Foster, Mrs. George R. Badger, Miss Taylor and Mrs. Arthur Stanley; the lemonade and flowers, Miss Helen Foster, and Mrs. Whittam. The entertainment consisted of a piano solo by Miss Edith Holbrook; a violin solo by Ray Weston; a piano solo by Avery Bennett; and a violin duet by Ray Weston and Wallace Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Howie of Liberty street, South Quincy, were surprised Tuesday evening by a large number of their friends. A beautiful dinner set was presented to them. During the evening there were songs and recitations and a graphaphone which were enjoyed by all. Later in the evening a bountiful supper was served.

—Philip L. Saltonstall was on Wednesday appointed receiver of the Norfolk Southern Street Railway Company by the United States circuit court, in a bill brought for that purpose by the Sterling Company, an Illinois corporation, which holds an overdue promissory note for $3,000 indorsed by that company.

BRIDGE HEARINGS.

Important Improvements to be Considered Saturday.

The County Commissioners will give a hearing at the Probate Court room Saturday on petitions of Mayor Charles H. Porter and Mayor Keith. The first was that passed by the City Council, June 12, 1890, which was that public necessity required that alteration should be made in the bridge over the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. on Hancock street near the Atlantic depot, by widening said bridge and approaches to the width of the street. It will be noticed that this matter has been before the County Commissioners for several years. Previous boards have held hearings on the matter and have viewed the bridge in question, but no definite action was ever taken.

The second petition, that of Mayor Keith, is that the County Commissioners lay out or authorize the city of Quincy to lay out a way over the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. connecting Warren avenue on the west side of the tracks with Warren avenue on the east side of the track.

The Commissioners have given notice that they will meet in the Probate Court room at 10 o'clock A. M., and then proceed to view the locations as set forth in the petitions, and hear and act upon the same. Both of these matters are important ones to Quincy, and should not be allowed to go by default. Let the Probate Court room be filled with citizens and show them that the citizens are interested in having the improvements.

Political.

The new registration gives Boston about 102,000 voters; Cambridge a few short of 13,000, against 13,097 last year; Chelsea 5,949 against 6,216 last year; Medford 3,145; Everett 3,556; Lynn 12,223; Salem 6,667; Beverly 2,696; Quincy with 4,414 ranks high.

Candidate Hall has given up his rooms in the Savings Bank building and hereafter will be at the Republican headquarters in the Street Railway building.

It is reported that Councilman John Swithin, who was nominated at the Democratic convention as Councilman at large, is to withdraw his name.

John F. Lyons, the Independent Democratic candidate for Mayor had his photograph taken Wednesday, from which photo-electrotypes will be made.

The Social Democrats have issued a circular giving the picture of their candidate for Mayor, his speech of acceptance, a biographical sketch of Mr. Bates and the party platform.

Several Social Democratic nomination papers have been sent to the Board of Registrars, who first satisfy themselves that the signers are voters of Quincy before forwarding to City Clerk.

All nominations for the City election must be filed before 5 P. M. tomorrow.

The Wollaston Democrats are claiming that Keith will receive about 170 votes in that ward. Keith received last last year 215 and Sears 279.

If Lyons, the Independent Democratic candidate for Mayor, receives 150 votes, as has been estimated, it means the defeat of Mayor Keith, unless Candidate Bates can draw enough Republican votes to counteract it.

Initiation Proved Fatal.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 23.—Martin V. Bergin of this place died yesterday as a result of injuries received in a hazing affair at Lawrenceville last Friday. He died of inflammation of the bowels. Young Bergin was 12 years old, and a freshman at Lawrenceville. He was being put through the initiative when one of the hazers accidentally fell upon him.

Some think it pays to take the printing for entertainments to job printers and to Boston. Then they wonder why the local press is not more interested, and why it does not advertise them free and puff up their shows. It is not because the Ledger does not know what is going on, that some notices are so brief.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

Henry H. Faxon Touched for Over $1,000.

And Has Many More Estates to Hear From.

Many in List Must Pay Over $100; Some Much More.

The Ledger begins today the publication of the assessments by the city upon the abutters in payment of their half of the cost of sewer construction. The list is not given in alphabetical order, but by streets as the pipes are laid.

The total assessment upon each lot is not given, but the assessment per frontage at the rate of 12 cents per foot, and the assessment per area within 100 feet of the street at the rate of 6 mills per square foot. To obtain the total assessment it is only necessary to add the two together.

In all cases probably the assessment per area is the larger, as the area is supposed, to pay eight-tenths of the assessment, and the frontage the other two tenths. In many cases, notably corner lots, the assessment per frontage is nearly as large as upon the area. The assessment upon Mrs. Annie M. Keating at the corner of Washington and Canal is the best illustration today.

These assessments may be paid in one, two or more instalments up to ten. If paid within three months from date of bill no interest will be collected, but if apportioned over a number of years interest will be added.

It is proposed to continue the publication as space will admit.

TRACKS COME UP.

Selectmen of Stoughton Take a Hand in Street Railway War.

Whether right or wrong, the Selectmen of Stoughton will be admired for their courage. They dare to do something, and have done it. After a meeting Tuesday evening to consider and settle the difficulty existing between the Randolph Street Railroad Company and the Blue Hill Street Railway Company regarding the location of tracks in that town, the selectmen announced that they had decided on the right of priority of the former company, and ordered the Blue Hill company to remove its tracks.

At 9.30 o'clock last night a gang of 50 workmen appeared on the scene equipped with lanterns, shovels, picks and sledge-hammers, and proceeded to tear up the rails of the Blue Hill company, under the personal direction of Secretary Leonard of the board of selectmen, who held one of the lanterns and gave instructions as to how the work should be done. A great crowd of people gathered about the place and much excitement prevailed.

Selectman Leonard said that the board was taking this step to prevent the running of cars today, as the line was nearly open for travel, and the board did not intend to have the road operated until the rights in the case had been fully determined as to grade and other matters. Public opinion is greatly divided, and both companies have warm advocates in the town. The work of tearing up the tracks was completed about 11 o'clock last night. About 100 feet of rails were taken up and removed, several hundred citizens being present.

Soon after the work was completed President Charles H. French of the Blue Hill company arrived from Canton on a special car. Mr. French, in an interview with Secreary Leonard of the Board of Selectmen, said he did not receive the notice from the board until 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. French said that there was nothing in his franchise which called for the laying of girder rails. He said that his rails were laid in accordance with the grade given them by the town, and with the plan filed with the selectmen.

He also said it was a very serious matter for the town to tear up the tracks—a matter which is regulated by law—and declared that it would result in serious financial trouble for the town.

The struggle arose over the attempt of both roads to secure connection with the Brockton street railroad, and the Randolph company got its tracks laid first, and secured proper grade. The Blue Hill people then came along with a new grade and laid tracks over the former company. Considerable excitement was caused, and his decision settles the controversy by deciding that the Randolph company has the legal location.

Captain Gridley's Monument.

The memory of Captain Charles V. Gridley, who died shortly after the battle of Manila, in which he commanded the Olympia, will be fittingly preserved by the city of Erie, Pa., in which his ashes lie. On an eminence along the shore of Lake Erie, where it can be seen for miles by land and water, a beautiful monument is to be erected and surrounded by drives. The design for the monument has been approved by the Gridley family, and the committee in charge of the work. The design shows a shaft which will rise seventy feet from the ground. It will be constructed of granite and is to be finished with a pedestal of handsome proportions. On the front will appear the arms of the United States surmounted by a sheaf of boarding pikes, flags and sabres, all dominated by an eagle in bronze. Directly below will be a bronze medallion of Captain Gridley with a sword on either side. On the opposite side of the base from the coat of arms it is proposed to place a representation of the Olympia. On another side will be presented the scene of the battle of Manila Bay, while another suitable design will be on the fourth side. The famous words of Admiral Dewey to Captain Gridley, which have passed into the motto, "You may fire when ready, Gridley," are to occupy a position in connection with the bust of the captain.—Buffalo Commercial.

Camp Life.

The lecture by Chaplin House of the 5th Regt., U. S. V., at Music hall, Wednesday evening under the auspices of John A. Boyd camp, Legion of Spanish War Veterans, was immensely interesting. The lecture was opened by Bugler Johnson who gave the calls which were illustrated by the boys of Co. K whose tents were pitched on the stage. The lecture was illustrated by many stereopticon views of camp life of the Fifth.

Quincy should do up the Brocktons tonight.

There will be two polo games at Quincy Music hall tonight—one a league game and the other between the Braintrees and Clossons. Perhaps many are not aware that the games are played within an enclosure and that spectators are protected by a high netting.

John H. Simmons, Jr., of Braintree, will hereafter manage the Quincy polo team. He will see that the games are better advertised.

First Swedish Resident.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of Common street, left Wednesday to spend the holidays in their native country, Sweden. Mr. Johnson enjoys the distinction of being the first Swedish resident to settle in Quincy. He came here from Westgotland in 1873 and started to work at the granite trade. A few years later, in company with his brother, Andrew Johnson, he purchased a quarry, now controlled by the Merry Mount Co. In 1883, Mr. Johnson organized the Swedish Freemason society in this city, and a church was built in the quarry district known as North Common. This church was not used after the erection of the present Swedish Lutheran edifice on Granite street. Mr. Johnson has lived to see the Swedish population of Quincy increase from the one represented by himself to a community of almost 2,000. Sunday a number of friends called at his house and tendered him a reception and left many well wishes for a safe voyage and a pleasant trip to his native land.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

From Madison To McKinley

In 1810, when Madison occupied the President's chair, JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT was originated by Dr. A. Johnson. For nearly a century it has remained a household remedy of the first rank. The grandparents of many who now use JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT were brought through whooping cough, croup and all the accidents of childhood in safety by this remedy. Many a time a bottle of JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT in the cupboard of some remote farm house, has saved life when sudden and acute disease has developed in the night. Many are now living in old age who owe their lives to this remedy. You can safely put your trust in a remedy that has stood the test of nearly a century and gained such a high reputation as has

Johnson's ANODYNE LINIMENT

A majority of the ailments of humanity begin, or are accompanied, with inflammation, and it is by controlling and removing this condition that JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT cures widely different diseases, such as colds, coughs, croup, catarrh, bronchitis, la grippe, lameness colic, cramps, diarrhœa, cholera morbus, bites, bruises, burns, stings, chafing and pain and inflammation in any part of the body. Sold in two size bottles, 25c. and 50c., the larger size being the more economical; it holds three times as much.

A LACK OF DETAILS

In Reports Given Out by the British War Office.

The Situation In Natal Has Again Become Critical.

The British Camp at Mooi River Is Now a Center of Interest.

Successful Attack Upon It Would Be of Great Advantage to Boers.

London, Nov. 23.—Although it is evident that the situation in Natal is again becoming sufficiently alarming, nothing can be officially ascertained to allay public anxiety or the curiosity felt regarding the disposition of the reinforcements recently landed at Durban.

The war office dispatches are confined to a mere recital of a few casualties at Mooi river, which confirm the reports of skirmishes there, but give no details as to how the engagements happened. The special correspondents are only permitted to describe Major General Barton's camp at Mooi river vaguely as "large" or "ample."

One correspondent says that 7000 Boers are within 25 miles of Howick Falls, near Pietermaritzburg, and that the inhabitants are fleeing to the capital.

Evidently a considerable force of the enemy is now within 30 or 40 miles of Pietermaritzburg, but it is officially announced from there that no anxiety prevails, the garrison numbering 1000 men, with six guns.

General Joubert's plan, apparently, is a daring attempt to defeat the British relieving column from Durban in detail, while still attempting the reduction of Ladysmith. A serious attack on Mooi river camp is hourly expected with the object of destroying the bridge at Weston. Should this be accomplished the Boers would be free to turn their attention again to Estcourt, while, if it failed, the enemy would retire again on Weenan and rejoin the investing forces around Ladysmith.

The Boer report that General Hildyard's messenger asking General White for assistance was captured causes some uneasiness, but it is argued that, if General Hildyard had not been strong enough to hold out he would some time ago have been ordered to retire on Pietermaritzburg. Therefore small credence is given the story.

Nothing is known regarding the food supplies of the garrisons thus isolated. It is believed that Estcourt is well provided, but there is less confidence in the case of Mooi river.

There is no further news from the western frontier except a list of casualties, showing that one officer was killed and nine were wounded at Kimberley on Nov. 16, and confirming the accounts of the sortie previously reported from Boer sources.

A late dispatch from Durban says: Owing to the proximity of the Boers to Pietermaritzburg it has been necessary to alter the defenses of Durban.

Estcourt is still silent. All accounts point conclusively to a determined rush of the Boers toward Pietermaritzburg with a very large force. Seven thousand men, with guns, are reported 25 miles from Howick. They are said to be under the personal command of General Joubert.

Yesterday's engagement at Mooi river found the British almost constantly on the defensive. A correspondent of the Natal Advertiser says the Boers' second shell fell within a few yards of a detachment of British infantry; that the shells did little or no damage, and that firing continued for about half an hour at intervals of from three to five minutes.

According to this account, the British troops prepared with the utmost promptitude and advanced under cover wherever possible. The British artillery was in position behind the hotel where General Barton and his staff were being accommodated. Major Thorneycroft's mounted infantry moved to cover on a ridge one the enemy's left flank. The Devonshire regiment and the Royal Welsh fusiliers occupied the trenches. There was but little fire, the correspondent says, but the enemy possessed at least one Howitzer with a range of five miles, besides several six pounders.

The following dispatch has been received from Pretoria:

The field cornets of the Pretoria commando reported that British gun carriages and some horsemen had been heard moving last night in Ladysmith. Our outposts observed the British endeavoring to sortie toward Lombard's Kop and Bulwama Hill, where our Maxims opened fire. The range was too great and therefore our artillery began shelling, which drove the British back. About daybreak the British batteries fired upon our positions. Two burghers were wounded.

It is reported that the object of the sorties was to relieve the Estcourt force, who had sent an urgent message to Ladysmith requesting aid. The burghers captured the messenger, but finally allowed him to proceed.

It is reported that the Natal police have captured a number of Transvaal dispatch riders.

In his latest report, General Joubert says: "I am cutting off the retreat of the Estcourt troops to Pietermaritzburg and driving them back on the Tugela river."

It is also reported that the Boer commander with the forces near Ladysmith has "comprehensively surveyed the different points from which the fall of Ladysmith can be insured."

The official returns of the Transvaal casualties since the outbreak of the war show 90 men have been killed and 200 wounded, of whom a number have recovered and returned to the front.

Newspaper reports from Cape Colony say a general rising of the Dutch farmers is imminent in Natal, and that the colonial Boers in those districts which have been proclaimed republican territory have already joined the Boer forces.

General Snyman, who is outside Mafeking, reports heavy fighting Monday afternoon. The British briskly fired on the French cannon and Boer forts. The Boers replied, bombarding the British forts with good effect. The loss of the British is unknown. One Boer was wounded.

The Daily Mail publishes a dispatch from Naauw Poort, dated Wednesday, which says that a large force under General Methuen has crossed the Orange river and is advancing to the relief of Kimberley.

The morning Post's correspondent at Pietermaritzburg, telegraphing Tuesday evening, says: The Boers are now all around Mooi river station, where another of your correspondents is reported to be with the troops.

A dispatch to The Daily News from Nottingham Road, Natal, dated Tuesday, says the Boers have arrived near there.

The Daily News has the following from Pietermaritzsburg, under Wednesday's date: Your correspondent managed to escape from the Mooi river district yesterday before the arrival of 6000 Boers, who are looting the farmsteads in all directions. The Natal Boers, encouraged by the success of the Transvaalers, join in the looting. The main body of the Boers made a rapid march from Ulundi, southwest of Estcourt, to a point near Fort Nottingham, south of the railway, in a single day. They are within 40 miles of Pietermaritzburg at the farthest, and it is said that they intend to attack the town.

Peculiarity In Dewey House Deeds.

Washington, Nov. 23.—An interesting feature in connection with the three Dewey deeds now on file with the recorder of deeds is noted. The first deed filed, that by which George Dewey et ux transfers the Rhode Island avenue property to John W. Crawford, although dated Nov. 14, was not acknowledged before a notary public until Nov. 16. The second deed, by which Crawford transferred the property to Mrs. Dewey, and the third deed, by which George Dewey and Mrs. Dewey turn over the title to George G. Dewey, were both acknowledged Nov. 14. In other words, it would seem that Crawford transferred the property to Mrs. Dewey, and the latter in turn to George G. Dewey, two days before Admiral Dewey transferred the title to Crawford.

Steamship's Cargo Ablaze.

New York, Nov. 23.—Steamship Hudson arrived from New Orleans yesterday on fire. The steamer carried a cargo of molasses and cotton, and was towed to her pier in North river. It was denied at first that the fire amounted to anything, but at 4 o'clock help was dispatched to the pier, together with hook and ladder companies. An effort to get the cargo out was partially successful, the cargo from the forward holds being removed. The fire became so fierce, however, that the Hudson was towed to the New Jersey flats, where she was beached. It is not known to what extent the vessel and cargo have been damaged, but it is believed that the fire is a serious one.

A Disastrous Collision.

Garrett, Ind., Nov. 23.—A heavy Baltimore and Ohio limited passenger train drawn by two locomotives ran into the rear end of a freight train near McCool yesterday. Both passenger engines were ditched and their crews, Engineers Bradford and Sarber and Firemen Orr and Stine, were killed. The freight train was almost a total wreck. Its conductor, Mr. Butts, and Brakeman Hamilton are missing, and it is supposed they are buried under the debris. Four men were injured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

Who are injured by the use or coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. Stewart Acknowledges Guilt.

Woonsocket, R. I., Nov. 23.—Charles E. Stewart, who claims New York city as his home, and who was held by Pittsburg officers on the charge of receiving $2000 from the First National bank of this city on a bogus check, was brought here yesterday by local officers. During the first part of the journey from Pittsburg he stoutly denied any implication in the affair, but as he neared the city he confessed that he got the $3000, as alleged.

Town Reported Destroyed.

Fort Smith, Ark., Nov. 23.—A telephone message from Paris reports the town of Magazine destroyed by a tornado Tuesday night. Magazine is 60 miles east of Fort Smith. All efforts to reach Magazine by wire failed. Booneville, 10 miles from Magazine, suffered from a severe storm, houses being blown down and cattle killed.

Talked on Kentucky Situation.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Senator Deboe of Kentucky had a conference with President McKinley yesterday regarding the situation in Kentucky. The interview was of a nature which Senator Deboe did not care to divulge. He admitted that he had come to Washington purposely to see the president.

BICYCLE GIRLS

Are apt to overdo their strength. The rivalries of the road, the cheerful companionship, the exhilaration of the swift movement on the machine, all tend to make a woman unconsciously overtax herself. The results are often serious, and may affect the whole future of wifehood and motherhood.

Every woman who is conscious of feminine irregularities or disorders from strain or any other cause, should begin at once the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It promptly corrects all female irregularity dries the drains which are so debilitating, and tones the nervous system. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I had falling of internal organs and had to go to bed every month; had irregular monthly periods which would sometimes last ten or twelve days," writes Mrs. Alice L. Holmes, of Coolspring St., Uniontown, Pa. "Had also indigestion so bad that I could not eat anything hardly. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me. I took three bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and one of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence private. Address, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

VICTORY FOR BRITISH

That Cost Over 200 Men In Killed, Injured and Missing.

Attacked Strong Position of the Boers at Belmont.

Some Doubt as to Whether Positions Gained Have Been Held.

Indications That Cape Dutch Are Joining Boers In Considerable Numbers.

London, Nov. 24.—The secretary of war has received through General Forestier-Walker at Cape Town the following from General Methuen, dated Belmont, Nov. 23:

"Attacked the enemy at daybreak this morning. He was in strong position. Three ridges were carried in rapid succession, the last attack being prepared by shrapnel. Infantry behaved splendidly and received support from the naval brigade and artillery. The enemy fought with courage and skill. Had I attacked later I should have had far heavier losses.

"Our victory was complete. Have taken 40 prisoners. Am burying a good number of the Boers, but the greater part of the enemy's killed and wounded were removed by their comrades. Have captured a large number of horses and cows, and destroyed a large quantity of ammunition."

General Methuen reports his losses as follows: Three officers killed and 21 wounded; 55 men killed and 128 wounded, with 18 men missing.

The battle at Belmont has happened sooner than was expected. Only the above official account is yet at hand; but so far as can be gathered, the fighting appears to have been almost a repetition of the battle of Elandslaagte.

A dispatch of the previous day estimated that the Boers in that vicinity numbered 2000, and that they had five guns, and, judging from the absence of any statement to the contrary in the official dispatch, it is believed that the British were slightly superior in numbers to the enemy.

The Boers had chosen a position with their customary skill and were strongly entrenched. The British were obliged to carry three ridges in succession. Apparently the guards bore the brunt in carrying the last ridge by a bayonet charge after its defenders had been shaken with shrapnel. Nothing is said as to whether the positions so gained were held, and the destruction of ammunition seems to indicate that the contrary was the case.

While General Methuen can be congratulated upon a brilliant victory, it is again at a cost of a heavy loss of officers and men.

The war office has received the following dispatch from General Forestier-Walker at Cape Town:

"General Gatacre reports having yesterday (Wednesday) encountered a battalion of infantry near Putter's kraal, and that reinforcements of mounted troops, with half a battalion of infantry, arrived at the same camp today.

"The Dutch rising continues in the Broken Nail districts. The police at Molten report that 1000 Dutch have left Cradok (Cape Colony) to join the rebels at Broken Nail, taking with them armed natives.

"General French conducted a reconnoissance toward Arundel, which he found held in strength. He withdrew, with three men wounded.

"The Boers are reported moving from Natal to the vicinity of Bloemfontein. Telegraphic communication with Belmont has been reopened, and a heavy engagement is reported. The postmaster at Hope Town reports that the Kusuman people have defeated the Northern rebels."

The situation in Natal remains obscure. Fighting is reported at both Estcourt and Ladysmith. It was at first reported that heavy firing had been heard in the direction of Willow Grange, leading to a belief that General Hildyard had made a sortie. Later dispatches announce that General White sortied from Ladysmith and inflicted a demoralizing defeat upon the Boers.

It would be premature to give full credence to either report. What is quite certain is that Ladysmith, Estcourt and Mooi river station are all isolated, and the Boers seem able, after detaching enough troops to hold three British forces aggregating 17,000 men, to push on toward Pietermaritzburg with some 7000 men.

A disquieting feature of the whole campaign is the fact that all the advancing British generals report meeting the Boers in force. In view of the brilliant success of General Joubert in partially paralyzing the relieving columns, the question is being asked, what would have happened had he at the outset of the war, instead of sitting down before Ladysmith, pushed on to Pietermaritzburg?

The diary of events at Mafeking up to Nov. 15 has arrived. It gives little that is new. At that date Colonel Baden-Powell had no idea of being relieved for a fortnight, or perhaps for a month. Both Mafeking and Kimberley, however, seem to be quiet.

General Gatacre's report that the Dutch are rising increases public anxiety, as it tends to confirm rumors that have long been current.

Meanwhile the politicans of the Afrikander bund appear to be using all their influence to prevent the Dutch population of Cape Colony from openly declaring for the Boers. But they have been only partially successful, for large numbers of young men have gone over and are fighting in the Boer ranks.

An official dispatch from Governor Milner to Mr. Chamberlain reports that thus far the efforts of the Boers to provoke an uprising among the Basutos or to start a civil war have been unsuccessful. The governor of Cape Colony says: "The Boers informed Chief Jonathan that if he would join them he would be defended. If he remained neutral they told him he would not be molested, but they declared that he must expel the British magistrate and allow his fellow tribesmen to pass freely into the Orange Free State, whose government, in return, would guarantee Basutoland to the Basutos in perpetuity. The great concern of the Boers is the crops, which will rot unless Basuto labor can be obtained. Evidently the natives have been affected by the reports of repeated Boer successes, but their general attitude is satisfactory."

Sir Alfred Milner has issued a proclamation to the people of the colony, in the course of which he says:

"It is my duty to dispel false reports regarding the policy and intentions of the imperial government. Misleading manifestos from beyond the border represent the imperial authorities as desiring to oppress the Dutch, and the idea has spread abroad that the Dutch will be deprived of their constitutional rights. There is absolutely no truth in such allegations.

"The imperial government desires the greatest freedom of self-government for both Dutch and British, and the extension, not the curtailment, of the constitutional rights that are solely endangered by rebellion. The imperial government adheres firmly to the principle of equal freedom for all loyal colonists."

Late last evening it was asserted at Aldershot that the sixth division, now in process of mobilization, will actually be required for active service. Some of the yeomanry regiments have been warned for mobilization, owing to the scarcity of cavalry in Africa. It is also reported that another brigade of horse artillery will be mobilized.

The British force now actually in the field, including the colonial levies of all kinds, is about 60,000 strong. Of these, however, quite 16,000 are neutralized in the blockaded towns, and until they are relieved and set free, the main plan of the campaign is in abeyance.

Competent critics are saying that the real danger for the British army is not so much from the enemy in front as from those it may leave in its rear, and in any case so large a force would be required to guard the lines of communication that fully one-third of the entire army will be engaged in that duty. The hope is that it may be possible to make a dash on Pretoria and dictate peace there, but if the intention of the Transvaal government to move the capital elsewhere is carried out, the war would not necessarily be ended by the British occupation of Pretoria.

United States Consul General Stowe, at Cape Town, has received information that the British prisoners in Pretoria are well fed, and that there is no truth in the statement that they are suffering from scurvy.

Knights of Labor and Politics.

Boston, Nov. 24.—After 11 days' deliberation the general assembly of the Knights of Labor concluded its business yesterday and adjourned to meet in Birmingham, Ala., in November, 1900. The chief feature of the closing sessions was the adoption of resolutions condemning President McKinley's policy on the trust, imperialism and labor questions, declaring him to be the enemy of labor, and asking labor to use its influence and votes against him in the coming election. Resolutions were also adopted denouncing national banks and favoring the abolition of indirect taxation; the abolition of contract system on all public works; the unlimited coinage of silver at the present legal rates; the establishment of postal deposit and savings banks at every postoffice, and the election of president, vice president, supreme court judges and United States senators by direct vote of the people.

Good Afternoon.

Chapter 344 of the acts of 1899, "an act to make eight hours a day's work for city and town employes," is published in full in the warrant for the City election in this paper. It will be submitted to the voters who are requested to cross either the "Yes" or the "No" in answer to the question: "Shall Chapter 344 of the Acts of 1899, entitled, — An act to make eight hour's a day's work for city and town employes—be accepted?"

Thus far there has been a surprising lack of discussion on this question. The City Council did not consider that it was a question for them to decide, although in some cities the aldermen have refused to submit it to the voters. The course of the Quincy Council seems the best, as it is a matter for the voters alone to decide. It may be argued that only a small proportion of the voters are property taxpayers of the city, which cannot be questioned, but the constitution long ago removed the property qualification from voters.

It is probably because the hard-working laborer does not receive his just share of the product of his labor, that so few are property taxpayers, and when they do get the title of a home, even though they own but twenty, thirty or forty per cent. they are compelled to pay taxes on the whole, and interest on the eighty, seventy or sixty per cent., while the rich man who does not labor, is exempt from taxation on money loaned on mortgages, and shifts the burden onto the mortgagee.

While it is true that real estate in Quincy is heavily burdened, and the city will not get so much from its appropriation for streets, water works, sewer extensions, and other public work, yet it is likewise a fact that no additional appropriation will be necessary if an eight-hour day is adopted. Should the act be accepted it will take effect from the date of such acceptance.

Political.

Social Democratic nomination papers for Gustave B. Bates for Mayor and Alexander Russell for Councilman at large have been filed with the City Clerk.

The papers of Arthur W. Newcomb for Councilman from Ward Two have also been filed.

The nomination papers for ward councilmen filed with the Registrars of Voters by the Social Democrats have been sent back, not having the required number of signers who were registered voters.

INSTALLATION.

Rural Lodge of Masons Entertain the Ladies.

The installation of a new master of Rural lodge, F. & A. M., is always an important occasion among Masons of the city and their lady friends. It is an event that happens only biennially and sometimes only once in three years as the lodge invariably gives a master a reelection. These occasions are usually public, but always limited to Masons and their ladies.

The public installation of Thursday evening was attended by about 150 and was a very social event. Aside from the interesting and impressive ceremonies of installation there was excellent music by the Harvard quartette and a supper by Seiler.

WOR. MASTER WHITNEY.

The presentation of a Past Master jewel to the retiring Master, Henry L. Kincaide, was a pleasing incident, and a worthy tribute to a faithful official who has maintained the high standing of the lodge and the fraternity. The jewel is a beautiful thing valued at about $75 and is worn on all Masonic occasions.

The installation ceremonies were performed by Rt. Wor. Charles B. Lawrence, D. D. G. M. of the 24th Masonic district, assisted by Wor. Brother Reynolds of Campello as G. M.

The new officers are:

W. M.,—William H. Whitney.
S. W.,—Frank W. Brett.
J. W.,—Herbert F. Pierce.
Treasurer,—E. W. H. Bass.
Secretary,—W. E. Simmons.
S. D.,—Joseph P. Prout.
J. D.,—Henry W. Gore, Jr.
S. S.,—Hartley L. White.
J. S.,—T. P. Harrison.
Chaplain,—J. F. H. Crathern.
Tyler,—John D. Nutting.

Wor. Brother William H. Whitney, the new master, has worked his way up chair by chair, and has always had a great interest in the work. He was born in Quincy, and was a commissioned officer in the late war with Spain.

Farmers' Ball.

A farmers' ball was held at Faxon hall, Thursday night under the auspices of the good of the order committee of the Sons of Veterans.

The participants were dressed in farmer's costumes, and prizes were awarded for the "best rig." The judges were Mrs. L. C. Hewson, Miss Sadie Smith, Henry Chubbuck, James O'Donovan and Thomas Crane. The prizes were awarded as follows: First ladies', an order for a turkey, to Mrs. George Weston; second ladies' a half barrel of squash, to Mrs. H. R. Holmes; first gentlemen's, a bushel of apples and squash, to Frank H. Stoddard; second, a half barrel of squash to A. S. Gardner.

St. Andrew's Day.

St. Andrew's Day will be observed at Christ church, Sunday evening, Dec. 3, by a special service under the auspices of St. Andrew's Brotherhood of Christ church. The rector will make an address on "Andrew the Man." The festival of St. Andrew is considered the beginning of the Christian year. This date has been Nov. 30, since the fifth century. Advent begins with the Sunday following St. Andrew's Day. Andrew is called the patron saint of Scotland and Russia. Three orders of Knighthood bear the emblem of the St. Andrew's Cross X, the best known being the Scotch Order of the Thistle. For nearly three centuries this cross has been borne on the national flag of Great Britain.

FIFTH CANDIDATE.

A Dark Horse for the Mayoralty.

Rumor Has It He Will Be Trotted Out Today.

Papers Must be Filed Before 5 O'clock This Afternoon.

The unexpected often happens in politics, and one should not be surprised at anything, but a startling rumor reached the Ledger office this afternoon, shortly before this edition went to press, that there was a fifth candidate for Mayor.

Who the individual is, or will be, could not be learned.

At 2 P. M. no nomination paper for a dark horse had been filed with City Clerk Harlow, and the time limit for all such papers expires at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

A nomination paper requires at least 50 signatures of qualified voters, with street and number, and must be approved by the Board of Registrars before it is filed with the City Clerk.

The gentleman who informed the Ledger of the rumor said he did not know it to be a fact, but he had heard it. He understood, he said, that the candidate would be put forth by followers of Mr. Dolliver. The gentleman in question is a Social Democrat, and prominent in that party, but one not likely to start a false rumor.

An effort to reach Mr. A. G. Dolliver, who is chairman of the Republican City Committee, by telephone was unsuccessful, as he was out to lunch.

Mr. E. L. Goodridge, a friend of Mr. Dolliver, knew nothing of such a movement,

John McKnight, Esq., was confident there was nothing in the rumor, and was surprised that any such story should have started.

The Ledger does not believe Mr. Dolliver or his friends are parties to any such nomination. Less than two hours remains in which to have nomination papers approved and filed with the City Clerk, and it is very doubtful if they are presented.

It is also rumored that nomination papers for John F. Lyons as an Independent Democratic candidate for Mayor will not be filed.

Bridge Hearings.

The public hearings of the County Commissioners advertised to be held in Quincy, Saturday, at 10 o'clock, relative to widening out Hancock street to its full width where it crosses the railroad near the Atlantic station, and to authorize the connecting of Warren avenue over the railroad near track near the Wollaston depot will not be of any importance, for the reason that some one at Dedham made an error in issuing the notices for the hearing. That served on the city of Quincy was for Nov. 25, while that served on the railroad was for Dec. 9. The County Commissioners will come to Quincy Saturday, however, and will then adjourn until Dec. 9.

Concert at Atlantic.

Local and out-of-town talent contributed to a pleasing entertainment in Music hall, Atlantic, Thursday evening, under the auspices of Division 17, A. O. H. There was a crowded house. The programme included:

Overture, by Mr. F. O'Connor; reading, by B. A. McLane; musical specialties, by Messrs. Cripps and Murphy; buck and wing dancing, by Mr. John Murray; song, by Mr. C. M. Duggan; violin solo, by D. H. Carr; song, by Miss Mary R. Sullivan; song and dance, by Messrs. Finlay and Donahoe; song by Miss Adelaide Hyde; ventriloquism by Prof. W. A. Coles.

Dr. Everett's Lecture.

The first in the Teachers' course of entertainments at High school hall was held on Thursday evening and a large audience assembled. Dr. Everett was at his best and was so much in sympathy with his subject, "Thomas Moore, the Irish poet," that he held the closest attention of his listeners from beginning to end. His rendering of the poems touched a responsive chord in every heart, and although the doctor claimed not to be an elocutionist or a singer, we doubt if a professional would have pleased the audience and been as heartily applauded.

Officers Downey Gallvan, Mischler and Qualey raided the premises of Ellis B. Lothrop at Braintree, Thursday night, and seized a quantity of whiskey, rum, wine and beer.

Galen Bowditch was kindly remembered by a lady friend on Thursday, his 62d birthday with 62 roses. Others also fowarded tokens. Although flowers may fade Galen continues as fresh as generations ago.

Thirty-five tables were in play at the whist party Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' hall, and a pleasant evening was enjoyed. Prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies—A silver top claret pitcher, to Mrs. E. E. Monroe; picture, to Miss Peters; jewel case, to Mrs. Daw. Gentlemen—Punch bowl, to D. S. Cameron; smoking set, to A. Marnock; half dozen nut picks, to W. S. Wyllie.

Wollaston Lodge, Knights of Honor, at its meeting Monday night, appointed a committee to consult with Grand Dictator Henry A Kidder, in reference to holding a public meeting in the near future. The G. A. Dictator was present and cheered the hearts of the brethren by the information that the new table of rates was doing more than had been anticipated. In the first two months of its operation, the receipts from assessments, exceeded by $85,000 the amount of death claims for the same period.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

What Abutters Must Pay Toward the Sewer.

Cost May Be Apportioned Over Ten Years.

Many in List Must Pay Over $100; Some Much More.

The Ledger continues the publication of the assessments by the city upon the abutters in payment of their half of the cost of sewer construction. The list is not given in alphabetical order, but by streets as the pipes are laid.

The total assessment upon each lot is not given, but the assessment per frontage at the rate of 12 cents per foot, and the assessment per area within 100 feet of the street at the rate of 6 mills per square foot. To obtain the total assessment it is only necessary to add the two together.

In all cases probably the assessment per area is the larger, as the area is supposed, to pay eight-tenths of the assessment, and the frontage the other two tenths. In many cases, notably corner lots, the assessment per frontage is nearly as large as upon the area.

These assessments may be paid in one, two or more instalments up to ten. If paid within three months from date of bill no interest will be collected, but if apportioned over a number of years interest will be added.

It is proposed to continue the publication as space will admit.

Utopian Society.

The November meeting of the Utopian Society of Wollaston was held in the vestry of the First Baptist church on Monday evening. The speaker for the evening was Mr. H. B. Bailey who told of his recent travels in Japan and gave a very interesting account of the country, its people, and their peculiarities. The music was rendered by Miss Eleanor Nelson of Boston in a very pleasing manner and to an appreciative audience. Miss Nelson is an accomplished artist having studied abroad and is now teaching in Boston. Miss Florence Olney was accompanist. The reading by Miss Norton of Boston, was with great credit to herself, as was shown by the response of the audience. The next meeting will be on Dec. 18.

QUINCY DID IT.

They Down the Brocktons in the Polo League.

The Brockton polo team the leaders in the league came to Quincy Thursday night with the intention of winning a game from the Quincys, but they were defeated in as good a game as was ever played in this city. It was a hot game from start to finish. The visitors were much the heavier, but the home team was more active and gave the visitors all they wanted. Brockton's rush, T. Murphy, was successful in securing the ball in every instance, but it apparently gave the visitors but little advantage. The Brocktons showed themselves superior on hard driving but for pretty passing, Quincy easily carried off the honors.

Farrell played an active game and in his excitement frequently left his goal temporarily unguarded, and this in one instance at least lost Quincy a goal. He is a good man for the position, however, although he should stick close to his cage. At no time during the game did J. Murphy leave his cage.

Harkins, Quincys new man, played his first game as second rush and put up a good game. Twe fouls were called on Brockton and two on Quincy.

Another very noticeable foul was made by Brockton within a few minutes of the finish of the last period.

The referee failed to notice it but the gallery boys did not as they plainly showed by their hisses.

Quincy made one goal in the first period, four in the second and one in the last. Brockton made one in the second and two in the last.

The summary:

QUINCY.		BROCKTON.
Purcell,	rush,	T. Murphy
Harkins,	second rush,	Dawson
Devlin,	centre,	Fitzgerald
Generoux,	half back,	Gendreau McGunagal
Farrell,	goal,	J. Murphy

PLYMOUTHS WON.

At East Weymouth Thursday evening the home team was defeated by the Plymouths in rather an unsatisfactory game. Only three goals were scored, but the goal tenders had plenty of chances to turn aside the ball. In the first period neither team scored. In the second the East Weymouths took one, and then the Plymouths captured two which gave them the victory.

THE STANDING.

Two of the teams in the Southeastern league which lead Quincy were defeated Thursday, and the victory of the Quincys puts them up many points. The Plymouths are now tied with Brockton for first place. The standing to date:

	Won.	Lost.	Per ct. won.
Brockton	8	3	.727
Plymouth	8	3	.727
East Weymouth	5	5	.500
Quincy	3	4	.428
Taunton	2	6	.250
Middleboro	2	7	.222

IN THE NETTING.

The East Weymouths are evidently on a tobogan and are fast losing their grip on first place which they held undisputed at the first.

The Quincys did it and Brockton was not only defeated but no longer leads the league.

Previous to the league game at Music hall there was a game between the Braintree and Clossons which was won by the Braintrees, by a score of 6 to 1.

Maynard was released by the East Weymouths after last night's game, because of his foul playing.

The next game in Quincy will be with the Plymouths next Tuesday.

Cow in a Clothes Yard.

It has been often quoted, that a cow at pasture is a picturesque sight but cows unfortunately are apt to frequent other fields than their respective pastures—even clothes-yards.

Tuesday morning the lines of a certain clothes yard on Walker street were heavily laden with white clothes which had just emerged from the foamy suds. Over in a neighboring field a cow grazed on the short ends of grass which had escaped the reaper's scythe. Nearer and nearer the clothes-yard she grazed, and was in the act of verging on the border-line, when out of the house came a woman who is well known for her stateliness and serenity of manner. But circumstances change all things, and out she came bare-headed, shouting, running at all possible speed and armed with a new broom.

The cow in affright, instead of making off, deliberately ran into the yard, and terrified by the wet clothes which balked her speed, ran round and about leaving gloomy, landmarks on the product of the wash-tub. Suddenly she found herself brought to a standstill by a caressing piece of lingerie through which she had thrust her head, and which clung in wet folds around her neck. She wrenched it from the line, and escaped, bearing it triumphantly down the field, to the horror of the pursuer and the amusement of the neighbors.

Important developments are expected at an early date in regard to the recent petitions of Mayor Keith to Railroad Commissioners relative to improvements in railroad train service and facilities.

Cotton Trade Justifies Operatives' Demand For Increase In Wages.

Conclusion Arrived at by Rhode Island Spinners.

Textile Executive Council Will Back Fall River Strike Should One Occur.

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 24.—An important general meeting of the Rhode Island Mule Spinners' association was held at the headquarters in this city last night, the delegates present representing every cotton mill in the Blackstone valley, Pawtucket valley and Warren.

The special order of the evening was the consideration of the wage question, and the reports of delegates from the different sections of the state on the industrial conditions throughout their respective districts were of a natire that made bright the prospects of securing an advance in wages. Consensus of opinion was found to be that during these prosperous times the manufacturers could well afford to increase wages.

The meeting was convinced that the present margin of profit will allow and justify an advance. It was stated that throughout New England the cotton trade was never in a better condition, and the mule spinners accordingly believed that present conditions fully justified their request. By a unanimous vote it was decided to request an increase of 10 percent in wages, the new schedule to go into effect the first Monday in January.

It was stated that this increase would bring wages back to the rates paid in 1897. A conference committee of five was appointed to act, in conjunction with General Secretary James Clift, in the preliminary work of notifying the manufacturers.

The different mill owners will be notified at once of the action taken at last night's meeting, and confidence expressed that the request will in all probability be granted. The work of more fully organizing the spinners in the Pawtuxet valley has been going on during the past months and a mass meeting has been arranged for to be held Saturday afternoon at River Point. It is expected that this move will bring every mill in the Pawtuxet valley into the union. There are about 1000 mule spinners in the various mills of the state, of whom about 700 are already members of the union.

CONFERENCE POSTPONED.

May Be Held This Afternoon, When a Peaceful Arrangement Is Expected.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 24.—There was no conference between the committee from the Manufacturers' association and the Textile council yesterday afternoon for the reason that it was impossible to get all the committee from the Manufacturers' association together. It had been planned to have a meeting of the Textile council last night, if a conference had been held. This meeting was therefore postponed also.

The prevailing impression here among mill men and operatives is that the conference will result in a peaceful settlement of the wage difficulty, or pave the way to another conference, which will have this wished-for ending. This impression is strengthened by the present unprecedented demand for all weaves of cotton at the new higher prices.

The sales yesterday, up to the time of closing, were very large, making a total for the week of over 500,000 pieces of goods contracted for at the quotation of 3 cents for regulars and 4 5-8 cents for wide goods. The contracts run into the new year, up to the month of March, and some goods have been engaged as far into the next year as September. A few mills report having contracted for all their production up to the middle of the summer. These contracts for further delivery would not be made if there were not something stronger than impressions to work upon. The brokers report a heavy demand for all varieties of prints, and say that the mills will have much difficulty in filling the orders taken.

The executive council of the National Federation of Textile Operatives met in this city at the headquarters of the Weavers' association, and promised the Fall River operatives aid in case a strike was finally considered necessary in order to obtain the advance in wages asked for. Delegates from 14 New England cities were present, including New Bedford, Lowell, Lawrence, Dover, Manchester, N. H., Biddeford, Lewiston, Me., Providence, Olneyville, and other manufacturing towns, and finally adopted the following resolutions:

"Realizing, as we do, the prosperous condition of the cloth market, we pledge the moral and financial support of this body in the event of a strike for an advance in wages in Fall River, and realizing that our interests are at stake, as well as those of the operatives of Fall River."

In the event of a strike in this or any other city connected with the national organization, the emergency committee will fix an assessment which will be levied on each of the different unions affiliated with the central body, and paid over to the officials of the unions in the striking mill city for distribution to the operatives.

Wood Leaves Santiago.

Santiago, Nov. 24.—In accordance with an order to report in Washington at the first opportunity, General Wood started for New York today by the transport McPherson. The local papers, commenting upon the trip, which they believe has to do with General Wood's probable appointment as civil governor of the island, express regret at his removal from the department, but say that he will accomplish much more good for the province if transferred to Havana.

THE HOBART FUNERAL.

Paterson Churches of All Denominations Will Hold Spectal Services.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 24.—The arrangements for the funeral of Vice President Hobart are almost completed. Attorney General Griggs will look after the presidential party and the cabinet officers. Colonel Campbell of the First regiment, national guards, has granted to the city the privilege of using the armory for the accommodation of the soldiers from Governor's island, who will act as an escort to the presidential party and at the funeral.

Nearly all of the manufacturers have decided to close their millls this afternoon to give their employes an opportunity to view the remains, which will lie in state at Carroll hall, the home of the Hobart family.

Mr. Hobart before he died selected his pallbearers. It is said that the pallbearers so selected are as follows: Judge J. Franklin Fort of Newark, Franklin Murphy, chairman of the Republican state committee, Newark; E. T. Bell, president of the First National bank of Paterson; Colonel William Barber of Paterson, George Wurts, secretary of state for New Jersey, and Colonel Joseph W. Congdon of Governor Voorhees' staff, and in addition to these will be honorary pallbearers representing the United States senate.

After the services at the house a public service will be held at the Church of the Redeemer, at which Rev. Dr. David Magie, the pastor, will officiate.

It has been arranged to have special services held in Paterson churches of all denominations from 9 until 11, and again between 1 and 2 o'clck the bells will be tlled.

The coffin, of solid English quartered oak, with heavy silver trimmings, arrived in Paterson last night, and the body of the vice president was placed in it this morning. The remains are attired in a Prince Albert suit.

The Citizens' association of Paterson last night appointed a committee to meet the special trains at Jersey City and Newark and notify the guests of the arrangements made for their reception for the funeral. Attorney General Griggs will entertain the presidential party at his home.

Awful Tragedy In Pennsylvania.

Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 24.—The horribly mutilated bodies of a woman and her three children were found last evening at their home on a small farm about a mile from Montgomery. A short time ago a peddler named Hummell married the widow of a farmer, and took up his residence with her on the farm. The widow had three children. For the past week the neighbors passing the farm noticed that there were no signs of habitation. An investigation was made and the bodies of two of the children were found hidden beneath a straw stack. On going into the house the bodies of the mother and the other child were found. Hummell was seen at Montgomery Wednesday, but nothing is known of his whereabouts since that time. The murderer evidently used a club in killing his victim.

Referred to Attorney General.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The civil service commission has adopted the report of the sub-committee to investigate the charges of political assessments preferred against Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, and has decided to refer all the papers in the case to the attorney general. He will determine whether there is sufficient evidence to bring the case before the grand jury at Concord through the United States district attorney there.

France Wants Submarine Boats.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Representatives of the French government have been in the city recently inspecting the Holland boat, and it is announced that negotiations have been entered into between the representatives and the company controlling the submarine torpedo boat for the construction of several vessels of the Holland type, and also for the exclusive use of the patents of the submarine boat for the French government.

Charged With Killing Grandchild.

Salem, N. J., Nov. 24.—Elizabeth Murray was lodged in jail here yesterday to await the action of the grand jury on charges that she is responsible for the death of her 4-year-old grandchild, Blanche Windoe. The child, who was a cripple, died last Friday. The body was exhumed and an examination of it showed that she had been cruelly beaten. Mrs. Murray was then arrested.

Soldier Charged With Murder.

Newport News, Nov. 24.—The discovery of the dead body of a woman in Phoebus yesterday was followed by the arrest of Louis August, an artilleryman at Fort Monroe, who is charged with the murder. The victim, Annie Benedict, a mulatto, was found by a soldier lying nude on her bed. The bedding and floor were spattered with blood. The body was badly mutilated.

Trust Topics Eliminated.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The industrial commission has concluded to send out two special sub-commissions, one into the south and one into the west, during February and March, to inquire into all the lines of questions that the commission is considering, with the exception of the trust topics.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal conditon, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

DR. CODERRE'S — RED PILLS

COUGHING GIRLS

Have you ever heard a poor, weak, sickly girl cough. If so, you pity her, you say she is in consumption, she will not live long; you wonder how the girl can stand up, although she goes to the factory, to the store, to the office. She must work in order to help support her family. Is this not pitiful? But, this girl may not be in consumption. She may suffer from poverty of blood. She may be simply rundown. What she needs is a rest and a remedy that can make blood, give strength and cure. Now, you may not believe us, but we can prove to you that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for these girls act wonderfully. Why should you not believe the truth. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills have cured thousands of such girls, and it is no wonder, for they are specially for women's diseases. In taking them you will not be disappointed as you would be by taking oldfashioned alcoholic remedies. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are the modern medicine, they are the remedy of the day, they are the remedy upon which you can depend. Of course, you have been told this before. If you do not believe us, the following ladies can tell you what we say is true, and they will, undoubtedly be glad to explain to anyone how good this remedy is:

Miss Ethel Foster, 203 Third Street, Detroit, Mich., writes: "I took Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for general debility and nervousness. I was always tired and weak, and had terrible pains between the shoulders. I coughed terribly. I was warm at times and cold at times. A friend told me to take Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. I am glad I followed her advice, for, I am to-day altogether cured and I recommend this remedy to all young ladies."

Miss Katie Bell Gould, Corunna, Mich., writes: "I was sick at my stomach, I could not eat anything; my liver was inactive. I had palpitation of the heart. I was very nervous. I lost my voice. Last October I had to stop working I had such a terrible backache and headache all the time. It is your Dr. Coderre's Red Pills alone that have cured me. I am entirely cured to-day and I will never be without this remedy in my house in case I might ever need it."

Miss Sarah Audet, 41 Chesnut Street, Manchester, N. H., writes: "I was pale, weak and all rundown. The pains I had each month were awful. I had backaches and most severe headaches. I was so weak that I could hardly walk up stairs. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills have cured me of all these symptoms and I can do my work without any fatigue."

Miss Bridget Moran, 32 Gilmour Street, Providence, R. I., writes: "I suffered from womb trouble for several years. I have tried several doctors, but they could not help me. I had terrible bearing down pains, and my back ached terribly. I had no appetite and felt very miserable all the time. I have taken Dr. Coderre's Red Pills and I am cured. I will never be without this remedy again."

You will never know a better remedy than Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. The reason they are so good is because they are made for women's diseases only. They will not cure everything. Young and old women can take them. They are not intended for any bad purpose.

We ask every woman who has been sick for years and whose doctors have been unable to cure her to write a full description of her sickness to our Doctor Specialists, or to come and see them at their offices. Their consultations by mail or at the office are absolutely free. They treat women's diseases only. Their success in curing women is enormous. Send us your address on a postal card and we will mail you absolutely free, our Doctor's book, Pale and Weak Women. We advise every woman who is constipated to use Dr. Coderre's Purgative Tablets together with the Red Pills if they wish to be cured quickly, as the Red Pills are not purgative. The Tablets sell at 25c. a box. Read carefully the directions given by our Doctors, around each box of Pills and follow them carefully.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are sold by all first-class druggists at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. We mail them all over the world upon receipt of price. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred pills, or at 25c. a box, for they are not ours; they are imitations. In the interest of your health do not be imposed upon.

Howland Society.

A large number of ladies and gentlemen, descendants of Pilgrim John Howland, assembled Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 22, at the Parker House, Boston, to organize the society.

Mr. Henry N. Fairbanks of Bangor, Me., was chosen chairman. The preliminary meeting to organize the society was held at Plymouth, May, 18, 1897. After reading the minutes of that meeting, constitution and by-laws were adopted and the following were elected as officers to serve for two years:

President,—Charles A. Howland, Quincy.

Vice President, — Hon. Henry E. Howland, New York.

Treasurer,—Delcevare King, Quincy.

Secretary, Mrs. Nelson V. Titus Atlantic.

Historian, Richard H. Greene, New York.

Executive Committee, Henry E. Howland, Buffalo, N. Y.; John C. Foote, Belvidere, Ill.; George H. Leonard, Boston; Edwin S. Crandon, Boston; and Mrs. S. W. Stevens Lowell.

After the business meeting Mr. Arthur Lord presented the plans for the pulpit and chancel furniture of the new Pilgrim church at Plymouth which is to be the gift of the descendants of John Howland; the plans being approved. Mr. Lord gave an interesting description of the new church, which it is hoped will be dedicated Dec. 21.

Much interest was taken in the preservation of the "Howland House" at Plymouth, and a committee was chosen to consider the plans for its purchase. Letters have been received from many ladies and gentlemen all over the country, who wish to join a family society, but do not care to join the societies of Mayflower Descendants already organized.

The constitution of the new society sets forth its object as follows:

"Article II — The objects of this society shall be to perpetuate the memory of our ancestors John Howland and his wife, Elizabeth Tilley, who, braving the perils of the deep, were among that little band of Pilgrims, who landed from the ship "Mayflower" on Plymouth Rock, Dec. 21, 1620; to preserve and publish any manuscripts relating to the families of John Howland and his wife; to erect and keep in good repair a memorial to their memory in the Pilgrim church at Plymouth; to assist in prosecuting research in England and Holland to discover their ancestors; to preserve and if possible to secure possession of the "Howland House" at Plymouth, and to endeavor to acquire a better knowledge of the causes that led them to emigrate to the new world."

It is the purpose of the society to work in harmony with any Societies of Mayflower Descendants already organized, but to confine its work to the history of the families of John Howland and Elizabeth Tilley.

All pedigree papers will be submitted to an expert genealogist and the qualifications for admission will be the same as required in all Societies of Mayflower Descendants.

Application based upon family tradition will not be considered.

Already over 200 persons have signified their desire to join the society, and a large number have already sent contributions to the pulpit. It is proposed to have the names of the donors placed upon parchment within the pulpit that the same may be forever preserved, with a simple bronze tablet upon the base, stating by whom it was presented.

Each member of the Howland family is asked to contribute to the fund for the pulpit in order that it may be ready when the church is dedicated on Dec. 21, if possible.

Any information about the society may be obtained by addressing the secretary, Mrs. Nelson V. Titus, P. O. Box 425, Atlantic, Mass.

Bridge Hearing.

Capt. Wadsworth, one of the County Commissioners, was at the Probate Court this morning in the matter of the petitions for widening the bridge over Hancock street, at Atlantic, and also extending Warren avenue by bridge over the railroad tracks in Wollaston.

The Mayor and City Solicitor were also present and were informed by the Commissioner that owing to a mistake made by the officer who was employed and directed by the County Commissioners in serving the notice upon the railroad of the hearing, no hearing could take place and that the matter would have to go over and new notices be issued by the County Commissioners.

This will postpone any action on these matters until December.

WEIGHT vs SPEED.

First and Second Elevens of High School Evenly Matched.

It was a very interesting game of foot ball at Merrymount park yesterday when the first and second elevens of the High school met, because of the good feeling between all the players and the absence of disputes. The young ladies of the school were present in large numbers and took sides with the different elevens.

The first eleven is supposed to defend the school colors, blue and red, but the second eleven had adopted blue and black and they had many supporters.

It was a contest of weight against speed, the first eleven having the predominance of the weight, while the second eleven were the swifter. The elevens were very evenly matched, each side making one touchdown, but as the first eleven successfully kicked a goal, they won 6—5.

For the first eleven Keyes rushed the ends and broke through the line for gains, Leavitt broke through and blocked a drop kick while C. Lewis and Vendret prevented many long runs by their tackling Pitts at centre played his usually good game. The touch was by Snow and the goal by Keyes.

For the second eleven, full back Tupper made repeated gains through both guards, while his punting was a great feature of the game. Hardwick made several brilliant tackles and rushed for long gains around the ends. The whole line deserves great credit for the way they sustained the repeated assaults of the heavier team, especially Cobb, the centre. The touchdown was made by D. Murphy.

SWITZERLAND

Travellers in that Country Tell of History and Sights.

The 89th regular meeing of the Unity club was held at the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church last evening. A large audience was in attendance. Dr. W. G. Curtis had charge of the literary part of the programme and Mrs. William E. Rowe the musical.

The evening was devoted to the further study of Switzerland. Out of the four speakers three had made long sojourns in that country, varying from several weeks to a number of years. This naturally made the evening unusually interesting.

Miss Ernestine Litchfield read an interesting paper on the "early history of Helvetia"; Mrs. Blanche P. Bagley spoke on St. Gall and the Rhine and Rhone valleys; Mrs. W. G. Corthell on Bern; and Dr. Horace Willard on "Engineering in Switzerland." In addition to the literary programme Mrs. Albert R. Moulton and Miss Munroe played a piano duet; Mr. George H. Critchley a cornet solo; and Miss Isaacs sang two vocal solos. Mrs Alma Faunce Smith was the accompanist.

FIVE HUNDRED KILLED.

One Correspondent's Estimate of Losses of Boers at Belmont.

Marvelous Courage and Pluck Shown on Both Sides.

Boers Said to Believe That Conflict Arose From Misunderstandings.

London, Nov. 25.—The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from Belmont, describing the battle: The Boers held a position which British troops would hold against almost any force. The British victory is complete. My estimate of the Boer losses is 500 killed and 150 wounded. Mr. Knight, correspondent of the London Morning Post, was wounded. The Boer prisoners are ignorant, dirty and wretched. They say that half their commando, tired of the war, will refuse further service. The whole force of the fearful fight was borne by the infantry, who were obliged to climb 500 feet, straight into a terrific stream of missiles. The Ninth lancers pursued the enemy with great vigor, but the Boers, well mounted and familiar with the hills, melted before them. Possibly, however, our victory would have been more decisive had we possessed more cavalry.

Thus far the special dispatches describing the battle of Belmont bear a stereotyped character, proving that the hand of the censor has been at work upon them. They are too incoherent to enable the reader to form an accurate idea of the event or to place a proper estimate upon the value of the victory. All the accounts agree respecting the splendid fighting qualities exhibited on both sides.

Nothing could have exceeded the steady courage and pluck of the British infantry in the face of a terrific fire; while the Boer guns were splendidly served, the gunners standing to them with dogged determination, exposing themselves until the very last minute, and only becoming wild and inaccurate in their aim during the final deadly charge of the British infantry.

All admit, however, that the victory could not be properly followed up and utilized, owing to the want of sufficient cavalry. The pursuit of the defeated enemy by the Fifth lancers was evidently not very effective, and, curiously enough, while all the correspondents report the capture of Boer guns, Lord Methuen's own report omits any mention of such an achievement.

One statement says: "The remnant of the Boer army sought to escape toward the Orange Free State territory." As all the evidence tends to show that the enemy's retirement was orderly, he will doubtless soon be heard of elsewhere."

The correspondent of The Times at Belmont says: "After the battle the laager was burned and the ammunition destroyed. Cavalry and mounted infantry on both flanks pursued the enemy, but were unable to overtake the retreating Boers, who got away with their transport. The Boer rout was complete, and their losses are believed to equal ours. They used some dum-dum bullets. Everything was in their favr. It is rumored that there have been some threats to assassinate recalcitrant burghers, who are tired of the war and deserting."

On the whole it almost seems safe to assume that the Boer guns were not captured. The striking proof afforded of the excellent material General Methuen has in his brigades is, however, a matter of great satisfaction in London. There is an unconfirmed rumor that the correspondence seized in the Boer camp contains evidence of treasonable communications between the Boers and the Dutch colonists.

General White's dispatch of Wednesday effectually disposes of all rumors of another sortie from Ladysmith, and of the defeat of the Boers. The situation in Natal remains unchanged.

The sortie from Estcourt to Willow Grange has effected little.

The position at Mafeking is beginning to be regarded with anxiety, in view of the impossibility of Lord Methuen's being able to relieve the town for some time to come.

Throngs of people were waiting at the war office last evening until a late hour for a list of those killed, wounded or missing in the battle of Belmont, but nothing was published in addition to General Methuen's first dispatch.

General Buller's destination is kept a strict secret at Cape Town, some reports saying that he has gone north, and others that he has gone to Durban, as already cabled.

A dispatch to The Times from Mooi river gives the British casualties in the Willow Grange affair as three killed and 44 wounded.

The Pietermaritzburg correspondent of The Daily Mail, describing the same sortie, says: "The British surprised the Boers, carried their position, captured all their equipment and returned to Estcourt in safety. General Hildyard was very well satisfied with their work."

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Naauw Poort says: An open, unsigned letter, smuggled through from Colesberg, says Commandant Grobbler has arrested 10 prominent Englishmen, and threatens to shoot them if any harm is done to Van Rensburg, ringleader of the Colesberg rebels, who was captured by the British and is to be tried for treason.

Through the courtesy of the Transvaal authorities the correspondent of the Associated Press at Pretoria, in the company of Mr. Grobler, under secretary for foreign affairs, and Mr. De Souze, secretary of the war department, was enabled to visit Winston Churchill yesterday at the model school, where he is confined with the captured officers. Beyond a slight bullet wound in the right hand he looked well and hearty. In the course of the interview, Mr. Churchill said: "The Boers have treated us with much kindness. This was the case from the outset. We were marched to Colenso, proceeding the next morning to the Boer camp near Ladysmith and then going by rail to Modder Spruit, finally arriving here on Nov. 18. On the journey great numbers of burghers crowded to see us; but there was only one who made insulting remarks, the others courteously offering us cigarets or showing such marks of attention."

Mr. Churchill said the confinement in the model school was close and severe, but under all the conditions he had no grounds to complain. When asked regarding his general impressions, he said he had many discussions with the Boers as to the rights of war and had been much impressed by the number who could speak English. He had found that most of them regretted the conflict, asserting that it had arisen as the result of misrepresentations. So far as he could learn, however, the spirit of the burghers in the field, despite their privations, was most determined, and there was no chance of an early peace. "I fear," said Mr. Churchill, "that the struggle will be bloody and protracted."

Consul Macrom's Instructions.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Mr. Macrum, the United States consul at Pretoria, has been instructed by cable to impress upon President Kruger that in the view of this government the usages of all civilized nations sanction the ministration of a neutral representative in the interest of the citizens and captives of one of the parties to a war, and he must further insist upon performing the sacred duties imposed by all considerations of humanity. This is practically an announcement of the insistence of our government upon the execution of the trust it assumed to look after the interests of British citizens in the South African republic.

Juror Number Seven.

New York, Nov. 25.—The trial of Roland B. Molineux still drags its slow length along before Recorder Goff. The ninth day of the trial was singularly devoid of interest, both sessions of the court being occupied with the usual weary grind of the examination of talesmen. One more juror was secured late in the day, however. He is James Hynes, an undertaker, an old soldier. Seven of the requisite 12 jurors are now in the jury box.

Friday's Hangings.

Darlington, S. C., Nov. 25.—Ed Lucky and Tom Mitchell were hanged here yesterday for assault on Josephine Lafferty, a young white woman. This was the first instance of legal execution in this state for criminal assault.

EXCITING AND PATHETIC SCENES

When the Public Was Permitted to Gaze Upon the Face of Mr. Hobart.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 25.—The funeral services at the house of the late Mr. Hobart this afternoon are intended for the family, the president and his cabinet, members of the senate and house of representatives of the United States and intimate personal friends of the family. They will begin at 2 p. m., and will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Magie, who also will deliver an address and prayer at the church services.

The scenes at Carroll Hall yesterday afternoon, when the remains of Vice President Hobart were lying in state and the public was given an opportunity to view them, were exciting and pathetic. Long before 2 o'clock, the time announced for the opening of the doors of the Hobart home to the public, the crowd began to assemble, and when the first rush toward the main entrance began fully 5000 persons were crowded into Ellison and Carroll streets. Lines were formed by a squad of police, but the force was entirely too small to maintain any semblance of order. Women were largely in the majority. They included all classes—from those in the Hobart social class to the street beggar—and all were given the same opportunity to take a last look at the face of one they had learned to esteem. The first person to see the remains after they had been removed from the room where Vice President Hobart died to the library was Attorney General Griggs.

As the throngs filed into the hall leading to the library the excitement increased. Women fainted on the porch, and at one time half a dozen lay insensible on the lawn. They were revived, and all, with the assistance of friends, were able to go home. This kind of excitement was not confined to the outside. At the coffin there was a fainting scene. A woman, about 29 years old, after gazing on the face of the dead vice president, stood at the coffin as though transfixed. Then she screamed and fell forward into the arms of a policeman.

It was estimated that fully 12,000 persons saw the remains during the four hours they were exposed to view. Thousands more would have seen them if the time had permitted, but the doors of Carroll Hall were closed promptly at 6 o'clock.

It was remarked by those who had known the vice president that the face had lost its pleasant roundness, and was very thin, showing that he had suffered much. His neck had also thinned considerably, and his hair and moustache were gray. He was sadly changed from the day he was sworn into the office of vice president of the United States, but there was a peaceful expression, as though he had dropped to sleep.

Light Fine on Sheriff.

Indianapolis, Nov. 25.—The federal jury in the Tyler or Scottsburg case, which retired Wednesday, returned a verdict yesterday, finding for the plaintiff and giving a judgment of $5 against the sheriff of Scott county. The plaintiff in the case was John J. Tyler, father of Marion Tyler, lynched at Scottsburg several months ago. Tyler attempted to murder his wife, but she recovered.

POLICE LOOKING FOR MILLER.

Head of the Wonderful Franklin Syndicate Is Missing From Brooklyn.

New York, Nov. 25.—William F. Miller, head of the Franklin syndicate, which has accepted the deposits of thousands of persons in Brooklyn, under promise of paying dividends of 10 percent a week, or 520 percent per annum, and Cecil Leslie, his secretary, were indited by the Kings county grand jury yesterday afternoon. Bench warrants were issued for the arrest of these two men, but neither has been found, the police saying that they had disappeared in the afternoon.

Miller, who is very young and insignificant looking, possesses two positive characteristics, personal magnetism and frozen calmness. During the last two or three days, when his every movement has been watched by detectives and reporters, when crowds of depositors flocked to his establishment, he never lost his quiet ways or became angry.

Last night the police raided the premises occupied by the Franklin syndicate on Floyd street, Brooklyn. Inspector Brennan arrested Louis Miller, brother of the head of the syndicate, and the cashier of the concern, and took possession of $15,000 in cash. There were 40 employes at work in the offices, and these were allowed to go.

The charge upon which Miller was indicted was that of conspiring to defraud. The district attorney's office in Brooklyn has been at work on the case for some weeks.

Miller had been engaged for the past two years or so in offering his glittering inducements to the people to invest their money for him to make use of, but it has been only within the last month that by extensive advertising he managed to attract to his office daily hundreds of people who gathered in a long line and fought with each other for the opportunity to hand out their savings. Even when the place was raided last night a number of those around the office were waiting to deposit money with the Franklin syndicate.

No syndicate has ever attempted to pay any such wonderful rates of interest as the Franklin syndicate. The very fact that the newspapers and financial circles began to make investigations aroused the public interest to such an extent, and at the same time in some quarters the public cupidity, that, it is said, within the last week Miller has received deposits of hundreds of people, aggregating a daily amount of from $30,000 to $40,000. It is easy to see how, under these circumstances, the Franklin syndicate could pay out 10 percent of this amount a week and still make money.

On Tuesday of this week, just before charges of libel were preferred against Miller, he is said to have taken in $86,000 and paid out $31,000. The confidential representative of one of the banks who visited Miller's office about this time said that he never saw so much money scattered around loose in his life. He said that it reminded one of tales of Monte Christo and Monte Carlo combined, but that as an absolute fact Miller did not have facilities for taking care of all the gold and greenbacks which poured in upon him, and empty barrels were brought up from the basement of the building in which he operated, and tens of thousands of dollars were dumped into these barrels by Miller's employes. One of Miller's trusted employes stated that the Franklin syndicate had taken in over $4,000,000.

The Dahlgren Accepted.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The navy department has accepted, preliminarily, the torpedo boat Dahlgren, built by the Bath Iron Works, upon the report of the naval inspection board that the boat made 30.007 knots per hour, and was sound and strong in every particular. While this boat was of the 30-knot class, the builders voluntarily undertook to make half a knot better, but falling slightly below the maximum they have suffered a deduction from the full contract price.

Held For Father's Death.

Boston, Nov. 25.—Timothy and Cornelius Casey are detained by the police pending an investigation as to the cause of the death of their father, Timothy Casey, 65 years old, of 146 Medford street, Charlestown, which occurred yesterday. It is alleged that last Saturday night there was a quarrel at his house and that a lighted lamp was thrown at the father. He was badly burned, and it is thought by the police that his death was the result of his injuries.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of the Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is beween organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

FIVE PER CENT RAISE

Will Be Made In the Wages of Textile Operatives of Fall River.

Question of Sliding Scale Will Be Taken Up Later.

Long Agitation May Now Be Considered as Definitely Settled.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 25.—The representatives of the Fall River Manufacturers' association and the Textile council, at a conference yesterday afternoon, agreed that an advance in wages should go into effect on Dec. 11. Tha advance will amount to 5 percent, and will affect 28,000 hands.

The agreement will undoubtedly be ratified by the unions, thereby doing away with the necessity of a strike.

It is also expected the advance will be followed by many of the cotton mills throughout New England.

Both parties agree to take up in good fait the consideration of a sliding scale of wages, which must be agreed to within a reasonable time. The operatives and manufacturers hope by means of this scale to place the industrial conditions on such a firm footing as to guarantee steady employment to labor at fair wages, and reasonable assurance to manufacturers that they may enter into contracts for a period of at least six months, without fearing a strike or any similar labor disturbance. Provision is also made for a settlement in conference of any question which may arise on either side.

Every cotton manufacturing city in the United States will be interested in the outcome of this conference, as the rate of wages paid in Fall River is used as the basis for figuring that of the operatives in these cities. It is very likely that the Manufacturers' association and the various labor organizations will ratify the agreement entered into by their representatives, and that the agitation which has been going on for over a month may now be considered as definitely settled.

The session opened at 2:30 and closed at 5:30 p. m. The following written agreement was entered into, binding the leaders of the labor and manufacturers' organizations to recommend to their respective bodies the following proposition:

"It is agreed to recommend to our respective organizations an advance in wages of 5 percent, to go into effect Dec. 11, 1899. No change in wages is to be made thereafter before July 1, 1900, and the sliding scale shall be immediately taken up and settled within 60 days previous to July 1, 1900."

This document bears the signatures of all present.

The first difference between this offer tnd the one made by the manufacturers at the previous meeting lies in that the offered raise of 5 percent will go into effect Dec. 11, instead of Jan. 1, 1900, as offered at the previous conference. The second difference is that the previous offer made the immediate adoption of the sliding scale one of the conditions upon which the raise would be granted, while Friday's agreement leaves the sliding scale to be taken up in good faith at convenience, but to be decided by May 1.

This agreement is looking strongly toward a settlement, though, until the several organizations pass upon the matter, nothing final will be arranged.

The meeting was a spirited one. The members of the Textile council went into the meeting with a straight demand for a 10 percent raise. This was met by an absolute refusal on the part of the manufacturers. The latter went so far as to declare themselves as willing to take chances of a strike first. The mill men directed attention to the 12 percent raise granted last April, when hardly warranted, they claimed, but given because of the outlook. The present good market conditions was the basis in prospective of the grant then made.

The manufacturers then made a proposition to advance wages 5 percent, to go into effect Jan. 1, unconditionally and without the sliding scale. The council delegates made a counter offer to accept 5 percent Dec. 11, together with an arrangement for a sliding scale. It was further asked that the period of revision of the perpetual sliding scale should be April and October, instead of January and July. This would make a further increase possible three months earlier in the coming year. The latter suggestion was objected to by the mill men.

The council members then suggested that a 5 percent advance on Dec. 11 would be considered, if the matter of the sliding scale were left over to be considered afterwards. They then retired for separate conferences. Upon reassembling the manufacturers made the proposition given above, and both sides agreed to it.

At a meeting of the Textile council last night, which lasted two hours, the report of the committee of five in consultation with the manufacturers was accepted with a vote of thanks. A motion was carried, with but one dissenting vote, to recommend to the respective labor unions the advisability of accepting the manufacturers' offer. It was voted to recommend to the unions to meet simultaneously next Friday night and take action. If the offer is accepted the wage question will be settled, while if a different action is taken further conferences will be necessary. The council adjourned subject to a call of the president.

The yearly dividend list will show that the Fall River mills have cleared a net dividend for the year of 6 percent in the average. Many mills have paid as high as 14 and 16 percent, and all have had a very profitable year. For the past 10 years the mills here have made a dividend averaging a trifle higher than 6 percent, and have either reduced their indebtedness in whole or in part or added large amounts to their surplus funds.

The Sailor and the Figurehead.

Old sailors sigh as they wander around the water front these days and note the disappearance of the famous old figurehead, which used to be the delight of every clipper ship's crew. They were huge wooden images of almost everything imaginable, but the female form predominated. Many figureheads were to represent the fair one after whom the ship was named, and there is an old sea yarn about a sailor who fell in love with the handsome wooden female which adorned his ship. He used to slip down the "dolphin striker" and hang on there, while the ship bowed and lurched, talking love to the figurehead. Finally, according to forecastle tradition, the figure sneezed, and the sailor, who was known as "Lovely Mike," because he was the ugliest man that ever set foot on a ship's deck, nearly fell into the sea. He recovered his senses and said, "Did you speak?"

"No, I didn't speak," returned the figure. "I just sneezed to attract your attention. You're known as 'Lovely Mike,' ain't you? You're a married man, ain't you? And your wife has to take in washing both when you're at home and when you're away, because she can never get a cent out of you. Mr. Farmer, just climb back to the forecastle and don't bother any more about me."

This rather curt interview is alleged to have worked a marked change in Mike, and when he got home he astonished his wife by giving her a couple of dollars.—Baltimore News.

Fish Poisoning.

In the United States fish poisoning is most frequently due to decomposition in canned fish. The most prominent symptoms are nausea, vomiting and purging. Sometimes there is a scarlatinous rash, which may cover the whole body. The writer has studied two outbreaks of this kind of fish poisoning. In both instances canned salmon was the cause of the trouble. Although a discussion of the treatment of food poisoning is foreign to this paper, the writer must call attention to the danger in the administration of opiates in cases of poisoning with canned fish.

Vomiting and purging are efforts on the part of nature to remove the poison and should be assisted by the stomach tube and by irrigation of the colon. In one of the cases seen by the writer large doses of morphine had been administered in order to check the vomiting and purging and to relieve the pain. In this case death resulted. The danger of arresting the elimination of the poison in all cases of food poisoning cannot be too emphatically condemned.—Victor C. Vaughan in Popular Science Monthly.

About Capers.

"About 8,000 kegs and barrels of capers, a small, sour berry resembling in color and shape a green pea, are annually imported into the United States from Spain and France," said a wholesale dealer in all sorts of foreign condiments in New York to the writer recently. "Capers grow on a bush, and are extensively used by all classes of cooks in this country for garnishing salads and making a sauce which is usually served with boiled mutton and other meats. There are four sizes of capers. The smallest are commercially known as nonpareils and the three other sizes are called capucines, capotes and surfines. The smallest capers are the most desirable and bring the most money. Very few capers are imported in glass. They are shipped to America in kegs and barrels, holding from 15 to 40 gallons of the berries in brine or vinegar. The work of bottling the capers is done by the wholesale dealers."—Washington Star.

Bridegroom's Fatal Indiscretion.

A queer case of cannibalism is reported as having recently taken place in the Solomon islands. The Jeannette took from Noumea a Kanaka who had acted as orderly to the immigration office there and was on his honeymoon with his wife, intending to land at Aoba, where his wife's tribe lives. He, however, made the mistake of disembarking among the wrong tribe and was at once seized by the natives, overpowered, killed and eaten.

The widow was provided by the tribe with a second husband.—London Mail.

Mr. Pneer—You expect to be in San Francisco next week? By the way, you know where my aunt out there lives. I have just written a letter to her. Would you mind delivering it some day as you pass the house?

Mr. Pneer's Friend—No; but I might forget it. I think I'll just put a stamp on it and drop it into the first letter box.

Mr. Pneer—All right. I don't care how you get it to her.—Chicago Tribune.

The Great Debate.

When the uncertainty had become well nigh intolerable, Science ventured to go to the Serpent directly.

"Is it or is it not a fact, O Serpent," asked Science, "that you swallow your young when you are attacked?"

"Well, I always try to hold my own," replied the Serpent modestly, it is true, but evasively withal.

And so the bitter controversy wages on.—Detroit Journal.

America's Position Among Nations.

An English traveler who has recently been in this country remarks, in making a comparison between the principal great nations of the world, that "holy Russia is a formidable idea, Great Britain is a picturesque and pregnant idea, but the United States is a self conscious, clearly defined and heroically vindicated idea, in whose further vindication the whole world is concerned."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 26—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Our return for the Lord's benefits.—Ps. cxvi, 12-19. (A thanksgiving meeting.)

This psalm was written by one who had been nigh to death, but God had saved his life. "The cords of death compassed me, and the pains of the unseen world got hold upon me. * * * Then called I upon the name of the Lord. * * * I was brought low, and He healed me." Having been saved from death, he ponders the question, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" This psalm may teach us that—

1. Thanksgiving should be rendered unto the Lord. This sick man realized the fact that it was the Lord who had healed him and spared his life, and his desire was to return thanks unto the Lord. So we should recognize the fact that all blessings come from God; that "every good and perfect gift cometh from above." Realizing this fact, it will be an easy matter to realize further the obligation to render God thanks for His blessings.

2. Thanksgiving should be rendered unto God for all His benefits. All blessings come from God. For some we thank Him, for many we do not. If saved from death, we would probably cry out, "What can I render unto the Lord?" But how often we forget to thank Him for the numberless blessings that we hourly and daily enjoy, that we have come to look upon so much as a matter of course that we forget to see God's hand in them and fail to thank Him. All blessings come from God. He sends the rain upon the just and unjust. He clothes us and feeds us. He opens up opportunities in life and advances us. He showers down upon us national, family, ecclesiastical and personal blessings, and we should repay God for all His benefits.

3. Thanksgiving should be rendered (1) by receiving from God the blessings which He wishes us to have. "I will take the cup of salvation." This may allude to the "cup of blessing" at the paschal meal. To take from God may seem a peculiar way to thank Him for what we have already received, and yet nothing is more pleasing to God. God wants to give us great spiritual blessings in Christ—a cup of salvation indeed. To take God at His word, accept His offered blessings, thereby expressing confidence and trust in God, is very pleasing and acceptable to Him. (2) By fulfilling all the duties and obligations we owe to God in public and in private. "I will pay my vows unto the Lord now in the presence of all His people." Living thanks are the kind of thanks that God wants above all others. They are the ones that rise as a sweet incense to God and commend us to Him. Let us strive more and more to make our lives constant songs of thanksgiving unto the Lord for all His benefits.

Bible Readings.—Ps. xxxiv, 1-8; l, 14, 15; lxviii, 19; c, 1-5; ciii, 1-5; cvii, 1-16; cxxx, 1-9; Mark v, 18-21; Acts ii, 44-47; iii, 1-10; II Cor. ix, 8-11; Phil. iv, 1-6; Col. ii, 6, 7; iv, 2; Rev. vii, 11, 12.

The Church's Responsibility.

Educational reform has been begun in the islands, and more has been done for public instruction than Spain accomplished in three centuries. Schools are springing up like magic, and greater provision is being made with half the taxation than ever before. But the Christian public thus far has principally occupied itself with reconnoissance and reports. The past year should have been one of instant occupation of strategic points, with the purchase of suitable properties, the organization of congregations and the beginnings of Christian instruction all over the islands. With deep regret we must feel that this need has not been met. If the Domestic and Foreign Missionary society had had at its command during the past year $1,000,000 and had used it all in laying broad and deep the foundation of work in Cuba and Porto Rico, the expenditure would have been none too great. The various missionary societies have all done their best with the means at their disposal, but unless the church during the next year shall rise more completely to this call a great opportunity will have been lost. More can be done in a day in the present time of transition than can be accomplished by a year of labor a decade hence.—Churchman.

The Power of Prayer.

Few people, even among our better Christians, understand or appreciate the value or the power of prayer. They read and hear the unlimited and positive promises of God, but do not half believe Him. They think it well to pray, but do not see how God needs to be told what we want or how our entreaties can alter His purposes or how His sublime majesty can give attention to the multitudinous cries of men all over the earth. They cannot understand it, and so have no confidence in it.—Lutheran.

The Divine Model.

In that short sentence, "Follow Me," Christ gives us the essence of Christianity, for Christianity is not a mere theory. It is a practice. It is not a mere science. It is an art, and every man who is a Christian in reality and not merely in name is an artist, with Christ as his model, and is striving to reproduce in himself, in some degree at least, an image of this great masterpiece.—Catholic Universe.

For Self and One.

For self thus would I pray:
To be not cast where one must go
Down e'en one step to find me;
To be not lifted where my woe
As cords of vainness bind me!
From lowly depths, from exaltation,
I would ask of God salvation!

For one beside I'd ask:
That one be lifted not so high
That scorn alone comes down;
That one be set not low, where I
Must stoop to claim my own!
From lowly depths, exalted pride,
I'd ask our God to be our guide!

Good Afternoon.

It would be quite the proper thing for the Mayor of our city to extend a welcome to the distinguished guests from Ireland but many were surprised to learn that Mayor Keith should preside at the reception given last night. During the year he has repeatedly refused invitation where he was wanted to a say a few words in behalf of the city, and he could not be induced to speak a word of welcome to Co. K on its return from the Spanish war. All local societies feel honored by the presence of the chief executive of the city at their social fuctions, but it is rather late in the year for the Mayor of 1899 to realize it.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ "License will bring money into the city treasury." Who pays the money? The rich man? No, the man who can least afford it. Money that comes thus to the treasury is wrung from the comforts and even from the bare living of wives and children. Does any honest man want public improvement secured by such means? —Fitchburg Sentinel.

☞ The German press do not seem to have the same interest in Great Britian that is shown by the emperor on his visit; but then it is a family matter with the kaiser and may not have any political significance whatever. William has shown a disposition to run counter to English opinion at times, and may be trusted to do so again whenever he thinks it for his political interest to take such a stand.—Brockton Times.

☞ Conditions make all the difference in the world, and intensify the application of the famous couplet that "Worth makes the man, and want of it the fellow." Gen. Funston looked out of the car window at a small town in western Kansas and saw a seething mass of humanity at the depot to do him honor. Turning to his wife, he said: "Two years ago I lectured to an audience of seven in this town." He was the fellow then, because he was hunting for what the world calls worth; he is the man now, because he has found it. That's all.—Milford Journal.

☞ There is no excuse for a paid school board in an American city. Such a board can only be given work enough to occupy it by stripping the superintendent, the supervisors, the principals, and the business officers of the school system of their just powers and responsibilities. The ideal member of a school board is the representative professional man or man of affairs who understands and reflects public sentiment, who is accustomed to act promptly on matters of large concern and with a broad outlook, and who will bring to problems of school policy and to the consideration of the recommendations of the professional officers of the board a mature, well balanced judgment and an unbiased care for the highest public interest. Such men will not serve for pay, nor will they—nor should they—give all their time to the business of the schools.—Dr. Nichols Murray Potter of Columbia College.

A RETRACTION.

The Quincy Advertiser With-Draws Its Comments.

"The Advertiser in its issue of November 17th inst. published an editorial, headed "Me Too's Boomerang," in which it referred to the Ward One caucus of the Republican party and to the fact that a lavender colored ballot was used at that caucus in the interest of certain parties who desired to be nominated as Republican candidates for the Council in that ward, and in another column of that issue it commented upon the Republican caucus held on the 15th inst., and made certain references to the candidacy of Frank F. Prescott.

"Mr. Prescott as is well known to the Advertiser readers, is a member of the firm of George W. Prescott & Son, publishers and printers of this city, and also the city editor of the Quincy Daily Ledger.

"Mr. Prescott has informed the Advertiser that certain expressions used in said editorial and in said news article have aggrieved him, and as he claims placed him in an erroneous and unfair position before the public, and has requested us to withdraw any comment contained in either of said articles that reflect upon him personally in an improper manner.

"The Advertiser most cheerfully yields to his request and wishes it clearly understood that it does not wish in any way to impair Mr. Prescott's good standing or good name in the community. Although Mr. Prescott is one of our competitors we would not knowingly permit any article in this paper to treat him unfairly. We desire to live in peace and harmony with our competitors and the world at large.

"The basic facts leading to said article are as follows:

"Mr. Prescott was on the evening of the 15th inst. a candidate for the Republican nomination as councilman in Ward 1. The lavender colored ballots referred to were printed in the office of his firm. His name and the names of Messrs. Packard and Kittredge who were also candidates that evening appeared on said ballot with a black cross opposite each name and they were so marked when they left the printing house of George W. Prescott & Son.

"These ballots were distributed in Ward 1 and Mr. Prescott was at the voting place in that ward during that evening and we were not aware that he made any effort to suppress their distribution before the caucus, therefore it was assumed that they were printed with his knowledge and were being circulated for the purpose of assisting in his candidacy. Mr. Prescott has however since the issue of this paper informed us that the ballots were paid for by a customer and that he did not personally authorize, assist or direct their use and that therefore the conclusions made by us was unwarranted by the facts. We gladly withdraw any unfair or unwarranted comment made in said issue of this paper about him or his candidacy that evening.

"We trust that this editorial will remove any unfair impression of Mr. Prescott that any of our readers may have as the result of either of said articles."

Frank F. Prescott, when interviewed relative to the above retraction of the Advertiser, said: "It would have been more satisfactory if no attempt had been made to justify the publication of Nov. 17. As to the political outcome of the caucus he cared nothing, or the so-called "lavender ballots." In requesting a retraction, he assumed that nothing justified the malicious libel published. The apology is, perhaps, all that could be expected from the Advertiser."

Struck on His Head.

Ellis McTear, a carpenter employed on a new building near the works of the Tubular Rivet & Stud Co., received a frightful fall yesterday afternoon. He was upon a staging some thirty feet from the ground when he slipped and fell. When near the ground he struck a timber which broke his fall somewhat, but when he reached the ground he struck on his head. The force of his fall rendered him unconsions for some time. A physician was summoned who made an examination but found no bones broken, and later Mr. McTear was able to walk home. He was severely bruised and probably feels the effects of his fall today more than he did yesterday.

Arm Fractured.

William Keenan, a painter employed by E. M. Litchfield, fell from a ladder upon which he was at work on Quincy avenue, yesterday afternoon. He was taken to Murphy's drug store and a physician summoned. Mr. Keenan sustained a fracture of the arm and was bruised about the head. He fe≈ about seven feet.

RECEPTION.

Lord Mayor Tallon Heartily Welcomed.

The Irish-American people of Quincy turned out in large numbers last evening to extend a welcome to Lord Mayor Tallon of Dublin and Mr. John E. Redmond, M. P.

The distinguished guests came out from Boston on one of the afternoon trains and went directly to Braintree, where they were entertained at lunch by John Cavanagh, President of the Quincy branch of the Land League.

From Braintree the party drove to the President Adams houses on Franklin street which they inspected. Here they were met by the several Irish societies of Quincy who were to escort them over a short parade.

The line formed at 7.30 and moved in the following order:

Chief Hayden.
Squad of Quincy police.
Chief Marshal.
Capt. William Boyd.
Working Boys Home band—50 pieces.
Quincy Branch Irish National League.
Division 5, A. O. H.

Carriage containing Lord Mayor Tallon, Mr. John E. Redmond, M. P., Mayor Keith and President John Cavanagh.

Carriage containing City Treasurer Burke, City Solicitor Blackmur, Mr. P. J. Flatley and Commissioner Cavanagh.

Carriage containing Col. Drinkwater and Mr. Horace Drinkwater.

Division 18, A. O. H., and other Irish societies.

The line of march was over Franklin, School, Hancock Washington, Temple and Hancock streets to Music hall.

While the parade was in progress the special invited guests were arriving and were escorted to the platform, where they were pesented to the visitors by the reception committee. Then the curtain was rung up and seats were taken upon the platform. Among them were:

THE GUESTS.

Among the special guests upon the platform besides Lord Mayor Tallon and Mr. Redmond, were Mayor Keith Commissioner John Cavanagh, P. J. Flatley, City Solictor Blackmur, City Treasurer Burke, Commissioner John T. Cavanagh, Rev. E. N. Hardy, Thomas H. McDonnell, Dr. J. H. Ash of School Committee, Tax Collector A. I. Dixon, Capt. William Boyd, President Sidelinger, of the City Council, Councilmen Hogan, Packard and Nash, Dr. J. M. Sheahan, ex-Senator John F. Merrill, Dr. C. W. Carey and A. W. Thompson of the Board of Health, E. H. Angier, Henry H. Faxon, ex-Representative James Thompson, Richard E. Brooks, Sewer Commissioner W. T. Shea, Assessor W. White, Overseer of the Poor E. H. Bass, Col. A.C. Drinkwater, Horace Drinkwater, John Byron, J.C. Dorgan, Cornelius Duggan and Frank F. Prescott.

After the appause had subsided Mr. John Cavanagh, President of the Local Irish League opened the exercises.

OPENING SPEECH.

John Cavanagh, president of the Irish National League, in opening said:

Ladies and gentlemen—Some twenty years ago this time there was a famine in Ireland. A number of common men led by Charles Stewart Parnell went through Ireland forming associations and doing what they could to avert that famine. After they were well underway Parnell came to Boston, and he well remembered the meeting in Music hall where Wendell Phillips when called upon said "I did not come here to speak; I came to see and hear the man that made John Bull bend his knee."

Parnell, when he spoke, said I came to ask the American people to help us avert a famine, and to avert these periodical famines. Mr. Cavanagh then spoke of the organization of the Land League in Quincy, and the meeting in the old Town Hall, where $1,200 was raised and sent to Ireland. He then urged that those present, the children of those who then met, would do as their parents did, to put Ireland where it should be. If we stand united there is no government on earth that can withstand a united people.

Mayor Keith was then introduced as presiding officer. In introducing the first speaker he said:

Ladies and gentlemen—We meet tonight to extend a welcome to two distinguished gentlemen who have left their native soil on a mission of love and duty. Nothing like it has occurred since Everett Hale did the same thing to purchase Mt. Vernon the birthplace of Washington. In behalf of Quincy, I bid them welcome. Although they have visited many places, he was sure there was no more hearty or enthusiastic welcome than that tonight, and the humble Mayor of a little city, now has the honor of introducing to you the Lord Mayor of the historic city of Dublin.

Lord Mayor Tallon was received with a round of applause long continued and spoke briefly of the object of his vitsit to America, and made an earnest appeal for funds for the purchase of the Parnell homestead and the Parnell monument.

Cornelius Duggan of Atlantic followed with an original song, which so pleased the Lord Mayor that he arose and grasped Mr. Duggan heartily by the hand.

John E. Redmond, M.P., the speaker of the evening was then introduced. He spoke first of Parnell as a benefactor of Ireland and second of Parnell as a benefactor of humanity. When Parnell first came into prominence in 1879 the serfs of Russia were in no such a position as were the farmers in Ireland. The speaker then told of the work of Parnell and the things he had accomplished for the benefit of the Irish people. He then told of the object of their visit to America and what they hoped to accomplish. If American people preserve the homes of the Adamses and Washington, why should not the Irish unite to preserve the home of their great man.

He made an appeal for funds and closed by saying that he was glad to visit Quincy, as here was located the only surviving branch of the Land League established by Parnell in 1879, also because of its historic interest.

Miss Sheridan of Randolph gave a reading, and Miss Shea of Braintree rendered a pleasing vocal selection, and both were encored.

In the meantime envelopes for contribution to the fund were distributed to the audience.

At the conclusion of Miss Shea's selection Mayor Keith thanked the audience for their presence and the meeting closed.

Lord Mayor Tallon and Mr. Redmond held another reception and then went to City Hall, where they remained until the 11.12 train, which they took for Boston.

Same Old Combine.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I wonder how many of our voters saw the fine hand of the Cavanagh—Keith—Blackmur combination at the Lord Tallon reception last evening.

VIDI.

Political.

John Swithin, who was nominated as Democratic Councilman at large, has officially withdrawn.

It is quite certain that the rumor that a fifth candidate for Mayor started from the Social Democrats as they were the first to make the matter public.

Parties who claim to have seen the nomination papers of John F. Lyons, for Independent candidate for Mayor, claim that the papers only had six names upon them.

Winfield P. Porter, the Democratic Social candidate for Governor, received but 664 votes in Boston at the recent State election.

If Sunday and holidays don't count, sample ballots for the City election must be posted next Wednesday, four days before election.

The vote of Boston at the State eleciton was: For Governor,—Paine 32,-604; 26,372. For Lieutenant Governor,—Mack, 30,667; Bates, 28,377. For Secretary of State,—Llyod, 29,470; Olin, 26,027.

There is considerable sickness on Cranch hill. Perhaps there would be less if the ground was not opened so frequently for the sewer.

The subject of Socialism was laid before the City Band Musical and Literary Society Thursday evening in a very able paper by Mr. Alex. C. Smith who showed great familiarity with his subject. The after criticism was very complimentary to the writer, although some doubt its practicability.

Guests Monopolized.

There is quite a feeling among the Irish societies of the city over the arrangements for the reception to Lord Mayor Tallon and Mr. Redmond. They did not exactly relish the idea of being shoved off into the gallery while certain city officials were placed upon the throne and monopolized the attention of the guests.

Members of the societies claim that Messrs. Tallon and Redmond were their guests, and that they should not have been side-tracked. On the eve of election voters are more sensitive than at other times, and it is probable because some of the members of these societies are Republicans that they scent politics in the reception given.

Keith's Theatre.

The big attraction at Keith's Boston theatre for the week of Nov. 27, will be Mme. Herrmann, in her delightful seance of magic, called "A Night in Japan," which is one of the daintiest of vaudeville novelties. Mouliere Sisters, the wonderful female acrobats, in their marvelous feats on triple horizontal bars, will remain for six days longer, and other notable attractions will be: Stuart Barnes and Mabel Sisson, in their amusing sketch, "A Marriage Broker;" Chinese Johnny Williams, the American Lu Hung Chaug, in burlesque magic; William Windem and the Blackstone vocalist; Burihart and Miller, Hebrew comedians; Fox and Foxie, the funny clown and his dog; John Barker, monologue comedian, and Robert Conwell, an expert dancer. The biograph which continues its popularity, will have a series of new motion pictures. Cissie Loftus, the greatest of all minmetic comediennes, is underlined for the week of Dec. 4. Among her imitations will be one of Francis Wilson, the comic opera comedian, as Cyrano, during which she will render the song-hit, "Cyrano's Nose."

Protect Our Food.

The doctors inform us that alum is a poison, and that alum baking powders should be avoided because they make the food unwholesome. Prominent hygienists, who have given the matter most study, regard these powders as an evil that should be suppressed by state action. In Minnesota and Wisconsin alum powders are not permitted to be sold unless they are branded to warn consumers of their true character, while in the District of Columbia the authorities have under the direction of Congress, adopted regulations to prohibit the use of alum in bread altogether.

Are not the people of other states, as well as those of Minnesota and Wisconsin, entitled to warning of a danger which is apparently menacing them at close hand, and is not the whole country entitled to absolute protection, as the people of the District of Columbia are protected, by legislation which is entirely prohibitive?

Until we can have protection in the form of a statute, how can our state boards of health, state analyists or food commissions better serve the public than by publishing in the newspapers from time to time the names of the baking powders which they find to be made from alum?

Meantime, it will aid the housewife in designating alum powders to remember that all powders sold at twenty-five cents or less per pound are of this dangerous class. Pure cream of tartar powders are usually sold at from forty-five to fifty cents a pound.

Information Wanted.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Will some of our would or will be Councilmen tell the people of Houghs Neck, as to why the Quincy & Boston Street Railway Company is permitted to violate the conditions of the charter by not running their cars to Houghs Neck.

Their charter says they shall. They neglect or refuse. The law says they shall; why are they still permitted to retain their location, to the detriment of the residents and travellers on said line. Perhaps some of our past or future city fathers may enlighten us on this matter. In behalf of my neighbors and myself, I would like to know before the coming election day.

FELLOW BEINGS.

Workingmen Are Not So Considered by Some Colorado Employers.

A large employer of men for outdoor work in the mountains was in the city looking over the ground with the idea of learning the chances of engaging laborers on several new contracts. He was discouraged after a trip through the employment offices. "I do not like the outlook," said he. "The men I meet are in bad humor on account of bad food and bad shelter in many of the camps, and the stories I hear make me believe the complaints are just. The other day 20 men were sent to a distant point in the state with the promise of comfortable lodging, plenty of food and steady work. On arriving at the destination they found that no preparations had been made for their accommodation, and they were expected to sleep on the ground under such shelter as they could discover. The food was abominable, and 18 of the men immediately started back for Denver. If some humanitarian would visit the mountain camps where men are engaged in railroad grading and other severe work, the visitor would be astonished at the inhumanity of employers who promise everything and break every promise. Hundreds of men are at the present time living in camps, sleeping on straw with no covering except what the man carries on his back and receiving only the coarsest and most uninviting food. It is a wonder that human beings will endure such a life in this age which we call civilized. Men are expected to work for months with no opportunity whatever for a bath, and even farmers in many instances compel their help to sleep in the barn or in a haystack."

A story was told the other day of an employer who evidently has more of the milk of human kindness in his nature than the average large contractor, whose last thought is the comfort of his men. This employer visited his camp near Denver, where he has 125 men on the pay roll, a few days ago. He gives his men straw to sleep on and furnishes blankets for all who apply. On arriving at his camp he first examined the food. He found it of good quality, but the cook was trying too earnestly to hold down expenses and did not hand out the quantity needed by men working every day in the open air. The employer called his overseers and cooks and said: "I want these men to have all they can eat and to be treated in all respects as fellow beings in whom we have a personal interest. I have found that it doesn't pay to hire five times as many men as are needed in order to keep up the force. Let us treat the men right, and they will stay with us."

The remarks were so astonishing to ears of laborers that the story is going the rounds of the streets wherever the unemployed are gathered.—Denver News.

Mammoth Printing Exposition.

The exposition committee of Typographical Union No. 6 of New York has issued a beautifully printed prospectus, with an illuminated cover, of the mammoth exhibition to be given in the Grand Central palace next May on the occasion of "Big Six's" semicentennial as a trade union.

The committee promises to make the affair a "fitting finish to the nineteenth century, a great century of printing progress." The exhibition will cover machinery and materials used in the production of all manner of printed matter.

The profits are to be applied to the hospital and various other charitable funds of Typographical Union No. 6.

In the last seven years this organization has paid out an average of $37,000 each year for sick and indigent members. Of this total of $239,000, $3,000 came from entertainments, and the rest was paid in dues and assessments by members. Beds for sick printers are maintained in the following hospitals: St. Vincent's and the Presbyterian, New York, and St. Mary's and St. Catherine's, Brooklyn. The union also pays more than $7,000 a year to the Childs-Drexel home in Colorado Springs.

Many of the best known printing firms and newspaper publishers have already agreed to take portions of the 300,000 square feet of floor space in the Grand Central palace.

The New York State Council of the Allied Printing Trades will hold its next convention in this city during the time of "Big Six's" celebration.

Chasm Between Rich and Poor.

Few people are aware of the terrible danger in store for the world on account of the ever widening chasm between rich and poor. The rich would not hoard another ruble to their wealth were they conscious of the peril that threatens them. There are few self sacrificing, Christlike people who in compliance with the command of the Saviour will "go and sell all they have, give it to the poor and follow him." There are few who by these means will help to put off the day of universal disaster. All honor to these few, for it cannot be denied that theirs is the true, unsophisticated brotherly love, which requires an uninterrupted sacrifice until death. But their benevolence is like attempting to empty the ocean with a few small buckets.—Leo Tolstoi.

British Delegates.

The British trade union congress, which met at Plymouth, England, lately, elected Mr. J. Haslem of the miners' union at Derbyshire and Mr. A. Wilkie of the Newcastle Shipwrights' association to represent the English workers at the convention of the American Federation of Labor to be held in Detroit in December.

What Organizations Do.

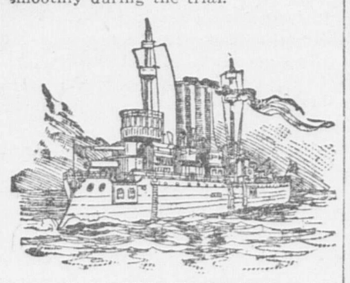
OUR NEW BATTLESHIP.

Kentucky's Speed Trial Shows Her to Be Equal to Kearsarge.

Can Justly Be Rated as a Seventeen-Knot Vessel.

Naval Board Declares the Test to Be Satisfactory In Every Way.

Rockport, Mass., Nov. 25.—The official trial of the Kentucky, held on the Cape Ann course yesterday, proved the vessel to be exactly what the contract calls for—a first-class battleship. During the trial she averaged 16.877 knots an hour, against the tide. The vessel proved herself to be a good sea boat and a stable gun platform. Her engines worked smoothly during the trial.



THE BATTLESHIP KENTUCKY.

The trial satisfied her builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, that she can justly be rated as a 17-knot vessel, although her contract calls for only 16 knots, as they expect that when the figures of yesterday's trial are revised and tidal allowances made it will be found that she actually averaged 17 knots on her run.

The testing of the battleship was accomplished without a mishap of any sort, and at its conclusion was declared to be satisfactory by members of the naval board, Mr. Olcutt of the Newport News company and by Captain Chester, who is to command the vessel.

The weather was of a nature rarely experienced in November. A fog bank hung over the sea early in the morning, but when the sun was up the mass began to break up and by the time the battleship was ready to start it was floating away. The wind was strong from the northeast, and it threw up a rather heavy sea, into which the vessel repeatedly plunged her bow, dipping up quantities of water.

This head wind and sea, President Orcutt said, doubtless had some retarding influence on the battleship on her outward run, and on the way back, striking her heavily at the stern, had a tendency to throw her off the direct course, but due consideration was given all these conditions before a start was made.

The battleship took an hour and a half to run to the starting point of her course. It was 10:27:37½ when the Kentucky crossed the line, at first leaping over the waves which raised themselves before her, then diving into them at top speed.

The course was 66 miles, and, as usual, was divided into five sections, 6.6 knots each, the vessel covering the 33 knots outward and, turning, making the same distance back. She took 20 minutes 17½ seconds for the turn at the end of the outward run. On the return she averaged 16.932 knots, exceeding 17 knots on the first and last legs. The final division of the course was covered in the fastest time made during the day, 22 minutes 57 seconds, or at a speed of 17.254 knots.

After passing the Piscataqua on her return the Kentucky was thrown around in a circle. She completed the turn in about three times her length, and her list in performing the maneuver was about three degrees. When she had completed the circle she laid her course for Boston. She dropped anchor in President roads just after 5 o'clock and waiting tugs took those who had witnessed the trial to the city.

Following is a summary of the trial: Total average, 23:238; start, 10:27:375; finish first leg, 12:24:39; time of turn, 20:175; return start, 12:44:565; finish, 2:41:130; elapsed time, outward, 1:57:015; elapsed time, return, 1:56:165.

Average revolutions of her engines, 112.65; steam pressure, 163 to 172 pounds; horse power developed, approximately, 11,500.

Rear Admiral Rodgers of the board of inspection and survey said that the trial of the Kentucky showed her to be practically the same as the Kearsarge. The same elements were present, namely, speed and stability. What he had said of the Kearsarge was equally true of the Kentucky. When asked which he thought the better boat, he said he saw no difference, and the conditions were as favorable to one as to the other.

Captain C. M. Chester, who will command the Kentucky when she goes into commission, said that the boat is a magnificent one. He was on the Kearsarge at her trial, but could not see that the Kentucky was much different. Of course the latter had shown a little more speed, he said, but either boat was equal to 17 knots. On the matter of driving strength, Captain Chester said that the engines had shown all that was required of them, and that the Kentucky would prove her worth. He further said that he would share equal honors with Captain Folger, who will command the Kearsarge.

His Crookedness Exposed.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—Max Schiemaugk, the alleged former major of United States volunteers, was yesterday convicted of forgery and obtaining money under false pretences, and was sentenced to three years' and three months' imprisonment, to a loss of civil rights for five years and a fine of 300 marks. He was said to have represented that foreign governments had purchased his inventions. In support of this statement he forged various documents, and succeeded in obtaining large sums of money.

FIRM PRICES MAINTAINED.

Continuation of Favorable Reports as to General Business Conditions.

New York, Nov. 25.—Bradstreet's says: A striking illustration of the underlying strength of the general business situation is furnished this week by the course of prices. Almost without exception values of staples remain firm at previous quotations, or manifest a still further pronounced tendency upward. This, too, has occurred in face of a rather smaller distribution in the ordinary trade channels than has been noted in recent weeks.

So far as autumn and winter trade is concerned, the complaint of unseasonably mild weather restricting retail distribution is reported from many cities, but rising superior to this, and to the unquestionably smaller distribution at first hands is the accentuated strength of textiles, particularly cotton goods, which reflect some added strength of the raw product, due to smaller receipts and better foreign advices, but in a larger measure also portray the influence of active demand, coming on a market exceptionally bare of stocks.

A further advance in print cloths, a feature this week, has brought the quotation for standard grades up to 3 cents, a point not touched for four years past. Raw wool is higher on the week at all markets on active demand, shared in by the manufactured material, for which further price advances are expected. The American market for wool is still claimed to be the cheapest in the world.

Notable strength is manifested in the market for leather and hides, which are active and tending upward at the west, supported by good reports from the shoe trade, in which jobbing demand is reported good, and failures exceptionally few.

The year draws to a close with an exceptionally favorable record as regards industrial matters. Strikes have been few, partly, of course, owing to the willingness of employers to grant wage concessions. Distributing features noted in this direction of late have been the reports of a contemplated strike of coal miners at the west, and for practical breaking of all relations between the Chicago contractors and the building trades workers.

Business failures tend to increase slightly, as usual at this period, and number 202 for the week, as compared with 182 in this week a year ago, and 233 in 1897.

Cereals remain, on the whole, dull and uninteresting, and price fluctuations are within an exceptionally narrow range, with quotations ruling about what they were one year ago.

Poor Bill Anthony!

New York, Nov. 25.—William Anthony, better known as "Brave Bill" Anthony, died at a hospital yesterday, half an hour after he had swallowed a quantity of cocaine at one of the Central park entrances. Anthony was the man who, on Feb. 15, 1898, when the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, reported to Captain Sigsbee the famous words: "Sir, I have the honor to report that the ship has been blown up, and is sinking." In one of Anthony's pockets was found a letter written by him to his aunt, which stated that he was discouraged and disconsolate and was going to end it all.

A TALK WITH JONES

As to Probable Course of Democrats In the Senate This Winter.

Would Give the Cubans Independent Self Government.

His Attitude on the Money Question and the Future of the Philippines.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic national committee, returned to Washington yesterday from his trip to Chicago, where he went to attend a conference of the executive committee. "There was some effort on the part of outsiders," said the senator, "to make it appear that very significant business was being transacted by the committee. As a plain matter of fact, there was little or nothing of popular interest in the meeting. It was simply to arrange some matters of organization."

"What will be the policy of the Democratic senators towards legislation this winter?" he was asked.

"Democratic, speaking generally," was the senator's reply. "I don't pretend to speak for anybody but myself when I talk about any particular measure. I believe in resisting to the utmost the proposed gold standard legislation, the abolition of greenbacks and the extension of privileges to national banks. The Hawaiian islands are now a part of our domain by annexation, and the people there should be admitted to all the privileges of government that are accorded to residents of the United States.

"If we are to regard ourselves as Christian gentlemen, standing by the Declaration of Independence, I do not see how we are to force upon the Cubans or the Filipinos any form of government without the full consent of the governed. It seems to be out of the question to ever make a state out of the Philippine islands. We are already pledged to give the Cubans independent self-government. I haven't the least dobut in the world that if it had been known we were going to acquire the Philippines through our war with Spain, the words "and the Philippines' would have been inserted in the pledge for indpendnce to th Cubans."

"Would you support any immediate legislation looking toward a change in the government in Cuba?"

"If progress is being made in Cuba toward an independent government for the Cubans in good faith, I would not hurry unnecessarily about its establishment. If there is not good faith in the steps that are being taken, I should be in favor of shaking things up. It makes no difference to me if 90 percent of the Cubans are in favor of annexation and should express it by their vote, I regard it as all important for us to entirely withdraw from that island and leave the Cubans free to act for themselves."

Senator Jones asked with considerable concern about the development in the case of Senator Quay of Pennsylvania. Apart from personal considerations, he said, he should regard it as a very grave error for the senate to allow Mr. Quay to retain his seat. The precedents are so strong against this, said Senator Jones, that a reverse vote now would give the country at large the idea that the senate was playing politics.

Two Dropped and One Accepted.

New York, Nov. 24.—At the close of yesterday's proceedings in the trial of Roland B. Molineux six jurors occupied positions in the jury box. This was a net loss of one juror for the day. The first thing in the morning, after hearing testimony regarding their physical condition, physicians asserting that in their opinion the men were not fit to undergo the long ordeal of the trial, Recorder Goff excused Abraham Altmayer and Morris A. Braude, jurors four and five. This reduced the number of men in the box from seven to five, but another juror was obtained just before the day ended. He is George Edgar, a retired builder. Counsel for the defense fought hard to keep Messrs. Altmayer and Braude on the jury, but they were not successful.

Supremacy of Faculty Acknowledged.

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 24.—Shortly after the opening of the college term of the University of New Brunswick, the faculty expelled five students and suspended 10 more for participating in a hazing. The college senate overruled the faculty, and reinstated the students. As a protest against this three professors handed in their resignations. Yesterday the senate met and rescinded their former resolution, and asked the professors to withdraw their resignations, which was done.

In State Election Board's Hands.

Louisville, Nov. 24.—The Jefferson county canvassers yesterday heard arguments of counsel on a motion to throw out the vote of the city of Louisville on the ground of alleged intimidation by soldiers, who were called out by Governor Bradley on election day. The Republicans took the ground that the board had no jurisdiction, being empowered simply to count and tabulate the votes. This view was sustained, and the matter now goes to the state election board.

Discharged From Militia.

Boston, Nov. 24.—Sergeant Turpin of company L, Sixth infantry, Boston, who was recently tried by court-martial and found guilty of the charges, has been discharged from the M. V. M., by order of the commander-in-chief, who approves his sentence.

Roberts Expects to Be Seated.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Brigham H. Roberts, representative-elect from Utah, reached Washington last night. He expects to take his seat in the house, and says he does not believe that that body will be influenced by the protests against his doing so.

Just a chance meeting in the rain and a few many things to talk about. That means wet feet and a neglected cold. Then comes the hacking, lingering cough, and the doctor looks serious and talks of pine woods or mountain air.

That is the time when Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery proves its value. It has cured hundreds of cases of "weak lungs," obstinate, lingering coughs, bronchitis, spitting of blood, and other forms of disease, which if neglected or unskillfully treated lead to consumption.

"About eight years ago I had a dreadful cough and hoarseness," writes Mrs. Ida F. Edwards, of Sterling, Sanpete Co., Utah. "I tried several kinds of medicine but without any effect; at last I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, of which I have taken four bottles, and my cough is entirely cured."

THE GIANT OF TODAY.

BY LOUISE AUGUSTA GORE.

A CITY OF MAGIC.

Many days had passed since Jimmie had stolen his ride on the strange "Firefly" and lain half senseless from cold and pain at the great gate.

Two men had then bent over him and while a brilliant light had flashed in his face, a voice said in low tones,

"The very same little fellow, how did he come here?' Adding in a louder voice,

"What's the matter sonny?"

Opening his eyes, Jimmie had met the kindly gaze of a pair above his own and felt himself gently lifted. A sharp twinge of pain prevented his answering as with a groan he sank back well content to be carried and clinging closely to his protector.

Those strong, well meaning arms had borne him, a limp and frightened boy, safely within the charmed walls of Giant Dynamo's Magic City.

He had been gently placed upon a comfortable lounge and carefully tended and upon further acquaintance, Jimmie had found to his astonishment, his good friend had been the motorman of the Firefly, who having shed his shaggy coat, turned out to be very fair looking and much like other mortals.

Having recognized his young guest as the smart little urchin who had artfully dodged his long whip at the City Hall, the motorman's curiosity was aroused and before long he had gathered the boy's story and during Jimmie's convalescence from the sprain he had received, quite won his confidence.

His life during the days that followed, was full of romance and happiness than any he had ever dreamed of. He was petted and spoiled by all of the crowd of servants in the Giant's castle, fed on dainties till dyspepsia threatened and listened, till his teeth chattered, to all the weird and thrilling stories of their wonderful master they could remember or invent.

All this time the drollest of little men paid him daily visits until long after he was able to run about again.

From the first moment of his arrival upon his little electrical wheel, he had been a mine of wonderment to Jimmie. His small body was all wound about with wires like a cocoon, permitting him to squirm around somewhat inside without danger to his case. This case was drawn up above his head into a crown or hat ornamented with branches that held many glass knobs as insulators, for protection. A strange dress which together with a rather small but wonderful telescope and a square black box he carried, gave him a queer and most interesting appearance.

Jimmie had felt quite drawn to him when the doctor's little gimlet eyes had spied at the bruised flesh through his long glass and taken a snap shot of the poor aching bones and the boy was more than grateful for the soothing bottle of red fluid which he drew out from a closet under his waist coat.

The doctor had felt somewhat flattered by the awe and admiration of his boy patient and took pleasure during his visits in showing him many of his wonderful instruments.

Such fine little knives for cutting, that made Jimmie's teeth on edge and lights to look down throats and spy into ears and up unhappy noses and needles to burn off men's whiskers and multitudes of other things all of the most approved and latest pattern, until Jimmie came to have a reverential fear of the little electrical doctor.

At his pleasure Jimmie wandered over the electrical kitchens where everything took care of itself and came out of the great ovens done brown and temptingly ready for the immense appetite of the Giant's subjects.

Occasionally he rode around in an odd little wagon with a jolly man who ever had a word of bantering reproof for the pretty maids who came running out at the sound of his bell and sharp "Yo-ho!" holding their little cans up for electricity.

Jimmy was permitted to pack away the empty ones and after a good deal of cross questioning as to whether they wanted it for washing dishes, or sweeping floors, or running the sewing machines or making welsh rarebits, or rocking the baby, they always ran away laughing and holding their little cans at arms length.

He peeped into the monstrous laundries where the electrical power caused the great belts and wheels to revolve and where barrels and barrels of linen were daily rubbed and scrubbed and dumped until they came out white and clean and dry enough for the wonderful smoothing irons.

Silently he stole through the great halls where busy machines were sewing seam after seam of the clothing necessary for the Giant's workmen. Even Jimmie himself was promised a beautiful new suit if he would only work for "His Eminence."

The Giant permitted no drones in his busy hive as Jimmie soon learned, all must be workers. Even now, they told him there was a search going on for just such a fellow as himself, to perform certain duties necessary in the new contract with the Mayor.

But these halcyon days did not last any too long. They passed the hour curiosity took Jimmie within the Giant's workshop, at least that portion of it where he gathered his wonderful forces.

One day after listening to a most harrowing tale of the Giant's exploits, Jimmie started off eager for an outside view of the spot where so much was happening of strange interest.

A grand, granite building rose fair and imposing, with balconies, towers and quantities of windows now reflecting the sunlight, that at night shone resplendent in a blaze of bright, white light. A noble arch spanned the massive triple doorway. One of these doors, usually closely guarded, this time stood temptingly ajar. Jimmie paused upon its threshold, but curiosity drew him on and he entered, softly closing it behind him.

No one was in sight. The long, empty corridors extending unknown distances, were dark, too lofty for the sun to penetrate, now that the hour of noon had struck. The tessellated floor looked cold, too, yet Jimmie passed on quickly, never pausing until a turn brought him to heavy swivelled doors.

Jimmie did not stop to read the legend—"No admittance" tacked upon the panel, indeed it is doubtful if he could have done so. With a blundering push they swung open and Jimmie at once descended a long flight of broad stairs, the noise of machinery growing louder at each step.

A few lights were burning here and there, but elsewhere it was dark in the passageway he entered and he was able to steal quietly along on the shadows without observation and peeped cautiously into a large room the door of which stood open.

Everything was has neat as a new pin but ah how warm it was! what a heavy scent of hot oil! Dark, uncomfortable looking men moving carefully about, Jimmie thought must be the Giant's slaves and felt cold chills creeping like coils of rope from head to foot. The noisy engines made his head ache and the giddy wheels and whirling belts made him dizzy.

Then far beyond on the other side were the great furnaces and he held his breath as he watched the iron doors open and saw their great hungry mouths full of brightly burning coals yet ever greedy for the new supply. The little forked flames seemed to take weird and ghostlike shapes that flung themselves about in fantastic fashion.

Jimmie in his eargerness for a nearer view had gradually crept within the room, when a voice beside him suddenly said,

"Ho little fellow. Looking for a job? Come right along."

A heavy hand was laid firmly upon his shoulder and without more ado he was drawn rapidly forward. Too terrified to protest, he soon found himself close beside the Giant Dynamo of old acquaintance, the same dark man with coppery hair, black cloak, leathern belt.

The Giant had but little to say, being very busy and much heated, while the sparks flew about his feet in a manner quite frightful to witness.

The Chief Engineer who had Jimmie in hand, now somewhat relaxed his grasp, when Jimmie accidentally hit the busy Giant. At such times his Eminence never permitted the least liberty, as poor Jimmie instantly found out and with a howl of pain like that endured upon the "Firefly," he started upon a run.

But the engineer was too quick for him and caught him before he reached the door, afterwards holding him securely until he passed out with the boy whom he proposed to set immediately at his tasks.

Oh! How hot it was! How the machinery buzzed! Its eternal hum made poor Jimmie deaf.

The Chief Engineer's motions were more forcible and more easily understood than his words so now as he led his prisoner towards the huge furnaces, Jimmie's heart gave a geat leap of fear lest his fate should be that of the poor beings for whom he had felt so great a pity, as he had watched them in their duty of feeding the greedy mouths with coal.

But Jimmie's halfgroan of terror was needless. Farther and farther on the Engineer led him, until at last they reached the coal fields that furnished the fuel for Giant Dynamo.

Here, where all was dark, they stopped and a little lantern having been fastened upon Jimmie's cap, he was told to begin at once his duty of gathering coal and starting it on its journey to the men whose lot had seemed so pitiful to Jimmie.

Everything was done by system in this wonderful place. Just so often by the hands of the great illuminated clock shining clearly in the darkness, Jimmie's coal must be started upon the little electrical road whence it was gathered with that of his fellow workers and passed on again through others, until it reached the great furnaces themselves.

There was nothing whatever for Jimmie to do but obey which he did reluctantly with hot tears in his eyes and longing for even one breath of the sweet pure air outside.

As he became somewhat accustomed to the darkness, he began to notice his companions bent over the coal-beds like so many gnomes each with his little star light in his cap, and to think his own lot not so miserable when he saw the heavy burdens borne by men once erect and strong, now misshapen by their tasks and learned how they began their duties with ropes and pulleys and picks and shovels and mules long long ago.

He grew thoughtful over his work wondering if he must grow old as they, a prisoner here of Giant Dynamo. His heart beat fiercely and hot indignant blood rushed through his veins. He clenched his fist and in his excitement forgot the coal awaiting him, when whirr-r-r-r went the great wheels, followed by a short sharp explosion and everyone stopped working throughout the system.

So perfectly was each one's duty adjusted to the whole, a single failure or neglected task was likely to bring danger to all. Everyone now looked at his neighbor to find the unlucky offender whose neglect had resulted so seriously and who when found, was admonished by the Giant's Lightning-Messengers in a manner suitable to his offence.

Jimmie's shortcoming was soon detected, but being his first, he received only a quick reproof. A threat however of a sharper admonition for a second offence, so frightened Jimmie that he at once set about his task with unusual industry.

Hour after hour crept by and still they kept busy. Jimmie's back and arms were aching and sore. His eyeballs too were smarting and seemed ready to leave their sockets as he strained them in the darkness, watching impatiently the hands moving with little jerks round after round over the great dial of the clock.

The Giant was a hard task-master. Not a minute of rest did he give his slaves from the early morning till at the noon hour he sent his Lightning-Messengers to strike the bells in the city clock towers, the signal for a fresh incoming of workers. They in turn must work out their term of service, till again the hands on the great dial brought them relief with fresh toilers. But never once did the work cease, on and on forever went the coal cars, the fires and the engines and Giant Dynamo was never idle.

This needed relief was eagerly welcomed by the workmen and quickly taken advantage of. Sometime in the lives of many of them perhaps, this tedious round of duty with its constant dangers had seemed a hard one, but most of them grew indifferent and careless as time passed and many even came to look upon a newcomer as fortunate to have the work and the regular pay the Giant was always quite sure to bestow at the proper time.

If men were careless now and again they considered they had themselves to blame if they had their senses knockd out of them, for they had been given fair warning and what could a man expect more?

After the noon meal, generally taken out of doors, in some sheltered spot, it was their custom to gather in little knots and repeat the news current in the Magic City.

Quite often some new discovery or "deed of gift" as they were wont to term it, was to be admired or talked of and Jimmie who at such times came to listen soon grew to be quite a favorite among them.

Nor did he forget to look in some times upon his old friends in the Giants household. He never failed to get a word of praise here and almost always a generous remembrance of chicken or fruit left from dinner.

This friendship however was contrary to regulations as he soon learned and shortened his visits, spending his leisure instead in wandering about the Giant's wonderful realm.

Occasionally this privilege was allowed, its limit being the high fortressed wall bounding the electrical city upon all sides. One gate alone was the entrance, the same which had opened to admit Jimmie the night of his arrival. Here a curious being was always stationed as "Sentinel" whose business it was to ask a multitude of questions and learn the complete history of everyone passing out or in keeping a strange tally of their wishes, intentions and habits, storing up knowledge to be produced at the Giant's bidding and even mimicking the voices of the unhappy victims.

Such a marvelous kingdom it was with the great white cloud floating above! At these times Jimmie strayed on in a perfect tremor of delight and awe. Such wonderful gardens of flowers! Such roses and lilies and pansies, each one with a heart of flame! and tended by queer little sprites who were brilliant or invisible at will. Then the birds, how they flew and sung and flashed their jewelled wings!

But Jimmie looked in vain for their nests and dared not touch one of the pretty creatures. He had learned his lesson well and had come to have a great respect for the Giant's motto—"Hands off."

It was a busy world in itself too and strange little people were bobbing hither and thither full of business haste. Three brownies, "Hello," "Y-yes" and tiny "Line's Busy," always held trumpets and were ever on the alert and full of fun and frolic, it being their especial duty to tap the Giant's wires and learn the news. Sometimes they grew proud and very important and then "Hello" generally had a box on the ear.

The Giant was constantly receiving messages and his services were demanded all over the globe. Now Africa needed more light, Asia a new gun for her tiger jungles, Europe's wires were in a tangle or grounded, but America required everything from doors opened to metals welded. Even little Australia wanted a bell register once in a way and rumor had it His Eminence had a powerful pull on the ocean tides and the great falls of Niagara and was considering chances for improving the Aurora borealis.

For all this business the Giant amply provided. Not an animal of any kind was to be seen. In fact there were none to be found in his domain excepting a few bearing a heavy growth of fur.

Nevertheless, numberless vehicles of every design were always ready for use, from tiny sea-shells to dive into ocean depths or coal barges to explore the lower regions of earth, to ships fully equipped for long voyages by either air or water.

Wonderful trains of cars and bewitching little two-wheeled affairs with just room enough for two, were always in use, and each one of them all, had its motor attached, charged with the Giant's power.

All these were constantly moving and Jimmie never tired of watching them but his gaze lingered longest where the graceful air-ships skimmed along like birds amidst a shower of sparks and lightning flashes right grand to witness.

It would be impossible to tell of all the cares and works of Giant Dynamo.

From morn till night, from night till morn again, his servants were running in hot haste to execute his commands and weaving his cobwebs tough and strong around the world.

Over all the great white cloud shone brightly. Aloft in the great watch towers the guard never slept and bristling cannon, whose mouths appeared and disappeared at the portholes, told of direful things they could do if rebellion threatened.

Labor Demonstration by Women.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 24.—The women friends of the strikers in Nanticoke held a mass meeting yesterday and listened to a number of speeches. They then marched in a body down the street for the purpose of intercepting men who were going to work in the mines. They met a Polander and surrounded him. He brandished a knife and the women fled. The police then dispersed the women. The strike leaders tried in vain to dissuade the females from going out on the street. Nearly all the women taking part in the demonstration were Poles and Slavs.

Not Worth the Expense.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Regarding the report from Santiago that the wreckers now at work on the Spanish destroyer Furor had discovered that the vessel in question might have been raised and repaired, it is said at the navy department that this subject was thoroughly canvassed, and that while it is true one or the other of the destroyers might have been raised and repaired, it was considered certain that it would have cost about twice as much to put her in commission as to build a new vessel of the same class.

Loss Falls on Stockholders.

Lebanon, Ind., Nov. 24.—The Central State bank of Lebanon was placed in the hands of a receiver yesterday. This is the last of the Dwiggins chain of banks, several of which failed some years ago. The Lebanon bank, it is said, never recovered from the difficulty which sent the others to the wall. The assets are equal to the liabilities, and the depositors will lose nothing, but the stockholders, it is thought, will lose heavily.

Killed by a Cyclist.

New Haven, Nov. 24.—Henry Dunham, aged 66, died at his home on Wooster street last night as the result of injuries received by being knocked down by a bicycle rider, who was scorching. The bicyclist did not stop after the accident to ascertain whether or not Mr. Dunham was injured, and the latter was picked up from the street in an unconscious condition.

QUINCYS DROP.

But They Show That They Have Good Metal.

The tailenders won in the Southeastern polo league, and the clubs are nearer together than they were a week ago. The defeat of Plymouth by Middleboro, dissolves the tie for first place and Brockton again leads. Quincy's defeat last night was a serious one, as she has now won no more than the Tauntons and Middleboros.

The standing to date:

	Won.	Lost.	Per ct. won.
Brockton	8	3	.727
Plymouth	8	4	.667
East Weymouth	5	5	.500
Quincy	3	4	.375
Taunton	3	6	.333
Middleboro	3	7	.300

QUINCYS LOST.

Although the Quincys were defeated at polo at Taunton last night, the game that they put up was entirely satisfactory to their admirers and won the plaudits of the attendants at Taunton. The Tauntons took the first goal but after that they were not in the lead until the last goal, the fifteenth. The Quincys passed the ball in fine style, and Purcell and Farrell distinguished themselves.

The summary:

BLOCKED BALLS.

The games in the Southeastern Massachusetts Polo league are for blood in more ways than one, judging by recent occurrences.—Brockton Times.

The games in the Southeastern league tonight will be: Middleboro at Plymouth, Taunton at Brockton, Quincy at East Weymouth. It will be seen that the three leaders will play the three tailenders.

☞ We often say that this is a little world. A few hundred thousand people who are in the habit of traveling meet each other everywhere, But the study of geography forced upon the public by recent events shows that there are vast tracts of country where commonwealths and empires are growing of which the ordinary newspaper reader has little knowledge.—Christian Register.

Berry was thrown to one side and Lovett onto the track where he was in danger of being run over, and would have been but for the quick thought and still quicker action of his companion who sprang to his rescue and succeeded in pulling him off the tracks just as the wheels of the freight car reached him. Both men were somewhat cut and bruised but are thankul it was no worse.

MILTON.

A meeting of those interested in the formation of the new social club for Milton was held Thursday evening at Ellsworth hall, East Milton. The meeting was largely attended and considerable enthusiasm was shown. The provisional committee, who have had the matter of the club's formation in hand, reported that the support promised warranted the belief that the requisite membership could be relied upon and they recommended a permanent organization.

The committee's recommendation was adopted and the name selected for the organization was "The Unquity Club."

The fee for initiation was fixed at $5, and the dues at $10 per year. It was also voted that any gentleman of good moral character of Milton or Quincy should be eligible for membership.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President,—E. E. Carlton.
Vice President,—John Graham.
Secretary,—Harry Brierly.
Treasurer, A. A. Brackett.
Executive Committee,—James Gibbs, A. L. Gardner, Richard W. Folsom, J. B. Fenno, J. Albert Simpson and Mr. Doherty.

The objects of the club are purely of a social nature and its prospects are of the highest. It starts off with a membership of 68.

Another meeting will be held in two weeks at which time by-laws will be acted upon.

Columbia Theatre.

The business at the Columbia the past three weeks has been phenomenal, and as the engagement in Boston of the great golden spectacle is limited, the chances are that well filled houses will rule while the colossal offering is at the Columbia.

Of all the spectacles which have been upon the stage in Boston, none has approached "The Man in the Moon" in splendor of presentation, excellence of cast, or humor of material.

Among the funny things are burlesques of "The Christian," "The Belle of New York," "Romeo and Juliet," and "Lord and Lady Algy." Sam Bernard as Conan Doyle is keenly humorous, and Louis Wesley is amusing acrobatically. The ballets especially are most attractive.

The entertainment runs swiftly and smoothly from 7.45 till 11 P. M. each evening, and matinees are given every Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Park Theatre.

"Sag-Harbor," James A. Herne's new play, is now in the fifth week of a run at the Park theatre, Boston, which shows every indication of turning out to be the record theatrical engagement, both in point of duration and receipts that Boston has ever experienced. The auditorium of the Park theatre is jammed nightly from the pit to the very dome with enthusiastic audiences, and each one of them finds it necessary to stay applauding until after the final curtain has dropped, to express the measure of their appreciation for the grand new play. A special holiday matinee of "Sag-Harbor" will be given on Thanksgiving-Day and Mr. Herne's management are making preparations to render this occasion unique, in some way characteristic of the famous old New England holiday. Preceding the Thanksgiving Day matinee an affair altogether unusual and extraordinary will be given at the Park theatre. Mr. Herne, an intense lover of children and a man noted throughout his profession as one of large heart and many quiet and beautiful charities, is to entertain 2000 poor children of Boston with a long program of enjoyable amusements and serve them as well with a collation such as will realize all childish desires in the eating line to the utmost. Many famous artists have volunteered their services to Mr. Herne to assist in their amusement. All of Mr. Herne's company will do something and the famous author-star will speak to the children. The fiftieth performance of "Sag-Harbor" in Boston will occur on the night of December 4th and Liebler & Co., Mr. Herne's managers, have contracted with one of the famous silversmiths of the country for a souvenir that will probably be the finest and most expensive ever presented to mark a notable theatrical event.

Castle Square Theatre.

The continued demand for seats for the performances of "The Heart of Maryland," at the Castle Square theatre, has led the management to arrange for a continuance of this play another, the fourth week, with every prospect that its final performances will be notable for the size of the audiences. This great dramatic triumph of David Belasco's play writing has proved its value again in the Castle Square theatre production and the enterprise of the management has been worthily rewarded. The management has now in hand an elaborate production of Bulwer Lytton's romantic drama "The Lady of Lyons," which will make the first of a series of standard plays contemplated as a part of the winter season's attractions at this theatre. All the patrons of the matinee of Monday, the 27th inst., will be presented with a box of choice chocolate bon bons.

Strike Endorsed.

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 25.—A meeting of the Dyers and Bleachers' union, a local branch of the New England organization, was held last evening, and action taken in regard to the difficulty over their demand for increased wages. The special order of business was a story of the circumstances connected with the strike at the R. B. Mason Dyeing and Bleaching company, 50 dyers and bleachers at that place having gone out on strike when their demands for an increase of wages was denied. It was unanimously voted to sanction the strike and to aid the members of the union in every way possible in order to bring about a settlement favorable to them.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

What Abutters Must Pay Toward the Sewer.

Cost May Be Apportioned Over Ten Years.

Many in List Must Pay Over $100; Some Much More.

The Ledger continues the publication of the assessments by the city upon the abutters in payment of their half of the cost of sewer construction. The list is not given in alphabetical order, but by streets as the pipes are laid.

The total assessment upon each lot is not given, but the assessment per frontage at the rate of 12 cents per foot, and the assessment per area within 100 feet of the street at the rate of 6 mills per square foot. To obtain the total assessment it is only necessary to add the two together.

In all cases probably the assessment per area is the larger, as the area is supposed, to pay eight-tenths of the assessment, and the frontage the other two-tenths. In many cases, notably corner lots, the assessment per frontage is nearly as large as upon the area.

These assessments may be paid in one, two or more instalments up to ten. If paid within three months from date of bill no interest will be collected, but if apportioned over a number of years interest will be added.

It is proposed to continue the publication as space will admit.

Moose Hunt in Wilds of Maine.

As usual, "Outing" furnishes a most interesting sketch of a moose hunt in that popular sporting country, the Pine Tree State, of which the following is an excerpt:—

"A hunt in the Maine woods; limit of time two weeks; sole object, a moose. The leaves have fallen, the undergrowth has become comparatively clear, and the moose have left the lakes and streams and sought shelter in the more thickly wooked hills and ranges. The rutting season is over, and all the fight has left the bull, who busies himself in selecting a "yard," some well protected hillside, where the tender tops of the moosewood and maple will furnish him food during the heavy snows. The sportsman in quest of moose in Maine, arrives at the little station nearest the hunting region, puts up at the country hotel, listens to stories of the heads carried out of the woods, and is assured by his guide of the plentifulness of game. The next morning—what joy! The ground is covered with snow, soft and velvety, four or five inches. Just the right depth, not too much for fast travelling, yet just enough to cushion the leaves and deaden one's footfalls. The hunter, with whatever rifle he fancies, and his guide with his pack make an early start. Three or four miles over one range, with here and there a view of a distant lake, or a glimpse of a long stretch of crimson and blue hills, down to a swamp, across treacherous brooks, when lo! moose-tracks. Immediately the hunter's spirits mount high, his strength is doubled, and every sense is on the alert. The guide examines the tracks critically; it might be a young bull. At any rate, it will probably lead to a yard or to other moose, so for the next three or four hours the trail is followed through logs, over fallen treetops and under overhanging boughs, which the guide scrutinizes closely. Bark freshly peeled from young trees, bushes bent over, and the fresh tracks the guide decides were made during the early morning. There are three in the herd, big tracks, and from the bark scraped off the trees, there is evidently a bull amongst them. The trails cross and wander about aimlessly. The beasts are possibly in the near neighborhood. Now great caution must be observed. A finger is wetted and held up to find the exact direction of the wind. Taking note of the general appearance of the surrounding hills and valleys, the guide leads the sportsman circuitously to leeward of a certain narrow little valley, where they again discover the trail, which, fortunately, leads up the valley and against the wind. Creeping, half crawling, they cautiously select a place for each step. The signs grow fresher every minute, and the hunters grow more alert and careful. Just as they reach the top of a little rise, a black object is seen to move amongst the growth some hundred yards distant. Crouch low and be ready. A moment later the object turns, and presents a broadside showing a fine pair of horns, Now quick, but take careful aim. Bang! once, twice. Shoot again as he runs—three, four—yea, more times if necessary. The old bull stops and weakens, then, staggering, falls heavily to the ground, dead. A moment to realize that he has actually killed his moose, and then the triumphant hunter produces a flask that he and his guide may drink to their success, and to each other's health—and to everybody else's good health. They then fill their pipes and sit down to enjoy a little of that calm contentment that follows the complete and successful accomplishment of one's most cherished desires. The next day is spent in 'blazing' and 'swamping out' a way in which the moose may be hauled out, and after much labor and difficult driving, he is hauled into camp on a sled."

LOCAL CHIEFS LOYAL.

Province of Zamboanga Unconditionally Surrenders to Americans.

Belief That End of Insurrection Is Near at Hand.

Rebel Forces Disband and Will Hereafter Depend Upon Guerilla Tactics.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The secretary of the navy yesterday received a telegram from Admiral Watson stating that the entire province of Zamboanga, island of Mindanao, surrendered to Commander Very of the Castine, unconditionally, Nov. 16. The delivery of all guns is promised. The local chiefs declared themselves loyal.

The information contained in Admiral Watson's dispatch was received by the president and his advisers with unconcealed satisfaction. The surrender of the province of Zamboanga is regarded as the beginning of the end of the revolution in the Island of Mindanao, and, it is believed, will be a hard blow to those who are still endeavoring to maintain the insurrection in the Island of Luzon.

The war department has not been advised of the surrender of the province as reported in Admiral Watson's dispatch, Secretary Root saying he had no news from General Otis. Both Secretaries Root and Long are elated over the information sent by the admiral and express the belief that the end of the insurrection in the Philippines is now near at hand.

On the 21st instant Admiral Watson cabled the navy department that Commander Very had captured the city of Zamboanga on the 16th. He was aided by friendly natives and Moros, and was holding the town pending the arrival of reinforcements from Jolo. On the same day General Otis informed the war department that he had ordered two compaines of infantry to be sent to Zamboanga from Jolo. Zamboanga is the principal city in the Island of Mindanao, which is the second largest island of the Philippine group. Advices from Admiral Watson indicate that the entire southern half of the island, which comprises the province of Zamboanga, has yielded to the American forces, and has acceded to the authority of the United States.

A dispatch from Manila states that the last Filipino council of war was held by the retreating leaders at Bayombong on Nov. 13 in the house now occupied by General MacArthur. It was attended by Aguinaldo, Pio Del Pilar, Garcia, Alejandrino and some members of the so-called cabinet. Information has reached General MacArthur from several sources to the effect that the council recognized the futility of attempting further resistance to the Americans with united forces and agreed that the Filipino troops should scatter and should hereafter follow guerilla methods.

Reports of ambuscades and skirmishes come from every section of the country along the railroads. Those districts seem to be filled with small bands. On Saturday four men of company D, Ninth infantry, were foraging beyond Bamban, when 20 Filipinos took them in ambush, killing one and capturing the other three. The Americans resisted for half an hour. The firing being heard at Bamban, Lieutenant Fraser, with a squad, followed the retreating Filipinos several miles. The Americans found the body of the soldier boloed. They burned the hamlet where the fight took place.

Three Filipino riflemen ambushed an American surgeon near Capas. He shot one and the others fled.

Between Bamban and Angeles a mule train was fired upon by the insurgents, and a Spaniard, a former prisoner of the Filipinos, who was at the train, was shot. At Malasiqui the officials who welcomed the Americans were murdered. This was the only railroad town which the Americans did not garrison, and, on the night the troops withdrew, a band of insurgents entered, dragged Antonio Mejia, president of the town, into the street and cut his throat. The murderers then assassinated the vice president and five members of the town council in the same manner and told the frightened natives who witnessed the slaughter to spread the news that a similar fate awaited all friends of the Americans.

The mayor of San Carlos, who rode in the carriage with General MacArthur and Colonel Bell when the Americans entered the town amid cheers of the people, was murdered the next night.

Military activity continues in every section. Colonel Bell's regiment has advanced from Bayombong upon Mangatarem, where it is supposed there is a large insurgent force. Two battalions of the newly arrived Twenty-eighth infantry have been sent by cascoes to Bacoor to reinforce the south line.

Major Spence, with 50 men of the Thirty-second regiment, surrounded a village near Bautiston during the night and attacked the place at daybreak, capturing a Filipino captain and 15 men with seven rifles.

The latest news from General Young is that there are 10 cavalrymen and 200 Macabebes with him, most of the horsemen who started having been compelled to drop out because their horses failed them.

QUINCYS AT WEYMOUTH.

The Quincys played at East Weymouth Saturday and held the home team well in hand. It took the East Weymouths seven minutes to score the first goal, and the Quincys a little over seven for the second. The third and decisive goal had not been scored at the close of the third periods and required over fifteen minutes; the ball was caged by Cunningham for the home team. Farrell and Genereaux were the stars players of the Quincys.

Brockton won at home, defeating the Tauntons 11 to 3.

At Plymouth the Middleboros won 5 to 2.

The New Britians lead the National league with Hartford as a close rival.

Portland has no dangerous rival in the New England League.

The Plymouths will be here tomorrow night, and the Tauntons on Friday. The Quincys will play at Middleboro Wednesday, and at Plymouth Saturday.

SAVING QUESTIONED.

No Reduction in Water Expenses This Year.

Because of the Consolidation with Streets.

Could Have Been Run for Less by Water Commissioners.

Mayor Keith in his speech accepting a renomnation, claimed an economical administration for 1899, and he said: "As to the extravagance which has been paraded, there has been no such thing." Taxpayers need no figure to prove to the contrary; observation of methods have been sufficient. They have seen the highway appropriation which was larger than ever, exhausted, and replenished by a questionable transfer of $5,000 by the Sewer Commissioners. This may be sufficient to carry the Street department through, but it will be necessary to wait until about Feb. 1 to be sure. If there is a balance January 1, there may not be sufficient to pay all the bills of 1899.

The Mayor claims that the consolidation of the Water department with the Street department has resulted in a saving of more than the combined salaries of the Commissioner of Public Works and himself ($3000). Let us see.

From the annual report of the Water Commissioners for 1898 we copy the "Maintenance Account" in full:

Appropriation,	$15,250.00
Credit by transfer,	170.00
Total appropriation,	$15,420.24

EXPENDED.

1—Office expenses, including superintendence, clerical assistance, rent, postage, stationary, printing and miscellaneous expenses,	$3,638.15
2—Pumping station expenses, including pay roll, fuel, repairs and sundry items,	6,587.44
3. General maintenance of reservoir, mains, stand pipes, hydrants, etc.,	5 153.44
4—Balance unexpended,	41.21
Total expended,	$15,420.24

The expenses of the Water department should be much less this year than in 1898 for several reasons. This year the city is supplied with water from the Metropolitan system, and the pumping station has been out of commission. It will be seen by item No. 2 of the expenditures above, that the cost of the pumping station in 1898 was $6,587.44 When this is deducted from $15,420.24, the cost in 1898, we have $8,835.80. This should be further reduced by deducting so much of item No. 3 of the expenditures as was necessary for general maintenance of reservoir as the city has maintained no reservoir; also all of the balance of $41.21 in item No. 4, as it was unexpended; and also in item No. 1, the salary of $1800 of the superintendent, as "the Commissioner of Public Works kindly agreed to take the entire charge of that department in addition to his numerous other duties, without any increase of salary" and the item of rent, as the office is now at City Hall.

These should reduce the $8,835.80 to $6,800 or less. Then the Mayor claims the consolidation has saved in some way the amount of his salary, another $1000.

But has the "Water Bureau" been maintained for $5,800 or $6,800? The appropriation asked by the Mayor in his annual budget March 20, 1899, was $10,270. The City Council in its wisdom reduced the estimate to $9,000, which was appropriated. It should have had the wisdom to further reduce it $2,000, and then the administration would not have been handicapped.

April 6 the Governor approved the act of the Legislature abolishing the Water Commissioners and the transfer was soon made. It is very plain that no saving has been effected by the transfer. The Water Commissioners on an appropriation of $8,500 could have employed a superintendent at $1800 and "conducted the Water department during 1899 "without any impairment of the efficiency of the service." The November 1 statement of the City Auditor showed that bills had been approved for 6,200. The Dec. 1 statement this week will show quite an increase, and then not include all the expenditures. This year the administration has been called upon to pay but $114.96 on account of water maintenance, of 1898, but the Republican administration of 1898 was called upon to pay $1,010.55 (see pages 96 and 97 of last City Book) on account of water supply maintenance of 1897, during which year John T. Cavanagh was superintendent.

In additon to the appropriation of $9,000 for water maintenance, the Commissioner has this year had $30,000 for extensions, as was given the Water Commissioners in 1898. The Mayor says "about the usual number of miles of pipe has been laid." The Nov. 1 statement showed bills for $28,219 to have been approved. It would not be difficult to charge items of maintainance to this account.

The Mayor says more than the usual number of house connections have been made this year, but as these are paid for by the house owners, and the payments credited to the appropriation for construction, they do not affect the appropriation for maintenance.

Certainly, the Mayor does not make it plain where there has been a saving of $3,000 because of the consolidation of the Water and Street departments, and we challenge him to do it.

Harvest Concert.

There was a very large audience at Bethany church, Sunday evening at the Harvest concert by the Bible school, the programme being mostly by the younger childen. There were the usual opening exercises followed by recitations by James Myers, Blenden M. Flowers, Gladys Hunt, Eva Clough, Lillian Pratt, Bertie Smith, Master Coffin and Eddie Hayden; exercises by classes of girls, reading by Miss Peters, two fine violin selections by Master Oliver Greene of Atlantic. The choir seats were occupied by a chorus of young people, who led the singing. Rev. E. N. Hardy and Supt. Sampson spoke interestingly. There was a display of vegetables in front of the pulpit which will be distributed among the needy families of the city.

Death a Mystery.

A Newton dispatch to a Sunday paper says: A partial report of the post mortem examination of the bodies of William McAuley and Alma J. Peterson, found dead on Oct. 12, was received by Chief Fred A. Tarbox of the Newton police this evening from medical examiner Meade of Watertown. Thus far the report is said to state that no traces of poisoning or violence have been discovered, and the manner in which the couple met their death is as much a mystery as ever. The examination will be continued in the hope of finding the manner of death.

Leaves a Large Family.

Mrs. Mary, widow of Daniel Moran, died Sunday at her home on Adams street, after an illness of a few weeks' duration, due to a general breaking up of the system. She leaves six children whose ages range from three to fourten years. Mr. Moran, who died in December, 1896, had been employed by the Quincy Boston street railway for a number of years. He died quite suddenly, leaving a large family. To support this family Mrs. Moran has taken in washing and has gradually worn herself out.

THE FUTURE OF CHINA.

Treaty Defining "Spheres of Influence" Again a Subject of Discussion.

United States Hardly Likely to Become a Party to It.

Wu Ting Fang Says Celestial Empire Will Have Something to Say About It.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Dispatches from London state that as a result of the United States' request to the powers for assurances regarding the maintenance of the "open door" in China, negotiations have been entered into, looking to a more permanent and important international agreement than yet mooted. It is added that, though the greatest official reticence is observed at all the European capitals regarding this secret movement, there is good ground for believing that the negotiations have reached a hopeful stage.

The negotiations followed the frank request of Secretary Hay of some of the governments which had already given him verbal and informal assurances of the continuation of all our treaty rights in Chinese territory to have these agreements reduced to form. It was not regarded as necessary to go beyond that point, and although it frequently happens as the result of initiating negotiations that the scope of them is broadened far beyond anything originally in contemplation, it is believed that such will not be the case now.

It would be extremely difficult to frame any such convention so as to secure the approval of the United States senate without a protracted struggle, and besides the effort would be sure to arouse opposition from the considerable element in the United States which is unalterably opposed to any sort of foreign entanglements. Of course this statement applies only to the United States, and this could be no objection on our part to the other powers joining in a treaty covering foreign rights in China, provided there was nothing in the agreement obnoxious to our just and proper claims. On the whole, having in view the highly satisfactory utterances in the French chambers of M. Delcasse, the French minister of foreign affairs, respecting the maintenance of the "open door" in China, there is felt in official quarters to be reason for expecting a successful outcome of the negotiations on this subject opened by the United States.

At some of the foreign establishments the proposition was considered a "feeler," resulting from the recent inquiries made by the American government as to the attitude of the great powers. Other influential members of the diplomatic corps pointed out that the plan was the logical consummation of the scheme initiated between Russia and Great Britain, where spheres of influence would be defined. The Chinese legation views the proposition as purely conjectural, and the Chinese minister, Wu Ting Fang, when his attention was directed to the matter, regarded it as preposterous.

"This is about the most refreshing suggestion we have had of late," remarked Mr. Wu. "Can it be seriously proposed that a document shall be formally drawn up concerning interests in China and China shall not be a party to it? It cannot have escaped attention that China is a sovereign nation, and when it comes to writing treaties concerning her interests and territory this sovereign nation is quite likely to have considerable to say on the subject. I hardly think any of the great and self-respecting powers would give countenance to a plan such as is outlined. It is as though a party of your neighbors met and agreed how they would occupy your house. One would take the front door, another would select the side doors, others would appropriate certain rooms. And all this without consulting you, the owner of the house.

"Of course all things are possible, and it is difficult to say how far a plan, once entered upon, may proceed. While the individual may be quite secure in his residence, it is of course always within the bounds of possibility that a band of robbers may arrange to enter the house and carry away the belongings. For that reason it is part of wisdom for the individual to be on the outlook against such moves. But it is not to be supposed that a nation stands in any such danger, as the great nations would not countenance such a course. So that the suggestions of a treaty of this character appear to me to be entirely visionary."

At one of the embassies it was pointed out that the United States was hardly likely to become a party to a treaty defining the spheres of influence of other powers, while at the same time no sphere of American influence was defined, and up to the present time it has been definitely understood that the United States did not seek any sphere of influence, but merely untrammelled entrance to all Chinese ports. As to the other powers, the view prevailed that they would be quite likely to favor such a comprehensive treaty as the one outlined in the London advices, as it carried forward the arrangements between Great Britain and Russia by which the former secured a sphere of influence in the Yang Tse valley and Russia directed her activities to northeast China.

Since returning from abroad the German ambassador, Dr. Von Holleben, has stated that the German policy in Kiao Chau was distinctly that of "the open door," and Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, has stated the same policy as to the Russian port of Talien Wan. The British position favorable to open ports is well known, and since Lord Pauncefote's return occasion has been taken to reiterate it. Beyond this, however, there has been nothing from any of the foreign representatives concerning the future of China, and without exception the representatives of powers having interests in China state positively that no instructions have been received as to treating with reference to China.

THREE WIVES IN ELEVEN YEARS.

Man May Live With All of Them Under New York Law of Disappearance.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27.—"Under the laws of the state of New York it is possible for a man to live with three women as his wives."

This statement is made by Secretary of State McDonough in a conversation on the case of Congressman Roberts. Continuing, he said:

"This is possible under these conditions. If the wife of a married man leaves him and he can find no trace of her for a period of five years, he may remarry. If the second wife follows the example of the first and trace of her is lost for five years, he may marry the third time. If the two wives should return there is no law on the statute books which would prevent them from living with him if they desire. They are still his wives and remain so until they begin proceedings to have their marriage contracts annulled.

"Thus, you see, it is possible for a New Yorker to have three wives within a period of 11 years."

Was a Soldier and Statesman.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Colonel George R. Davis, former director of the world's fair, died here Saturday night. Colonel Davis had been a sufferer from heart disease for years, and death was due primarily to this cause. Colonel Davis was a veteran of the Civil war, entering the service in 1862. He held the position of captain in the Eighth Massachusetts infantry, and major of the Third Rhode Island cavalry. Upon being mustered out he was appointed to a civil position at General Sheridan's headquarters, and went through the Indian campaigns of 1868 and 1869 in southern Kanses and Indian Territory. In 1871 he resigned and went into business. He was elected colonel of the First Illinois volunteer infantry in 1875, and in 1876 was elected to congress. Colonel Davis was also elected to the Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth congresses.

Assignment and an Arrest.

Portland, Me., Nov. 27.—The W. S. Parker company, dealers in women's garments, have made an assignment. Walter H. Potter, the former treasurer of the company, has been arrested, accused of the embezzlement and larceny of $3000. It is alleged that Potter's actions caused the assignment.

DESTRUCTION OF THE MAINE.

Evidence That Those Engaged In the Plot Were Experts In Explosives.

Havana, Nov. 27.—The United States government officials here since the battleship Maine was blown up secretly investigating that foul deed, and who have discovered that the explosive used was 700 pounds of guncotton, which was forwarded from Barcelona, Spain, to Admiral Manterola, have practically completed the report they are to make to the United States government.

Admiral Manterola's records are now wanted to show the names of his subordinates who had direct control of the explosives, and in that way the identity of the authors and executioners of the plot to destroy the Maine may be discovered.

The Maine was drawing 14 feet of water at her anchorage. Testimony before the board of inquiry appointed by the United States showed that the explosion which destroyed her struck her starboard bottom plates three feet above her bottom lines. The conclusion reached by the officials who recently have been investigating the cause of the destruction of the Maine is that the men who planted the torpedoes containing the guncotton had made a careful study of the Maine's anchorage, and the changing conditions of the tide, planting the guncotton so as to obviate the necessity for exploding the torpedoes by means of an electric wire.

New evidence which the government has secured shows that the guncotton torpedoes were anchored at ebb tide on the starboard side of the Maine and within a few feet of the ship's bottom plate. The Maine was anchored with her nose pointing toward Havana. The action of the tide swung her stern in toward the southern end of the harbor and her bow toward the west and northwest in the direction of the Morro.

The torpedoes were placed at the spot where Captain Sigsbee says a mine would have been placed. The Maine, swinging around in the action of the tide so that her nose pointed to the northwest, struck the caps attached to the floating buoys and exploded the guncotton in the torpedoes below.

The force of the explosion undoubtedly destroyed the torpedoes and submerged buoys, while the anchors used to prevent the torpedoes and buoys from floating away were undiscoverable in the mass of debris of the Maine itself.

Officials of the secret service believe that the torpedoes used were shaped like big buckets and were made either of aluminum or some other light metal easily destroyed and leaving no trace behind.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Some interest was created in official circles here by the publication of the results of what purported to be a secret investigation regarding the destruction of the battleship Maine, in Havana harbor, which, the story said, was blown up by gun cotton torpedoes, planted in the bay for that purpose. Diligent inquiry, however, fails to show that any official investiagtion has been made at the direction of the authorities here. Captain Lucien Young is the port officer at Havana, and it is possible, says one official, that he may have dug up the information.

Boy Probably Saved Many Lives.

Brazil, Ind., Nov. 27.—The courage and presence of mind of 14-year-old Frank Williams prevented a disastrous wreck on the Vandalia railroad yesterday. Williams was coming from Knightsville to this city when he noticed a broken rail which had been pressed out of position by a freight train. The lad heard a west-bound pasesnger and mail train whistle and ran up the track, and when he sighted the train stood between the rails and waved his hat. The engineer stopped the train within a few feet of the broken rail. The engineer said that had his engine struck the broken rail at such great speed a fearful wreck would have resulted.

Condition of Fall River Mills.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 27.—G. M. Haffards & Co., bankers and brokers, published the regular quarterly list of dividends of 34 Fall River corporations this morning. It shows a very prosperous condition of affairs during the past few months, all but seven corporations having divided profits with shareholders in that time. Of these seven, one passed its dividend because the earnings were diverted towards a large addition to its producing capacity; three because they have only recently been placed on a paying basis, and two for the reason that they are private corporations and do not make public their earning capacity.

Lowell Doctor Under Arrest.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 27.—Dr. David N. Patterson, with an office in the Runels building, is locked up on suspicion of having set a fire which necessitated an alarm early this morning. The fire did very little damage, but had it not been discovered almost immediately after it was started, it is hard to say what the extent of the loss would have been. Dr. Patterson was arrested by Officer McCloughry, who is said to have seen the prisoner going in and coming out of the building just before the fire was discovered. The doctor declares that he is innocent.

Wound Proved Fatal.

Waldoboro, Me., Nov. 27.—George W. Mears, 16 years old, with a schoolmate, Benjamin Lincoln, went out for a day's shooting at Washington, and after reaching the woods the boys parted. Soon after Lincoln heard his companion's gun discharged and a cry for help. Hurrying to the spot he found Mears bleeding profusely from a gunshot wound in his thigh. Doctors were summoned, but the boy died in a short time. It is thought that the gun was discharged while being carelessly handled.

Were Not All "Antis."

Boston, Nov. 27.—An attempt to hold a mass meeting to protest against the seating of Congressman-elect Roberts under the auspices of the Free Thinkers of this city yesterday was not a success, as several speakers took part who, believing in individual rights, could not see why Roberts should be prevented from taking his seat.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of he Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controlled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.
Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.
Adapted to open or closed platform.
No need of switch cleaner or tender.
Is rapid and certain in action.
Is durable.
Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

CHEERING TO BRITISH,

Methuen Captures Gras Pan After Heavy Fighting.

Several Officers From Warships Fell In Conflict.

British Military Requirements Have Been Greatly Underestimated.

Joubert Says If British Employ Natives All the Afrikanders Will Rise.

London, Nov. 27.—Today's news from South Africa is especially cheering. Another victory by Lord Methuen's column is reported. He found the enemy at Gras Pan, and after a desperate fight he captured the position. The losses are expected to be heavy, but details have not yet arrived. The naval brigade suffered heavily. Several officers of the warships who were with the brigade were killed or wounded. Thirty-one Boers are known to have been killed and 48 wounded.

No further news respecting Lord Methuen's advance has been received; and the absence of official details regarding his losses creates the greatest suspense, especially since the publication of the heavy sacrifices endured by the naval brigade.

No alarm, however, is felt as to his position, despite the evidence that the Boers intended to contest every foot of the way. It is known that, in the absence of sufficient cavalry, he would be compelled to advance slowly, and he has a preference for night or early dawn attacks, which events seem to have justified, the Boers being decidedly averse to darkness for their operations.

The fact that in the Gras Pan action one British battery fired 500 rounds proves the desperate nature of the fight, and there is little doubt that the casuities were heavy. It is now known that no guns were captured in the Belmont engagement.

Meanwhile the news from Natal is distinctly more hopeful from the British point of view. The details are rather vague, but it seems certain that the Boers are retiring; that every communication is being reopened and that the British relief forces are joining hands. All this, taken with General Buller's arrival at Pietermaritzburg, is expected to make matters move briskly very soon. General Hildyard's reconnaisance is praised as a work of very great difficulty, admirably executed.

The war office has posted the following dispatch, dated Cape Town, Nov. 26, 12:30 p. m., from General Forestier-Walker:

Lord Methuen reports that he moved Saturday, at 3:30 a. m., with the Ninth brigade, the mounted corps, the naval brigade and two batteries, the guards following with the baggage. Near Gras Pan (about 10 miles north of Belmont, on the railway line to Kimberley) 2500 Boers, with six guns and two machine guns, opposed him. The action began at 6 a. m. Our batteries fired shrapnel very accurately till the heights seemed clear. Then the naval brigade and infantry advanced to the assault. The fighting was desperate until 10 a. m., when the heights were carried. The Boers retreated on the line, where the Ninth lancers were placed to intercept them. The result was not known at the time of telegraphing. The artillery took immediate advantage of the enemy's retirement.

Early in the action 500 Boers attacked our rear guard. The brigade met this and also protected the flanks. The naval brigade acted with the greatest gallantry and suffered heavily, but no particulars are yet known.

The enemy showed the greatest stubbornness, and must have suffered greatly. Twenty were buried. It is known that 31 were killed and 48 wounded. More than 50 horses were found dead in one place. One battery fired 500 rounds.

Our force must halt one day at Gras Pan to rest and replenish ammunition. The force worked splendidly and is prepared to overcome any difficulty. The naval brigade, the royal marines, the light infantry and the First battalion of the North Lancashire regiment especially distinguished themselves.

Regarding Thursday's fight: Eighty-one Boers killed are accounted for. Sixty-four wagons were burned. A large quantity of powder, 50,000 rounds of ammunition and 750 shells were blown up. Commandant Albrecht, chief of the Orange Free State artillery, commanded the Boer artillery. General Bolewy was in chief command.

The admiralty is in receipt of the following dispatch from Rear Admiral Harris, dated Cape Town, Nov. 26: I deeply regret to report the following casualties in the action at Gras Pan yesterday: Killed, Commander Ethelston of the Powerful, Major Plumbe of the Doris, Captain D— of the Monarch; wounded, Flag Captain Prothero of the Doris, severely, and Lieutenant Jones of the Doris. The other casualties are not yet known. Commander De Horsey, Captain Morgan and Lieutenant Wilson, all of the Monarch, have proceeded to join the naval brigade with Lord Methuen.

The troopship Medic arrived at Cape Town yesterday with the Australian contingent. The Pindari and the Idaho arrived there Saturday, bringing three batteries of much-needed artillery. The Servia, with troops, has left Cape Town for Durban, and the transports Mohawk and Manchesterport have arrived at Durban.

The utmost activity prevails in getting war necessaries ready for the front. Five thousand men worked all day yesterday at Woolwich arsenal preparing stores. The arsenal employes, now numbering 19,000, have been warned that they need not expect holidays at Christmastide. Among minor items of news is a rumor that President Kruger is suffering with Bright's disease, and that his condition is giving rise to anxiety.

Five hundred Boers attacked Kuruman, in Bechuanaland, on Nov. 13. The fighting lasted almost continuously for six days and nights, but the Boers were finally beaten off with a loss of 30 in killed and 28 wounded. The British lost one killed and one wounded. The Boers suddenly disappeared, for some reason unknown to the British.

Despite to brighter outlook today, The Times, in its review of the situation, voices the anxiety felt, and says: The activity the Boers display at points separated by hundreds of miles, their ability to invest several towns, their readiness to offer battle at Belmont and again at Gras Pan, their widespread operations south of the Orange river and their bold and offensive action in Natal, seem to indicate numbers far in excess of our estimates. It is clear that the military requirements were at first greatly underestimated, and that a sixth division ought immediately to be prepared for embarkation.

The Berlin Deutsche Zeitung publishes a letter purporting to come from General Joubert and dated at Ladysmith, Oct. 27, in which the writer says:

"Even if we don't succeed in preventing the concentration of General Buller's troops the British army will be weakened from natural causes to such an extent that not more than 35,000 efficient troops, or 40,000 at the outside, can take the field. The others must be employed to protect communications. In this connection it is to be borne in mind that not only Natal, but Cape Colony, with a base of operations covering 435 miles, must be considered.

"Our bases of supply are at home and organized on the relay system in three directions. To protect these does not require 500 men. If one base should be seriously threatened the supplies will be destroyed. A war of defense, of which we need not think for a considerable time, would present far greater advantages than an offensive war. We are at home in the highlands of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. The British will have to contest every step under inconceivable difficulties and must be prepared at every moment to fight on two or three fronts.

"Then will begin a guerilla war, which the British will not be able to endure. Already we have 50,000 men in the field. So we do not need to calculate upon a rising of the Boers in Cape Colony and Natal. Nevertheless, if the British stir up the natives and employ them to fight us, a rising of the whole of Afrikanderdom is certain."

The reported determination of the United States to compel President Kruger to allow Consul General Macrum to exercise his rights as British agent at Pretoria has created an excellent impression here and has called out various expressions of satisfaction and gratitude. The Pall Mall Gazette says: The United States government is not going to stand any nonsense from President Kruger. It was the British representative who kept an eye on Hobson's captivity at Santiago, and it was British representatives who did similar services for captured Americans everywhere in Cuba and the Philippines. More power to Macrum's elbow.

Acceptable to Operatives.

Fall River, Nov. 27.—A canvass made in the various mills of the city shows that the sentiment of the operatives is unanimously in favor of accepting the recommendation of the Textile council that the offer of the Manufacturers' association to advance wages 5 percent on Dec. 11 be agreed to, together with the provision binding both sides upon the adoption of a sliding schedule of wages on or before May 1, 1900. The operatives had hoped for a 10 percent advance, but they prefer to accept a compromise rather than strike at this season of the year.

Double Murder Suspected.

Lovett, Ga., Nov. 27.—The friends of David M. Purdue and Daniel W. Pope of this place, who died in Savannah during the recent Confederate reunion, it is alleged, by reason of their blowing out the gas in their room, claim that there is a grave reason to believe the men were victims of foul play. They say that both men had considerable sums of money with them which has never been accounted for, and assert that their bodies showed signs of violence.

Man and Horse Killed.

Newton, Mass., Nov. 27.—Arthur M. Fountain, 17 years old, a driver of a milk wagon, was so badly hurt at the railroad crossing on Langley road yesterday that he died during the day. In crossing the tracks the wheels of the wagon caught in the rails, and before they could be extricated an east-bound freight crashed into the vehicle. The horse was killed and the wagon broken into pieces.

Bostonians Swindled by Miller.

Boston, Nov. 27.—There are many people in this city who would be glad to recover the money they have invested with the Franklin syndicate, the head of which, William F. Miller, is under indictment in New York. The Charlestown office is now closed, and the clerks have disappeared, as have also the books of the concern, which were kept there.

Good Understanding Undisturbed.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—The National Zeitung, referring to the rumors that the United States government is disinclined to accept the Samoan agreement without territorial compensation, denies that the United States have asked compensation and declares that the efforts "made to disturb the good understanding between Germany and the United States" may be considered to have failed.

ANARCHY AND SOCIALISM.

Their Relations to Capital and Labor Clearly Defined.

Anarchy was at one time closely affiliated with socialism, and if not a branch of it at any rate a friendly rival. At a socialist conference held at The Hague in the early seventies the anarchists, whose leader was a Russian named Bakunin, declared that the socialist methods were too mild and too slow. They advocated much more thoroughgoing reforms. They proposed to seize by violence all forms of property and to abolish the state and all fixed institutions altogether. This of course meant a secession from their connection with the socialists, who wanted merely an orderly conversion of mankind to their views and wished to give the state a stronger position than it had ever had before. So, with their watchword, "Propaganda by deed," meaning by bodily assault, if necessary, the anarchists set up for themselves. It is only fair to mention, however, that not all anarchists indorse the "propaganda by deed."

In the first place, says the anarchist, governmeent by majorities is based on the assumption that might is right, and the proof of the fallacy of the system is that over and over again the majority errs. So there must be no laws, which are always made by majorities, but the members of a community will act upon common accord. It will be quite easy, say the anarchists, for people to come to amicable agreement on things in whose furtherance all are interested. It is only matters of general concern that will come up for discussion, and man's passion for solidarity will make him adhere voluntarily to anything mutually agreed upon. Under this heading would come the public services, such as the postal delivery, which every one would wish to see promptly performed. Patriotism only teaches men to hate each other unreasonably, runs the anarchist creed, which also decries religion as being unscientific and marriage as being binding upon people who would really do better in their own sober judgment to separate. The institution of marriage, say the anarchists, is also vitiated by the scandal of divorce. Education they believe to be unpractical, as it pays so much to the ornamental side of life. Languages which are no longer spoken can be of no use, and history, which only relates the deeds of tyrants and describes battles, holds up no good examples. But the anarchal ideas, which, if carried out, would prove the most sweeping of "reforms," refer to what political economists call property. And this is how the anarchists would dispose of property:

All the land and everything that can be taken from it, in minerals, timber, fruit, vegetables, corn and so on, must belong to everybody. All wealth existing in the shape of manufactured articles or raw materials or natural products will also become public possession. There is now overproduction, so that evidently there is enough for everybody, and for this reason the supply cannot be exhausted if every one takes fully as much as he requires. No one will have an object in taking more than he really needs, as the earth never fails to yield more than enough for the consumption of the whole world. Under this plan of every one helping himself freely to what every one contributes in the measure of his capacity there can be no place for employers, employed and wages. The anarchists calculate that their industrial scheme would probably reduce the working day to five hours. It is important to note that, to begin with, real estate, houses, capital, merchandise and all forms of private property would simply be taken away without compensation from the individuals owning them.—Collier's Weekly.

Poverty and Respectability.

"Some politicians," says Eugene V. Debs, "are very fond of telling you, especially in campaign time, about the dignity of labor. They say, 'The pearly beads of perspiration on the brow of toil are gems and jewels far more rich and rare than any that ever adorned a monarch's diadem.' But did you ever see any of those fellows tumbling over one another to invest in these jewels? Hardly. The poor have a monopoly on those commodities. The poor are in sole control of the grim trust.

"You have heard of the dignity of labor? Is there such a thing? Are you ambitious for your son to become a coal miner or a factory hand or a laborer on the Great Northern railway? No, of course you are not. Do you want to know why the grime of labor does not secure you admission to the most exclusive circles? It is because wage selling is wage slavery, and the marks of toil are the marks of degradation, the badges of servitude.

"I say this at the expense of my respectability, but until right and respectability are synonymous terms would rather be right than to be respectable."

Boycotts Galore.

Never before in the history of the city have there been so many labor union boycotts in operation as there are today. There are about 45 regularly organized unions in the city, and the bulletin issued on the 1st by the Central Labor union shows there are boycotts operative against about 50 local concerns. Wherever one turns to do business the grim image of the boycott faces him. An instance is the visit to the city of a soap agent who was a union man. He first stopped at the Cooley hotel, which is boycotted; then he bought tickets for a theater party at the New Gilmore Opera House, which is to be boycotted, and was given warning just in time to save him from the mistake of eating at a non-union restaurant. What is a stranger to do? It is serious, even in its most favorable light.—Springfield Republican.

Good Afternoon.

When Brookline becomes too large to continue under a town form of government, it should become a city. There should be no exception in her case, whereby a town council may be organized. A town council is neither one thing or the other.

The City Council should go slow in appropriating $5,000 additional for sewer construction so urgently requested by the Sewer Commissioners since they transferred $5,000 to the Commissioner of Public Works. Such an appropriation would exhaust the amount that can be appropriated by the city under authority of the Legislature, and this would seem very unwise as the Legislature will not sanction further loans for several months. Further, it is too late in the year to open any more streets for sewer mains. The work of sewer construction should stop Dec. 1, or Saturday night of this week at the latest.

The City Council of 1899 should not be charged with further extravagance. It has been altogether too liberal this year.

The weather this fall has been very mild and pleasant up to this date, and out-door work has been well attended to. The widening of Coddington street is nearly completed, except where the two old houses stand—one at the corner of Spear street, and the other back of the old grain store. The street along side of the meadow has been raised about three feet, and in the future will not probably be covered with water in the winter season. The big cut, some ten or more feet deep, through the almshouse lot, is nearing completion.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ Of course General Funston will encounter dangers in the Philippines but he will escape the clutches of the coal trust and that is quite an important consideration for a young married man.—Kansas City Journal.

☞ Nobody running on the Democratic municipal ticket in this city will be arrested for violation of the law against lotteries, notwithstanding that it is one of the biggest games of chance extent.—Lynn Item.

☞ The patriotic female who is trying to raise money by popular subscription to buy a house for Admiral Schley, announces that the original deed of transfer to the admiral will prohibit him from passing over the ownership to his wife. — Milford Journal.

☞ In their plentitude of power trades unions have violated certain simple truths in political economy which relate to the right of the individual to restrict others from obtaining skill in the several callings organized for mutual protection. Without the least desire to refuse recognition to the value derived from organized labor, still less to persecute the followers of any belief in the application of methods to carry into effect the principles and measures claimed to be essential to the success of trades unions there is a condition peculiar to this country which will speedily put an end to the present system of regulating the employment of apprentices. Let it be fairly understood that the restraints placed today upon learning a trade are so many that society is alarmed because of the growth of American youth unfitted to make an honest living. Nor can this desire to protect the living trades people who are skilled be divested of the fact that the ranks of skilled labor are being filled from abroad, while the native population is hampered beyond a degree of prudence. — Haverhill Gazette.

☞ Joshua Reynolds, the famous printer, once said to his nephew: "To make it people's interest to advance you, by showing that their business will be better done by you than by any other person, is the only solid foundation of success; the rest is accident.

☞ Do not feel troubled because you are in the minority. Noah was in the minority, but he came out of the flood all right. Lot was in a very small minority in Sodom, but he escaped the fire. Our Lord and His disciples were in a very small minority in Palestine, but He started a flame of ever increasing power that is destined to envelop the earth. Be sure you are right, and calmly stand alone if need be.—Christian Alliance.

Council Business.

One of the important matters to come before the meeting of the City Council tonight will be the drawing of twenty jurors. The Committee on Streets will report on petitions of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. for location for poles; on the petition of Andrew Johnson to run a guy wire; and on the petition to change the name of Canal street between Hancock and Washington street to Revere road. The Commiittee on Public Buildings will report on the petition of the School Committee relative to connecting the school buildings with the public sewer. The Committee on Licenses will report on a number of petitions for minor licenses. The Finance Committee have several matters before them upon which reports may be expected.

☞ Oil heaters for cold or chilly rooms. $1.50 to $5.75. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

A Souvenir.

The Lynn Item with commendable enterprise brought out an extra eight pages on Saturday, recalling and illustrating the disastrous fire in that city just ten years ago. Lynn has grandly survived the loss and during the decade has gained $11,000,000 in valuation. Substantial structures have taken the place of many of the buildings burned but a few sites have never been built upon. Thirty acres were burned over in that fire.

Johnson and an interesting address by the pastor, Rev. E. C. Butler.

There came near being a fire at the residence of Richard Buckley on Copeland street Sunday night. It was about 6.45 o'clock when a little daughter of Mr. Buckley accidentally knocked a lighted lamp onto the floor. In an instant the lamp blazed up and all was confusion. Cornelius Driscoll who happened to be near rushed in and threw the burning lamp out of doors, and with a rug smothered the fire which had started on the floor.

The cantata, The Holy City, to be given at the Wollaston Unitarian church tomorrow evening, should be a real treat to the music-lovers of this city. Rice and the famous oratorio tenor, Mr. George Parker of Boston. Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith and Miss Olney are the accompanists. SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

What Abutters Must Pay Toward the Sewer.

Cost May Be Apportioned Over Ten Years.

Many in List Must Pay Over $100; Some Much More.

The Ledger continues the publication of the assessments by the city upon the abutters in payment of their half of the cost of sewer construction. The list is not given in alphabetical order, but by streets as the pipes are laid.

The total assessment upon each lot is not given, but the assessment per frontage at the rate of 12 cents per foot, and the assessment per area within 100 feet of the street at the rate of 6 mills per square foot. To obtain the total assessment it is only necessary to add the two together.

In all cases probably the assessment per area is the larger, as the area is supposed, to pay eight-tenths of the assessment, and the frontage the other two-tenths. In many cases, notably corner lots, the assessment per frontage is nearly as large as upon the area.

These assessments may be paid in one, two or more instalments up to ten. If paid within three months from date of bill no interest will be collected, but if apportioned over a number of years interest will be added.

It is proposed to continue the publication as space will admit.

Scenery That Acts.

Scenery that acts! If Wagner had wrought no other revolution on the operatic stage, he would deserve our gratitude. Take for purpose of comparison the vessel in "L'Africaine" and the ship in the first act of "Tristan and Isolde." The former shows the section of a vessel as neatly divided into various compartments as a box of seed samples. If the scene is well done, if, when the double basses begin to rumble and the ship begins to roll, the women shriek in their compartments, the priests pray in theirs, and the savages whose canoes would surely have been swamped in the storm, supposing they could have been launched at all, climb over the ship's side and massacre everything in sight—well, we see the cleverness of it and are entertained, but hardly horror stricken or overcome by terror.

On the other hand, the ship's deck in "Tristan," with its group of silent men near the helm and its passion torn woman in the foreground, the distant horizon line suggesting the sea far more effectively than a whole platoon of mechanically "worked" waves possibly can, creates illusion and atmosphere, and forms as much a component part of the music drama as the singers and orchestra. The ship in "L'Africaine" is a clever bit of stage mechanics; the ship in "Tristan" is scenery that acts.—Gustav Kobbe in Century.

It Paid to Be Cheerful.

A manufacturer of Kensington tells this true tale: "Fifteen years ago I was very rich, but ten years ago there came a time when it seemed that I'd surely fall. One day when a smash appeared a certainty I walked down Chestnut street toward the wool warehouses, blue, blue as indigo, but I braced up and put on a cheerful air. Just then a man I knew came in and said:

"'Say, Bill, what makes you always look so cheerful? Don't you ever have any trouble at all?'

"'Oh, yes,' said I, jollying a little; 'but to look blue doesn't do any good,' etc.

"'Well,' this fellow said, 'I tell you what I'm going to do. I've got $25,000 lying idle, and I'm going to get you to invest it for me. You're so well off, so lucky in business always, and so blamed cheerful, I'm sure nothing ever fails with you, and I want you to invest this money any way you please, and I won't even ask you how you did invest it.'

"Well, I took this man's money. It was just the amount my tottering business needed. A year later times and prices were vastly better, and I paid the $25,000 back with interest at—what do you think?—9 per cent."—Philadelphia Record.

A Heartless Maiden.

There is a girl in town who, being both bright and pretty, has a good many admirers, but the most ardent of all happens to be a pudgy old grass widower, with two grandchildren and a red nose.

Naturally she has to stand a good deal of guying on his account and skips him as much as possible. So much, in fact, that the poor man had no chance to plead his cause in private and alone and so was at last driven to the use of pen and paper.

Here is his production. It is recommended to all bashful lovers for its brevity and beauty, as well as businesslike construction:

Nettie, I want to know my fate. You know that I love you. Will you marry me? If so, speak to me about it. I think the world of you. Give me a chance, Nettie. Yours truly,

BLANKETY DASH.

And would you believe it? That heartless maiden hasn't "spoken to him about it" yet.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Story of Judge Mattacks.

Henry Keyes of Vermont was a lifelong Democrat. Governor Mattacks—or Judge Mattacks—was for a brief period a Democrat also. After he got to be a judge he soon became a Whig. While holding court at St. Johnsbury he occupied a room at the leading hotel, which, as was usual during court time, was dull. Late at night Mr. Keyes arrived and wanted a bed. The landlord informed him that every bed in the house had two in it except the one that was occupied by Judge Mattacks.

"Go up and tell him that Henry Keyes wants to sleep with him."

The landlord went up, rapped at the judge's door, and told him his errand.

"Henry Keyes," said the judge half asleep; "Henry Keyes of Newbury? Democrat? Oh, yes. I've had it once. Let him in."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Mount Rainier's Shadows.

A recent visitor from the east to Puget sound describes with enthusiasm the wonderful shadow effects produced by, and upon, the gigantic snowy cone of Mount Rainier. It sometimes happens that the sky, as seen from the city of Tacoma just before sunrise, is covered with a dome of cloud 15,000 feet, or more, in height, while behind the peak, toward the east, the sky is clear. In such circumstances the rising sun casts the shadow of the great mountain upon the cloud curtain overhead in the form of a vast blue triangle, the point of which rests upon the apex of the peak. At other times the shadow of the earth can be seen creeping up the cone in a distinct curve, while the flush of sunset stains the snow above the line of shadow to a deep pink.—Youth's Companion.

Mrs. Drew's Opinion of Edwin Booth.

Edwin Booth had a very sweet character and a charming manner at rehearsals, which he detested. I think, after Hamlet, his Bertuccio in the "Fool's Revenge" was his finest representation. He threw his whole soul into it, and it was indeed a performance to be remembered.—Mrs. John Drew in Scribner's.

GO, LOVELY ROSE.

Go, lovely rose!
Tell her that wastes her time and me,
That now she knows,
When I resemble her to thee,
How sweet and fair she seems to be.

Tell her that's young
And shuns to have her graces spied
That hadst thou sprung
In deserts, where no men abide,
Thou must have uncommended died.

Small is the worth
Of beauty from the light retired;
Bid her come forth,
Suffer herself to be desired,
And not blush so to be admired.

Then die, that she
The common fate of all things rare
May read in thee:
How small a part of time they share
That are so wondrous sweet and fair!

—Edmund Waller.

THE LAME TIGER OF HULDUANI.

A Story Showing That It Is More Dangerous to Be a Coward Than to Be Brave.

It was in the middle of May, just before the beginning of the lesser rains, that Ram Deen and certain wayfarers sat round a handful of fire at Lal Kooah from mere force of habit, for the heat of the evening was great, and not a breath of air stirred in the jungle. The sal trees had lost their leaves and looked like ghosts, the grass had been burned in all directions, and as the sun set in the copper sky it lit up a landscape that might have stood for the "abomination of desolation."

The dry chirping of the crickets, just beginning to tune their first uneasy strains, accorded with the unholy scene. Even the horses waiting for the mail cart were imbued with the depressing influence of the season and hung their heads with a sense of despair.

No one spoke, and the hookah passed from hand to hand in a dreary silence. Suddenly the attention of those assembled was attracted by the curious action of a bya (tailor) bird in a neighboring mimosa tree. It was calling frantically and dropping lower from bough to bough, as though against its will.

"Nag!" exclaimed the bunnia, and, directed by his remark, all eyes were turned to the foot of the tree, where an enormous cobra, with expanded hood, was swaying its head from side to side and drawing the wretched bird to its doom through the fascination of fear.

Ram Deen, whose sympathies were always with the weak and defenseless, rose to his feet and, throwing a dry clod of earth at the reptile, drove the creature from the tree, while the bird, released from its hypnotic influence, flew away.

"Brothers," said Ram Deen, "fear is the father of all sins and the cause of most calamities. He who feareth not death is a king in his own right and dieth but once, but a coward—shabash! who can count his pangs?"

"Ho, ho!" chuckled the little bullock driver. "Ram Deen, the fearless, shall live to be a hundred years old."

"Nay, Goor Dutt!" said Ram Deen, gravely regarding the little man. "I, too, have known fear. No man may drive the mail to Kaladoongie without looking on death."

Ram Deen smoked awhile in silence, and when the expectation of his listeners was wrought to a proper pitch he went on, "Ye all knew Nandha, the hostler, who used to go with me last year from this stage to Kaladoongie?"

"Aye, coach-wan ji," responded the carrier for the others. "'Tis a great telling, but not known to these honorable wayfarers who come from beyond Moradabad."

"Brothers, ye saw the plight of the bya bird but now; so was it with Nandha," said Ram Deen.

"One evening ere the mail arrived he called me to where he stood by the kikar tree yonder, looking down at the ground. In the dust of the road were large footprints.

"'These be the spoor of a tiger lame in its left hind foot,' I said to Nandha. 'See, here it crouched on its belly and wiped away the wheel tracks made by the mail cart this morning.'

"'Tis the lame tiger of Huldwani, coach-wan. He is old, and he hunteth man. Gunga send he is hunting elsewhere tonight,' replied Nandha.

"When we came within a mile of the Bore bridge that night, the horses stopped suddenly. They were wild with fear, and refused to move. The night was as dark as the inside of a gourd, and beyond the circle of light made by our lanterns we could discern in the middle of the road two balls of fire close to the ground.

"'Bag (tiger),' said Nandha, as he climbed over into the back seat. 'We be dead men, Ram Deen.'

"'Blow!' I commanded, giving him the bugle, and he startled the jungle with a blast, I gathered up the reins, and, adding my voice to the terrors of Nandha's music, I urged the horses with whip and yell to a fury of speed, and the lighted lanterns showed the great beast leaping into the darkness to escape our onset.

"Nandha ceased not from blowing on the bugle till I took it from him by force at the door of the postoffice at Kaladoongie.

"They gave him bhang to smoke and arrack to drink ere he slept that night, for his great fear had deprived him of reason for awhile, and he looked round him as though he expected to see the tiger's eyes everywhere.

"'The bag followed me to the hither side of the Bore bridge,' he said to me next morning as we prepared to return to Lal Kooah. But I laughed at his fears, to give him his courage.

"'It is a devil,' he whispered, looking cautiously round him, and I saw that the light of his reason flickered.

"When we came to the Bore bridge, Nandha leaped to the ground, and in the dim light of the morning I could see the tracks of a great beast on the ground, to which he pointed, and even as we looked there came the roar of a tiger. I could scarce hold the horses while Nandha, whose limbs were stiff with fear, scrambled into the back seat of the mail cart.

"When a tiger puts its mouth to the ground and gives voice, no man may tell whence the sound comes, so I staid not to see, if I might, where the danger lay, but gave the horses free rein.

"As we cleared the end of the bridge Nandha screamed, 'Bag, bag!' and glancing back I saw the tiger in full pursuit of us, and within 100 paces.

"'Blow!' I commanded, handing the bugle to Nandha; but, though he took it from me, he appeared not to understand what he was required to do.

"'Blow!' said I once more, shaking him, but he took no heed of me, and was as a man who walks in his sleep. So I put my arm round him and lifted him on to the front seat beside me, and even as I pulled him to me his head was drawn over his shoulder by the spell of fear. There was a foam on his lips and on his beard, and he shook so that I feared he would fall off the mail cart.

"'Be brave, Nandha!' I shouted to him. 'The beast is lame, and we shall soon leave it behind.' For answer, he turned his face to me for one instant, and his lips framed the word 'bag,' but no sound came therefrom.

"Suddenly he laughed like a child that is pleased with a toy, babbling, and saying: 'How beautiful is my lord! Soft be the road to his feet! But look, my lord limpeth; belike he hath a thorn in his foot!' As he rose, I put an arm round him and forced him down again, and at that instant the tiger uttered another roar. The horses swerved and would have left the road in their fear had I not put forth the full strength of both my arms, and as soon as Nandha felt himself free he leaped to the ground and advanced toward the tiger. He walked joyously, as a loyal servant who goes to meet his lord.

"Looking over my shoulder (for now the horses were in the middle of the road, which here stretched straight ahead of us), I beheld Nandha proceed toward the tiger, which now crouched in the road, waiting for him, its tail waving from side to side. When he was within five paces of the beast, he salaamed to the ground and as he stooped the tiger sprang on him with another roar and, throwing him over its shoulder, it bounded with him into the jungle."—Westminster Budget.

Latin.

Latin, once the speech of a petty district by the Tiber, became the standard medium of intercourse for a mighty empire, absorbed into itself the spirit of the institution, became its outward embodiment and survives today as a monument to the essential character of that institution better and truer than Coliseum or Forum. Its present place in education, in literature, in law, is determined by the place that Rome still holds in the organized life of Europe and in all organized life whose sources are in European civilization. A visible emblem is the place it still holds as the language of the Roman church; for the Roman church is in all reality the Roman empire expressed in terms of the things of the soul. The schoolboy learns from his Latin, if he learns it well, more than words, rules, paradigms, maxims, bits of history or scraps of mythology; he drinks in the life of old Rome and the spirit of its institutions—law, order, organization, authority. There is nothing left us, now that the Romans are gone, so Roman as Latin.—President Benjamin Ide Wheeler in Atlantic.

Going Into Commission.

Speaking of ships and shipping, one hears frequently of water craft "going into commission," and it seems natural that the landsman should ask, What does the phrase mean?

The term has been misapplied, according to the statement of a shipping firm, when used in connection with merchantmen. A vessel built for trade is "in business," "or laid up," and the term "in commission" is not applied to her except by such people as they who go "up stairs" and "down stairs" on a ship.

As to yachts, the same authority said, "When the owner raises his private signal and has commander and crew aboard, the yacht is in commission, and this does not happen until the vessel is in condition to go on a cruise."

War vessels are in commission when the commanding officer's flag or pennant has been hoisted at the main, and this again indicates that the vessel is in active service.—New York Tribune.

His Cork Leg.

A man tried to drown himself in the North river by jumping off a ferryboat. Unfortunately for his purpose, he wore a cork leg, and the leg not only refused to sink, but kept the would be suicide so far out of the water that he could not drown. He was very much disgusted, particularly when he found himself under arrest in Jersey City on a charge of disorderly conduct. Suicide is not a punishable offense in Jersey City. Had he tried to drown himself in New York waters he would have found himself in much worse plight as regards the law.—New York World.

The Water Spider.

There is nothing new in the diving bell. Long before man thought he invented it the water spider knew all about it. The water spider crawls down a reed, dragging his diving bell with him, and anchors it under water on a level keel, so that the air it contains keeps the water out.

USEFUL SOFA PILLOWS.

Christmas Presents That Will Please All Women.

TWO VERY ATTRACTIVE DESIGNS.

Burnt Leather Gifts That Are as Suitable For Men as For Women. Good For a Man's Den—How the Pillows Are Made.

There was once an old woman who lived in a shoe and had so many children she didn't know what to do, but there never was a woman who had too many pretty sofa pillows. Just keep this fact in mind when you are wondering what you will give Aunt Kate or Cousin Janet or Mrs. Goode Friend. And also bear in mind that sofa pillows are as suitable for men as for women. They are a useful convenience for a man's den, pretty effects in comfort for the boudoir and furnishings for all rooms.

Sofa pillows are presents that never come amiss, and they may be made in a variety that is endless. Besides, they can be furnished in every material and also decorated in any number of ways to suit all places. In fact, they are indispensable, dainty furnishers which give a home atmosphere everywhere.

Pillows differ in treatment each season. New ones are made and sold, but those of home manufacture are often the best, especially if the clever needlewoman understands the laws of decoration and makes a happy selection of colors.

A charming affair which is singularly appropriate for men is made of undressed calf, with an etched or burnt decoration. The model shown in the illustration includes two colors, the center being of a rich tan, the border of green, simply stitched on by the machine. If preferred, one single piece can be used instead of two. In either case the leather is cut out the desired size and the design burnt in with an etching tool or, more simply still, with an ordinary slate pencil, sharpened to a point, held firmly in a metal handle and heated redhot. While the etching tool is, of course, better and will produce broader results, the leather scorches so readily that the homemade device can be made to answer for simple things. When the decoration is complete, the four edges of the two pieces cut for the cushion are punched with round holes at intervals of two inches or thereabout and bound together with thongs or narrow strips cut from the leather. The skins can be obtained from large dealers in leather or from those who handle etching materials and are not overcostly, while the pillows are durable in the extreme and may be cleaned if necessary. The design suggested is a good one, but even simpler things can be done, if preferred, like a fleur-de-lis. Conventional patterns, such as stars, disks or scrolls, even the human figure, can be cleverly depicted or a landscape by the amateur who understands the principles of drawing. This pillow serves as a background for such schemes.

Another stylish affair and of very inexpensive make is the scroll pillow, which is made of gray chamois, one of those delicious tints which this leather so often affords. The model shown in the illustration is couched in a pattern of conventional treatment, with Japanese gold thread sewed on with silk of the same color. The larger figures indicated are finished by a number of small French knots worked on the chamois with an embroidery silk of the same tint as the Japanese thread. After the cover of the pillow is ornamented and made holes are punched at equal distances around all four edges and then laced with a thick gold cord. These holes can be made by an ordinary shoemaker's punch. In making pillows of this sort there is a variety of tints in chamois which serve this purpose, such as a deep rose, a pale yellow and a good tone in tan, all of which are very effective if embroidered in this gold thread. Among its desirable qualities is that it never fades or tarnishes and is exceedingly durable, but care should be taken in the putting on, which should be smooth and even, with corners well turned. These are attractive schemes for every room. They fill a want in a man's library and are charming accessories to all furnishings. As gifts they are unrivaled.

For the useful and everyday pillow what a wealth of cotton materials is found in the market! Textures in solid tones form a unique background for these pretty affairs. In ginghams there are different colors of plaids in all sizes, and there are agra linens in beautiful tints and denims rich in tone and fine in quality. Even the dull velveteen offers itself as a scheme for artistic decoration.

The pillow indicated is of agra linen or denim. The model shown in acorns and green leaves is of denim in a rich shade of tan. For the decoration furnished the green leaves may be embroidered in solid tints of their respective shades or be outlined and then worked in their different tones with the long and short stitch. The ac ns should be solidly done in their na colors, the cups well defined in knots, so that the body is given the appearance of raised work for each one. Around the four edges of the pillow is a twisted cotton cord in dull browns. These cords are pretty, come in all shades and as a finish are charmingly appropriate.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Dainty Doilies For the Breakfast Table as Christmas Gifts.

In all homes where dainty accessories are one of the table's features there are many pretty yet serviceable objects which make up an everyday decoration. One of them is a hot bread doily, which keeps warm well cooked rolls, good corn bread or snowy biscuits. As a Christmas gift the needleworker has much to gain in a device which costs but little and is pleasing to all women friends who love home and its ornamentations.

The hot bread doilies are most attractive presents. They are a delight to look upon and are easily made. Cut a piece of fine linen 15 inches square. This may be doubled and seamed on the edges, or the linen may be of a heavier sort, such as that known as butcher's, and left single and scalloped or fringed as a finish. In any case the corners should be folded over to meet at the center, as indicated in the illustration, and on each triangle the embroidery should be worked.

In schemes shown the one in a design of wheat is embroidered in a fine floss of pale straw color, while the corn shows the kernels in an even decoration of cream white, the husks being carefully worked in a delicate tender green. Yet if the embroiderer is an amateur in the working of silks an easier subject can be given, such as a few daisies scattered here and there over each triangle, or violets can do duty. If this treatment is made in fine linen, then the doily may have a two inch border and above it a hemstitch, while around the entire square may be an embroidery in a delicate vine of morning glories or a dainty grouping of blossoms, making for either one a decorative scheme.

the old fashioned setting a well formed combination in letters may be purchased as an ornamentation for one of these unadorned triangles. If time is limited, a fine plain linen napkin may be substituted and be made a treatment like those in the illustrations. These doilies are used for vegetables, such as baked sweet potatoes, and to keep hot corn warm. They are very happy thoughts for a Christmas present, their cost lying chiefly in the time given in the making.

An Effective Scarf.

A bureau scarf which is extremely effective and yet involves but litle work may be made in the following manner: Select fine French organdie having a white ground on which are thrown delicate blossoms of some sort. Cut the required size and line with pink or light blue nearsilk or silesia. For the edge make a frill, very full and finished with several rows of baby ribbon of the same shade as the lining. At each corner put a rosette made of many loops of the baby ribbon.

The Fashionable Pincushion.

The long, narrow pincushions called yard cushions are most in favor at the present time. White linen, embroidered in rosebuds and edged with a very ample, full frill of valenciennes lace, with loops of baby ribbon at the corners, will make a dainty affair acceptable to any woman of taste.

IN QUARTERS AT PASIG.

How American Soldiers Fare In the Philippines.

NOT MANY HARDSHIPS SUFFERED.

Religious Exercises of the Natives. Their Schools and Strange Cemeteries—Insects Not Very Bothersome—High Prices Caused by the Willingness of Americans to Pay Them.

A week's stay in this country soon reduces things to the commonplace, and yet there is much that is of interest which we will recall afterward with pleasure, writes Henry Swift, chaplain of the Thirteenth regiment, from Pasig, Philippine Islands, to the New York Commercial Advertiser under date of Oct. 3.

I have seen some of our breastwork life. The Thirteenth occupies a line of five or six miles from the sea to San Pedro Macati. There is a low stretch of earthworks running in an irregular direction through the jungle of bamboo palm and tropical vegetation, with strips of bamboo or bamboo poles, making a flooring within for the men to rest on. At certain distances and points of vantage are elevations of earth where sentinels are posted constantly to scrutinize the dense thickets beyond. The men are scattered along thinly in tents or nipa huts, and in a minute the whole length of defenses can be manned. These nipa huts are raised on bamboo piles, are woven of a coarse rush about an inch wide, laid on a bamboo frame, with thatched roof of nipa very steep and inside ceiling of bamboo matting. The floor is composed of bamboo strips, with cracks between varying from a quarter to half an inch, and is strong and elastic, easily kept clean and making a comfortable bed at night. The floor is high enough to be above water level, which rises sometimes a yard. The roof sheds the rain completely. The numerous cracks and apertures make the rooms pleasantly cool, and light and air are admitted through sliding windows made of little squares of shell. Cooking, washing, etc., are generally done out of doors, the ground kept trimly swept with homemade brooms of bamboo. Indeed, as far as I can judge, in dress, person, houses and grounds the Philippine peasantry are remarkably neat and might give Americans some pointers.

They seem to be very devout. Every house has it crucifix and religious pictures on the wall. On Sunday at early mass there was service in the vestry of the church by my quarters. The body of the church is used for a hospital. The vestry would hold only a score or so, but outside of the door and far out on the turf were hundreds of women and children kneeling, while a solid phalanx of men, all in white, with heads bare and bowed, were standing on the side. The angelus rings at its regular time, and as men pass the church they doff their hats, turn a moment to their aves and cross themselves.

By the side of the church is the graveyard, with hundreds of unnoted mounds for the "pobres," while in the wall behind the church are deep shelves, where the richer have the remains of their loved ones. But the occupancy is brief. If, at the end of a year, a rental is not forthcoming, the body is removed and thrown on the ground with scant respect. Along the wall lay a confused heap of skulls and ribs and thigh bones, hopelessly unrecognizable and uncared for.

They have their village school, or had rather until we came, with two men and two women teachers, free. I examined one of the school books, a very small compendium, containing in the compass of an ordinary duodecimo a catechism of history, geography, arithmetic, geometry (plane and solid) and grammar.

But leaving these and going back to the trenches, I find our men looking mainly very comfortable, healthy and contented. Their outdoor and largely temperate life seems to agree with them. They have enough drill, patrol and guard duty to keep them busy. They receive a good ration of fresh bread and hard tack, fresh beef which comes here frozen from the United States and Australia, bacon, rice, dried fruits, potatoes and onions, and men and officers fare mostly alike. Every one who has been to Cuba says it is vastly better here. The climate is not insufferable. The days are hot, as hot as in San Antonio or Tampa, but the nights are cool and pleasant, and I have found a blanket a necessary covering.

Insects and vermin, I think, have been much overrated as a nuisance. This and mosquitoes right down here in swamp lands practically cause but slight annoyance. I have heard of snakes, but seen none as yet. Lizards abound, but they are a gentle, timid beast and are great destroyers of insects. The roaches are the worst thing. While absent from the nipa huts they gallop all over your possessions in the stone and plastered buildings. The ants are multitudinous and are very destructive, especially to woodwork, chairs, tables, beds, even the solid frames of houses.

The water is vile. You see standing pools thick with green confervous scum, wells stone built and curbed, but a look into its impure depths suffices to turn the stomach, and you loathe to use it, even for bathing. Fortunately we catch much rainwater, and a long train of bull carts brings distilled water from the city every day for drinking and cooking.

These water buffaloes, or "cariboas," are unique, about three feet high and as many abeam, with great, flat, scimiter horns, lying almost on their backs, as they hold their heads on the horizontal, a dull gray, almost hairless, with holes pierced through their nostrils for their rope reins. They drag along the native carts, with moist, pathetic eyes and uttering sobbing pants, going at the rate of a mile or more or less an hour. They, however, need but little urging and can traverse the most hopelessly boggy and rutty roads. When relieved, they will bury themselves up to the nose in some mud hole or vile smelling pond and lie there for hours, a picture of perfect content.

The ponies, not much bigger than Shetlands, are gentle, sturdy little beasts and can almost do a horse's work. They are everywhere in the city and on the roads, acting as mounts for the heaviest or dragging little dogcarts ("carromitas") or two seated carts ("quelis") or victorias and tram cars. Prices were reasonable, but Americans are beginning to change all that, as they always do to their cost. Mexican or Philippine silver sells for $2.05 for American gold, and native prices need to be cut in half when rated to our currency. So they charged for an hour's use of a carromita 20 cents and for quelis 25 cents. Street car fares are 2 cents a section. A ride of say two miles costs but 4 cents. Laundry work was 5 cents apiece. A good course dinner in the better restaurants costs $1 or $1.50 and is well worth it. Service was $5 a month, etc., but our foolish American contempt for small things is rapidly teaching the Filipinos to charge double. And the unaccustomed ear of our soldiers often mistakes Mejicanos for Americanos, and so he pays $2 where he should pay $1, thinks it cheap and leaves the native impressed with American gullibility.

I have been much impressed with the tokens of a firm and kindly regime (martial), especially in the city. The trim native police, in their gay uniforms, augmented by a provost guard of soldiers, armed with "billets," maintain good order by day, while an armed guard at night (8:30) clears the streets and keeps them cleared, none being allowed abroad without a pass. And all stores and saloons are closed. On Sunday everything is closed but the drug stores and restaurants. A sanitary police is at work constantly cleaning the streets and removing garbage. Justice is administered with fairness and rigor. Old residents tell me that everything is far more satisfactory than under Spanish rule. And Philippine gentlemen have told me the same. General Otis has a very large task to perform and I believe is doing it well. It is not all fighting in a problem like the present. Military occupancy means a thousand other things, and none who are unacquainted with its infinite details should presume to pass judgment. There have been tremendous difficulties, and, as far as immediate activity is concerned, the drenching, deluging rains are enough to bar ourselves as well as the insurgents.

There seems, however, to be a movement in the air, and last night there was a concentration here, looking to something. And reports come of skirmishing at Imus, one of our outlying stations, 12 miles away.

ON CABLE ROUTE TO MANILA.

Obstacles Encountered by the Collier Nero on Its Surveying Trip.

The work of the collier Nero in surveying a route for a transpacific telegraph cable between Honolulu and the Philippines is narrated by Rear Admiral Bradford in his annual report to the secretary of the navy at Washington. After a careful consideration of the subject it was decided, he says, that the route westward from Honolulu to the Philippine Islands was by way of the Midway islands and Guam, landing the cable at a convenient point on the east coast of Luzon, as near as possible to the latitude of Manila. It was also decided as desirable to survey a route from Guam to Yokohama.

Two offsets from the projected great circle route between the Midway islands and Guam were found to be necessary in order to avoid obstacles to a successful laying and operation of a telegraph cable. The first of these obstacles encountered is a submarine mountain, situated a short distance westward of the Midway islands and rising from the floor of the ocean, which here sinks to a depth of 2,200 fathoms, to within 82 fathoms of the surface. The second obstacle is one of the deepest submarine abysses yet found in the world, situated about 500 miles eastward of Guam and sinking to a depth of more than 4,900 fathoms. Reports have been received of the preliminary line of soundings from Honolulu to Luzon, and they indicate that the route which is being surveyed will prove entirely practicable.

Dewey's Decision.

I crave no further honors; I am ready now to rest;
I do not want to mix in state affairs.
I went where duty called me, and I did my level best;
Let others now assume the people's cares!
A blissful song is ringing in my ears
That is sweeter for the waning of the years,
So let others bear the weight
Brought them by affairs of state,
And let others have the winning of the cheers.

I do not crave a place among the potentates of earth,
To be hurried, to be worried and to fret;
I hold the candle dearer than the killing game is worth—
Glory's good, but there is something better yet.
A blissful song is ringing in my ears
That is sweeter for the waning of the years!
Oh, the dreamy days of fall
Are the fairest of them all,
So let others have the winning of the cheers!

I have stood before the gaze of all the world, and I have heard
The shouts of millions rising to the sky,
But the greatest of all glory's in a tender little word,
And the triumph that is best is in a sigh!
A blissful song is ringing in my ears
That is sweeter for the dreary, weary years,
And I'd be with her alone,
All her smiles and praise my own,
So let others have the winning of the cheers!

—S. E. Kiser in Chicago Times-Herald.

The Theaters In Japan.

The theaters are the very places to study the Japanese. In many theaters the entire house is divided by rails into square pens 4 by 4 feet, intended for four Japanese, but often containing half a dozen. The men and women are barefoot, walk the narrow dividing rails to reach their reserved "seats." The patrons kneel within these square pens, or, when there are no pens, they squat upon the floor in little circular groups and smoke, eat, drink, fan themselves and chatter. Many come in and go out at random. Children run to and fro. Frequently the spectators bring luncheon and pass the day within the theater, the play continuing uninterruptedly.

The stage, which in some theaters revolves to change scenes, has two detached projections three feet wide, extending among the audience. Upon these projections the performers run, reciting and acting.

Their acting is sufficiently curious. A villain slain walks off the stage, a Jap mops with a dirty cloth the chief actor's face while he is speaking. The prompter, dressed all in black, gown, hood and girdle, will follow the actor all around the stage. Other persons, also in black, run to and fro across the stage. Those costumed in black are supposed to be invisible. Stage carpenters and helpers often stand upon the stage and gaze and laugh at the actors, and so on.—Baltimore Sun.

He Had Not Changed.

I was in a barber shop presided over by a colored artist the other day and while I was being shaved there came in a colored hack driver who demanded $2 that the barber owed him for a hack at a funeral.

"Come in nex' week an I'll have it," said the barber, as he continued to scrape.

But the creditor got on his ear.

"Look a-hyar?" said he. "I'ze gittin mighty tired o' comin eroun here after dis yere money. Hit's always de same thing. Come eroun nex' week. I wants ma money! I come in las' week an yo' tole me ter come ag'in nex' week, an I comes nex' week an yo' tells me ter come de week after. I wants ma money!"

With that the barber took the middle of the floor and declared himself.

"Look a-hyar, black man," said he, "whut yo' pesterin me about yo' money? Isn't I done tole yo' to come nex' week? What yo' expect? I've done tole yo' de same thing all de time. Nex' week! nex' week! I tole yo' dat las' week an I tells yo' dat now. I hasn't changed. I'ze prepared to do jes' whut I says."—Memphis Scimitar.

The Ducking Stool In England.

It is interesting to conjure up a picture of a "ducking" as practiced in England at the end of the eighteenth century.

When the "scold" had been properly tried and convicted, she was escorted by a crowd of her neighbors—in fact, by the whole village—to the nearest pond—and the greener and slimier the pond the better. A long plank was produced, at one end of which was the "ducking stool," and in this the screaming, struggling victim was securely pinioned.

The chair end of the plank was then pushed far over the edge of the pond, and at a signal it was tilted deep into the green ooze until the scold was completely immersed.

When the dripping, half drowned woman was raised to the surface again, to the jeers and laughter of the onlookers, it can be imagined that her tongue wagged to some purpose. After a second dose she emerged more subdued, and after a third or fourth she was as penitent a woman as the village contained and was allowed to proceed home a sadder and wiser woman—until the next time.—London Tit-Bits.

The Reward of Labor.

"An fed the mules?"
"Yes, sir."
"An milked the cows?"
"All milked, sir."
"An ground the corn?"
"Jest through, sir."
"An banked the taters?"
"Last one, sir."
"Well, you're a good un. Now call the dogs, an you kin go an tree a possum fer yer supper!"—Atlanta Constitution.

TAKING THE REINS.

Highwood has put three 2-year-old trotters and one pacer into the list this season.

Bonny Boy, by Patchen Wilkes, has entered the list with a record of 2:27¼, at Meadville, Pa.

Little Squaw, a 3-year-old filly, paced a mile in 2:09¼ at Dallas Oct. 13. This beats the record for age and sex.

Gus Macey is the first driver to win the Kentucky Futurity twice, with Beuzetta in 1894 and Boralma in 1899.

Ellalee, who has been racing successfully in Ohio, is a 3-year-old, by Dexter Prince, dam Extra, by Electioneer.

Tom Wilkes, the 4-year-old stallion that Geers won the 2:17 pace with at Louisville, making a record of 2:11, never faced the starter before.

Mr. Harry K. Devereux of Cleveland owns a 5-year-old sister to Endow, 2:14¾ at 2 years. She is named Adore and has a matinee record of 2:19 to wagon.

It is somewhat singular that the three fastest new pacing records of the year are each 2:03¼, by Anaconda, Searchlight and Bumps, the latter to wagon.

At Stockton, Cal., Sept. 22, Iran Alto, by Palo Alto, reduced his record to 2:12¼, and his 4-year-old son, Dr. Frasse, lowered his record to 2:14 on the following day.

Helena, 2:11¼, by Electioneer, and dam of Wild Nutting, 2:13, has a 4-year-old filly named Ayita, by Dexter Prince, that is said to be a sure candidate for a fast record next season.

Lucille, 2:09½, by Brummel, dam Fanny K, by Major Benton, has been purchased by C. K. Billings of Chicago for $7,000 and will probably make her appearance on the New York Speedway this season.—Turf, Field and Farm.

Mrs. Langtry will make her reappearance in New York Jan. 15, for five weeks only, after which she will make a tour of the principal cities. Her play will be Sydney Grundy's "The Degenerates," which she is now acting at the Haymarket theater, London.

HORSES FOR PHILIPPINES.

Plan Now Followed Gives the Animals Two Landings For Rest.

A new departure in the conveyance of troops to Manila from the Pacific coast is that recently adopted laying the course of the transports as far north as Dutch Harbor, in the Aleutian island portion of the sweeping Alaskan peninsular extension forming the greater portion of the southern boundary of the Bering sea. This course is known nautically as the "great circle course," and in sea navigation the arc of the great circle between two points is the shortest distance between those points. By this Alaskan route distance is not only saved, says Leslie's Weekly, but still more important is the advantage of resting the horses and delivering them in good condition at the end of their long voyage.

There are two resting places on the route, one at Dutch Harbor and the other at Kobe, Japan. The first ship to sail via Dutch harbor was the Garonne, leaving Seattle with 450 horses of the Third United States cavalry, Sunday, Aug. 20, arriving seven days later. The horses were turned out and corralled on the soft moss and grass back of the North American Commercial company's buildings, and there they remained until the 31st, when they were reloaded, and the ship left for Kobe, Japan, to arrive in 12 days; thence to Manila in from seven to nine days. The St. Paul, with 720 men of the regiment, arrived Sept. 2, eight days out from Seattle, and left on the 4th. While the St. Paul was in the harbor the Athenian arrived with 391 horses on board, having lost one by accident en route.

Captain Chase, senior captain of the regiment, who has charge of the shipping of the horses, was aboard the Athenian, and his accommodations and arrangements were as perfect for the comfort of the animals as could be made. No trouble was had with them, except that many suffered with seasickness at the beginning of the voyage. Up to this time the experiment has proved successful, a[illegible]ess the heavy fogs and the hard winds that prevail over all the Aleutians offset the advantage of 1,500 miles shorter distance and rest for the horses the great circle course will be the choice hereafter.

EXHIBITS AT PARIS.

Weather Bureau Preparing One. Food Value of Corn to Be Shown.

Although not included in the official classification, there will be an exhibit at Paris of the work of our weather bureau at Washington. This will be prepared under the personal supervision of Chief Willis L. Moore. The Paris exposition will cover 336 acres of ground, which is about half as much as was occupied by the World's fair at Chicago. Of this space a little less than seven acres has been secured by Commissioner Peck for the American exhibit. It is distributed over the exhibition grounds in small plots.

American corn in all its forms is to be made a striking feature in our exhibit, says the New York Post. The people of Europe know little of the food value of our Indian corn, and it is intended to make a practical demonstration which will appeal to their palates. A corn kitchen will be established in the agricultural pavilion, where it is Secretary Wilson's intention to install skilled cooks to prepare corn in every possible form for free distribution to all visitors. The dishes will include corn cakes, corn puddings, corn bread, canned corn, desiccated corn, popcorn, breakfast foods of all kinds made from corn, hominy grits, cornmeal mush, corn pone, corn flour bread, roasted green corn and corn in about 20 other forms. The secretary believes that the opportunity for educating the people of the old world to the use of this cheap and nutritious food is a golden one and that any money invested in this kind of advertising will be amply repaid in an increase in our corn exports.

Boy Bugler Shot Three Boers.

Among the British regiments which took part in the hard fighting at the battle of Elandslaagte was the Fifth lancers. Attached to the regiment is a 14-year-old boy who enlisted as a bugler. When the regiment became engaged with the enemy, the little chap went out with his fellow soldiers and soon found himself in the thick of the fighting, says the Chicago Tribune. Finally he dropped his bugle and seized a revolver from a fallen soldier. With this weapon, the war correspondents report, he shot three of the Boers, coming off himself without injury. When the regiment got back to camp in safety, the men lifted the boy on their shoulders and carried him around the camp in triumph.

Watch With an Alarm.

A delightful novelty has just been brought out in Paris, and we can suggest no more suitable gift for an unpunctual damsel or an unmethodical chaperon, who is apt in the enjoyment of the moment to forget how the hours fly, says The Irish Independent. The novelty is an alarm watch, which is attached to a bracelet in the usual way, either set in diamonds or in plain gold with a curb bracelet. The watch is set by the fair wearer before going to the party. A little needle is released, which pricks the arm of the wearer, thus effectually drawing attention to the time. Had such a watch been worn by Cinderella the story would never have been written.

Baiters Baited.

An attempted bullfight at Puebla resulted in the bulls turning upon the whole show and driving the spectators out of the place, says the Boston Globe. The bulls seem to be "getting on" to the game. There will be no more of it at Puebla.

HOW GEN. SYMONS DIED.

Rode to Certain Death to Rally His Hard Pressed Troops.

The true story of how General Sir William Penn Symons got his mortal wound at the battle of Glencoe is known at the war office in London, but has not yet been told in the English press. It is an open secret in official circles. The extreme vagueness of the accounts published plainly suggested that full information was being kept back, and the New York World correspondent succeeded the other day in unearthing the mystery.

General Symons, who was in command of the British forces at Glencoe, was trying to drive the Boers from the hills they had seized. Accompanied by his staff he was watching the action from the shelter of a clump of trees—a target such as the Boer sharpshooters delight in, but their bullets fell short. As the action grew hot and the British force was suffering badly General Symons ordered the Dublin fusileers and the King's Royal rifles to advance on the main position of the Boers. The burgher marksmen met them with a galling fire. The lines wavered. The officers rallied the men, and again they rushed forward in the face of a withering hail of bullets. But again the lines wavered. Three of their gallant leaders were shot.

Once more the undaunted officers got their men to attack. On they went, pressing sturdily forward. Here and there men dropped on the way, and once more the gallant fellows were so seriously checked that a rout seemed impending. General Symons saw everything. He instantly ordered his staff to remain where they were by the clump of trees and alone galloped out into the open toward his hard pressed men to lead them himself to victory. He had gone but half a mile when he reeled in his saddle and fell wounded from his horse. Major Stertson of his staff galloped up and had just reached the body of his commander when he himself was shot dead.

General Symons, in short, had preferred death to living with the responsibility of what seemed destined to be another Majuba Hill. But as he, mortally wounded, was borne from the battlefield he received the glad tidings that the attacking infantry battalions had once more rallied and carried the Boer position by storm, though with a terrible loss. This is how the brave old Indian fighter met his death. It shows the desperate situation of the British forces at Glencoe and how near that bloody fight was to being an absolute defeat. For this reason the real story has been kept thus far from the English press.

COUNTRY BOYS FOR NAVY.

Lieutenant Wells Pleased With Result of Calling on Rural Cities.

Letters sent to the postmasters of small cities in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Michigan by Lieutenant Wells several weeks ago requesting recruits for the United States navy are bringing good returns. Every day young men from the rural districts apply at the naval recruiting office in Chicago for enlistment as landsmen. Lieutenant Wells is pleased with the results of his experiment in drawing upon the small towns in the vicinity of Chicago for recruits. During a recent morning three young men from Utica, Ills., applied for enlistment, and, after being examined by the surgeon, were accepted.

Lieutenant Wells said: "The men we are getting from the country are of the highest grade and will make first class sailors. They appear more robust than the candidates from the large cities. In the future it will be the policy of the department to get as many country boys as possible. They seem anxious to enlist, as the pay offered is higher than that for farm work. The city boys, however, will not be discriminated against. They will be given an equal chance with their country friends."

Lieutenant Wells has orders to enlist an unlimited number of landsmen, machinists, seamen and electricians. Three recruits were sent to the Brooklyn navy yard the other day for the United States receiving ship Vermont. They are: H. K. Aldrich, machinist; S. K. Creaghe, seaman, and C. O. Olson, painter.

PAID $700 FOR A TREE.

It Is Said to Have Been In a Buddhist Temple For Over Two Centuries.

Colonel George Pope of Brooklyn was the purchaser of the "masterpiece" at the auction sale of Japanese trees and plants at some horticultural rooms in New York the other afternoon. It was a large chabo hiba, and the mate to the one purchased by Mr. Pope a year ago. For the one he bought the other day he paid $700. It is in a jardiniere 36 inches in diameter. The history of the tree dates back, it is said, to the middle of the fourteenth century, when the art of gardening in Japan was patronized by the rulers.

The tree is said to have been in a Buddhist temple from the first part of the sixteenth century to the middle of the eighteenth century. A record of it is preserved in parchment. Mr. Wadley was a spirited bidder against Mr. Pope, his last bid being $690. A combination piece, of cypresses and evergreens, brought $141. Altogether, 250 plants were disposed of, and the prices were said to be fair.

Roadhouse at San Juan.

An American company has leased the San Juan battlefield and will build an attractive roadhouse on the site of the destroyed fort, introducing other features to make the locality an attractive resort, says a Santiago de Cuba dispatch to the New York Times. The owners had intended to fill in the trenches, but the promoters of the new enterprise will leave these intact.

Her Begging Scheme.

A respectably dressed old woman apparently in deep distress was noticed standing at the foot of the steps of an elevated railroad station the other day just at the hour when the rush was at its height. The woman had apparently lost something of value. She searched her pockets, shook out her skirts and scanned the ground on every side. Of course it was not long before her distress attracted the notice of passersby. "I have lost my ticket," she said in answer to the query of a man who stopped for a moment in his rush for the train. "I don't know what to do, for I have not a nickel with me and I live away up town."

The man pulled a string of tickets from his pocket, tore off one, handed it to the woman and resumed his rush without waiting for her thanks. But the woman did not follow. She merely moved across to the flight of steps on the other side. Here she resumed her search, with the result that a nickel was transferred to her pocket by a passing woman. Next she crossed the avenue and gathered some more nickels and tickets from the passengers going in the opposite direction, finally returning to her original stand, where her plight attracted as much compassion as before. While the observer was looking on, the woman made two rounds of the stairs, each round occupying about ten minutes. It is probable that her average earnings were at the rate of $2 in nickels and negotiable tickets an hour.—New York Sun.

Room For Him Too.

A bland and patronizing New Yorker was passing through a raw and new hamlet in the west, which its proud founders had dubbed B—— City and were sure would soon become a thriving hive of human beings. Addressing a lank and lazy youth who was lounging at the door of one of the rude shanties that passed for a "shoe emporium," the New Yorker inquired sarcastically:

"Who is that important looking gentleman with the red flannel shirt?"

"That's Sam Peters," was the proud reply. "He's just opened the new post-office."

"And the tall person with no collar?"

"He's Long Mike. Just opened a grocery store."

"And the plump individual with the bald head?"

"Handy Jim. Owns the new saloon."

"Indeed?" said the New Yorker. "Your city seems to be pretty well started. I should suppose there was nothing left for a stranger like myself to open."

"Oh, I dunno!" drawled the lanky one. "We ain't got no loonattic asylum yet. You might start that."—New York Tribune.

A Cheerful Experience.

"I had a cheerful experience the other day," remarked a man who had spent several days at one of the springs for rheumatism.

"What was it?" asked the observer.

"I was carried into a depot near the springs and deposited on a seat near an old woman, who looked at me with a complacent smile and inquired, 'Been hurt?'

"'No,' I replied.

"'Rumatiz?'

"'Yes.'

"'Water do you any good?'

"'Not much.'

"'Well, lots of people come here for the water. The patient returns home, and the papers announce that Mr. So-and-so has returned from the springs much improved by the use of the water; but if you read the papers in a few days you will see that Mr. So-and-so has died and been buried.' The conversation was too cheerful to be continued."—Columbus Dispatch.

A Burning Prayer.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer tells this story of the Virginia backwoods: A white minister after conducting services at a colored church asked an old deacon to lead in prayer. The dusky brother in his fervent appeal asked that a shower of heavenly grace be permitted to fall upon his white friend. He said:

"O Lor', give him de eye of de eagle dat he may spy out our sins afar off! Weld his han's to de gospel plow; tie his tongue to de lines of truf and nail his ear to de gospel pole! An, O Lor, bow his haid way down—an behin' his knees, an his knees way down—ah in some lonesome dark an narrow valley, O Lor', whar much prayer is needed to be made—ah! Den 'noint him ovah wid de blessed ile of de kerosene of salvation, an sot him on fiah wid de match of faith made perfec'—amen!"

France Outside of Paris.

To get a correct idea of the French nation one must abandon Paris and get out among the people of the provinces. Paris is a sinkhole of rottenness, but the people who dwell outside that modern Gomorrah are sound and upright and patriotic, living wholesome and useful lives. When you get out in the rural districts, a charming sight is presented of beautifully cultivated farms, each farm being as trim and neat as a flower garden. There is not a foot of waste land to be seen. The first thing that strikes a stranger is the profusion of fruit. Nowhere can be seen more luscious pears, peaches and grapes.—Washington Post.

How He Got Elsewhere.

"How did he escape?" inquired the detectice.

"Well," replied the turnkey with the damaged eye, "he sort o' nicknamed himself out."

"What?"

"He pried his cell door open with a jimmy. Then he knocked me down with a billy."

"Yes?"

"And then he sallied out."—Chicago Tribune.

The Empire of the South.

An interesting and timely publication setting forth facts about the Southern States has just been issued by the Southern Railway. It is called "The Empire of the South," and gives a comprehensive exhibit of the development of this section of the country in every line of activity. It contains a discussion of the South as it was, as it is and as to its destiny, and treats at considerable length the various interests, such as agriculture, cotton, tobacco, iron, coal, resorts and climate. Chapters are devoted to each of the States south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, and east of the Mississippi River. In these the early history of the States is given and the important features are touched upon, as well as the progress of the leading cities. The author of the work, Mr. Frank Presbrey, has been a student of the Southern conditions, and with the assistance of the extensive reorganization of the Southern Railway has been enabled to collate much that will interest the practical man who is interested or contemplates an interest in the South. The book contains 184 quarto pages each of which is illustrated. It will be sent by mail for 15 cents, the amount required to cover the postage, if request is addressed to George C. Daniels, Northeastern Passenger Agent, 228 Washington street, Boston, Mass.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

Hobart Tomb to Be Erected.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 27.—There was a big crowd of visitors to the city yesterday. The street in front of Carroll hall, the Hobart home, was crowded all day. The greatest crowd, however, gathered at Cedar Lawn cemetery, where Mr. Hobart's body lies in the receiving vault. It is not likely Mr. Hobart's body will be placed in the ground. It is the intention of the family to erect a tomb upon the plot of land where Miss Fannie Hobart lies, and beside whose body it was generally supposed the body of Mr. Hobart would be placed.

ON AGUINALDO'S TRAIL.

Natives Aiding Young In His Pursuit of the Insurgent Chief.

Wheaton Makes a Capture of Arms and Money.

Mother and Son of Aguinaldo Under Guard to Prevent Their Murder.

Washington, Nov. 28.—General Otis yesterday reported the situation in the Philippines in the following dispatch to the war department:

"Steamer from San Fabian yesterday brought 115 Spanish prisoners, $75,000 in insurgent government money and other property captured by Lawton's troops near Tayug, Nov. 25.

"Wheaton's troops, Fowler's company, Twenty-third, drove the enemy westward from Mangatarem, a few miles southwest of Dagupan, and captured five three-inch muzzle-loading guns, 12 rifles, 12,000 rounds Maxim cartridges, 1000 shrapnel, 800 pounds powder and other property, also 94 Spanish and seven American prisoners.

"Bell, with Thirty-sixth infantry, is in pursuit, and will march down western Luzon coast. Indications are that two or three bodies of insurgent troops, numbering probably 500 or more men each, are in the mountains west of the railroad. They can be readily handled by MacArthur; they have the bulk of the insurgent artillery, all of which will be captured unless buried.

"Young still in pursuit of Aguinaldo, who is heading for Bangued, a few miles east of Vigan. Young, with cavalry and scouts, is followed by battalion of Thirty-third, and by balance battalion of Twenty-second; two battalions of Thirty-third en route for Vigan by military post road.

"Young's reception by inhabitants enthusiastic; they give all aid possible. Aguinaldo has collected more than 1060 of his troops at the north; probably most will desert him.

"A number of small detachments of insurgent troops throughout the country north of Manila have been captured, and inhabitants manifest gratitude for deliverance. Indications are that insurgent force south of Manila is disintegrating, and the troops going to their homes.

"Reports from southern islands favorable; Zamboanga insurgents surrendered to our troops, and no trouble anticipated there."

Later in the day the following dispatch was received from General Otis:

"Troops will relieve marines at Vigan on the 29th. Bulk of the Spanish and American prisoners are reported at Bangued, 20 miles east of Vigan.

"Wheaton, at San Fabian, just reports capture of 73 more rifles and $1190 in money; also that he was obliged to take the mother and son of Aguinaldo under guard at Fabian to prevent their murder by natives. They will be sent here at the first opportunity and delivered to friends.

"Natives in the vicinity of Bayonbong, Nuesta Viscaya, are offering their services to drive out the insurgents and request arms. Report is that only 400 insurgents are there.

"Report from Zamboanga says insurgents surrendered heavy artillery to navy, and since then have surrendered to Nichols, commanding battalion Twenty-third infantry, 179 rifles, one Nordenfeldt and four breech-loading cannon.

Talked of New Naval Station.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Admiral Dewey called at the navy department yesterday in response to a request from Secretary Long to discuss the question of establishing a naval station at Cavite or or other point near Manila. The admiral brought with him portions of his report to be incorporated in the full report of the Philippine commission. This discusses the establishment of a permanent naval station at Philippines and recommends Subig Bay, about 60 miles from Manila, as preferable to Cavite, as there is a fine harbor, ample depth of water and many natural advantages for making this a strong naval establishment.

Got Nearly Fifty Thousand Dollars.

New York, Nov. 28.—The corporation counsel of Dublin, having notified him that the old British parliamentary act under which he holds office, declared the position vacaut if the incumbent is absent from duty for two months, Lord Mayor Tallon has been compelled to cut his tour short and on Saturday he will sail for Ireland. He will be accompanied home by John E. Redmond, and they will take back nearly $50,000 raised to save the Parnell estate and also to build a memorial monument to the Irish parliamentarian.

Quincy Department Store, Quincy.

EIGHT HOUR DAY.

And $3.00 Per Day Asked by Granite Cutters.

The Manufacturers Receive Three Months' Notice.

The Demand is General in the Trade at Large.

The present agreement and bill of prices between the Quincy Granite Manufacturers and Granite Cutters' Union expires March 1, 1900.

According to that agreement, should either side desire a change in the existing bill notice must be given three months previous to that time.

It has been well understood that the Granite Cutters' Union would make a demand for an eight-hour day and a minimum price of $3 per day, but the demand was not expected before Dec. 1.

The notice however was forwarded Monday, and is now in the hands of the secretary of the Manufacturers' Association.

The notice demands that after March 1, 1900, that eight hours shall constitute a day's work, and that the minimum price shall be $3 per day.

Accompaning the notice is a new price list, which calls for an increase of from thirty-five to forty per cent. on all kinds of work, which will bring piece work upon the minimum price.

The present agreement calls for nine hour, and a minimum price of 28 cents per hour.

The eight-hour day and $3 per day clause was adopted in 1898 at a meeting of the National association held in Kansas, as a part of the constitution of the Granite Cutter's Union, and is therefore not admissable to arbitration, so that the only question before the manufacturers is to accept or not accept.

If not accepted and the new agreement signed before March 1, 1900, it means a general suspension of business throughout the city. The manufacturers will submit no proposition for change.

The general sentiment among the manufacturers seems to be that the demand will not be granted although no action has yet been taken by the local association whose meeting will not be held until next Tuesday evening.

Several manufacturers seen Monday by a representative of Ledger said that they expected the notice but were not prepared to say what action would be taken. They could not see how, under the present condition of business, the demand could be granted. It can be called nothing less than a demand, as it will not be possible to arbitrate the matter.

Last year the manufacturers submitted a proposition for the establishment of a general arbitration committee which would consider these matters. This as far as the eight-hour and $3-a-day movement was concerned, was refused, as the Cutters' Union claimed to have no power to arbitrate the question.

The condition in Quincy is the same that confronts all New England manufacturers. If they all accept the proposition, Quincy would stand as good a show in the open market as other granite centres, but the price of monuments would be increased from thirty-five to forty per cent., which would eventually come out of the consumer.

The New England Manufacturers' Association has the matter under consideration, and at the meeting held in Boston last week, representatives were present from all over New England. No definite conclusion was reached at this meeting as to what the association would do, but it is believed that they will not grant the demand. It is not the eight-hour day that is so much in the question, as the $3, which means that no cutter shall receive less than that amount.

According to the manufacturers there are some men who are physically unable to earn more than $1.75 per day and they feel that it is wrong to be called upon to pay them $3.

Should the demand be granted, it will mean that unless a cutter is capable of earning the minimum price he will not be employed, and as there are many cutters employed by day work who can not earn that amount, the result will be that many men will be thrown out of employment.

Contractor Williams began work this morning building the five-foot footway on the Beale street bridge. A gang of railroad men also broke ground for the post holes preparatory to setting the new Wollaston fence. It is understood that it will be of iron.

RAILROAD IMPROVEMENTS.

President Hall Promises a New Central Station for Quincy.

Also Recognizes Need of a Freight Plant, and Will Give Immediaie Relief.

Additional Trains Probable, New Fence at Wollaston, and New Station at Atlantic.

Mayor Keith has received the following letter from President Hall of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., which is good news for Quincy; the best news in fact for a year. President Hall sees the justice of all the requests made by the city, and what is better he promises in black and white, in language that is not equivocal, to grant practically all that has been asked. It could not be more favorable, and the quick judgment of the new president of the New Haven system will make many friends for him and the road in this city. The improvements will at the same time be of greatest benefit to the railroad itself. The letter is published in full:

New Haven, Conn., Nov, 27, 1899.

Hon. Harrison A. Keith, Mayor, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir: Referring to my recent interview with your Honor and your City Attorney, I write to say that, after considering your suggestions I have ordered a change in the obnoxious fence by replacing same with a neat wire fence. We, also, are willing to have the same set back from its present location so as to allow the use of the sidewalk with the understanding, of course, that the company does not thereby intend to abandon its rights in any property now enclosed.

I am satisfied that your enterprising city has outgrown the old wooden station and that another station more suitable to the wants of our patrons in Quincy should be substituted. While it is too late in the season to begin work on a new station, I assure you that early in the spring we will be ready and will begin the erection of the new station in Quincy.

With regard to additional freight facilities at Quincy, I am clear that such additional facilities are required, but there are some difficulties in making a permanent freight plant in Quincy just at present. We can however, put in a siding for handling bulk freight which will probably satisfy your present demands and later we shall hope to establish a permanent freight plan that will be satisfactory for all future demands. Orders have been issued to put in the siding immediately.

In regard to the Atlantic station, I must agree, also with you that the people of Atlantic are entitled to a more suitable station, and we shall take that matter up at once with a view to furnishing a better station at that point. There are, however, some reasons which may defer the work at Atlantic for a short time, but we shall hope to have the new station at Atlantic completed during the coming season, unless some unforeseen obstacles present themselves.

The only other suggestion made by the city attorney, I believe, was in regard to train service at Quincy proper. This matter is one that peculiarly belongs to the Operating Department and, while we can hardly consider that matter this season as our winter schedules are now in force, I have directed our General Manager to consider this question with care and, if any improvements in service are practicable, we shall arrange to have them go in force in the early spring.

Trusting that the arrangements suggested above will prove satisfactory to you and your people, I am,

Yours very truly,
(Signed) John M. Hall,
President.

The old unused building on the west side of the present Quincy station will be removed, and the freight siding above referred to will run parallel with Irving place. This will afford excellent opportunity for a number of cars and for the unloading of the same, but will not be entirely satisfactory until Irving place is extended through to Granite street.

THE GIANT OF TODAY.

BY LOUISE AUGUSTA GORE.

GIANT DYNAMO'S BALL.

In spite of these wonderful hours of amusement, Jimmie at last began to grow restive under the monotony, and close confinement of his work. As he became used to the strange sights, his interest lessened and thoughts of Bidda would steal into his brain, until he began to long for freedom and a sight of his twin sister once more, with a terrible longing and to plan a change for himself in his daily routine since no one did for him.

One day there was great excitement throughout Giant Dynamo's Kingdom. Little clusters of workmen here and there were busy talking over the news, There was to be a grand ball given by His Eminence.

From the sootiest fireman to saucey little Lines Busy eveyone was interested in its success. The Giant's unexpected kindness and indulgence was everywhere talked of, for his only condition had been that the lights in his kingdom should all go out at twelve o'clock, midnight, when silence and darkness must last till rise of sun and so in a meaure make up for the heavy expense necessary.

There were few who objected to this condition, being only too glad of the hours allowed for pleasure and preparations went on apace.—Jimmie wandered here and there quietly listening and taking it all in.

A bright idea one day entered his busy brain and set his heart beating very hard. Here was his opportunity, he thought. Darkness from midnight until sunrise! No great search lights reaching out far into the night among the stars and even to the great city he so much longed to see! No busy-bodies hunting for boys bent upon climbing high walls!

At once Jimmie began a search for a stray rope and when found a scrap of old iron bent into the shape of an hook, was carefully placed beside it and both tucked snugly away under a stone in the south wall. Jimmie's mind was made up. He well knew the Giants pressing need for workmen even a boy could illy be spared, he would run for Bidda and liberty.

Jimmie told no one. The work men were all kind to the "little waif," as they called him, but not one of them had won his confidence, so now he kept his secret to himself though he would have been more than glad to have shared its burden.

From this time Jimmie's happy-go-lucky disposition quite changed. He took no active part in the preparations for the coming event that occupied all the leisure of his companions. Luckily for him everyone else was too busy to notice him, for his sober little face and changed manner might have attracted attention and led to discovery quite upsetting his plan of escape.

At last the evening came for the ball. The great Hall of Electricity by means of wires skilfully weft in and out in every direction, together with an enormous supply of the Giant's power, gave promise of a perfect dream of fairyland. Jimmie's curosity overcame even the excitement of his planned escape and when all the army of workers in the Magic city assembled, he marched with the rest and received as they did, a bright little button as a badge. He had only to press upon one side to envelop himself in the loveliest glory of white light or, upon its reverse to hide himself in a cloud of darkness.

Everyone at once proceeded to test the virtues of his new ornament and Jimmie fairly forgot all his troubles and danced with glee when he found himself really an animated firefly.

The brownies, "Hello," "Y-yes" and "Lines busy" with mischief laden, danced hither and thither and having invited Jimmie "to take a turn, engaged him in a most bewildering chase, during which they overturned a bevy of dancing dolls in one corner who threw up their arms and giving one shriek for "Mamma" fell helpless upon the floor. Instantly search was made for the offenders, but they quickly clothed themselves in darkness and escaped.

They were quite in the midst of it and Jimmie had just lost sight of "Y-yes" while "Lines Busy" was clutching his sleeve and "Hello" had illumed herself most provokingly, when a deafening roar as the roll of many drums echoed and reechoed and a marvel of beauty burst upon their view as the whole power of the Giant's forces was turned suddenly on. In a second the lofty dome and all the grand arches became a-blaze with lamps and gracefully festooned with ropes of light from which depended in the centre a huge ball of brilliantly colored lamps constantly shifting their hues like so many radiant gems.

Around the columns that supported the roof, the dazzling coils descended like the globe above now shining red, now green or violet, till they reached the floor. A huge picture of Giant Dynamo produced in bright lights, filled the space at the farther end of the hall and looked wonderfully real and lifelike, while behind him an immense fall of brilliant sparks was ever descending from heights above.

Everywhere were mottoes and branches of gay flowers around which, as well as aloft through the arches, hovered gorgeous insects of many tints. Circling far and away mounted upon brooms of trailing fire that brightened into stars, rode numberless little witches in hats befrilled and pointed, while following close were bits of furry clouds alight with sparks and breathing flames. Added to these fire effects were the flickering lights of the dancers and the scene was one of enchanting beauty.

Jimmie was quite bewildered; could only stand and gaze about him, forgetting he was even himself a part of it until he accidentally pressed the little button badge and found himself in a blaze of glory.

But now came the strangest part of all. A cluster of sweetened instruments disposed at one side of the hall, suddenly overflowed with melody and off the dancers whirled like so many te-to-tum upon the wave of the "Blue Danube."

Jimmie looked in amazement as the violins stood up while the bows carefully swept their strings now here, now there. The horn blew and the piccolos and clarinets whistled and sang in perfect rythm. Even the great violas and harps stood up like majors to add their rich, sweet tones to the harmony. Like the wind sweeping over the waves the music ebbed and flowed as the busy Lightening Messengers behind the scenes bobbed gaily about among the wires.

But "Hello" soon peeped around a column and Jimmie resumed his chase, dodging among the maze of dancers with great success. Time flew by and still he kept it up, while the three brownies grew weary with laughing and skipping about.

VAST TIMBER OUTPUT.

Amount From Northern Lake Region Alone Will Be Large.

OVER ONE MILLION FEET TO BE CUT

An Army of Fifteen Thousand Men and Five Thousand Horses and Oxen Will Be Employed to Cut This Quantity of Timber—Hot Pond For Operating Winter Sawmills.

There will be an enormous log crop in the country around the head of Lake Superior and the upper Mississippi river the coming winter. In the section where the pine cut into boards in Duluth is lumbered and in Itasca county, directly west of Duluth, there will be cut the coming winter not less than 1,200,000,000 feet of standing timber. Two-thirds of this will be cut at Duluth and Superior, and the Itasca county cut will go to points on the Mississippi river, mainly to Minneapolis, says the Boston Transcript. To cut this enormous quantity of pine will be an army of 15,000 men and 5,000 horses and oxen, and these men will receive an average monthly wage of $28 and board. The old time method of floating logs to mill by rivers has given place to the more modern and quicker way of hauling by steam railways. More than half the lumber to be sawed in the Duluth district another year will be taken a part of the way to its destination, at least, by rail. Logging railroads, built on the best grades, of substantial character, with heavy rails and modern locomotives, thread the woods of this northeastern part of Minnesota, where rivers do not run, and timber is brought out by them that would otherwise remain until destroyed by fire or age.

Under the pressure of modern demands and conditions the old method of operating mills only during the summer season has given way to a more economical one, and half a dozen large mills on Duluth harbor will be run all the coming winter. This operation is made possible by the construction of a "hot pond," into which the logs brought to the mills by rail are dumped, and where they remain until the frost is out of them and they can be drawn up into the mills. A hot pond is a large inclosure in stream or lake into which the exhaust steam from the mill's engines is discharged, keeping the water from freezing in any weather the northwest can produce. By the use of the steam road instead of streams for bringing the logs to mill and by the hot pond for caring for them, once there, continuous sawmill operations are permitted.

This season of great lake navigation more than 1,000,000,000 feet of lumber will go to eastern markets by lake from Lake Superior mills, mostly from Duluth. The shipments of a single month now exceed those for an entire year so lately as 1887. A fleet of 125 lake ships has been constantly engaged the present year in carrying lumber out of Lake Superior at prices that have been as much as three times those of the preceding year. Vessels of the lumber fleet have been better paid than those of any other commodity on the lakes and have paid for themselves more than once during the summer. Many instances have occurred where boats were chartered last spring for the year with the proviso that the lessees might buy later at an agreed price. In these cases, such has been the advance since the beginning of this season, these ships have been paid for out of the net profits made on the leases during a portion of the summer.

Duluth district is now the greatest lumber producing section of the United States, with an output this season of about 750,000,000 feet. More than half its product goes to the markets of New York, New England and the boxmakers of the middle states. Regular shipment by millions of feet monthly is made from the mills here to such noted lumber producing centers as Bay City, Saginaw, Menominee and other Michigan points.

As a result of the logging railway in its extension of the limits from which pine can be brought and in reaching heretofore unavailable supplies, the timber tributary to Duluth mills is greater in quantity than experts claimed as a total ten years ago, and its exhaustion is as far off today as the prophets of ten years ago admitted it to be then.

So far, pine is the only wood that has been cut in these forests, though they contain pulp wood, cedar, birch and many valuable hard woods for furniture making. A beginning is now being made in the use of spruce for pulp, and paper mills are going in near here, while thousands of cords are being sent this year to mills of the east. Cedar is in demand for the first time, and 1,500,000 cedar railway ties will be made in the forests about this city during the coming winter. This has never been a local industry worthy the name until now. A commencement is under way for the use of hard woods for furniture and finish, and inquiries have been received the past few days for birch timber for thread spools for export to England. The hard woods of this region will be a source of wealth for many years to come.

WHERE ARE LANCERS?

Report From German Source Says They Were Captured by Boers.

Methuen's Advance Will Be Disputed Step by Step.

British May Be In Bad Predicament Even Should They Reach Kimberley.

London, Nov. 28.—It is understood that the government has decided to proceed immediately with the mobilization and embarkation of a sixth division of 10,000 men, under a well-known lieutenant general.

A fresh interruption in the East African cable service at this interesting moment has caused a cessation of war news. As yet the war office has not received General Methuen's detailed list of casualties, nor is any information at hand regarding the whereabouts of the Ninth lancers, who were sent in pursuit of the Boers from Gras Pan.

The Daily Mail says that a private telegram announces that the lancers are still scouting ahead of Methuen's advancing column; but, as he announced Sunday that he was giving his men a day's rest, this is hardly possible. Indeed the greatest anxiety is felt, and more especially in view of the fact that a Berlin journal, The Deutsche Warte, which regularly prints Boer communications, announced, before it could have been ascertained from British sources, that the naval brigade lost 100 men at Gras Pan, and that the Ninth lancers were captured.

One point of interest on this occasion is that the Boers, during one phase of the action, assumed the offensive, attacking the British on the right of their flanks, in defending which the British lost heavily. From the description given in General Methuen's dispatch to the British war office of the Boer resistance, it is evident that they mean to dispute his advance step by step; while the silence as to his own losses, while speaking of those of the Boers, seems to indicate considerable loss on the British side. There is a report in Cape Town that Methuen has been able to advance to Poney Nest Kloof, 10 miles nearer Kimberley, where he is said to have taken 2,000,000 rounds of ammunition. This is not confirmed. There is also some worry over the report of Methuen which fails to state that the cavalry has returned. He is meeting stubborn resistance at every step.

The delay caused is naturally giving much anxiety in London, especially as regards Mafeking, which there now appears little hope of saving. There is even a fear that, should General Methuen reach Kimberley, it might only be to fall into the same trouble in which General White is in at Ladysmith, the rising in Cape Colony having been so timed as to secure that result.

An interesting piece of news comes from Rhodesia, which seems to have been unreported. On Nov. 3 a body of Rhodesian horse from Fort Tuli, having come in contact with the Boers north of Crocodile river, was obliged to retire to Camp Spreckley, which was afterwards shelled by the Boers, who captured all the horses and mules belonging to the squadron.

The Boers in Natal, according to the latest dispatches, are reported falling back from the Mooi river northward. This has already been foreshadowed, and the movement will probably continue until they have reached the line of the Tugela river, where they may be expected to make a definite stand.

Estcourt has been relieved, and the British column is reported as pressing forward on the heels of the retreating Boers. It bivouaced at Frere Saturday night, and hard fighting near Colenso may be expected at any moment.

General Hildyard's achievement at Beacon Hill is beginning to be recognized as one of the best things the campaign has yet shown, as it has relieved the tension of the situation in Natal and has brought the relief of Ladysmith within measurable distance.

General Buller appears to be confident of Lord Methuen's ability and is devoting all his energy to Ladysmith. An attempt will be made, presumably, to reach Colenso in time to cut off the retreat of the Boers from Weenen over the Tugela river. It is feared, however, that the enemy will get there first and destroy the bridge. At Frere bridge the British found two massive spans utterly wrecked by dynamite, one piece weighing 224 pounds having been hurled 200 yards.

Sir Alfred Milner has warned the various relief committees in Cape Town to be prepared for the arrival of 10,000 refugees from Kimberley as soon as the siege has been raised.

According to a dispatch from De Aar, dated Sunday, the Boers had destroyed the bridge at Steynsburg the previous day and were being reinforced at that point.

Sir Thomas Lipton, in view of the fact that his steam yacht Erin cannot be utilized by the government as a hospital ship, has sent £10,000 to the Princess of Wales, to be used at her discretion for the benefit of the soldiers and sailors.

The executive committee of the American ladies' hospital ship fund has received an anonymous gift of £5000 from the United States, together with a promise of as much more if it should be needed.

The Paris Figaro publishes an interview with Dr. Leyds, in reply to to Sir Henry Stanley, whose statements regarding the Transvaal are declared to be completely untrue. The minister for the Transvaal goes into the matter at great length, quoting the moderate prices of soap to show that the charge of uncleanliness is unfounded. He declares that the statements regarding the origin of President Kruger's fortune are untrue; that the president's wealth is all due to his personal effort, chiefly in dealing in real estate, and that none of it was derived from monopolies or public revenues. He said that the press had full liberty, and that the Volkstem and Rand Post, the two government organs, received heavier punishment for a breach of the press laws than any outlander journal. Dr. Leyds also maintained that the mining laws were so just that they were adopted in Rhodesia.

He repudiated Sir Henry Stanley's view that the Transvaal was a vassal state in revolt. He contended that suzerainty was expressly abrogated by the London convention, and that the Transvaal was a free and independent state. This, he held, was proved by the fact that an exequater was granted to her consul general in London, and that England asked President Kruger to grant an exequater to the British diplomatic agent in Pretoria. The burgers, said Dr. Leyds in conclusion, would defend their independence to the last man. He repudiated the accusation that the Boers used dum-dum bullets. He said they found lots of these in the cartridge boxes of the English prisoners at Glencoe, but could not possibly use them, as the rifles were of a different calibre.

Jeffords Conted Out.

New York, Nov. 28.—The fistic contest between Bob Armstrong, the colored heavyweight boxer of Chicago, and Jim Jeffords of California, which was slated to go 25 rounds last night, ended rather abruptly in the third round. Both men went head foremost from a clinch over the ropes into a box at the ringside in the second round, and in the third Jeffords took another header from the effects of a right swing on the jaw. This took all the steam out of the big fellow, and when he regained his feet he was sent sprawling from a right swinging uppercut in the vicinity of the belt. Jeffords rolled over in agony and his seconds claimed a foul on the ground that he was hit below the belt. Referee Eckhardt decided that the blow landed fairly and gave his verdict in favor of Armstrong, after Jeffords had been counted out and carried to his corner.

Aldermen Felt Squeamish.

Boston, Nov. 28.—The agitation over the purpose of British-American residents here to build a memorial to British soldiers of the Revolution on Boston common is going on, and it cropped out in the meeting of the board of aldermen yesterday, when that body, in concurrence with the lower board, passed an order, asking the mayor to revoke his permit to the Victorian club to put up the memorial. The order provided that an alderman should wait on Mayor Quincy and protest against the permit. When the chairman attempted to name a committee each alderman in turn declined to serve, but after an attempt to reconsider the order had been defeated, Alderman Brick offered to see the mayor.

Combine's Plans Go Awry.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—The Evening Bulletin publishes the following: The colossal plan to control all of the independent telephone companies in the United States and to combine therewith the great telegraph companies and the five Atlantic cable companies, for which purpose the Telephone, Telegraph and Cable company of America was incorporated Nov. 9, with a capital of $30,000,000, received a severe blow yesterday. This was the withdrawal from the scheme of William C. Whitney, Thomas F. Ryan and Anthony N. Brady, William L. Elkins, P. A. B. Widener and Thomas Dolan, the men whose support made the success of the enterprise possible.

Mr. Haile Seriously Sick.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 28.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor William H. Haile is seriously ill with acute bronchitis, and though his physicians are still hopeful that he will soon be better, his recovery is still doubtful. Dr. Breck, the attending physician, states that Mr. Haile is a very sick man, but unless the illness takes a turn for the worse, which is not unlikely, the crisis will be passed safely. Mr. Haile's illness has been coming on gradually for some time, but until lately it was not thought serious.

Vicious Assault With a Razor.

Conway, N. H., Nov. 28.—Two Italians, employed at the quarries at Redstone, while walking into town over the tracks of the Maine Central railroad yesterday, became involved in a quarrel with Leonard Brock and made a vicious attack upon him with a razor. His cries for help attracted assistance, when the assailants fled. They led an exciting chase for some distance, it requiring 20 men to capture them.

A Hundred Years Old.

Berlin, Mass., Nov. 28.—"Aunt" Rebecca Whitcomb, the oldest resident of Worcester county, completed a century of existence yesterday. Many friends spent the day visiting her. Miss Whitcomb enjoys good health, but is too feeble to leave her room. She retains her mental faculties undimmed. She lives at the home of Captain Silas Sawyer, who is himself 87 years of age.

Hill's Change of Heart.

Buffalo, Nov. 28.—Norman Mack, Democratic leader in Erie county, announces that David B. Hill will support the nominee and platform of the next Democratic convention, even if that nominee should be W. J. Bryan and that platform a reiteration of the Chicago platform. Mr. Mack said he had talked with ex-Senator Hill and had been assured of this.

Four More to Come.

New York, Nov. 28.—Another juror has been obtained for the trial of Roland B. Molineux. He is Sigmund Feust, a real estate dealer, aged 65. Mr. Feust took the eighth seat in the jury box. The trial dragged its slow length along yesterday, little of importance or interest developing in connection with the examination of the talesmen.

To Be Electrocuted.

Jamestown, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Squire Tankard was yesterday found guilty of murder in the first degree for killing Margery Beaumont at Driftwood. The prisoner was sentenced to be executed at Auburn prison during the week of Jan. 15, 1900.

The Whirl of Life.

Here is what caught a reporter's eye in a two minutes' study of the streets of New York on a down town corner.

On the sidewalk, three urchins, evil of face, industriously "shooting" craps. From the doorway of a frowsy saloon, ten yards away, a gray haired woman issuing with a jug of beer, though it was only 10 o'clock in the morning. A burly iceman and a negro roustabout discussing, loudly and with much profanity, the advantages of each other's jobs. A whir and rattle of wheels and an undertaker's wagon drives up to the door of a modest red brick tenement. A white coffin, three feet long, is brought out and received by a venerable old man, with a flowing white beard, who comes to the door coatless and in slippers. You then notice for the first time the knot of white ribbon on the door handle. The old man tucks the diminutive casket under his arm and retires within, followed by the undertaker's men. He is solemn, but tearless. There is a story there somewhere—the slippered patriarch in the final stage of life performing the last dolorous offices for one lost in its beginning.

And over on the dock are the hue and hustle, the scurry and scamper incidental to the getting to sea of the great ship. Sharp are the contrasts of a town.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Carving the Yosemite Valley.

In a recent article on the origin of the Yosemite valley, Professor W. P. Blake—a most adequate authority on the subject—remarks that the gorge, so grand and impressive, is, in fact, only a minor feature of the glacial workings above it through hundreds of square miles of the Sierra. Professor Blake thinks that the ice must have filled the gorge, and much above it, to a thickness of 5,000 feet, and with a pressure upon the floor of the valley of 120,000 pounds to the square foot; the tremendous force of such a weight, on the under surface of which was a broken mass of rock, like diamonds in a drill, grinding, planing and cutting, can scarcely be imagined; for untold ages, too, this mighty force was at work, polishing the face of the country through which it passed.

The character of the Yosemite rock being granite, close grained and vertical in structure, with points of easy fracture, it would appear that, as the great mass of ice bore down upon this vertical rock, it was broken and knocked over by the moving ice, flaking off at the places of easy cleavage. Thus, according to Professor Blake, the precipice was formed, and thus is explained the dome shaped summits of the mountains there.

First Rows In Paradise.

A Russian correspondent sends us details of a very interesting and amusing tale told by a Russian veterinary surgeon who was sent into the Ural district to buy horses and hay for the peasants of the famine stricken provinces. He had to do mostly with the natives (kirghizi), who are half savage, but who, nevertheless, were found to be extremely honest and absolutely trustworthy in all buying and selling, some of them even offering to give horses for the starving peasants.

Quite a different story has the surgeon to tell of the Ural Cossacks, who did their level best to cheat him in the most barefaced manner and on whom no reliance was to be placed. And yet these Cossacks are very religious and so simple in certain respects that a swindler succeeded in selling them quite a number of tickets for—paradise! The veterinary surgeon saw several of these tickets, which were marked "First rows" and sold at 25 rubles, back seats bringing considerably less.—Commercial Intelligence.

The Mistake of His Life.

Bliffers—What's wrong today? You look blue.

Bluffers—I'll never forgive myself. I kicked a caller out of my house last night.

"Huh! I kicked many a one. Young fellow, I suppose?"

"No; past middle age."

"Well, these old codgers have no business coming round sparking young girls. I kicked out one of that sort last week."

"Yes, but I've found out that this man wasn't after my daughter; he was after my mother-in-law."—New York Press.

A Proper Question.

"And clothes," argued the missionary further, "are as cheap as dirt!"

The tropic heathen did not conceal her misgivings.

"Yes; but are they as hygienic?" faltered this simple child of the forest.

Her health was quite perfect now, and there was no telling what might not be the effect of corsets and skirts which do not hang from the shoulders, to say nothing of the veils with dots in them.—Detroit Journal.

His Experience.

"Woman's work is never done," quoted the sympathetic citizen.

"That's right," answered Mr. Meekton earnestly. "I have observed it in Henrietta's case. Woman's work is never done. There is always enough of it left over to keep her husband busy from the time he gets through his dinner till he's so tired he has to go to bed."—Washington Star.

Progression.

"Mary Prim doesn't distribute tracts any more."

"No. I met her the other day, and she smelled dreadfully of peppermint."

"From tracts or extracts, eh?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The driest of all fishes is, perhaps, the river eel, yet, according to an analysis by a German chemist 60 per cent of its substance is water. Salmon comes next, with 61.4 per cent. Lobsters and oysters are four-fifths water

Good Afternoon.

We are tempted to advocate semi-annual elections for the city of Quincy, in view of the activity of officials just before election to secure improvements for the city.

The letter of Chairman De Las Casas of the Metropolitan Park Commission shows that the Quincy boulevard project may not be dead. It certainly is not as encouraging as it might be. Quincy people would feel better assured if they knew that the money was still available. The failure of the board to consider it for several months has caused interest to wane.

Drift of Opinion.

☞ The editor of one of our most unique and individualistic exchanges remarks that he wants a young man to connect himself with his paper, "who is more anxious to earn his salary than to draw it, for there is plenty of money for the man who can earn it." We fancy that plenty of men in other lines of business are the same state of mind concerning their wants. One class of young men —and unfortunately it is a large class —is apparently thinking more of pay day than of the work, and so it never sees a really satisfactory pay day.—New Bedford Standard.

☞ December 21, 1895, at the celebration of the 275th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth, Senator Hoar made a speech which does not seem to be in very close sympathy with his anti-expansion views today. Among other things he said then: "The sons of the Pilgrim have crossed the Mississippi and passed the shores of the Pacific. The tree our fathers set occupied at first a little space by the seaside. It has planted its banyan branches in the ground. It has spread along the lakes, it has girdled the gulf. It has spanned the Mississippi. It has covered the prairie and the plain. The sweep of its lofty arch rises over the Rocky mountains. Its hardy growth shelters the frozen region of the Northwest. Its boughs hangs over the Pacific and in time—in good time—it will send its roots beneath the waves and receive under its vast canopy the islands of the sea."—Milford Journal.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

A favorable report was received and adopted on several petitions for minor licenses.

The Committee on Streets reported orders granting locations to the New England Telephone Co. and the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. Ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting Andrew Johnson permission to run a guy wire across Quarry street. Ordered to a second reading.

The same committee reported an order changing the name of Canal street between Hancock and Washington street to Revere road.

In reply to Councilman Jameson, Councilman Hultman said a majority of the residents desired the change, and there was no opposition. Order adopted.

The Committee on Public Building offered an order for $2,500, for plumbing and connecting the Coddington and Wollaston school buildings with the public sewer. To Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Finance offered an order transferring $117 from receipts from garbage to the appropriation for garbage, and $24 from plumbers licenses to miscellaneous of Board of Health. Adopted.

The same committee reported leave to withdraw on the petition of Mary A. Costello for $40 additional damages to land by rebuilding Payne street. Accepted.

The same committee reported an order, transferring $750 from unexpended balances to appropriation for State and Military Aid.

CITY ENGINEER.

The same committee reported an amendment to the ordinance establishing the office of City Engineer; the amendment changing the salary from $1,200 per year to $1,000.

In reply to a question Councilman. Bryant said the committee wanted to curtail expenses as much as possible. This was in the nature of an experiment and should start with a moderate sum. It could be increased later if the duties demanded more.

Councilman Jameson read a letter he had received from the Mayor which stated that the plan was to unite the engineer of the Sewer department and the City Engineer and that he intended to appoint Mr. Branch. As Mr. Branch receives more he did not think $1,000 would secure a good man. He did not believe it economical to pay $1,000 unless the two were combined. He believed the matter should be further considered.

Councilman Packard said he at first favored the larger sum but afterward changed his mind.

Councilman Bryant—Probably everybody knows if Councilman Jameson does not, that Mr. Branch does not do any engineering work such as a city engineer would do. He does the supervising. He is the advising engineer of the Sewer department. When that system is completed and a combination made then something different could be brought up. All the Council can do now is to establish the office.

Councilman Newcomb opposed the amendment. Out of 21 cities the salary averaged $1,700. He thought $1,200 small enough.

Councilman Jameson said the remarks of Councilman Bryant put a new light on the matter and he would withdraw his objection.

The Ordinance was then passed under suspension of the rules.

ELECTRICS WANTED.

Houghs Neck Voters Make It the One of Issues.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

We, the people of Houghs Neck, will vote for the candidates who consider Houghs Neck as being a part of Quincy, entitled to fair consideration, consistant with the amount of taxes paid by that section of Quincy.

During the winter months the children of Houghs Neck and Germantown have been obliged to ride to and from school in freezing barges, and for which the city has paid a considerable sum of money; while the railroad company, who could run warmed cars for the children, refrained from running during the winter months and the good city fathers have permitted the said railroad company to run the line as it pleased, in strict violation to law, its charter, and public necessity.

The railroad company although requested many times by the inhabitants, have always refused or neglected to comply.

How long will this last? Gentlemen, you, who annually cry out for votes for your election, permit this state of things to continue.

The railroad company say that the Commissioner has ordered up the tracks. Nobody disputes the fact; but the tracks were ordered up during the period of grading, and at no time up to the present, has the railroad been in the condition incapable of being used except for a period of a few days at a time.

When application is made to the railroad by any of the residents, they turn about and abuse the applicants.

How long gentlemen, will you tolerate this?

When will the first man open his mouth in defence of the rights of Houghs Neck.

The Council has the right, and should order the railroad company to run its cars to accommodate the Houghs Neck public, or revoke its location.

You have the remedy, why not apply it? A. A. Meyer.

Declines the Nomination.

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 27, 1899.

Dear Sir: I hereby withdraw my name as candidate for Councilman from Ward Two.

After giving the matter due consideration I have come to the conclusion that holding the position which I do my candidacy might prejudice me with the Company and in the event of my election I can easily foresee embarassing situations which might arise on account of my connection with the Street Railway Company which might prejudice me with the people.

Thanking the voters in Ward Two for their kindness in placing me in nomination and regretting the necessity of withdrawing, I remain,

Very respectfully yours,
Benjamin J. Weeks.

LOCAL ARTISTS.

Present the Comedy of Our Boys at Music Hall.

A good-sized audience assembled in Quincy Music hall Monday evening to be entertained by the comedy of "Our Boys," under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 10, A. O. H.

It was in three acts and was produced under the personal direction of Mr. William C. Mason, with the following cast of characters:

Perkyn Middlewick, a retired butterman, Mr. John Ross
Sir Geoffrey Champneys, a country baronet, Mr. John Foley
Chas. Middlewick, Middlewick's son, Mr. Geo. Cahill
Talbot Champneys, Sir Geoffrey's son, Mr. Richard Gray
Clarissa Champneys, Talbot's aunt, Miss Nellie Connolly
Violet Melrose, an heiress, Miss Mary R. Doran
Mary Melrose, her poor cousin, Miss Lucy Lyons
Belinda, a lodging house slavey, Miss Mary Welch
Kempster, Sir Geoffrey's man servant, Mr. Wm. A. Mahoney
Poddles, Middlewick's butler, Mr John McGuane.

Each part was well taken but naturally the ludicrous ones took best. Talbot and Clarissa Champneys, Belinda, Kempster and Poddles added considerable humor. Perkyn Middlewick was probably the star, but Sir Geoffrey and their sons shared the honors. Violet Melrose wore several pretty gowns and some of her sentiments were applauded. Mary Melrose introduced a solo and was encored.

Why the Boulevard Matter is Waiting Decision.

The following letter from Chairman De Las Casas of the Metropolitan Park Commission has been received by City Solicitor Blackmur, and is self explanatory:

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Metropolitan Park Commission,
Boston, Nov. 27th, 1899.

Paul R. Blackmur, Esq., City Solicitor,
Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter of Nov. 24th, I have laid its contents before this board, and they desire me to say that a hearing in regard to the Quincy Shore and Boulevard project cannot be given at present.

They appreciate the earnest interest which Mayor Keith and yourself and the representatives and other citizens of Quincy have manifested in this project, and they beg me to assure you that the delay in deciding the matter does not proceed from any delay or inattention on the part of your city, or its representatives, so far as known to us, but from the fact that this board has not deemed it wise to take the matter up for final decision until every material fact and, if possible, every option is before it. The time seems now to be rapidly approaching when the matter can be taken up for such decision. When it is so taken up a hearing will be given you, if desired, and it then seems advisable. No one is justified in saying at this time what the decision of the Board will be in regard to the matter.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) W. B. De Las Casas, chairman.

IMMIGRATION.

Annual Report and Recommendations of the Commissioner General.

In his annual report to the secretary of the treasury Commissioner General Powderly of the immigration bureau gives the total arrivals for the year ended June 30, 1899, as 311,715, an increase over the next preceding year of 82,416, or 36 per cent. The opinion is expressed that at least 25,000 persons were not listed in this number through a defect in the law, as well as an indeterminate number from Canada and Mexico who are not under existing regulations accounted for. The increase over the figures for last year is represented largely by immigration from Europe, specifically from Italy, Austria-Hungary, Russia and Finland, which show gains respectively of 18,806, 22,694 and 31,154.

Of the total arrivals, Europe supplied 297,349, Asia 8,972, Africa 51 and all other countries 5,343. The distribution as to sex was 195,277 males and 116,438 females. As to age, 43,983 were under 14, 248,187 from 14 to 45 and 19,545 45 years or older. As to illiteracy, 60,446 could neither read nor write, and 1,022 could read, but were unable to write. As to amount of money brought, 39,071 had each $30 or over, and 174,613 had each less than $30. The total amount of money exhibited to officers was $5,414,462. There were returned to their own countries within one year after arrival 263. In addition to 796 paupers and 303 alien contract laborers debarred on the Canadian and Mexican borders, there were refused admission 1 idiot, 19 insane persons, 2,599 paupers or persons likely to become public charges, 348 diseased persons, 8 convicts, 82 assisted immigrants and 741 contract laborers, making a total of 3,798. The number of contract laborers debarred last year exceeded the number for the next preceding year by 77 per cent.

Legislation is recommended to enable the commissioner general to have investigations made at the centers of labor in this country to which contract laborers are destined. The recommendation of last year is repeated as to the necessity for transferring the immigration stations at Canadian ports to certain designated points on our northern boundary, which shall be the only ports of entry for aliens coming through the Dominion. This recommendation is sustained, it is said, by figures showing that the immigration through Canada has largely increased and that the care exercised by the immigration officials at the American ports is merely diverting the tide of immigration through a channel offering little obstruction.

It is also recommended that information be collected showing the number of aliens annually leaving for foreign countries; also that the authority of the bureau be extended so as to include the subject of naturalization to such extent as may be necessary to prevent fraud.

A severance of the connection between the customs and immigration branches of the government is urged.

With regard to the islands now held under military authority as a result of the war with Spain, the opinion is expressed that the prompt extension of the immigration laws to them by order of the secretary of war will avoid many embarrassments. It is also recommended that the authority of the secretary of the treasury be extended to the arrest and deportation of aliens in this country in violation of any law, as well as to such as have landed in disregard of the provisions of the alien contract labor laws.

It is also recommended that authority be granted allowing the manifests of cabin passengers to be made up during the voyage and their certification on arrival at an American port before an immigraant inspector. It is also recommended that to prevent a defeat of the purposes of the laws, through the claim of passengers to be visitors merely and not immigrants, that the laws be extended to all aliens, including seamen on foreign vessels after discharge at a port of the United States. The cost of enforcing the alien contract labor laws during the year was $87,725 and of the immigration laws $288,002.

Machinery and Labor.

The extent to which machinery is supplanting hand labor in the coal mines appears in the recent report of the Ohio mine inspectors. Of the year's coal production of 14,058,135 tons in that state, 5,252,588 tons were mined by machinery. This is a gain over the preceding year of 1,147,474 tons and is the greatest amount by that method in the state's history. The year's increase equals the entire amount of machine mined coal during the year 1890 and is nearly 250,000 tons in excess of that so produced during 1889. Other figures in the report are of interest as showing the benefits of mine supervision in the lessened roll of injuries.

Economists have debated long and freely over the question whether machinery increases or decreases the demand for labor, but one thing there seems no doubt of—viz, that the huge aggregations of capital nowadays largely increase the use of machinery. In the hands of such combinations it becomes at once more ponderous, far-reaching and expensive.—Pittsburg Press.

Industrial Conciliation of New York.

Employing and journeymen painters of New York have agreed to meet in conference to discuss the general interests of the trade and to arrange a scale of wages and working hours for the coming year. A joint board of conciliation may be formed through which disputes and strikes will be averted.

The Amalgamated Painters and Decorators heartily favor the conference and look for good results to all concerned.

BOY STRANGELY BRANDED.

How He Burned the Letter "S" Into His Forehead.

Joe McCollough, one of the hustling messenger boys attached to Barney Frauenthal's bureau of information, has a well formed letter S in the center of his forehead. It is not a stain or tattoo mark that will wear away in a few days or months. But it is a burn, and Joseph will carry the scar to his grave, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. How it came there is an interesting story.

McCollough was suffering from a terrific headache the other day, and when he told Frauenthal of his affliction he was advised to go to a drug store and get some headache medicine. When he entered the station store, the proprietors and his clerks were busy, and Joseph occupied the time by "looking around." Just above the cigar case there was a sign which directed readers to use a certain powder for headache. Unfortunately a smaller sign had been hung over it, concealing the name of the powder, making the sign read, "Use For Headache."

Hanging directly in front of the sign was one of the new electric cigar lighters which, when held in a certain position, give out a flame in the shape of the letter S. Joseph had never seen one of them before, and as the sign said "use for headache" he concluded, as the proprietor and his assistants were busy, to help himself. He grabbed the handle of the lighter and pressed it against his forehead. Then the machinery was in a position to throw out the flame. The buzzing that followed was taken by Joseph as the working of the application in his head, but when the fire burned into the flesh on his forehead he screamed and dropped the handle.

Then he realized what the machine was for. He felt of his forehead and found a great blister. He tried to escape from the store without attracting more attention, but the clerks, who had heard his scream, caught and held him until they had examined the brand. When they let him go, he hastened to apply to his boss for a leave of absence of three days to treat the burn. It is healing up rapidly, but the scar is coming out more prominently every day. Joseph does not object to it as much as he does to the reception he will get from his friends when he returns to his station duties.

FATHER OF RAILWAYS.

Stephenson May Be Displaced by One William James of Warwickshire.

Who is the "Father of Railways?" Books of reference give the distinction to George Stephenson, and Dr. Smiles has enshrined the claim in his "Lives of the Engineers." But an effort is now being made to secure recognition of the claim of Mr. William James, a Warwickshire contemporary of Stephenson, says the London Chronicle. It appears that in 1799—when George Stephenson was a lad of 18—William James was engaged in laying out plans for railroads. In 1802 he journeyed into Lancashire for railway survey purposes and conceived the idea of establishing railroads between Liverpool and Manchester, Bolton and other towns for the carriage of cotton and general goods.

Between 1819 and 1820 James projected a line called the Central Junction railroad, a portion of which, between Stratford-on-Avon and Moreton-in-the-Marsh, with a branch line to Skipton, was actually laid. In 1821-2 Mr. James formed the first railway company in England, "the Liverpool and Manchester," and in the family papers it is alleged that Stephenson, in surveying its line, merely followed in his footsteps. Sir Edward Watkin and other leading railway men are strongly impressed by the claim of the Warwickshire man to be the pioneer of our railway system, and a committee has been formed for the purpose of getting his services recognized. It is intended to ask the authorities to allow a tablet to the memory of James to be placed in Westminster Abbey.

NEW FIRE MACHINE.

Ingenious Field Gun For Fighting Fire Patented.

An ingenious inventor who thinks there is room for ingenuity in other than warlike weapons has recently patented an apparatus which he calls the monitor battery and which is designed to play the same part in fighting a fire that heavy siege guns do in bombarding a city, says the Chicago Tribune. Several lines of hose are connected with the big nozzle, which can throw a solid stream of water three inches in diameter if desired.

The nozzle is so supported that it can be easily handled by one man. It is drawn by a single horse and is designed for use in limited areas, where there is not room for the operation of a water tower. When not in action, the heavy nozzle is so suspended that the weight falls on the wheels, thus relieving the horse of much of the burden. At a fire the table supporting the nozzle is thrown forward by a lever. The machine is so built that it can withstand a backward pressure of 1,500 pounds to the square inch.

Schoolgirl's Good Fortune.

Miss Hattie Smith, the 18-year-old daughter of a retired farmer, Thomas Smith, of Stevens' Point, Wis., has fallen heir to $1,000,000. Her grand-uncle, Richard Smith of Glasgow, has signed a contract to settle $1,000,000 on her when she arrives at the age of 21 in consideration of her going to Glasgow to live with him and brighten his last years, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. She will graduate from the local high school in June and will go to Glasgow in August next. Her uncle is 92 years old. He is now visiting in Chicago and Elroy, Wis.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

SECRETARY LONG'S DAUGHTER SEEKS HEALTH IN COLORADO.

American Women In London—Revolt of the Blue Grass Belle—Women Learning Oratory—A Few Seams Are Now the Fad.

Miss Helen Long, second daughter of the secretary of the navy, will spend the winter in Colorado owing to pulmonary trouble.

Miss Long's friends assert that she contracted the cold which seems to have been the beginning of her decline at the dinner served on the Dolphin, given about the middle of February. The weather was inclement, and the exposure to the strong river breeze proved very disastrous. Miss Long spent the day on the boat, which was anchored just off the navy yard, superintending the details of the banquet. President and Mrs. McKinley were the guests of honor, and Vice President and Mrs. Hobart, with all the cabinet families, were present.

During the war Miss Long was a hospital nurse. Long before hostilities broke out she announced her intention of becoming a nurse should the trouble over Cuba result in bloodshed. In order to equip herself for this service she went to Baltimore and entered the medical school of Johns Hopkins university. Her example aroused the spirit of patriotism in her friends, and Miss Dorothy Reid, daughter of Whitelaw Reid; Miss Mabel Austin, daughter of the former governor of Minnesota, and Miss Mabel Simis also entered the university to prepare themselves for hospital nurses.

As soon as war was declared Miss Long and her friends volunteered their services to the government. They were assigned to the naval hospital in Brooklyn. Here Miss Long won the love of the sick and wounded who arrived in the hospital ship Solace from Santiago. Miss Long lived in the hospital and devoted her entire time easing the pain of the brave fellows who returned from the front helpless.

Miss Long made many friends during her residence in Washington. Deep sorrow is expressed at the sad news of her alarming illness. She is a quiet girl, with more love for books than for social amenities. She has gracious manners and a cordial address and will be sincerely regretted by the other cabinet hostesses. It is not likely that the family of the secretary of the navy will take part in the social season owing to Miss Helen's condition. This will make another vacancy in the list of official hostesses.

American Women In London.

The London Daily Telegraph pays the following pretty tribute to American women in London:

"Never perhaps has the American woman been more prominent in our midst than this season. Socially, of course, she has been a factor of importance in many recent years, and it is hard to imagine a London season in which an important part would not be played by the Duchess of Marlborough, Lily Duchess of Marlborough, the Duchess of Manchester, Lady Randolph Churchill, Mrs. Choate, Mrs. Ronalds, Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. Bradley Martin, Mrs. Ogden Goelet and many more whose foremost position in London society is unchallenged.

"But the feature which seems to have passed almost unnoticed and to characterize the charming transatlantic invasion would seem to be that the daughter of the stars and stripes is entering much more into our everyday life. No longer is she exclusive to the aristocratic ranks, no longer must we think of her as associated with millionaires alone. She has come to us in her professional vocations; she has come without unlimited dollars as the wife or daughter of the solid, prosperous man of learning or commerce and in that capacity has begun to permeate what one may call English home circles. And with her frank, unconventional ways, her bright fund of talk and her honest capacity for enjoyment ordinary folks are as glad to welcome her to their midst as those of more exalted station hailed their compeers.

"It was a very large contingent indeed that the United States contributed to the recent international congress of women, and it is without doubt largely due to these delegates that English women have lost some of their fear that the 'platform woman' from over the seas must of necessity have been a weird and wild crank. Instead they found them interested in the same phases of philanthropy, in the same practical and useful movements as themselves and with an unvarying desire to promote friendly feelings between the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon race."

Revolt of the Blue Grass Belle.

Most unusual of any club which has yet been heard from is that which lately has been formed in Louisville. Twenty-two women, and report says that they are all young and pretty, have formed themselves into a society for the promulgation of the latest of woman's rights—the right to be ugly. They do not mean by this that they are going to cut off their noses or otherwise disfigure themselves, but simply that they are no longer going to dress or demean themselves to please man.

"The day," they recently announced, "when we can say to man that we don't care whether he likes us or not that day we divide the world with him." To the mere man this seems to be only the feminine way of saying that the day she ceases to be a woman she becomes as good as a man, and if all women were thought so man might well be terrified. As it is young women probably will think twice before they follow the fair Kentuckians' example, for, after all, the women who remained women would have it all their own way. Every month the society meets and discusses the progress that has been made in their fight for women's rights. Any woman who takes an oath that she never will be guilty of any of the arts in vogue for attracting man's smiles and approbation is eligible for membership. Matrimony, however, is not looked upon with disfavor. Provided a woman can win a husband without resorting to any of the arts to make herself attractive she is perfectly at liberty to do so. The only stipulation that is imposed upon the members of the new society is that the word "obey" be left out of the marriage ceremony.

Only single women are eligible for membership, and, strange to say, there are no old maids or widows in the club. —New York Press.

Women Learning Oratory.

The latest fad among the Chicago clubwomen is extempore speaking. When women's clubs took on such a boom just after the World's fair, ambitious women soon discovered that a knowledge of parliamentary law was a sure road to honors at the hands of their fellow members. After a time it became evident that to have influence in the world of clubs a woman must have at least a fair acquaintance with the mysteries of Robert and Cushing and Shattuck. So pretty soon every woman was more or less deep in these mysteries.

But these brilliant parliamentarians discovered that there was still something lacking. They knew the law, but they were all at sea in a good, lively club fight. Strangely enough, this was because they could not talk. Of course they were not actually tongue tied, but they could not get up on their feet and say what they wanted to, as they wanted to. The women themselves knew that something was wrong and had a shrewd idea as to what the matter was, but did not know how to go to work to remedy matters.

Now, however, the remedy is at hand. A bright young woman discovered that they needed instruction in extemporaneous speaking, and the women parliamentarians immediately recognized in her a long felt want. She organized classes, and the women go and are taught how to talk ten minutes at a stretch. It is said that curtain lectures, dress and stories about the speaker's children are barred. Otherwise everything goes from Homer to the best way to cook beans.

A Few Seams Are the Fad.

Tailors and modistes, who are, as a rule, so scornful of one another, have come together in a common cause. They have a new and lively interest in life—a mission, as it were—and the object of their combined efforts is the total extermination of seams. Fewer seams are used this season than ever before, and even the one or two that are positively necessary are carefully concealed under strapping or trimming of one sort or another. Cutting has developed into a fine art, and the tailor or modiste who can so curve, stretch or twist a piece of fabric and mold it into sheathlike covering for a feminine form without the aid of a single seam is considered something higher than an ordinary genius. Seamless skirts are made with bias backs. It sounds almost incredible. And more than that, they flare around the lower edge. There is positively no front gore. One side of the front is lapped over the other and buttoned straight down, or, if buttons are not desired, the lap and lower edge of the skirt are strapped and stitched. Tight fitting, seamless bodices are worn with these skirts. Of course the shoulder seam can never be dispensed with, nor the one seam that joins the sleeve, but the body of the waist is cut in one piece. The center of the back is laid on a straight fold of the cloth, which is so curved in cutting that it fits like a glove, the only darts that are allowed being two tiny ones cut in from the arm holes at the bust line. Then the fronts are lapped over and fastened down on a line with the fastening of the skirt.—Elmira Telegram.

A Scheme That Works.

"Accidentally I have hit on a good scheme to take advantage of the department stores," said a matron at breakfast to her husband recently. "I think," she added, humorously, "that I'll contribute it to the woman's page of my newspaper in return for the 'beauty sermonettes,' the 'bits on beauty building' and the 'sermons on skin foods' which have made me the wreck you see. The scheme is to have an account at a store and then go and buy eight or nine yards of silk or cloth or whatever you need and order the purchase sent to you C. O. D. When it arrives, you say to the driver indignantly: 'See here, my good man, this is a mistake. I have an account, you know, and nothing should be delivered C. O. D. to me.' The man answers that he can't help it; must obey orders and either get the money or take the goods back with him. You retort, 'Take them, then, and keep them!' And early next morning you appear at the remnant counter of the store. There invariably one will find the goods that she bought, reduced at least one-half in value on account of having been cut, and all one has to do is to buy them back again and count the gain. On Monday I bought for $3 three yards of silk for a waist. I sent the silk back because it had come C. O. D. instead of charged, and on Tuesday I picked it up again at the remnant counter for $1.50. Of course I didn't do this thing intentionally. There are women, though, who would."—Pittsburg dispatch.

One of Ohio's Noted Women.

Dr. Myra K. Merrick, the first woman physician in Ohio and one of the first in the United States, died in Cleveland last week at the age of 74. At the beginning of her career she met with great opposition. But her skill, her serene confidence in herself that was far removed from vanity and her dogged persistence triumphed in due time, and for many years she stood shoulder to shoulder with the best physicians in Cleveland. She overstepped most of them in a pecuniary way, and her practice was largely among the wealthy and exclusive class that gave her a large income. She was born in Hinkley, England, in 1825, but she was brought by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard King, to this country when but 1 year old. The family located near Boston, and at the age of 8 she began working in the cotton cloth mills of the east. It had been a boast of hers that since that age she had earned her own living. The family came to Ohio in 1841, and she decided to enter the medical profession, but the doors of medical colleges were closed to women, and it was not until 1852 that she succeeded in securing her diploma.

Growth of Woman's Hand.

The size of a woman's glove is not altogether conclusive evidence of the size of her hand, but if the testimony of glove dealers can be accepted women's hands are getting larger year by year, and golf, tennis, rowing and driving must be held responsible for it.

Glove dealers say there is a bigger call for gloves of a large size than formerly and that they have to get rid of their smaller sizes at bargain sales. Not only this, but athletics have made an inroad on the sale of gloves, for the athletic girl nowadays eschews them altogether, except in the winter, and even in town fashionable women are seen going abroad ungloved.

Besides this an artist asserts that the athletic and outdoor life that girls lead nowadays has totally destroyed the form and shape of the hand. He declares women's hands are tanned and reddened and stretched out of all proportion, and golf receives the greatest amount of blame for this, although the rest of the list of fashionable sports share the blame.

Fencing For Women.

Those who have seen women who are expert fencers recognize that it is an extremely graceful amusement. Fencing bids fair to be as popular as cycling, and a great many ladies have been taking lessons during the season. No woman with a weak physique would have any chance. Strength of leg is absolutely necessary, as well as of wrist, and much activity. But it is a most admirable exercise, improving the figure and developing the muscles, and it is quite worthy to be made an art. It is not only physical strength that is required for this amusement, but keenness of the eye and dexterity of the wrist, and these are quite womanly. Quickness of perception and action are necessary.

Fashion as to Weddings.

In London and Paris some very fashionable weddings have recently taken place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Three of the most fashionable brides in New York have had no bridesmaids. Perhaps this was due to the fact that there were no bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Julia Dent Grant and Prince Cantacuzene. There is as much a fashion in bridesmaids as there is in floral decorations and the cut and shape of the wedding gown. Engagements have only been announced a short time before the wedding, and this is the custom, especially if the bride has been out several seasons and has been a social success.

It is proposed in France to establish a court of justice run by women and for women, to which may be carried all those cases concerning which the most learned men know nothing. This will relieve a man judge, for instance, from determining questions as to fit in suits brought by dressmakers against their clients, and it ought to do away also with much expert testimony in such cases.

Miss Florence King of Chicago has been appointed commissioner of deeds for Alaska. She is the first woman to hold office in that territory. Her commission is from the governor, John R. Brady. Miss King will be stationed in Sunrise City, on Cook inlet, one of the southern bays, ten days out from Seattle.

Miss Klumpke, to whom Rosa Bonheur left all her large fortune, has decided to share half of it with the deceased painter's relatives, who were disinherited. All the paintings and other valuables left by Rosa Bonheur will consequently be sold, and the proceeds will be equally divided.

Potato pudding is easily prepared and makes a good and desirable addition to roast beef. Chop one-half cup of suet with three raw potatoes to a degree of fineness. Season this with pepper, salt and any preferred spice. Stir in flour for thickening and boil for three hours in a bag.

SOUTH AFRICA'S FUTURE

Trade Openings There For America When War Is Ended.

WILL REAP A GREAT REWARD.

No Matter Which Side Wins, America Will Be the Gainer, Says a Former Johannesburg Editor. Warning Against Investment In Gold and Diamond Mines—Effect of Native Uprising.

A former Johannesburg editor, writing in The Scientific American about the future of South Africa, says:

Up to the time of the declaration of war in South Africa 90 per cent of the mining machinery at the gold and diamond mines was of American manufacture. An even greater percentage of agricultural implements came from America. Vehicles of all kinds were American, and not so long ago the mule propelled cars along Dutoitspan road, Kimberley, bore the inscription, "Broadway, Battery to Central Park," relics of the days of horse cars on Broadway.

American liquors, such as beers and whisky, American clothing, American wagons and American hardware have all been favorites in South Africa. Then, too, Americans themselves have been well treated. An American is the practical head of the De Beers diamond mines. An American was formerly the state mining engineer in the Transvaal, and fully one-half of the mine managers at the Witwatersrand gold mines are Americans.

This speaks well for America and augurs still greater things for our country in the future. We are friendly with all of the contending parties. England sees in us a moral ally; the Transvaal and the Free State look to us for moral aid in settling their difficulties with Great Britain. No matter which side wins, we will be the gainer. If England is successful, she will extend all possible favors to us; if the Boers should win, America, being a republic, would still be in favor, especially as the Boers are fond of America in the abstract, even though they may not fancy the individual American, for some of America's representatives in South Africa have not been all that could be desired.

So America will be the gainer unless—and that phase is one likely to come up at any moment—there is a rising of the natives. If that should come to pass, then South Africa will be a land of terror and desolation. Whether the 1,151 tribes will remain quiet or not it is impossible to predict. At this writing they are still at peace with the white man, but any hour may bring a change. So long as either the Briton or the Boer shows decided supremacy in the field, so long will the native remain peaceable, but let the whites rend each other in death struggle, let them be so evenly matched in the game of war that both sides are decimated, and then the world will see a rising of natives compared with which the Indian mutiny will be insignificant.

Leaving aside the unpleasant possibility of a native uprising, South Africa will soon be the field for great commercial and financial advantages. Peace must come sooner or later, and then America will reap the reward of British aggression and Boer stubbornness. South Africa will need much mining machinery, corrugated iron houses, clothing, underwear, nails, hats—in fact, everything that a human being needs will be wanted.

South Africa has no manufactories. Everything must be imported, whether it be whisky or clothing. Even agriculture has been neglected in the mad rush for wealth and, incidentally, ruin. Legitimate business has been abandoned for speculation, and commercial honesty has been on the verge of oblivion. When the war shall have cleared the atmosphere, business, as it is understood in the United States, will once more take the place of scheming, and so good may yet come from bad.

But one thing Americans must heed or they will regret their lack of sense—they must avoid gold and diamond and all other mines as they would the evil one. South Africa is too thoroughly in the clutch of the unscrupulous speculator and promoter to warrant the investment of American capital in anything save legitimate business. If speculative Americans must invest in mines, let them seek new ones (there are plenty to be had for the developing) and then keep absolute control in their own hands. For the South African promoter is first cousin to Bret Harte's Chinaman—childlike and bland, but with sundry and various financial tricks that are delightfully ingenious, even though they are apt to impoverish those who are foolish enough to be ensnared.

Some $2,000,000,000 has been invested in South African mines. English, French and Germans have furnished the money. Alfred Beit, J. B. Robinson, Barnato Bros'., Wertheim, S. Neuman & Co., Cecil Rhodes and half a dozen more are worth close to $1,000,000,000 between them. Every bit of this stupendous sum was made through the flotation of mines. All of the mines, with two exceptions, are greatly overcapitalized. About 40 of them have paid dividends ranging from 15 per cent to 675 per cent, but as only those within the sacred circle know whether these huge dividends were honestly earned, it is advisable that American investors should leave all speculative investments to the less careful Briton, Frenchman and German.

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of he Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controlled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction, the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable. tf

FEDERAL TROOPS' AID

May Be Asked by Republicans If Goebel Gets Certificate of Election.

Will Appeal to President to Declare Martial Law.

Democratic Leaders Have Not Yet Taken Gubernatorial Controversy Into Court.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 28.—Senator Deboe left for Washington last night, and after his departure a story, emanating from Republican circles, was put abroad that, in the event Goebel is given a certificate of election next Saturady by the throwing out of the vote of Johnson, Knox and Jefferson counties, Senator Deboe, Senator Lindsey, Governor Bradley, General Taylor and other Republican leaders will unite in an appeal to

WILLIAM J. DEBOE.

President McKinley to declare martial law in Kentucky, recognizing Taylor as governor and supporting his administration. Senator Deboe stated that he felt confident no emergency would arise requiring the assistance of the federal authorities, but intimated he had assurances that federal aid could be had if it became necessary.

There is no change in the situation here on either side. The expected move of the Goebel leaders to take the gubernatorial controversy into the courts prior to its handling by the state election board has not materialized so far, and many believe it has been abandoned.

The story from Louisville that Jefferson and Elliot county returns had been mysteriously lost or tampered with is not credited here, as, should this occur, duplicates could be easily obtained.

The hotels of the city are slowly filling up with visiting Republicans and Democrats from many parts of the state.

The report that Warden Millard, under the direction of the Goebel leaders, is arming convicts and preparing to take the Goebel side in the event Bradley calls out troops Saturday, is absolutely unfounded.

It is probable the sitting of the state election board will extend over several days, and it is stated that the Democratic commissioners will refuse to begin canvassing the returns in the event that Bradley places a military guard over them.

Princeton's Big Bonfire.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 28.—Forty cords of wood, hundreds of boxes and barrels, scores of old board walks, fences and miscellaneous lumber piled in the rear of "Old North" was set ablaze by Captain Edwards last night to express the great joy of Princeton's undergraduates over Saturday's victory over Yale. The students sang and danced around the fire until midnight.

Another Arrest In Counterfeiting Case.

Boston, Nov. 28.—Mrs. Hubert, in whose house in East Boston counterfeit Canadian bills were found, and who is the mother of the woman who went with William Davis to Guthrie, Ok., has been arrested. It is understood that she will be taken before the United States commissioner and held as a witness. Davis is under arrest in Oklahoma as principal in the case.

Colored Men In Shooting Scrape.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 28.—David Frong, colored, aged 25, was shot in the abdomen last night in a fight with William Ward, colored, aged 42. The shooting was the result of an argument regarding a colored woman and her child. The bullet entered the left side of the abdomen and the victim is in a critical condition. Ward made his escape.

One Killed Outright.

Spencer, Mass., Nov. 28.—While four men were walking on the tracks near South Spencer, a freight came up behind them, killing one man named King outright. Frank R. Pratt of Lowell was probably fatally injured. He was taken to Worcester, where both feet were amputated. The other two men escaped unhurt.

They Joined the Union.

River Point, R. I., Nov. 28.—The threatened strike of the union weavers at the Valley Queen mill has been averted. The four non-union weavers agreed to join the union yesterday, and the meeting called for last evening to declare a strike if the employers refused to discharge the non-unionists was not held.

Thanksgiving Football Denounced.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—At a meeting of Congregational ministers here yesterday resolutions were adopted in which the practice of playing football on Thanksgiving day was characterized as a "disloyal contravention of the president's proclamation and contrary to the spirit and purposes of the day."

HOT SHOT FROM GARDINER.

Expresses His Opinion of the Mazet Committee In a Most Emphatic Manner.

New York, Nov. 28.—District Attorney Gardiner has addressed an open letter of 11 typewritten pages to Robert Mazet, chairman of the Mazet investigating committee of the New York legislature.

Colonel Gardiner explains his reason for rufusing to obey the summons the committee sent to be served on him to appear before that body. He declares that the committee has no right to summons him to appear. He said he had once voluntarily appeared before the body, and he quoted the supreme court criminal branch, showing that an indictment against a man who had failed to appear before the committee at its summons had been dismissed. He referred to John C. Sheehan.

"Your summons to me," states the district attorney, "relates to part of a plan concerning three things to be carried out in preparation of the election and which have been duly communicated to me by a sincere friend. Your determination to punish the leader of the Democratic party in this county for his opposition to your nefarious Astoria gas grab bill before he should go abroad, has forced you earlier than you intended to introduce an untruthful resolution, in which it is stated that funds were being raised by levy upon members of the police force and saloons and resort people and by other contributions for use in corruptly influencing legislation. Of course, once started, instead of quietly waiting until November, you have had to go on to the great joy of your paid counsel, in the vain effort to discover fraud in the several departments of municipal administration, amidst the ever-increasing indignation of our citizens, as evinced by the enormous majority election day."

Mr. Gardiner then cites authority to show that the Mazet investigating committee has no power to compel the attendance of witnesses, or to punish them for refusing to attend, and says "the very resolution under which you were appointed was unlawful, in that, aside from the untruthful police allegation, it undertook to authorize you to inquire into the 'enforcement of law' in the four counties of this city, and to report Feb. 1, next, a month after your legislative term had expired, to an assembly which does not yet exist."

Boston's New Bridge Opened.

Boston, Nov. 28.—The transit commissioners had the satisfaction of throwing open to the public yesterday a new bridge over the Charles river, between the North End and Charlestown, thereby completing the second great undertaking for which the commission was created. It is but little more than a year ago that the subway was completed, and the opening of the new bridge marks the second chapter in Boston's attempt towards better transit. The usual formalities of delivering the new structure to the city, and its receipt, were gone through in a few moments. The ponderous draw was then swung into place. A few moments after the gates were opened the tide of travel began.

The "Open Door" Problem.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The Chinese minister visited the state department yesterday, and it is surmised that his call upon Secretary Hay was attributed to the recent European cablegrams, which have disturbed him by their free expression of a purpose to regulate the affairs of his country on the part of Europe and America. The answers of the European governments to our request touching the "open door" have not yet been received, so that the president will be obliged to make this matter the subject of a special message to congress, and to treat it in the most general manner in his regular message.

Language Was Too Strong.

Milwaukee, Nov. 28.—The Dewey resolution as drafted by Mayor Rose extending the admiral an invitation to visit Milwaukee was presented to the common council last night and after some debate was referred to the judiciary committee, together with the original invitation for the purpose of formulating it in different shape. Objection was made to the language "selfish, unappreciative rabble," and the intimation that the United States is an ungrateful nation.

Suit Against Alleged Combine.

New Orleans, Nov. 28.—John B. Cefalu & Co., fruit merchants, have brought suit for $30,000 damages against the United Fruit company, which is backed by Boston capital. The plaintiffs ask for an injunction to prevent the defendants from refusing to sell them fruit. The petition charges that the United Fruit company is a monopoly which is seeking to crush every fruit concern which declines to be absorbed by it.

Political Tips From Croker.

New York, Nov. 28.—Richard Croker, who sails for Europe today, said: "I want to say before my departure that William J. Bryan will be the standard bearer of the Democratic party in the next national campaign. The fight will be made against trusts and imperialism, and Mr. Bryan is the only man to lead such a fight. Tammany hall will give him its heartiest support. No running mate for Mr. Bryan has been selected yet."

Malfeasance In Office.

Springfield, Ills., Nov. 28.—Governor Tanner yesterday removed John W. Wilson and Morrow P. Reed from their offices as commissioners of the Illinois asylum for the incurable insane near Peoria. The two commissioners are charged with malfeasance in office in appropriating state funds to their own use, and the governor informed them that he would recommend them to the grand jury for an investigation.

In Seventeen-Knot Class.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Admiral Rodgers and the other members of the inspection board have returned from Boston, where they went to make the trial of the battleship Kentucky. The board is now preparing the full report upon the trial. Their opinion is that the Kentucky is easily a 17-knot ship, although designed for 16 knots.

POSSIBLE RISING IN CUBA.

Men Hostile to American Administration Stirring Up Strife In the Island.

Havana, Nov. 28.—Rumors of a more or less alarmist character have for some time been plentiful around Havana. It is said, for instance, that this general or that one is about to take to the woods; and it is apparently true that certain men are nursing programs hostile to the American administration. But the spread of the campaign of education is doing a great deal to offset the influence of such people, and, in any event, no trouble whatever is likely to occur until after congress meets.

It is a fact, nowever, that many Americans here believe that, if nothing is done toward giving the Cubans some definite assurances, if not a precise date, regarding the independence of the island, there will be a rising of some sort, although opinio diff widely with regard to what will amount to. Some believe that the malcontents will be practically bandits, easily controlled by a few troops. Others hold that the rising would be formidable, and would call for a large American force.

Yesterday there was a gathering of 2000 people at the cemetery to commemorate the execution of eight Cuban students by Spanish volunteers in 1871. Many clubs were represented. Father Loval, who celebrated mass, spoke briefly, declaring that the execution was an act of murder. In the course of his remarks he said that he himself was "more a Cuban than a priest, and ever ready to sacrifice his life for the independence of Cuba." A procession was then formed at the school of medicine and moved to the punta, where the memorial stone was unveiled.

Sunday evening 500 Catalonians ran through the streets of El Vedado with standards crying, "Viva Cuba libre" and "Viva Catalonia" and "Viva Maximo Gomez." Many citizens joined in the cheering evoked by the cry for free Cuba.

The flag over the Spanish consulate was at half mast in honor of the commemoration ceremonies, Senor Sagrario saying that Spaniards, no less than Cubans, deplored the awful occurrence.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING.

George Washington Was Born on Its Anniversary.

Tradition makes Thanksgiving in this country a legacy of the pilgrims and Puritans, but it was not only the English colonies, but those of the New Netherlands also, which made attempt at yearly celebration of a day of general gratitude.

This week of recreation observed by the Plymouth pilgrims was undoubtedly much enhanced by Priscilla Moline's rare culinary acquirements. When provisions were at a low ebb, her deft hands prepared many an appetizing dish of the plainest stores, and the "common house" under her superintendence was a scene of banqueting. Gentle Dame Brewster, whom Priscilla loved so tenderly, was strengthened much by her kind ministrations. Naturally John Alden had his share, and in vain Miles Standish sought to be first with the fair maid who prepared the viands.

There is a suggestive coincidence in this statement in "Young's Chronicle" of Massachusetts, "The first Thanksgiving day on record in the colony of Massachusetts was held Feb. 22, 1631." On that day a century afterward was born George Washington.

In 1675, the year in the history of New England when the colonists mourned their dead, sacrificed to Indian ferocity, that pregnant silence which speaks as no words can fell upon everything. Wars and rumors of wars were sad realities which blotted out the memories of all previous privations and sufferings. The ever present now was more than the settlers could grapple with. That year they kept no Thanksgiving in Connecticut colony. The next year light broke, and Thanksgiving was again celebrated.—New York Mail and Express.

THE NATIONAL FEAST.

Thanksgiving's Chief Feature Is a True American Bird.

The chief feature of the national feast is a national bird. The turkey notwithstanding Dr. Samuel Johnson in his dictionary defined him as "a large domestick fowl, supposed to be brought from Turkey," is a true American. Not a hint of the existence of this prince of fowls had the civilized nations of the earth ever heard until the year 1584, when the ancient voyagers dropped anchor off Axacan, now in North Carolina, then a part of what was called Virginia, and, making a landing one beautiful day in midsummer, reported that they had seen deer, snow white cranes and a certain large bird which epicures have since learned to worship under the name of turkey.

His merits were quickly discovered by the early "explorers and adventurers" from other countries, as the journals of Captain John Smith, William Byrd and their contemporaries attest, and it was not long before he was to be found on the tables of Europe. Brillat-Savarin, of gastronomic and literary fame, called him "the most beautiful present made by the new world to the old." Formerly very abundant, the wild turkey is now to be found only in small flocks here and there in the secluded glades of the Alleghany and Blue Ridge mountains, in the Florida wilds and on the plains of the far southwest. Domesticated, the turkey thrives and multiplies the world over.

"Handsome, golden, done to a turn, scenting the room enough to tempt a saint," and served with that peculiarly savory New England production, cranberry sauce, no one will dispute the turkey's right to the sovereignty of the Thanksgiving feast.

"Did any one hear the dinner bell ring?"—Boston Herald.

How to Carve a Turkey.

Insert the carving fork across the middle of the breastbone.

Cut through the skin between the breast and the thigh.

Bend the leg over and cut off close to the body and through the joint.

Cut through the top of the shoulder down through the wing joint.

Shave off the breast in thin slices, slanting from the front of the breastbone down toward the wing joint.

Carve only from the side nearest you.

Tip the bird over slightly and with the point of the knife remove the oyster and the small dark portion found on the side bone.

Then remove the fork from the breast and divide the leg and the wing.

Cut through the skin between the body and breast, and with a spoon remove a portion of the stuffing.

Serve light or dark meat and stuffing, as preferred.—Selected.

BREAD AND GIBLET FORCEMEAT BALLS.—Boil the giblets and chop fine; mix with the meat an equal quantity of bread crumbs, and for each cupful of meat use one teaspoonful each of lemon juice and chopped parsley, one tablespoonful each of flour and butter, one saltspoonful each of salt and thyme, half a saltspoonful of pepper, four drops onion juice and one beaten egg. Mix, make into balls the size of walnuts and fry in butter.

CHESTNUT SAUCE.—Chop fine a pint of chestnuts so they will cook quickly. When turkey is nearly done, pour off half a pint of the stock in the bottom of the pan, remove all the grease, add a cup of boiling water and boil the chopped chestnuts till very soft. Put through a sieve and thicken with a tablespoonful of flour which has been mixed with two tablespoonfuls butter.

A Woman's Face

Tells its own story. A laugh is often a lie on a woman's lips. It belies the pain which is tearing at the nerves. But the eyes have no part in the laugh. Their purple rings speak of suffering. There are lines too about the mouth which only pain can give. Many women look forward to a week of such misery each month. Three months of each year are given up to suffering. It weakens them. It ages them. It robs them of social pleasures and family joys. Can there be any excuse for such women who fail to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? It has cured thousands of such sufferers. Cured them perfectly and permanently. It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred who give it a fair and faithful trial. It's sure to help. It's almost sure to cure.

"I had falling of internal organs and had to go to bed every month; had irregular monthly periods which would sometimes last ten or twelve days," writes Mrs. Alice L. Holmes, of Coolspring Street, Uniontown, Pa. "Had indigestion so bad that I could not eat anything hardly. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

Free. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper-bound book or 31 stamps for cloth binding to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Worth Reading.

To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

Markets are not the only places which have Thanksgiving sales: some of the most cheering goods for the holiday can be obtained of the Granite Clothing Co.

All the vegetables which were displayed at the harvest concert of the First church, and there were a good many, were distributed among poor families who were deserving of them.

Johnson Bros' show window is attractive with its live coon and chickens. The pumpkin clock does not keep very good time, but nevertheless the firm is always up to date.

Walter E. Loud, the popular young violinist of this city is travelling with the Raymond Concert Company in the west. While in the Y. M. C. A. building in Cleveland, Ohio, last Friday, Mr. Loud had a gold watch stolen from his dressing room, and another member of the company lost $13. If the thieves had made a close search they could have taken $200 more, as there was plenty more in the cloths of other performers.

Veteran Dead.

James Mahoney, who was probably the oldest Irish resident in Quincy, died Monday in his 81st year.

He was born in Clonakilty, County Cork, Ireland in 1819. He came across the water to Quebec in 1840, but returned to Ireland shortly after. In 1856 he again crossed the water and came to Quincy.

He served in D company, 39th Mass., during the Civil war. He was on the skirmish line at the battle of Spottsylvania, and was severely wounded in the hand, part of which had to be amputated.

At the time of the assassination of President Lincoln, he was one of those who did guard duty over Mrs. Surratt, who was under arrest for complicity in the crime.

Returning to Quincy at the close of the war, he followed the shoemaker's trade, until a few years ago. He leaves two sons and three daughters. He was a member of Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R.

THERE IS A CLASS OF PEOPLE

Who are injured by the use or coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 1-4 as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

What Abutters Must Pay Toward the Sewer.

Cost May Be Apportioned Over Ten Years.

Many in List Must Pay Over $100; Some Much More.

The Ledger continues the publication of the assessments by the city upon the abutters in payment of their half of the cost of sewer construction. The list is not given in alphabetical order, but by streets as the pipes are laid.

The total assessment upon each lot is not given, but the assessment per frontage at the rate of 12 cents per foot, and the assessment per area within 100 feet of the street at the rate of 6 mills per square foot. To obtain the total assessment it is only necessary to add the two together.

In all cases probably the assessment per area is the larger, as the area is supposed, to pay eight-tenths of the assessment, and the frontage the other two-tenths. In many cases, notably corner lots, the assessment per frontage is nearly as large as upon the area.

These assessments may be paid in one, two or more instalments up to ten. If paid within three months from date of bill no interest will be collected, but if apportioned over a number of years interest will be added.

It is proposed to continue the publication as space will admit.

Actor Coghlan Dead.

Memphis, Nov. 28.—A dispatch received from The Tribune at Galveston confirms the death of Charles Coghlan, the actor and author. The dispatch adds: The Royal Box company played all through Texas with the understudy as star, who impersonated the famous actor apparently to the satisfaction of the public. Coghlan was 56 years of age. At the time of his death he had nearly finished a dramatization of "Vanity Fair." The remains will be taken to Prince Edward Island, his summer home.

Upholsterers' Demands Refused.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—The upholstery manufacturers of this city have refused the demand of their employes for an increase in the wage scale. The new scale makes a general increase of 25 percent. Several manufacturers made an advance of 15 percent, and rejected the new scale on the ground that the additional increase was excessive.

A MANDOLIN COVER.

It Is an Excellent Present For a Musical Friend.

Now that so many persons, men and women, play the mandolin, guitar or banjo an opportunity is afforded for a homemade Christmas gift which will exemplify that rare combination, sentiment and usefulness, and will be as adaptable to masculine as to feminine tastes. It is a flat shield or cover to place over the instrument, inside the case, to keep it secure from invading dampness or dust. The shield illustrated is for a mandolin, but precisely the same idea may be used for a guitar or banjo, the shape only being altered to fit the different case.

The material used is felt or fine, firm cloth, cut in the proper form and pinked or embroidered in scallops around the edge. Along the middle a musical staff, with notes, is carefully embroidered with etching silk, and the ingenuity and taste of the maker are displayed in the selection of the bit of music inscribed.

Of course it should be in the form in which music is written for the particular instrument the shield is to protect and, by preference, part of some melody of which the player is fond. At the broader part of the cover there is an additional embroidered decoration of flowers or conventional designs.

No metallic threads, spangles or beads ought to be used, as they might scratch the surface of the instrument. The shield is lined with plain or tinted chamois leather, which is fastened to the outside by lines of machine stitching.

PRETTY WALL POCKET.

A Useful Gift That Is Not Difficult to Make.

There are all sorts of basket work articles in willow and straw which may be turned to good purpose for Christmas presents. Besides the usual assortment of wastebaskets, workbaskets and clothesbaskets which all the department stores keep on hand, there are often oddly woven shapes of bags and wall pockets which offer a field for ingenious decoration. There are ever so many ways of ornamenting a wall pocket shape. It may be simply gilded, bronzed, stained or enameled all over and hung up by a bow of ribbon, or it may have ribbon woven all through the basket work, or it may have little lambrequins at the front and back of embroidered linen, plush or silk. A rather novel mode is illustrated. The wall pocket is of willow, made in the ordinary shape. The back is entirely covered, except the top edge, with shirred liberty satin. The front of the pocket is covered with satin gathered at the top and bottom, and across it is an X formed by two bands of ribbon tied in the middle and terminating in bows at the upper corners. All the basket work which shows is gilded. Near the top of the back a small gilt hook is secured, upon which a watch may be hung, and at one corner of the back is a bow of ribbon. This pocket is useful to hang at the wall by the bedside to hold the handkerchief, book, watch and similar trifles that may be wanted during the night.

Smuggling a Cook Stove.

"Speaking of smuggling," said an old time federal deputy, "I'll tell you a curious little story. Shortly after the opening of one of the Mexican roads, never mind which, a locomotive engineer got married to a native belle in the town at the lower end of his run and set up housekeeping. Among other things they needed was a cooking stove. He could get exactly what they wanted on the American side, but the duty on hardware of that kind was extremely high, and he racked his brains to think of some way to slip it down to his home without paying the exorbitant tariff.

"A cooking stove is about as easy to smuggle as a baby elephant, but at last he struck a brilliant scheme, and on his next trip he simply lashed the thing to the pilot of his engine. It looked as much out of place as a piano on top of a hearse, but the yardmen were conveniently blind, and he pulled out in triumph. When he stopped at the customs office, the Mexican officials stared at the stove in amazement, but they concluded at once that it was some new Yankee device in connection with the locomotive and asked no questions for fear of betraying their ignorance of up to date machinery. The consequence was that the engineer got his stove without paying a cent of duty."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Once Was Enough.

The young man who was trying to make the St. Joe boat was about two minutes late as he tore along River street. He could see the steamer hands casting off the ropes as he drew nearer, and, bumping amazed citizens out of his way, he rushed for the dock. The gangplank had been hauled in, and the nose of the steamer had swung six feet out into the river when he finally reached the water's edge. But that did not deter him. He was going to spend Sunday in Michigan or know why.

With a giant swing he tossed his valise aboard and then jumped for the steamer. He caught a rope and a post and held fast. Every officer on the boat expected to see him drop into the river, and bells jangled noisily as the captain peered over the side. When he saw the intrepid passenger was safe, the captain was twice as mad as if he had dropped into the water. Shaking his fist at him angrily, he yelled:

"Here, you, by jiminy crickets, don't you ever do that again!"

The passenger had hauled himself aboard by this time and, turning a look of scorn at the captain, said:

"What do you think I'm going to do—jump back and try it over?"—Chicago Chronicle.

The Blood Red Banner.

Royal and national colors vary with nations and times; but since Cain slew Abel blood red has been the sign of revolt. In the earliest revolt known to history, when the Persians rose against their king 4,000 years ago, they were led by a blood red banner, and during the riots which took place in Paris the men in the blood red caps were followed by the mob.

A blood red flag waved over Bunker Hill when the Americans fought us for liberty, and it was the emblem of the German peasants in their great uprisings in 1424, 1492 and 1525. Blood red was the color of the trade union flags during the middle ages, and it formed the background of the emblem of the Swiss confederacy in 1315.

Through the whole of French and every other national history those striking in their own ways for liberty have worn the blood her cap and hailed the blood red banner as their leader.

It is a curious fact that never has a monarch chosen it as his color. It has been left sacred to revolutionists.—London Answers.

Didn't Object to His Creed.

The English language reminds me of some of these typewriters and the game of whist. It looks mighty simple, but the further you go along the more complicated and swear provoking it is. We have all heard of the man who told his sweetheart that before marrying her he must confess that he was a somnambulist.

"Oh, I don't mind that," said the dear, sweet girl, "we are Presbyterians ourselves, but we are not a bit narrow."—Louisville Times.

Boy Babies and City Life.

Cities are more favorable to women, for statistics show that more boy babies die under 6 months in cities than girl babies. Families, according to the statistics, are larger in cities than in the country. There are more marriages in proportion to the population in cities than in the country, and also more divorces. The foreign population in cities is being eliminated, and in 20 years from now we shall practically have nothing but American cities.—St. Paul Globe.

Not a Bit of a Popular Hero.

"Nobody seems to know much about that man in uniform who slipped out of the carriage while the crowd was cheering the general and went back to the hotel."

"Bless you, no. He isn't one of the heroes. While the brave fellows were fighting at the front, he was nursing yellow fever patients in the hospital."—Chicago Tribune.

An Unsolved Problem.

He—Yes, she made a fool of me.

She—I wonder why it is a man never recovers from a thing of that kind?—Brooklyn Life.

In a dark corner near the west entrance of Winchester cathedral is a door composed of four pieces of iron grill work, which have the distinction of being the oldest specimens of their kind in England.

There are over 3,000 animals in the London zoological gardens.

BRITISH ON THE MOVE,

Methuen, Hildyard and Gatacre Likely to Be In Severe Engagements.

Reported Capture of Cavalry Corps Probably False.

Boers Said to Have Protested Against British Use of Natives.

London, Nov. 29.—The latest war dispatches, which appear authentic, say that Methuen's column is advancing, General Gatacre's column of the south is operating from Queenstown and Naaupoort toward Colesburg and Stormburg and likely to fight a considerable engagement with the Orange river Boers at any moment, and General Hildyard's column of the east is in bivouac at Frere, half way from Estcourt to Colenso.

GENERAL LORD METHUEN.

Additional dispatches from Methuen's column bring his loss at Gras Pan, or Enslin, up to 198. The list includes the losses of the Ninth lancers, none of whom are reported missing. A cabled list of casualties from General Buller, received in London late yesterday afternoon, gives a lieutenant of the Ninth lancers wounded in a reconnaissance Sunday. This appears to dispose of the stories set afloat in London and Berlin that the cavalry corps, 500 strong, had fallen into a trap similar to that which resulted in the capture of a squadron of the Eighteenth huzzars at Glencoe a month or more ago.

On the Natal side the wonder is that 10,000 troops should have been gathered at Mooi river and Estcourt without a word of it escaping the British censor. Such seems to have been the case, however. Hildyard's column seems deficient in artillery, and has only irregular cavalry, if the dispatches may be trusted; and it is hinted from London that the inability of the British scouts to keep in touch with the mobile Boer columns may account for the reported wholesale retreat of the Boers to the Tugela river; while there is some anxiety lest there be a Boer descent from the flanks upon the marching column or upon its communications. In any event, the blowing up of the Frere bridge and the apparent delay at that point, as a result, indicates the difficulties that confront Hildyard's advance. The great body of the Boers is no doubt intrenched behind the Tugela river, and prepared to dispute Hildyard's advance beyond that point. Ladysmith is reported safe up to Nov. 24, a considerable advance in our knowledge of its siege.

From Mafeking there is nothing, not even a Pretoria report of its fall, which would scarcely surprise the British public.

A Boer protest to the powers, calling attention to the employment of Kaffirs and Basutos by the British, and to British violations of the rules of civilized warfare, including the Geneva cross, has been put out in Paris. As it is partially echoed from Berlin, it appears not wholly a French fabrication, and may assume some importance.

General Forrestier-Walker has sent the following dispatch, dated Cape Town, Nov. 27, to the war office:

"Kekewich reports from Kimberley, from Nov. 18 to Nov. 23, some important skirmishes with the Boers. Wounded, Captain Bodley, Lieutenant Hawker and three troopers, all doing well. The health of the garrison is good and the water supply plentiful.

"Native reports to Kekewich state that the enemy's camps to the south of Kimberley have been vacated, and that Cronje, with 3000 Boers, is marching to the south. The Boers are disappearing from the vicinity of Kimberley. The enemy seems restless.

"The railway line was repaired to a point six miles north of Gras Pan Sunday, and the telegraph was re-opened to within eight miles of Modder river, or 33 miles from Kimberley, Monday night.

"Later—Gatacre occupied Bushmans Hoek yesterday with a battalion of infantry. His main body is at Putters Krael. The enemy retired toward Molteno."

As the Boers, according to General Forestier-Walker, are leaving Kimberley for the south, it is regarded as not impossible that Colonel Kekewich is already marching with 2000 troops to meet Lord Methuen. It is believed that after the relief of Kimberley Lord Methuen will proceed to the relief of Mafeking, about which considerable anxiety is still felt.

A dispatch from Orange river, dated Monday, Nov. 27, and describing the battle of Enslin, says: The British arms have achieved a brilliant victory. The enemy, strongly entrenched, held a range of hills commanding both sides of the railway at Rooi Laagte, near Gras Pan. The Lancashires, under Lewis, reconnoitered in an armored train on Friday. The Boers shelled the train, killing Lewis and a private.

General Methuen then advanced his column under a detour and bivouacked for the night at Swinks Pan, three miles from the Boer position. At dawn the advance began, the guards forming the reserve. The column detoured on the plain eastward of the Boer kopjes. The Boer guns opened fire. Two batteries of British artillery, posted on each side, shelled the Boers, practice being good on both sides.

The Boers stuck tenaciously to their positions, firing steadily and accurately. The duel, which continually became hotter, lasted three hours. The Boer shells wounded several men of the naval brigade.

Finding it impossible to displace the Boers by artillery, General Methuen resolved upon an infantry attack. A brigade of infantry, including the Yorkshires, the Northamptons, the Northumberlands and the Lancashires, with the naval brigade on the right, gallantly stormed the Boer positions in the face of a withering fire and carried hill after hill, the brigade under Colonel Money capturing the main positions against a terrific fire, but suffering severely.

The latest phase of the mobilization of the reserves has proved as satisfactory as have former calls. Out of 9786 men summoned, 9533 have rejoined the colors.

Sir Edward Clarke, Conservative member of parliament since 1880, and from 1886 to 1892 solicitor general, has addressed a letter to his constituents announcing his intention to retire at the next general election, in view of the fact that he is not in agreement with the government's policy.

The transport Scott, with 33 officers and 1086 men, and the Bavarian, with 83 officers and 2810 men, arrived at Cape Town yesterday.

Police In the Dark.

New York, Nov. 29.—William F. Miller, who conducted the Franklin syndicate in Brooklyn, has not yet been arrested, and the police have not the faintest idea where he is. The Franklin syndicate safe, which was locked up by Miller the last thing before he took flight, was opened by a locksmith yesterday. In it was found 190 shares of Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock and a few worthless scraps of paper. There was not a penny of cash, and nothing of value except the stock. Postmaster Wilson of Brooklyn has received an order from the postmaster general, directing him to return, so far as possible, to the senders, all letters addressed to the syndicate. About 1500 pieces of mail, including over $12,000 worth of money orders, have accumulated since Saturday.

Poultry Prices Get a Boost.

Boston, Nov. 29.—The Thanksgiving piultry trade was given a shaking up yesterday by the condemnation by health officers of large consignments of western fowl. Prices had been low and trade good, but the rejection of practically half the consignment has sent up quotations. The chief trouble was sourness, and the prevailing warm weather is responsible for this. The aggregate losses, upon whomever they fall, are considerable. Four tons of condemned birds were taken to Spectacle island as fertilizer. The birds from northern New England and New York seem to be in good condition.

Washington School Concert.

The vestry of the Quincy Point church was crowded Tuesday evening to the doors, by friends and parents of the Washington school pupils, who gave a concert for the purpose of raising funds for a new piano in the school house to replace the old one, which has been in the school since many can remember.

Each grade in the building was represented. Master Illsley Dole, Bessie Powers and Helen Welch deserve especial mention. Master Dole sang Little Boy Blue in his clear soprano voice, and was appreciated by all. Miss Powers' recitation "Aunt Melissey on Boys," was delivered in a cute way. Miss Welch made quite an impression on the audience with her coon song and dance. The "Topsy Turvey chorus" was very amusing being given by Grade V.

The concert was a success the fund being raised which was necessary to purchase the piano. Much credit is due the entire corps of teachers, who so ably managed the affair.

Cantata of The Holy City.

One of the swellest society functions of the season was the sacred cantata of "the Holy City" by A. R. Gaul, which was rendered at the Wollaston Unitarian church on a Tuesday evening by a chorus of thirty-five voices under the direction of Mr. John E. Nickerson, assisted by Miss Florence Emery, soprano; Mrs. Jeannette Noyes Rice, contralto; Mr. George R. C. Dean, tenor; Dr. George B. Rice, baritone; Miss Florence G. Olney, pianist; and Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, organist. The solo work called out rounds of applause.

BROOKLINE'S CHEEK.

Would Desert Norfolk County and Demand Pay for Doing So.

A proposition which demands attention on the part of Quincy and the towns of Norfolk county, is contained in an editorial in the Boston Transcript which advocates transferring Brookline from Norfolk county to Suffolk county. The editorial is given in full, and is followed by comments:

"Whatever may be the outcome of the discussion now going on with regard to a change in the system of town government in Brookline, the history of that town furnishes an instructive object lesson to many other communities. Retaining its political individuality when all influences seemed combined against it, it has shown that the business of a city government may be carried on under the form of a town. With waterworks, police and fire departments, sewers, parks, lights, public baths and all the improvements which are found in large cities, Brookline has strictly maintained an administrative autonomy. It has steadfastly opposed annexation to Boston and will do so now for although it is generally felt that the time has come when the town meeting is too cumbersome for a town of the size of Brookline—a town larger than the average of cities throughout the United States.

"It is not at all unlikely that the advocates of annexation to Boston will find here another opportunity for concerted effort but the failure to accomplish annexation some twenty years ago, when the executive, legislative and judicial departments of the State were in favor of it, and it met defeat, gives little hope that it can be accomplished now. Yet there is one change which is suggested and which seems to be urged with much greater show of reason. That is, that Brookline should be detached from Norfolk County and added to Suffolk. Such a change would in nowise impair the autonomy of the town, yet it would do away with many of the vexations which arise from the fact that Brookline is naturaly entirely distinct from Norfolk County. Legislation will be sought, we understand to accomplish this, and to make the position of Brookline analogous to that of Chelsea, a part of Suffolk County in which the Board of Aldermen meet as County Commissioners, by allowing the selectmen in Brookline to perform like functions with respect to that part of Suffolk County.

"At present Brookline pays, we believe, some thirty-seven per cent. of the county taxes of Norfolk County

"What arrangement could be made to pay Brookline for her interest in Norfolk County institutions, or for the meeting of the share of expenses Brookline has borne, we are not prepared to say. But that the real estate probate and county business of Brookline could be more advantageously done in Boston than in Dedham is beyond dispute. These two propositions for changes in Brookline's government may be considered together, and while there is no occasion for haste, there is before the town of Brookline an opportunity which seldom comes to communities, to demonstrate its ability to prevent, rather than cure, the evils of misgovernment.

Quincy's interest is largely a financial one, and what is true relative to Quincy is equally applicable to all the towns of the county. Should Brookline be set off from Norfolk county, the expenses of the county would scarcely be reduced, so that the amount of Brookline's tax would have to be made up by Quincy and other towns.

In 1898, the county tax was $170,600 and Brookline paid $54,107.14, as above stated about 37 per cent. If the $54,107.14 were apportioned over the Norfolk county towns, they would increase the county tax upon Quincy from less than one-tenth of the total to over one-fifteenth of the total. Quincy paid in 1898 the sum of $14,888.39. If the total levy was not reduced, Quincy would have to pay over $23,000 annually, an increase of over $8,000, which alone would made the tax rate of Quincy nearly 50 cents larger each year.

Brookline is now a favored community by the tax laws of the State, which at the same time are more burdensome to Quincy than they should be.

It is as true of Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth and other towns that they could do their court business handier in Boston than in Dedham.

Brookline has looked out for its share of the county expenditures, especially in highways, probate court, etc., and because of the extravagancce of a Norfolk County Commissioner hailing from Brookline a costly court house has been fostered upon the county, and the debt incurred will not be paid for many years.

GOLD IS THE STANDARD

In the Currency Measure Prepared by Republican Caucus Committee.

Banks Permitted to Increase Their Circulating Medium.

Secretary of Treasury May Exchange Gold For Silver at His Discretion.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The financial bill prepared by the Republican caucus committee, which met at Atlantic City last spring, was yesterday made public by the committee. The bill, first of all, makes a flat-footed assertion that gold is the standard of value in the monetary system of the United States. Another feature of note is the establishment of a separate bureau of issue and redemption in the treasury, in accordance with Secretary Gage's recommendation in his first annual report. This, the more advanced members of the committee consider, is the nearest approach just now practicable to the radical measure of abolishing the independent treasury altogether.

By another paragraph, the national banks are permitted to issue notes to the par value of their bonds deposited with the treasurer to secure circulation, and the tax thereon is removed. On this point of an increased issue of bank notes the committee was divided in sentiment; part of the members believing that a further elasticity should be given to the currency by authorizing the issue of unsecured notes up to the amount of, say, 20 or 30 percent of the capital of the issuing bank, with a graded series of taxes which should reduce the profit on such emergency circulation in proportion to its increased volume; but their colleagues felt that this would be too radical for a party measure, and the more moderate counsels prevailed.

A third provision which will attract attention is that authorizing the secretary of the treasury to exchange gold for silver at his discretion. This, again, was a compromise between extreme views, some members preferring to ignore the whole subject, and others wishing to make the exchange compulsory. As the committee has left it, all doubt as to the legal right of the secretary to make such exchange is removed.

It will be recalled that through all the first part of his administration Secretary Carlisle used to insist that there was no law authorizing him to exchange the one metal for the other directly, although there were indirect ways in which it could be accomplished, if both parties were sufficiently anxious for the exchange. Later he changed his mind, and fell back upon the declarations of policy in the acts of 1890 and 1893, to keep the two metals at a parity, ruling that if necessary to maintain the parity he would exchange gold for silver.

It is well known here that Secretary Gage would rather have had the new act to contain a mandatory clause on this subject, but that he will not hesitate to make an exchange of the two metals at the legal ratio whenever necessary to maintain the parity, which, in his view, is liable to be any and all times. There was a case of actual exchange once during Mr. Manning's administration in 1885, when Treasurer Jordan exchanged gold certificates to the value of nearly $6,000,000 for fractional silver currency, although the law was not supposed to authorize such a transaction in terms.

The new bill is of uncommon clearness in phraseology, and, it is believed, will be all the easier to put through congress on that account.

He Sacrificed His Life.

Houston, Nov. 29.—When the first section of the train bearing the Tennessee volunteers was near Weirr, on its way through Texas, yesterday, a section gang was on the track with a handcar and did not discover the special until it was almost upon them. The crew fled, but Foreman Thomas pluckily tried to get the handcar out of the way that a wreck might be averted and had almost succeeded when the train struck and killed him. The handcar had been removed far enough to prevent any great damage being done.

Probably Fatal Lamp Explosion.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 29.—While carrying a lighted lamp in her home at 96 Lewis street, Mrs. Isabel Green, 40 years old, stubbed her toe and fell, the lamp exploding and setting fire to her clothing. She ran into the street, and a passerby removed his overcoat and, throwing it about the woman, smothered the flames, but not before she had been frightfully burned. Her death is looked for momentarily.

Would Not Accept Aid.

Providence, Nov. 29.—Herbert Daniels, a veteran of the Civil war and a brother of former Lieutenant Governor Daniels of Kansas, died of starvation at the homeopathic hospital, to which he had been taken. Daniels was a recluse and had refused all offers of aid. He was a member of the Seventh Rhode Island regiment, of which his brother was colonel.

Will Make Bids to Stockholders.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 29.—The belief prevails among many local mill shareholders that Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., the financing agents of the proposed print cloth trust, will soon make another attempt to secure control of the Fall River mills. The next offer will be made directly to stockholders and not to the directors, as before, thus compelling each holder of shares to act for himself.

Spinners Desert Oldtown Mill.

Oldtown, Me., Nov. 29.—The spinners in the mill of the Oldtown Woolen company are out on strike. The operatives requested that their wages be restored to the prices paid before the last cutdown, and upon a refusal of their demand the entire crew left the mill.

EXCESSIVE PUNISHMENT

Alleged to Have Been Inflicted by Schoolteacher Upon a Provincetown Girl.

Provincetown, Mass., Nov. 29.—This town is considerably aroused over the alleged brutal whipping at school of Effie Forrest, 15 years old, by her teacher, Miss Angie Sparks. Mrs. Luther P. Hatch, who is the foster mother of Miss Forrest, says that Effie was kept after school, with other pupils, and they got to playing. One of the gilrs tied a string to another's hair, and when the cord was pulled tight the girl tipped over a seat. Effie laugher at this, and it is alleged that the teacher gave her four blows on the hand with a ruler, supplementing them with other blows which caused seven black and blue marks across her back and extending around to the arm.

Miss Sparks denies that she gave the girl excessive punishment. She has been summoned to appear before Justice Hopkins, and great interest is manifested in the result of the hearing, as the future government of schools in this section will, to a great extent, be guided by the decision. Counsel has been engaged on both sides.

An Important Raid.

New York, Nov. 29.—Errand boys and junior clerks employed in brokers' offices have daily for some weeks been seen going in and out of the stamp store run by David D. Badeau at 12 Broadway. Scrutiny of Badeau's business by Internal Revenue Agent Thompson has developed, it is alleged, that the proprietor was buying and selling washed internal revenue stamps at the rate of between $6000 and $8000 a day. Agent Thompson yesterday raided the stamp store, arrested the proprietor and seized in all about 5000 revenue stamps, worth from $1 to $30 each.

Queen Going to Germany.

London, Nov. 29.—Truth announces that Emperor William has achieved one of the objects of his visit to England, in having induced Queen Victoria to give a conditional promise to visit the Prussian court during the last week of April. She will be Germany's guest for several days at Coblentz or Potsdam. Her majesty's visit will be entirely private.

Greenfield Loses an Old Citizen.

Greenfield, Mass., Nov. 29.—Timothy McDonald, 103 years old, died here last night. He was a native of Ireland, but came to this country many years ago. He was a tanner, and has long been a resident of this city. Sixty years ago he took a pledge to abstain from intoxicating liquors, and he was true to his promise.

Bad For Mrs. Bamberger.

St. Louis, Nov. 29.—Octavo Didder, an expressman, made a full confession to the circuit attorney yesterday, in which he admitted having hauled trunks from Midwife Bamberger's house for several years. He hauled one trunk, alleged to have contained the body of Ida Zimmerman, which, he said, he saw placed in it.

Killed Wife and Himself.

Murphysboro, Ills., Nov. 29.—Samuel Coad, ex-township treasurer and a prominent citizen, shot and killed his wife yesterday, and then committed suicide. Domestic troubles are thought to have been the cause.

OUR OWN FESTIVAL.

Thanksgiving Peculiar to This Country.

ALTHOUGH the first Thanksgiving differed very materially from its successors in that it was proclaimed as a fast and not as a feast, it terminated in a festivity. Supplies had run short, the ships expected from England were delayed, and extinction threatened the "governor and company of Massachusetts Bay in New England." Winthrop and his council decided to hold a day of prayer and abstinence, "so that ye Lorde be propitiated and looke upon his servants with favor in that they have humbled themselves before him." Accordingly a crier was sent about the primitive settlement at Charlestown, and the colonists were each and all invited to take part in the fast. Their sacrifice met with speedy reward.

Scarcely had the noon hour of the allotted day arrived when the long hoped for ship made its welcome appearance in Massachusetts bay, the cargo was landed, and the fast was succeeded by a banquet of a sort which must have seemed sumptuous indeed to the exiles so recently plunged in hunger and hardship. On the threshold of dreaded winter Winthrop and his followers found what had been a prospect of fear and peril changed into one of happiness and hope. Such was America's first Thanksgiving as celebrated 260 years ago. Thereafter each succeeding November was marked in the annals of the colony by a similar festival of gratitude.

But Thanksgiving in the early days of our history was not confined to the New England pioneers alone. Just 15 years after Winthrop's proclamation—i. e., in 1645—Governor Kieft of the Dutch colony, then known as Nieuw Amsterdam, but now as New York, ordered the observance of a day of rejoicing and thanks "for the rest and peace which God had been pleased to bestow upon his servants."

The next notable Thanksgiving day in history fell in 1758. On that date the British and colonial army, commanded by General Forbes, attacked and captured from the French, after a fierce struggle, Fort Duquesne, at the junction of the Alleghany and Monongahela rivers. The name of the place was changed to Fort Pitt and was the nucleus of the city of Pittsburg. Thus in a special sense the history of the great capital of the coal and iron industries is connected with the celebration of Thanksgiving day.

But meanwhile in New England what had been begun as an occasional day of pious rejoicing had assumed the proportions of a fixed national holiday. In Massachusetts and New Hampshire it was especially popular. There was at first great latitude in regard to the day selected for the feast. Governors proclaimed the chosen date arbitrarily, and no effort was made to keep the anniversary of Winthrop's proclamation. Sometimes Thanksgiving ocurred in July, sometimes in midwinter. At length, through the efforts of the president and professors of Harvard college, it was practically fixed upon the last Thursday in November.

In the south Thanksgiving as an annual festival remained practically unknown until in 1855 the curious Virginia controversy on the subject was precipitated. This controversy, which is not generally known, deserves a brief notice. The governor of Virginia at the time was one Johns, a patriotic and broad minded gentleman, who had always entertained a reverence for the Puritan anniversary which was by no means common below Mason and Dixon's line. Governor Johns, in a letter to the state legislature, urgently recommended the recognition of Thanksgiving in Virginia and offered, in case his recommendation proved satisfactory, to at once issue a proclamation.

But the legislature of Washington's state did not look upon the New England holiday with favor. Governor Johns was advised not to make the Thanksgiving proclamation, and, as he did not do so, the matter was allowed temporarily to drop. But public interest had been awakened, and before long a fierce debate was raging in Virginia between the opponents and supporters of the proposed southern Thanksgiving. At last, in 1857, Governor Wise, Johns' successor, took the metaphorical bull by the horns and issued a proclamation setting apart a day for the feast. His action caused much angry criticism, and several southern newspapers declared that Thanksgiving was simply "a relic of Puritanic bigotry." In spite of this, the innovation was warmly welcomed. The hospitable southerners greeted gladly another holiday, and the northern feast soon ranked among them as second in importance only to the glorious Fourth itself. In 1858, the year after Wise's proclamation, no fewer than eight governors of southern states proclaimed Thanksgiving in their sections. The war, however, coming shortly afterward, practically extinguished the popularity of the holiday in Dixie.—Washington Star.

THE GIANT OF TODAY.

BY LOUISE AUGUSTA GORE.

In his mad chase Jimmie took no thought of Bidda until someone chanced to lament that their pleasure must so soon end. Jimmie gave a startled glance at the clock whose shining hours were almost told and softly pressing his button and turning out his light, glided hastily into the cooler night air quite like an ordinary boy again.

The lights in the Giant's City of Magic were fewer and less brilliant than usual. In the scowling watch towers they were but faint dull red sparks. Evidently the Giant trusted to the attractions within being greater than without.

Jimmie's heart thumped loudly until he had passed the gateway yet guarded by the Sentinel. But safely by he hastened on faster and faster with nothing to hinder him. Everywhere it was quiet and no one about. He found his rope and hook without more trouble than the little nervous search needed and firmly setting his foot upon the wall turned for a hasty glance to satisfy himself that he had not been followed.

The sound of hurrying feet as some of the dancers hastened homeward, loaned speed to Jimmie's also and he reached the top quite breathless, creeping cautiously upon the broad capping in his search for a convenient place to fasten his hook.

In spite of the greatest care however, Jimmie's foot accidentally touched a hidden wire and instantly a loud peal of bells sounded from every electric tower a piercing whistle that seemed to come from everywhere, yet was nowhere, made night hideous and Jimmie nearly wild with fear.

At almost the same instant with a slight warning dip every light in the gay ball room disappeared and in fact all over the Giant's domain, even the shining cloud of insects above grew dark like a veil of mist.

Poor Jimmie had unfortunately set off the Giant's burglar alarm, yet at a most lucky moment for himself. In the darkness at once began a grand commotion. The guards armed to the teeth, started on a march around the city to find the intruder. The great guns were trained for the south wall and Jimmie trembling in every limb, started upon his descent without waiting for his rope, missing his footing, regaining it, tumbling, creeping, but finally reaching the ground, bleeding and bruised but alive.

What if his hands were aching, his poor knees scratched and his clothing torn? His heart gave a great throb of joy for he was free! free once more! and Bidda—he would see Bidda very very soon, that very night perhaps, though many a weary mile now lie between them.

For a few minutes he crouched in abject fear as he heard the guard feeling their way like so many blindmen in their useless search. Then realizing how long his journey must be, as the voices grew fainter, with renewed courage he started on a brisk run.

The night was dark, being somewhat cloudy and to Jimmie fresh from the brilliant lights of the ball room, seemed inky blackness. The highway shone faintly, a little thread of lighter hue, but Jmimie knew so long as he followed it he should come out all right at last and find Bidda.

Weary with running he stopped to look and listen if there should chance to be anyone coming in pursuit. Everything was motionless, not a branch moved. After the busy hum of the great engines and machinery he had heard daily for the last few weeks. The stillness was so terrible the boy longed to halloo, to make some sort of noise to scare away the bears and wolves his fancy imagined staring at him out of the bushes by the wayside.

If only he could have a little light he thought it would be so much more cheerful, but not a star was to be seen. Suddenly he remembered his little button badge and with a smothered scream of relief that died quickly away, he pressed it to find it quite useless and threw it aside impatiently. Buttoning his jacket snugly to his chin and adding a few touches to his torn clothing, he started on again bravely, more slowly this time but with the same glad thoughts of Bidda and liberty.

Hour after hour he kept on his journey, never turning to the right no left, till he could see the day dawning and the smoke hanging over the city, so very far away still. But Jimmie was thoroughly tired out and his steps grew more and more lagging.

With boyish want of forethough he had neglected to take any of the fine white bread at the electrical bakery, so now his poor stomach had a queer little pain in it and he felt like lying by the roadside. He well knew, however, the risk of such exposure and the fear of capture still loaned a force that carried him on until a plain white cottage with green blinds suddenly came into view at a bend in the road.

The sun was well up by this time, so after a little hesitation partly owing to the old time training, partly to diffidence and dread, Jimmie put on a bold face and knocking at the door, in rather a faint voice asked for food. A tall, guant woman in a gown somewhat faded and soiled, answered the summons.

Her harsh expression belied her, for when his errand became konwn, without ceremony she drew the boy inside closing the door softly again.

A few quick movements served to prepare a generous meal for the famished lad. She gave an emphatic command to "Eat for the Lord's sake," followed by a remark that "Nobody eats nuthin when they comes to our house, they mostly thinks they must leave their stimicks outside" Jimmie was almost crowded into a chair before the well-filled table and left to enjoy it to his heart's content while the woman busied herself with homely duties.

As he applied himself to his feast with a pleased half grunt, his face shone with satisfaction. He did ample justice to the meal and was just about to tuck away a very large mouthful of pie when a loud noise outside attracted attention.

To Jimmie's great dismay he saw coming along the highway at a rapid rate, the veritable "Firefly" with Giant Dynamo himself lolling back comfortable. How Jimmie's heart throbbed! How he dreaded that busy humming! Every stroke of the gong seemed like a knell to his hopes.

But little was needed to bring about a serious burst of tears, yet Jimmie refrained just long enough to find out with relief, that the Giant had something of more importance to think of than the escape of his boyish workman.

The "Firefly," was, of a truth, finding it serious work getting on, making a fearful buzzing and humming, occasionally braying like some deep toned wind instrument played by a novice.

Jimmie scarcely dared breathe, when suddenly Giant Dynamo's vehicle stopped abruptly just in front of the pathway, with a loud whirr and a grand dispay of fiery sparks that flew in all directions.

Now, surely, Jimmie thought, the Giant was coming, and so too thought his hostess, who hastened to receive her new caller in state, fastening up a stray lock as she went. Jimmie's heart rending cry stayed her steps however, for she turned in surprise to the miserable boy who begged in piteous tones that she would not let the Wizard in. Then he told her all about Bidda and home and the Giant's Magic City, while the woman listened kindly, sometimes asking questions sometimes wfping a tear away with her apron and all the time shivering with dread and horror.

"Never got left when there was trouble around."

After some delay he had consented to repair the injury, reaching far down underneath the floor of the Firefly, peering into all the dark corners and among the curious cogged wheels, cranks, wires and brushes, and occasionally he came up with a pitiful red face, declaring in discouraged tones he had lost it and what should he do. He was a long time repairing the damage and perhaps might still be lingering there had not a friendly man with a lantern come to the rescue.

With heroic patience the Giant silently waited until the mischief should be mended. Jimmie was less calm in his hiding place and trembled as violently as did his hostess, who finally arose softly, fastened the outer door and returned to watch with Jimmie the progress of events.

Finally quite a little crowd had gathered about the delayed Firefly. It was amazing how even here upon this lonely country road, the wonderful carriage like a magnet drew every eye. One man after another reined in his horse to watch the result, until a procession of vehicles headed by the Firefly itself stretched far down the road. All were more or less anxious to direct and start the Giant on his way, yet a call for genuine help would probably have caused quite a general discovery that they were in a driving hurry.

One wagon coming from an opposite direction drove slowly by. A young man leaned cautiously forward to discover the reason for the crowd. Some how his eyes met the anxious gaze of the pair looking from the window, until he withdrew his own to glance backward into the wagon where upon the straw his little passenger slept soundly. Deciding it would be quite as well to leave Mrs. Jones' package on his return, he started on again, after a farewell glance at the belated traveller.

Jimmie's eyes followed the departing vehicle absently. How sholud he know that even close at hand his lost Bidda was borne on into the uncertain future? As for her—her sleep was sound and undisturbed.

At last Jimmie's attention wandered to some three or four boys whose strange motions arrested his notice and aroused his curiosity. They seemed to be watching chances, when unobserved, to place something just in front of the wheels of the Firefly, glancing around in a most unconcerned manner whenever they accomplished their object. Jimmie's delight was unbounded, yet wise beyond his years, he refrained from mentioning his opinions to the woman beside him.

It was a long time before the machinery was in order, a long time before the motorman cracking his whip around the vehicle, gave his final warning to the bystanders and started the Firefly.

Crack! Bang! Snap! Flash; The Giant stood erect in his carriage, looking as if he was ready to fly to pieces with rage. The poor man, who had at last successfully grappled with the motor, stood pale and trembling.

Everybody screamed including the mischievous boys and Jimmie gave vent to his relief and delight in a surprising street yell, dancing about with kicks and strides so alarming to his entertainer, that without a word she immediately went into a fit of hysterics.

This brought from some unseen quarter, a man and young girl, who sprang to her side with such determined looks, that Jimmie, before his presence had been noticed, slipped the bolt of the outer door and was off in a twinkling, with a bewildered look upon his face.

—American capital is being rapidly invested in the islands which have of late come under the control of the United States. Business men realize that we have to spend about $250,000,000 a year for tropical products, and think they might as well get their share of the profits from the production of these articles, every dollar's worth of which can be grown in Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines.—Beverly Citizen.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Extra Sewer Appropriation Reduced--A New Ordinance.

The concluding part of the report of the City Council meeting was accidently omitted from Tuesday's Ledger, and is given below:

SEWER APPROPRIATION.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to the order appropriating $5,000 additional for sewer construction, making the amount $3,000.

Councilman Jameson asked if it was for work done or to be done.

Councilman Bryant said board had enough money to complete all contracts except a connection at West Quincy very much needed.

Councilman Jameson asked if work could be performed before settled cold weather.

Councilman Bryant said the engineer considered it practical and that it should be done.

Councilman Packard said the engineer was present if the Councilman wanted any more light.

The order was amended by substituting $3,000, and was passed to be ordained under a suspension of rules by a vote of 16 to 2, as follows:

Yeas—Alden Bryant, Clark, Freeman, Hogan, Hultman, Jameson, Johnson, Keith, McLennan, Nash, Newcomb, Nicoll, Packard, Poland and Sidelinger —16.

Nay—Badger and Hill.

Absent—Blanchard Dugan, Owens, Pinkham and Swithin.

It was necessary for President Sidelinger to vote to secure the necessary two-thirds vote of all the Council.

Councilman Johnson called for a report relative to grading the John Hancock school lot.

It was not forthcoming, but the committee was requested to report at the next meeting.

Councilman Jameson offered an ordinance providing that sealed proposals should be asked by the city for all supplies of $500, and that the same be advertised. Referred to Committee on Ordinance.

Councilman Jameson offered an order directing the Committee on Elections to meet Election night to canvass the returns.

Adjourned at 8.30.

Holiday Foot Ball.

The Atlantic A. A. football eleven will attempt to defeat their old antagonists, the Wollastons A. A., tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. This game promises to be a very interesting one as both teams have a very strong line-up, Atlantic being reinforced by their old full back Scharnagel, who did not play last year. Another event that will make this game all the more interesting is that the score last year was 0—0. No ties are wanted but both the elevens want victory and the championship. The line-up will be:

Adams School Entertainment.

Faxon hall was hardly large enough Tuesday evening to accommodate all who desired to attend the entertainment given by the pupils of the Adams school to raise funds to purchase slides for the school stereoptican. The programme consisted of recitations by Mary Ward, N. Drummond, John Doherty, Priscilla Benson and Alex Robertson, and concert recitations and choruses by pupils of the several grades of the school. The entertainment was under the direction of J. M. Nowland, the master of the school, and the several numbers were freely applauded. The entertainment netted about $80.

Property Recovered.

The Quincy victims of Harry McClusky, the thief arrested some weeks ago at Jamaica Plain, had their property returned to them on Tuesday by Inspector McKay. When McClusky's trunk was opened at the time of his arrest thousands of dollars worth of goods were found, among which were the watches and rings stolen in Quincy. McClusky is now serving a sentence of four years, which will probably be extended several years, before the courts are through with him.

Raises the Dust.

The new two-horse street sweeper has arrived and was put to work on Hancock street this morning. No attempt was made to sprinkle the streets as in other places, before it was set to work, and the result was a blinding cloud of dust whenever the machine moved, which settled back onto the pavers, leaving the dust about as thick as before it was swept. When it went by the High school building, the dust that enveloped the pupils who were entering the building at that time, was something terrible. The driver of the machine explained by saying that it was a little stiff at present.

Just what need Quincy has of a two-horse street sweeper with so few paved street, is hard to understand. It is a piece of extravagance that the city could have got along without for several years.

Real Estate Exchange.

An exchange has been arranged, says the Herald, whereby Mrs. Kate B. Wormwood transfers No. 696 Huntington avenue, a four-story, brick apartment house, to Charles H. Hemenway, and from him takes title to an estate on Grand View avenue, Wollaston Heights.

The Huntington avenue property is taxed for $15,300 of which $3,300 is on the plot of 2,000 feet of land.

The Wollaston Heights property went into the deal at an appraised value of $10,000. It includes a 12-room frame house and 11,400 feet of land, the whole taxed for $5,700.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1-4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

TO BUILD CRUISER.

Fore River Engine Works Gets Million Dollar Contract.

Business will continue good with the Fore River Engine Works for two or three years at least, for they have one of the contracts for a cruiser for the navy.

A Washington dispatch says: Contracts for the six new 3,500 ton cruisers were awarded Monday one to each of these firms:

W. R. Trigg of Richmond, Lewis Nixon of Elizabethport, N. J.; the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, Fore River Engine Co. of Braintree, Mass., and Neafie & Levy of Philadelphia, Bath Iron Works, Bath, Maine.

All the boats are to be constructed in accordance with the department's designs.

The six vessels will be thus distributed among the builders named:

Galveston to Trigg, at Richmond, for $1,027,000, to be built in 24 months Chattanooga to Nixon, at Elizabethport, N. J., at $1,039,966, to be built in 30 months; Cleveland to the Bath Iron Works, at $1,041,650, to be built in 30 months; Tacoma to the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, for $1,041,900 to be built in 27 months; Des Moines to the Fore River Co. of Braintree, Mass., at $1,065,000, to be built in 30 months; Denver to Neafie & Levy of Philadelphia, at $1,080,000 to be built in 30 months.

While rated as 15-knot boats, Chief Constructor Hichborn is satisfied they will make no less than 17 knots if necessary.

In fact, Neafie & Levy have undertaken to guarantee that their vessel, to be built on the department plans, can make 17 knots as a minimum.

It is rumored about Quincy that the Fore River works have recently made a large purchase of shore land at North Weymouth east of the bridge, and it is possible that the cruiser will be built there.

Political.

One of the vacancies in the Democratic ticket for Councilmen-at-large has been filled by Chairman Cain and Secretary Parker of the convention, by the choice of Victor J. Emery of Wollaston.

It is understood that the Social Democrats are to hold a rally the night before election.

But a few more days before the battle of ballots, and as yet all is quiet on the surface, although there is considerable hustling on the quiet.

City Clerk says the sample ballots will be posted four days before election if possible, but if impossible it cannot be helped.

A Republican rally will be held at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, Saturday evening with speeches by Candidate Hall, ex-Mayors Porter and Fairbanks, and others.

Demand at Concord.

A dispatch from Concord, N. H., to the Herald says: The demand of the granite cutters upon the manufacturers for the eight-hour day and the minimum wage rate of $3, to go into effect March 1 next, was made Monday. The manufacturers were anticipating the demand, and were in no wise surprised when the notice was served upon them.

They decline to discuss the matter, further than to express the belief that the eight-hour day will be readily granted and that if trouble comes, it will be over the minimum wage rate, which, they believe, is excessively high; but think that an amicable settlement may be reached without serious developments.

The cutters will say nothing, beyond declaring their confidence that their demand will ultimately be granted.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

WAKE THEM UP!

Candidates for Council Will Help Houghs Neck.

Houghs Neck (Quincy), Nov. 26, 1899.
Editor of the Quincy Ledger:

My inserting "Quincy" above is for the benefit of those who really don't know where Houghs Neck is, except when taxes are payable.

I take this public manner of expressing my thanks to the two 1900 Councilmen who privately replied to my communication of Saturday last, and to whom the people of Houghs Neck are truly grateful for their frank professions, as to what they will do, when opportunity requires.

I am also pleased to learn that they are not "directly or indirectly" stockholders of the said road.

We thank you gentlemen, and you may rest assured of our united support next Tuesday. You will be elected, and when you are, wake them up, and see that an order is passed, requesting the railroad company to run its cars upon the said line, to accommodate the school children, and the public. If they fail to comply, revoke their location.

Will you do it?

Basket Ball.

The first game of basket ball in Quincy was played Tuesday night at Hancock hall between the Quincys and Everetts. There was a large attendance and considerable interest was shown in the game. Everett won by a score of 16 to 12. The return game will be played in Everett, Dec. 13.

The game in Quincy will be played every other week in Hancock hall. The line up of the two teams was as follows:

Quincy.	Everett

Smith	Rogers
Gordon	Hess
McConnell	Dunbar

Aztec Gold Co.

H. F. Doble, one of the incorporators of the Aztec Gold & Copper Mining Co. says that the article in Tuesday's Ledger was rather was rather misleading. He says when a company is organized or incorporated it is usually the custom for the incorporators to each subscribe for a share of stock. This, however would not represent what capital is in the company. The fact is that the company is the consolidation of forty-nine mines, upon which between $240,000 and $250,000 has been expended, and the company has not a cent of indebtedness.

THE OLD STYLE PUMPKIN PIE

Some like a fancy custard pie
Or apple, mince or game
Or some newfangled article,
I 'low, just for the name.
I ain't so p'tic'lar some I know
And different from the rest,
But the good old fashioned pumpkin pies
Are what I love the best.

I'm hankerin for a piece right now
Of the pie that mother made.
When I came home from school, I'd get
A hunk, and in I'd wade.
And—p'r'haps my mouth is somewhat large—
Though I'd resort to tears,
She wouldn't give me another piece
Because it mussed my ears.

I've lingered here a lifetime since,
Put up with what I got,
But oft in dreams I'm back again
To that old familiar spot,
And then at such times I can find
On the butt'ry shelf arrayed
A row of good old pumpkin pies,
The kind that mother made.

DOROTHY'S PRODIGAL.

A Thanksgiving Story.

"Well, I don't s'pose anybody ever saw the likes o' that!" said Miss Polly. The thing that nobody ever saw the like of was a tear. It had rolled down Miss Polly's wrinkled cheek and fallen on her hand. While she looked at it curiously another tear slipped down the other cheek and dropped beside its fellow, where it glistened as her hand trembled.

"Well, I vow!" murmured Miss Polly, in amazement.

Words could go no further. When Miss Polly "vowed," there was nothing more to be said. All this was because the physician had come in from the other room and had said in his genial way:

"She's ever so much better this morning, Miss Polly. I think she'll pull through."

That was how it happened that the two tears were glittering on Miss Polly's hand. They were very inconsistent tears, and Miss Polly had always been consistent. It was like turning her whole life wrong side out, and she realized it. In the first place, Miss

"YOU ARE AUNT POLLY," SHE SAID.

Polly had never been an attractive woman. She was grim and harsh and hardworking. She was really a Mrs. Stephens, but she was married after having been an "old maid" for some years, and her old name still clung to her. Her husband was a mild, quiet man and had lived but a few years after their marriage. People said that Miss Polly had "driven" him to death and that he had been forced to die to get a little rest.

There had been a child, too—ah, Miss Polly's grim face took on a look of pain when she thought of him!—a handsome, high spirited boy, who would not be "driven," and yet she had tried to drive him. It had never occurred to her that there was any other way. The result had been that he left home when he was 15, and she had never heard from him since.

From that day Miss Polly had grown more grim than ever. She made friends with nobody. She repelled everybody. Her black eyebrows drew nearer together in a forbidding frown. Her voice grew harsher and colder, and she became, as the years passed, more gaunt and iron gray. Poor old Miss Polly! People pitied her, but they were wise enough to let her alone.

One day a letter came from a lawyer in a distant city. It said that her only sister, Mrs. Mary Alston, had died, leaving her a considerable property "in trust for my adopted daughter, Dorothy Carew."

"Fiddlesticks!" exclaimed Miss Polly. "Mary always was a fool!" And she threw the letter into the fire.

A week later she saw a carriage drive up to her gate and deposit there a young girl, with her trunk and boxes. The girl paid the driver, and the carriage went away, and then Miss Polly, angry and amazed, went and stood in the door, ready to warn the intruder off. The girl came up the walk and looked straight into Miss Polly's face with her pretty, frank brown eyes.

"You are Aunt Polly," she said. "I know because I have seen your picture. I am Dorothy Carew."

And then, before Miss Polly could say a word, the girl took one of the hard, wrinkled hands in both her own and leaned forward and kissed the withered cheek that had been unkissed so long.

There was a moment's fierce struggle in the old woman's breast. Then she said in her own grim way:

"I reckon I'll have to help you bring in your things. There's nobody else."

She marveled at herself when she found herself tugging at the heavy trunk and helping this girl, this Dorothy Carew, whom nobody wanted, to get her things into the hall and from there into the "spare bedroom," which had been unoccupied since her boy had slept there.

"I wasn't a-lookin for you," she said then, ungraciously enough, "but I reckon you can stay a few days till you git rested up."

"Oh, thank you!" cried Dorothy sweetly. "This is a lovely old place, Aunt Polly! How you must love it!"

She was looking out of the window as she spoke. Inside the house everything was bare and unattractive, but when she glanced around her only thought was, "How pretty it might be made!"

She began making it that very day. Even Miss Polly's stern face relaxed when she looked in upon it that evening. Pretty pictures and tiny shelves with dainty silken hangings brightened up the walls, and all about the room were charming nothings that pleased the eyes of the old woman. And yet she did not acknowledge it. No, indeed! She said something sharp instead about "all that flummery" and intimated that it was nothing more than "a trap to catch the dust."

"Oh, I'll never let the dust get into them!" said that strange girl brightly. "And it is so easy to make a home pretty!"

And then pretty things began to bloom out all over the house, even in Miss Polly's room, that stiff room with its hard bed and its straight backed chairs. Somehow the stiffness and the angularity melted away as if by magic. Bits of bright ribbons looped back the curtains. In one corner suddenly appeared a little shelf with the daintiest pink vase upon it and a rose in the vase.

Oh, she was a wonderful girl, this Dorothy! One day she went up and laid her fresh young cheek against the old woman's shoulder.

"Aunt Polly," she said, "I miss my piano very much. I left it boxed up ready to ship. Suppose we send for it."

And Miss Polly sent—grim old Miss Polly, who had always considered music of every kind an invention of satan. When the piano came and the people saw it carried into that house, they crowded around the gate and stood on tiptoe and peeped over the fence. Several were heard to declare that Miss Polly was undoubtedly crazy. She came out then and shook her fist at them, and that was so much like her old self that they concluded her mind was all right after all. But, if not crazy, then what?

And Dorothy's music! She liked best to play when the twilight was in the house, and the old woman would sit over by the dim window and look at the sunset sky and listen. Dorothy knew little about classic music or brilliant effects, but she could play many of the old time pieces and sing them, too, in a voice sweet and tender.

At last something happened that showed the lonely old woman that this was not quite so bad a world as she had thought it and that she had even misunderstood herself. Dorothy was taken ill. It had seemed nothing but a slight cold at first, but by the next evening it was so much worse that Miss Polly herself put on her bonnet and ran for a physician. And so for many days they battled with the disease that had laid its hold upon the young girl and would not give her up.

Then Miss Polly began to learn. People that she had not spoken to in years came to the door and asked if they might help take care of Miss Dorothy. An old woman that had been Miss Polly's mortal enemy and whom she had passed in the street a hundred times with her head turned contemptuously away now haunted the house with dainty dishes which she hoped might tempt the invalid.

Even the boys of the neighborhood, between whom and Miss Polly there had been bitter warfare, hung about the gate now, and when their ancient enemy appeared they asked her if they couldn't "be sent on an errand or somethin."

"I didn't think she knew one o' these people," said the bewildered Miss Polly. "I didn't suppose she knew anybody but me."

And so it came to pass that when the doctor came out of that quiet room one day and told Miss Polly that the crisis was past and that Dorothy would get well the old woman sat and looked down at the two tears that had fallen upon her wrinkled hands and said to herself:

"Well, I don't s'pose anybody ever saw the likes o' that!"

One day, when the invalid had grown strong enough to sit up and was in the great armchair all wrapped up in blankets, Miss Polly said in her own abrupt way:

"I'm goin to keep Thanksgivin, Dorothy."

Dorothy's eyes flashed with surprise and pleasure.

"Don't you—haven't you always kept it?" she asked.

"No, I've never kept it. I thought the day was nothin to me, and so I shut myself up and worked harder than ever and hated other people for makin so much of it. But now this is different. I'm goin to cook a good dinner, my dear, and you shall ask the guests for your part. I reckon you'd better invite the choir people, some of 'em, and Colonel Daly's daughter, that's been here to see you so many times."

"No, Aunt Polly," was all that Dorothy said, but her pretty pale face was suddenly flushed, and her mind was already busy with plans. What a Thanksgiving they would have!

"Cook ever so much, Aunt Polly," she said coaxingly. "We shall want the two long tables put together, and I want them fairly filled, because the people that will be here would not have had any Thanksgiving at home."

The next day Miss Polly stood at the pantry window and watched the guests come. The first arrival was that poor old Mrs. Day, who had not walked a step or been outside of her own miserable house for more than 15 years. Dorothy's friends, the boys, had carried her over, chair and all, in a kind of triumphal procession, and when they set the chair down they went outside and gave three cheers for Dorothy and three more for Miss Polly.

Then came three girls from the factory, country girls, far from home and with few pleasures that were safe ones. In all that great, busy town nobody remembered them but Dorothy, it seemed.

Then there was the old gentleman with the shabby clothes and the courtly manners, the old gentleman that lived all alone in a little room at the top of a big house. What a pretty picture Dorothy made going out to meet him and pretending that he was assisting her up the steps when all the time she was helping him!

And there were many others, enough to fill the long table. Just as they were about to sit down Dorothy said:

"There's a poor tramp, Aunt Polly, looking in at the gate. I believe I'll go and ask him in."

Now, Miss Polly had been the sworn enemy of tramps all her life, and she started up suddenly.

"Drive him away, Dorothy!" she cried. "I can't endure tramps."

"But perhaps he's hungry," said Dorothy, turning her brown eyes full upon Miss Polly. "And we have a Thanksgiving dinner, and he hasn't."

Then she went out, and they saw her speak to the man and invite him in. After all, they were glad of it. It was too bad to think of any man going hungry while that dinner awaited them, and they cheerfully made room for him at the table.

And such a dinner! Why, if Miss Polly had been in training for it all her life she could not have done better. And there was a baby at the table, a thin faced baby in the arms of a thin faced mother, and when it cast one look over the table it absolutely laughed, a funny little quavering laugh, as though it were not used to it. Then, in a moment, everybody was laughing, and there never was such a merry crowd. Why, even poor old Mrs. Day was laughing like a schoolgirl and declaring that she liked any part of the turkey, so there was enough of it.

As for Miss Polly—well, there was absolutely no accounting for her. There she was, carving away as though her life depended on it, and flying here and there around the table and replenishing everybody's plate before it was half empty. Her face was fairly glowing with happiness.

And then all at once the little old gentleman in the shabby clothes stood up and leaned his trembling hands on the table. He wanted to express his own happiness and that of all the guests, he said, at the privilege of joining in this blessed Thanksgiving feast. Some of them had been living hard lives, very hard lives. Some of them had feared, had even thought, that they were friendless and alone in the world. He thanked heaven for their hostess, who had made her home that day a home for so many others, and he thanked heaven for the lovely young girl who carried sunshine wherever she went.

It was not a very eloquent speech, but the greatest after dinner orator could not have won heartier applause. Even the baby cheered because the rest did. But Miss Polly was still Miss Polly, and she could take no praise that was not hers.

"Don't give me credit for any o' it," she said stoutly. "It was all Dorothy's doin's. I've been a cranky old woman for a good many years until Dorothy got hold o' me and straightened me out. I'm glad you did it, Dorothy. I always was a fool, a stubborn old fool! If I only had my poor boy back again, I'd be the happiest woman in all the land!"

There were tears in Miss Polly's eyes now, sure enough, and they rolled down her cheeks without attracting the least attention, for just then a wonderful thing happened. The tramp arose from the table, took off his ragged coat, pulled off his sunburned hair and his shaggy beard and stood there, a tall, handsome young fellow. And then the astounded company saw him go around and take Miss Polly in his arms.

"Here I am, mother," he said as he kissed her. "And you are glad to see me, after all?"

What a time it was! He told them after awhile how he had so longed for a glimpse of the old home that he had determined to disguise himself and see the house and his mother once more. He had been in a distant city all these years and was in business there and prospering too.

"And to think how near I came to drivin him away from my gate at last!" cried Miss Polly, her voice shaking at the very thought. "And it was Dorothy that saved me from that! Oh, Dorothy, you have saved me from so much! And you have done it just as though it was the easiest thing in the world to take up a crabbed, sour old woman and make her over again."

HARVEST HOME.

Thanksgiving Is a Day of Merry-making In Great Britain.

Thanksgiving day is more generally observed in Great Britain than in any other country, since it is one of the few occasions when the nobility and peasantry in a sense unite in "making merry." The day is better known there as "harvest home," being one marking that period when the harvest is in and the tenantry and peasantry are given holiday.

As a rule, the nobleman or owner of estates makes the day one of continued enjoyment, when his grounds are given over to his subjects and all manner of games and outdoor sports are carried out. In his castle or home there is generally assembled a house party, and the guests join with the host and hostess in making the day one of happiness for the tenantry.

The day's pleasure is concluded by what is known in this country as a "barn dance." The decorations in this ample place are significant of the harvest, and the ceiling and walls have adornment of wheat in the most beautiful designs. The music is always of the very best, and the owner of the estate and his guests do their best to make the occasion of great merriment.

Many a story is told by the English novelists of how the pretty village maids, in their rosy cheeks and smart frocks, make jealous their country lovers when blushingly they accept the attentions of the young gallants of the nobility. On the other hand, the grand dames in their satins and jewels grow jealous of the country lasses in their fresh beauty and taunt their knight errants for turning by their compliments the heads of "pretty peasantry." Previous to the dances there are frequently theatricals, and wealthy estate owners have been known to engage the best of London companies to entertain their people at the time of "harvest home."—Atlanta Constitution.

Thanksgiving In Old Virginia.

Old black mammy has a possum on to bake
With sweet potatoes, sweeter than a maple sugar cake,
And her pickaninny's gone by the light of the moon
With his yellow bellied puppy to tree a fat coon.

The coon lies a-grinning in the hollow of a gum
That the yellow hammer uses for his morning drum,
While the gray squirrel chuckles in high old glee
At the hickory nuts a-raining from the hickory nut tree.

The gray owl shivers on a dead oak limb
And blinks in the sunshine, mellow and dim,
While molly cotton rabbit gives a half a dozen hops
And hears her heart beating of a sudden and stops.

The air is so fine and soft and clear
That the fence seems far and the mountains seem near,
Till the partridges fly to the fences and 'light,
And call out a song about "old bobwhite!"

"Old bobwhite, are your crops all right?
Is there wheat beneath the barn for the first cold night?
The guinea hens and turkeys find its shelter mighty warm.
We'll gather in among 'em when there comes a storm."

The wild turkey's calling from the far hillside;
The foxhounds are baying on the long divide;
There's a fat pig squealing, for life is sweet,
But not much sweeter than his sausage meat!
—John Paul Bocock.

Chestnut Stuffing.

Get two quarts of large French chestnuts. Shell and boil them until the skins are softened. Then drain off the water and remove the skins. Boil three pints of the chestnuts again until soft. Then press through a colander. Season with one and a half tablespoonfuls of butter, one and a half teaspoonfuls of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. If moist stuffing is desired, add three tablespoonfuls of cream.

Thanksgiving Evening.

Thanksgiving evening ought always to be spent at home. And let everybody have an open fire that can. Turn the kitchen over to the children if they want it. Let them have pumpkins to make jack-o'-lanterns of or Cinderella coaches, such as Miss Alcott describes in "Little Men." Let them pop corn and let them make molasses candy.—Exchange.

Roast Sucking Pig.

The whole young pig roasted and stuffed, thrusting into the air four juicy trotters to the turkey's two, while not yet by any means as popular a Thanksgiving dish as the turkey, is coming every year to engross more and more of the people's attention and appetite.—Cincinnati Post.

HOW TO DRESS THE TABLE.

If one expects to give a Thanksgiving dinner, tinted autumn leaves should be gathered, waxed and pressed with a warm iron. Nothing is more beautiful for decorating a Thanksgiving dinner table than the brilliant, varicolored leaves arranged in designs or strewn carelessly over the snowy linen. A centerpiece of any red autumn berries and glossy waxed autumn leaves is very effective.

BARELY KEPT AFLOAT.

Undermanned Transport Leaks Badly and Becomes Disabled.

Saved by Gallant Work of Soldiers and Sailors.

Deplorable Condition of Affairs on Vessel Just Arrived at Manila.

Washington, Nov. 29.—War department officials were surprised at the information contained in a Manila dispatch concerning the condition of the transport Manauense, which has just arrived at Manila. They are at a loss to account for the deplorable state of affairs which is said to have existed on the ship, as they say every precaution is taken before transport vessels leave the United States to see that they are properly and adequately manned and supplied with commissary stores. The dispatch referred to said:

When the transport Manauense anchored in Manila bay yesterday, 33 days from San Francisco, there was several feet of water in her hold, and 400 grimy, greasy, hungry, exhausted soldiers and sailors had been passing buckets of water since Nov. 17, night and day. First Assistant Engineer Dunlevey was under arrest and, according to Colonel Hayes' official report, the chief engineer would also have been under arrest if there had been any one to replace him.

The colonel's report declares that the captain of the vessel told him that the only thing which brought them through was the fact that the men were greenhorns and failed to realize their danger, while experienced seamen would have deserted the ship and taken to the boats in mid ocean.

The Manauense started from San Francisco accompanied by the transport Pekin, which carried the remainder of the regiment, and encountered heavy seas to Honolulu without accident.

After starting it developed that she was undermanned, and soldiers had to be detailed to act as seamen, coal passers and waiters and to do other work. Before reaching Honolulu the crew concluded that the ship was not safe and the majority agreed to desert. They were closely watched, many of the crew succeeding in getting away, and the Manauense left Honolulu with less than half her crew.

The captain of the transport on Nov. 17 told Colonel Hayes that the vessel had sprung aleak, and an investigation resulted in finding several feet of water in her hold. The steam pumps were tried, but failed to work, and there were no hand pumps on board. However, 46 buckets were found, others were improvised and the soldiers not employed in working the ship were organized into five shifts and, stripped and forming lines, they began bailing, the officers working with the men, passing the buckets which were sent up to the deck by a windlass. The longest time a shift could stand was two hours, and often the period was not longer than half an hour. The bailing continued until the ship anchored here.

The same day the leaking was discovered the machinery collapsed, and the electric lighting plant and evaporating, distilling and refrigerating apparatus failed to work. There were no lamps, and the few candles found were exhausted after a few days. During the last week of the passage the Manauense was in utter darkness at night. She had been rolling in heavy seas all the way, but Nov. 22 she encountered a typhoon and pitched and tossed alarmingly.

The water rose rapidly, and the bailing force was doubled. But the buckets were gradually smashed and barrels and boxes were substituted for them, the men working in darkness with planks and pieces of iron shifting or being violently washed among them. The firemen could only feed the fires by being lifted on the shoulders of other men through water waist deep.

The typhoon lasted two days and a half, and in the midst of it the engines stopped. The officers then held a council and found that there were 429 persons on board, with lifeboat accommodations for 213.

In the meantime the men below, ignorant of their extreme peril, were passing buckets and singing, "What the Hell Do We Care," while the ship rolled helpless on the ocean, with hatches closed.

The heat was intense until the typhoon passed, and then the Pekin, which had retraced her course about 70 miles, came alongside the Manauense, which was rolling so heavily that the soldiers in the hold could, at each roll, see the Pekin through the hatches overhead.

Colonel Pettit, the commander of the Thirty-first volunteer regiment, ordered the Manauense to proceed to Guam and await relief, but the captain of the Manauense demurred, the officers say, because the government was renting the ship for $500 per day.

Throughout the remainder of the voyage the engines of the Manauense failed frequently and the ship would roll for a few hours while the engines were repaired. Then the steamer would proceed again for a few hours.

The meat and vegetables rotted because of the failure of the refrigerators and were thrown overboard.

After the storm the water supplied to the ship at Honolulu had to be used for the boilers, and there was little or none for drinking. In fact, it is asserted that during the last week of the voyage the men lived almost entirely on whisky, beer and hard tack.

The officers and soldiers were utterly exhausted when they reached Manila. They declare the engineers were grossly incompetent. The officers also said that the behavior of the troops was beyond praise. For days they worked in the dark, suffocating hold, with water some times up to their shoulders, and planks washing about in a manner dangerous to life and limb. The officers took the lead in bailing and encouraged the men.

COLLIDED OFF CAPE COD.

Fishing Schooner Goes to the Bottom and Two of Her Men Are Killed.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Nov. 29.—A collision occurred early Sunday morning, 30 miles southeast from Highland light, Cape Cod, between the fishing schooner Sylvester Whalen, headed for South channel, and schooner Major Pickands, pointing northward for Cape Cod. The Pickands arrived here yesterday in a disabled condition, with Captain Hogan and 21 men of the Whalen on board. Two of the crew of the Whalen were killed, and three men were badly injured. The men killed were Patrick Powers and Michael Corrigan, both of Boston. Robert O'Brien, Joseph Clark and Thomas O'Brien were badly injured.

Captain Hogan of the Whalen states that his vessel was running out to the fishing grounds, intending to get one more day's fishing before going into Boston, and a portion of the crew were engaged on deck baiting their trawls when the collision occurred. A stiff northerly wind was blowing, and the vessels were going at a high rate of speed.

Most of the Whalen's crew were below when the crash came, and great confusion followed. The men made a rush for the big coasting schooner to get on board, and it was in this hurry that two men were crushed between the two vessels. Their lifeless forms dropped into the sea. They were not recovered.

After the vessels were separated some of the Whalen's crew boarded and set fire to her. She had on board 25,000 fish, and was insured for $8000.

The Pickands was sailing on the starboard tack and was struck with such force that her stem was started, the jibboom carried away and other damage done. She leaked badly, but her steam and hand pumps combined succeeded in keeping her free. She endeavored to reach Boston, but on account of adverse winds bore up for Vineyard Haven, being towed from Cape Pogue by a tug.

The injured men of the Whalen's crew were taken to the marine hospital for treatment, Robert O'Brien's leg being so badly crushed that amputation will probably be necessary. The remainder of the crew are being cared for at the Seamen's Bethel here.

Investigating Attorney's Office.

New York, Nov. 29.—The Mazet investigating committee divided its attention yesterday between the district attorney's office and the office of the corporation counsel. After the unsuccessful attempt to have District Attorney Gardiner appear before it, the committee devoted a large portion of the day in hearing witnesses in relation to indictments that had been dismissed and guilty persons that had been allowed to go unpunished. In several instances the district attorney had accepted the plea of manslaughter in the second degree, where, according to the testimony of witnesses Mr. Moss put on the stand, deliberate murder had been committed.

Sullivan Met His Match.

New York, Nov. 29.—"Kid" Broad of Cleveland met Dave Sullivan of Boston last night before the Broadway Athletic club, and the kid won in a contest of 25 rounds at 124 pounds. Sullivan in the opening rounds assumed the aggressive, but he at no time offset his adversary's defensive tactics and counters. Toward the end of the fight Broad simply swamped his adversary with left jabs and right crosses, interspersed with right uppercuts which weakened the Bostonian, and there was nothing to it when the 21st round had been completed. Sullivan from this point made a grandstand play, but his efforts were ineffective.

A Gratifying Report.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Commissioner Wilson of the internal revenue bureau, in his report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1899, shows that the receipts from all sources aggregated $273,484,573, an increase over the preceding year of $102,617,000. The total amount expended in the collection of revenues during the last fiscal year was $4,591,754, or 1.68 percent of the collections. This percentage of cost is the smallest in the history of the bureau. The commissioner estimates that the receipts from all sources for the present year will approximate $285,000,000.

Silver Republicans Favor Bryan.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Informal discussion by members of the executive committee of the national silver Republican committee and chairmen of the state committees, at the meeting held here yesterday, developed as the consensus of purpose, adherence to the Bryan Democracy, "if the right men are nominated." There was no dissent from the opinion that, as the presidential candidate, W. J. Bryan would be the "right man."

Taxpayers Should "Come Up."

Salem, Mass., Nov. 29.—The agitation that has been going on over the poor financial condition of the city and the large number of delinquent tax-payers, resulted in the appointment of a committee by the city council to investigate and report. The committee reported that $55,196 in poll taxes and $65,866 in property taxes remain unpaid. Several city officials and members of the council are among the delinquents.

An Unexpected Result.

Atlanta, Nov. 29.—The Hardwick bill, introduced into the lower house of the assembly for the purpose of placing such limitation on the negro vote in this state as to practically disfranchise the colored voter, was overwhelmingly defeated yesterday, the result of the ballot being 135 to 3. The result was a surprise, as it was expected the measure would receive strong support.

New York Banker Raided.

New York, Nov. 29.—The police last night arrested Charles D. Hughes, said to be a "get-rich-quick" banker, at his office, 69 Wall street. A patrol wagon was sent to Hughes' office and it carried a load of books and papers to police headquarters. It is said that since July, 1898, 500 complaints against Hughes have been lodged with the police.

NEW INDUSTRIAL FIELD.

Inducements to Make Talien Wan a Russian-American City.

INVESTMENT OF CAPITAL URGED.

Russian Officials Negotiating With Manufacturers For Establishment of American Works—New City to Be Terminus of Transsiberian Railroad and Leading Port of China.

The agreeable relations between the United States and Russia respecting China are likely to assume practical forms at an early day. Unless Americans fail to grasp the proffered opportunities the United States will be let in on the ground floor of one of the new commercial and industrial cities, Talien Wan.

Upon Port Arthur and Talien Wan Russia holds a lease from China. The purpose is to make Talien Wan the Pacific terminus of the transsiberian railroad system. Vladivostok is too far north. Ice interferes with navigation a portion of the year. It was highly desirable for Russia to acquire a port farther south, and the lease of Port Arthur and Talien Wan peninsula from China gives what was needed to insure the success of Russia's vast railroad system.

Under the terms of the lease Russia is held to maintain Port Arthur and Talien Wan free to the commerce of all nations. But, while all of the commercial privileges will be shared alike, Russia in carrying out the purpose to found a great terminal port and a city has the disposal of certain valuable concessions. To obtain these the people of the United States are given the first opportunity, says the Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Russia proposes to spend between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000 upon public improvements in the way of port facilities and the plant of a city. She contemplates works which will be commensurate with the demands for the terminal business of the railway connecting the Pacific with Europe.

Victoria bay is landlocked on three sides and is only open to the east, and the new foreign city and harbor will be on the south side of the bay, facing due north, the city itself being an obtuse angle triangle, with the apex to the north. Provision is made for the extension of the foreign city to the south and southeast as required—toward the hills—with large reservations for parks and gardens, and for the inevitable Chinese town on the southwest, the new city and port being connected with the trunk line through the peninsula to Port Arthur by a branch line about ten miles long.

Two breakwaters are to be constructed in front of the city to inclose the new harbor, the one on the west side running due north and that on the east side north-northeast, with an arm at its seaward extremity running a little to the northward of north-northwest. Within and for a little distance outside these breakwaters, which are about two and one-half miles apart, the harbor is to be dredged and maintained at 30 feet, and a channel is to be dredged and maintained at the same depth from seaward in a northeasterly direction. Close in to the shore, where the smaller class of vessels will lie, a somewhat less depth will be maintained. On the east side will be piers and godowns for the use of vessels with passengers and general cargo, the railway being carried along the front of the city between the bund and the harbor and to these piers, so that passengers will be able to step direct from the steamer into the train. There will be ample accommodation here for steamers to lie alongside the piers in 28 to 30 feet of water, and Shanghai will have to bestir itself if it is not to be entirely cut out by the new Russian port.

The western breakwater starts from a small promontory which juts out into the sea. Here there will be a drydock and a pier for vessels bringing coal, lumber and other coarse cargoes, a large space between this pier and the western side of the city being reserved for godowns and coalyards, lumber yards, etc., branch lines connecting it with the railway. Thus of the triangle which comprises the city the northeast side faces the harbor, and here will be the esplanade. The northwest side faces this promontory except at its western end, where there is an opening to the bay, and the future extension of the city will be on the south side. The streets in the new city are laid out at right angles, with oblong blocks, the streets running northeast and southwest and northwest and southeast. In the future extension of the city, of which the base of the triangle forms the northern boundary, the streets will run north and south and east and west.

Full provision is made in the plan for parks, squares, bazaars and all the amenities required and possible in a large city that starts full fledged from the brain of one designer. The drainage works and waterworks are now being undertaken, and in the meantime no land will be sold. It is expected that in two years' time the harbor will be made and the city laid out ready for building, when there will be a great sale of the land.

A glance at the map of the Pacific with reference to the location of Talien Wan and the northwestern ports of the United States will show what the new city and terminal mean commercially to the United States. But Russia purposes to make the interest of Americans in Talien Wan still greater. The plan is to give to capital in the United States concessions to establish mammoth manufacturing enterprises at Talien Wan. These concessions are not offered for a price. They are not to be given to anybody who may come along with the money which the investment calls for. What the Russian government contemplates is to present such tempting conditions as will induce well established and fully tried manufacturing companies in certain lines to establish plants at Talien Wan. Plants that will turn out products of American skill, which are to be immediate or early, demand the upbuilding of the new port, and its railway connection and the development of eastern Asia are especially contemplated. Car and ship building, machinery manufacturing and iron and steel works are desired. It is the intention to bring together at Talien Wan the ores of Siberia and the woods of the Pacific slope and to apply American capital and ingenuity to the creation of vast industries.

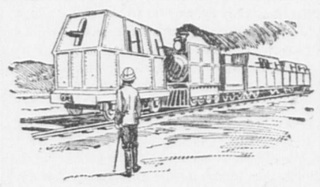
Openings are offered for the investment of $20,000,000 of American capital upon terms which have perhaps never been equaled in the possibilities of profit. Talien Wan is a government enterprise. The negotiations with American manufacturers will be carried on through high Russian officials. The conditions of encouragement have behind them government certainty of fulfillment. If the overtures of the Russians are met in the usual spirit of American enterprise, Talien Wan will be almost a Russian-American city. It will become the most important port of China. No naval station is to be located there. No diplomatic dangers surround the enterprise. The new city is to be devoted to commerce and industry, with Russia giving equal port advantages to all the world and special manufacturing privileges to the United States.

Russian officials are now in the United States carrying on negotiations with manufacturers for the establishment of American works at Talien Wan. A large industrial enterprise identified at St. Louis is one of several to which the inviting field has been opened.

ARMORED TRAINS.

Plan Suggested For Making Them More Formidable In the Future.

We see no reason why armored trains should not be made far more formidable and effective, and we think therein lies a field, if a somewhat restricted one, for the ingenuity of our engineers, says Feilden's Magazine. A train might be constructed to carry heavy armor and guns of large caliber.



AN ARMORED TRAIN.

Most of our readers are aware, of course, that a number of American locomotives weigh upward of 100 tons. What, therefore, is to prevent armor plate, in the true sense of the word, being employed on heavily and strongly built locomotives and cars for effective operations.

A train so constructed could cover a wide range, and doubtless by the employment of a pilot or "scout" engine of smaller and swifter caliber, carrying only a single small truck, properly protected and armed with Maxims, Nordenfeldts or Gatlings, interference with the line could be effectually prevented.

ANECDOTE OF BULLER.

How Sir Redvers Won Over a Cornish Woman.

"Sir Redvers Buller, the commander of the British forces in South Africa," said H. R. Walters of Liverpool at the Waldorf-Astoria the other day to a reporter of the New York Tribune, "is a great talker and thoroughgoing good fellow. The day before he left home he staid up until after 1 o'clock at the Beefsteak club, and this on the night previous to his departure for Southampton. He is fond of books and took a well selected library with him to South Africa. There are innumerable stories afloat about Sir Redvers Buller just now. Here is one I heard the other day.

"It seems he was on his way to Canada with his regiment. Fog delayed the transport so much that they ran short of provisions. At the entrance of the St. Lawrence river, where they were, was a small island, upon which was a station for shipwrecked mariners. To this island a boat carried Sir Redvers Buller, but the woman in charge was of adamant when he applied to her for assistance, saying, 'The supplies be for they who'm shipwrecked, not for such as you.' 'But this is a government station, and we are government officers,' protested Buller. 'Can't help it. You'm not shipwrecked,' was the stolid response. In the woman's last remark the general recognized the Cornish accent and so said, 'What, not for dear old one and all and I a Buller.' It worked to a charm, for the woman at once said: 'What! Be you from Cornwall en a Buller? Take everything in the place. You'm hearty welcome.'"

Reverse.

The wave that breaks against a forward stroke
Beats not the swimmer back, but thrills him through
With joyous trust to win his way anew
Through stronger seas than first upon him broke
And triumphed. England's iron tempered oak
Shrank not when Europe's might against her grew
Full, and her sun drank up her foes like dew,
And lionlike from sleep her strength awoke.

As bold in fight as bold in breach of trust
We find our foes and wonder not to find
Nor grudge them praise whom honor may not bind,
But loathing more intense than speaks disgust
Heaves England's heart, when scorn is bound to greet
Hunters and hounds whose tongues would lick their feet.

DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery

"I had suffered from indigestion, and only those who have suffered from it know what it really is," writes Mrs. M. J. Fagan, of 1613 East Genesee Street, Syracuse, N. Y. "I had severe attacks of headache and dizziness with cold hands and feet; everything I ate distressed me, bowels were constipated, and I was growing very thin and nervous. I cannot half express the bad feelings I had when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took nine bottles of the 'Discovery' and several bottles of the 'Pellets.' I commenced feeling better with the first bottle, and kept on improving. Now I am so greatly improved in health my friends often speak of it. I most heartily recommend those medicines to all suffering as I was."

Worth Reading.

To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

Yours truly,

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

What Abutters Must Pay Toward the Sewer.

Cost May Be Apportioned Over Ten Years.

Many in List Must Pay Over $100; Some Much More.

The Ledger continues the publication of the assessments by the city upon the abutters in payment of their half of the cost of sewer construction. The list is not given in alphabetical order, but by streets as the pipes are laid.

The total assessment upon each lot is not given, but the assessment per frontage at the rate of 12 cents per foot, and the assessment per area within 100 feet of the street at the rate of 6 mills per square foot. To obtain the total assessment it is only necessary to add the two together.

In all cases probably the assessment per area is the larger, as the area is supposed, to pay eight-tenths of the assessment, and the frontage the other two-tenths. In many cases, notably corner lots, the assessment per frontage is nearly as large as upon the area.

These assessments may be paid in one, two or more instalments up to ten. If paid within three months from date of bill no interest will be collected, but if apportioned over a number of years interest will be added.

It is proposed to continue the publication as space will admit.

Latest Shade of Hair.

Titian bronze, the new shade of hair, is still too much of a novelty to be common, but who has not seen it and not longed for tresses of that wonderful hue? It is too expensive an operation to ever become the popular shade, and no amateur at hair dyeing can accomplish the desired result, so the fortunate few who possess locks of Titian bronze need have little fear of many duplicates.

The art of hair dyeing has made tremendous strides within the last few years, and there are many artists in that line whose work defies criticism, another word for detection, but Americans, as a class, have not taken kindly to that sort of thing, and the remark that "she dyes her hair" is still considered by many as a term of reproach.

The Princess of Wales has a variety of wigs, which she changes with her toilets. On her return from a drive or reception another gown, with its accompanying wig, is in readiness, and that her locks are red today and brown tomorrow in nowise disconcerts the princess. All such matters are regulated by custom, and the day may come when chemical hair dyes or exchangeable chignons will be part of every woman's wardrobe.—New York Herald.

Caution In Introductions.

Outside of one's own house every one should be careful in the matter of making introductions. A lady at a friend's house may safely introduce two persons whom she herself knows well. A man makes introductions more carefully, and both men and women must first, if possible, get the consent of the persons to be introduced. An exception to this rule, which hardly needs to be noted, comes when three or four persons are thrown together, some of whom are strangers to all but one of the others. In this case to save awkwardness a simple introduction should be made. Some persons of genial disposition feel it necessary to introduce all persons in their immediate neighborhood at any social function. It is needless to say that this wholesale introducing is entirely a mistake and that those who engage in it usually make themselves very obnoxious to their acquaintances. A woman has always more freedom than a man in making introductions, and a man, for example, will hardly offer to introduce two ladies to each other unless he knows them both very well.—Leah Lanceford in Woman's Home Companion.

Leather's Novelties.

Golf pocketbooks in a wide range of colorings and a great variety of leathers are the latest addition to the leather world.

Whip belts, made of Mexican cinch leather and fastened with a trace buckle and strap, are the favored of fashion to accompany a golf or rainy day skirt.

Feminine travelers or even those just on a shopping tour will find the new small leather hand bags fitted with ink, pen, paper, stamps, comb, powder puff and toilet vinegar a great convenience.

The "slipper bag" of suede, with a silk lining and closed with a pretty bow and clasp, has found much favor with the dancing set.

Olive green is the latest suit case and is much preferred by femininity to the familiar tan shade. By the way, ma belle uses a suit case quite as much as her masculine relatives and has one of her own with her initials on the end. She has found out long ere this how much more they hold than a grip and how convenient they are for the fancy waist or dinner gown when going away overnight or for short trips.

Women Head the List.

The proportion of women among centenarians is nearly twice that of men. A group of people cited by one of the most careful and least credulous of the numerous authors of works on the subject shows that out of 66 persons who were 100 years old and upward there were 43 women and 23 men. In London the last census showed 21 centenarians, 5 men to 16 women. The fact that nearly all the centenarians were poor seems to prove that the rich are at some disadvantage in the matter of long life. Of the female centenarians it may be said that the very nature of their occupations protects them by keeping them so much in the house, where they are shielded from adverse influence of atmospheric changes and accidental causes of death, to which so many men are subject.

Women Can't Hold Office.

The supreme court of Michigan has entered a judgment of ouster against Mrs. Merrie H. Abbott, prosecuting attorney of Ogemaw county, thus holding that a woman is ineligible to hold elective office in Michigan unless the statutes or constitution expressly stipulates that she may do so. The decision is an indorsement of Judge Cooley's proposition that when the law is silent respecting qualifications to office it must be understood that electors are eligible, but no others. In a dissenting opinion Justice Moore says that the great weight of authority sustains the conclusion that in the case of such silence on the part of the constitution and laws the people may elect whom they will if the person elected is competent to discharge the duties of the office.—Woman's Tribune.

Conundrum Salad.

Among the various ways in which the new woman tries to surprise her luncheon guests Good Housekeeping tells of this original feature: Each guest drew from among the salad leaves with which she was served a difficult conundrum. Passed from hand to hand around the table, with a small book and a pencil, each guest under her name transcribed her answer to the conundrum. At the close she who guessed the greatest number of answers received a small prize.

PROGRESS

In Street Railway Switches.

The development and expansion of he Street Railway during the last few years is so wonderful that one who takes a retrospective view is surprised that such advance in means of communication and public accommodation could have been made in so short a time. Comparing the facilities of public accommodation in the respect of only a decade ago, with those of the present, one would fain enquire if the limit has not been nearly reached. But judging the future by the past, we are constrained to believe that the extension of street railway facilities is yet in its infancy.

Our business requirements and passenger traffic not only require facilities for easy and rapid communication in crowded business centers, but also that the country places shall be brought into close relations to business centres and with each other. Thence we may certainly infer that we are not yet near the limited railway extension, and that everything that will tend to increase its facilities, reduce cost, and promote safer and more rapid communication, will be demanded and adopted as rapidly as possible.

Numberless as have been the inventions and improvements that have been adopted by railways in furtherance of this result, it seems almost incredible that it has been left until the present to devise and present an improvement on street railway switches that will be a prominent factor in promoting rapidity and safety.

The switch now used is no advance on that first in use. Even the automatic in use when the horse was the motive power was relegated to obscurity on the advent of electricity as a means of propulsion. But the problem has been solved. A practicable automatic switch is no longer a phantom of the imagination, but a distinct and practical reality. The Boston Electric Switch Company, is incorporated to manufacture and control an automatic Self Cleaning Railway Switch that is practical and has been tested by actual railway use. The patents controlled by this company are original, and broad, and based so as to afford perfect protection to the company. Their validity is undeniable, and examination by investors will convince all of their value.

This switch is operated by the motorman by depressing a stud bolt placed on the platform of the car, so as to be easily operated by the foot, obviating the necessity of releasing his hold on the power or brake, and is under his control whether the platform is open or closed. By depressing this stud bolt a wheel beneath the car is brought into action which running upon a lever in the street communicates its motion to the switch, throwing it immediately in the direction desired, and while it is his under the observation of the motorman.

To provide against any obstruction that would prevent the motion of the switch, and nullify the action of the lever, the casting upon which the switch point moves is so constructed that every motion of the switch throws any stones, mud or other obstruction into a catch basin beneath the switch leaving perfect freedom of motion for the switch point.

The switch tongue is so constructed that it bears at only three points and with the catch basin beneath, all water drains off and liability to freeze is reduced to the minimum.

Its durability is also greater than the ordinary switch it being so constructed that the point is shielded from the action of the car wheels that would otherwise rapidly wear it away.

In cities where cars follow each other in rapid succession, each successive one taking a different direction the delay of seconds often involves the stoppage of several. With this switch constant motion, so far as switching is concerned, can be maintained.

ITS ADVANTAGES.

No waste of time at switches.

Under motorman's control without loss of control of power or brake.

Adapted to open or closed platform.

No need of switch cleaner or tender.

Is rapid and certain in action.

Is durable.

Equipment of cars for operating it is not expensive.

In the extensive field of future railway construction, these switches will be required. In the field already constructed its advantages will secure its adoption. To provide for this demand, the Boston Electric Switch Company offer to the public a porton of their stock.

The time to invest for profit is between organization and dividends.

With working capital secured, manufacture will be commenced and the directors are warranted in saying that from application for switches already made, stock at less than par will be then unattainable.
